Students run for unopposed seats in SGA elections

Candidates for the April 6 Student Government Association elections were announced Monday with some candidates running unopposed and seats with no candidates at all.

Tamara L. Tyler is running unopposed for SGA vice-president as is Daniel Hayes for SGA executive secretary. Unless a write-in campaign is launched against those two candidates, Hayes and Tyler will be SGA officers next fall.

The race for SGA president is between two candidates, Jude X. Crowell and Monique C. Casey.

The five senate seats for the College of Graduate and Professional Programs have no candidates at all. The only way to fill those seats would be for write-in votes to be cast for the seats.

Six candidates are competing for the five senator at large seats; 15 candidates are competing for the five College of Arts and Sciences seats; three students are running for the three College of Business seats; and two students are running for the two College of Education seats.

Candidates running for the College of Business and College of Education seats will be senators next fall unless write-in campaigns also are held in those races.

Search underway to replace Page

by JEFF GRIMES
news editor

The search process for a new president for Austin Peay has begun as committees set the criteria for a replacement.

Dr. Oscar C. Page's resignation in February to become president of Austin College in Sherman, Texas, set efforts in motion to find a successor.

Page's resignation is effective July 1. Chancellor of the Tennessee Board of Regents, Dr. Charles E. Smith, appointed a presidential search Advisory Committee made up of Clarksville and Austin Peay community members to assist in the process of finding a new president.

The Advisory Committee, consisting of 13 members, and an Ad Hoc Committee appointed by Gov. Ned Ray McWherter, chairman of the Board, only consults the TBR and will have no authority to make recommendations to the board.

Smith will make a recommendation to the TBR which will have the final authority to pick Page's successor.

Members of the Advisory Committee are: Earl Bradley III, president of the APSU Foundation and Heritage Bank; Sandra Denney, Military Affairs Director for the Clarksville Chamber of Commerce; Philip Graham, mechanic and president of the Staff Support Council; Yolanda Johnson, SGA executive secretary; and Dr. Donald Joyce, dean of the Felix G. Woodward Library.

Other members are: Dr. Susan Kupisch, assistant vice president of Academic Affairs; Dr. Ramon Magrans, professor and president of the Faculty Senate; Sheila McCoy, assistant director of Records and Registration; Dewayne McKinney, president of the APSU National Alumni Association; Keri McInnis, SGA president; Marvin Posey, board of directors for the Governors' Club and APSU Alumni Association; Dr. Paul Shaffer, professor and vice president of the Faculty Senate; and Rod Shough, director of human resources for the Trane Company.

The TBR meets tomorrow and Friday for its quarterly meeting in Jackson at the Jackson State Community College.

Action is expected to be taken on selection criteria presented by the Advisory Committee and the Ad Hoc Committee.

Dept. of Education reviews segregation

College Press Service

The Department of Education has reaffirmed its intention to rely on tougher standards outlined in a 1992 Supreme Court decision when it reviews state plans for desegregating their higher education systems.

At the same time, state officials also were put on notice that they had an obligation to strengthen and enhance historically black institutions.

"As part of our analysis, we will pay particular attention to any plan that proposes to close or merge historically black institutions," said Norma Cantu, assistant secretary for civil rights.

"We will scrutinize any action that might impose undue burdens on black students, faculty or administrators or diminish the unique roles and traditions of such institutions."

The announcement came at a time when the state of Mississippi is considering a plan to close one black college and make another historically black institution a unit of a predominantly white college in response to a desegregation case.

An estimated 2,000 students carrying signs that read "Save Our Schools" recently marched from Jackson State University to the state Capitol in Jackson, Miss., to protest the plan.

In June 1992, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Mississippi had not done enough to remove the last vestiges of segregation from its higher education system.

The ruling in the U.S. v. Fordice case overturned a 5th Circuit Court of Appeals decision that said Mississippi had met its obligation to dismantle a system of official segregation. The case has been remanded back to U.S. District Court, where it is pending.

Blacks had argued that relying on standardized test scores and letting white and black students decide which school they wanted to attend was not enough to correct inequities in the system.

Duplication of programs at both white and black colleges also has contributed to the creation of separate systems of black and white education, although white schools receive more money and have more prestigious programs than historically black colleges, the plaintiffs argued.

Cantu said the department would use the 1992 Supreme Court decision in examining whether six states—Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia—had met their obligations to dismantle all remnants of segregated systems of higher education.

Sosh fired; WDXN unsure if it will rebid for contract

By LAURIE ROGERS
assistant news editor

Lon Sosh, former general manager for WDXN Radio, did not resign from the radio station, as stated in previous reports. According to Fred Greene, president of Tenaire Inc. which owns WDXN, Sosh was fired. Greene also said Sosh will not be returning, not as "Voice of the Gov's" or in any other position with WDXN.

Prior information from WDXN Comptroller Jeffery Stanfill said Sosh had resigned his position effective Jan. 28 and would continue to announce APSU games for the station until the end of the spring 1994 semester.

Stanfill had indicated that Sosh's employment with the radio station was not necessarily over.

However Greene said this week that Sosh was dismissed because of a general dissatisfaction with his performance as general manager, and that he was not welcome back.

"We relieved him of his responsibilities," Greene said.

Sosh was hit last Thursday, March 10, with a second lawsuit by former WDXN news director Kimberly Jacks, who is seeking an unspecified settlement from Sosh and Tenaire for alleged sexual harassment and discrimination.

The first suit, for similar allegations, was filed in January by Michelle Broadway, former director of public relations for WDXN, who is seeking $1.05 million from Sosh and Tenaire.

Repeated attempts to contact Sosh for comment Monday were unsuccessful.

Previous reports had stated that Jacks had been fired from WDXN in Nov. 1993; however, Greene said Monday that of Sosh, Jacks and Broadway, Sosh was the only person fired from the station.

While refusing to comment officially on the allegations against Sosh, saying, "I can't comment on something I don't know about."

Greene defended Tenaire.

"We have not mistreated the ladies in any way," Greene said. "We have always tried to treat them with respect and dignity."

A one-year contract to broadcast APSU athletic games is currently in the process of being re-bid to all the local radio stations.

Greene said he did not yet know if WDXN would submit a bid for the contract.

ACT COMP test dates for graduating seniors

The Tennessee Board of Regents requires all graduating seniors to take the ACT COMP Examination prior to receiving their degree in order to evaluate the effectiveness of the university's educational program.

Seniors who plan to graduate in May 1994 must take the COMP on March 21, 22, 23, 24 or 25 as a condition for graduation. Those seniors who do not take the COMP may have their degree held.

Testing sessions are:

- Monday, March 21, 8:30 a.m.-noon, KB 119
- Monday, March 21, 2:30-6 p.m., KB 119
- Tuesday, March 22, 8:30-noon, CX 103
- Tuesday, March 22, 2:30-6 p.m., CX 103
- Wednesday, March 23, 5:30-9 p.m., CX 103
- Thursday, March 24, 5:30-9 p.m., KB 119
- Friday, March 25, 2:30-6 p.m., CX 103

Seniors will be notified by letter or they may come by Browning 203 to sign up for one of the sessions. If there are any questions, please call 648-6184.

Stovall charges to be heard today

By LAURIE ROGERS
assistant news editor

The two misdemeanor charges against Dr. A. Stovall, Austin Peay State University political science professor and director of the African American Cultural Center, will be heard today in a 1:30 p.m. hearing at Montgomery County General Sessions Court.

