FELIX G. WOODWARD LIBRARY - APSU
CLARKSVILLE, TENNESSEE 37040

ORIENTATION WEEK can be an eye-opening and sometimes earth shattering experience for entering freshmen. For many of them it is the first time away from home. For upperclassmen it is a time of reunion with the old and new. To acquaint freshmen with Austin Peay, orientation week brings picnics, dances, and "Get Down Time."

CLASSES can be as varied as one's interest. Austin Peay offers twenty-five academic areas, lending the individual a variety of courses to study. It is up to the student to choose that curricula which will mold his life's vocation.

DORM LIFE is an integral phase of university living. With visitation hours extended, the girls dorms have a new atmosphere. Still, there is time for a quick card game, or a sudden glance before a final test.

STUDENT LIFE is a kaleidoscope of activity. Many find their place in the Greek System, while others turn to one special person. A concert in the bowl or a frisbee throw between classes captures the interest of the Austin Peay student.

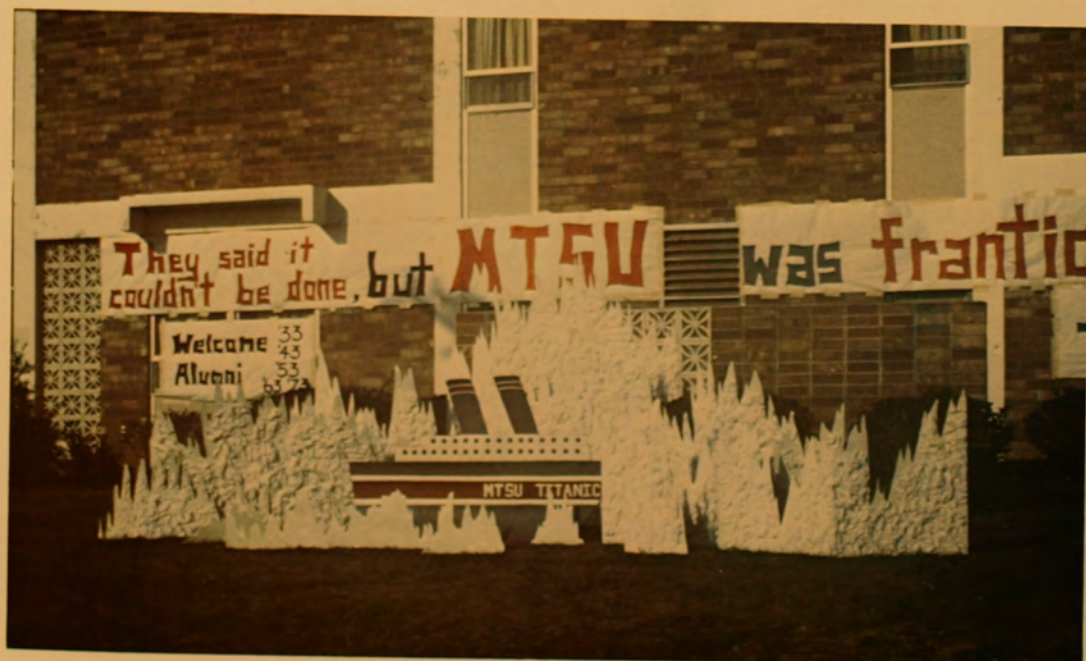

HOMECOMING sparked interest in the students of today and past. Employing the theme of "They Said It Couldn't Be Done," work began on parade entries, residence halls, and fraternity houses. Winning in the float division was the sophomore class. In the residence hall division, Blount Hall netted first place in the women's division, while Killebrew captured first place in the men's division.

The staff of the FAREWELL AND HAIL took great care in selecting the 1974 Photogenics. These coeds exemplify beauty, charm, and poise, thus making a pleasant addition to campus scenery.

The GOVERNORS sparked great interest and enthusiasm nationwide during the 1972-73 season, winning their first game in the NCAA playoffs. As a special part of the 1974 FAREWELL AND HAIL, the staff honors the 1973 OVC champs.

The GOVERNOR and FIRST LADY represent the most outstanding senior boy and girl. Elected by popular vote on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and service to the university, were Mike Fletcher and Mary Hopson.

Mike, a Political Science major, from Austin, Texas, served as president of the Student Government Association. He was also a member of the Political Studies Association, Pi Alpha Theta, and president of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Mary, a health and physical education major from Clarksville, was a three-year cheerleader, serving as captain two of the years. She was also a member of Chi Omega sorority.

BACHELOR OF UGLINESS, and MISS APSU represented the best all-around personalities on campus. Chosen for these honors were Steve Baird, and Anita Kyriakos.

Steve, a senior elementary education major from Clarksville was involved with the Student Government Association four years, serving as vice-president his senior year. He was also a member of Alpha Pi Omega, service fraternity, and Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity.

Anita, a junior English major, also from Clarksville, served as president of Chi Omega sorority, and was a member of the Little Sigmas, and 1974 FAREWELL and HAIL staff.

IRIS QUEEN, a title held by the prettiest single girl in the student body, was voted Debbie Webster.

Miss Webster, a sophomore from Dickson, with a psychology major, was also an active Pi-Kette, and member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Voted the honor of HOMECOMING QUEEN was Myra Morrison, a sophomore elementary education major from Whitewell.

Miss Morrison's plans for the future include transferring to the University of Tennessee and marriage in the spring.

Chosen to reign as MISS HAT AND CANE 1974, was Kathy Stone, a Music Education major. Completing the top five were Mandy Batts, fourth runner-up; Grace Minor, third runner-up; Jeannie Lipscomb, second runner-up; and Cathy Lee, first runner-up.

Receiving the title of Miss Congeniality was Amber Inman. Miss Stone will represent Austin Peay in the Miss Tennessee pageant at Jackson.

BLACK HISTORY WEEK was held February 12-17. Various activities were scheduled with each emphasizing contributions of the Black American.

Some of the week's highlights included; a film, "From Montgomery to Memphis," Black History skits presented at Ft. Campbell, and a dance.

Visiting SPEAKERS created interest throughout the year. Early fall quarter, Robert Creeley, well known American poet, read selections from his works at an informal program at the Wesley Foundation. Other speakers during the year were Sam Donaldson and Herb Kaplow, newsmen with the American Broadcasting Company.

Their talks dealt with news concerning Watergate and the impeachment of Nixon. Finally, on March 7, Elizabeth Janeway, author of "Man's World, Woman's Place," spoke in the Clement Auditorium.

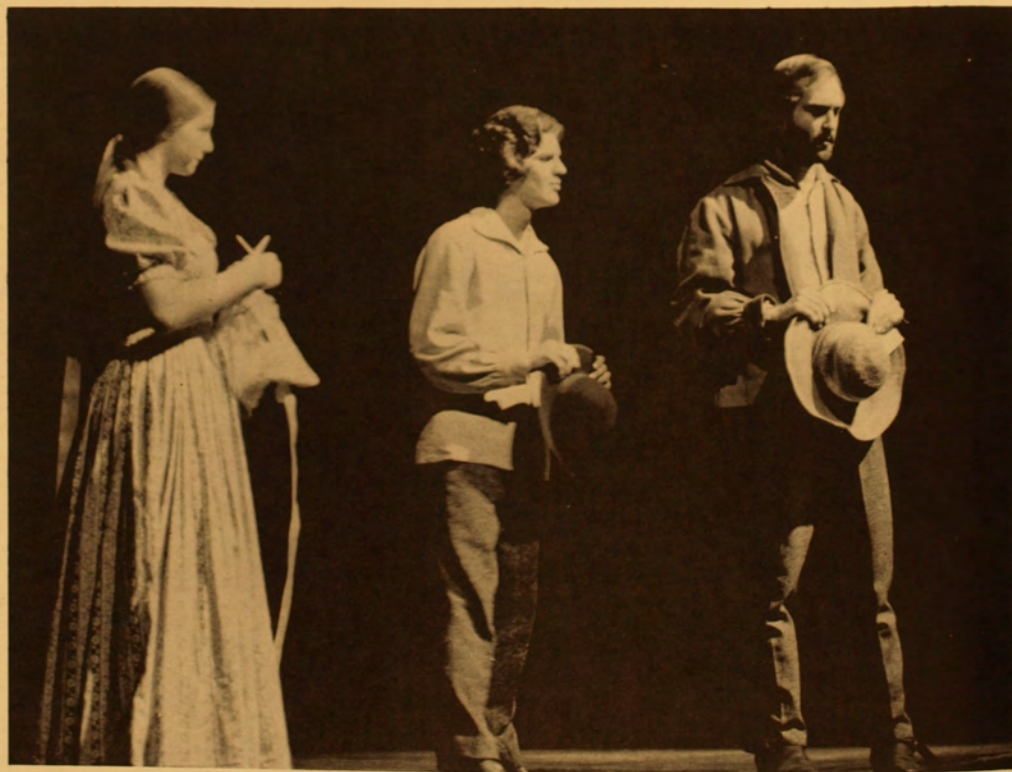

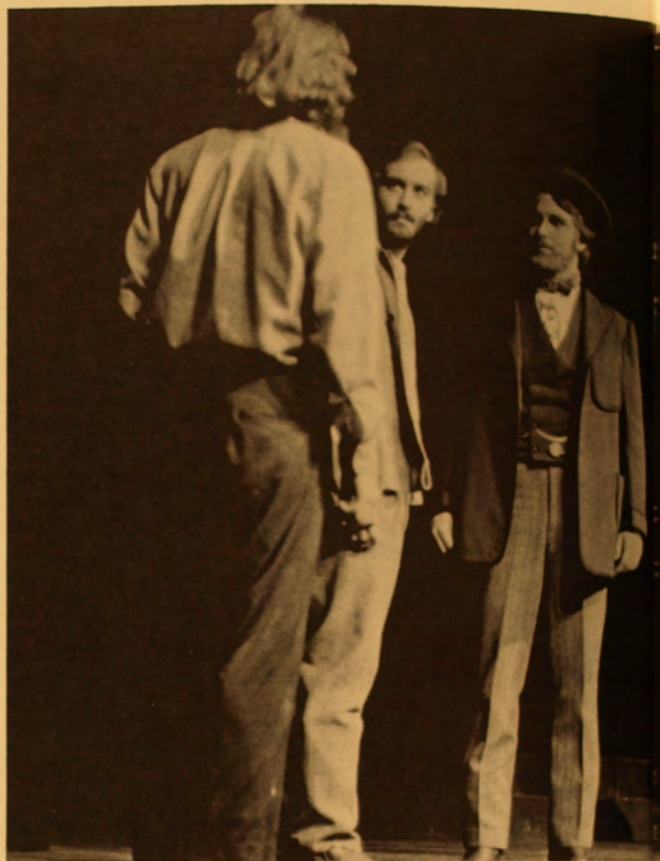

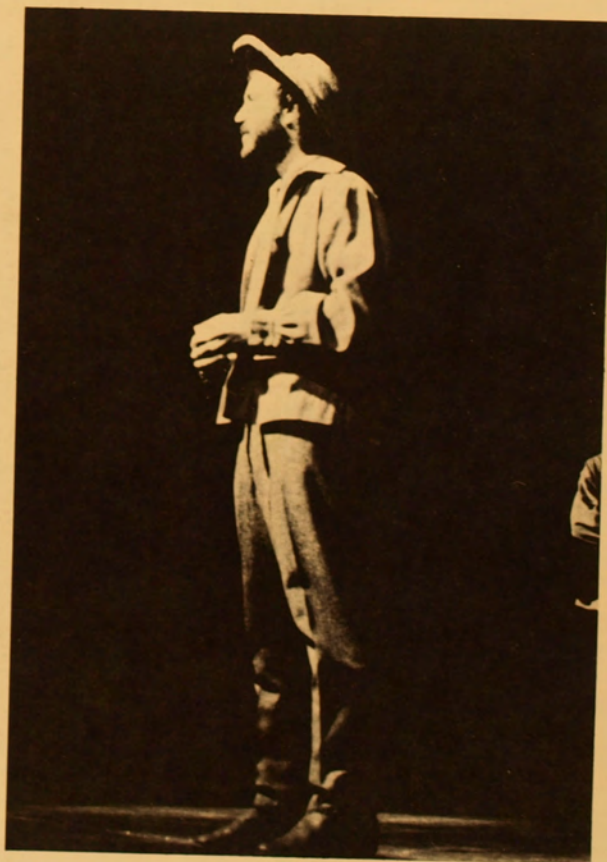

Throughout the year the Clement Auditorium housed the SPEECH AND THEATRE DEPARTMENT in their effort to bring theatre to students. On October 24, the season opened with "Dark of the Moon," directed by I. J. Filippo. Soon after "Sunrise at Campobello," a play centering around the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt was presented and directed by J. G. Griffin.

