Morgan Appoints Food Committee

What do you do when you have a complaint or suggestion about the cafeteria?

Take it to the Food Service Committee which President Joe Morgan appointed today to review the food service on this campus.

The committee consists of Dean Mabel Meacham, Dean Tom Savage, Dr. Paul Hyatt, R. C. Slaughter, Judy Dias, Henry McCaslin and Murray Pride.

Specifically, the duties of the committee are to receive suggestions from students and faculty relative to the food service and to work with those responsible in order to improve this service.

Complaints or suggestions which the student may have can be submitted to the committee either in person or in a letter.

Library Science Now Offering Reference Course

Looking for an elective? The Library Science department has just the answer to that question, a course in reference.

A course in the use of the library and finding reference material would be beneficial to any student, especially those enrolled in education.

If you'd like to really take a plunge and work on a library science minor, there are many job offerings in demand.

A student could save much time and effort by knowing how to find material in the library. "Teachers need to know the library well," Mrs. Mary Fox Clardy, Head of the department, said.

Born of Italian nobility, Miss Sergio became the first woman commentator in Europe.

the examination. A score of 43 words, with not more than 5 errors will be passing.

The test will be given in the typewriting room in the McCord Building on Wednesday, March 25, at 3 and on Thursday, March 26, at 10.

Wins Trip To Florida For National Contest

Miss Judy Griffin, junior coed from Dover, Tenn., has gained national recognition for Austin Peay State College by being chosen one of the five finalists in the nationwide Miss Cheerleader USA contest.

Miss Griffin was selected from 61 entries representing 37 states and was one of the three unanimous selections.

"The first thing I did when I heard I had been chosen as one of the finalists was sit down," Judy commented. "I just didn't believe it."

Tentative date for the finals is Sunday, March 22, at Cypress Gardens, which is co-sponsoring this year's contest with the Winter Haven (Fla.) Chamber of Commerce. The five finalists and the colleges which they represent are Sherry Dye Baird, Lebanon, Tenn.; Birmingham — Southern; Jeanie Carroll, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Indiana University; Carolyn Lawrence, Portsmouth, Ohio, Ohio University; Cindy Lee, Montgomery, Ala.; Auburn University and Miss Griffin. Miss Lawrence and Miss Lee were also unanimous choices.

All of the girls have won an all-expense trip to Winter Haven and will compete for a $100 scholarship which goes with the title of Miss Cheerleader U.S.A. This scholarship is awarded by the U.S. Cheerleaders Association. The winner and first runner-up will also receive trophies.

Colleges and universities throughout the nation submitted photographs of their prettiest cheerleaders and judging was done from photographs and extracurricular activities alone. Final judging will include performance, stage appearance and poise.

When asked about her experience and travels as a cheerleader for APSC, Judy commented that the upcoming trips to Florida would be the highlight of her career as a cheerleader.

"Our trip to Louisville, Ky., for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, small college division, Tournament last year stands out as the most memorable trip for a sports event."

Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffin, will be accompanied on the trip by APSC's cheerleading corps and Mr. and Mrs. John Hancock. Mrs. Hancock, secretary to President Joe Morgan, is cheerleader sponsor.

"They are a riot," was Judy's comment about the trips the cheerleaders take to APSC's road games.

"Some of the girls try to sleep but we start singing or talking and everyone joins in."

"The trips are never boring and, although we lose sleep now and then, we are never sorry that we made the trip," Judy concluded.

The Stewart County coed is majoring in elementary education and is a member of the Baptist Student Union group and the Epistol Club.

She has been selected by popular vote of the students as Iru Queen (prettiest unmarried girl on campus) and was the 1963 Queen of Hearts. Judy is presently completing her second year as a member of the cheerleading squad.

Coed Of Week

COED OF THE WEEK — Miss Becky McCarty has been chosen as this week's selection of coed of the week. Becky, a 5-7 blue-eyed blonde, measures 37-24-36. She is a senior from Clarksville, majoring in business administration with a minor in health. She is a cheerleader, a member of Epistol Club and this year's First Lady. Her hobbies include swimming and dancing. (Staff Photo by Billy Hutten)

Winter Quarter Gone But Results Remain

Another quarter of college life at Austin Peay State College will draw to a close this week. All of the students at APSC are vigorously involved with studying for finals and packing for the vacation between the Winter and Spring Quarters.

