

Fott Appointed To Chair

Dr. Solie Fott has been appointed chairman of the department of music at Austin Peay State University.

A member of the music department faculty since 1955, Fott was promoted to associate professor in 1961 and professor in 1966.

Fott will begin his four-year term appointment effective Sept. 1. He replaces Dr. Thomas W. Cawson, professor of music, who will return to full-time classroom teaching to coincide with Fott's appointment.

The new chairman received recommendations from the department of music faculty, the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and the vice president for academic affairs before being appointed by Riggs.

Fott, 41, has a long list of credentials in music and higher education.

He holds B.S. and B.A. degrees from the University of Chattanooga and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from George Peabody College for Teachers.

The native of Chattanooga served as president of the Faculty Senate 1975-77, chairperson of the University Assembly 1977-78 and is chairman of the faculty subcommittee to the joint Presidents Council of the State Board of Regents.

His honorary and professional memberships include Music Educators National Conference, Phi Mu Alpha, American String Teachers Association, Tennessee Band and Orchestra Association and the National Academy of Recording Arts.

Fott has performed as a violinist in the symphony orchestras at Chattanooga and Nashville.

Votes Not Final Word

By JAN AYLSWORTH

In last Wednesday's Student Government Association elections for class officers and senators, Robert Martin received 63 votes, and Michie Honeycutt received 45 votes.

However, as of press-time, the official result of that contest is pending upon the decision of the Student Tribunal which was to have met yesterday.

Shortly after the voting results were announced, two protests were filed with the Election Board. Jim Holder alleged that candidates Jill Brinkley, Cathy Allsopp, Pat Phillips, Peggy Wilson, Kathy Mitchell and Anna Roberts had violated the campaign rules by appearing within 50 feet of the polls during the elections.

Holder's complaint was ruled invalid by the Election Board due to improper submission, but the board was faced with the question "Is a candidate's presence considered active campaigning?"

In the senior class presidential race, recently-elected Junior Class President Jill Brinkley, filed a formal complaint against Martin citing four points.

1. Martin, a candidate in the only contested race, had been seen by several of the poll workers in the immediate vicinity of the polls for most of the day.

2. It was reported that a girl who was marking her ballot was seen whispering to Martin.

3. Martin was overheard presumably campaigning for a write-in candidate for senior class senator in front of the polls.

4. A member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity was seen returning to the poll from the "Pike corner" with his ballot in his hand. Martin was seen in the general area from which the person was returning, but it was not known whether or not he had been talking to him.

The Election Board dismissed points two, three and four because those points had been based on circumstantial

Schlafly Declares That People Are Not Equal

By KATHI BENNETT

Phyllis Schlafly, leading spokeswoman for Stop ERA, opened a speech presented to some 1,200 persons at Austin Peay State University on May 9, by saying "The Equal Rights Amendment states that 'the equality of rights under the law will not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on the basis of sex.'"

Schlafly said that "people are not treated equally when, in fact they are not equal. We are entitled to put (people) in different groups when in fact they are different, or the majority in that group are different, and then treat them equally within that group."

The difference in the laws for man and women are based on sexual differences which are proven, Schlafly said, stating that first, women have babies, and that second, the Air Force Surgeon General has found that women on the average have only 60 percent of the strength of men.

"It is highly unfair to treat men and women as if these differences do not exist," she said.

Schlafly stated the opinion that the Equal Rights Amendments will have no effect on employment laws. She pointed out that the present law states that job discrimination on the basis of sex is illegal.

Schlafly cited a case in which it was ruled that AT&T must grant back pay to women who have been discriminated against on the basis of their sex, both in wages and promotion, and "even back pay to women who had not applied for jobs because they didn't think they they would get them."

Schlafly made an analogy between the Equal Rights Amendment and Title IX, which presently provides for women's equality in all schools and universities which receive federal funding. When Title IX was passed by Congress, several exceptions were made, including ones for all male or all female schools, schools of divinity and dormitories for student housing, Schlafly said.

She pointed out other instances in which

Student To Direct Production

The AP Playhouse spring production of Bill Manhoff's comedy, "The Owl and the Pussycat" will open on May 24. Directed by Joan Harris, the play showcases two characters, Doris Wilkins and Felix Sherman played by Diana Wells Coady and Brent Stoker.

This show represents Coady's premier performance on the APSU stage after high school and summer stock theatre experience. She describes Doris as a "hooker who really wants to better herself, but she really doesn't know how to go about doing it." A freshman majoring in social work, Coady helps her understand the part better. "I think I have enough empathy to appreciate some of the problems these people have. I relate to Doris very well."

Stoker related, "Perhaps I'm contrasting it to the part I had in 'The Amorous Flea' which is so foreign to anything I've ever done. This seems so much easier."

He described Felix as "an intellectual weirdo, the kind that wears the woolen sweaters with the leather patches on the elbows."