In the winter quarter "A Lion in Winter" made its way to the Austin Peay stage. This production was also an effort of Filippo.

THE NIGHT THOREAU
SPENT IN JAIL occupied the Clement Auditorium January 30 - February 1. The play, a biographical sketch of Henry David Thoreau, proved to be relevant to the time of today. Thoreau was the first major play to be directed by a student, Christie Mayor.

Six ONE ACT PLAYS were presented in the winter quarter. Each play was student directed. The plays and directors were: "The Sandbox," Carolyn Alsobrooks; "The Haunted Auditorium," Cathy Christianson; "Short Walk After Dinner," Wanda Bryant; "To Burn a Witch," Deborah Emmett; "The Search," Fairy Caroland; and "Who Am I," Hugh Moore.

The plays were well received and provided a night of free entertainment for students.

"BIRTH OF THE BOOGIE" was declared by the University Social Activities Board, Thursday, January 24. This was a time when all clocks at Austin Peay were set back.

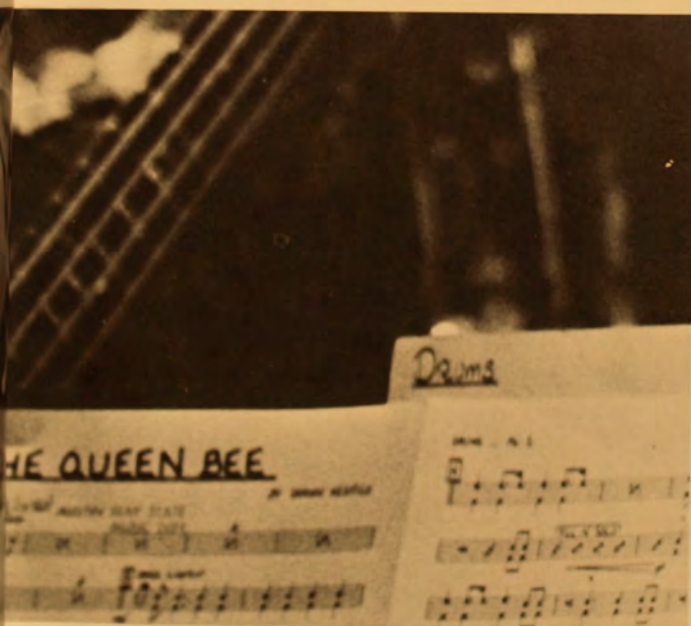

Students were dressed in the fashion of the fifties as they competed for top honors in dress, dance, cheerleading, and goldfish eating. All activities moved smoothly, however, the highlight of the day was a concert by Vince Vance and the Valiants in the Clement Auditorium.

Those receiving top honors in the contests were as follows: Best Dressed, Cathe Cain and Steve Maxey; Best Dancers, Virginia Goatley and Kevin Temple; and Best Cheerleader ended in a tie with Tayloe Barrett and Virginia Goatley sharing the title. Finally, three students tied for eating the most goldfish. They were Dan Myrick, Larry Safkoe and Larry West, each swallowing thirty-three goldfish.

The ANNUAL MID-SOUTH JAZZ FESTIVAL captured campus interest March 20-22. This was the thirteenth year for the event, and its sponsor was Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. Jazz bands from surrounding areas and Austin Peay's Collegians were the necessary ingredients for a successful festival.

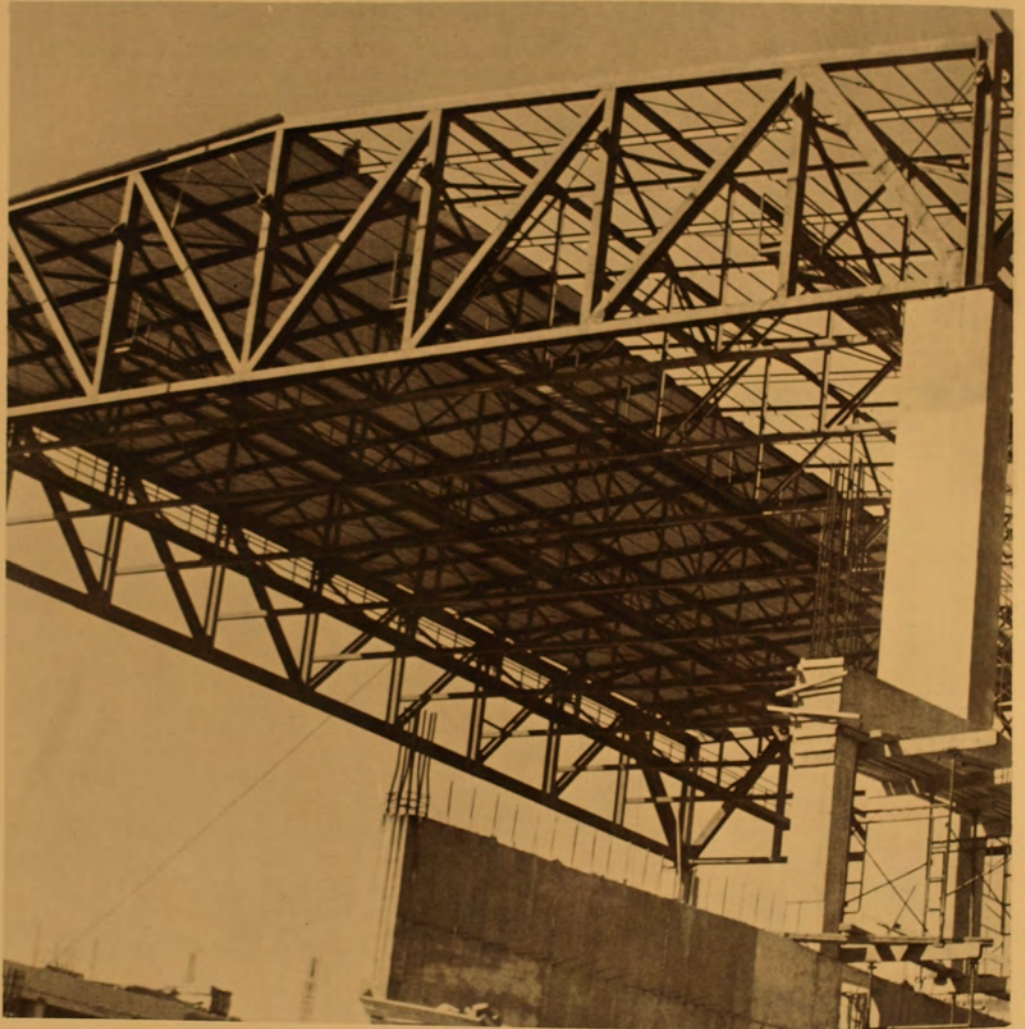

The first ANNUAL MID-TENNESSEE CHAMPIONSHIP FIDDLER'S CONVENTION was hosted by Austin Peay, March 29-30.

Activities started on Friday, March 29, with a jam session, and the judging of various contests began Saturday and ran well into the night.

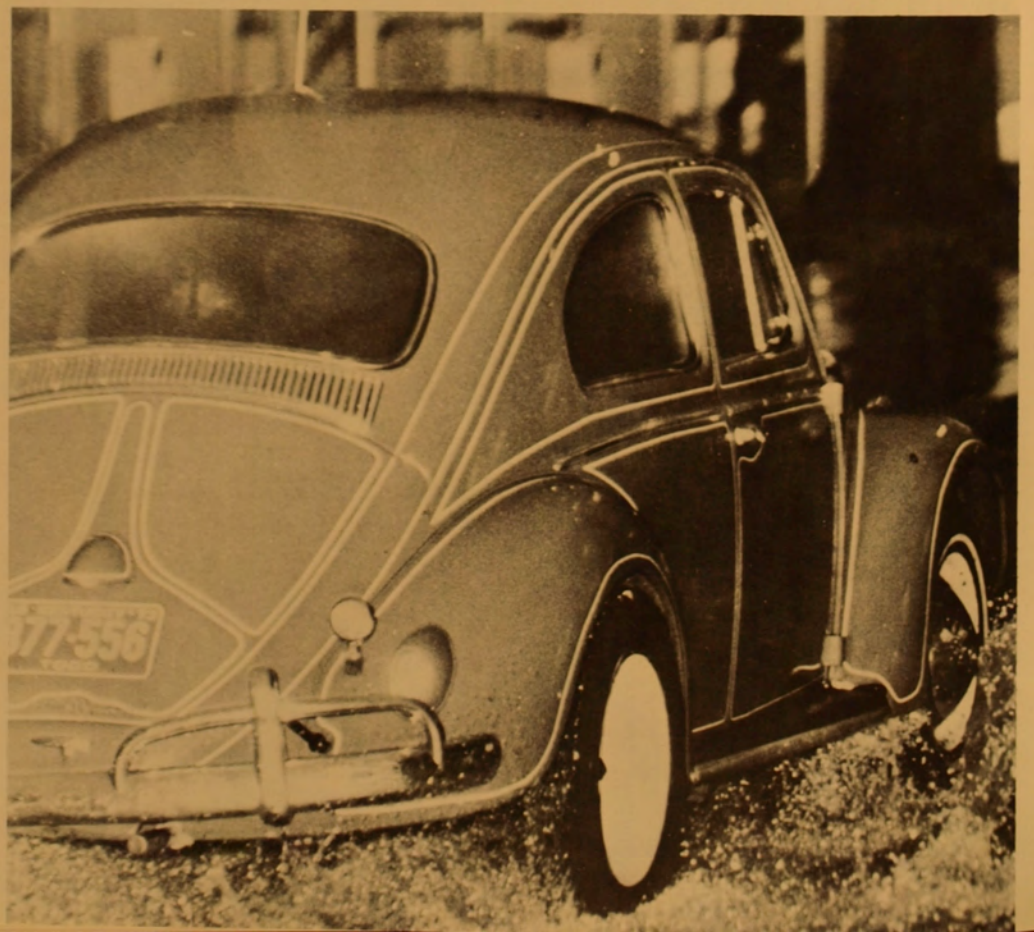

Along with the fiddlers, an added attraction was an Arts and Crafts Exhibition and sale.

The ART, SPEECH AND DRAMA BUILDING proved to be an attraction after its completion in the spring quarter. This building provided facilities including a theatre (seating 200), an art gallery, classrooms, laboratories, and offices. Construction on the Winfield Dunn Health and Physical Education Building continued. This facility will house classrooms, offices, laboratories, and an activity floor for spectator sports. The building is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1975.

The WEATHER, as always, proved unpredictable. Students were faced with flooding sidewalks and streets. To some it proved to be a time of enjoyment, while others preferred the good, dry earth.

OLD MAN WINTER hit the same time as did the students for winter quarter registration. Life at Austin Peay halted for two days, but with the melting ice the happenings once again preceded at a normal pace.

FUTURE ARTISTS promoted their work and the work of the Art Department with art sales scheduled throughout the year. These sales provided the students a chance to purchase arts and crafts at a minimal cost.

WORK is not a word unfamiliar to most students. Many of the students at Austin Peay found jobs in the surrounding areas to cut costs, while others secured jobs on campus.

The BICYCLE proved to be an invention of fun and convenience. As the year progressed the bicycle could be seen almost any fall or spring afternoon. With the energy crisis at hand, it was a most dependable means of transportation.

CLARKSVILLE, one of Tennessee's oldest cities provides an interesting setting for off campus entertainment. Students may decide to spend an evening bowling, skating, or seeing a popular flick. Many seem to find enjoyment in shopping, eating, or just looking around.

