

Campus construction progresses

Workers strive to offset unexpected holdup

Construction and plans for future construction are progressing at a considerably rapid pace on the college campus.

According to President Joe Morgan, "Building of the proposed $1.4 million library structure, though slightly behind schedule due to an unexpected amount of rock found during excavation, is continuing at a satisfactory rate."

The anticipated date of completion for the three-story, 77,000 square foot modular-type constructed building is November, 1966.

Also presently under construction is a new men's residential hall, located behind Ball Village Apartments. Work on this dormitory got underway during the interval between fall and winter.

5 superlatives; 10 beauties

Nominations tomorrow

Nominations for the yearbook superlatives will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the student center tomorrow. Students can nominate their choice for Governor, First Lady, Bachelor of Ugliness, Miss APSC and Iris Queen.

In addition, a new feature has been added to the annual—a section of 10 APSC beauties. These beauties will also be nominated at the polls tomorrow.

Each person may nominate three coeds. Pictures of the top 20 vote-getters will be posted prior to the selection of the final 10. Any unmarried girl who has attended Austin Peay State for one previous quarter is eligible, regardless of other superlatives now or previously selected to.

Qualifications for the other superlatives are:

Governor - the outstanding male senior selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the college.

First Lady - the outstanding senior girl selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the college.

Bachelor of Ugliness - the best all-around personality to be selected from the unmarried men of the sophomore, junior or senior classes.

Miss APSC - the best all-around personality to be selected from the unmarried girls of the sophomore, junior or senior classes.

Iris Queen - the prettiest unmarried girl in the student body.

Beautiful girls in the student body.

Candidates for all of these honors must not be on scholastic or disciplinary probation. A person may not hold the same superlative two years in a row, nor can he hold more than one superlative in the scholastic year, with the exception of the 10 beauties.

Following the outcome of tomorrow's nomination, the names of the candidates who receive top votes will be placed on a ballot, and the final election will be held next Wednesday. Pictures of the nominees for beauties will be placed on display at that time, and each student may vote for his choice of the 10 most beautiful.

Draft board makes changes

Selective Service obligations for students have resulted in several changes which became effective as of January 1.

The Tennessee Selective Service System is now requiring a minimum of 15 quarter hours for a full-time college load count. The Tennessee State Director of Selective Service informed the college last Wednesday that this increase of 15 quarter hours is now a national trend and that many states have already made it effective.

The college is without authority to send any SS-19 form to any local board at any time unless a request is made by the student, the local board or the parent,

Form SS-19 is the official form currently being used by the college for the student to make written application of enrollment status to Selective Service.

Boards in all states of the Union.

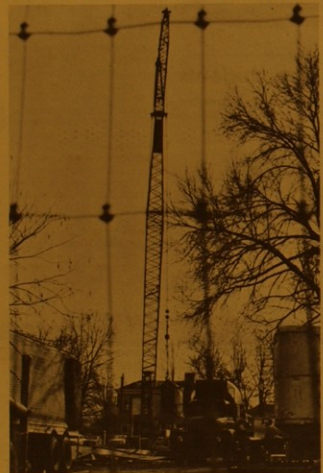

If and when any student reduces his load below the 15 quarter hour minimum and a certification has already been mailed to the local board, the college is obligated to notify the local board of the reduction of the load. Also, if the student fails to register for the following quarter, the local board must be notified.

M. P. Bowman, registrar and dean of admissions, stresses accuracy in filling out the forms and has held several meetings to acquaint the students with specific procedures and their obligations brought about by the Selective Service System requirements.

Snow Dance is scheduled

Do you want to have a snow-blanketed campus next week? If so, bring your skis and sleds to the second annual Snow Dance, sponsored by the ASB. The dance will be held in the gym from 8-11 p.m., Saturday, January 15 (the same date as last year's snowing success). Music will be furnished by a local combo.