The charges are the result of a Feb. 7 incident at Greenwood Middle School in which Stovall allegedly made verbal threats against Elvin Walker, administrative assistant to the principal.

Following the incident, Walker filed a charge of assault against Stovall, and Greenwood principal L. Workman-Tyndall filed a charge of disorderly conduct.

The hearing, originally scheduled for March 8, was rescheduled at the request of Judge Wayne Shelton, who said he goes to church with Workman-Tyndall and wanted to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest.

The charges will be heard today by General Sessions Court Judge Carol Catalano.

Summer internships provide on-the-job experience and open doors for future employment

College Press Service

Summer vacation is just around the corner. If the idea of spending it waiting tables again is more than you can take, perhaps it's time for an internship.

"It's an invaluable experience in a number of respects," said Amy Schmidt, director of career planning and placement at Agnes Scott College in Decatur, GA. In a best-case scenario, an intern can get a full-time job with the same firm or office after graduation, Schmidt said.

Internships offer students more than just marketable work experience. Schmidt said it is much better to discover that a certain field is not for you after a three- or four-month internship than after taking a full-time job.

"The internship helps a student explore careers without a commitment," said Lee Svete, director of planning at St. Lawrence University in Canton, N.Y. "Our experience is that the student will be able to exercise and develop new skills."

Students interested in summer work can browse through a database of more than 500 internships at the St. Lawrence University career planning office.

In addition to the services that college career centers have, Svete said, students who have access to the Internet can find employment and internship listings there.

Agnes Scott College's proximity to Atlanta opens many doors for students who wish to complete internships in the city.

"Through our office, we list hundreds of internships, some of which are paid and some of which are unpaid," Schmidt said.

Kalamazoo College in Kalamazoo, Mich., sends students overseas to get real world experience.

"Eighty-five to 90 percent of all our graduates have studied abroad," said Scotty Allen, a media relations spokesman.

Allen said students often do research projects as interns abroad after completing their foreign study programs.

Whether the jobs are overseas or in a student's hometown, it's important to remember that companies want interns as badly as interns need experience.

"Internships are a low-cost way for employers to evaluate talent," Svete said.

Many companies do not have formal internship programs or positions, but that could be because the right intern has not approached them. "Students can create their own internships," he said.

Other companies have well-developed internship programs for college students and recent graduates.

The Princeton Review rates the Coors Brewing Company as having the best internships in the top 100 in the United States.

"Typically, we have about 40-50 interns from colleges around the country," said Tonia Hamilton, senior placement representative for Coors in Golden, Colo.

Coors hires interns for finance and accounting, engineering, and their wellness center. Some interns, such as those in engineering, are paid; others are for credit.

Spanish study trip travels Cuernavaca, Mexico

A Study Abroad Program in Spanish is offered year-round to Cuernavaca, Mexico. The cost is $69 per credit hour for undergraduates and $104 per credit hour for graduate students.

There also is a $5 application fee and a $50 program fee. This is open to undergraduates, graduates, high school juniors and seniors and other persons interested in learning and/or improving their Spanish.

For more information contact Dr. Ramon at 648-7847 or evenings at 647-0387.

Study in Britain program offers credit, experience

Taking Austin Peay courses for credit and traveling throughout the British Isles is the opportunity offered to all students through the Study in Britain Program this summer, July 4 - 8.

Three Austin Peay faculty, Dr. Aleeta Christian, humanities; Dr. Floyd Christian, mathematics; and Dr. Michael Phillips, sciences; will be offering courses.

Financial aid is available to those who normally qualify for educational benefits. Applications and deposits are being accepted.

For more information, see Dr. Nora Wenger in languages and literature, room 337, 648-7891, or Dr. Christian in developmental studies, Clement 119, 648-7892.

Honors program students meet council's state meeting

A group of students and faculty members involved in the Austin Peay Honors Program recently attended the state meeting of the Tennessee Collegiate Honors Council at Lipscomb University in Nashville.

Dr. Allene Phy-Olsen presided over the conference as the president of the organization this year.

Dr. Vernon Warren was keynote speaker of the conference; his speech was titled "Racism, Stereotypes and Political Correctness."

Dr. Norman Skiba, adjunct in anthropology and lecturer in heritage and Honors classes on music, gave the second plenary session this afternoon.

He spoke on Asian musical traditions and the relationship to spiritual exercises. He followed this presentation with an informal conversation with interested students.

APSU Honors students—Patricia Hagan, Christin Chester, J. Daniel Cloud, Joseph Wesley Jarrett and Rebecca Mackey—presented a tongue-in-cheek panel discussion titled "Is Shakespeare Really a Dead White Heterosexual Male?"

They outlined various off-beat theories that the Shakespearean plays were written by the likes of Christopher Marlowe, Sir Francis Bacon or Queen Elizabeth I.

A second APSU presentation was given by Joseph Wesley Jarrett and Steve Holmes. This was a point-counterpoint discussion, "Learning from One Another: Asian Values in American Perspective."

GRE preparatory course focuses on math portion

A preparatory course for the math portion of the Graduate Record Exam will be offered through the Office of Extended Education at APSU.

The course will familiarize students with the GRE format and prepare them for the math portion.

James Sanders, assistant professor of developmental studies, will teach the course, which meets March 29-April 7. The course will meet from 5:30-8 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in Kimbrough 211.

The fee for this section is $27. There is a text fee of $10. For further information or to register, telephone 648-7816.

Speech and Debate team wins competition honors

With only two members, the Austin Peay State University Speech and Debate Team placed third at the Tennessee Intercollegiate Forensics Association State Championships.

Jeff Greene, junior and team captain, along with junior Paul Butts also brought home six individual awards from the Feb. 12 contest.

Greene won trophies in four of the five events entered. He received first place in prose interpretation, third place in impromptu speaking, fourth place in persuasive speaking and sixth place in poetry interpretation.

Butts won trophies for second place in impromptu speaking and third place in extemporaneous speaking.

Students interested in the team should contact Dr. Fran Mindel, director of forensics, at 648-7363.

LOTUS workshop covers business applications

LOTUS 1-2-3 will be examined in an upcoming workshop offered through the Office of Extended Education.

"Business Applications of LOTUS 1-2-3" will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-9 p.m. March 21-30 in Kimbrough 214. Dr. Joyce Kilpatrick is the instructor, and course fees are $125 and text is $25.

The registration deadline is March 17. For information or to register, telephone Extended Education at 648-7816.

Heart association sponsors upcoming courses in CPR

The American Heart Association will offer two courses in cardiopulmonary resuscitation through Austin Peay State University.

An AHA certified instructor will teach Adult CPR on March 19 and a separate course March 26. Both classes will be held from 8 a.m.-noon in Kimbrough 211.

Training will be given on CPR mannequins and a written examination will be administered. Upon completion of the one-day course, students may become certified for two years.

Students are required to read the Heartsaver Guide prior to class. Robert Collins is the instructor, and fees include $20 course fee and $2 text fee.

The deadline for registration is March 17 and March 24. For further information or to register, telephone 648-7816.

Two professors to lecture on international issues

Two lectures on international issues are scheduled at APSU.

