Medical fee proposed for students

By Cathy Allsup

Addressing the Student Government Senate last Thursday night, Dr. Bob Nettles introduced the possibility of a $3 quarterly service fee to be paid by all students to maintain present services at the APSU Health Services. Nettles explained the fee was only one solution to the proposed $10,000 cut in the health care facilities budget.

Nettles, who explained he had attended a budget hearing only that day, told the senate that the present allotment of $42,000 which maintains the infirmary would be cut to economize and outlined three possible solutions to the problem.

The first was to cut out all health care services entirely, the second to employ a day nurse who would refer patients to the proper off-campus medical facility or the $3 service fee and continued service of the type now available.

While stressing all three options would be open, and encouraging student input, Nettles did express his views of each option and endorsed the $3 fee.

He dismissed the phasing out of all infirmary services as unacceptable. He noted the day nurse would be a registered nurse, who would be able to treat anyone without a doctor's supervision.

Nettles endorsed the $3 fee, as he cited statistics of present infirmary use and medical services available. He stated, "Ninety-five percent of the ailments that come in can be treated by the nurse practitioner. The five percent the infirmary can't treat requires more in extensive services such as X-rays or lab tests." For those and other major problems the infirmary features a referral service which can arrange for appointments with local doctors and a variety of specialists according to Nettles.

In addition to the high rate of treatment, he noted that at present a doctor is on duty three days a week, a doctor is available for 24 hour consultation, medicine is distributed at nominal cost and there is a night referral service. He added an average of 1000 students per quarter visit the facility.

Nettles said that in the past flu season many students received treatment at the infirmary, which allowed them to remain on campus and avoid a trip home to their private physician.

He also emphasized the cost of a trip to the hospital emergency room, approximately $50, as compared to $3 per quarter for infirmary costs. He referred to the fee as an inexpensive insurance policy. Its implementation would also end the nominal fee charged for medicine.

The funding situation, in brief, for the infirmary is as follows. It presently has a budget of $42,000. The cut would leave $32,000 and create a situation which the administrator described as "if we can't fund it properly, let's close it down."

The $3 fee, if adopted, would create a budget which would maintain the facility as its present level of activity. This would also free the $32,000 for other student service areas.

In addition to maintaining present services, Nettles stated with the fee a brochure-similar to an insurance policy-could be devised to make sure the student would realize what services were available to the Residence Hall and commuter student.

In response to Dr. Nettles propositions, presiding officer Mike Latham appointed the entire body as a special committee to investigate student opinion on the subject.

After the meeting Nettles commented that he wanted it clearly understood by the student body that no decision had been made concerning the $3 fee or closure. He emphasized he was anxious to base his decision for recommendation to the president upon the input he received from the student body.

He asked any student wishing to make a comment concerning the matter should contact him at 7451.

Freshman class president Jerald Jerkins also appealed for freshmen to contact him with their opinions. "All freshmen please respond as soon as possible," Jerkins stated. "I am very concerned about the facility and believe in the option of the $3 fee, but I want to make any final decision based on the opinion of the people I represent," he continued. "Have you used the infirmary, do you feel it's necessary? Please contact me and let me know how you feel through APSU Box 5875 or at 552-6589."

Other business of the evening was the presentation of the election roles for the upcoming sophomores, junior, and senior class elections and Mr. and Madame Governor election rules by election board chairperson Stephanie McNichols. The rules passed appear in this issue of The All State. A finance board request for funds for Austin Peay week also passed.

Vocalists win contest

Four Austin Peay State University vocal majors were declared winners at the National Association of Teachers of Singing Regional Auditions held on the campus of Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro April 3-4.

ATO dribbles

The local chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, in coordination with the Vanderbilt University Chapter, recently raised $290 for Easter Seals.

A basketball dribble, with cash pledges, was undertaken by the group. Local ATO's dribbled the ball from Clarksville to the half-way point to Nashville, where the Vandy group took over.

Students attend Hyatt

Two Austin Peay State University students recently attended the Tennessee Governor's Prayer Breakfast held at the Hyatt Regency in Nashville.

Chosen to represent APSU were Tony Marable, a senior chemistry major from Erin; and Beverly G. Askew, a junior accounting major from Oak Grove, Ky. Marable is vice president of the Student Government Association and Ms. Askew is involved with the campus Honors Program.