PROGRESS ON LIBRARY — Looking like its feathered namesake, this mechanical crane rears its gigantic "bill" over a caterpillar working deep in the pit below. This is just one phase of the construction on the new library. (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

MODERATE TURMOIL? — Patience grew shorter as lines grew longer at winter quarter registration. With students increasing, the gymnasium remaining the same size and selection of classes decreasing, registration hardly seems worth the effort. (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

COMPLETE TURMOIL? — A registration dance always seems a good remedy for curing the day's acquired frustrations. This seems to be a unanimous decision for the dance was well-attended. (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

Registration pains . . .

. . . soon forgotten

Yet another registration

Old headaches, possible cures

Was registration this quarter improved? On the whole, we believe that it was, at least in form. However, this statement does need certain qualifications.

As far as the formalities of registration are concerned, they were about as simple and explicit as could be reasonably expected. Such shortcomings as did exist arose primarily in the part of registration handled by the departments. The following are suggestions for the correction of four prominent problems.

First, the departments that have courses in large demand (such as American history and general biology) should not leave all their cards to be handled by one card bank supervisor. Having several such supervisors, with the numbers of the classes they are handling clearly indicated, would help to end the queues that line up in front of these departments.

Second, not enough sections of required courses (for example, music appreciation) were offered. If the departments feel that they do not have the personnel or the facilities to offer an adequate number of sections, then such courses should not be required of all candidates for a B. S. degree.

Third, there should be more sections of beginning courses offered for those students who could not get into them fall quarter or who are initially entering winter quarter. Looking ahead, more sections of these courses should probably be offered even spring quarter.

Fourth, the possibility of reserving classes should be explored. It would mean a little more work for the teachers, but their concern with the student should reach beyond just a 50-minute lecture three times a week.

One aspect of registration that did show definite improvement was the handling of appointments to register. Using cumulative hours rather than the former "lottery" system of drawing times was, on the whole, fairer to students.

With the improvements suggested above, registration as it now exists should be less of a pain, but the real question is, do we need this sort of registration every quarter? Instead of just improving our present system, why not institute pre-registration? It would not cure all the headaches of registration, but it might be a more effective pain-killer than even doses of our suggested improvements.

From the ASB president's desk

Although the weather here did not coincide with the usual wishes of a "White Christmas," it must have differed even greater in Viet Nam. But the joy of Christmas was extended across the world into southeast Asia to the United States citizens serving their tour of duty in that war-torn area.

Ironically, the spark that warmed the hearts of those troops was started by the unfortunate protest demonstrations and marches, for it was such actions by college students that started a counter action in support of the war in Viet Nam. Austin Peay State played a part in this rebuttal, both locally and state-wide. General Westmoreland, commander of U. S. troops in Viet Nam, and other military leaders and families of those involved, expressed their appreciation to college students like you who have contributed toward making Christmas a joyous occasion. Not only were the gifts welcomed, but, possibly foremost, it was the support expressed by gifts and letters.

All of us have been affected by this matter in some way, be it great or small. But let us hope and pray that next Christmas we do not have to send gifts under such conditions to Viet Nam or destinations beyond.

Open letter to the students

(Editor's note: This letter was submitted by our managing editor as a thought to ponder during the coming year.)

Well, we're back. May the guiding light of intellect lead us once again through the darkness of the forest of ignorance in our never-ending quest for knowledge.

It is a well-known and little-discussed fact that we, representatives of the questioning youth of America, have returned (like Iannings?) to our intellectual mecca not, as some sniveling critics might later, to shrink from the ignoble deed of avoiding the draft or to listen in rapt scorn to some heretical professor who states "maybe there is, and maybe there isn't, but the question is, what difference does it make?" but to be intellectually transmuted simply by being here.

Many ill-informed persons think that behind these walls of wisdom we cower in fright of The World and its Problems. But we can withstand these slings and arrows, because they are wrong, wrong, wrong.

We're here because we like it. We like the classes, the credits, the seating charts, the finals, the required attendance, the closing hours, the rules for "proper" dress. We are fascinated by the cultural opportunities provided on campus, and we indulge in their facilities. And we like all these things so much because they enhance the learning process. It is so much more worthwhile with a few regulations. After all, freedom—even intellectual freedom—must be restricted to be appreciated.

