Joe Morgan Assumes Duties Of President

On January 1, former Commissioner of Education, Joe Morgan assumed the responsibilities of the position of President of Austin Peay State College. Morgan, 48, is a native of Henry County and has served as principal of both elementary and high schools and has been superintendent of schools in Henry County. He has been in the State Department of Education since 1951, serving first as co-director of equalization and field services and then as director of field services. At the time of his appointment as Commissioner, he was executive assistant.

Morgan holds the B. S. degree in education and social science from Murray State College and the M. A. degree in school administration from George Peabody College. His Doctoral degree from Peabody is pending completion of a dissertation.

Morgan married the former Robbie Louise Miller of Henry County. They have a daughter, Mary Ella, 14, and two sons, Joe, 19, a student at Tennessee Tech, and John Graves, 11.

There will be a meeting of The All State staff Wednesday, January 9, at 7 p.m. in The All State office.

The English Club will meet Thursday, January 9, at 7:30 p.m. in Room C-211.

The SNEA will hold a meeting on Tues., Jan. 8 at 7 a.m. in the Audio-Visual Room.

During his college days he served as business manager for his campus newspaper, and he said that at one time he had an ardent desire to go into the field of journalism.

Although Morgan's appointment as president of APSC by the State Board of Education became effective July 1, the Governor requested that he continue as Commissioner of Education until September 1. Later the Governor requested that he remain until January 1. During that time Earl Sexton served as acting president of APSC.

Veterans Receive Vocational Aid

Vocational rehabilitation training is available for the first time to veterans who incurred a disability as a result of service in the armed forces during July 26, 1947 to June 26, 1950, and Feb. 1, 1950 to the present. If receiving compensation from the government because of a disability incurred during either of these periods, a veteran may apply for vocational rehabilitation by obtaining VA Form 22-1900 from any VA Office or local service organization and sending it to the Veterans Administration at Nashville, Tenn.

Nash Added To Faculty

Harold Nash of Huntington, Long Island, is the new assistant professor at Austin Peay State College directing student teaching in secondary schools.

He received his B.S. degree from Rock Port State College, New York, and his Masters Degree from Syracuse University. He is a candidate for Ed.D. at Peabody in June.

Previously he taught in both elementary and junior high schools in Rock Port, New York, and supervised teaching for Rock Port State College. Directly before coming here he supervised student teaching at Vanderbilt University.

Ray Rogers Price, former editor of "The All State", is now working on the desk for the "Southwestern American" in Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Students Invited To Submit Poems

Poetry is wanted for the new 1962-63 Inter-Collegiate Poetry Congress Anthology, which is comprised of poems submitted from colleges and universities all over the country.

Selections will be based upon poetic merit. If accepted, all future publishing rights are to be retained by the author.

All State Holds Contest For Best Dressed APSC Girl

Who is the best dressed girl on campus? We will answer this question for GLAMOUR Magazine in a best dressed girl contest sponsored this month by "The All State." For the seventh year GLAMOUR Magazine is looking for the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America." These young women will be featured in the August 1963, issue of GLAMOUR, and will be flown to New York in June via American Airlines. During their visit to New York the "Ten Best Dressed" will be introduced to over 1,000 members of the fashion industry at a fashion show previewing GLAMOUR'S August issue. Also many other prizes and surprises will be in store for the winners.

Our candidate for best dressed honors should have the following qualification: 1. Good figure, beautiful posture. 2. Clean, shining, well-kept hair. 3. Good grooming—not just neat, but impeccable. 4. A deft hand with make-up (enough to look pretty but not overdone.) 5. A clear understanding of her fashion type. 6. Imagination in managing a clothes budget. 7. A workable wardrobe plan. 8. A suitable campus look (she's in line with local customs). 9. Individuality in her use of colors, accessories. 10. Appropriate—not rash rab-look for off campus occasions. The young woman on our campus who best meets these qualifications will compete with best dressed winners from hundreds of colleges in the United States and Canada for a place in the "Top Ten" listing.

In the next issue of "The All State" we will publish the details concerning the contest. So be on the look out for APSC's best dressed girl!

Managing Editor's note: It is the hope of the editors and everyone else concerned with this contest, that the girl chosen as APSC's best dressed girl will move into the finals and perhaps be chosen as one of America's ten best dressed college girls.

Zoology Students Visit Florida Coast

Dr. Floyd Ford and biology instructor David Snyder accompanied a group of twelve zoology students on a five-day field trip that ranged from the St. Andrews State Park to Long Beach.

