AP student assaulted

By ELAINE McELHANNON

An APSU senior was a victim of assault and battery in the Sevier-Blount parking lot last Saturday.

According to campus police chief John Wagoner the woman, who wishes to remain unidentified, was attacked while getting out of her car.

A man approached her from behind and forced her back into the car. She got out of the car on the passenger side and the man followed her, continuing to beat her, according to a police report filed by Steven McMahan, the officer who responded at the scene of the attack.

Another man, who also wishes to remain unidentified, heard the woman's cries as he was walking on a nearby sidewalk and ran to her defense. The assailant then fled through the tennis courts after seeing the approaching man.

According to Wagoner, she filed a complaint immediately. She was taken to Memorial Hospital and released with minor injuries. The Clarksville Police Department was notified and given a description of the assailant.

An investigation is being conducted by the campus police department and according to Wagoner there is a prime suspect for the crime. Neither the woman nor the witness has been able to make a positive identification of the assailant, but Wagoner said the campus police have some strong leads that are being followed.

"We're trying to locate him now," Wagoner said, adding, "Some things are going down to the lab to be analyzed."

Wagoner emphasized steps students should take in the event of a crime. "If you are a victim of assault, it is very important to report it to the campus police immediately."

"In order for us to adequately protect the community, any and all assaults must be reported; number one, to put an end to the assaults and number two, to stop the rumors of assaults."

Wagoner encouraged anyone with information that may lead to the arrest of the suspect in this recent assault to contact the APSU police department.

Lack of people causes cutbacks in WAPX broadcasting hours

By JASON CUNNINGHAM

Austin Peay's WAPX-FM has cut its broadcasting hours back by 50 percent since its return to the airways Sept. 30.

According to WAPX station manager David von Palko, the station was on the air 12 hours a day last year. "The main reason (for the cutback) has been a lack of trained, qualified and dedicated people," von Palko said, adding, "We lost a lot of people last year."

"I'm very pleased with returning staff members and the new students. I'm impressed with their attitudes, interests, excitement and the potential that they have."

"As a noncommercial educational FM station, we have a responsibility to provide as much alternative programming as possible. We have to do some programs that students don't think are fun," he added.

According to von Palko, the station's primary purpose is to train aspiring broadcasters. This is an opportunity only a small number of students have taken advantage of.

As the academic year progresses, the radio staff is expected to increase. Attaining an "18 hour a day, seven days a week" broadcast schedule is one of his main goals, von Palko said.

"The benefit to the campus and local community would be tremendous," he stated.

Any student, regardless of major, is eligible to work at the station. For more information, students should contact

Mike Burkhart, general manager, or Bobby Belvin, program director at WAPX, 648-7203.

Also, students interested in working in news or information areas should telephone Gene Hardman, information director, or visit the station.

WAPX can currently be heard from 3 to 9 p.m. on weekdays. On weekends, the station broadcasts from noon to 6 p.m. Saturday, and from 6 to 9 a.m. on Sunday. WAPX is located at the 91.7 position on the FM dial.

Stamper outlines Ellington renovation plans

By ALLAN DANIELS

Renovation of Ellington Hall could begin as early as winter quarter, but is more likely to start next summer, according to Dr. Wayne Stamper, executive assistant to the president.

"I don't have a date on that yet," Stamper said, adding that "it could happen before June but I'm hopeful that it won't."

Stamper said that the bid process has not been finalized for the project because the currently projected cost is greater than the amount budgeted for the renovation by the state.

He said that up to this point the administration had been "idealistic about what we want," but now are "putting ideas against dollars."

Once the project cost is brought back under the budget, Stamper said, "We're following up with the drawing of the blueprints and the completion of the bid document."

Currently, the administration's plans are to place all student-oriented services in Ellington when the renovation is completed.

"We're trying to do it the various operational groups are in the vicinity of each other, so the students' needs can be met quicker," Stamper stated.