No, we're not cowering. We're preparing. After all, what better way is there to learn about coping with world problems than to take a course in it? College provides excellent vicarious knowledge and prepares us for everything from marriage to the presidency.

And we're sure that somewhere in our quest for The Answer (which we're all striving for, undoubtedly) we are bound to come upon Truth. And armed with that Truth, we, no longer the questioning youth of America, will soar over the wall into Civilization, only to find that the guiding light of intellect has led us out of the forest into the jungle. Shall we follow the light?

The college scene
by GLEE BELL

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI, Student Prinz, Hattiesburg, Miss.—Have you ever missed an event on campus because you didn't know when or where it would be held?

If so, the University Activities Council has a solution for USM students. It is called DIAL—Direct Information Activities Line—a telephone answering service that gives all events on campus for the coming week. The service operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, Daily Tar Heel, Chapel Hill, N. C.—The following nominations for the Awards of the Week have been made:

Cope of the Week: Paris police who ruled that a woman recently found dead in her apartment committed suicide. This was the condition, bound hand and foot, gagged and pinned to the floor with a Japanese dagger through her back. They even made a film to show how it was possible.

Lawyer of the Week: The woman who was being tried in Bristol, Va., for grand larceny. While the jury was out, she changed her plea to guilty. The jury returned with a verdict of not guilty. She is still in jail while court officials try to decide what to do.

White Man of the Week: Marion W. Mills, sheriff of New Hanover County. He said he and six of his deputies joined the Ku Klux Klan to get undercover information, but he ordered them out when some of them "got enthused" with the Klan. One of the deputies had been selected to a state Klan office.

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, Southern California Trojan, Los Angeles, Calif.—The USC School of Medicine has come up with an idea this semester that really would make students take an interest in their class work.

The school has hired scantily clad art models who have been given 100 hours of instruction in how neurological patients behave.

Although the girls have had no medical training, they have been trained to spot a student's mistakes in approach and procedure.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, Cornell Sun, Ithaca, N.Y.—Next year Cornell will institute a special program with a highly selected group of students who would come from the freshman year through to a Ph.D. in six years. The students will be on full tuition scholarship, plus additional support according to needs during their three undergraduate years, and will receive annual $3,000 fellowships for their three graduate years.

SAN JOSE STATE UNIVERSITY, Spartan Daily, San Jose, Calif.—Two students from this university are in the process of suing FBI agents who the students say could them up.

The students were trying to attend a luncheon when they were stopped for not being properly attired.

The guest speaker at the luncheon happened to be Hubert H. Humphrey, vice-president of the United States.

Retarded children aided by APSC workers

Patience, enthusiasm enrich lives of mentally handicapped

by CHERYL BYRD

Companionship, the opportunity to enjoy activities and association with friends, is an important source of pleasure for all human beings. Some Austin-Perry State students have extended this opportunity to a special group of children and in so doing provided a unique public service to the Clarksville community. It began in the fall of 1962 by Jerry Allyn, a student at Austin State, this recreational program for retarded children has been continued every year since. It is under the sole guidance and supervision of volunteers, college students who devote a great deal of time and effort to make the program a success for the children.

Ramona Lumpkin, Helen Mici, Linda Lumpkin and Ann Davis are working with the program this year. Ramona and Helen have worked with the children for two years.

Every Saturday morning from 10 to 11:30 the group meets at the Parrish House, whose facilities are furnished by the Trinity Episcopal Church. The attendance varies, with an average of around 10. Playing ping-pong, pool, listening to records, enjoying the kind of games that all children enjoy, the children in the program derive a great amount of pleasure from these sessions. This is the only recreational program available to the children during the school year, and its value is hard to assess.

For the students who expand their thoughts and energy toward such a rewarding task, to the children who enjoy the activities and time spent with friends and to the whole community this program is of common benefit.

More do's and don'ts

APSC style file

by LINDA NORRIS

Begin the new year right by resolving to select carefully the fashions that are fresh and classic, not styles that will go out after one season. Remember the often extreme styles that appear in some high fashion magazines belong on the models and not on roads around the college campus.

DO wear the new mid-calf, white, "go-go" boots. However, do not wear them with every dress in your wardrobe. Courtyards designed these boots to be worn with short, simple outfits.