Assorted forms of life from the Gulf and lagoons were studied by the students. Specimens chosen worthy of study at a later date were scooped up with nets and placed in preservatives to be used next fall.

The trip was not all given to study. Dr. Ford stressed. He explained that the trek to the Eastrip erip of the Miracle Strip was not compulsory although there was no trouble finding volunteers. Several of the students got in a little swimming during the balmy days, and others, wearing shorts, had enough sun to sport a genuine Florida tan on their return home. The entire group went deepsea fishing.

Rust In AICPA

Jerry H. Rust, Jr., associate professor of Business Administration and Accounting, has been elected a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Apple Becomes New Editor

NANCY APPLE

Nancy Apple, senior English major, is the new editor-in-chief of the Austin Peay State College newspaper, "The All State." She moved up to this position upon the departure of graduating senior Roy Rogers Price who served "The All State" in the capacity of editor for two and one-half years. Nancy, previously the associate editor, said that she and her staff are looking forward to giving the students at APSC an improved college newspaper tailored to fit their needs as readers.

Frances Ann Butler, sophomore English major, is the new managing editor of "The All State." This is a new position created to include the duties previously divided between the associate and assistant editors. During the fall quarter Frances served as assistant editor.

Senior health and physical education major, Ed Fredette, will continue as sports editor for the paper. Besides providing basketball fans with current statistics of the Ohio Valley Conference, Ed and his assistants, John Martin and Tony Boehms are already making preparations for complete coverage of the spring sports which will be beginning in the near future.

Barbara Gayle Smith, business manager for "The All State," will continue in the same capacity under the new title of advertising manager. Barbara is responsible for securing all national and local advertising for "The All State."

Charles Jackson, circulation manager for "The All State," will also serve in the same capacity for the remainder of the year.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"ACTUALLY HE'S DONE PRETTY WELL - WASN'T SHAKED FOR A WEEK!"

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I am delighted to take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation to the administration, faculty and students of Austin Peay State College for the active cooperation and support afforded me as Acting President of the College during the fall quarter. Such support was in keeping with the character and traditions of our campus. It evidences the feeling of mutual concern and responsibility of all college personnel for its progress and growth.

I am grateful for the challenge afforded and the opportunity provided to have served the College in this capacity. I look to the future with nothing but confidence in the destiny of this institution with the same quality of loyal support and cooperation under the leadership of President Morgan.

Sincerely,
Earl E. Sexton

Welcome To Morgan

The students extend congratulations and best wishes to Joe Morgan, the former Tennessee Commissioner of Education, who is now the President of Austin Peay State College. Everyone feels that President Morgan will fill this position with efficiency, perseverance and understanding. Comments heard around campus, also, include various speculations on what changes will take place under our new head administrator. Whatever they are, we can be sure that they will be directed toward the improvement of Austin Peay State and her increased value in the eyes of her students, her sister colleges and universities and everyone interested in seeing our school grow, as it has in the hands of past presidents. J. S. Ziegler was the first president of the college, which was then called Austin Peay Normal School, in Sept., 1929. He died in office in May and was succeeded in the fall of 1930 by Dr. Philander P. Claxton, former U.S. Commissioner of Education. In July, 1946, Dr. Claxton was retired by the State Board of Education, and Halbert Harvill, long-time Dean-Registrar of the college, was elected president in Aug., 1946. When Harvill was retired by the State Board of Education last Sept., Earl E. Sexton, director of field activities at APSC, served as acting president until Morgan assumed the presidency this winter quarter. President Morgan has already expressed his intention to work toward the future progress of our school, and he can be assured of the support and backing of the students at Austin Peay State College.

Letters to the editor are welcome and are printed whenever possible. They should be clear, to the point, and in good taste. All letters must be signed, but the names may be withheld upon request. Unsigned letters will be rejected.

Letters to the editor do not necessarily represent the opinion of the editorial staff nor that of the editor.

Letters should be addressed: Editor, The All State, Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tennessee.

Seat Belts Tighten Traffic Toll

Every year, about 40,000 Americans are killed in car accidents.

If those figures aren't grim enough, then consider this: More than 1,500,000 people suffer disabling injuries.

According to the American Medical Association, nationwide use of seat belts would have saved thousands of lives, dollars and untold hours of suffering and heartache. In fact, the AMA predicts we could probably save 5,000 lives every year and reduce the serious injury figures by more than one half.