Hazing topic for program

Eileen Stevens, who established The Committee To Halt Useless College Killings, CHUCK, will make a presentation to Austin Peay students at 2 p.m. on April 20. The program will be held in the Clement Auditorium.

Stevens established CHUCK shortly after the 1978 death of her son, Chuck Stenzel, in a hazing scam at Alfred University in New York.

Stenzel was locked in the trunk of a car and instructed to drink a large amount of liquor during initiation procedures of the local New York fraternity that he was pledging.

As a result of the hazing incident, 20-year-old Stenzel died of alcohol poisoning.

"She is not anti-Greek; she is anti-hazing," said Glenda Earwood, explaining that the intention of the program is to make students aware of the dangers that are presented when initiation procedures are allowed to go beyond necessary limits.

Earwood went on to say that the program would be timely and advantageous to the campus organizations since there was recently a scandal of this nature at Austin Peay.

Stevens created CHUCK in memory of her son and has since involved herself in a coast-to-coast campaign against such practices.

In August of 1980, a New York bill legalizing hazing was passed and went into effect in September. Between the time that Stenzel was killed and the law was passed, another New York college student had been killed in a similar incident.

Seven other states have since legalized hazing and four other states are currently considering the passage of such legislation.

One point that Stevens maintains about Greek life is that a good deal of the hazing pressure comes from alumni members. She insists that "... The kids would like to change things," but that some alumni members say, "... We survived it, and that's how you separate the men from the boys."

Stevens' committee is currently attempting to enlarge its membership by recruiting volunteers. Those interested may contact a committee member by mail at P.O. Box 186; Sayville, N.Y., 11782.

SISTERS—Kim Richburg, a senior elementary education major, is backed by Sharonese Horton, a junior music major from Clarksville, at last week's Organization's Day.

Dickson offer extended

By Joe Gillespie

The Goodlark Foundation decided Friday to extend its offer of a building to house an extension of Austin Peay in Dickson.

"We met Friday and discussed the situation. We are keeping the offer open another year," Dr. Jimmy Jackson, president of the Goodlark Foundation, said.

The State Board of Regents has recommended twice that the university delay acceptance of the building. The building is the former Dickson County General Hospital.

Jackson stated that his organization had antici-paid the earlier rejections of the Board.

"We eventually expected the Board to turn down the offer. Originally, we felt that it would pass. By the end of the year when the educational chickens came home to roost, it was obvious what would happen," Jackson said.

Jackson said that other parties will have to work out the details of the offer.

"Someone else will have to work out the details besides us-the Dickson community, Austin Peay, whoever," Jackson said.

Chancellor Roy S. Nicks, of the State Board of Regents, said that the Board's acceptance of the building will depend on state funding next year.

"Acceptance will depend on funding by the general legislature. The only concern of the Board is the costs of operating the building. I think everything will depend on funding," Nicks said. Dr. Robert O. Riggs, president of APSU, said that he was "delighted" to learn that the Goodlark Foundation had extended its offer.

"I am delighted to learn that the offer has been extended. I think there is no question that the Board will allow us to accept the building if the state economy improves. The Board wants the extension, and I know this university wants the extension," Riggs said.

Rentals objectionable

Apartment raises serious questions

While the opening of the new apartment complex may offer next year's students an attractive option to the infinitely unappealing dormitory life, The All State has to wonder just how much that option is worth and how the university plans to justify the staggering rental income that each of the apartments will earn.

Granted, at first glance, the rent being proposed for the two-bedroom apartments does not seem unreasonable. When that quarterly rate of $330 is broken down into monthly figures and the rent becomes $110, it seems not merely reasonable, but downright economic.

However, one point that seems not to have received as much attention as it should have is the fact that each of the 53 apartments that will draw rent will earn $110 per month from each of the four (or in rare cases, three) students residing there. That doesn't seem so reasonable; $440 a month for a simple, two-bedroom apartment is outrageous.

Even though The All State realizes that this rental fee will include full payment of all utilities, the fact that such modest apartments will be drawing such enormous rentals is objectionable.

There seems to be a disturbing degree of exploitation taking place here. Despite the fact that on an individual basis, students are better off economically to reside in a campus apartment, on a larger scale, the university will be making a killing on these apartment rentals.