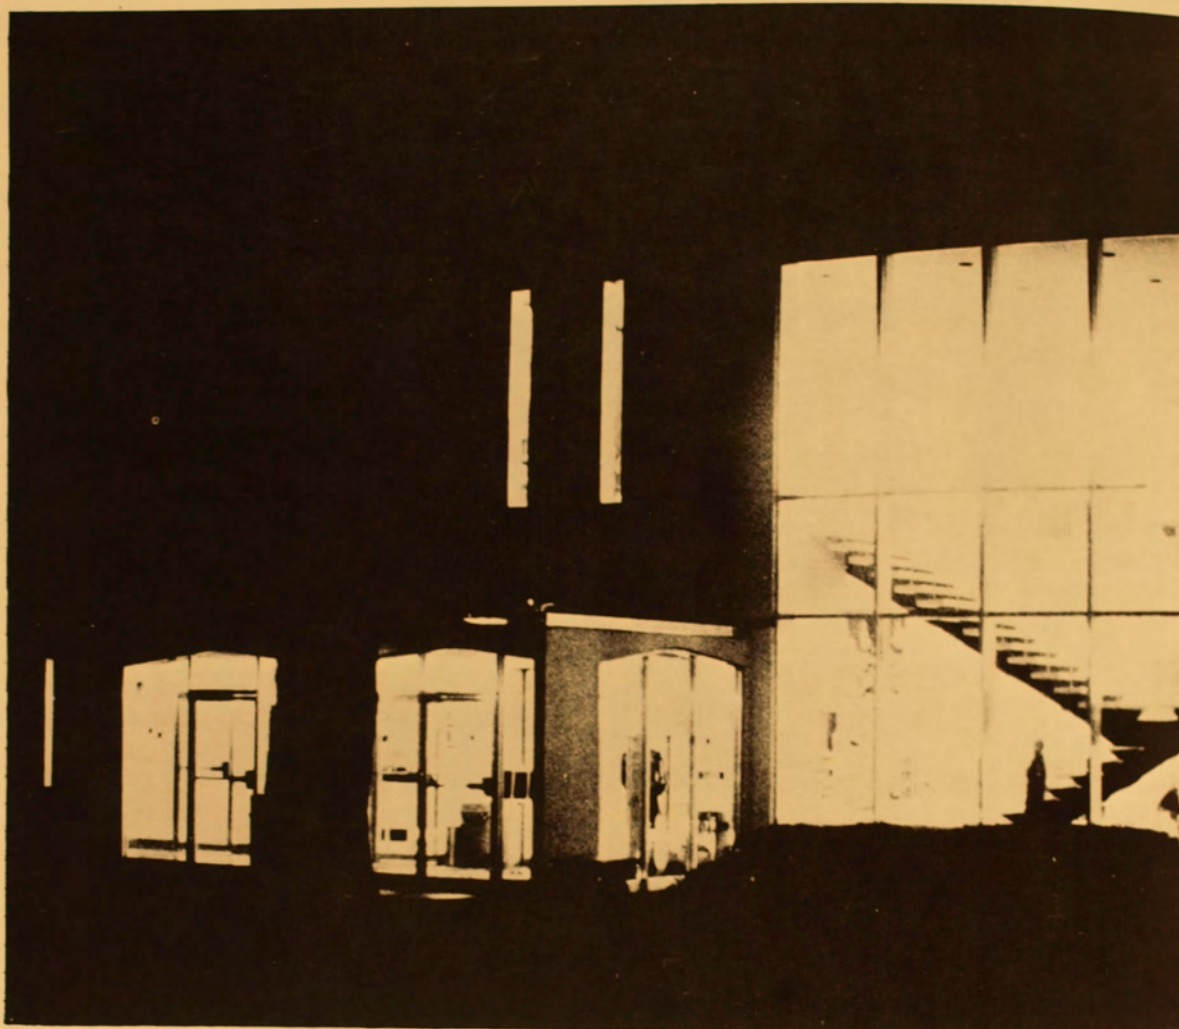

The NIGHT for many students is a time of relaxation after the classes of that day. Students join together at the University Center for a game of pool, ping pong, cards, or just company and conversation.

STUDY requires a good bit of every student's time. On any night the library is filled with students researching papers, studying for exams, or rapping on current issues. Whatever the purpose, the library provides an inviting and relaxed atmosphere.

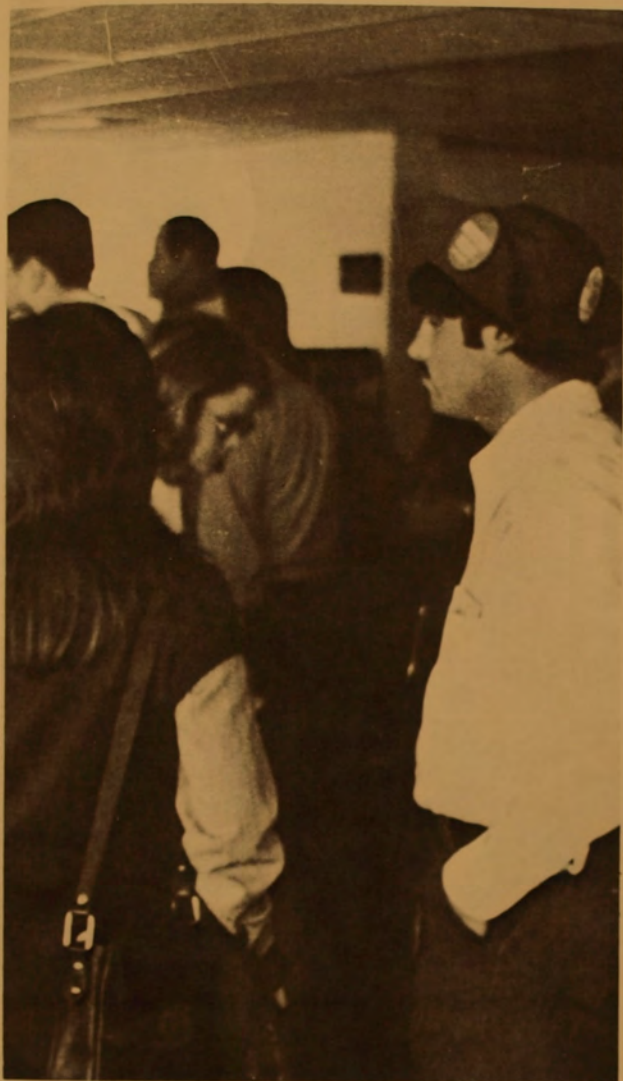

The MARRIED STUDENTS at Austin Peay seemed to lead two lives, one life as student and at home another as spouse and many times parent. These students faced many challenges and responsibilities, and life at home, as well as at school proved to be a learning adventure.

The GOVERNORS once again captured the attention of the nation when scheduled to play Notre Dame. At the time of the game Notre Dame was rated number two in the nation and Austin Peay once again represented the OVC.

The students and people of Clarksville gave their support to the team. Although defeated, this game provided interest and excitement that would long be remembered.

GRADUATION for many is a time of mixed emotions. For some students this event has long been awaited. However, many remain anxious over its arrival. The future will be a challenge that will be tackled in many different ways. Some students have definite plans while others do not, and a number of them will continue their study.

THE MEANING OF IT ALL IS TOGETHERNESS ...

Folger, Commissioner Guilford, F. Thornton.

Tennessee Higher Education Commission

Since state universities are facing enrollment losses, one of the chief businesses of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission is the recommendation for the appropriation of funds for the state's higher public education institutions. This sensitive matter is just one of the many which the commission faces each year.

Secretary

The heart of all successful operations lay in the skills of the women behind the scene, the secretary. Faced with demanding problems, each tried to help her employer appear impressive, while typing, filing, answering phones, and other assorted paraphernalia.

ACADEMICS

Colleges of Arts and Sciences English

The Department of English opened a new aspect for students seeking degrees in English as well as for those interested in English courses as electives. Creative writing, a study of science fiction, and Black Literature are only a few of the courses representative of the wide range of interest the department holds.

Panel, Clockwise: John E. Turner, James D. Lester, Don W. Der, Thayer W. Beach, Charles C. Holt, Clarence F. Ikerd, Lewis C. Tatham, Edward E. Irwin, Chairman.

Speech and Theatre

Expanding the Speech and Theatre department were the plans as the move was made from the Clement Building to the new Art and Drama complex. This move was made in the spring quarter and added interest to an already exciting year. Throughout the year various productions made their debut on the Clement stage, while the forensics team made news placing first in the OVC competition.

Panel, First Row: I. Joe Filippo, Chairman, L. Reece Elliott. Panel, Second Row: John G. Griffin, Michael R. McDonald.

Art

As with the Speech and Theatre Department, the move in the spring to the new Art and Drama Building was a long awaited event. With the building completed this would mean the banishment of a basement department, and an improvement in all facilities. The additional space and brighter surroundings would provide the student with an added incentive, and the department a chance for growth.

History

Panel, Clockwise: Wentworth S. Morris, Chairman, Chairman, Hugh Akerman, Paul L. Hyatt, Richard P. Gildrie, Preston J. Hubbard, Tillman D. Taylor

The first step to bring a closer intrastate relationship between universities was made by the History Department in the fall. The faculty members visited the University of Tennessee, at Martin, for the purpose of preparing a comparative analysis of the history programs in the two schools.

The department continued to grow and attended Historical Society Meetings throughout the year.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Susie Coleman, J. Milton Henry, Thomas P. Dixon, Betty Jo Wallace.

Political Science

The Political Science Department, as so many departments, continued to grow. This growth brought new studies and programs throughout the academic year.

Sociology

The Sociology Department continued to draw the interest of students from all majors. The four faculty members once again worked with the students as new offerings brought further interest in the department.

Panel, Top to Bottom: James D. Nixon, Chairman, Mary K. Cox, Harry J. Hale, Gordon Cummings.

Modern Languages

Throughout the year the department worked closely with foreign groups, and foreign students at the university. On a local basis they worked in preparing trips abroad, and with the Community Ambassador assignments. It is through the efforts of this department that attention of the languages is brought to the student at Austin Peay.

Philosophy

Chairman, Albert B. Randall.

Something of interest always seemed to be happening in the Department of Philosophy. The faculty worked effectively with the students developing within them a curiosity and concern about man and his relation to the world around him.

Geology

James Corgan, Chairman, Phillip R. Kemmerly.

The Geology Department at Austin Peay continued to grow. The year brought many new students into the department as the faculty concentrated on the development of the Environmental Sciences on campus and in the community.

Geography

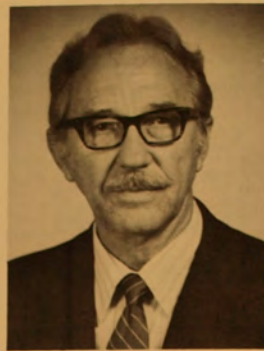

The Department of Geography worked closely with the other departments at Austin Peay. Through the diligent work of those in this department the courses became more popular, with a special emphasis on urban planning and regional development.

The Department of Biology worked closely with the students emphasizing the fact that a rising concern in our strangled environment has occurred. The department attempted to develop interest within the students concerning their vital role in our environment's future.

Chemistry

The Chemistry Department continued to work closely with the students and achieved a steady growth during the year. As time proceeded students found themselves engaged in various methods of investigation of substances and matter.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Harry L. McLeod, chairman, Harvey F. Blanck, John D. Foote, Durward S. Harris.

Physics

The Physics Department continued their work with the Center for Teachers. Although the department is small, it has a definite place in the curriculum, and study in the department can yield either a teaching major or a career in research and technology.

Mathematics

The Department of Mathematics worked toward a balance of study dealing with mathematical theory and the application of math. As always the students in this department were faced with various problems, measurements, and properties.

Panel, Clockwise: Ernest L. Woodward, James R. Gupton, Bruce Myers, William G. Stokes, chairman.

Education

The Education Department is one of the largest departments at Austin Peay.

It is constantly being improved and audio-visual equipment being added to the media center. Throughout the year several courses were added in order to give the student a better idea of how to deal effectively with children and the high school student.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Fred A. Bunger, chairman, E. Bryan Crutcher, George M. Rawlins, Ellis B. Burns, Allan S. Williams, Hayden B. Jolly, Elsie P. Oakley.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Donald B. Lambert, Cathy Hunt, Marguerite J. Boercker, Mary E. Walton, Betty Alloway, Richard C. Yarbro.

Science Education

The Science Education program stressed the need for individualized instruction. The students in this area were faced with problems concerning the earth, its atmosphere, physical and chemical phenomena, and living things. The study was conducted by Carlton H. Stedman.

Library Science

Through the study of Library Science the student is able to work with, and appreciate a very valuable medium known as the book.

This program introduces skills and concepts necessary for general library use. The study was conducted by Mildred G. Wallace.