On March 17, Dr. Victor Ukpoko, associate professor of economics, will examine "Culture and Economic Growth in Nigeria." The presentation is from 3-4 p.m. in the UC Gov's Room.

Dr. Aaron Hutcheson, professor of economics, will discuss his recent semester teaching in Eger, Hungary. The lecture will be from 12:30-1:30 p.m. March 29, in the University Center Gov's Room.

The presentations are in conjunction with the International Lecture Series Committee and are free and open to the public.

Art department schedules annual Chicago art tour

Whether you are an art major or an art lover, you will want to mark your calendar for the art department's 22nd annual Chicago art trip.

Scheduled from March 31-April 4, the tour includes transportation, four nights lodging at the Congress Hotel in the Chicago Loop, one day bus tour of Chicago and browsing in the area museums.

The cost is $185, due in two payments. The first payment of $85 is due March 16. The second $100 payment is due April 4.

For more information or to register, telephone Gregg Schlanger at 648-7333 or 648-7789.

The Anatomy of the Citibank Classic card: a body of services and peace of mind for students, now with No Annual Fee.

For years, scientists could only theorize about the Citibank Classic Visa® card, unable to actually observe anything below its epidermal surface (i.e. the plastic). Surely the highly intelligent services were evidence of an advanced brain. But with the latest advances in x-ray technology, and when the light could catch the various parts just so, it was confirmed: the Citibank Classic Visa card is head to toe more evolved than ever imagined.