Most of Stoker's previous experience has been in Nashville. "I've done five or six shows for Theatre Nashville and a couple of shows for Ensemble Theatre." He has recently appeared in the AP productions of "The Skin and Our Teeth" and "The Amorous Flea."

"The Owl and the Pussycat" will run Wednesday, May 24 through Saturday, May 27 in the theatre of the Margaret Fort Trabert Art and Drama Building at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.50, and reservations are available by calling 64-7371.

Welch To Perform Thursday

Singer Bob Welch will appear in concert on Thursday May 18 at 8 p.m. in the Winfield Dunn Center. Welch's first and only album, French Kiss, is certified platinum having sold over one million copies.

His hit singles off the album are "Sentimental Lady" and "Ebony Eyes" with "Dancing Eyes" to be released soon. The Dunn Center concert marks Welch's first appearance in this area.

Formerly of Fleetwood Mac, Welch will appear with a back up band.

Appearing with Welch will be singer Robert Palmer, who has released three albums. Opening the show will be the Pousette-Dart Band from New York.

Tickets are on sale for $6 and $7 the day of the show at the desk at the University Center, Newt's Record Shop and Sound Seventy in Nashville. Tickets may also be purchased at the Dunn Center for $7 the night of the concert.

Schlaflly

Congress was forced to make exceptions after Title IX had been passed, such as in the case of father-son and mother-daughter events at schools and fraternities and sororities.

"When dealing with a statute passed by Congress, you can correct the problem in a matter of a few months, but if you're dealing with the Constitution, there is no way to change it except by the long, agonizing process of another constitutional amendment."

Schlaflly said that there is no limit to the extremist interpretations which may possibly be made by the federal government of the ERA. "They simply are determined to force us all into the unisex mold, because that is the kind of society they want."

In a question/answer session Tuesday afternoon, Schlaflly indicated that if the ERA is passed, she feels that things like boy's choirs and boy's glee clubs will be done away with. These and other such "pretty and ridiculous" things are what the ERA will result in, according to Schlaflly.

In the question/answer session, Schlaflly quoted election. However, point one once again raised the question of a candidate's presence at the poll constituting actual campaigning.

Based on the fact that in the election rules, the candidate was not strictly governed and both candidates had the same opportunity to observe the polls, the board ruled unanimously that Martin had violated no rules by his presence.

According to David Mason, president, Brinkley appealed the decision of the election board to

Boehms referred the final ruling to the Student Tribunal which was to have reached its decision yesterday.

In other contests, Tom Wall was elected senior class vice president with 94 votes, and Jim Holder defeated Rebecca Rochelle 2 to 22 in a run-off election for senior class secretary. Both had been write-in candidates.

Those elected as senior class senators were Mark Sprague, 73; Jim Robertson, 70; and Randy Butler, 61.

Bill Brinkley was elected junior class president with 37 votes, and Jay Litton was elected vice president with 33 votes. Jim Mink was elected secretary with eight votes.

Elected to junior class senate positions were Bobbie Harjo Caudill, 33 votes; Larry Evans, 33; Randy Earhart, 25; and Lesh Rawlins, 26.

Pat Phillips was elected sophomore class president with 50 votes, and Tim Miller received 40 votes and was elected sophomore class vice president. With 40 votes, Kathy Mitchell was elected sophomore class secretary.

Those elected sophomore class senators were John Wood, 53 votes; Glenn Edgin, 43; Diane Blevins, 42; Anna Roberts, 42; and Peggy Wilson, 40.

Governors Leadership

6 Named To Society

Six students have been elected to membership in the Governors Leadership Society, Austin Peay State University's leadership honorary.

Four seniors and two juniors were chosen for their outstanding and diversified contributions to the many phases of university life, according to Malcolm Glass of the department of English.

The six are:

Katrina Langford Carter, senior, 217 Castle Heights, Clarksville. She is a graduate of Clarksville High and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Langford of 1100 Hillwood Drive. Her husband's name is Michael.

Barbara Ellen Gasser, a junior from Evansville, Ind. She is a graduate of Benjamin Boone High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gasser of 1602 South Morton Ave.

Michael Ray Mayfield, a junior from Evansville, Ind. She is a graduate of Montgomery Central High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ray Mayfield, Route 1.

Amey Susan Posey, a senior from Guthrie, Ky. She is a graduate of Todd County High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Posey.

Cathie Jane Sawyer, a senior from Clarksville. She is a graduate of Clarksville High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sawyer, 2075 Landon Road.

Benjamin Frank Skinner, a senior from Cunningham. He is a graduate of Montgomery Central High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey P. Skinner, Route 1.

To be considered for membership in the leadership honorary society, a student must rank academically in the upper one-third of the junior or senior class, and the student must be a participant in at least two or three of five areas: scholarship, athletics, student government and campus organizations, publications and the arts.

'Deaf Ear' Tale Told

The Austin Peay State University Opera Theatre, under the direction of Dr. Sharon Mahey, will present two one-act chamber operas on May 26 and 27 in the Clement auditorium at 7 p.m. The Opera Theatre has been widely acclaimed for its recent productions and has toured throughout Middle Tennessee under the sponsorship of the Tennessee Arts Commission.

