

Election draws multitude to polls

Superlatives singled out for 1970-71

APSU students went to the polls in surprisingly large numbers last Thursday to elect campus superlatives, homecoming queen and campus beauties. Approximately 925 ballots were cast in the election.

The Governor and First Lady, an outstanding senior boy and girl, are selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the university. Bob Huber and Sueella Dillard were voted this honor.

Miss APSU and Bachelor of Ugliness, selected from the unmarried men and women of the sophomore, junior and senior classes, represent the best all-around campus personalities. These titles have been awarded to Jenny Wrenne and Bonnie Sloan.

Marcia Duke, a sophomore, was chosen as Iris Queen to reign at the Iris Ball in the spring. The Iris Queen personifies the most beautiful single girl in the student body.

During halftime ceremonies of APSU's homecoming game, Miss Nancy Miller, a brown-eyed blonde from Vanleer, Tenn., will be crowned queen by President Joe Morgan.

The ten campus beauties elected were Debbie Carver, Linda Crutcher, Sueella Dillard, Marcia Duke, Kathy Graves, Debra Keeler, Nancy Miller, Barbara Ocarson, Sharon Phillips and Jenny Wrenne.

"Tallying the ballots required 11 hours, from 8 p.m. Thursday to 4 a.m. Friday," reported Hampton Kennon, SGA executive assistant.

"In the future, we hope to utilize the IBM computers for our elections," revealed Kennon, "and have print-out cards made with candidates' names on them."

Nurses-to-be anticipating winter study

Once referred to as the off-again, on-again program, APSU's nurse education program is definitely on again.

Twenty-five students are now enrolled in the accredited two-year program. They will begin their nurse education studies in winter quarter with Nursing 101.

The curriculum runs for seven consecutive quarters and, upon completion, confers the associate of arts degree in nursing.

Persons receiving the degree will be eligible to take the State Board of Nursing examinations to qualify as a registered nurse.

Students will receive clinical experience at Memorial Hospital. Other health facilities in the area will also be utilized to broaden the scope of the students' nursing education.

Originally scheduled to begin in the fall of 1969, the program was abandoned temporarily when an attempt to complete the staffing of the program with qualified personnel was unsuccessful.

With the employment of Mrs. Mary G. Windham, director of mass education; Ginger Alessi, instructor and Elizabeth Keeler, instructor, the nursing program was released its accreditation by the Tennessee State Board of Nursing last May.

Application to the nurse education program must be preceded by application and acceptance at APSU as a regular student. Then the applicant may apply to the nurse education department for a personal interview.

Requirements for acceptance to the program include the equivalent of a high school diploma with consideration of previous academic performance, background and interest.

A preference is usually given to those applicants who scored 20 or higher on their American College Testing exams.

The next enrollment period will begin in September, 1971.

SUPER SUPERLATIVES—Voted to positions of honor by their fellow students, four of Austin Peay's beautiful people will be featured in the 1971 Farwell and Hall. They are (l to r) Bob Huber, Governor; Sueella Dillard, First Lady; Jenny Wrenne, Miss APSU and Bonnie Sloan, Bachelor of Ugliness.

With ethnic comedy

Playhouse opens season

by CHARLES COMPTON

The Austin Peay Playhouse will open its new season tonight at 8 in Clement Auditorium with the delightful ethnic comedy A Majority of One.

Written by Leonard Spiegelglas, the story deals with a Jewish widow from New York who accompanies her daughter Alice and son-in-law Jerry, a member of the diplomatic service, to Japan.

The mother, Mrs. Jacoby, is introduced to a Japanese millionaire, Mr. Asano, during the boat trip, and the plot is set.

On first meeting, Mrs. Jacoby resents Mr. Asano and holds him responsible for the death of her son who was killed in World War II.

Mr. Asano then tells her the story of his daughter who died in the atomic explosion in Hiroshima. From this point, a friendship grows between the two, which eventually develops into love.

The couple meets resistance from prejudiced relatives as well as pressure from international diplomats. The result is touching, light-hearted story of East meeting West in a most unusual comedy.

