Barbara Gayle Smith is Miss Hat and Cane for 1963. Barbara, a freshman from Clarksville, was chosen for the title last Friday night in the 5th annual beauty pageant held at Austin Peay State College.

Linda Marie Dotson, a sophomore, was first runner-up, and Lillie Taylor, a freshman, was second runner-up. Barbara was fourth.

Third runner-up was Betsy Brace Neas, a freshman, and Jo Anne Dinmore, a senior, was fourth.

Barbara, sponsored by the Phi Mu Alpha, was selected from a field of 14 girls who competed in three divisions: swimsuit, talent and formal.

For the talent competition Barbara performed an original cutting from "The Little Black Boys," a dramatic reading by Clara Laddlow.

She will go onto represent AFSC in Jackson, Tenn., for the Miss Tennessee Contest in July.

This year the contest was held for the first time on two nights with the added talent division. The swimsuit competition was held on Thursday night, with half of the girls performing their various talents, which included dancing, art work, original dress designs, singing and dramatic readings.

Miss Tennessee for 1963, Margaret Petty, was the quest celebrity. She performed the singing abilities which gained her the Miss Tennessee title and was interviewed by master of ceremonies, Jack Probst.

On Friday night the remaining seven contestants staged their talent and competed in formal. The five finalists were chosen and each was asked to answer two questions, one serious and one light, before the winner was selected.

Other contestants were Shirley Faye Apple, Sandra Elaine Barnett, Jean Best, Marty Brown, Mary Davis, Jerrie Har- gis, Jody Lee, Nettie Elizabeth Shurtz and Mary Smith.

The beauty pageant sponsored by the Student Council was under the direction of Martha Albright and Sylvia Gregory, assistant director.

Trudy Rice Brotherton, the 1962 Miss Hat and Cane, crowned the winner.

Organist was Buddy Solomon.

Student Center

To Try

New Hours

Beginning tonight, April 16, the Student Center will be open at the following times for two weeks trial period:

Monday through Thursday 5 to 9 p.m.

Friday OR Saturday 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday 2 to 6 p.m.

If the response of the student body to these new hours proves successful, the Student Center will remain open for the remainder of the year at the new times. If the student body does not show a favorable turnout, the Student Center will go back to its original schedule.

The request for dancing in the Student Center was not permitted because of the report of the engineering firm on the structure of the floor and supports.

All other requests have been granted and the interest of the student body will determine if the new hours will remain in effect.

Harned Girls Have "Miles Of Heart"

The girls of Harned Hall have proven that college students have "miles and miles of heart."

These freshmen have taken on the sponsorship of a family in Athens, Greece who they are helping with financial aid, encouragement and hope.

Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Reeves, dorm supervisor, the girls applied for a foreign family selected by the Save The Children Federation, a non-sectarian, non-profit organization that aids needy children and their families in this country and overseas.

By giving 12 cents each month every girl makes a contribution toward the 150 dollars a year that is sent to help the family increase their income and become relatively self-supporting.

The family which the girls are sponsoring is that of Lucas Rigas, 34, He and his wife, Vassiliki, 29, have two children, a boy, Panayotis, 7, and a girl, Penelope, who is 5.

Vassiliki and Lucas were born of very poor families of farmers. They lived their teenage years when the Axis forces were sweeping across Europe.

Their small village, situated in Northern Greece, fought against the invaders, but it was looted, most of the men killed and finally burned.

In 1945, those of the villagers who had survived the nightmare of World War II once more suffered when the Communists took up arms and plunged Greece into a blood-bath.

Living in these poor conditions the Rigas family found it necessary to gain outside help.

Rigas makes a living by raising goats and cultivating a small plot of ground. His monthly income averages $8.33, and the family lives in a barn.

Summer Jobs

Send now for list of 1000 summer employers. Camps, hotels, U.S., Canada, Mexico, $1.00 to Stanley Assoc., Box 2144, Phila. 3, Pa.

This family in Athens, Greece, is being sponsored by the girls in Harned Hall. They are sending them $50 a year to help them to increase their income and become self-supporting.

The Lettermen

To Perform May 1

"The Lettermen," whose records have sold in the millions, will be on campus Wednesday night, May 1.

The two-hour concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the gym, sponsored by the Student Council.

Tickets may be purchased in the Student Center or from any member of the Student Council. The price of admission is 2 dollars per person. That night at the door it will be $2.50.