Each year members of the Opera Theatre perform for area students as well as present evening performances for the general public.

This spring the Opera Theatre will stage a one-act drama, "Tale for A Deaf Ear." This opera about contemporary society had its premiere at the Berkshire Music Center in 1957 and has enjoyed many performances since that time. The composer, mark Bucci, is an American who has gained recognition for his opera and orchestral writing.

Also on the double bill is a comedy, "A Faun in the Forest," by Gerald Cockshott, a British composer. This one-act farce, set in Medieval times, was first performed by the After Dinner Opera Company in 1959 and has had considerable success in regional opera productions.

Sets will be designed by Olen Bryant and Lewis Burton of the APSU art department, and Ed Goddard of the APSU music department will add his expertise to the staging of "A Faun in the Forest."

The cast of both operas is made up of APSU voice majors as well as professional singers. Admission to both performances is $1.50 for adults. Students are admitted free. Tickets may be purchased by calling the APSU music department (644-7131) or from members of the cast.

FAUN IN THE FOREST—Stanley Jenkins and Denise Pratt rehearse for "A Faun in the Forest" to be presented May 26 and 27.

Geology Gets Collection

A rock and mineral collection has been donated to the department of geology at Austin Peay State University by Lucy Anna Cooke, Clarksville, in memory of her mother, Lucy Townes Cooke.

The collection was started by Alfred Townes, Lucy Anna Cooke's great grandfather, in the mid 1300's, and through the years more samples were added by Alfred Vesperus Townes, her grandfather.

Both of these men played an important role

Schlafly In Question

Just How Solid The Foundation?

Despite the attitude that Phyllis Schlafly would present the "other side of the issue," her appearance last Tuesday at Austin Peay left many questions unanswered.

In analyzing Schlafly's argument, one finds several inconsistencies. In answer to a question after her speech, Schlafly indicated that she and her followers are not tax exempt and therefore are not required by law to disclose their finances.

However, Schlafly failed to mention that many of the opponents of the Equal Rights Amendment are either sponsored or endorsed by churches. Churches, unless some law has changed, are tax exempt in the United States, and therefore should not use church funds to endorse their political beliefs.

A number of buses bearing on their sides the names of certain churches throughout Tennessee were used to transport persons to and from Schlafly's speech at Austin Peay. It seems, in such instances, that tax exempt church funds were in fact used by Schlafly's followers to support her appearance.

It was likewise not pointed out in Schlafly's answer to the question on tax exemption that she was the founder of Eagle Forum, a tax exempt conservative organization which has come out strongly against the ERA and abortion.

Very little information can be found on the finances of Eagle Forum, except that it is a tax-exempt organization, but it was reported in the April, 1978 edition of Redbook that Schlafly is and has been for some 10 years the president of Eagle Forum.

Another point Schlafly brought out in her speech was that in no place in the Constitution is specific reference made to "man, woman, male or female." Schlafly went on to say that at one time, the word male was in the Constitution, but that part of the Constitution is no longer in effect.

However, upon examination of the Constitution of the United States, one finds that in Article II, which deals with the roles of the president, it is stated that "he shall hold his office . . ." This seems clearly to indicate the male sex, not the female.

In her speech, Schlafly accused the federal government of wanting to turn the United States into a unisex society, saying "they simply are determined to force us all into the unisex mold because that is the kind of society they want."

It seems that, in using such a statement, Schlafly was unfairly assessing the values of the United States government. Chief Justice Warren Burger most likely would disagree with any such accusation, and most certainly persons like President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter would disagree. In using such a statement, it seems that Schlafly was resorting to the lowest of tactics to support her cause, perhaps out of lack of any better support.

Schlafly stated that it is the obligation of a husband to support his wife, saying that a wife has the right to take care of her own baby in her home if she chooses. It seems, however, that Schlafly has failed to acknowledge the fact that some women want to get out of the home and have an outside job, as indeed Schlafly appears to do.

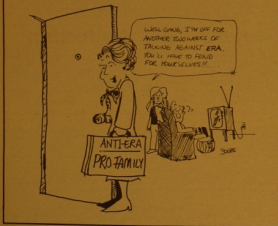

At one point, Schlafly indicated that her children were grown and out of the home before she began working outside the home. However, Schlafly was actively working in Barry Goldwater's campaign for president in 1964. Her youngest daughter is presently an undergraduate at Princeton University, thus, in 1964, she would have most likely still been in grammar school.

Perhaps one of the most ridiculous points in Schlafly's speech concerned the issue of abortion. According to Schlafly, the Equal Rights Amendment will make all United States laws completely equal to both sexes.

Schlafly stated that because abortion affects only women, it might be found by congress or the courts to be discriminatory against males, and therefore unconstitutional. She did, however, acknowledge the fact that, if the ERA passes, it will give the right of abortion on demand.