DON'T use bright red fingernail polish. This applies to lipstick also. Colors such as these are too harsh for a young woman. There are many new varieties of lipsticks and polishes in pale, pastured and frosted shades. After applying lipstick, use lip gloss for a moist, dewy effect. DO wear earrings. Most college men really like the small, delicate, pierced earrings that are the current rage on most campuses. Stay away from the long, dangling, hoop earrings that make a coed resemble a roving gypsy. The petite, delicate ones are much more feminine.

DON'T let the stirrups show on those stretch slacks. The purpose of the stirrups is to give the slacks a smoother, neater effect. Why give away the secret to the neat look? Hide the stirrups with the new "go-go" boots.

If one of your New Year's resolutions is to balance your budget, then do aim for the simple, classic styles. At the end of this season you won't be left with useless, out-of-fashion fads that cost, but don't pay off.

This is the year to resolve to ignore the more extreme fads and fashions, and to concentrate instead on selecting styles which will enhance your own outstanding qualities.

Exhibit for sale as well as sight

There is in the art gallery a very special showing. From the Ferdinand Roten Galleries in Baltimore, the APSC art department has received a collection of prints which are available to the college student not only for admiration, but for sale. These prints have been priced with the college students' budget in mind, and range in cost from $7.50 to $80.

The exhibit, entitled "Special Young College Show," includes such artists as Baskin and Daumier, and all are prints. The fact that they are prints entitles each buyer to own a modestly-priced original work.

For instance, the "Mona Lisa," by David Ornes, is priced at approximately $20, and is an original wood cut. The image of the picture was carved on the face of the wood block, then 20 copies were printed, and although there is more than one copy, there are

Learning put to practice

64 students teach this quarter

Taking their first step toward active careers in education, 64 APSC students are engaged in student teaching this quarter. Among these seniors and graduate students 42 are teaching in secondary schools and 24 in elementary schools.

Some of the subjects being taught by APSC students at secondary schools are art, history, mathematics, speech, French, music, biology, business, English, health and physical education, industrial arts and home economics.

Students are teaching at many secondary schools, including Clarksville High School, Greenwood Junior High School, Burt High School, Christian County High School and Fort Campbell High School.

Some of the elementary schools participating in the student teaching program are Howell School, Cobb Elementary School, Norman Smith School, Moore School, Barkdale School and Byrns Darden School.

Faculty awards available

Pulbright-Hays awards for faculty members are still available for the 1966-67 academic year, according to Dr. Preston J. Hubbard, professor of history.

A revised list of lecturing and research awards has just been received and may be consulted at the office of APSC faculty Pulbright adviser, Dr. Hubbard, Clement 109.

There are openings in agriculture, American studies (history and literature), anthropology, biochemistry, biology, botany, economics and business administration, education, engineering, English literature, English as a foreign language, geology, home economics, journalism, mathematics, medicine, pharmacy, physics, political science, psychology, sociology and zoology.

Faculty members who wish to receive spring announcements of Pulbright-Hays awards for 1967-68 are advised to request them now from the Committee on International Exchange of Persons, Conference Board of Associated Research Councils, 2108 Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20418.

How can I call that English teacher about my theme... Where does that beautiful blonde live? These are some of the questions that can be answered if you purchase a student directory.

The directory will be published by the members of the Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity. It will go on sale Monday in the student center. The price will be 50 cents.

The directory lists the names and addresses, both home and campus, of all full-time students. It also contains the addresses of the faculty and administration. The directory has been a much-needed item on this campus and it might prove helpful for each student and faculty member to start his own campus "black book" with this directory.

to outstanding college seniors who are considering college teaching as a career.

About 10,000 students apply for the 1,000 fellowships each year. The college faculties nominate the applicants. The chosen seniors then make a formal application, send their college records and write a letter describing their interests and objectives.

Approximately one in seven applicants is selected to be interviewed as Miller was. The recipients will be chosen from this group.