"On the first floor, we're planning to house student financial aid, admissions and records, and housing as major functions," he said.

Calling these "high traffic areas," Stamper said that when new students and their parents come to campus currently "they're run all over campus, trying to find these offices."

Austin Peay's housing office is already in Ellington Hall, while admissions and records as well as financial aid are currently located in the Browning Building.

"On the second floor, Dean Weast's office and his support staff will be housed there. We'll also bring the placement office over from Emerald Hills and will have career counseling and the infirmary all located on the second floor," he stated.

Sorority suites will remain on the third floor, according to Stamper.

In addition, Stamper stated that "we'll have rooms set up that could be used for academic advisement by our faculty. A few of them could be there at different times of the year."

The basement will be used to house a permanent storage record area for records currently located at several different campus areas.

Stamper added that he hopes the renovation of Ellington Hall and the Memorial Health Building do not overlap. "I hope we can dovetail the completion of one with the initiation of the other."

"We can handle one major project at a time on this campus," Stamper said, "not three or four."

SGA accepts new members

By JOEL WILBORN

New SGA senators, members and the year's first bills headlined last Thursday's meeting of the SGA.

The meeting was opened by Erik Chase, SGA vice-president. President David England was not present because he had "things to take care of," according to Chase.

Chase named the members of a day care task force. He also announced that the name of Senior Day has been changed to Austin Peay Day and will be held Nov. 9.

Johnny Minetos was accepted by the senators as the new chief justice. Minetos swore in new senators from the college of arts and sciences, accepted by the senate last week, with the exception of Rob Bateman, who was not present.

The senators then voted to accept the newly chosen members of the student tribunal. Other senate elections were as follows:

College of Arts and Sciences: Scott Atkins and Thomas Cooper.

College of Business: Tod Williams.

First-quarter senators: Peter Minetos, Andy Plummer and Terry Welker.

Senators-at-large: Chris Ashley, Rob Bateman, Tammy Hawkins, Yolanda Kirkpatrick and Derrell Moore.

University Assembly: Tom Dixon, Michael Patrick and Bobby Hughes.

All three senate nominees and newly elected senators were accepted by the SGA and sworn in by Minetos.

Two bills were presented to the senate. Both were accepted. They are as follows:

"An act to fund a reception for foreign students and faculty. This event will take place October 25 and the senate agreed to allocate $250 for expenses."

"A resolution concerning the use of the Dunn Center for intramurals. This bill involves the use of the Dunn center for intramural basketball games and tournaments."

Karate club adviser gives self-awareness tips in Sevier

By MERCI CHARTRAND

"The primary line of defense has to be yourself. You have to think about your own safety," advised David von Palko, faculty adviser of Austin Peay's Shotokan Karate Club, in a defense—awareness class in Sevier Hall last week.

von Palko stated that one out of every three females will be raped in the course of their lives. He added that the recorded ages of rape victims range from a six-month-old child to a 98-year-old woman.

"Your height, weight, complexion, or hair color don't make a whole lot of difference," von Palko said, adding that "rapists are indiscriminate. They are opportunists."

"Male or female of any age is a potential victim," he said.

"I believe that the choice when and with whom to have sexual activity is a personal choice, and a female should have the right to say no," von Palko said, adding "but as with all rights we have as human beings, there is a responsibility that goes along with that."

He noted that "the responsibility here is awareness. The number one line of defense is awareness."

People must be aware of their surroundings—of the people and places they encounter, von Palko suggested. "Avoid putting yourself in a vulnerable situation. Don't ask for trouble," he said. "Women have to think about their safety; they can't depend on someone else being there to rescue them."

During the class, von Palko gave several suggestions on how to avoid an attack and how people should handle themselves in the event of an attack.

"Most attackers will be someone you know, or someone you've had contact with, according to von Palko.

"The most prevalent place for rapes to occur is in the home. von Palko explained that this is because people are at ease at home and tend to let their guard down."