Regardless of Schlafly's opinion on what interpretation the Equal Rights Amendment will be given if passed, that question is yet to be answered. It will be up to the courts to decide the exact meaning of the amendment; and therefore, no one can conclusively say what the ERA will in fact do. This was one of Schlafly's points.

In the past, the courts have not interpreted any constitutional amendment to the extremes to which Schlafly alludes, and it seems that there is no reason to think that this amendment will be any different.

Roll Over, Beethoven

Either Austin Peay should provide several students with earplugs and aspirin, or the decibel level of outdoor concerts could be reduced.

Taking into account the volume of recent concerts, listening to the performances has been anything but optional. The concerts take place in the natural bowl in front of the University Center where they are easily accessible to all students including the ones who are having classes in the Clement Building.

The music has also been heard as far away as Sevier Hall, so it is not difficult to imagine how loud the noise is in the Clement Building.

Perhaps the group of students most adversely affected is the music majors. Even though Beethoven went deaf at an early age, he already knew how to compose. These students are just learning.

One of the activities required of music majors is that of musical dictation in music theory classes. The professor plays a selection, and the students write the notes and rhythm.

Sometimes the students are required to identify four voices in the dictation, and the noise coming from the bowl can be very distracting at the least.

It becomes particularly annoying when a bowl performance coincides with a music theory test.

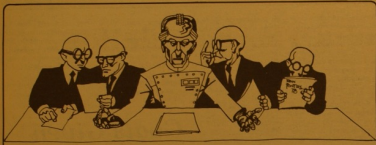

The daytime complications are one matter, but the problem midnight madness. Some students find the wee quiet hours of the morning an ideal time to sleep to study. ("O, say can you sleep, by the dawn's early light?")

We are not saying that such performances have no place on a university campus and should be abandoned in favor of a rigid academic life.

Mike Carrier, director of the University Center, has done an excellent job of bringing extracurricular entertainment to the students of APSU. He has brought that added plus of the hidden curriculum to this campus.

These public concerts offer students a change to witness a live concert free, to take a break from an otherwise ordinary day and to mingle with other students while enjoying the reasonably fresh air and sunshine.

We are saying that a little consideration for the students and professors who choose not to attend the concerts could be exercised.

Letters To The Editor

Remark Provokes Response

Dear Editor:

After reading Bobby Jones' article (Bugs Bug Dorm, May 3) I feel that some rebuttal must be made on the behalf and interest of Custodial Personnel.

Had Ms. Bellar known the full story concerning attempts to control and rid not only her quarters, but the buildings on the entire campus of termites, possibly she would not have been so quick to make a generalized shotgun criticism statement to the press. "It's just terrible that maintenance does not take care of anything."

I doubt very seriously if Ms. Bellar or 75 percent of the campus for that matter, are aware of the many unpleasant and often disgusting tasks that custodial personnel are subjected to; tasks that range from cleaning up human excrement in shower stalls to mopping up urination next to a dormitory set in a dormitory.

Possibly, As The World Turns, was most interesting that day, but certainly not to the proper receptacle, i.e. the commode.

But Ms. Bellar, Custodial Maintenance Personnel had to take care of these things. They had to clean up after the aforementioned disgusting incident (SIC), acts.

Most Custodial Personnel could spend an entire day policing up behind those who are either too lazy or don't care, when they clutter up hallways, corridors and balconies with garbage, trash and laundry articles that range from Colonel Sanders chicken boxes clattering, to Modess Nappies clogging.

Ms. Bellar, not only are many of the chores unpleasant and disgusting, but ours is the lowest paid, most criticized, and least appreciated department on campus.

So please Ms. Bellar, when you fire your shotgun of criticism, fire it discriminately and not with wild abandon.

Also Ms. Bellar, know that the custodial department does take care of many, many things that go unnoticed and unappreciated. And that when you do lambast a department, be specific and not generalize. After all, we are human and have feelings too.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Mr. Douglas Gordon's letter to the editor published in last week's issue (May 10) of The All State, where he stated his displeasure in all of the extra-curricular activities on campus this spring.

Mr. Gordon seems to forget that college is a total learning experience, made enjoyable by both curricular and non-curricular activities. Without special activities, like those mentioned in his letter, a student's entire college life would be spent walking back and forth from classes.

It is my personal feeling that the current University Center director has done an outstanding job in providing entertainment for the campus body. He, in conjunction with the SGA, have made this spring quarter a very enjoyable experience.

By the way, Mr. Gordon, all activities are open to anyone on campus, not just students.

Come by sometimes, you may find yourself wanting to cut your own class.

Dear Editor:

It is the consensus of the members of the Women's Action Coalition that the May 10th article "Petition Draws Fire" by Kathi Bennett is a gross misrepresentation of our position. We recognize that there are many sides to any issue and do not expect everyone to have the same perspective. However, we do expect objective, responsible reporting.

We would like to set the record straight by addressing the points raised in the article.