The fellowship provides full support for one year. Miller,

Malone becomes director of alumni

Duties and responsibilities of the Alumni Office have been transferred to Henry C. Malone, President Joe Morgan announced, Sherwin Clift, who served as director of alumni relations for the past five and one-half years, has relinquished the alumni responsibilities so that he may devote more time to his duties as director of public information and adviser to THE ALL STATE and the Farewell & Hall.

Concerning the shifting of duties, Morgan stated, "We are glad to have Mr. Malone, who is an alumna of this college. Sherwin Clift did an outstanding job, but his many responsibilities necessitated the change."

Malone, a 1949 graduate of APSC, was appointed assistant director of field services and alumni relations on July 1, 1965. He will continue to assist in general public relations and relations to high schools and public school systems, which is under the supervision of Earl E. Sexton, director of development and field services. He will carry the title of director of alumni relations and assistant director of field services.

Speaking about the transition, Sexton said, "Malone is well qualified by virtue of his general ability, and as an alumna of this institution, he has great concern for alumni work. This transfer is particularly appropriate since his responsibilities already carry him into the field. "He will be able to work more closely with placement, which is under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Pinckley, thus tying together the functions of field services, alumni services and placement — which are naturally related," Sexton concluded.

The transfer partially meets the recommendation of the 1962 Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools self-study report in that the director of alumni relations should serve on a full-time basis. It fully meets the recommendation that the director should coordinate plans with the director of placement for follow-up study of graduates.

It is hoped that a semi-annual alumni magazine for dues-paying alumni will be one of the immediate direct results of the transfer. If budgetary arrangements can be made, then Clift and Gerald L. Tenney, college photographer, will edit the magazine from material compiled in Malone's office.

A native of Madison, Ky., Malone holds the master of arts degree from George Peabody College for Teachers, receiving his degree in 1951.

He taught at Lewis County High, Hohenwald, (1949-51); served as principal of Gubrie High School, Gubrie, Ky., (1951-58); and held the position of superintendent of Todd County Schools from 1958 until his appointment here last year.

Clift, holder of both the B.S. and M. A. degrees from APSC, began work here Aug. 1, 1960. Under his direction and guidance the APSC Alumni Association has

Applications for ambassador due

Anyone for Poland? The representative from the Community Ambassador Program, 1966, has recently announced that Poland is the country selected as first choice for their 1966 program.

If you have graduated from high school prior to July 1, 1966, you are eligible to submit an application to the Community Ambassador Program. Applications may be obtained from Dr. Joseph Thomas in the foreign language department or from Mrs. Sam Boaz in the library, this month and next.

The training program will differ this year from last. An extensive course in the Polish language must be undergone by the person selected to visit Poland. This language instruction will begin June 5, 1966, so the representative should plan to be absent all summer for his duties as ambassador.

TRANSFER — Relinquishing his duties as director of alumni, Sherwin Clift gives some parting advice to Henry C. Malone, who will assume the duties. Clift now serves as adviser to THE ALL STATE and the Farewell and Hall, as well as director of public information. Malone will serve full-time in this post. (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

Peace Corps representative to visit APSC campus

"We are not trying to build things, we are trying to build a spirit of self-reliance and self-respect in a people who have never known hope." This statement was made by a Peace Corps community development worker. Patience, ingenuity and initiative are some of the qualities which the Peace Corps representative will be seeking in students, while visiting the campus.

The representative will speak and show films in classes and meetings today, tomorrow and Friday. Juniors and seniors are of special interest. Questionnaires and literature are available in the student center and the office of Dr. Tom K. Savage, dean of students.

Lost articles crowd dean out of office

Is it possible that Fibber McGee and Molly have taken refuge in the Dean of Students' Office? Dean Tom K. Savage's closet has become a treasure chest of lost "goodies" that have been found.

An assortment of articles, including jewelry, glasses, wallets, clothing and books, have accumulated. This is indicative of student honesty, as well as of student forgetfulness.

If anyone has a missing possession, a trip by the dean's office may prove profitable. Claiming of articles will at least prevent further cluttering of the office.