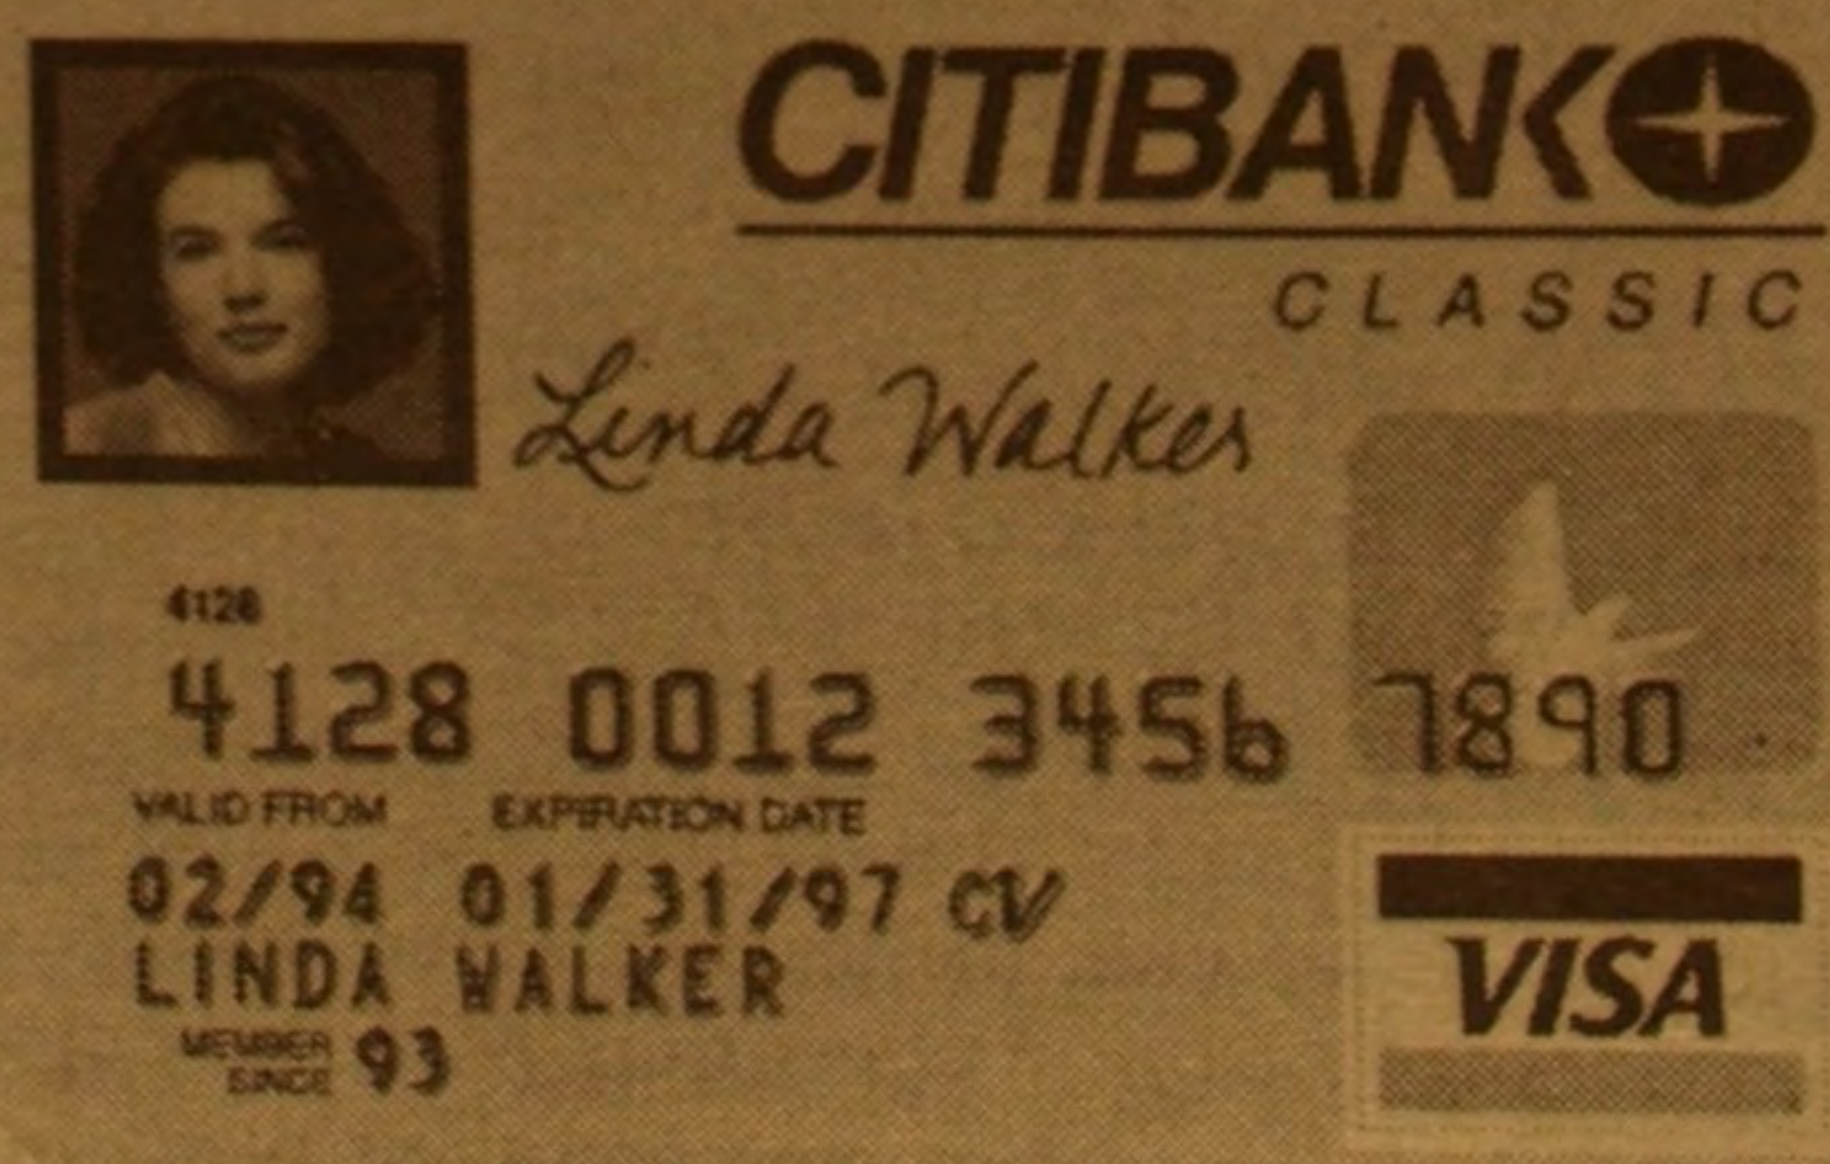

Scientists theorize that the mind of the Citibank Classic Visa cardmember (Fig. A) is secure because it receives superior service; the mind of the non-Citibank Classic Visa cardmember (Fig. B) is not secure because—could it be?—it has a screw loose!

¶ At its backbone are 3 services to cover the purchases you make on the card. Starting at the Lower Costal Spine, we see Citibank Price Protection can assure you of the best price. All you have to do is discover the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150¹. Along the Oops-It-Slipped Disc, Buyers Security™ can cover those purchases against accidental damage, fire or theft, for 90 days from the date of purchase¹; and Citibank Lifetime Warranty™ allows one to extend the warranty for the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years². So if you ever buy a walkman, a stereo, whatever, it will be reassuring to know that Citibank can bend and be flexible while still lending support. ¶ The backbone is then connected to the cranium or headbone. Look at the bottom of the page. The Citibank Photocard has the head of the cardholder, as well as his or her own signature, right on the front. That way, it will help prevent fraud. It will also make a good form of ID, since you get to choose your own photo. ¶ But what about the Nervous System? The fact is, it doesn't have one, not in the spinal cord nor in the brain. What it has is the Very Calm System. Because even if your credit card gets stolen, or gets lost, an involuntary muscle called the Extendus Anewcardus activates the Lost Wallet™ Service which can replace your card usually within 24 hours. ¶ As suspected, there's another involuntary muscle: the heart—a beating and caring heart, big enough to give students special discounts and savings. You'll receive a $20 Airfare Discount on domestic flights³; savings on mail order purchases, sports equipment, magazines and music; a low variable interest rate of 15.4%⁴; and, No Annual Fee. (In other words, the card itself doesn't cost a forelimb and a hindlimb.) ¶ Naturally the heart of the Citibank Visa card pumps life and personalized customer service into all its parts, 24 hours a day. So no matter what the question you might have concerning your card, you need only call the 800 number. You'll find Citibank has a neck they are eager to stick out for you. They will always lend an ear. Or a hand. They will keep an eye out for you. They will put their best foot forward. Etc. ¶ So call to apply. You don't need a job or a cosigner. And call if you'd like your photo added to your regular Citibank Classic Visa card. The number is 1-800-CITIBANK (1-800-248-4226), extension 19. ¶ If we take an overview of the whole body of services that make up the Citibank Classic Visa card, and consider that it will facilitate building a credit history, then you must shake a leg, flex your index finger and call today.

Monarch Notes® Version: With your purchases covered, no annual fee, and a low rate, the Citibank Classic Visa card will go easy on your Nervous System. Call 1-800-CITIBANK (1-800-248-4226), extension 19.

Not just Visa. Citibank Visa.

Regulation, not restriction key to safety for firearms

In the United States, a person is shot every two minutes. Every 14 minutes, a gunshot victim dies.

In spite of this, there is less regulation for assault weapons than for the majority of other consumer products, everything from stuffed animals to cigarettes.

It is possible to keep our Second Amendment rights while regulating the availability and usage of the second leading cause of death for all people aged 15 to 24. And, if we care about our families and our environment, we will.

We justify the restrictions on driver's licenses, movie viewing, alcohol, cigarettes, even the legality of entering a contract--but not the regulation of weapons.

A teenager can work no more hours per week than the government has allowed. This regulation was instituted due to a lack of school attendance on the part of the employed students. At least the working children are still alive. Not so for the thousands of minors who die each year from gunshots.

We insist that our children stay in school until they are 16, and many states yank the driver's licenses of those who choose to drop out at that time. Why? Because the state cares about their future.

Caring for the future of America's children means making the access of weapons a little more difficult. Those who need the weapons and are trained to use them will be able to get them.

And, hopefully, the guns will get out of the hands of babes.

Bumper sticker sexism indicates bias still prevalent in White House voters

There is an ugly trend surfacing in America's conservative ditto-head congregations. It is subtle, often disguising itself as humorous, and says things like "Impeach Clinton and her husband, too."

It is political misogyny, which translates to thinly veiled sexism on the back of someone's bumper.

While some see these buttons and stickers as

Hill stare her down.

Only the truly short-sighted can believe that Hillary Clinton represents a threat to national interests. To the fiscal conservatives, she should be considered a gold mine. After all, America is getting her for free. It cost an Arkansas law firm six digits for her services.

Hillary Clinton was appointed to review an idea for a national health-care plan. Whether they like the idea of national health security or not, most Americans should be able to see that they could not come close to devising a national medical plan. They simply don't have the knowledge or expertise.

The Republicans can prattle about family values and the nuclear family, but young Americans need to learn to value themselves in the nuclear age. The best way to do that is through role models and examples. Women like Hillary Clinton, who has a career, education and family, can do more for the "national soul" than moments of silence and health classes.

In the end, the problems that people have with Hillary Clinton aren't truly with her, but rather the whole idea of women and their place in politics. Somewhere, in the back of people's minds, is the idea that if a female politician had PMS they might just decide to drop the bomb. That's like saying that if a man has jock itch, he may start WWII. Let's hope not, on both counts.

When we stop ridiculing Hillary Clinton for her successes and start seeing her for what she is: a true American woman, perhaps we can get down to the business of government.

Scoundrel-time on Capitol Hill

Senator dumps fiscal responsibility due to election year

On March 1, Tennessee Senator Harlan Mathews earned the right to be called a political scoundrel.

Mathews, after co-sponsoring the balanced budget amendment, voted against the measure. Tennessee's other scoundrel senator, Jim Sasser, ironically supported the amendment.

By

The irony here is quite thick. Sasser, who has never seen a tax or spending proposal that he didn't like, actually supported fiscal responsibility while Mathews, a co-sponsor of the bill, voted against it.

Mathews said that his sudden change in opinion stemmed from the amendment's possible effects on Social Security. This is pure, grade-A, 100 percent baloney. First of all, it should be remembered that Mathews is vacating the office after this year. Could it be that Sasser, who is apparently going to face stiff opposition from the GOP, told Mathews to vote no so that Sasser could put in a yes vote and try to save his political hinny.

The 63-37 count which failed by only four votes did not bring the expected firestorm of public anger upon the 34 Democrats and three Republicans who opposed fiscal responsibility. Perhaps very few people really understand the necessity of the proposal and the burden deficit spending places on the economy.

The need is quite easily seen. Congress has been considering proposals of fiscal prudence for almost 50 years. The result? Only five balanced budgets and a national debt of over $4 trillion.