"Always check doors and windows and make sure they're locked. This goes for at home as well as in the car."

von Palko noted that in the dorms there is a "consolidation of potential victims. However, in the communal sense there is a greater responsibility to protect yourself and others."

"You should never give out the combination on the door, von Palko noted, "it is there for your protection."

"Learn some measure of self defense to get away in the case of an attack, von Palko stated that certain techniques may be learned for self defense."

He pointed out that good targets to hit an attacker with the heel of the shoe are the bridge of the foot, the shin, the knee or the groin. He added, however, that if you strike these areas, the strike must be serious. "You must get angry—fight with conviction," he said.

Fingers and elbows are effective weapons. Fingernails can mark the attacker's face, making him more easily recognizable, according to von Palko. An elbow to the bridge of the nose, the chest or under the chin will usually stop the attacker for a moment. "You are looking for those few seconds in which you can get away," he said.

"If an attacker gets you into a car, you are in trouble," von Palko stated. In that case, however, he suggested one should turn the car off, remove the keys, and steer into a parked car or ram the gearshift lever into park "Do something to cause a commotion," he suggested.

von Palko gave other precautions to take to avoid potential attacks:

"Check your vehicle before you get into it and make sure you lock the doors once inside."

"If you are driving and think you are being followed, do not go home. This allows the attacker to know where you live. Instead, von Palko suggests that you drive to a well-lighted area or to the police station and continuously blow the car horn."

"Don't walk alone at night. If you must walk alone, von Palko suggests that you avoid bushes, trees, doorways and parked cars."

"Think about what you wear. Attackers looking for an easy victim will pick someone whose clothing can be removed easily, he warned."

The Shotokan Karate Club promotes physical fitness and self defense. Anyone interested in getting involved with the club should contact von Palko through WAPX or the department of speech, communication and theater.

APSU Forensics team captures fourth place

By JENNY MELTON

Several members of the forensics team are making a name for themselves at Austin Peay in collegiate competition.

Cary Beals, a member of the debate team, received first place in the novice division of a debate meet held Oct. 3-6 at Vanderbilt University.

Beals' partner, Allan Daniels, and team coach Mike Gotcher also attended the Nashville meet.

The forensics team captured fourth place overall in last weekend's Speak Easy Forensic Tournament at the University of Alabama-Birmingham.

During the tournament, attended by competitors from 24 colleges in 11 states, three team members also qualified to attend the national forensics tournament, to be held at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in April.

AP enrollment decreases

Enrollment at Austin Peay declined 5 percent this year, consistent with a decline in university enrollments throughout the country.

Dr. James Schellhammer, dean of admissions and records, said the 14-day headcount at Austin Peay was 4,703, down 268 students from the 14-day count for 1984.

Austin Peay's Fort Campbell Center will have a second eight-week term with that enrollment figure to be added to the final report to the State Board of Regents from the university.

According to Austin Peay's office of public affairs, the 5 percent decrease is in line with earlier projections by the university and will not affect funding of the institution.

Awards given

Three Clarksville women have been awarded special scholarships while attending APSU.

Beverly Blackard, Roze Ellen Goodmiller and Sharon King were selected for Hendon-Stokes Scholarships for the 1985-86 academic year.

Blackard is a sophomore majoring in special education and Goodmiller is a business major in her final year at Austin Peay. King is a junior and is also a special education major.

"This is excellent. What I'm trying to do is build a team to go to nationals, and we are well on our way," Gotcher said, pointing out that at this time last year only one team member had qualified for the national tournament.

Leading the list of qualifying members was junior LuEllen Boyer, who placed second in prose from among 62 competitors.

Also, sophomore Celina Harrison took third from among 72 competitors in impromptu speaking, and freshman Kenneth Swanson placed eighth in prose.

The debate team of Allan Daniels and Rory Davis placed fifth out of 44 teams.