Work In Europe

April 19, 1963-The American Student Information Service, the only authorized placement service for American students seeking summer jobs in Europe, has increased from 1500 to 3000 the number of travel grants it will award students applying for positions in Europe.

Job openings now available in Europe include positions at factories, resorts, hospitals, farms, summer camps and in offices. Applications are received until May 31.

Interested students may write (naming your school) to Dept. H, ASSIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberté, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, for a 20-page prospectus, a complete job selection and application. Send $1 for the prospectus, handling and an airmail reply.

The first 3000 inquiries receive a $1 premium for the new student travel book, "Turn, Lean and Travel in Europe."

Sandra Rawls -- Community Ambassador

Sandra Rawls, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Rawls of Beaumont, Texas, and formerly of Goodlettsville, Tenn., has been chosen as the Clarksville Community Ambassador for 1963.

A sophomore biology major at Austin Peay State College, Sandra will visit India this summer as a representative of the Clarksville Community Ambassador Association.

The Clarksville Ambassador program is a part of The Experiment in International Living whose headquarters are in Putney, Vermont.

The Experiment's programs are based on the conviction that one best learns to understand another people and their culture by living among them as a member of a family.

Sandra will live with a family in India for a month to gain first-hand experiences and to acquaint herself with living conditions and mannerisms of her adopted family.

Following her stay with her adopted family, Sandra will join several other community ambassadors on a three weeks trip through India.

Upon her return to Clarksville,

Sandra will share her experiences in India by presenting lectures and showing slides of her stay to those groups and organizations which would like to hear of her trip.

Chosen as first alternate ambassador was William Heineman. Paulette Cardillo was chosen as second alternate.

COMMUNITY AMBASSADOR -- Sandra Rawls, a biology major, has been selected as Clarksville Community Ambassador for 1963.

APSC Student Council Needs Reform

Since the earliest settlement in this great land of these United States of America, there has been some form of democratic government by which we live.

Tracing this democratic government from the Mayflower Compact to the Declaration of Independence in 1776, and even further to 1963, there have been changes that have revolutionized the democratic for of government as we know it.

Today we are proud of our forefathers, great presidents and the like, but we want to bring this situation closer to home -- Austin Peay State College.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH OUR STUDENT COUNCIL? The editors of "The All State" hope to answer this question today and offer some concrete suggestions to remedy the situation.

First, the council is too large in number. A smaller group could function more efficiently. Most of the work and planning for the council should be done through committees. Difficulties and details should be ironed out, so to speak, before the final plans are submitted to the council body. Our national and state governments function effectively through the work of capable committees. It is feasible that a small group of interested persons can accomplish more through close association with a problem than can a large group of uninformed people.

We need a strong student government with student leaders who possess the initiative to work with the administration and students toward more sound policies for the College. This can result only through better planning with the council itself. Definite proposals should be presented to the administrative officers of the College in plenty of time to allow for the setting up of the year's activities. An attitude should be adopted by the Council that we have a workable plan and with the help of, NOT IN SPITE OF THE ADMINISTRATION, we can carry it through.

Again in connection with the administration, a yearly budget should be prepared and then printed and presented to the students at the beginning of the Fall Quarter. Plans for additional funds should be made early in the academic year and the necessary steps taken immediately.

A monthly or bimonthly column should be prepared by the secretary of the Student Council for "The All State" to keep the student body abreast of current council activities. It must be noted that only with the cooperation of the student body can the student council function effectively.

Unnecessary meetings of the council should not be held, for it is needless to meet unless there is pertinent business to be discussed. An agenda should be carefully planned before each meeting by the president with the aid of the committee chairmen. The meeting should be properly called to order and the president should be guided throughout the meeting by ROBERT'S RULE OF ORDERS.

The editors of "The All State" realize that it is easy to criticize and offer suggestions, but it is an entirely different matter to put a new system effectively into being. The success of our new constitution lies directly with you, the students of A.P.S.C. Without your support and persistence, this plan cannot succeed. We are in hope that each student will assume his responsibilities toward making a student government at APSC that will be a well organized and effective organization.

Student Forum

There are many facets to an election, yet only two are ever actively praised or condemned. It is apparent that the public wants an honest man with a solid platform. However, there are other aspects to an election which could bear some critical evaluation.