The play was a success on Broadway in 1959, starring Gertrude Berg, best remembered as the friendly Molly Goldberg on radio and television a few years back, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, a well-known British actor.

It later became a popular movie with Rosalind Russell as Mrs. Jacoby and Sir Alec Guinness (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

Misinterpretation causes report of 5 in disorders

"The Office of Education must have misread my report, because I said we had none. In fact we had a very quiet college situation here during the past year," said Earl Sexton, director of development and field services.

Sexton was referring to a U.S. Office of Education report which listed APSU among the colleges and universities suspending federal financial aid to certain students because of their participation in campus disorders during the past year.

Five APSU students were listed in the report as a result of the misinterpretation. The five were actually denied further financial aid because of their academic deficiencies.

Other institutions in the state named in the report are Dyersburg State Community College, 1 student; P

University, 2 students; Hiwassee College, 2; Knoxville College, 3 and Milligan College, 3.

Knoxville College stated that their report to the Office of Education had apparently also been misinterpreted, since they had not dismissed the three students for campus disorders.

Sections 407 and 411 of the U.S. Code require universities to suspend federal financial aid to those convicted in campus disturbances.

Some 434 students at 86 colleges and universities lost federal aid because they participated in campus disorders, claimed the Office of Education.

Most of the penalized students attended small colleges rather than the major universities that experienced the most severe disruptions, according to a government report covering the period since June, 1969.

Poll conducted for state offices

A mock election for Tennessee's gubernatorial and senatorial races is being conducted on campus today by the Political Studies Association.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the main lobby of the University Center for the balloting.

Both students and faculty members are eligible to vote for their senatorial and gubernatorial choices. The mock election will enable those students whose age prevents their voting in the November general election to express their choice of candidate and party.

Results of the election will be announced in the Oct. 28 issue of THE ALL STATE.

MIZ PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT—Valerie Stroh (l) as Mrs. Jacoby in the play A Majority of One, listens patiently while a neighbor, played by Sueella Dillard, dramatizes her feelings on the subject at hand.

The college scene

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON - Around 50 students registered this fall at the University of Oregon for a one-credit course entitled, "Frisbee techniques and special implications."

The citizens of the surrounding area questioned the educational value of a course in Frisbee throwing at a state-owned university.

University officials have now informed those who registered for the course that it will be without credit.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE STATE UNIVERSITY, Sidelines, Murfreesboro, Tenn. - Sept. 23 a MTSU freshman girl died after collapsing in her physical education class in the MTSU gymnasium.

The team games and conditioning students were reportedly doing sit-ups when Cynthia Joy Neyman collapsed.

Although she was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, other first aid treatment, and subsequently taken to Rutherford County Hospital where she was put in a heart resuscitator machine, Miss Neyman never regained consciousness.

MTSU President M. G. Scarlett stated that the university was stunned by the tragedy and that everything possible was done to revive the student, however, the circumstances were beyond control.

An autopsy Wednesday night revealed that death resulted from a ruptured blood vessel of the brain, accompanied by massive bleeding.

The girl's parents verified that Miss Neyman had always been a very active girl. Her health record, filed with the university by her physician at the time of her admission this fall, showed no history of physical disorder.

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE, University Echo, Chattanooga, Tenn. - An interesting new club has been organized at UTC this fall, a spirit club. Anyone who would like to help boost school spirit is urged to join.

"Grandad" and "Court House Slouch" (both by Miss Harris) and the tempera work "Daisy Blue BROWN" were quite intriguing.

This writer realizes that a review should not be a critique; however, she feels compelled to criticize a review that was so obviously biased.

Those who studied the works exhibited realize that Miss Harris needs no defense, just praise, and that her contributions (she did 25 out of 44) gave the "Wheels" motion and the "Windows" light.

Sincerely,
Norma Clark Wilson

Boards overreact to student activism

(CPS)-The first student demonstrations and possible violence on state colleges and universities in the west are likely to result from revisions in student conduct codes designed to quell student uprisings.