Reviewing this past quarter reveals that APSC has taken many steps forward in her ever increasing desire to provide the students with the best education possible.

Academically, the number one event was the announcement that an enlarged graduate program would be initiated at the college beginning in the Fall Quarter of 1964. A total of eight new majors on the graduate level will be offered plus a graduate degree in guidance and counseling.

Undergraduate students may now seek a degree with a major in psychology, which is another first at APSC.

Athletically, the college produced one of the finest, if not the finest, basketball team in the school's history. Picked by many of the experts for the cellar in the Ohio Valley Conference, the roundballers finished in a fourth place tie in the OVC. This was the Governors first season in the major college conference and their performances left many people, fans and foes alike, talking for days after each game.

Three members of the varsity basketball team, Blakey Bradley, Jimmy Darke and Seldon Sled, received broad recognition for their achievement in making the All-OVC Academic squad for their work in the classroom as well as on the basketball floor.

Extracurricular activities saw the approval granted for dances to be held in the cafeteria as a first at the college. As a result, those who attend the dances are enjoying themselves more because of the atmosphere and the surroundings. Comments from the organizations who have sponsored dances in the cafeteria indicate that attendance has picked up considerably and more dances are being planned as a result.

The Lettermen, a nationally known recording group, are returning to APSC for a concert March 19. The group appeared at the college last April and the demand for their return was such that the freshman class and the college agreed to sponsor them for a return performance.

Even with all of the above the most outstanding achievement which occurred at Austin Peay State College during the Winter Quarter was the announcement of the proposed long-range building program now underway at the college.

Plans call for a total of over $12 million to be spent during the next 10 years at APSC for additions and improvements. This program of construction was initiated on January 23 when ground was broken for a new men's dormitory which will be ready for occupancy October 1, 1964.

To say that the Winter Quarter at Austin Peay State College was an eventful one would be a gross understatement. To mention all of the events which took place during this period would be impossible. The events which have been mentioned are just a few of those undertaken by the administration, staff, faculty and students in their effort to place Austin Peay State College at the top of the colleges and universities in the state and Mid-South.

Fraternities—Good And Bad

By JUDY TROTTER and SAMMY McINTOSH

In the past, some students have advocated the establishment of sororities and fraternities of sororities and fraternities on the APSC campus.

The students were asked if they thought that a fraternity or a sorority would be beneficial to the college and the students.

Linda Spees, freshman, health and physical education, Cumberland Heights: "They show good feelings about them. They are good, as a way of encouraging students to strive to better themselves.

"Some are unfair because they try to distinguish a difference in the class of people."

Phillip Batson, freshman, undecided, Cunningham: "I feel they would be unfair to the commuting students as most sororities and fraternities require the members to live on campus."

Rose Garrett, freshman, pre-med, Erin: "I feel a campus is just as nice, if not nicer, without them. Although I have never belonged to one, I believe we are just as well off without them."

Gail Godwin, sophomore, business education, Linden: "I think sororities and fraternities would be very beneficial."

Linda Spees, freshman, health and physical education Woodlawn: "I think they are all right as long as they do not cause a class distinction among students."

Linda Yarbrough, freshman, health and physical education, Cumberland Heights: "They show too much partiality among students, and I think that it is un-

Music Department

By JAN LEFFWICH

The music department does not boast of culinary skills, but it does have a Hatz variety of musicians. They play all the performing areas—piano, vocal, woodwind, brass and string. The department members are performers in their fields.

There are seven fulltime members, all men: Dr. Thomas W. Cowan, professor of music and chairman of the music department; Charles H. Ball, assistant professor; Peter F. Cook, Jr., assistant professor; Dr. Solie Fort, associate professor; Willis Hackman, assistant professor; W. Jackson Hurt, associate professor; and Dr. Aaron Schmidt, associate professor.