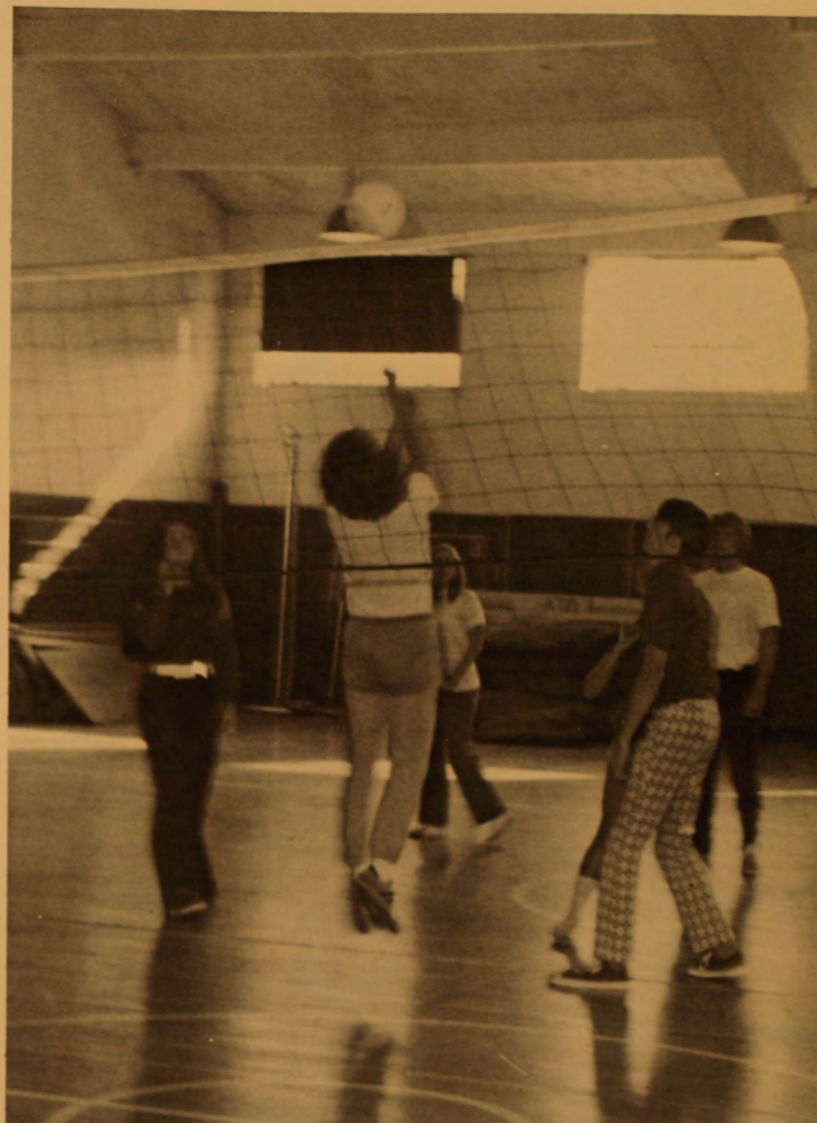

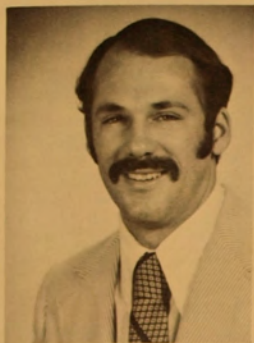

Health and P. E.

The Department of Health and Physical Education has an eye on growth and the future. With the completion of the new Winfield Dunn Health and Physical Education Building and Convocation Center, the department will have the necessary space to relieve growing pains. With its completion there will be enough room to expand all offerings and activities.

Music

The Music Department is a vital part of campus life.

Throughout the year classes are offered in reading, performing, and conducting music. Each student can apply this experience and training during a concert at Austin Peay.

These concerts are just one way of bringing the campus and community together.

Panel, Clockwise: Edwin N. Goddard, Dallas L. Blair, Kenneth E. Olson, Willis H. Hackman, Solie Fott, Thomas W. Cowan, chairman.

Panel, Clockwise: George L. Mabry, Patricia M. Gray, Aaron Schmidt, Peter F. Cook, Benjamin C. Christy, Sharon Mabry.

Psychology

The Department of Psychology is facing constant growth.

The department is anxiously adding and revising courses. As in the past, personnel have worked closely with area guidance counselors.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Garland E. Blair, Chairman, John D. Martin, Linda B. Rudolph, Diane S. Patterson, Stephen F. Davis, Peter Minetos, Elizabeth H. Stokes.

School of Business and Economics Accounting

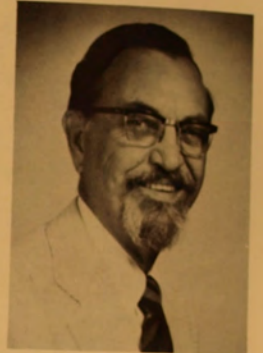

The fields of public and private accounting are areas in which jobs are to be found. It is the goal of this department to offer both a major and minor that will enable the student to feel competent in this area.

Economics

The Department of Economics is faced with constant change and growth. Today, a student can concentrate on urban planning or strengthen his major with an emphasis on transportation, location theory, or economic development.

Marketing

Throughout the year students in the Marketing Department gathered various types of research data, useful to themselves and advertising agencies. The instruction of the department offered a background of the marketing system, and the policies governing this system.

Business Administration

Students seeking careers in manufacturing, retailing and financial institutions can find the needed background material in classes offered through the Department of Business Administration.

Business Education

Today, as in the past, those in the field of Business Education work toward building office and secretarial skills in every student. Not only does the department train secretaries, but it gives the student a background in accounting, business, and marketing.

Panel, Top to Bottom: Christine Stroop, Norma D. Clift.

Divison of Applied Arts and Sciences

Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture worked closely with the students instilling in them the fact that agriculture is our nation's most important industry. The year was filled with various experiments, and work with Eagle University continued.

Industrial Arts

Industrial Arts offers today's student a definite future as opportunities for employment remain close at hand. Throughout the year students were able to apply skills taught them in the workshops at Austin Peay.

Panel, Top to Bottom: H. Leon Bibb, chairman, John W. Porter, Richard E. Gannaway.

Military Science

A relative new program at Austin Peay, the Military Science Department continued in growth. Various activities were offered the men engaged in this program, some of which included a drill team, a rifle team, and an honor guard. Flight training also continued to be popular.

Panel, Clockwise: Capt. Edward W. Almes, Maj. Paul B. Morgan, Capt. Albert J. Truesdale, Lt. Col. Charles E. Avery, chairman.

Nurse Education

Those enrolled in the Nurse Education program may become registered nurses, and qualify for positions in hospitals and offices. Nursing is felt to be a most rewarding vocation, and this along with offering a chance to serve is instilled in each student.

Library Staff

The Library Staff continued to serve the students and faculty. Work in the library was devoted as always to the modernization of equipment and the updating of reading materials. The library proved to be an asset not only to the campus, but to the community as well.

Panel, Clockwise: Rachel B. Chambers, Arthur Goldsmith, Judy L. Johnson, Elinor W. McMahan, Janie S. Gentry, Johnnie E. Givens, head librarian.