That is the feeling of most student leaders from New Mexico to Washington, where the governing boards of state institutions in each state have either revised or replaced old conduct codes to add more stringent clauses against political activism on campus. "These repressive codes," according to one student leader, "are likely to stir the students up, rather than quiet them down."

The new codes, written without or with minimal student involvement, came in response to public anger generated by campus disturbances last spring on various campuses. Many apply to campuses which have never gone through student disruptions.

Similar Codes Decried

In Oregon and Washington, two very similar codes of student and faculty conduct have been decreed by the respective governing boards of those states. Detailing clauses under which a student may be suspended or expelled or a faculty member fired, they deal with possession of firearms, physical abuse of people or property connected with the instruction, possession of drugs, and other offenses which would generally be handled in civil courts.

But both codes contain incitement clauses, and these are what students are objecting to. The Washington code states that members of the university staff or students may be suspended for "intentionally inciting others to engage immediately in any of the conduct prohibited herein, which incitement leads directly to such conduct." The first clause of both these codes list as a violation obstruction or disruption of normal teaching or research, or other lawful activities of the institution. Conceivably, under these rules, a professor could be fired for telling his own students not to come to class during a strike or moratorium.

In New Mexico the Board of Regents has adopted similar policies for the University of New Mexico, but without an incitement clause. But UNM President Ferrel Heady was also given broad emergency powers to ensure that "any future campus crises will be handled quickly and forcibly."

Invests Authority in Heady

The new policy statement gives Heady the authority to declare a state of emergency after which he is allowed to take "whatever action he finds necessary to safeguard persons or property or to maintain the University's educational function." The most severe of those actions is his authority to expel or dismiss outright any student or faculty member, without a hearing. The faculty member would then be unable to appeal until the state of emergency had ended.

At the University of Washington, the new rules of student and faculty conduct allow the university president, or any administrator he designates, to impose on any student, faculty member, or staff member an interim suspension "whenever there is reasonable cause to believe that such a person has committed, and may reasonably be expected thereafter to commit, any of the acts prohibited in the conduct rules." Such interim suspensions would be declared without a hearing, although a person so suspended would be allowed to request a hearing within seven days of being notified of his suspension.

Short office term destroys continuity

The lack of continuity from one administration to the next is one of the major problems facing student government today. Each new administration must enter office with a serious handicap.

In a discussion with SGA President Bob Huber, the impression was made that one of the major problems facing any student administration as it begins the year is that of not knowing the proper channels to receive and disperse information. When this fact is coupled with the situation of having to organize and fill positions, it becomes understandable why there is a tremendous amount of inertia to overcome to function even at a low level.

Much of the necessary information is lost each year when a new president is elected. Not only have student administrations been unorganized, but there is also the tendency for officials to have many portfolios. It is quite common for there to be multiple functions for each official.

If student government is ever going to overcome the stigma of being a popularity contest or just a good mark on one's record, then it must be realized that there are important functions to be performed. Also, a better means of achieving continuity of administrations must result.

One way to make student government more effective at a much earlier time in the year would be to have the president elected for a two-year term.

It is suggested, however, that the president should be subject to recall at the end of one year if a majority of students feel that he has not served their best interests. This in itself would be a strong stimulant to effective student government. While the two-year term should help bring about better continuity, the recall stipulation would also be a checks and balance system for the students being served.

Letters to the editor

Art review is not justified

Dear Editor:

Ken Saville's review of "Wheels and Windows" in THE ALL STATE of Wednesday, Sept. 30, proved that reviewing an art show is definitely not within his grasp. Mr. Saville began by stating that two artists who exhibit together "should contribute equally to the overall effect of the show." One is surprised that he is naive enough to think that the work of two different artists could ever be "equal."

He went on to say that Miss Harris's works "appear to fall short of what they could have been. Her reach is less than her grasp."

But he failed to give any hint of how her works fell short, and furthermore he failed to mention that Miss Harris contributed not just art but at least one-third of the poetry exhibited.

It is hard to believe that anyone could spend over 10 minutes at the exhibit (one wonders if Saville even spent that long) and not be impressed with Miss Harris's talent as a poet as well as a painter.