"There is a lot of talent here at Austin Peay, but it needs to be cultivated, that is what forensics can do for students," Gotcher stated.

"Austin Peay students can compete against students at Vanderbilt, Harvard or Yale universities and win. All it takes is training. Debate and forensics can give that training," Gotcher added.

Gotcher explained that forensics is an oral presentation of ideas. The study of forensics included dramatic interpretation, prose, informative speaking, communication analysis (the application of communication principles to a communication event), debate and other dramatic studies.

Forensics classes are offered at Austin Peay but are not required in order for a student to be a member of the forensics team.

Students interested in joining the team should either contact Gotcher at 7363 or attend a regular team meeting. Team meetings are held Wednesdays at 3 p.m. in room 420B of the Trahern Building.

This weekend the forensics team travels to the University of Tennessee-Knoxville to compete in the Volunteer Invitational Forensics Tournament.

Health complex tested for asbestos

By ROBERT O' BRIEN

Asbestos testing will be conducted at the Memorial Health complex during the course of the recent renovation.

The complex was closed Oct. 9 for the renovation, which includes the installation of a new roof, new air conditioning and heating systems and repair of the gym floor.

Red River Construction of Clarksville has been contracted for the renovation, which is being supervised by Austin Peay's physical plant. The contract duration is 210 days.

Asbestos is a fibrous mineral consisting of magnesium silicate. In the past, asbestos has been used for fireproofing and insulation purposes in construction. It is no longer used for these purposes due to health problems it can cause, especially if inhaled.

According to Bill Taylor, director of the physical plant, asbestos is only a health hazard if "it is disturbed." Taylor found that in most cases, asbestos is found in "restricted areas, or out of reach" of the general public.

During the recent renovation of the library basement, asbestos was removed, but according to tests conducted, the percentage of asbestos in the air was below the maximum allowable rate.

The removal of asbestos must be done according to strenuous State Board of Health guidelines, and physical plant will supervise the removal in the health complex, which will be executed by a private contractor to be hired by Red River Construction.

In addition to the renovation of the Memorial Health Complex, physical plant will oversee the renovation of Ellington Hall, later in the school year, and the construction of Austin Peay's proposed new music building. Physical plant also handles maintenance of roads and grounds at Austin Peay and utilities for all campus buildings.

New vice president adjusts to APSU

By KAYE CROUCH

The new member of APSU's administrative staff is Dr. John Butler, who replaced Dr. James Sawrey as vice president of academic affairs Sept. 1.

Although Butler began his job less than three weeks prior to the start of fall quarter classes, he told The All State that this has caused few problems. He has, however, spent a good deal of time attending meetings to become acquainted with procedures at APSU.

His only crises in his new position so far have been usual problems, such as having too little funding for programs to be implemented. He went on to say that this is not a major problem at the moment and that he hopes to find a solution in the next couple of years.

Butler stated he was most surprised by the number of students here on campus. "I came expecting to find 5,000 students living on campus and was surprised by the number of students at Fort Campbell and the number who commute."

He also stated that he holds an "open-door" policy when it comes to dealing with students and their problems. "I may send them back to the area where they have the problem, but I'm always willing to listen and help in any way I can."

Butler only recently finished moving his family to Clarksville from New Mexico. He and his wife have what he termed "a merged family," with five children between them but with only one son, who is a student at Montgomery Central, still at home.

"We need to have a formal escort service. I'm surprised there isn't anything. Frankly, I just assumed there was. There are so many places on this campus that it can happen. It's so easy, particularly with the military base so nearby, it's painfully easy to get a weapon here. Not that I'm saying it's very likely; but if it isn't, it's going to be. It's a trend. On off days there aren't a lot of people around, security or no security, I think it's just a matter of time before that becomes a luxury we can't afford."