Chattanooga adds flavor

The addition of the University of Chattanooga to APSC's football schedule should make Governor football more interesting this fall. In the first place, the Govs' chances for placing higher in the national rankings should be somewhat enhanced by the fact that Chattanooga is considered a major college in the sport of football. Chattanooga, of course, plays such powers as Tennessee, Auburn and Old Miss. Middle Tennessee State also plays the east state team.

Needless to say, if the Governors could slip through the first nine games unscathed and finish up with a convincing conquest of Chattanooga a bowl bid might be forthcoming. However, such speculation is only speculation. The important thing is that Chattanooga is on the schedule.

Schedule remains intact

Other than the addition of Chattanooga the schedule is the same as last fall. However, there will be six games away from Clarksville this fall. The Govs will open up against Eastern Kentucky in what should be a rough game. The Maroons finished as strongly as any team in the conference this fall and are packed with underclassmen.

Snyder and Head claim laurels

When Dennis Snyder and Tommy Head were named to the OVC Holiday All-Tournament team it marked another step forward in the area of sports for APSC. This "Mutt and Jeff" combination, who have captured the eye of many Gov fans, were the only named to the squad on the basis of a one-game performance. The other members of the team had three games in which to show their skill.

APSC fields 'Major' roundball squad

Few fans are aware of the fact that Austin Peay State College is technically in the same ranks with such powers as Vanderbilt, Duke, UCLA and other powers in the basketball world. Although the Governors are classed among the small colleges in such sports as football and golf they jump to major division status when winter rolls around.

Included among the 182 schools which are classified in the major college bracket are the other seven members of the Ohio Valley Conference. APSC and these schools attained this honorable status by playing at least half of their games against major foes.

Austin Peay State will play its third game in six days tomorrow night when the UTMB Vols invade Memorial Gymnasium for a 7:30 contest. The baby Govs will provide action in a preliminary tilt against the Vol frosh.

The Vols, who won 11 and lost 13 under head coach Floyd Burdette last winter, will bring a ball club which has five lettermen from last year's squad as well as a fine group of sophomores. Moore Landers, 6-5, 190-pound forward and Ronnie Armstrong, a 6-2 senior guard, are the team leaders. Landers was the leading scorer last winter with an average of 15.1 points per game, while Armstrong was in the second position with 13.6 markers per contest.

Govs succumb to Maroons

Eastern Kentucky's talented Maroons hit a fabulous 57.4 per cent of their shots as they downed a scrappy Austin Peay unit, 101-96, in the Govs first Ohio Valley Conference game this season. All-American candidate Eddie Wilkerson began a spurt which saw APSC take a five-point lead. However, the Governors went cold once again and were not able to connect with the basket in the last three minutes.

The time remaining was not enough to pull out a victory as APSC met defeat for the fourth time this season against a total of three wins.

Bulletin

Sporadic play in the second half proved disastrous to APSC. Monday night as the Govs lost their third straight contest by a score of 72-68 to the Morehead Eagles. Down by only two points at halftime, the Govs came back from intermission and were not able to hit the buckets before two minutes had gone by and the Eagles had jumped out to a 44-34 lead. More than 10 minutes had passed before the scarlet and white could pull even with the Bob Wright-coached cagers. A seven-foot jump shot by Gene Bodkin led the visitors as they staged a second half rally, taking advantage of a Governor cold spot, to go ahead of the Govs 73-72 with eight minutes to play in the contest. Bodkin finished the night with 29 rallies, hitting on 10 of 15 field attempts during the fiery second half.

The game was filled with excitement and gallant aggressiveness represented by both teams as they evaded the score twelve times, with neither squad being (Continued on page 7, col. 4)

Head, Snyder cop cage honors

The Ohio Valley Conference holiday all-tournament squad was composed of two Austin Peay State College team members, Tommy Head and Dennis Snyder, both having been instrumental in the Governors' climb up the ladder of success this season.

Head, a 6-6 led of Clarksville, tallied 23 points and pilfered eight rebounds to gain a position on the elite team, "Flea," as the small Snyder is frequently called, added 18 points to his credit and brought complimentary remarks from the crowd with several important steals to assist Head in becoming the first APSC player to make the all-tournament team in the two years the Goves have participated.