1. Contrary to the statement by President Robert O. Riggs, the major issue is not Title IX compliance. The issue is

Murphy Receives B.S. In Trivia

By ALLEN SCHUBERT

The governor led Mark Murphy and The Whole Monkey Catalog down a hallway. The governor gestured with his mechanical hands. "Mark, you are the epitome of the Bullwinkle Principle."

"Bullwinkle Principle?" Mark raised one eyebrow and lowered the other.

"Please," said The. "Let me answer that-I have a hunch."

The governor and Mark nodded.

"The Bullwinkle Principle is probably based on the twentieth century concept of incompetence, or just lack of competence, overcoming competence."

This principle has been programmed into children by cartoons and reinforced in adults by comedies. The Bullwinkle Principle is somehow related to the Peter Principle."

"Ah!" said Mark. "Being promoted to your own level of incompetence."

Marvelous, simply marvelous," said the governor. "You are both brighter than you appear."

Incompetence does indeed overcome competence. Mr. The, you are indeed a sentient being and quite competent, for a monkey."

You and Mark are a complementary pair."

"Like Starksy and Hatch?" said Mark.

The groaned. The governor tilted his head, then proceeded down the hall.

The tugged on Mark's pant leg. "Who the Hell is Bullwinkle?"

Mark shrugged and whispered, "I dunno."

Mark and The followed the governor into a huge room, huge in length and somewhat so in width, but not in height. At the far end was a long table running widthwise to the room. Several men dressed in suits sat at the table and shuffled papers.

"Wait here until you are summoned," said the governor.

The governor stood behind the center of the table. "Mark Murphy, The Whole Monkey Catalog, the two of you may step forward."

Mark and The stopped a few feet from the table.

The governor unrolled and glanced at a scroll. "For deservances and embarrassments to the Diversity of Apoplexy, we are hereby forced to graduate you after one year of attendance at our institution. If there were alternative courses of action available to the one now initiated, such action would have been taken. We therefore take great relief in awarding each of you Bachelor of Science degrees in Trivia."

The governor picked up diplomas, one in each hand, and gave them to Mark and The. The room lights dimmed, with the exception of the exit sign over the door they had previously entered. Mark and The exited through the door.

"Hey," said Mark. "We've graduated!"

"Graduated?" said The. "I never was a student. Just a subject. And I'm not satisfied. I'm sure there is a coverup in here somewhere. Perhaps we are it."

Mark shrugged. "It's no concern of mine. I have to find a job now. But what can I get with a B.S. in Trivia?"

"How about your own television show," boomed a familiar voice.

Mark turned and saw Fat Wizard, Zakia, Serenity Jones, Dew-Ron and Hun Slow. "Television show?"

"Yes," said Fat Wizard. "A network sponsor bought our idea, so we're skipping out on all this to become rich and famous. The show will be called Marcus Murphy, Ph.D."

"Great!" said Mark. "Are you going to join us, The?"

The scratched his head. "Does it pay well?"

"Of course, of course," said Fat Wizard.

The nodded and they all walked down the hallway.

Once outside the building they paused a moment to watch the first light of dawn. Arm in arm, they walked toward the rising sun.

whether or not Dr. Lea Larson was evaluated by the same standards as other faculty members being considered for tenure. Title IX was never mentioned in the petition fact sheets. The quotations from President Riggs were intended to demonstrate the need to retain a strong supporter of women's athletics. It is our contention that Dr. Larson's credentials qualify her for tenure.

2. We see no "degradation" in the fact that Mildred Deason and Leon Sandifer do not hold doctorates. In fact, we are opposed to the terminal degree as a tenure requirement. We feel it only fair, however, that the tenure committees be made up of individuals who met the same criteria which they must utilize. As a matter of fact, there is a proposal to that effect currently before the Faculty Senate.

3. We did not, and do not, feel it relevant to survey the opinions of the entire health and physical education department staff. Again, the issue is how Dr. Larson was evaluated against the tenure requirements. If other staff members have substantiated criticisms of Dr. Larson, then why were they not among the documented reasons for the denial of tenure?

4. Dr. Larson's student evaluation ratings averaged 3.05 overall as stated on the fact sheet. The rating on any given question will be either higher or lower than that figure. That is the nature of any such average. We would, however, like to know how much emphasis is put on student evaluations in tenure decisions as a whole.

5. If it is true (as Dr. Brown says) that "there is no obligation on the part of either individuals or committees to give written reasons" for tenure decisions, then we feel that such an obligation should be instituted.

Anyone deserves to know the reasons for her or his dismissal. That information is neither privileged nor confidential and it is surely the right of the subject of the comments to disclose them to whomever she or he see fit.

6. Dr. Larson's vita is indeed impressive. It was available for public inspection and is subject to verification. The statement that "Larson's qualifications are not really as outstanding as her vita may make it appear" is irresponsible reporting. There is no substantiation given for this claim, nor are those who made it identified.