Graduate School

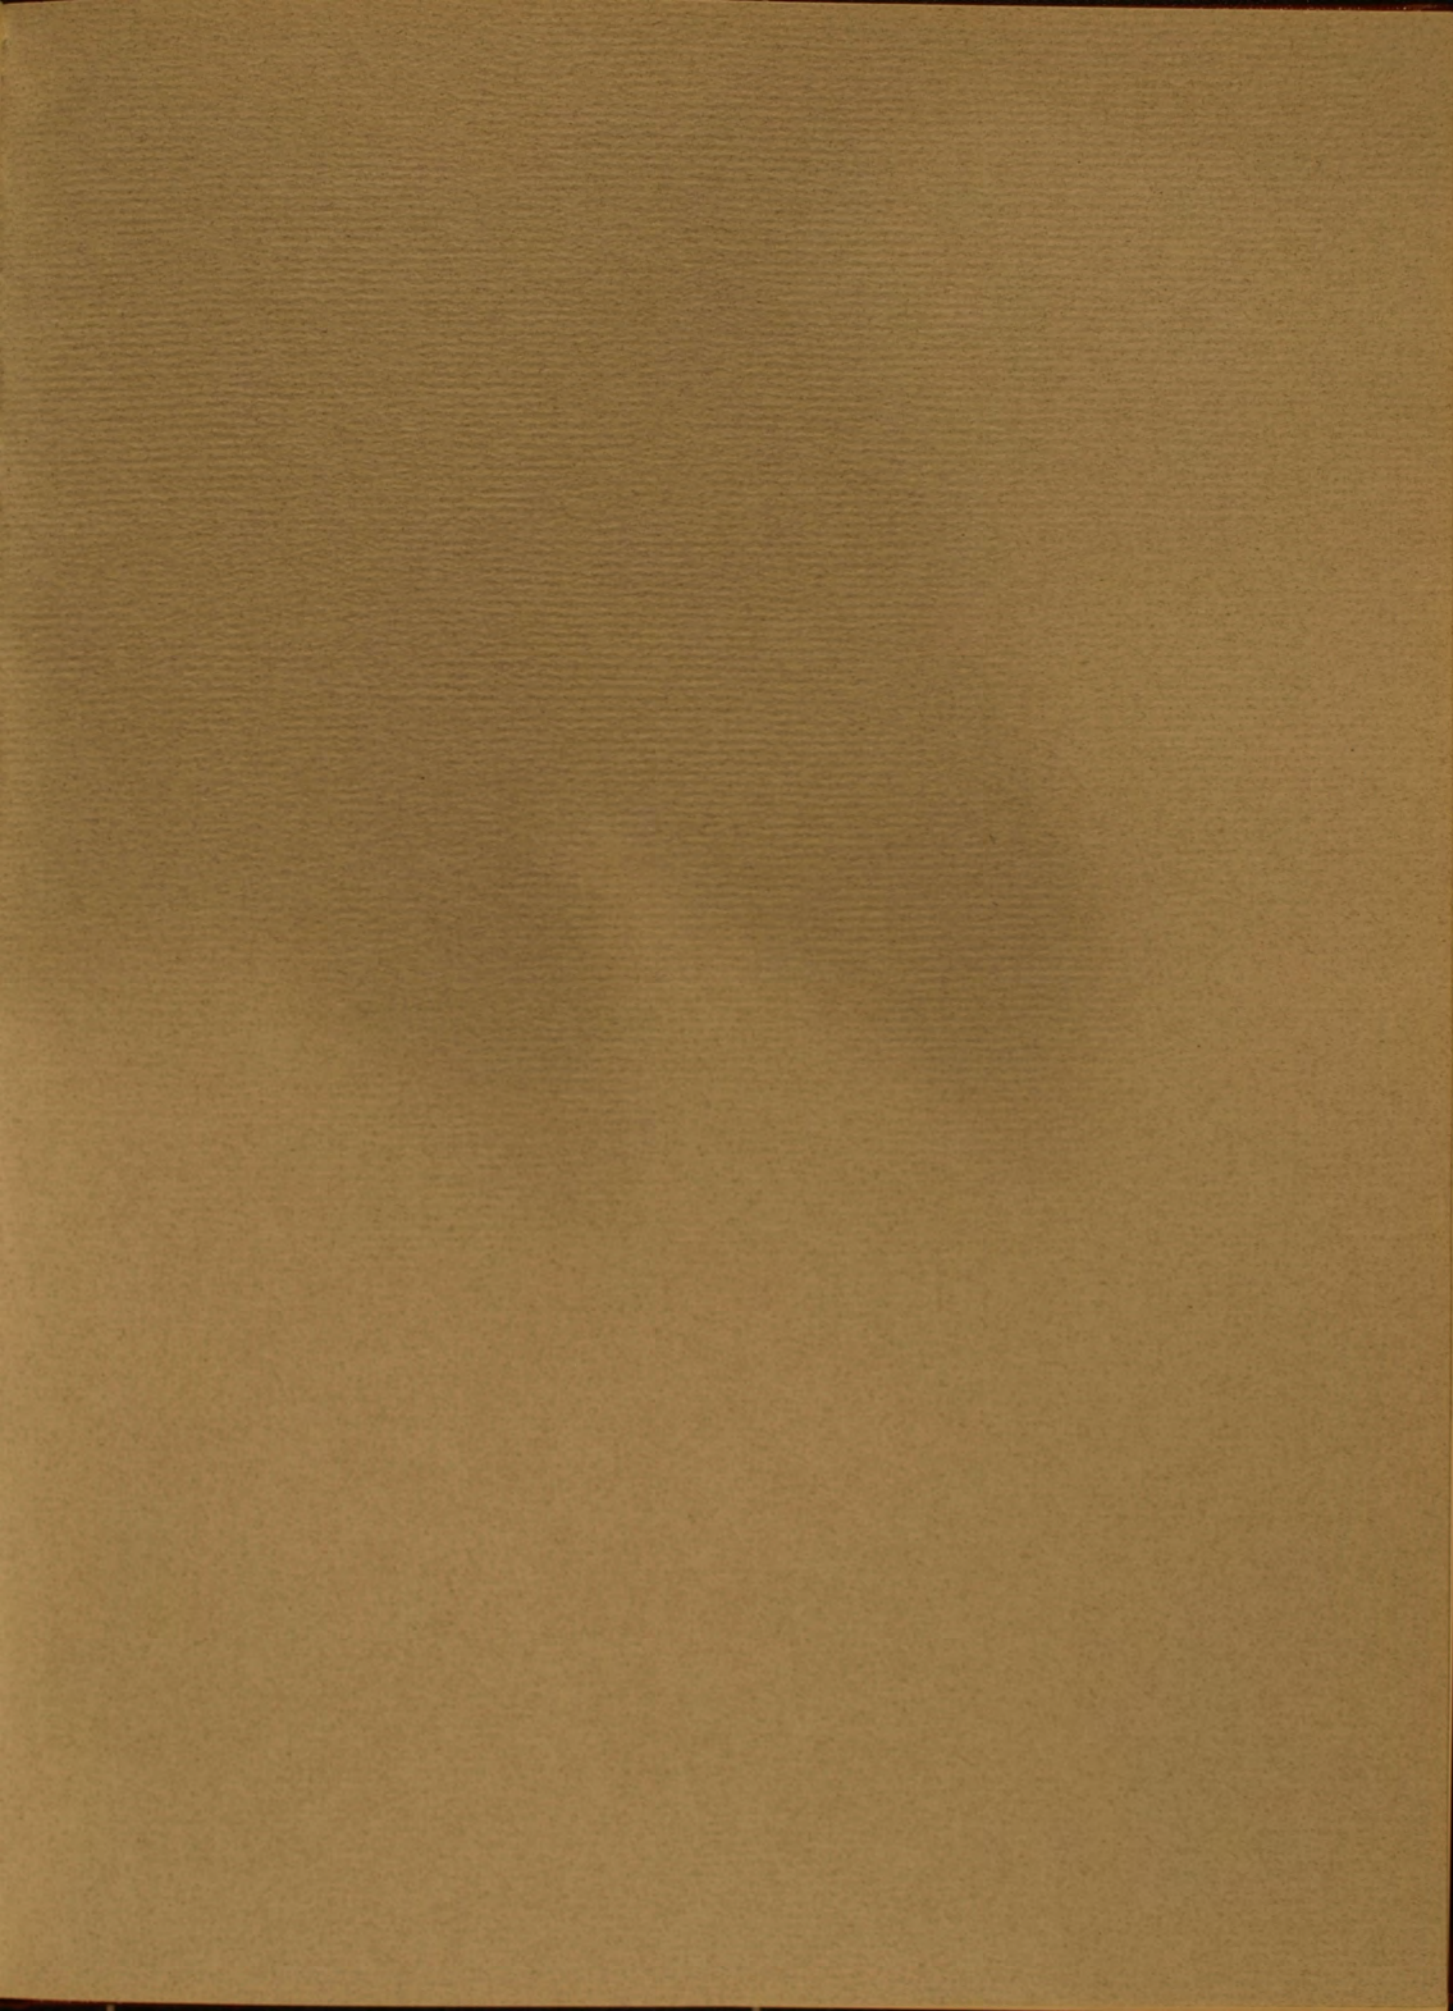

Those enrolled in the Graduate School not only found themselves in the position of student, but also that of teacher. Assistantships are offered to students working toward their Masters. This experience in the past has proved to be quite rewarding.

Center for Teachers

The Center for Teachers is a division designed to assist school administrators and pre-service and in-service teachers of high school science and mathematics. Workshops held throughout the year provided area teachers a chance to become familiar with various types of instructional media. The Center is under the direction of Dr. John Czirr and works closely with the mathematics and science programs on campus.

HONOR SOCIETIES

TASN, the student nursing association, acts as a mediator between the student nursing program and the hospital administrations where students receive their practical training. It provides an atmosphere conducive to the medical profession in which the students may be associated with others with common interests. Sponsoring the organization is Mrs. Mary Windham.

Alpha Beta Alpha

Alpha Beta Alpha is a national honor society for students majoring in library science. This organization, after being inactive for a short period, was reorganized in March to become once again a campus-active organization.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi is a professional business fraternity designed to provide an atmosphere indicative of a future in business. The organization is comprised of students majoring in either accounting, marketing, economics, business administration or business education.

Alpha Mu Gamma

Alpha Mu Gamma, a national honor society, is comprised of students studying one or more modern foreign language. This year the society has held bake sales, handicraft and book sales, and a picnic. The aim of this organization is to promote knowledge of modern foreign languages and the countries in which they are spoken.

Alpha Psi Omega

As an honorary theatrical fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega encompasses every facet of the theatre from backstage prop work to the lead in major productions. Membership in this national dramatic honor league is attained by accumulating points on a scale system. For each work completed involving the theatre, a certain amount of points is designated upon critical evaluation of the work. The existence of Alpha Psi Omega is primarily to promote dramatic excellence in both quality and quantity.

Farewell and Hail

Making deadlines, missing deadlines, getting the right names for the right pictures, finding the right names for the wrong picture, keeping up with what's happening on campus, and discovering events that happened three months earlier all characterized the 1974 Farewell and Hail staff. Dedicating themselves to the cause of preserving the yearbook tradition, the staff worked to keep the yearbook alive at APSU.

APSU Photographers

Under the direction of Gerald Tenney, this group recorded events on film for both the Farewell and Hail and the All State. Hundreds of pictures are needed each year and the photographers are responsible for being at a location when a camera is needed.

Philosophy Club

The Philosophy Club hosts various speakers on campus concerning different areas of philosophy for informal talks and open discussion. This year the club has taken various field trips including one to view the movie "The Exorcist". Two speakers which were sponsored by the Philosophy Club this year include Rabbi Randall Falk from Nashville and Dr. and Mrs. Leon Koen to speak on the Baha'i Faith.

SPORTS

IT WAS SOMEWHAT less than an earth-shattering year in 1973 for first year head coach Jack Bushofsky and his Governors. Austin Peay had a 2-8 over-all record and 1-6 Ohio Valley Conference mark.

Bushofsky returned to his alma mater where he was a Little All-American guard on the Gov squad of 1960. He replaced Bill Dupes who had tutored APSU for ten previous seasons. Because Bushofsky was not selected for the job until mid-January, recruiting efforts were extremely difficult. However, the new head man made strides in several phases of the new program via recruitment and fielded a representative squad.

Austin Peay opened the season at home, but lost to non-conference Henderson State by a 17-7 margin. But the Govs rebounded the next weekedn to upend Youngstown of Ohio 16-7. Tailback Bill Hammon keyed APSU's win, piling up 141 yards on the ground and kicking a 40-yard field goal.

Bottom Right: Governor defensive back Jim Thompson grabs whatever he can, including Eastern Kentucky quarterback Jeff McCarthy's face mask, to try to prevent a Colonel TD. However, McCarthy made it to paydirt anyway for EKU's first score during 24-7 win over APSU.

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY'S awesome and powerful Hilltoppers almost completely shut off Austin Peay's offense and carried home an impressive 28-0 decision in the OVC opener for both teams played in Municipal Stadium. The 'Toppers' went on to finish their regular season undefeated and earned a berth in the NCAA Division II playoffs where WKU was runner-up for the national championship.

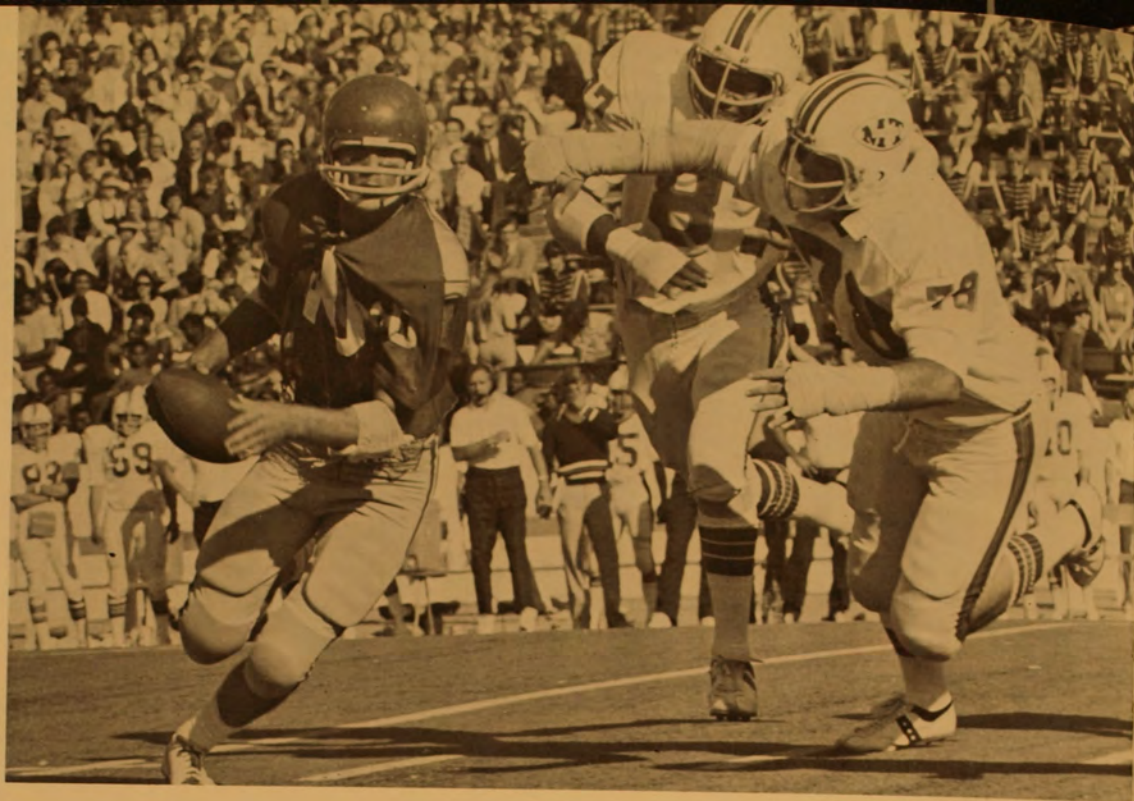

Eastern Kentucky was a rude host on the Governor's first road game, soaking up a 24-7 win in a rain hampered afternoon game. Lack of offensive punch was again the Gov downfall.

Austin Peay's only score was an 83-yard pass play from Jeff Baker to Ron Bailey, both freshmen. It was Baker's first collegiate pass and Bailey's first collegiate reception.