To be certain, the last president to balance a budget was John F. Kennedy. Congress is simply out of control with the nation's tax dollars, and the body certainly has little idea of what a responsible treasury is all about.

The most obvious economic hazard caused by the national debt is seen annually in that section of the budget known as debt interest. In 1991, 14 percent of the federal budget went to pay one year's interest on the debt. It didn't buy school books or pave decaying highways. It paid for past fiscal irresponsibility. With the debt expected to reach $10 trillion by the year 2000, money allocated to debt interest will only increase.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce is quite certain about the effects of deficit spending. It has said, "Escalating federal deficits necessitate large tax packages that sap the nation's savings, displace capital investment, slow economic growth and job creation, and weaken the competitiveness of U.S. firms."

So something has to be done. But what? It starts with electing people to public office with the guts to make tough decisions. Yes, this involves throwing cowardly scoundrels like Mathews out of office.

Congress is simply out of control with the nation's tax dollars, and the body certainly has little idea of what a responsible treasury is all about.

If we don't, the U.S. dollar just might decline to the value of its Monopoly counterpart. And imagine how much more quickly the Democrats would try to spend that.

Letter to the Editor

Non-traditional student stereotypes persist in "non-biased" atmosphere

Dear Editor:

There is a stereotype on this campus that is directed toward non-traditional students.

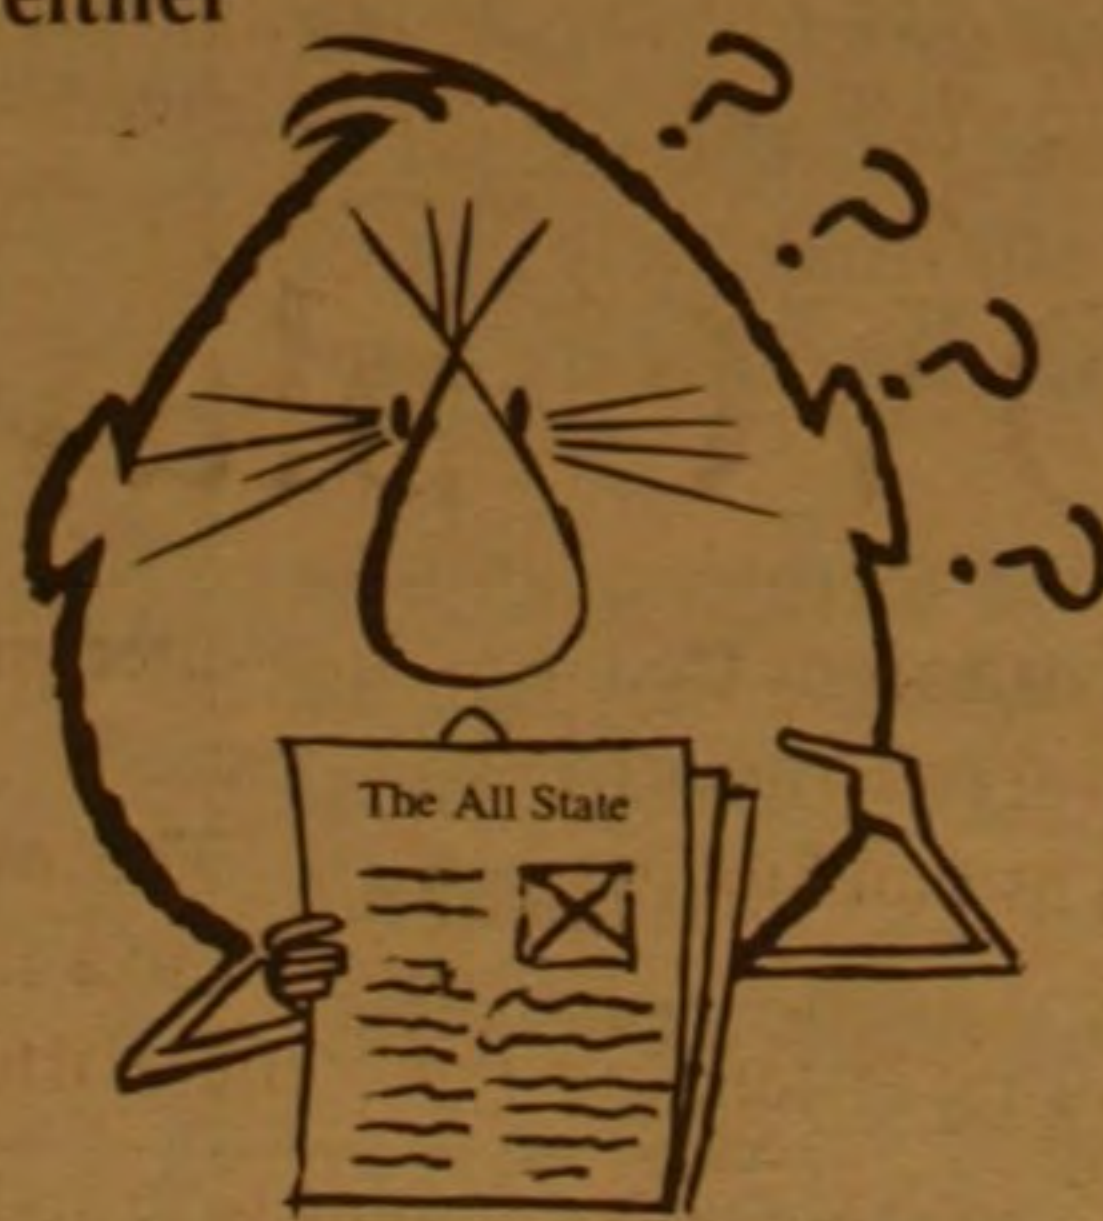

If you have heard statements like "non-traditional students tend to read into things on test questions," then you know what I am talking about.

This may just be a helpful test hint, but to me it sounds as if non-traditional students are being stereotyped for the life experiences they may have had, which supposedly have made them more vulnerable to test questions' meanings.

If a similar statement would be made about any other minority on campus, or even about traditional students, wouldn't that cause some kind of protest? Well, I am writing this letter to protest stereotyping directed toward any groups on this or any other college campus.

Monica Feltner

Beck, Vaughn named All-OVC after leading teams in scoring

Senior center Tyrone Beck and junior sharpshooter Georgie Vaughn were named 1st team All-OVC prior to the OVC tournament March 3-5 in Nashville. Beck, who had been named the conference's Player of the Week the previous week, led the Govs in scoring at 16.0 points per game, ranking him seventh in the OVC.

Hailing from Pittsburgh, Penn., Beck finished his final campaign ranked third in the OVC in rebounding at 8.9 boards per game, third in the conference in field goal percentage (.536) and fourth in blocked shots per game (0.9).

Vaughn, a former Stewart County High School star, led the Lady Govs in scoring, averaging over 16 points per game in OVC play. She sank seven 3-pointers in scoring a career high 35 points in a win over Morehead State Jan. 15.

Other awards for the Govs went to Termaine Savage, who was named honorable mention, and to Charles "Bubba" Wells, who was named Freshman of the Year in making the All-Newcomer team.

Savage ranked second on the team in scoring, averaging almost 15 points per game. Savage lit up NCAA Tournament-bound Southern Illinois for 29 points back in December.