7. In nine separate instances, Ms. Bennett quotes unidentified persons. We feel that this is a very dangerous practice. Without accountability, criticism has no credence. If their criticisms are true and justified, why did those persons feel it necessary to remain anonymous?

8. We had no intention of making Dr. Larson "look like a lily white sheet." We have not claimed that she is flawless, but rather that she has been unfairly treated. That unfair treatment was perpetuated in the May 10th All State article.

9. We are not trying to "speak for the whole campus," but rather to offer the campus (i.e. the students) an opportunity to speak for themselves. The number of signatures on the petition indicates such a need.

Sincerely,
Women's Action
Coalition

Dear Editor:

Recently, I have heard many students criticize this university and its administration for the placement of one large rock near the north side of the Woodward Library. I am one student, though, who defends this move! Thus this letter.

I, for one, would like to commend those responsible for "our" rock. It is a wise investment. Allow me to explain. Our rock is undoubtedly hundreds of thousands of years old and will more than likely be around for several more hundred thousand years.

Our rock, unlike textbooks, microscopes, good instructors and blackboards, will not, for all practical purposes, wear out or need to be replaced (except in the event of a glacier). Our rock will require a minimum of upkeep and have relatively little need for repairs.

When the cost of our rock and the cost of educational materials are compared against the life spans of each, the saving in dollars our rock will bring will enable us to get another rock!

Goals Given

EDITOR'S NOTE: David Mason, Student Government Association president, outlines his goals for the coming year.

As I reflect on the job I am about to undertake, I can't help but feel a great deal of gratitude—gratitude toward the student body that has overwhelmingly supported my goals for student government.

At the same time I feel somewhat awed by the great responsibility I have assumed. Five thousand students have literally given me the job of working to improve their life at this university. I know God has given me the tools I'll need; only time will tell if He has given me the ability.

I can't control the administration. I can't control the faculty. I can't even control my colleagues in the SGA. But I can control myself. I can guarantee to the student body that I am committed to and will work for everything that I outlined in my campaign.

To start with, I am building a professional and competent cabinet—not a group of title-seekers often known to characterize a SGA cabinet member. I also intend to put competent students, who are willing to speak up, on all university decision-making bodies.

Finally, I will always have an open door and an open ear to the student body.

The philosophy of the Mason administration is commitment; the goal success; and the method work. If we maintain these characteristics the result will be a better life for the APSU student.

I want to thank all those that worked in my campaign. I could not have done it without them. I also want Scott Gunn's supporters to know that they still have an open door to the SGA.

Schlafly — Fort Campbell Offers Program

Senator Sam Irving, saying "The Equal Rights Amendment is the most abusive piece of legislation ever passed by the United States government."

In the conclusion of her speech, Schlafly said that the Equal Rights Amendment will give women no rights, benefits or opportunities they do not already have. "They can't show any benefits of women in the Equal Rights Amendment," she said.

SCHLAFLY

Fort Campbell is the first continental forces command installation to initiate a civil service co-op program designed to provide college students with work experience while they complete their academic degrees, a Fort Campbell spokesman said.

Six Austin Peay State University students are enrolled in a new class at Fort Campbell, Ky. entitled "Work While You Learn."

"Both students and post benefit from the program," explained Bruce

Law, civilian personnel officer. "It's a very economic way to increase our force structure. Students work part time and are initially paid at the GS-3 (government service) wage level while we're receiving a high-level skill in return."

The students' wages help defray school costs, and the program also provides college credit for their work at Fort Campbell. "The program gives students a 'foot in the door' with civil service, so we're also hoping the program will improve the quality of potential employees."

Law said.

AFSU students in the program are Debbie Enger, Vicki Doran, Laurie Schryver and Randy Anthony, Clarksville, Kim Holland, Fort Campbell, and Marilyn Stevens, Opawatomie, Kan.

None of the enrolled students have any experience at competing for a career in the civilian market, so they understand and appreciate the potential benefits of the program, a spokesman said.

"The students were excited about coming to Fort Campbell," Law said.

"When they finish school," Law said, "they can elect to go their own way or straight into the civil service career intern program, which will start many of them off at a GS-5 or 7 level projecting them into GS-11 positions."

The co-op program is open to students in a variety of skills from accounting and clerical to computer technology and engineering. The major concentration of the student will decide if the civil service examination must be taken upon graduation to enter the intern program.

Letters

But less apparent, is the fact that our rock contributes greatly to the physical beauty of our landscape, to the beauty which is necessary to help attract more students to Austin Peay. And, without saying, we need all the students we can get so that one day we will be able to fill up the Dunn Center.

Brewing Building. Our rock is a good idea, and you have, at least, my support for your actions. Also, I urge you, in the future, to make more investments just like this one (although I am sure you would have, even without my speaking up).

For Women

Tennis Finished

By BILLY FIELDS

It had to be sooner or later!

The Lady Goves ended their season Saturday with an impressive sixth place finish out of 12 teams in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Region Two Tournament at Memphis State University.