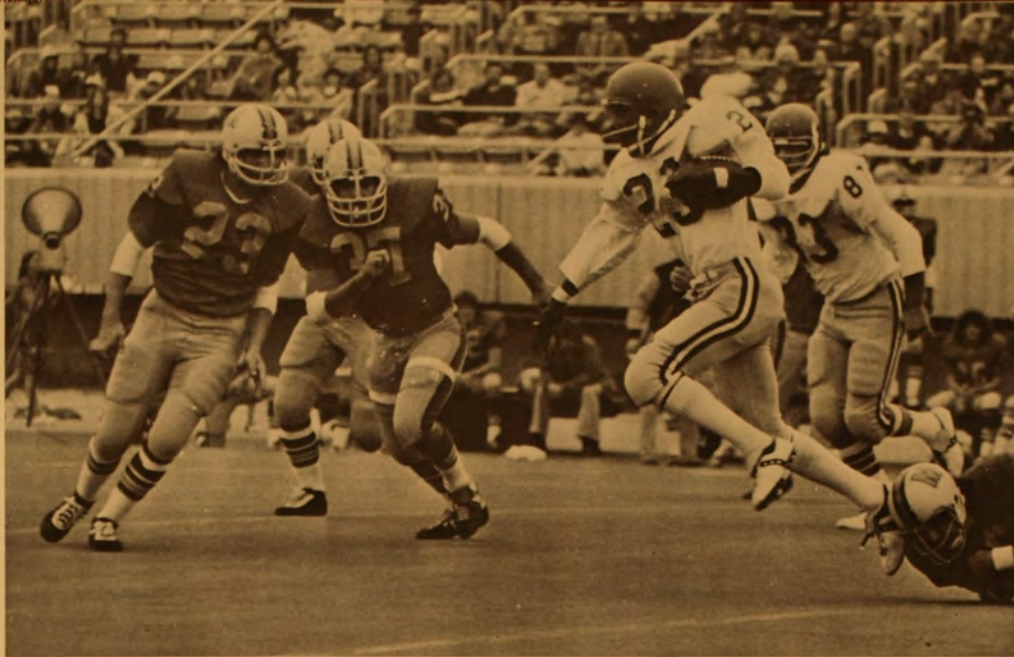

Top: Senior fullback Paul Cooley looks for open ground as the Govs try to move out of the shadow of their own goal during a loss at Eastern Kentucky. Left: Junior quarterback Rick Christophel sprints for yardage while under pressure against Morehead State during the Eagles' homecoming. Christophel rushed for 70 yards and hit 17 of 26 passes for 262 yards and two touchdowns. His performance was good enough to earn OVC Offensive Player of the Week honors. However, the Governors still lost 23-22. Above: APSU defensive back Eddie Fil-yaw prepares for a collision with Morehead State's Frank Jones. The Morehead tailback gained 161 yards for his day's toil.

Top: Quarterback Rick Christophel is in the all too familiar situation of scrambling with Middle Tennessee State's James Pryor (87) and Tommy Bowers applying the heat during the Govs' 23-20 homecoming loss. Left: Freshman Mike Elmore heads for yardage after taking the handoff from Rick Christophel against MTSU. Elmore picked up 99 yards for the day. Above: Austin Peay defensive end Tom Webb leaps at UT Martin quarterback Danny Walker in an effort to deflect a pass. Webb did not stop Walker and the Govs did not stop the Pacers and UTM went home with a 26-0 romp.

RICK CHRISTOPHEL EARNED OVC Offensive Player of the Week honors with his sparkling performance against Morehead State.

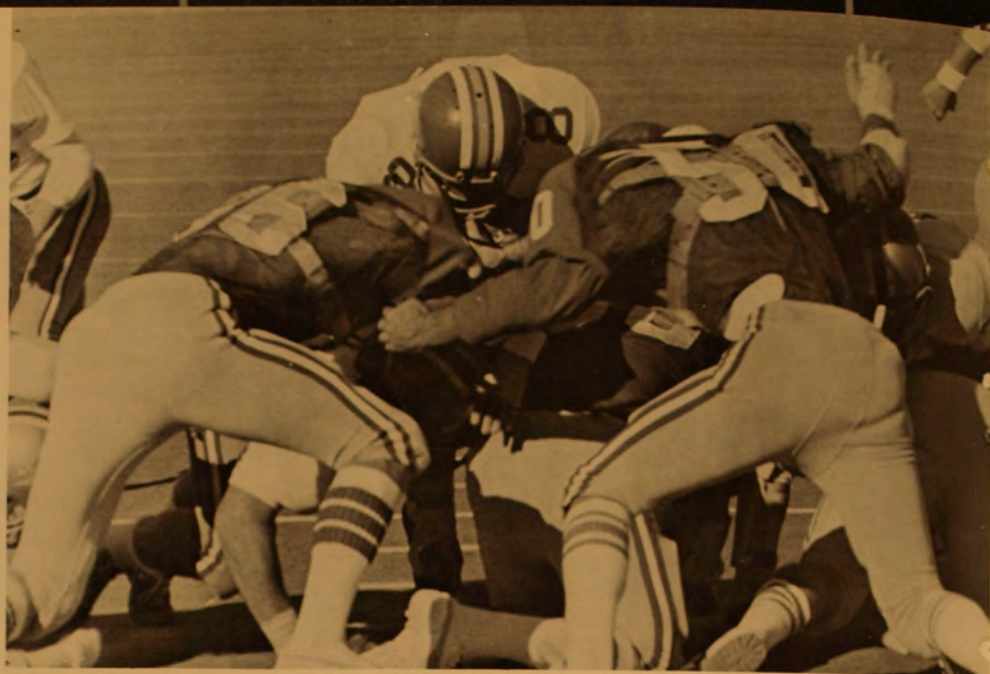

However, the Gavs lost to the Eagles 23-22 when a two-point conversion attempt with 2:58 remaining in the MSU homecoming game failed. Christophel ran for 70 yards and passed for 262 yards and two TD's.

Austin Peay returned to Clarksville for its own homecoming against Middle Tennessee and held a 20-7 halftime lead. But the Gavs could score no more in the second half and the Blue Raiders claimed a 23-20 win.

A mental letdown accompanied the two close losses and previously winless UT Martin capitalized with a 26-0 verdict.

Right: Austin Peay defenders Jim Thompson (36) and Dwight Houston (50) drive into East Tennessee State's Alan Chadwick to prevent a touchdown. However, the Bucs scored on the next play but it wasn't enough to beat the Govs who eventually won 28-13. Bottom Right: Freshman wide receiver Ron Bailey gathers in one of his six receptions against East Tennessee as Rick Tynes moves up for the tackle.

AUSTIN PEAY led OVC runner-up Murray State 13-7 early in the third quarter but the Racers stormed back to register a 31-19 win over the Governors. Bushofsky's Govs final road game of the year resulted in a 31-12 setback to Tennessee Tech in near-freezing temperatures. Austin Peay closed the season by blitzing East Tennessee 28-13. Bill Hammon led the APSU offensive assault with 161 yards rushing.

Defensive back Eddie Filyaw and defensive end Don Neff were named to the All-OVC second team at season's end. Linebackers Dwight Houston and Tony Wade, quarterback Rick Christophel, center Bob Sizemore, wide receiver Ron Bailey, offensive guard Landon Pickett and middle guard Jimmy Reynolds were listed as All-OVC honorable mention.

AN OHIO VALLEY CONFERENCE co-championship and a second straight trip to the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament were the results of a 17-10 win record by the 1973-74 Austin Peay State Governors.

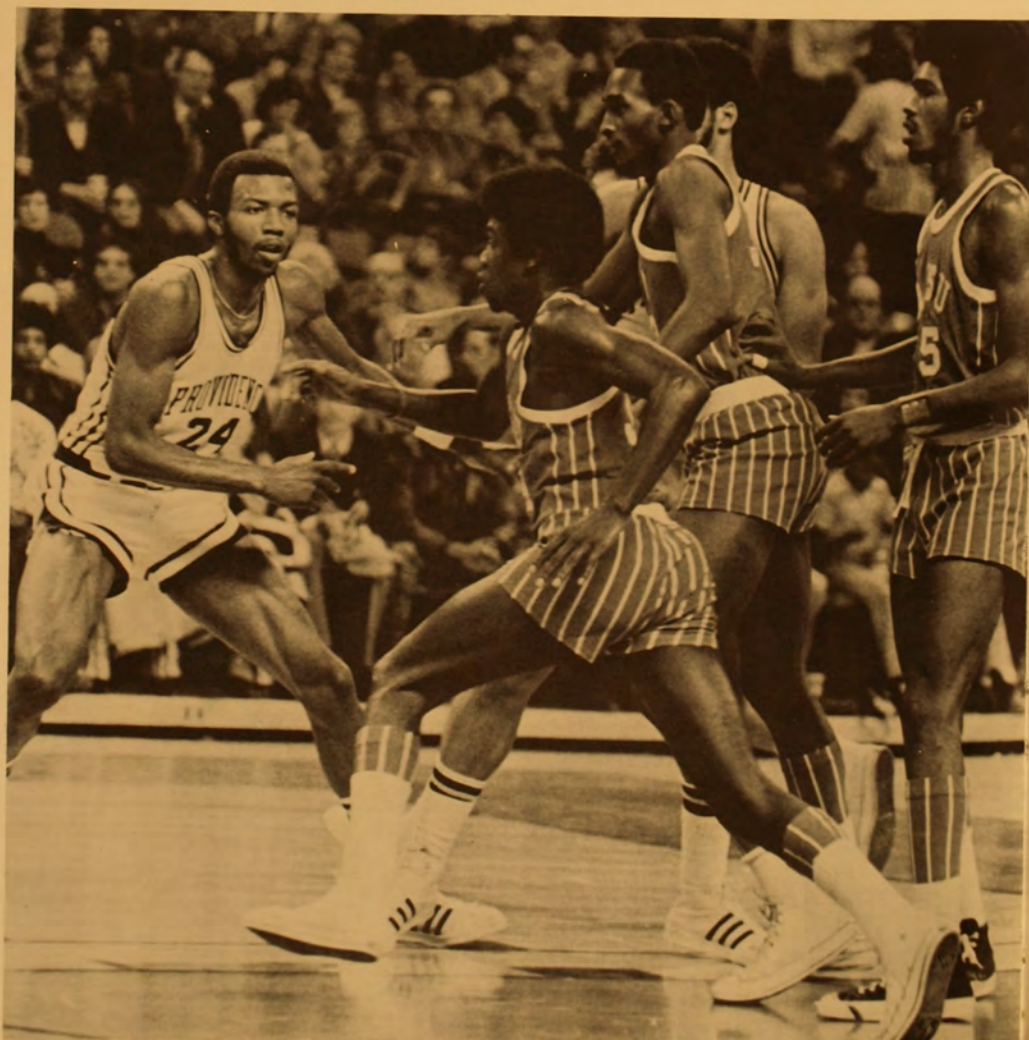

The Govs were ranked as high as tenth in the nation in preseason polls. However, two-time All-OVC performer and team leader Howard Jackson fell 83-feet from a roof during a summer construction job and broke both legs, eliminating him from action for the season. The Govs were forced to regroup.

Left: Austin Peay super sophomore James "Fly" Williams plants his feet before springing to the bucket in the Govs' season opening 87-64 win over Belmont. Bottom Left: Howard Jackson would have ended his college career with APSU last season, but an 83-foot fall during a summer construction job broke both of "Jack's" legs. However, Howard made it to the opening game. Aided by a walker and Coach Lake Kelly, Jack presented the 1973 OVC title banner to APSU President Joe Morgan. Below: Richard Jimmerson hooks for two points in 127-97 win over Union.

The Gavs lost only one of its first six games. That was a 94-92 loss to eighth-ranked Providence on the road.

However, the Gavs lost two games by a total of six points in the Senior Bowl Classic in Mobile, Ala., and then received a 93-70 shelling from Jacksonville.

THE GOVS returned home following the near disastrous southern swing to Mobile and Jacksonville and scored an important 81-65 win over Virginia Commonwealth in a return match. Playing without Fly Williams, the big win propelled the Govs into the OVC schedule.

Austin Peay stopped Morehead State 80-70 in the OVC opener for both teams. However, Eastern Kentucky capitalized on Gov errors and upset the scarlet and white 71-64.

Above: Mickey Fisher hits for a layup over Middle Tennessee State's Fred Allen in game played before 11,600 at Murfreesboro. The Blue Raiders, down 10 points with less than two minutes left, came back to win the overtime 90-87. Top Right: Percy Howard goes to the bucket for two of his 28 points in heartstopping 98-97 win over Western Kentucky. Right: Fly Williams (left) and Richard Jimmerson sandwich Western's Mike Odemns while positioning for a rebound.

A FIVE-WAY TIE for first place in the OVC came about when Middle Tennessee caught the Gavs napping and gained a 90-87 overtime win. However, Austin Peay took a close call win over Western Kentucky 98-97 before flying off to New York to play Long Island in Madison Square Garden. It was homecoming for Fly Williams, Danny Odums and Fred Lee in New York, but the Gavs lost to LIU 90-88 in overtime.

Five straight conference wins put the Governors in the driver's seat of the OVC race with only three games remaining. Included in the five straight wins was a double victory in Death Valley against Morehead and Eastern Kentucky, a first for the Govs.