Lacy, also a senior, who averaged almost 10 points per game last year.

The big man underneath will probably be either Ray Goehring or Micky Martin, both of whom are taller than any APSC player.

Gov coach George Fisher will counter with Tommy Head, Dennis Snyder, Gene Wilkerson, Mel Van Hooser and either Virgil McElfresh or Hal Jackson.

APSC's next game will be in Johnson City Saturday night when the scarlet and white take on East Tennessee State.

APSC goes 1-2 over holiday

by BOBBY ROSA

Although the Austin Peay State basketball team was beaten twice, while winning once, during the holidays the games showed just a sample of what is in store for the Governor fans and opponents. Sparked by determination, the surging crowd battled teams with more heat and supposedly more poise.

George Fisher's outfit, now holding a 3-4 worksheet, was beaten by Lamar Tech 108-81 in the first half of the Texas adventure. The Cardinals subdued the Goves by hitting 52.4 per cent of their shots while the smaller Clarksvillians took rebounding honors, 56-55, Dennis Snyder gathered 20 points while Gene Wilkerson collected 15 markers and 12 rebounds to head

Grid stars sign with APSC

Billy Sellars, quarterback for the Lebanon Blue Devils the past football season, heads a list of 14 prep stars who have been signed to Ohio Valley Conference grant-in-aids by head coach Bill Dupes and his staff.

Sellars, a 5-11, 170-pound quarterback, was named "Midstate Player of the Year" by both Nashville newspapers after he led his team to an appearance in the Clinch Bowl. In addition, he was placed on virtually everyone's all-state teams.

more than four or five points against the Governors' defense. This was in the first half when the Maroons fell back 46-34.

However, the blue-gray men gradually reduced the slim eight point intermission advantage held by the Goves and eventually overtook the Goves.

Scanning the scorebook, center Tommy Head netted 26 markers and controlled the boards with 11 rebounds. Little man Dennis Snyder pumped in 20 while Mel Van Hooser dropped in 18 in turning in a tremendous performance. Gene Wilkerson and Virgil McElfresh completed the double-digit tallying, totaling 14 and 12 respectively.

Fred Johnson, sophomore guard, added Bodkin's sterling showing by rimming 22 points. Bill Walton (17), Richard Clark (12) and 6-11 Carr (11) assisted in raising the Maroons' record to 6-4 overall and 2-0 in conference play.

Holding on to a slim 33-30 halftime margin the Vanderbilt freshman edged a hustling Governor freshman team 73-67 in a preliminary tilt Saturday night.

dional crop of linemen, Bob Ingram and C. H. Edwiler, both 6-3, 205-pound guards, will come to APSC via Columbia Military Academy. Another guard, Steve Keller, who is 5-11 and weighs 195, will graduate from Columbia High School.

At tackle, several "big" boys have cast their lots with the Governors. Largest of all is Tom McDonald, who is 6-4 and weighs 260 pounds. McDonald is attending York Institute. Three other tackles, all weighing more than 225 pounds, are Buddy Calvin of Battle Ground Academy, Danny Brown of Gordon Military, and Robert Henry of Cass High in Georgia.

Two ends, Ken Riddle and Bill Jackson, have also signed. Riddle, who was Keller's roommate at Columbia, is 6-1 and weighs 190 pounds while Jackson, who was the second leading scorer on his team at Fayetteville High, is 5-3 and 200.

Two quarterbacks and two halfbacks are the other signees. Jerry Taylor, 5-10, 170 pounder from Columbia Military, and Dick Boyer, 6-1, 185-pound field general from Acworth High, Ga., both come to APSC as highly touted signal callers. Bob Moulton and Dwight Carroll played for the Springfield Yellowjackets this fall. Moulton and Carroll both ran from the halfback post. Carroll was the leading scorer and was named to several past season honor squads.

Bell named ETSU coach

John Robert Bell, an assistant football coach at Georgia Tech for the past six years, was named head coach at East Tennessee State University Saturday.

Bell succeeds Star Wood in the post. Wood resigned recently after ten seasons at the Bucanar helm, but remained on the ETSU faculty. The new coach will assume his duties February 1.