The female Netters grabbed two fourth place finishes as Teena Brown took fourth in number five singles, and Mabel and Mary Covington took fourth at number three doubles.

Diana Scott ended up sixth at number one, while Marci Woodward was sixth at number three. Mabel Covington finished sixth at number six. Scott and Woodward combined for a sixth at number one doubles.

"The girls were real happy to get the opportunity to play in the event," coach Larry Denyes commented. "They learned a lot from the two and a half days of tennis at Memphis."

The important aspect of the learning experience according to Denyes for the women, is they have realized that they are capable of competing on the same level as UT-Chattanooga and other larger institutions, which have dominated the sports scene for women.

"They learned that the others are within reach," Denyes said.

Women Prove Capabilities

Austin Peay's women's athletic program has finally come to a sport near the top of the heap in the state as the Lady Goves have proven that they are capable of participating with the best on their level.

Austin Peay started out slowly with a long volleyball season, but the Lady Goves got better as the season went along. Betty Williams whipped the squad into a tight unit capable of excellent play. The future holds many bright areas for the volleyball team as four prep stars from across the nation have been signed to represent the Peay next season.

The basketball season for the Lady Goves was more of a dream than reality as they went through a rough season losing more than they won only to walk away from the state tournament with the title.

Janine Cox has to be credited with a superb job as she took a team of freshman sprinkled with a couple of upperclassmen to the first state title in Austin Peay's history. The regional play for the Lady Goves was not the best, but it was proof that the Peay could field a team in national competition.

Track was a little disappointing as only four women ended the year in the "red and white," but the final four put the Goves in a fourth place finish in the state. The Lady Goves have already made a name for themselves on the track as competitors, and Betty Williams expects a lot in the future.

Women's golf was another area which needed improvement in numbers as there were only two members on the team. Sue Fazio and Gigi Armstrong did a good job on the Peay golf team but needed a few more hands to compete. They got some help in the state tournament as they took the title for the second straight year.

Tennis was another dream area for the Peay as they did the unexpected most of the time. This team took second in the state competition and beat several Ohio Valley Conference foes along the way to the finish. The Lady Goves finished sixth in the regionals which was quite an accomplishment considering they were not expected to play in the competition at all.

All in all it has been a year to remember in the women's athletic department. There seems to have been a turn around in performances as the women have gone the distance in representing Austin Peay.

What does the future hold for the women? Nothing but the best as all of the coaches have been busy recruiting top athletes.

The money situation has improved for the women so that they will not hold them back. The new athletic director, Johnny Miller, seems to be a staunch supporter of the women which will mean a lot in the days to come.

Austin Peay is on the verge of many great things in regard to women's athletics. Next season the Lady Goves will compete in the OVC for a conference championship. This will prove to be another boost for the women.

This has been a year for women at the Peay.

Football Signs Quarterback

Bill Saunders, a 6-2, 185-pound All-State quarterback from Aucilla Christian Academy in Monticello, Fla., has signed a national letter of intent with Austin Peay State University.

Saunders accounted for 3,426 yards in total offense and completed 364 of 682 passing attempts as a three-year starter for coach Al Cooke at Aucilla Christian Academy.

Saunders guided his team to a combined 24-7 record the past three seasons, including an impressive 10-1 record and a win in the Florida Bowl his senior year.

Saunders was twice selected to the Class A All-State team and was All-District, All-Appalachian Conference and All-Big Bend three consecutive seasons. An honor student active in numerous school organizations, Saunders was also all-conference as a junior and senior in baseball and basketball. Saunders represented 13th prep or junior college standouts added to the Governor football roster for next season.

Baseball Slates 3 In All-Conference

Gary Baker, Chris Vinyard and David Wright have been named to the Ohio Valley Conference Western Division baseball team.

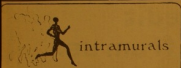

Baker, a senior shortstop from Dayton, Ohio, was fifth in the OVC in hitting with a .351 average and broke the career and single season stolen base records for Austin Peay during this year's season.

tanburg, N.C., ranked 17th among OVC hitters with a .336 average and batted a total of 34 runs home for the Governors.

Wright, a senior pitcher from Asheville, N.C., posted a 4-3 record along with a 3.64 earned run average to be one of the pitchers named to the OVC Western Division team.

The All-OVC team was selected by the coaches of the conference.

intramurals

In the Strohs Superstar competition held last Wednesday in the University Center bowl, Ron Erickson took top honors in the men's division with a time of 33 seconds, while Deborah Wallace captured first place in the women's competition with a 42 second victory. Both were awarded 10-speed bicycles for their efforts.

Intramural softball tournament finals will begin next week on Monday, May 22. Regular season play will continue through this week.

Brown Eyes Have Advantage

(CPS)—Brown-eyed football players may have an edge over blue-eyed players if recruiters pick upon research done on the Pennsylvania State University team.

Studies conducted by three Penn State professors and four graduate students showed that brown-eyed people tend to have faster reaction times than blue-eyed people. When they tested the Penn State football team, their theory again proved out, with dark-eyed team members having the fastest reaction times.