PAUL LANCASTER:

Campus parking must be hardest course

My first moments on Austin Peay's campus were used to carefully select a parking space. I had heard about people getting tickets and I didn't want one. I found a nice big lot for my car, and checked the sign to make sure that I was allowed to park there. The sign said that it was for APSU students, so I parked.

I proceeded to go to eat breakfast, but before I got there I found another big lot much closer. So I went back, got my car, and re-parked.

After breakfast, I headed off to class. On the way, I noticed a public safety officer was writing out a ticket for a motorcycle that was parked in a motorcycle parking area. This was clearly printed on the curb—"motorcycle parking."

I asked him why he was writing the ticket, and pointed out that printed on the blue curb were the words "motorcycle parking." He pointed out that because it was a blue curb that it was only for staff.

I wondered if I should ask about my parking spot. I didn't really want a ticket. So I told him that I was parked near the football stadium.

He informed me that I could not park there, the lot for those who commute—those with green parking tags. "But I commute from Emerald Hills," I said. That didn't count. "Last year," he said.

Once again, I moved my car. This time a nearby sign stated "red decal parking only," but I was still worried. The curb was painted white.

And I thought going to college would be difficult. It's nothing compared to parking. And now that I've got parking figured out, I'm going to walk to school!

Governor golfers take second in tournament

By SUZANNE ALEXANDER

Austin Peay men's golf team finished second out of eight teams participating in the Goodyear Intercollegiate Golf Classic Tournament in Union City. The rain-delayed, 27-hole tournament was held Sept. 29-Oct. 1 at the par 726,900-yard Wingfoot Golf Club.

The University of Northern Alabama won the tournament with a score of 461. Austin Peay was second with 465, and Murray State University shot 466 for third place.

Austin Peay sophomores, Craig Rudolph and Jeff Buder, were named all-tournament players. Both shot 39-77 for a total of 116. Senior Kevin Corrieau finished 41-76 for 117 with David Beard following, 43-75 for 118. The team turned in 305 for the lowest score of the second day, making up three places to finish second.

Rain halted play the opening day after nine holes, and the tournament committee decided to play 18 holes the following day. Austin Peay coach Paul Powers said the weather "was miserable" and it was "hard for anyone to get a good grip on a club."

Powers said the bright spot of the tournament for Austin Peay was beating MTSU and Murray State. "That's what we went up there to do, and we accomplished it," Powers said. "Beating those two schools was a victory in itself."

The Murray State Fall Intercollegiate Tournament at Murray, Ky., was the first fall tournament for Austin Peay. Coming in fourth in a field of 13 at the par 72, 6900-yard Miller Memorial Golf Club, the Governor golfers played 54 holes for a total of 921.

The University of Kentucky team came in third with 915, and the University of Louisville shot 920 for fourth place.

Corrieau led the Governor team with 231 for 54 holes, with Beard, Buder and Taylor following closely with 232 each. Rudolph shot 234, and Ball finished with 249.

Powers said the Gobs "beat a lot of good teams" and it was "a good start" for the year. It was Rudolph's first tournament with the Governor team and the first tournament he had played in two years, so "he really felt the pressure," Powers added.

"It gave us a good idea of the strengths and weaknesses of other teams in the OVC. It shows us what we have to do before next spring," Powers said.

The golf team played in the Tri-State Classic Tournament Sunday through Tuesday at Pickwick State Park Golf Course. Results of the tournament will be published later.

Red Barn relocates many services

By DAWN WELKER

The Red Barn closed its doors last Wednesday for the beginning of renovation. Work on the building is expected to last through winter quarter to the beginning of spring quarter.

The swimming pool will remain available to students, opening Monday through Thursday at 4:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Students planning on swimming should come to the pool dressed in their swim suits; the dressing rooms are closed and swimmers will not be able to use them.

Students will enter and exit the pool through the outside door.

The offices of the intramural director, Drew Simmons, and assistant director, Rick Scango, are now located in the north wing of Ellington Hall across from student health services. A small workout room is located there and is available to students.