There has been much written and said recently about the duties of the candidates in student elections. However, on one seems to concern himself with the duties of the student. Why is it that so many are willing to harass the candidates and yet, even when bribed with a lucky Coke top, cannot become aroused about the students? Doesn't the student have any importance in an election? Most assuredly, HE DOES. In fact, he is the most valuable person in an election—he is the VOTER. With this position there are a number of responsibilities which, in the past, the student body has been successful in ignoring.

The general run of voters on this campus is despicable. The average Joe College here views the election with the indifference of a fence post in the middle of the Sahara Desert. How many students can say that they worked actively for any party last year? Better yet, how many have any intention of fulfilling their CIVIC DUTY this year?

There will be an election debate held in the Student Center April 23. If the student body is true to its colors, it will hardly be worth opening the doors. The purpose of the debate is to give the student a chance to cross-examine the candidates in order to discover the strengths and weaknesses of each. I believe that attendance and participation of each and every student at this debate is not too much to pay for an efficient student government.

I do not think that it is proper to blame the candidates for the type of government we get. IT IS US, THE VOTERS, WHO DETERMINE WHO SHALL WIN. There is an election debate next week. We should seek to weigh all the facts before voting. Regardless of the outcome of this election, I feel that the student body will get what they vote for and, therefore, what they deserve.

APSC Must Expand

"The College HAS to expand!" Dr. Jefferson Hamilton, campus planning consultant, told the Austin Peay College Campus Planning Committee last week.

Dr. Hamilton, a member of the American Institute of Architects, has been employed by APSC to plan the expansion of the college facilities.

He has maintained a private planning consulting service for colleges for many years and has been consultant at the University of Florida where that university's building program has exceeded 77 million dollars.

Dr. Hamilton said that college expansion is based on the premise that the goals of the institution must be related to the physical plant. He divided the basic college activities into the following categories:

1. Instruction
2. Housing
3. Recreation
4. Student activities and services.

"Any expansion of Austin Peay State must have a direct relationship to the activities of the student body and to the general goal which the college has in producing its final product", Hamilton said.

Dr. Hamilton recommended that a 300,000 square foot area be devoted to instruction to suit a student body of 3,000 students and his plans for expansion were based on this figure as an anticipated enrollment. Austin Peay State has an enrollment of 1911 at present.

Hamilton said that a college's library, Student Center, and dining facilities should be located at the anticipated center of the campus. He said that this was important because the campus centers must contribute to the formation of the whole character of the individual student.

Hamilton's advice to the planning committee was to "name the campus". "And you must determine the uses of these zones because the college is a specialized community within itself", he said.

Members of the college Long Range Planning Committee who were present at last week's meeting were:

Rari Sexton, Chairman; Harold Pryor, secretary; Jesse Lambeth, student body representative; Leon Bibb, Haskell Phillips, Glen Gentry, R. C. Shastem, Milton Henry, Tom Savaps, James Hamilton, Joe Soffa, President Joe Morgan, George Fisher, Felix Woodward, James Hedger, Mayor Charles Crow, Judge W. O. Beach and Rufus Johnson, chairman of the Clarksville - Montgomery Regional Planning Commission. Absent was Tom Cowan.

FILLING A WELL-NEEDED GAP

Although my son is a college freshman, I am glad to say that he is still not too old to climb up on my lap and have a heart-to-heart talk when things are troubling him. My boy is enrolled at Harvard where he is studying to be a freeman. From the time he was a little tiny baby he always said he wanted to be a freeman. Of course, my wife and I believed that he would eventually grow out of it, but no sir, the little chap never wavered in his ambition for one minute!

So here he is at Harvard today taking courses in net bedding, mouth-to-mouth breathing, carbon tetrachloride, and Delman dogs. It is a full schedule for the young man, and that, in fact, is exactly what we talked about when last he climbed upon my lap.

He complained that every bit of his time is taken up with his major requirements. He doesn't have so much as one hour a week to sample any of the fascinating courses outside his major—history, literature, language, science, or any of the thousand and one things that appeal to his keen young mind.

I am sure that many of you find yourselves in the same scholastic bind; you are taking so many requirements that you can't find time for some appealing elective. Therefore, in today's column I will forego levity and give you a brief survey in a subject that is probably not included in your curriculum.

He's still not too old

I have asked the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes whether I might employ this column—normally a vehicle for innocent merriment—to pursue this serious end. "Of course you may, crazy kid," they replied kindly, their grey eyes crinkling at the corners, their manly mouths twisted in funny little grins. If you are a Marlboro smoker—and what intelligent human person is not?—you would expect the makers of Marlboro to be fine men. And so they are—wonderful guys, every man-jack of them—good, generous, understanding, wise. They are each tipped with a pure white filter and come in soft pack or Flip-Top box.