"We're confident we've found a coach who will give us a football program which will combine success on the gridiron with an element of character building which we hope will be a vital element in athletics," said ETSU President Burgin Dossett.

Bell, a native of Kingsport, Tenn., said he would retain the entire ETSU staff - Pete Wilson, Hal Morrison, Dave Walker and Paul O'Brien.

Dr. Sims resigns

by WARREN CAUSEY

THE ALL STATE has learned that Dr. James H. Sims, professor and head of the department of English at APSC, has informed the college administration of his plans to resign his position here. The resignation will become effective at the end of the summer quarter, 1966. Sims will join the University of Oklahoma as professor of English in the fall.

Sims said that his decision to accept the position at Oklahoma reflected in no way dissatisfaction with his work at APSC, but was the result of his desire to enter advanced scholarship in his chosen field. Sims said that he has long been primarily interested in teaching and writing on the works of John Milton.

At Oklahoma Sims will specialize in this field at the senior and graduate student levels. Sims expressed his regret at leaving Austin Peay State since he has been well pleased with his position, but said he felt the opportunity at Oklahoma was better suited to his academic interests.

Sims, a graduate of the University of Florida, joined APSC in 1961 as professor and department chairman. Prior to coming to APSC, he was chairman of the department of English at Tift College in Georgia. He received his doctorate from the University of Florida in 1959.

Sims is the author of three books: "Biblical Allusions in Shakespeare's Comedies," published in 1960; "The Bible in Milton's Epics," 1962; and "Dramatic Uses of Biblical Allusion in Marlow and Shakespeare," due to be published in the near future. It is expected that Dr. Edward E. Irwin, associate professor of English, will succeed Dr. Sims as department head. Irwin, who holds the B.A. and M.A. degrees from Memphis State University and the Ph.D. from the University of Florida, has been with APSC since 1962.

Math department gets $8775 grant

The department of mathematics of Austin Peay State College has received a grant of $8,775 from the National Science Foundation for the Secondary Science Training Program for the summer of 1966.

The Secondary Science Training Program is designed for high school students of exceptional ability and interest in the field of mathematics. The three objectives of the program are to present the concepts of mathematics not usually included in the secondary school program; to bring together talented students from various sections of the country to introduce them to college mathematics; and to further influence needed curricular changes in the secondary school through these participants.

Thirty participants will be selected from students completing the 11th grade in the spring of 1966. Approximately half of the participants will be chosen from Tennessee students who have successfully competed in the state mathematics competition, which is conducted annually by the Tennessee Mathematics Teachers Association. The remaining participants will be selected primarily from the Southeastern and Midwestern states.

The Secondary Science Training Program which will be held for the second year at Austin Peay State will be conducted from June 9 to July 15. Dr. William G. Stokes, chairman of the mathematics department, will again direct the program.

APSC attack.

However, the Gavs bowed back with an impressive 74-43 showing over Pan American, which sports a front line averaging 6-9 in height. The contest was won on the charity line as APSC had 18 of 23, while the Broncos managed only seven of 12. Each squad hit the same number of shots, in the same number of attempts and each pulled down 40 rebounds. Snyder captured scoring honors with 19 points.

Concentrating on a zone press and showing aggressiveness, the Gavs were edged by powerful Eastern Kentucky 86-85 in the Ohio Valley Conference tournament at Louisville. The Governors, attracting the attention of many OVC officials and coaches with their desire and success against the biggest front line in the conference, tasted defeat during the fading seconds of the contest as a foul shot was successful by the Maroons. Tommy Head commanded the offensive machine as he totaled 23, followed by Snyder with 18.

U of C scheduled in Gavs' lineup for next season

Austin Peay State athletic director has informed THE ALL STATE that APSC has signed a three-year football contract with the University of Chattanooga. The terms of the contract call for the Governors to play in Chattanooga this year and in 1967 and for Chattanooga to come to Clarksville in 1968.

This fall's contest will be on Thanksgiving day and will be the last game of the season for APSC. Chattanooga beat the Gavs in 1958 by a score of 26-0. That contest is the only time the two schools have played each other in football.