Wells, a 6'5" forward from Russellville, Ky., was the Govs' third-leading scorer with 11.5 points per game and third-leading rebounder at 5.3 boards per game. He started 21 of 26 regular season games for the squad and finished the season ranked fifth in the OVC in field goal percentage at 51 percent.

The Govs bowed out of the OVC tournament March 3 with a 101-91 first round loss to Tennessee Tech, a team the Govs swept during regular season play.

Colleen Polzin was named to the All-Freshman team for the Lady Govs. Polzin, a native of Minnesota, led the team in rebounding, averaging almost 10 boards per game in conference play.

The 6'1" center pulled down a career high 18 rebounds, including nine offensive, in the Lady Govs' win at UT-Martin Feb. 5.

The Lady Govs upset third-seeded Eastern Kentucky 64-53 to open the OVC tournament March 5, before losing in the second round to conference power Tennessee Tech 86-60.

Both teams return a strong nucleus to build on for next year, with four starters returning for each squad.

Departing for the Govs are Beck and Terry Boykin, while Jametta Bland is the Lady Govs' lone loss.

Austin Peay drops to 7-12 after four-game skid

Lady Govs continue to search for offense

By BYRON SHIVE
sports editor

After a grueling spring break schedule, the Lady Govs were swept three games by Illinois State on Sunday and Monday, as the squad continues to find its offense.

ISU, ranked No. 1 in the Midwest region, jumped on Austin Peay early in Sunday's nightcap, enroute to a 3-0 lead after five innings. Telisha Neely drove in pinch-runner Wendy Kincaid in the sixth for the Peay's only run.

Stacy Perkins went two-for-three at the plate to lead the offense, which stranded six runners in the game.

On Monday, ISU shut down APSU's offense once again in a 6-0 shutout, as the Lady Govs could only muster a pair of hits.

In the second half of the doubleheader, the Lady Govs spotted the Redbirds a 3-0 lead before Michelle Mullins blasted a solo home run to deep centerfield to cut the lead to two.

Illinois State added an insurance run in the sixth to win going away, 4-1.

Both Mullins and Stephanie Bracey had two hits a piece for Austin Peay.

The sweep dropped the Lady Govs' record to 7-12 overall, with several losses coming in close games.

According to Coach Chris Austin, run production is the key to the team improving.

"Offensively, we're still struggling as a team," said Coach Austin. "We've got to get more consistency up and down the line-up. When we're presented with an opportunity, we're going to have to start scoring runs. We've got to get a fire lit offensively."

Coach Austin added that the number of runners left on base this season is "astronomically high."

On Saturday, the Lady Govs took a pair from visiting Northeastern Illinois before losing the third game of the series in Sunday's opener.

APSU won the opener 3-1, before capturing the nightcap 6-0.

Northeastern Illinois led 7-0 in Sunday's finale before Austin Peay could score as the Lady Govs dropped a 7-3 contest.

"We're a better team than what we've shown," said Coach Austin. "We've played better as a team than we have this weekend. The offense has got to be our sticking point."

"We'll continue losing close games until we start hitting the ball. That's the bottom line. We've got to hit the ball."

The Lady Govs will get an eight-day layoff before getting back into OVC action.

Austin Peay will play a make-up game with Tennessee Tech March 22, the first of 10 straight OVC games.

Golfers place well in tournaments

By MIKE IRBY
assistant sports editor

Austin Peay's golf team competed in two tournaments this past week, placing well in each despite the team's lack of practice time due to inclement weather.

The Governors began the week in Williamsburg, Vir., March 7 and 8, in the William and Mary Invitational, where they finished fifth out of a total of 18 teams.

Sophomore Steve Dimen led the Govs with a two-day total of 153, placing him 12th individually. Sophomore Jamie Webb and senior Dominique Morency each shot 156, good for 20th.

The Govs finished with a two-day total of 627. Penn State won the tourney with a 598.

Coach A.J. Taylor was pleased with the result, especially given the lack of practice time.

"I was pleased with our play in this tournament," said Taylor. "Some of our young players stepped up. This gives us something to build on."

The Governors continued the strong play March 10-12 at the Frapp Island Intercollegiate at Ocean Point Golf Club in Frapp Island, S.C.

The team placed seventh out of 19 schools, shooting a three-day total of 929, one stroke behind Michigan State and 36 behind tourney champ Ball State, which finished with an 893.

Sophomore Wes Cate led the Govs, finishing sixth individually with a 225 total. Morency (236), Webb (237), Dimen (237) and freshman Brad Burkeen (244) also participated for the Govs.

The team's next action will be at the Tennessee Intercollegiate, March 28-30, at the Legends Club in Brentwood, Tennessee.

Netters eye OVC play following trip

By BYRON SHIVE
sports editor

The Austin Peay men's team ran its record to 7-1 with three victories over spring break in the annual trip to Hilton Head, S.C.

The Govs defeated Evansville, which is responsible for the team's lone loss, by a 4-3 count to open the round robin tournament.

The Govs then whitewashed Missouri-Kansas 7-0, before disposing of East Carolina with a 5-2 triumph.

For the season, the Govs have posted a 34-13 record in singles action.

Individually, Rodney Way has posted a 5-3 record at No. 1 singles, facing each opposing team's top player.

Cristian Duma is off to a 5-2 record, while Rick Stoller stands at 5-3.

The bottom half of the Govs' potent singles line-up has recorded an astounding mark of 21-2.

Brian Coons is leading the way with a perfect record of 7-0, while Mattias Ericsson and David Boyd both stand at 7-1.

Trey McFarlin has seen limited action thus far, with an 0-2 mark.

Last year, each netter had a winning record at the end of the season, as the Govs posted the best record of any Austin Peay athletic team.

The doubles tandem of Way and Duma is off to a 5-2 start to lead the doubles, while Stoller and Ericsson have a 4-3 record.

The women's tennis team is off to a slow 2-3 start following the Hilton Head trip, losing three out of four matches over break.

After opening with an 8-1 win over Missouri-Kansas, the Lady Govs were defeated by Evansville (7-2), East Carolina (5-4) and Martine Edwards also stands at 3-2 mark, while Andrea Hede went unbeaten at the tournament to up her team-leading record to 4-1.

Angie McLean and Stacy Holman both have posted identical 2-3 marks, while Emily Sleigh picked up her first win against Detroit-Mercy to raise her record to 1-4.

The doubles tandems of Sheather and Hede and Edwards and McLean both went 3-1 on the trip to raise their season marks to 3-2.

Holman and Sleigh split their four spring break matches to give them a 2-3 record.

Other than a men's home match with Vanderbilt Saturday, both squads will be idle for the remainder of March until OVC play begins in April, with both teams venturing to Eastern Kentucky April 1.

Women show pride in heritage, celebrate history during March

DARCY HARTZ
Features editor

Women from all ethnic, religious and social groups have made a difference in our world today, and the month of March has been designated to recognize those achievements.

"We as women have been socialized to believe that we are merely docile followers of men—the natural leaders," said Emily Newland, a senior psychology major.

"Because of this socialization, it is imperative that we, women, make every effort to see ourselves as leaders and seek to tear down the stereotypes that have suppressed the leadership potential of women while giving men the advantage of moving on ahead."

Lisa Kelly, a senior mass communication/psychology major, has turned to a woman in her field for leadership.