Today, seat belts are inexpensive and easy to install—most automobile manufacturers include belt attachments as standard equipment.

To the complaint that, "It's too much trouble to be always fastening and unfastening seat belts," the AMA points out that belts can be fastened in two seconds flat and loosened with a flick of the wrist.

Many drivers say they don't do much distance driving. But a 1958 survey showed that 47 per cent of all car deaths occurred at speeds below 40 m.p.h.—and 66 per cent took place within 25 miles of the driver's home.

A GUIDE FOR THE UNMONEYED

R. L. Sigafous was a keen, ambitious lad, and when he finished high school he wished mightily to go on with his education. It seemed, however, a forlorn hope. R. L.'s father could not send the boy to college because a series of crop failures had brought him to the brink of disaster. (R. L.'s father raised orchids which, in North Dakota, is a form of agriculture fraught with risk.)

It was, therefore, squarely up to R. L. He could go to college only if he worked his way through. This was a prospect that dismayed him. He had a deep-seated fear that the task would be too great, that he would never be able to carry on a full, busy college life and still find time to do odd jobs and make money. Backed with misgivings, R. L. paced the streets, pondering his dilemma. One day, walking and brooding, he came upon a park bench and sat down and lit a Marlboro cigarette. R. L. always lit a Marlboro when he was low in his mind. R. L. also always lit a Marlboro when he was merry. The fact is there is no occasion—happy or sad, generous or calculating, cheery or solemn—when Marlboro with its fine filter and fine flavor is not entirely welcome, as you will discover when you go to your favorite tobaccoist and buy some, as we—the makers of Marlboro and I and R. L. Sigafous—hope you will do soon.

Sitting and thinking and smoking a Marlboro on the park bench, R. L. was suddenly interrupted by a small, quavering voice which said, "My boy, you are troubled. Can I help?"

I gave a Lenten Lesson to the Dean of Women

Seated beside R. L. was a tiny, gaunt man with wispy, snow-white hair. His skin was almost transparent, showing a delicate tracery of fragile bones beneath. His back was bent, and his hands trembled. But his eyes were bright and clear. R. L. looked into those eyes, into the wrinkled face. He saw wisdom there, and experience, and kindness. "Do you think, sir," said R. L., "that a boy can work his way through college and still enjoy a rich, full campus life?"

"Why, bless you, son," replied the stranger with a cheery chuckle, "of course you can. In fact, I did it myself."

"Was it very hard?" asked R. L.

"Yes, it was hard," the stranger admitted. "But when one is young, all things are possible. I, for example, used to get up at five o'clock every morning to stoke the furnace at the SAE house. At six I had to milk the ewes at the school of animal husbandry. At seven I gave a fencing lesson to the Dean of Women. At eight I had a class in early Runie poets. At nine I gave haircuts at the Gamma Phi Beta house. At ten I had differential calculus. At eleven I posed for a life class. At twelve I watered soap at the Union. At one I had a class in Oriental languages. At two I exercised the mice in psych lab. At three I gave the Dean of Women another fencing lesson. At four I had qualitative analysis. At five I went climbing. At six I cut most for the football team. At seven I studied at the movies. At eight I had my ears pierced so that at nine I could tell fortune in a gypsy tearoom. At ten I had a class in astronomy. At eleven I tucked in the football team. At twelve I studied and at three I went to sleep."

"Sir," cried R. L., "I am moved and inspired by your shining example!"

"It was nothing," said the stranger modestly, shaking his frail white head. "It was just hard work, and hard work never hurt anybody."

"Would you mind telling me, sir," said R. L., "how old you are now?"

"Twenty-two," said the stranger.

Sideline Views

By

Ed

Fredette

Happy New Year, my local sports followers. With the new year confronting us, let us continue bringing to our campus and school the prestige and recognition we are entitled to.

I was naturally disappointed with many of the bowl games over the holidays especially that free scoring spree witnessed by thousands at Pasadena, Calif. The Granddaddy of them all, the Rose Bowl, will definitely be remembered for years to come.

The SEC conference representatives surely demonstrated that they are a worthwhile conference to be represented in a bowl.

One remark Paul "Bear" Bryant made about his All-American linebacker, Lee Roy Jordan that I felt was numerous was this: "Jordan was not an All-American but All-World. Heck, I personally, think he is All-Universer. No other man alive can equal his power and sensibility on the gridiron, except, perhaps, if Mars has supermen."