Despite the closing of the Red Barn there are still several activities for students. Aerobic classes are being taught in the Armory, at 4:30 and 5:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Instructors for the classes are Cheryl Spain and Tracy Pilkington.

Women's intramural volleyball is played in the Armory on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Anyone interested in playing in a weekend softball tournament should contact Simmons at Ellington Hall.

Governors take first OVC victory, 14-10

By GEORGE HARRIS

The Austin Peay Governors had to come from behind to win their first OVC game, with two fourth-quarter touchdowns.

They beat a tough Morehead State 11 of the last 12 times they have played. (This win gives Austin Peay a 3-2 record overall with a 1-1 standing in the OVC.) Morehead State is 1-5 overall and 0-3 in the conference.

The Govs for the first time this season used a 'hurry-up' offense.

On the Govs' first possession, they obtained three first-downs, moving the ball from their own 27 to the Morehead 32 yardline before stalling the drive. Kicker Brian Yarbrough came on to kick a field goal, but the attempt fell short.

The Govs' next offensive drive ended when they fumbled, turning the ball over at their own 18-yard line. From there, Morehead took advantage of the miscue and scored in the three plays, giving them a 7-0 lead. That was the score at the end of the first half.

The Govs used two quarterback in the first half, replacing Rickey Rice with Dale Edwards until Head Coach Emory Hale decided Rice should complete the rest of the game. Both quarterbacks were sacked three times in the first two periods resulting in a 20-yard loss by the end of the second period.

In the second half the Govs' offense decided to take over, mounting their longest drive of the season, totaling 93 yards. It was capped with a 5-yard touchdown by running back William Nathiel to even the score.

After a Morehead field goal gave the Eagles a lead 10-7, Austin Peay gave Morehead a little bit too much to handle. They moved the ball 70 yards in 14 plays.

The drive ended when Rob Senft caught a touchdown pass by Rice with 3:04 remaining in the game, giving the Govs a 14-10 lead that they never relinquished.

Offensively, Rice completed nine of 14 passes for 58 yards and also ran for 28 yards. Nathaniel and running back Mike Lewis led the rushing attack for the Govs, gaining 63 yards apiece. Defensively, for the Govs, Mike Blair led with 10 tackles followed by Mike Hamilton with nine. Vince Allen and Chuck Kiward were both out with injuries.

The Governors will again be on the road this weekend as they play Youngstown State at Youngstown, Ohio.

APSU runners gear up for OVC

By KERRY LANCASTER

Austin Peay's cross-country team, gearing up for the OVC championship, has turned a few heads in the conference.

Led by top runners James Murphy, James Faulkner and John Ryan, the Gavs placed second in a field of 38 teams at a Fisk University tournament Oct. 5.

Murphy and Faulkner finished 1-2 in the tournament that featured schools as large as Vanderbilt University. Each was clocked at 24:48 in the five-mile race.

Ryan placed in the top 10, at 25:02. Jackson State won the tournament, leading Austin Peay by only nine points.

The season finale, the OVC championship, takes place Oct. 26 at Morehead State and the squad from Austin Peay figures to be among the top contenders, according to head coach, Dr. Tony Brien.

"We haven't been beaten this year by an OVC school," he said. He pointed out that the Gavs have yet to run this year against Akron and Eastern Kentucky, the two teams with the strongest credentials in the conference.

"I think the worse we'll do is second," he added, giving a slight nod to Akron. "I'd say we have a relatively good shot at knocking Eastern off."

Eastern is the defending OVC champion team, but Akron's tight pack marks it as a slight favorite among other OVC coaches to capture team honors, according to Coach Brien.

Brien thinks Murphy, Faulkner and Ryan have a good chance to take individual honors. "The top three are running really tough. They could go 1-2-3," he said.

Austin Peay has never won the OVC Cross-Country Championship. The hope of achieving that goal lies on the shoulders of the numbers four and five runners, according to Brien.