Especially was "This day passes" a favorite with those who enjoyed the show.

Also, the unique blending of painting with poetry in

"Grandad" and "Court House Slouch" (both by Miss Harris) and the tempera work "Daisy Blue BROWN" were quite intriguing.

This writer realizes that a review should not be a critique; however, she feels compelled to criticize a review that was so obviously biased.

Those who studied the works exhibited realize that Miss Harris needs no defense, just praise, and that her contributions (she did 25 out of 44) gave the "Wheels" motion and the "Windows" light.

Library unfair to graduates

by LARRY BOWERS

In the past few years, the APSU library has been the target of much criticism.

Critics have bemoaned things ranging from the absence of a pencil sharpener in the $1.4 million structure to the library's abbreviated schedule of operation.

Such criticism has resulted in the rectification of at least some faults. For example, the library now has an electric pencil sharpener.

At one time, there was even a student advisory committee which studied the operation of the library and recommended several changes (not the least of which is the dubious three week loan policy), yet many flaws remain.

In the Oct. 14 edition of THE ALL STATE, Johnnie Givens, head librarian, was quoted as saying, "We are interested in designing a program which integrates library service with the total educational experience of the student."

Despite that statement, Miss Givens, in the operation of the library, has neglected one entire phase of the educational experience. She and the library staff seem unaware that APSU offers a graduate program in several fields.

Much Has Been Done, But...

Certainly, much has been done to make the library more efficient, but all the changes have been made as though no graduate program exists.

It is absurd to assume that the needs of the graduate are the same as those of the undergraduate.

The very concept of graduate school implies a more intense study and a greater utilization of the library. Yet all changes which have been effected have tended to overlook the student who most needs the library.

The three week loan policy thwarts the studies of the graduate. He frequently needs books for longer periods of time (few these are written in three weeks).

If he needs a book which is checked out, he has a long time to wait for its return, and he cannot find the person who has the book because the library will not divulge the identity of the borrower (obviously for reasons of national security).

Needed Book Lies Idle

So, while the needed book lies idly on someone's desk, the report or thesis deadline draws nearer.

In addition, weekend hours are ideally suited to the student who needs to research. It is pleasant to know that all use of the library ceases at 5 p.m. on Saturday and spans the great gap from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. on Sunday.

If someone needs to spend more time, it is his misfortune because the library extends only its sympathy, not its hours.

The APSU library is a fine facility. It fulfills the needs of the undergraduate fairly well, but the graduate is the forgotten being. It is he who must struggle under rules which should apply specifically to the graduate and his needs.

Consideration of the following suggestions would be a step toward aiding not only graduates, but undergraduates as well: (1) a quarter loan system for students doing thesis work.

(2) longer weekend hours for all students, (3) the right of any student to ask and obtain the name of a person who has borrowed a needed book.

(4) a minimum of two reserve books per student (instead of one), (5) three week loan with renewal option for graduates, (6) carrel privileges for graduates.

The graduate program at APSU is being steadily expanded. However, if the program is to have more than limited success, the library must adapt to the changing situation and become more flexible.

It must recognize the existence of a graduate school at Austin Peay State University.

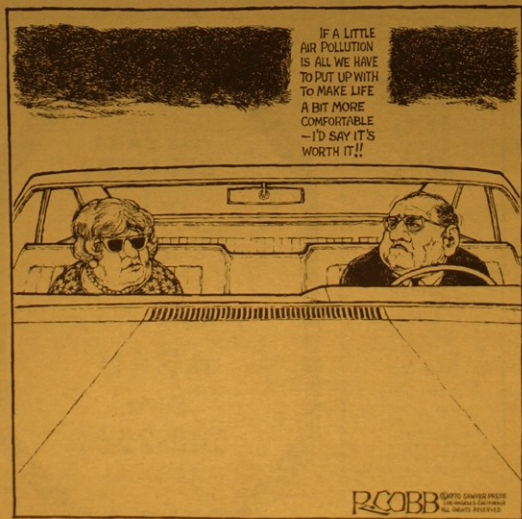

Stringer heads planning board

Wanda Stringer, president of the Beta Phi Chapter of Kappa Omicron Phi, served as leader of the program planning session at the organization's regional conference in Florence, Ala.