However, the Govs lost two of their last three. The win was an electrifying 91-66 cremation of Middle Tennessee. The losses were to Western 84-82 and Murray 74-71. The Govs ended by being tied for the OVC title with Morehead, but APSU represented the league in the NCAA's via the two regular season wins over the Eagles.

TALENT WAS ABUNDANT on the 1972-73 Austin Peay State baseball team. But the Governors, under the tutorship of first year head coach Joe Ellenburg, managed only a 22-24 over-all record. Injuries to members of the APSU pitching corps was the biggest single factor that knocked the Gov record below .500. The Gov pitchers, for the most part, were mended from their injuries by mid-season and Austin Peay won 16 of its final 26 contests.

Top: Gov seniors and all-time greats, Mike Ramsey (left) and Kevin Sipe, confer about strategy to be used against an opposing batter. Right: All-OVC outfielder Kevin Sipe was pressed into pitching duty because of injuries to regular Gov moundsmen. Sipe pitched in 10 games, compiling a 3-1 record.

OUTSTANDING INDIVIDUAL performances spiced the year for the Govs, who finished second in the Ohio Valley Conference's Western Division with a 5-6 record. Versatile Kevin Sipe was named to the All-OVC squad for the third time in his career. Sipe, who hit .382, was also voted the Governor Most Valuable Player. Outfielder Bob Rickert (Most Improved Player Award) and first baseman Jim David (Gold Glove Award) also proved to be tough with the bat, both hitting over .300. The moundsmen were paced by Dallas Cheesman (Pitching Award), Mike Snapp, co-captain Mike Ramsey, Gary Anders and Sipe. Co-captain and second baseman Larry Beets was the Russell Award winner.

INCONSISTENCY PLAGUED the golfers of Coach Walton Smith, Jr., during the 1972-73 season. The Governors won their only dual match of the year, downing Illinois State, but the Gobs could not manage a tournament championship.

Highlights for Austin Peay for the season included a third place finish in the Redbird Intercollegiate, fourth place in the 17-team Mid-South Intercollegiate and second place in the 10-team Eastern Kentucky Invitational. The APSU linksmen ended the season on a low note, finishing last in the Ohio Valley Conference tournament for the first time ever.

MIKE CARN was named the Most Valuable Player for the third consecutive year. His 74.67 stroke average was the team's best.

Other award winners were Bob Cartwright (Most Competitive Spirit) and Bruce Wallace (Best Chipper and Putter). Of the Gov regulars, Chuck Jones had the second lowest stroke average followed by Wallace, Jim Hodges, Cartwright, John Ignacio and Henry Lane.

THE OHIO VALLEY CONFERENCE tennis championship barely eluded Austin Peay State for the second straight spring in 1973. However, the season would have to be termed a resounding success. Playing the toughest schedule in the history of the school, the Governors ended with a 12-4 overall record, 6-1 in the OVC.

Only Alabama, Memphis State, Oral Roberts and Murray State registered wins over the Govs. Austin

Peay netted wins over such schools as Indiana State, Northern Illinois, Oklahoma State and West Texas. Western Kentucky claimed the title for the second straight year in the point based OVC race with 96 points to APSU's 82.

THE GOVERNORS dominated Ohio Valley Conference honors. Noel Phillips, who had a 20-3 season singles record, was named the OVC Player of the Year after winning the OVC single's title. Jorge Jimenez joined Phillips on the All-OVC team via his OVC No. 4 singles championship and 19-4 over-all season record.

Bernie Marrero, the third APSU head coach in three years, was voted by his fellow league coaches as the OVC Coach of the Year.

The doubles team of Phillips and Jimenez also captured the OVC No. 1 doubles title. Other Gov stand-outs and their records were Manual Losada (15-7), Erasmo "Poncho" Sanhueza (12-8) and Lawrence Weiss (9-9).

ELEVEN SCHOOL RECORDS out of 17 events headlined the achievements of the 1973 Austin Peay State outdoor track team. The Governors of first year head coach Ken Gunter, had a 4-0 dual meet mark for the spring.

Austin Peay competed in two other meets. The Gobs placed a close third in the Tennessee Intercollegiate behind Middle Tennessee and Memphis State. In the Ohio Valley Conference championships, APSU finished sixth, tying the previous high by a Gov squad.

Probably the biggest story of the year centered around freshman Anthony Carter. Carter became the first APSU track athlete ever to compete in an NCAA championship meet. He leaped 25-8 1/2 in indoor competition which sent him to Detroit where he placed fifth in the nation. Carter also qualified for the NCAA outdoor championships in Baton Rouge where he placed seventh. All-in-all, Carter shattered three indoor marks (60-yard dash, long jump, triple jump) and four outdoor marks (100-yard and 220-yard dashes, long jump, triple jump). He was also a member of one indoor and two outdoor relay teams that cracked school records.

Top: Austin Peay pole vaulter, Ken Guesetto, clears the bar in the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference meet in Clarksville's Municipal Stadium; and right: falls groundward with the bar still resting in place at 14-9 for a new APSU record.

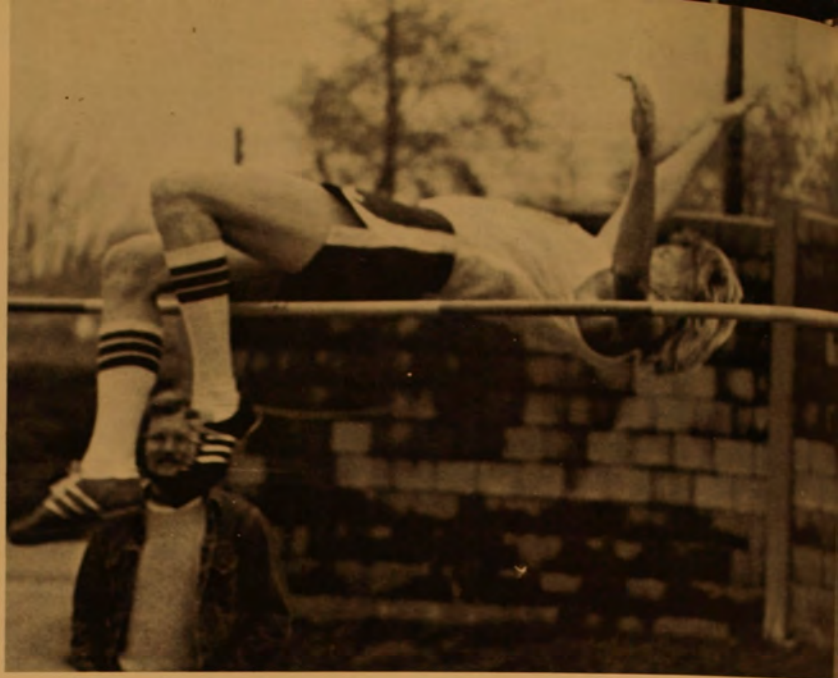

Above: Anthony Carter, Austin Peay's Most Valuable Track Athlete, finishes third in the 100-yard dash behind national class sprinters Lynn Fox and Ed Hammond of Memphis State in the Tennessee Intercollegiate. Left: Anthony Carter's long jump ability sent him to the NCAA championships in both indoor and outdoor track. The freshman's distances were among the best in the nation last year.

IN ADDITION to Carter's achievements, nine other Austin Peay athletes were involved in breaking school records. The Gobs and their events were: Carl Skinner (440-yard dash), David Reintjes (three-mile run), Pete Reed (120-yard high hurdles), Rusty Beard (discus), Pat Osborne (high jump), Ken Guessetto (pole vault) and Robert Elizer, Eddie Richbourg and Elton Pilot, along with Carter (440-yard and mile relay).

INJURIES PLAGUED the Austin Peay State 1973 cross-country team throughout its season. The Governors competed in two dual meets, winning both, placed second in a triangular meet, finished second in the Tennessee Intercollegiate, sixth in the Ohio Valley Conference meet and because of injuries, failed to field a team for two invitationals.

The Govs' best showing of the year came in the Tennessee Intercollegiate where Coach Ken Gunter's harriers were beaten only by the University of Tennessee.

In the Ohio Valley Conference meet at Morehead, injuries beset the Govs again and APSU finished sixth for the second straight year.

WOMEN'S EXTRAMURAL SPORTS became an even more integral part of athletics at Austin Peay State during the 1973-74 year.

Women's teams were fielded in five sports that included basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton and golf.

ALL OF THE APSU women's teams made their mark in competition. The volleyball team finished second in the state tournament in the B division.

The Governette basketball squad lost several of its top individuals during the year but ended up with an above .500 record. The lady Gov net team again placed in the state meet in 1973, finishing fourth.

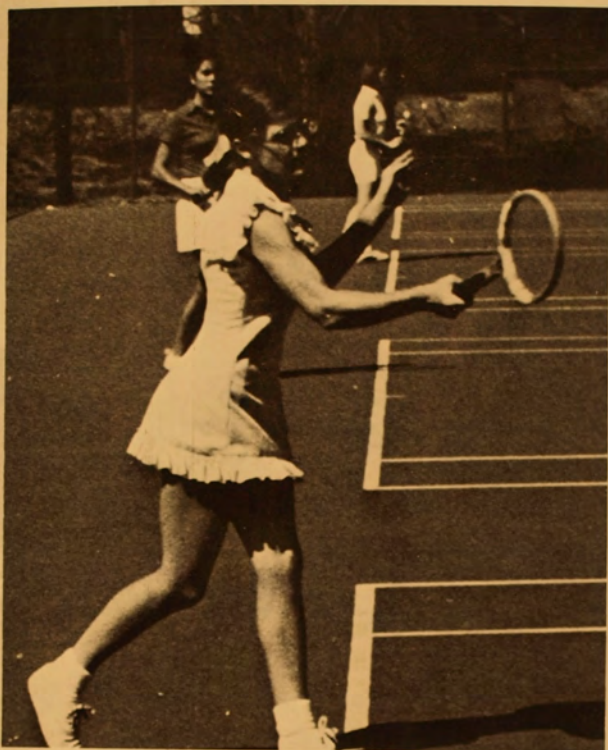

The APSU women's golf team finished second in the state last year even though they didn't play any matches before going to the tournament.

Several individuals of the badminton team made the final rounds of the state meet.

NO LESS THAN 20 sports and activities for men and women made up the 1973-74 docket for the Austin Peay State intramural program. Intramural director Bob Neilson promoted sports that ranged from flag football to pocket billiards to innertube water basketball to co-recreational sports, among others.

SPIRIT PERSONIFIED best describes the 1973-74 Austin Peay State cheerleaders. The squad of ten regulars and three alternates represented the Peay enthusiastically at home and on the road.

Right: Judy Davis leads a chant at a home basketball game.