The All State realizes that the $2.1 million that was spent on the construction of the complex created a large debt for the university, but it is disappointing to think that students will be taken advantage of in order to repay that debt.

Furthermore, while it is possible and even probable that the apartments will cost more to maintain than The All State supposes, the newspaper's chief concern lies with the students, and in this case, it appears that students are not being given the consideration due.

Policy set

Starting next week, The All State will not accept any letters to the editor exceeding the 300 word limit by more than 50 words. All letters longer than 250 words are subject to editing.

Letters policy

As in years past, The All State staff encourages student opinion on minor or not so major issues on campus.

We strongly urge any student or faculty member who wishes to express his opinions to write to the editor of The All State.

Letters to the editor should be no longer than 300 words. They MUST be signed and a phone number indicated for verification purposes. No letter will be published unless verified.

Letters may be mailed to The All State, Box 8304, Clarksville, TN 37040, or brought to room 104 Ellington Hall on campus. They must be received by 4 p.m. Thursday to appear in the following issue.

Liberium solution revealed

To the Cunctus Civitas:

After an unequivocal experience of the inefficiency of the subsisting Liberium, there is cause to deliberate upon a new pontifex maximus.

The subject speaks of its own importance; comprehending in its consequences nothing less than less than the existence of the universities, the education welfare of the part which it is composed, the fate of learning, in many respects the most interesting in the world.

It has been frequently remarked that the decision seems to be reserved not for the vox populi but destined to depend upon accident and force. Happy will be the choice should it be directed by a judicious estimate of our true interests, unperplexed and unbiased by considerations not connected with the public good. This is a thing more ardently to be wished than seriously expected.

Among the most formidable of the obstacles which this new Censor will have to encounter may be the distinguished, obvious interests of a certain class of men in every department to resist all change which may hazard a diminution of power, emolument, and the consequences of the offices they hold under the Universitates; and the perverted ambition of another class of men, who will either hope to aggrandize themselves with the fairer prospects of elevation from the subdivision of the empire, or will flatter themselves by the confusions of the continued flux.

I propose that the new Censor be granted perfect dominion, answerable but to the Almighty and the Caesari Universitas, to procure, catalogue, and repress any and all materials the Censor feels appropriate. Abandon the folly of procuring the scholarly!

Seek only the antipathetic, sustained thought. The ANSWER is the only truth; all else is but shadow, magical in nature and origin, and not meant for our comprehending.

Nothing can be more evident, to those able to take an enlarged view, than the alternative of the ochlocracy, whose base needs of scholarly pursuit, lead to the inevitable evil, and probable danger, of intellectual responsibility and the exacting demand of reason.

Mandatory housing

Vocal student rebuts Brinkley's defense

Editor's Note: Tim Miller has been a vocal opponent of mandatory housing for quite some time. The All State will attempt to present an open forum on this subject; the opinions expressed here are strictly Mr. Miller's.

By Tim Miller

As one of the few students at APSU who will not allow a policy such as "mandatory housing" become a part of this university without an oral battle, I feel it necessary to respond to last week's letter from Jill Brinkley.

I do not wish to continue to use The All State as a vehicle in which to voice my opinion, but when I read a letter that supports a surreptitious policy of our administration, and does it with factual-untruths, I have no choice.

I refuse to bore the students by again repeating all the costs and facts in comparing an off-campus apartment to that of a dormitory, but I will correct those numerous errors that were made by Ms. Brinkley.

1) There is a one time charge of $18 for installing a telephone, not $25, as was stated.

2) There is a monthly charge of $10.50 for phone service exactly like the service provided a dorm resident (Jill seemed to imply that students were allowed free long-distance calls).

3) The phone company does require a deposit, but unlike APSU, that money is returned with interest.

4) There is a deposit of $150 for an apartment, but Jill failed to mention that there is a $100 (for four students) deposit at APSU.

5) There is a $50 deposit for electricity, not a $70-$120 deposit that Jill Brinkley erroneously stated.

6) Just to elevate Jill's concern over electricity bills, I'll point out that our bill at Riverside Apartments was $30 (divided four ways) last month.