But I digress. We were going to take up a topic you are probably unable to cover in your busy academic life. Let us start with the most basic topic of all—anthropology, the study of man himself.

Man is usually defined as a tool-making animal, but I personally do not find this definition entirely satisfactory. Man is not the only species which makes tools. The simians, for example, make monkey wrenches.

Still, when you come to a really complicated tool—like a lintype, for instance—you can be fairly sure it was made by Homo sapiens—or else a very intelligent tiger. The question one should ask, therefore, is not who made the tool, but what did he do with it.

For example, in a recent excavation in the Olduvai Gorge a large assortment of hominoid fossils was found, all dating back to the Middle Pleistocene Age. Buried with the fossils was a number of their artifacts, the most interesting being a black metal box which emitted a steady beeping sound. Now, of course, zoologists will tell you that tree frogs make such boxes which they employ in their mating activities (I can't go into detail about it in this family newspaper) but the eminent anthropological team, Mr. and Mrs. Walther Signafos (both he and she are named Walther) were convinced that this particular box was made not by tree frogs but by Neolithic men. To prove their point, they switched on the box and out came television, which, as everyone knows, was the forerunner of fire. If there is anything more you need to know about anthropology, just climb up on my lap as soon as my son leaves.

The makers of Marlboro Cigarettes who sponsor this column, often with trepidation, are not anthropologists. They are tobaccoists—good ones, I think—and I think you'll think so too when you sample their wares—available wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states.

One of the most interesting pastimes this writer enjoys is relaxing in one of the college's TV lounges.

Here in a smoke-filled room a person can witness the best in athletics. The entertainment doesn't come from the TV set, but from the confident, poised, and statistical minded TV athlete.

These pros never make a mistake and are famous for second guessing. Yet when it comes down to the sport in the raw you never find these so called cushion champs or arm chair authorities taking part when it really counts.

This writer was always under the impression that downtown quarterbacks were bad, but I am sure they can't hold a candle to our arm chair athletes. I would like to leave my readers with one word of advice, if in doubt on a controversial subject on athletics feel free to call on these sport wizards. I am sure they will be glad to answer any of your questions.

Against Belmont last Tuesday Coach Leon "Speedy" Sandifer displayed some of his old high school speed which won him the 440 yard dash for the state of South Carolina.

Coach Sandifer undoubtedly didn't agree with a call on third base and ran from the coaches box straight for the base umpire. Seeing Coach Sandifer coming, the base umpire made an effort to move back to first in a hurried manner, but Coach Sandifer stayed with him all the way. The result ended in the umpire's victory, but we did see some of Coach Sandifer's hidden speed.

Wouldn't it be nice to earn over 100,000 dollars a year and just be 23 years old. Well, Jack Nicklaus, the recent champion of the Masters Golf Tournament, last year netted over 100,000 dollars.

Jack was the youngest professional golfer ever to win the Masters Tournament.

His next step will be the P.G.A. US Open and the British Open for his try for the Grand Slam, which has only been duplicated by Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

I would like to keep my readers up on the progress Henry Murrey is making in Coach Aaron's Aquatics class. Henry displayed a tremendous effort on a front somersault the other day and as he climbed to the edge of the pool with a feeling of accomplishment, Coach Aaron looked Henry straight in the eyes and said, Henry I have been teaching this course for 30 years and you are by all means the worst specimen of coordination I have ever had, Coach Aaron furthered his statement by telling Henry, he hoped he was making good grades in his other courses.

I am curious, will Henry practice in his spare time on Tuesdays.

When APSC's golf team took on David Lipscomb a couple of weeks ago, Bob Mitchell shot a surprising 73 in a challenge match to better the top scores of both APSC's and David Lipscomb's top men.

We hope to see Bob on the team in the near future as he has the ability we are certainly looking for.

Robert Hayes, Florida A&M, and Harry Jerome, Oregon, are co-holders of the world's 100-yard dash record of 9.2.

Jim Dupree, Southern Illinois University, is on the 1962 collegiate honor roll for best performances in the 880 yard run with a time of 1:47.

Southern Illinois' distance medley team ranks 2nd on the collegiate honor roll with the time of 9:41.1.