After meeting Monica Kaufman at the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta, Kelly looks to her for inspiration. She is the highest paid black female news anchor in the country and works out of Atlanta.

"She paved the way for those of us trying to move into this business," Kelly said.

A symposium on women kicked off the month, and women from Austin Peay and the Clarksville community came together to recognize the achievements of those who came before.

Sessions were held throughout the day covering topics from women's communication styles to female artists and writers. A noon luncheon was highlighted by a speech given by victims rights activist Andrea Conte. Conte is the wife of Nashville major Phil Bredeson.

According to Dr. Susan Kupisch, coordinator of the event, the symposium had a positive focus. "It was more of a celebration," she said. "We wanted it to be an up-beat, pleasant experience."

Several activities are planned throughout March to further showcase women's history.

An art exhibit by APSU women artists is on display in the library, and two APSU photography students, Beverly Parker and Pauletta Shafer, will be featured in an exhibit at the Smith-Trahern Mansion. It will be from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. March 22-March 25.

A film festival featuring women directors will be presented by Women's Studies throughout the month.

Films including "Mississippi Masala," "Little Man Tate," "Waiting for the Moon," "Desperately Seeking Susan," "Strangers in Good Company" and others will be presented in projection rooms 1 and 2 of the Media Center.

Today, "Daughters of the Dust" will be shown at noon, and "Just Another Girl on the I.R.T." will be presented at 2 p.m.

The festival is free and open to all APSU students, faculty and staff.

For more information about the festival, contact Dr. Susan Calovini, Women's Studies coordinator, at 648-7860.

The African American Cultural Center will host a lecture series highlighting women of African or African American descent.