The researchers theorize that the melanin in our eyes, the dark grainy pigment that gives them their color, could be genetically related to the amount of melanin in the nervous system, called neuromelanin, which is believed to have electrical properties that can hasten the speed of neural impulses.

Earlier work in the field was done by Dr. Morgan Worthly, a Georgia State University psychologist who in 1973 published a controversial book, "Eye Color, Sex and Race." He maintained that, while there was no such thing as a superior eye color, there were some personality traits that could be attributed to brown-eyed and blue-eyed people. In general, Worthly said, people with lighter eyes tended to be better at cool, analytical, self-paced tasks while those with dark eyes were more hot-blooded and quicker to react to stimuli.

Thompson Inks Forward

Vince Fenwick, a 6-6, 175-pound forward from Suitland High School in Capitol Heights, Md., has become Austin Pay's sixth basketball recruit for next season.

Fenwick led Suitland to a 15-2 record last season and was the top scorer in Prince Georges County with a 23.7 average.

"Vince has a good shooting touch and handles the ball well for a forward," said Austin Pay's coach Ed Thompson. "We feel he can develop into a good college player with experience."

Fenwick was among five players selected to the All-Metro team this past season. The All-Metro team is restricted to the top basketball players among 125 schools in the Washington, D.D. area. He was a second team All-

Metro choice his junior year.

Fenwick was twice chosen All-Prince Georges County and he was selected most valuable player on his high school team as a senior.

Other players signed by Thompson for next season are 6-1 Gordon Butler, 6-2 Larry Kingery, 6-6 Mark Smith, 6-6 Steve Mitchell and 6-6 Gerald Harris.

If you're close to graduation, you've probably earned enough college credit to purchase a new car from us.

And chances are you're going to need a new car to get you to that new job after graduation.

Which is the reason for the Jenkins & Wynne College Graduate Finance Plan. It makes it easy for you to finance a new Ford or Lincoln-Mercury car or Ford light truck.

THE COLLEGE GRADUATE FINANCE PLAN

When you buy your car from Jenkins & Wynne, you can defer your payments anywhere from 30 days to 120 days. Giving you time to get situated in your new job.

And your monthly payments can be arranged to fit your needs. For example, you might want smaller payments at the beginning. And larger ones at the end. Or, you might want to finance your car anywhere from 27 payments up to 42 payments.

EXAMPLE PLANS

The best thing about our plan is that it's flexible. You tell us how long you want payments deferred. And whether or not you want your notes to escalate. And we will design a plan that meets your budget.

EXAMPLE 1.

Suppose the Ford or Mercury you want prices out at $4,500. You might make a $550 down payment and finance the remaining $3,950 over 42 months. You could defer your first payment for 90 days, thereby skipping the first 3 month's payments. Your total number of monthly payments, then, would be 39.

The notes might escalate as follows: $122.45 for the first 13 months; $134.30 for the second 13 months; and $138.25 for the last 13 months. Here's the breakdown:

CASH PRICE	DOWN PAYMENT	AMOUNT FINANCED	ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE	TOTAL OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS	AMOUNT OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS
$4,500	$550	$3,950	12.75%	39	1-13 $122.45 14-26 $134.30 27-39 $138.25

EXAMPLE 2. PLAN FOR GRADUATES WHO WILL BECOME TEACHERS

Under this plan, you make no monthly payments during the summer months of June, July, or August. Each year you would make 9 payments, from September to May.

If you financed your car over 36 months, there would be a total of 27 payments. The notes might escalate from $148.00 to $184.27 to $215.34 as shown below:

CASH PRICE	DOWN PAYMENT	AMOUNT FINANCED	ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE	TOTAL OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS	AMOUNT OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS
$4,500	$550	$3,950	12.75%	27	1-9 $148.00 10-18 $184.27 19-27 $215.34

The examples chosen here are purely random. You might be interested in a less expensive or more expensive car or truck. And your down payment might vary.

The point is our College Graduate Finance Plan is made on a personal basis and is tailored specifically to meet your needs.

WHO QUALIFIES?

If you're a senior within four months of graduation from a four-year college or university, you qualify. Or, if you'll soon be receiving your ROTC commission, you also qualify. Even if you've already graduated, Jenkins & Wynne will consider you for financing up to one year after graduation.

SPECIAL SHOWING, MAY 20. FREE COFFEE AND DONUTS.

Come by the Jenkins & Wynne Showrooms in Clarksville or Ft. Campbell Gate 2 Saturday, May 20 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon for a special graduate showing of new 78 cars. We'll have some refreshments to help get your day off to a good start.

We invite you to peruse our large selection of Fords, Lincoln-Mercurys, and Ford trucks. And to ask questions about our College Graduate Finance Plan.

NO OBLIGATION

You're under no obligation, of course. But, we strongly urge you to attend. Look at it this way, it might be the best education you'll ever receive when it comes to buying a new car.