Also attending the national home economics honor society's conference were Donna Cato, local chapter secretary and Mrs. Doris Milner, sponsor.

Colleges represented at the bi-annual conference included Carson-Newman, Murray State University, Tennessee Technological University, East Tennessee State University, MTSU and Florence State University.

Student Tribunal justices ratified by SGA senate

Ratification of 1970-71 Student Tribunal associate justices was a primary activity of last Thursday's SGA senate meeting. Accepted unanimously were the appointments of Ben Boswell, junior; Jackie Dixon, sophomore; Harry Hunter, junior; Kathy Lee, junior and Bill Sies, junior. Eddie Patterson, elected chief justice last spring, is the sixth Tribunal member.

Other appointments announced at the meeting were James Hampton Kennon, junior, SGA executive assistant; Judy Binkley, senior, SGA parliamentarian and Dr. Donald Boren, assistant professor of business administration, SGA legal advisor.

A third item of business was the acceptance of constitutions from two new social fraternities at APSU, Phi Delta Kappa and Zeta Phi Alpha. Pending final vote at the next Senate meeting, these will become recognized organizations on campus.

Bob Huber, SGA president, also made known his planned establishment of a Revisions Board, to handle investigations concerning last spring's "Delegation of University Reforms."

Included in the board will be committees on violation rights, health services, the standing committee system, conciliatory class attendance evaluation, the library and student awareness.

The purpose of the student awareness committee will be to present to the senate accurate information concerning campus activities and views.

The committees will be expected to give progress reports at every senate meeting.

It was announced that progress in the visitation rights area would await a decision of the Tennessee Board of Education at its next meeting. The board, which must set such policies for all state schools, is expected to vote on the issue at that time.

The next senate meeting will be held tomorrow night at 7:30.

Program board applications due

Today at 4 p.m. is the deadline for submitting applications for positions on the University Center's Program Board.

Vacant are seats for chairman of the Instructional Services Committee, chairman of the House Committee and four members at large.

The Program Board is responsible for coordinating all student social activities in the University Center and most campus entertainment.

The following are excerpts from articles appearing recently in the Practical State University official newspaper The All State.

Another Record Enrollment

A record 3,573 students have enrolled at A Practical State University, Ben Belfry, dean of admissions announced this week.

This represents a .07 per cent increase over the 1969 fall term.

A breakdown of the total shows 2,200 full-time, 1,010 part-time, 63 extension, and the rest accounted for only when applying for state funds.

It is reported that over 150 freshmen are still registering in the gym. Applications are still being accepted for admittance this quarter also.

New Fraternity Forms

A brand new social fraternity on campus announced that May 8 is the final day they will accept charter members.

Choosing the Greek letters Yappa Dappa Do as a name, the spokesman for the group stated that the only requirements for joining were a late model car, an ivy league wardrobe and about $500 in cash.

The group's first community service project will be the cleaning up of beer cans discarded by them at their first meeting. They plan to display the cans in their respective dorm rooms near their flashing neon Budweiser signs.

Placement Interviews

The following recruiters will be on campus this week for recruiting purposes:

Feedburner Screw, Nat and Bolt Mig. Co. of Pearce's Corner, Ark.—manual laborers (second shift).

W. F. Woolworthless Co. of Pocatello, Idaho.—stockroom helpers.

Fulver's Textile Mills of greater Muskogee—cotton pickers.

Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines—chaplain's aides, captured enemy documents decipherers, joint chiefs of staff.

Slater uses food survey for opinion

Do you like roast beef better than turkey? How do you prefer your eggs, poached or sunny-side up?

What's your opinion of creamed chipped beef? Do you have any suggestion on the campus food service?

Food is always a favorite topic among famished college students and tomorrow they will have an opportunity to express their preferences where it counts.

When a student comes for lunch in the Snack Bar in the University Center or in the Cafeteria, he will be given a questionnaire, listing 50 menu items—entrees, salads, soups, deserts, vegetables, fruits and beverages.