In all honesty, I should point out that I know Jill Brinkley quite well, and I assure everyone she is a reasonably intelligent person. However, in calculating the comparison of costs for a dorm resident and an apartment dweller, she apparently forgot to use a couple of little known "rules" of mathematics. Those two "rules" are DIVIDING and SUBTRACTING. Jill forgot to divide the monthly bills by four people and she forgot to subtract installation fees and deposits from monthly bills.

If she had gone by the math department and had received some assistance she would have found that actual costs for four students during spring quarter this year will be $685 plus $280 in returnable deposits, and a one time installation fee of $18 for telephone service. This is compared to $1,000 for equal housing at APSU, plus there is a $100 deposit there. Beginning next fall that cost will raise from $1,000 to $1,180. It doesn't take an Accounting Major to figure out which is the better deal.

Now, if Ms. Brinkley's facts are correct, (I can't prove otherwise) then only 22 students would have been affected by this change for fall of '80. Ms. Brinkley feels that isn't significant in so far as money is concerned. Forgetting for just a moment the injustice of this proposal, let me point out the net "take" from those 22 victims would have been sixteen and one-half thousand dollars for three quarters during the calendar year. Let us not be hasty by calling $16,000 insignificant, Jill. I can think of several things that our administration might use the money for——That $16,000 could supplement the Library's heating bill for next July.

—That $16,000 could be used to increase the salary of some deserving administrator who is trying to survive on an inflated salary of $27,800.

—That $16,000 could be used to provide a downpayment on another computer.

—Or best of all, it would be used to help buy another house for our President. Perhaps this one should be in Gatlinburg, "it sure is pretty up there in the fall."

While I have to concede that all four of these projects (cont. on page 6)

are worthwhile, I think we could survive even without these necessities.

No Jill, mandatory housing is not the brainchild of an angel administrator who wishes to "enhance college life." It's an idea to further burden students rather than to curtail stupidity in Austin Peay's business matters. To defend this move by saying "living on campus is better" is hypocritical.

Dr. Nettles' own office has found that on campus students have much lower grades than off campus students. All RA's received a copy of that report (I thought Jill Brinkley was an RA).

Jill, my main concern for attempting to make an issue of mandatory housing is actually not "alleged financial security" of APSU. My main concerns are that adults are being enslaved and manipulated by an administration. That seems heartless to the needs of students.

I am concerned that students (even if just 22) can't decide what's best for their particular needs and I am worried that freshmen dorm residents may shortly be required to purchase meal tickets.

That proposal has already been discussed as a likely possibility. Where does it end? If nobody cares then "POCKENAH" as they say.

Bookstore closes for year

Student Government Association President Duane McDowell revealed last week that the SGA Bookstore, a student-run operation specializing in inexpensive paperback texts, will be closed for the remainder of the term.

He cited a lack of co-operation with bookstore personnel as the major factor contributing to the closure.

"In the past several weeks, people (in the office) were made aware of where the key to the bookstore and the money box were kept, but we couldn't get anyone to help," he stated.

He added that the senate has been made aware of the need and only one member offered to help.

"The bookstore manager, Laura Rinner, who has resigned, received some almost personal insults in letters of complaint. She was a volunteer, and the position called for a lot of hard work. I can feel sorry for her because I've been in her position. All you ever seem to get are complaints," he stated.

He explained that if the staff were hired it would be different, but on a volunteer basis you have fewer options.

"There are always a couple of people who will work," he stated as he explained Rinner could not make the operation successful on her own.

He then modified his previous statement of flat-out closure by adding that if there is enough student interest to provide people to work, then the store might be reopened.

He stated that at the present he is looking into the possibility of the campus bookstore implementing a similar service to the SGA operation, which bought books for half price and sold them at a slight mark-up.

He added that he felt the closing of the bookstore was a culmination of inactivity. He explained that a lack of response from the senate and some cabinet members resulted in the shut down.

Applications accepted

The Scholastic All-American Selection Committee is now accepting applications for the 1981 Spring Semester.

Students who are active in scholastic organizations and who perform well in class are asked to join.

The Scholastic All-American is an honor society founded to recognize this country's top undergraduate and graduate students.

Students are selected from over 1,280 schools covering all 50 states. Members participate in various nationally organized service projects each year.