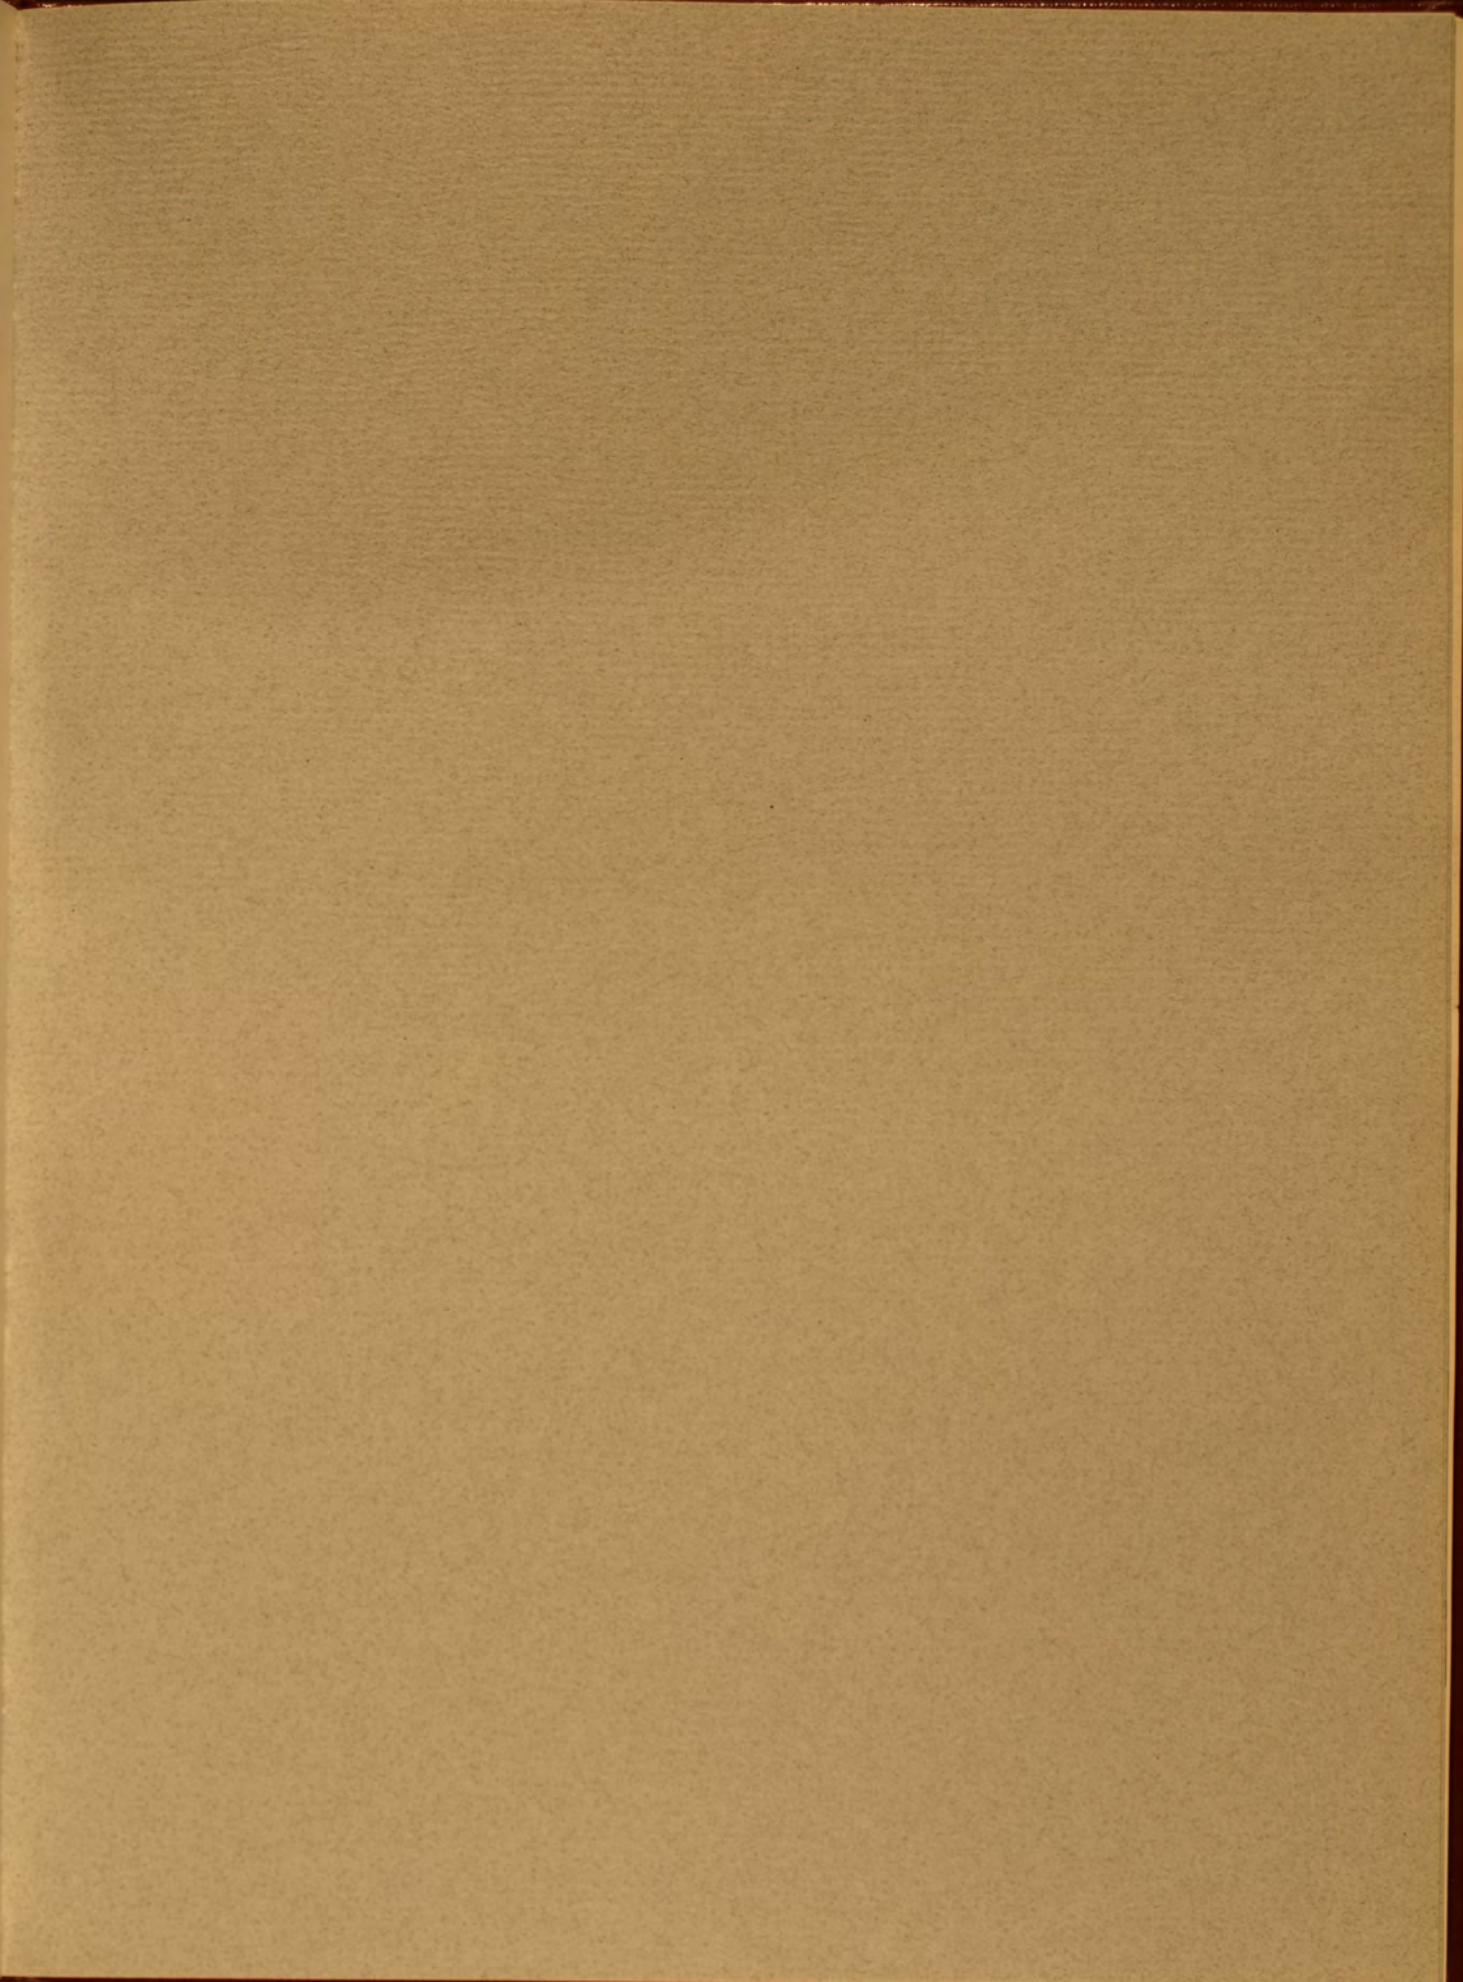

Their faces did not always radiate with excitement, but the APSU cheerleaders were always aware of the situation of the game. Pondering game predicaments are (top) Mary Hopson, (left) Cynthia Hooker and (above) Ivan Adames.

TEAM EFFORTS and individual performances compose the athletic year at Austin Peay State University. Governor athletes go about the business of winning as a team and enjoy lighter moments, also as a team.

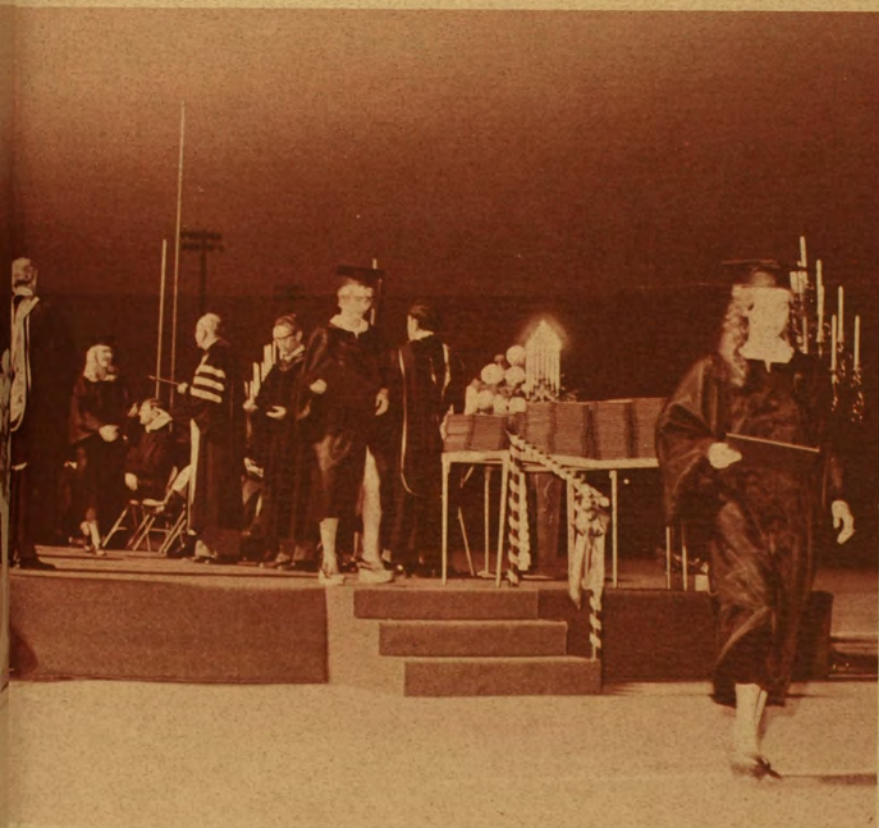

Even though a team only lasts a season, the individuals that make up that team are never forgotten by Austin Peay.

The 29th volume of the FAREWELL & HAIL was printed in Clarksville, Tenn. by the American Yearbook Company, a division of Josten's. The copy face used in the book is Laurel and headlines are 24 pt., body copy 12 pt., and captions are 10 pt. The first 16 pages of the book are printed with full color process. Throughout the remainder of the book black ink is used, with the exception of division pages. The photographs in the book were furnished through the Photographic Services under the supervision of Gerald Tenney, director. His staff consisted of the following student photographers: Ricky Bentley, Marsha Bentley, John Bogle, Donovan Earhart, Wayne Lewis, Dewayne McKinney, and David Wallace. Many thanks go their way. Other sports photographs were contributed by Gene Washer, and class and faculty portraits were made by Rappoport Studios, New York City. Students, we hope, feel themselves lucky to have a yearbook. At the end of spring quarter 1973, plans for a book were in question. However, with the aid of interested members of the SGA and others, the book once again became a reality. This delay meant the staff was starting work two months behind other books in the past. After several meetings with our advisor, things were shaping up. Thanks should go to members of the staff, for a yearbook is not an adventure to be undertaken by one. Jeff Bibb, a sophomore, did an excellent job in carrying out his work on the sports section of the book. Pat Hunt, a freshman, worked long hours in compiling the Professional and Honor Societies section, and assisted Anita Kyriakos with final work of Organizations. Ron Fontes, a senior, helped to make our ideas on yearbook design a reality.

Finally, Michelle Baird, a freshman, aided in compiling the Administration section. Thanks should also go to Roslyn Condra for her aid and ideas on the Academics section, and to Debbie Lentz, an associate editor of the past book, who was there at the right time to aid and guide us in many ways. Not to be forgotten are Mr. Gerald Tenney, advisor, and Mrs. Connie Palmer, secretary. Both worked constantly in scheduling group shots and getting our final photographs. Without them there might have been empty pages. We thank you. A yearbook is a definite challenge — one that is accepted with the idea that all will not be pleased with the final outcome. It is my hope that the students realize the time and effort demanded for such a project, and that the book is appreciated by them, as is by us.