There are 45 music majors and a number of students taking private lessons as electives. If you doubt that these can make 57 different sounds, just visit the basement of the Clement Building. What you hear may not be exactly harmonious, but it is sure to make you think that there are a considerable number of instruments being played—all at the same time.

The main course of a music major's diet is hours of practice. Stand in the halls between the practice rooms and you will hear the notes and voices that leak out under the doors. Or, if timidity keeps you back, walk past the building slowly. Drums and trumpets come through fine, but you will have to listen carefully to hear a piano sounding the same notes over and over and over.

The music student's dessert is served through several performing organizations: band, college choir, orchestra, madrigal singers, stage band, brass choir and clarinet choir. The department is widely known and draws its students from several states in the North and East as well as from the surrounding area.

Dr. Cowan says that the music department is due for honor soon. It was inspected by the National Association of Schools of Music last May and will be accepted into associate membership in the organization before fall. NASM is a highly restrictive accrediting agency. Although it will be the fifth member in Tennessee, Austin Peay State College will be the first among the state supported colleges.

Eventually, all four-year APSC students meet the department through the music appreciation course. If the unusual combination of sounds missing in the basement of the Clement Building could be arranged in order, perhaps the music appreciation classes could learn to appreciate it. The performance of the department in musical entertainment for the students is more easily appreciated. The concerts and the marching band add culture and pleasure to campus life.

By TONY BOEHMS

Spring Sports Preview

Fifty-six spring sports events are on tap for the Austin Peay State College Governors, according to Dave Aaron, director of athletics.

Five of the 30 events will get underway in the next 17 to 18 days in three of the four sports in which the Govs participate. The baseball line will host Purdue University for a two-game series Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28.

This year's contingent will miss the services of last season's five leading batters and ace pitcher Ken Connelly, Catcher David Mason, outfielder Jackie Winders and Connelly were All-OVC choices last year.

Shortstop Rodney Rogers will be the Govs' mainstay according to veteran coach Leon Sandifer. Rogers hit .319 last year after a sensational freshman season when he batted .364.

TURNING TO TRACK, the Govs' triathletes are scheduled to meet Valparaiso University of Valparaiso, Ind., Saturday, March 28 at 1 p.m. in Municipal Stadium.

The success of coach Gordon Schultz's squad will depend highly on last season's standouts Blakey Bradley, Riley Holliday and Dave Satterfield and some of the track scholarship-holders led by distance runner Tom Hiddle.

GOLF-WISE, the Gov linksmen will open their 1964 campaign Friday, March 27, at the Fort Campbell course by hosting Belmont and David Lipscomb in a triangular affair.

The following day the golfers will trek to Jackson to face the University of Missouri, Florence State and Union University in a four-way match.

Qualifying for the squad began February 25 in individual golf plays six rounds or 108 holes of golf to seat individuals for the March 27 opener.

Scores posted to date show Joe Young and A. B. Slaco are the leading contenders for the top spot vacated by graduated Walton Smith.

Smith led last year's club with a 74.3 average while playing the No. 1 spot. He won size of 11 individual matches recovering 27 of 36 possible points during the season.

THE TENNIS TEAM will not open as early as the other three spring sports entries as the netters do not open until April 6 when they host Western Kentucky.

Scholars, Stars Lead Govs

The 1963-64 basketball campaign for APSC is now history, but this year's squad will go down as one of the most outstanding clubs in the school's annals.

Three cagers of the Gov squad were honorees members of a five-man All-Ohio Valley Conference Academic basketball team and star Doug Stamper was cited as a member of the All-OVC unit.

Junior guard Jimmy Darke led the hometown academic wizard kids with a 3.49 scholastic average, followed by Seldon Siedt with a 3.27 grade-point ratio and Blakey Bradley capped the other spot on the team with a 3.0 mark.

Tennessee Tech's Robert Ward and Western Kentucky's Charles Shuffield completed the All-OVC Academic team. STAMPER was named to the All-OVC team by a vote of the league coaches for his brilliant display of basketball talent this season.