Campus firearms forbidden

Austin Peay State University prohibits the possession of any type of firearm on campus.

Bill Singerhoff, director of public safety, said that the authority to discipline students for breaking this rule lies with the head resident or with Dr. Bob Nettles, director of student affairs, when the violation is in university housing. "They have the option of whether or not to press criminal charges against violators," Singerhoff explained.

Singerhoff said that some students bring shotguns for hunting. He explained that the regulations provided an alternative for these students. "All weapons for hunting or target shooting may be registered through Public Safety on campus. Students may then check out their weapons when they want to use them and check them back in before returning to their dormitories," he explained.

Singerhoff also said that if a weapon is in view in a vehicle on campus the student possessing the article is subject to arrest.

Singerhoff said that several recent incidents may have brought weapon possession to the attention of the public, but he says that he does not think that the problem is as big as it might seem.

"Only one arrest has been made this school year for firearm possession," Singerhoff stated.

Singerhoff stressed that there is an option for those who want to have their weapons. He urged all students who wish to bring weapons to register them through the Public Safety Office.

Govs power way to division lead

By Steve Harmon

The Governor baseball team lived and died by the long ball last week.

In a doubleheader split with OVC Southern division foe Middle Tennessee last Thursday, Peay's Keith Gilliam, who "hasn't been up to par lately" according to coach Joe Ellenburg, upped his record to 4-3 as the southpaw led the Govs to a 7-5 victory in the opener.

After Austin Peay's victory over Belmont College on April 2 at Clarksville High School and last night's game with UT-Martin at Northwest High School (results not available at presstime), the Governors have apparently cast their lot with the mid-twentieth century innovation of lighted baseball fields.

3 as the southpaw led the Govs to a 7-5 victory in the opener.

After Robert McCutcheon gave APSU a 5-1 lead with his two-run double in the third inning, the Raiders stormed back to knot the score at 5-5 in the sixth inning.

However, Peay's Ralph Harper, who's been hitting at a consistent .400 clip all season long, ripped a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give the visitors the first game. Stacey Higgins earned his fourth save of the season.

In that productive third inning, LeBon Joyce, Brewer, and Tubbs ripped home runs, while Matt Arminio added a triple. Jeff Hawn contributed a double, while Tony Lamb slapped a run-scoring single, giving Peay a 10-5 bulge.

In the fourth inning, back to back doubles by Brewer and Rusty Dyer's lead-off homer in the fifth rounded out the Governor scoring.

In the nightcap, Greg Richards suffered his fifth loss of the season as MTSU pounded out three round trippers en route to a 10-1 thumping of the Govs.

It was a different story on Saturday, however.

Governor leftfielder Eric Brewer had one of those days that all hitters dream about.

The senior from Jefferson City ripped three home runs, a double and a triple as the Govs swept a pair of key Southern divisional games from lowly Tennessee Tech.

In the opener, Brewer erased a 1-0 Golden Eagle lead with a two-run homer as the left-handed hitter took advantage of a strong wind to right field by driving in Greg Tubbs, who had singled.

Catcher Jeff Hawn followed Brewer's four-bagger with one of his own, stretching the lead to 3-1.

In the sixth, Brewer answered the call with a tape measure drive to the center, giving pitcher Clayton Dahl, who had been relieved by Stacey Higgins in the sixth inning, a 4-1 cushion.

Once again, Higgins was credited with the save as the Ringgold, Georgia sophomore combined with Dahl to notch a three-hitter against TTU. Dahl's record is now 3 sparkling 5-0.

In the nightcap, the Govs enjoyed a seven-run third inning as Jeco transfer David Brock evened his record at 3-3 with a complete game victory.

In that productive third inning, LeBon Joyce, Brewer, and Tubbs ripped home runs, while Matt Arminio added a triple. Jeff Hawn contributed a double, while Tony Lamb slapped a run-scoring single, giving Peay a 10-5 bulge.

In the fourth inning, back to back doubles by Brewer and Rusty Dyer's lead-off homer in the fifth rounded out the Governor scoring.

Tech added two last inning runs to make the final score 12-4.

"I can't remember a day like this before," said Brewer, a veteran of four Governor springs.

"I hit the fastball well all day," he added, looking back on his five for seven hitting with six runs batted in.