Richard Moore, the sensational field general of APSC this past football season, was notably selected to Williamson's 1962 Little All-American squad. Moore personally holds almost all APSC records. It is a pleasure for me to print this on Richard Moore, as, in my eyes, he is a most deserving football player. I could easily have seen this lad on the major college All-American teams, but unfortunately, I don't carry any weight in that department. We are proud of you, Richard, and we will be following your forthcoming coaching career.

Rodney Rodgers, APSC quarterback known to many as "Squashy," made the final number of the holidays. He carried his high school sweetheart. Congratulations from the sports staff.

Steve Miller, the fine 6'5" forward for APSC, is among the leaders of the nation in small college field goal percentage leaders. Steve has attained 46 field goals and has made 30 for a second place berth with a percentage of .652.

Miller is, by all means, the most improved player on the APSC team. He is not only consistent, but a real work horse on the boards.

Doug Stamper, Steve Miller's roommate, is hitting at a 20.5 game average. Looks as if good things come in a pair. What even happens, I hope these roommates keep living together. Who knows what would happen if they split up.

The Blazing Saters made a fine gesture after the first game by carrying Coach Fisher off the floor. His debut as head basketball coach was a great success, and also brought APSC its first win of the year. I hope many more occasions such as this arise.

I, for one, am an ardent fan and follower of basketball, and like most everyone else, feel that half-time is a time to leave the gym and stretch those numbed sections of the body. I enjoy a smoke and a coke while re-hashing the action of the first half, but Saturday night I was shocked. I realize that the concession stand is busy at half-time, but not too busy to give the thirsty fans a half cup of coke for a dime. I wonder if anyone else noticed this?

Fred Overton, APSC freshman basketball coach, spent his holidays scouting future basketball players. Fred saw some of Illinois' finest athletes perform at the Centralia Holiday Tournament at Centralia, Ill.

Head basketball coach, George Fisher, had his roundballers return to practice Dec. 26. He definitely didn't give the boys time to put on that extra holiday weight, which has been so common from Mom's time cooking. The boys worked out twice daily, and from what I have observed, it has really paid off. The boys complain about running at times, as anyone would, but the results show themselves on the hardwood.

End coach, Gordon Schultz, has signed Tom Smith, a Fond-du-Lac, Wis. product. Tom is 6'4" tall and weighs 210 pounds. He was quarterback for his high school team, which is in the Fox River Valley League.

Governors To Host Raiders

By TONY BOEHMS

The Governors will face strong opposition as they enter their second week of post holiday game competition.

The Gavs will host the Raiders of Middle Tennessee State College in Memorial Gymnasium Thursday, Jan. 10, then travel to Jonesboro, Ark., to face Arkansas State College and return home on Monday night to meet the Florence State Lions.

The Governor cagers squeezed by the Raiders in their pre-Christmas road engagement by a 69-66 score and will be out to score a larger victory margin on their home floor.

The Monday night home encounter with Florence State will be a good opportunity for the Gavs to gain revenge for the surprising defeat on the Lions floor.

The week-end road trip to Arkansas State should be another big test for the young Governor cager's road ability which was the big question mark when the season opened. The Indians show a successful pre-holiday record and are a perennial home toughie.

"An optimist is a fisherman who takes along a camera."

Gavs Beaten By ETSC

By JOHN MARTIN

The Governors suffered their first home defeat of the season against East Tennessee State College Jan. 2, by the score of 83-60.

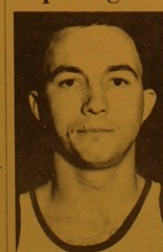

ETSC, defeating the Gavs for the second time this season, was led by Jim Riddick (21 points), Willie Malone (16 points), Les Phillips (15 points) and Bill Newbold (14 points). Riddick and Mal Roberts led the Buccaneers in rebounding with ten and 12 rebounds each.

APSC was again led by Doug Stamper (17 points), Henney Murray (12 points) and Jackie Winders (10 points) were the only other Governors to hit in double figures.

The Gavs outshot the Buccaneers 45.3% to 44.4% but the Bucs with Phillips at 6'7" and 217 pounds, Roberts at 6'7" and 200 pounds and Riddick at 6'4" and 200 pounds used their size to tremendous advantage in both scoring and rebounding.

Sportlight

Doug Stamper, APSC's fine floor general, has been chosen as the outstanding player for his fine display of scoring and generalship as a leader. He has been scoring at a 20.5 average per game.