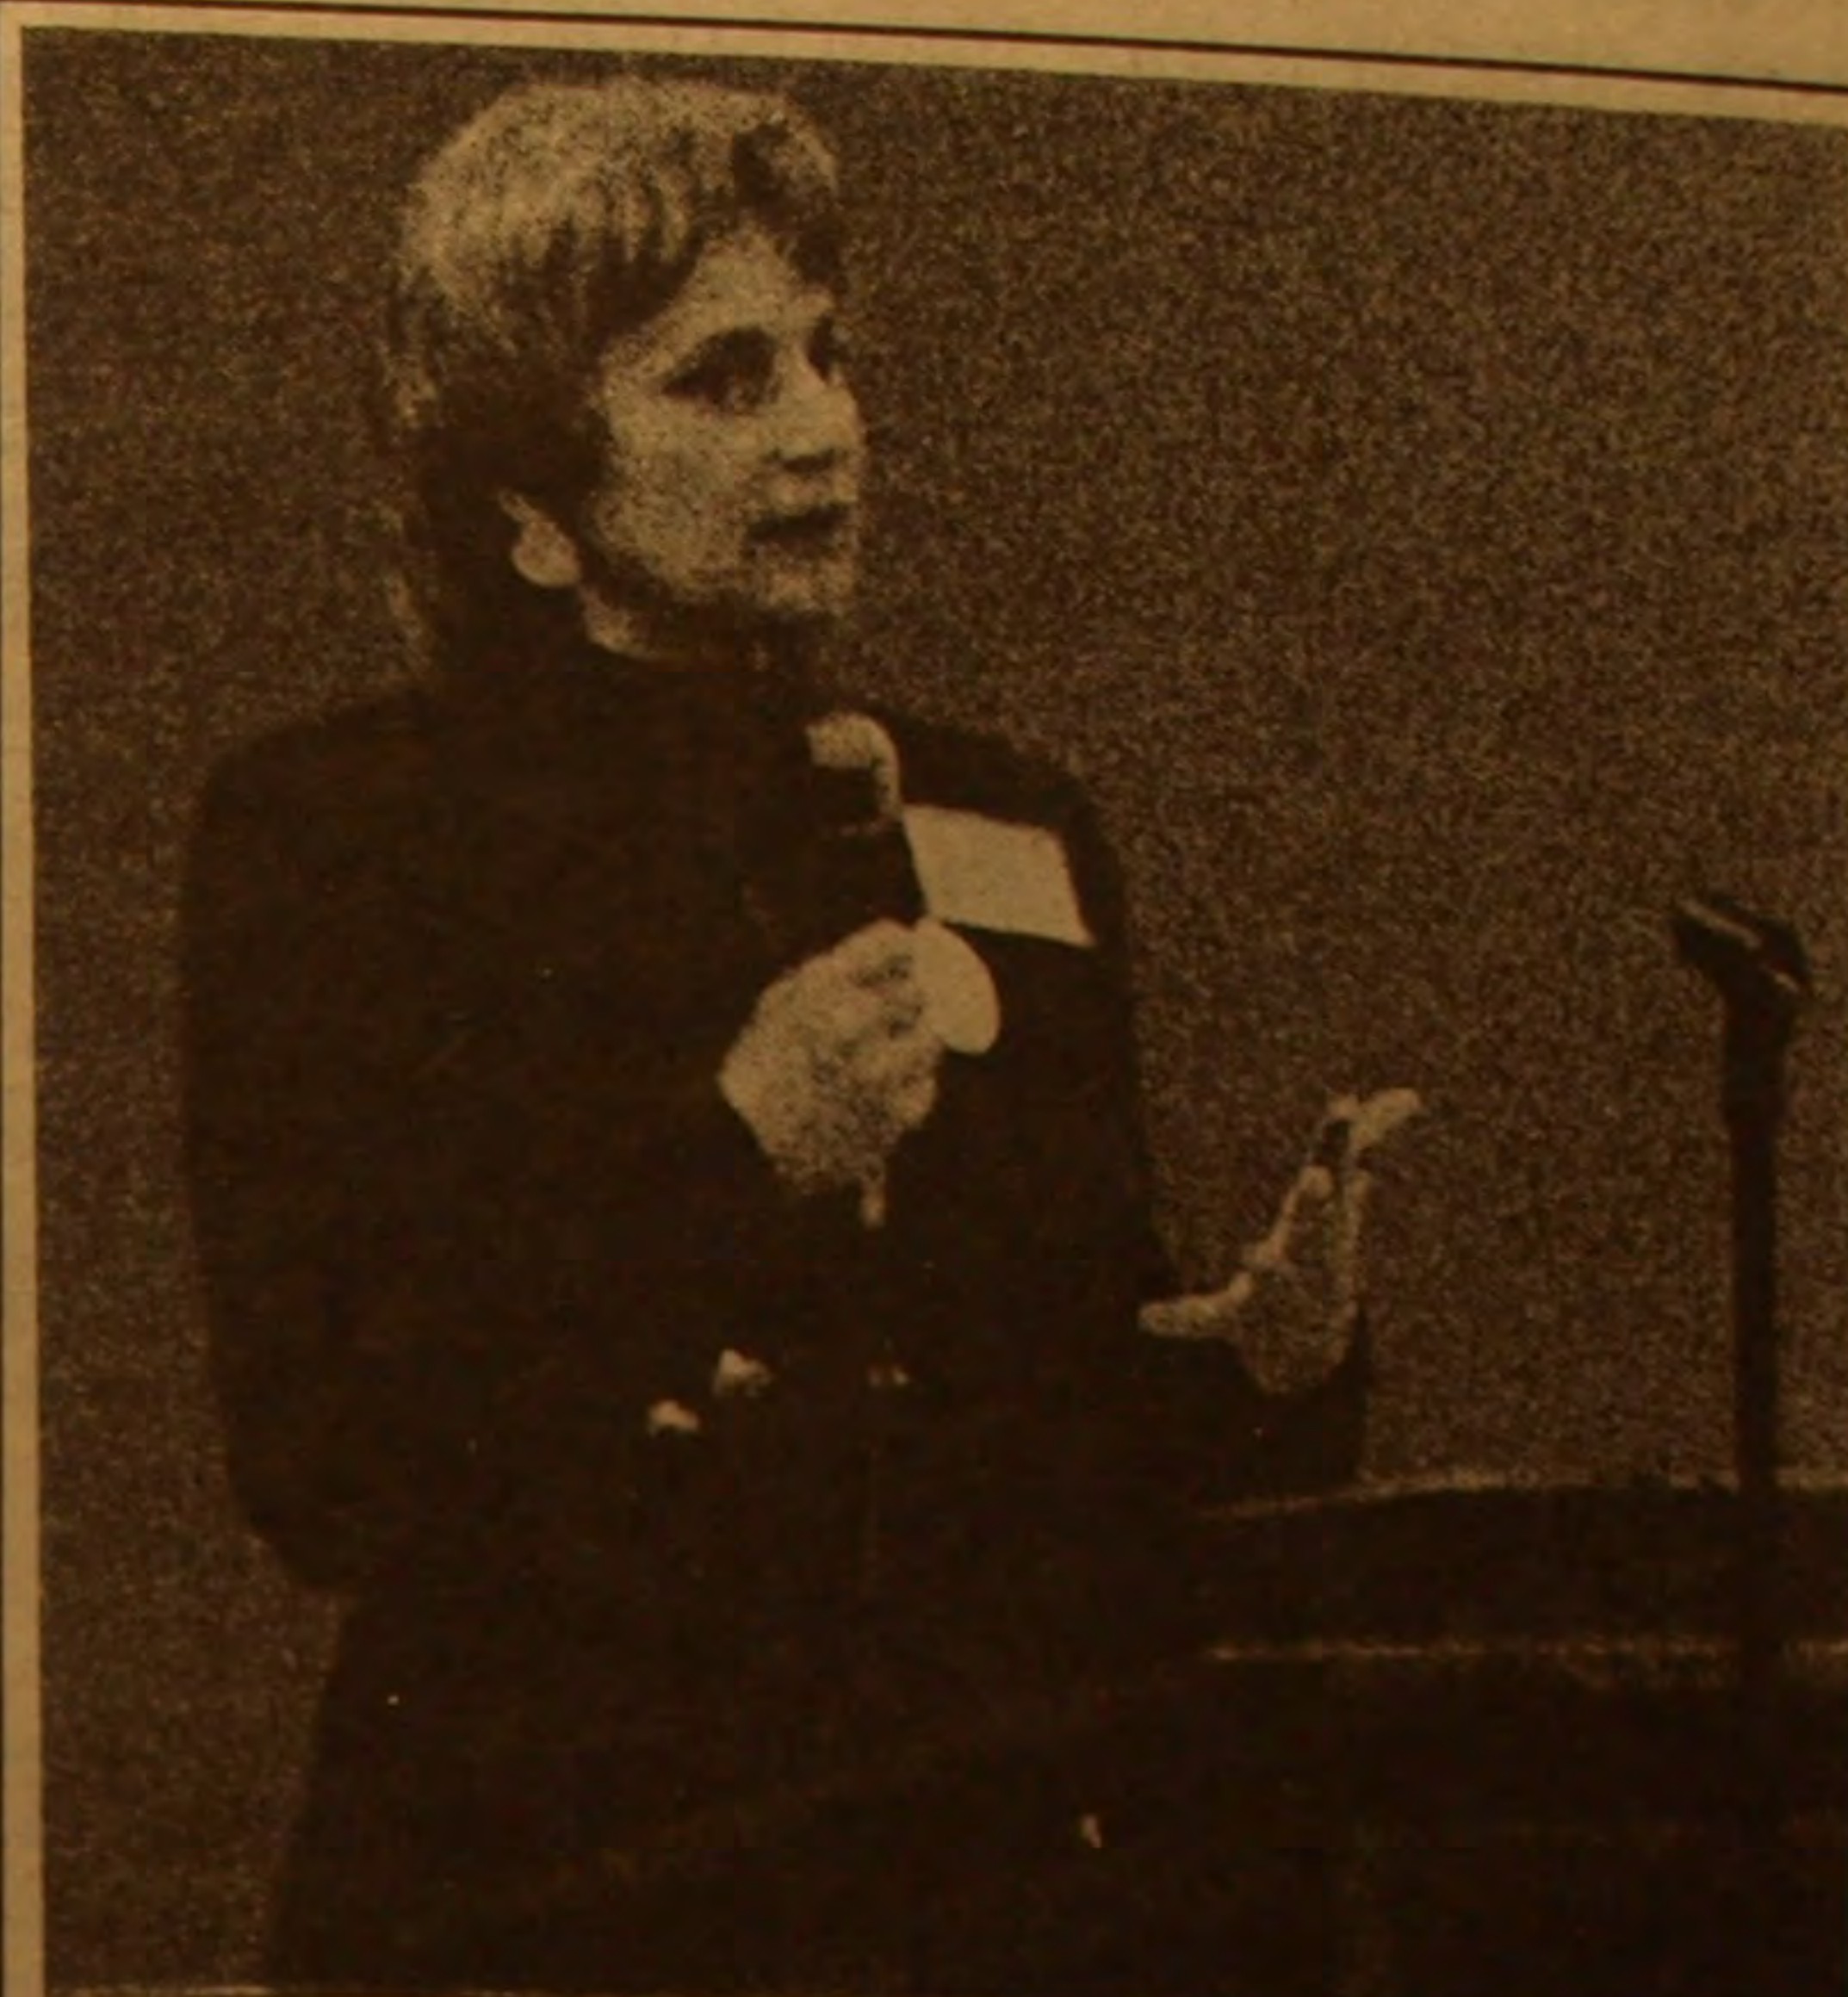

All lectures will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the cultural center followed by a reception. The events are free and open to the public.

Dr. Mary D. Mbosowo, professor of liberal studies at Lane College, will present "The Changing Role of Women in African Literature" March 16.

"TV and the African American Image" is the focus of the March 24 presentation by Dr. Laura C. Jarmon, professor of English at Middle Tennessee State University.

On March 30, Dr. Loretta Prater, professor of human ecology at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, will examine "The African American Family from Slavery until Today."

Family struggles with tragedy, looks to community for help

We may never believe that something as tragic as murder can happen in our family, but it can. That reality struck Minoah Uffelman-Evans, adjunct professor of history, and her family Oct. 24, 1992.

Her sister, Heather Uffelman, a student at Middle Tennessee State University with strong Clarksville ties, was murdered in Marietta, Ga.

The case is still unsolved and a reenactment will air on "Unsolved Mysteries" at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 23.

"We hope it will lead to an arrest and conviction of someone," Uffelman-Evans said.

To cope with the situation, the family has established the Houston County Education Association Heather Uffelman Memorial Scholarship, but Uffelman-Evans says things will never be the same for her family.

"You never dream that this could happen to you," she said, "When it does it's hard to believe."