The twinbill sweep vaulted the Govs into a first place tie with MTSU in the Southern division. Both teams are at 4-2. Murray State is at 3-3 after dropping a doubleheader to MTSU on Saturday, while Tech slipped to 1-5.

In other action, the Govs avenged an earlier season loss to Tennessee State by handing the Tigers a 10-5 setback at Governor Park last Monday.

The big hit was provided by Matt Arminio in the second inning. With the bases loaded, the Governor third baseman repped a three-run double into the left-centerfield gap, putting Peay on top 3-0.

APSU plated two more runs in the inning as LeBon Joyce and Ralph Harper contributed RBI's. Harper has 42 RBI's to date this year, which is one shy of the Governor single season record set by Bob Rickert in 1974.

On the season, the Govs are 19-14. Tomorrow night, APSU travels to Cookeville to challenge Tennessee Tech in a doubleheader before visiting MTSU in a 5:30 p.m. twilight doubleheader on Saturday.

AP scores at meet

By Harry Tarpley

Austin Peay's decathlon standout Steve Brown led the governor track team in the Dogwood Invitational Relays in Knoxville on April 11th and 12th.

Brown, who finished 4th overall, totaled 6900 points for a personal record. With this performance, Brown continues to steadily progress toward his goal of 7300 points, which should earn him a trip to the NCAA.

The Dogwood Invitational "is probably the best track meet east of the Mississippi," as coined by coach Joey Haines. The prestigious event included most of the teams from the SEC, ACC, Big 10, and Mid-America conferences, and many club runners who were former Olympians.

Of the team's performance, Coach Haines remarked, "This is an unusual bunch. Most teams will give up after disappointments, but this one pulls together and seems to perform better." The coach was referring to an incident when the baton was dropped in the 880 relay, and then the runners pulled together and recorded their best performance of the year in the mile relay.

Next week, both teams will travel to Nashville for the Vanderbilt University Invitational.

Golfers win triangular

Johnny Miller's debut as golf coach at Austin Peay was a successful one.

Last Thursday, the interim coach and his linkamen captured team honors in a triangular match at Weakley County Country Club near Martin, Tennessee.

The Governors' 307 total easily outdistanced Bethel College's 323 and UT-Martin's 328.

Rexdale, Ontario, Canada native Glen Syc paced the APSU contingent as the senior matched par over the rain-drenched layout with a 72. After a shaky start, the Canadian birdied three of the last seven holes to win medalist honors.

Mark Patrick and Brad Van Kirk each fired 78, while Steve Harrison carded a 79 to comprise the Governors' total.

Tomorrow morning, the Gove will head to Sewanee, Tennessee to participate in the Sewanee Spring Invitational, hosted by the University of the South.

The 36-hole tournament is slated for Friday and Saturday as 16 teams are entered, including conference rivals Middle Tennessee and Tennessee Tech.

Netters score win; Jolley impressive

By Brian Bowen

The Austin Peay netters came away with a big OVC win as they defeated the Murray State Racers here last Monday by a 6-3 score.

Austin Peay was led by number one player Hal Jolley as he defeated Mate Ljungman 6-1.

Ljungman was picked to finish first in the OVC in singles play.

Other singles match winners were Don Carbone, Kurt Williamson, Paul Gaff and Hartmut Jungman.

Coach Dennis Emery said, "it was the best Austin Peay played together as a team in four years. We even played well in the matches we lost," he added.

The win over Murray moved Austin Peay into first place in the conference standings as their record improved to 3-0.

Victories this coming Saturday against MTSU and Western Kentucky would give APSU the regular season championships.

Outsider Eric Jewer launched five extra base hits, three of them home runs, as the Governor baseball team stole a doubleheader from Tennessee Tech last Saturday.

The Jefferson City native raised his batting average almost 50 points last week to a .330 mark as the Gove won four ballgames.

While on the subject of night baseball, a few tidbits of trivia have been brought to my attention. It seems that the APSU-Belmont game was not the first night game in Governor history.

As a matter of fact, it was only one of many! Way back in the late 1960's (no offense Coach Sandifer), Austin Peay played under the lights on what is now the intramural field adjacent to Killebrew Hall. Leon Sandifer, a faculty member of the APSU Health and P.E. Department, was the baseball coach in those days.