In cross-country competition the top five members of each team receive point scores, making the number five runner as important as the team's best runner in team competition. When the top five individual runner's scores are totaled the team with the lowest composite score wins the team title. Barry Phelps and Wayne Nguyen are currently at numbers four and five respectively, on the AP squad. Each is running a 27-minute time or better, but Brien would like to see him top five clock within one minute of each other.

Running sixth is Frank Coats. Larry Molloy and Anthony Kearney are injured and Kieran Phipps is ineligible, pending receipt of transcripts from Northern Arizona.

There will be 50 runners at the OVC Championship Oct. 26 and Austin Peay will send its top seven.

Alcohol Awareness Week planned

By TRACEY KELLY

Plans are being finalized for the observation of National Alcohol Awareness Week, Oct. 21 through 26, at Austin Peay. According to Audrey Nelson, president of BACCHUS, and Mary Johnson, UAB coordinator for minority programming, a side variety of activities will be offered to students during the week.

A car that was wrecked in an alcohol-related accident will be displayed in the UC bowl as a reminder to students not to drink and drive.

Students will also be encouraged to participate in a survey distributed by Diane Berty. The survey is aimed at members of Austin Peay's Greek community, but all students will be given an opportunity to respond.

A discussion led by Dr. Peter Minetos and State

Representative David Ussery, will be held Oct. 21 at 7 p.m. in the UC ballroom. Minetos will discuss the medical and psychological effects of alcohol, and Ussery will discuss alcohol-related legislation and law enforcement.

A film promoted by Ajax Distributors a Clarksville firm, will be screened Oct. 22, with time and location TBA.

An alcohol rap session will be held Oct. 24 from 6 to 9 p.m. in the UC ballroom.

Oct. 26 has been designated Parents' Day, with information on alcohol to be provided to parents.

For more information on these activities, students should contact Nelson at 648-7396, or Johnson at 648-6164.

Campus community revs up for homecoming

Homecoming, Oct. 28 through Nov. 2, will be the "Greatest Show on Earth"—a week of fun and reunions with friends at Austin Peay.

From camel and elephant rides to the gridiron matchup between the Gobs and Kentucky State, the celebration will consist of special activities for students, alumni and those living in the Clarksville area.

Students in wild-colored togas will invade campus for APSU's Halloween toga party featuring Otis Day and the Knights.

Set to begin Oct. 31 immediately following the Homecoming pep rally and bonfire, the 10 p.m. concert and toga party will be held in the Dunn Center.

Barbara Burke, director of student activities, said the concert party will feature a toga theme, just as in the "Animal House" movie. Prizes will be awarded for the best toga and for the best actor dancer.

National Lampoon's "Animal House" made

Dewayne Jesse popular as Otis Day. Backed by a four-piece band consisting of hot Los Angeles session players and two backup singers, Otis Day has been playing to capacity crowds at colleges, universities and large clubs across the country.

The party band made famous again such songs as "Louie, Louie," "Twist and Shout," and "Shamalamama Ding Dong."

Day's reviews note that he has a "magnetism that keeps the crowd fired up with swaying, singing and dancing to the music and antics on stage. His other film and TV credits include "Car Wash," "Hill Street Blues," "The Bill Cosby Show," and "Thank God It's Friday."

As a warm-up for the toga party, "Animal House" will be shown in the ROTC Armory at midnight, Oct. 30.

Tickets for the Halloween Toga Party and Otis Day and the Knights are on sale now in the UC and are $4 for students and $6 for the general public.

According to Barbara Ratchford, alumni planning includes the annual alumni-varsity golf game, champagne brunch and post-game dance.

Local school children can participate in an art contest surrounding the Homecoming theme. Burke said the contest will be coordinated through the local school system.

Nov. 2 activities include the annual Athletic Hall of Fame breakfast, various reunions, the foot game and alumni student dances.