He was joined on the all-star club by Jim Jennings and Stewart Johnson, Murray Stater, Harold Sergent and Henry Akin, Morcehead State; Darrel Carrier, Western Kentucky; Ed Bodkin, Eastern Kentucky; Houston Frazier, East Tennessee; Larry Stewart, Middle Tennessee; and Bobby Young, Tennessee Tech. Jennings, 6-6 Racer performer, was picked as OVC Player of the Year.

Stamper, a classy floor general, has been called by many observers as the best backcourt man in the league and at the same time removed from the group of players known as gunners. Playing his final year of collegiate basketball, Stamper built his career total of 1,195 points, second best for three-year Gov cagers.

His 80.4 percentage from the free throw line placed him among the OVC's top charity tossers.

APSC Places Three On All-Academic Squad Bradley, Darke, Sledt On Team

In its first season of Ohio Valley Conference basketball Austin Peay State College finished in a tie for fourth place but captured the academic laurels by placing three men on the OVC All-Conference Academic basketball team.

Tennessee Tech and Western Kentucky furnished the other two members of the team.

To qualify for nomination to this team a player must be a regular member of the school's varsity squad and must have maintained an average of "B" or better in the second part of the 1962-63 school year or the first half of 1963-64 or throughout his college career. The names of the all-conference team will be submitted as nominees for the All-America Academic Team which is sponsored by the College Sports Information Directors Association.

Top man on the quiz kid team is sophomore guard Robert Ward of Tennessee Tech with a 4.0 quality point average for the Spring Quarter. Ward is majoring in mathematics and has a career average of 3.75 out of a possible 4.0. Ward is a resident of Sparta, Tenn.

Austin Peay State's Jimmy Darke of Clarksville, Tenn., is the other guard on the team. Darke, a junior majoring in health and P.E., came through with a 3.49 percentage for the first term of this school year.

The pivot spot went to 6-5 junior Seldon Siedt of APSC and Mayfield, Ky. Siedt, a major in health and P. E., posted a 3.27 average for the first term of the year. He had the best shooting average on the Governor squad hitting on 54 field goals out of 116 shots for a 46% percentage. The front line positions are manned by Charles Shuffield of Western Kentucky and Blakey Bradley of APSC. Shuffield is a sophomore majoring in business and has maintained a 3.3 average for his college career. Bowling Green, Ky. is his home. Bradley is a senior from Clarksville, Tennessee majoring in health and P.E. He earned a 3.0 average during the first quarter of the year.

Freshman Basketball Team Unpredictable But Entertaining

Austin Peay State College's 1963-64 freshman team will probably go down in APSC annals as the most unpredictable yearling team ever.

After starting the season losing 3-4 record and amassing a 3-4 record, the baby Govs lost their "touch" and dropped five in a row. However, L. L. Sanders' crew which is sponsored by the Campaign on a high note capturing the last five encounters.

Finishing the year with an 8-9 record against the most rugged competition ever, the first-year men bowed out of their initial collegiate year with a shocking 84-71 victory over Western Kentucky, considered by many as one of the top frosh clubs in the country.

Individually, 5-10 guard Benny Morgan from Advance, Mo., led the scoring with 321 points for an 18.3 average. Morgan also posted the squad's best free throw percentage mark as he hit 84 of 97 for a brilliant .866 percentage.

Melvin Van Hooser, 6-4 performer from Greenville, Ky., and Hal Jackson, 6-5 cager from Bond, Mo., had 15.0 and 14.2 scoring averages respectively.

Do you have aspirations to run track or play tennis this spring? If so, contact Gordon Schultz, head track coach, or Marion Carr, tennis coach.

Schultz extends a special invitation to all prospective tracksters to see him by Thursday. He explains, "We want to encourage anyone interested in trying out for the team to see the coaching staff by Thursday as we plan to get underway Monday, March 16."

Carr, on the other hand, expects to begin tennis qualifying at the outset of the Spring Quarter and interested netters should contact him either by the end of this week or as early as possible following registration day.