Reactions to these foods and also to menu variety, temperature, food preparations and appearance, serving size, courtesy of employees and standards of service can be marked as either like, dislike or do not know.

At the bottom of the form space will be provided for any additional comments or suggestions.

The survey is being conducted by ARA Slater School and College Services as a means of keeping in touch with student bodies to improve service.

"We want to include the foods you like best in our menu," said T. T. Armenaki, ARA Slater dining service director at APSU. "Your cooperation in this survey will be appreciated since it will enable us to serve you better."

All notations will be fed into the ARA computer to calculate percentages.

"The results of the survey will be made known as soon as they are returned to me from the scanning company," Armenaki added.

ODD SQUAD—Not even half as strange as the name of their party implied, the newly elected freshman officers look forward to a year of success. They are (l to r) David Coke, president; Carmen Burton, secretary; Stanley Quarles, vice-president and Mary Jane Parr, senator.

Odd Squad unifies frosh to take on establishment

The Odd Squad—one black, one white, one blonde and one extra—prepare to take on the establishment, having won on a straight ticket in the freshman class elections.

Although it may sound like a listing from TV Guide, a four member party running on one ticket for president, vice-president, secretary, and senator of the freshman class showed the campus last week that a little creativity is worth votes.

The four, David Coke, Stanley Quarles, Carmen Burton and Mary Jane Parr, are all from Clarksville and attended Clarksville High School together.

"It was really David and Stanley's idea to run," said Miss Burton who was elected secretary. "When they asked me to be on the ticket with them, we decided to call ourselves the Mod Squad. Then, after we added Mary Jane, senatorial candidate, we changed it to the Odd Squad."

"As we see it," said Coke, newly elected president, "our major problem will be class participation."

"Yeah, we want more attendance at our class meetings," added Quarles, vice-president.

"What we're striving for," summed up Miss Parr, "is a more unified class and a more meaningful year."

"And one more thing," added Coke, "We're looking forward to winning the homecoming float competition this year."

Circle K Club changes membership procedures

For the first time in many years, the Circle K Club at APSU is accepting applications for membership during the fall quarter as well as in the spring.

Applications will be available this week only in the University Post Office. All forms must be returned by Friday.

Frank Felt, president of the organization, related that the change in membership policy was passed in the form of a resolution at the last club meeting.

He indicated two reasons for the change in membership policy. "First, we're trying to increase our membership so that we can compete with the other clubs in the district."

"Secondly, and perhaps more important, we will be able to accept applications from first quarter freshmen. In order to hold a division, district or national office, a man must first have been a major officer in his home club."

"Since this 'stepping stone' process takes time, a student must become a member of the local club during his freshman year if he intends to progress to higher positions in Circle K," Felt explained.

In the past the Circle K Club had taken applications during the spring quarter of each year. This allowed a freshman a full academic year to establish an over-all grade point average of 2.0 and become familiar with the club's activities.

Under the new policy, applications will be taken during both the fall and spring quarters. Those freshmen selected in the fall quarter will be given conditional membership through the end of the winter quarter.

When grades are posted for that quarter, those who have not achieved a 2.0 or better will be dropped automatically.

The remaining conditional members will be discussed by the regular members and a final vote of confidence given.

Membership in the Circle K Club is restricted to full-time male students willing to devote their time to the service of APSU and the local community.

Each member must maintain a 2.0 cumulative grade point average or better to keep his status as a member of the group.

"We sincerely hope that those who have applied in the past will do so again this week," added Felt. "We also encourage anyone who meets the basic requirements to apply for membership."

Applicants will be advised through their campus mailboxes of the date for the organization's get-acquainted smoker.

Officers start organization of fraternity

The formation of one of two new fraternities on campus, Zeta Phi Alpha, was begun last week at an organizational meeting in the University Center.

The members were introduced at that time to their pre-protempore officers, David Hardwick, president; Bill Sites, vice-president; Calvin McKay, secretary and Forest Ratchford, treasurer.

The officers will serve until March 1, 1971.

Hank Hildebrand of the Inter-Fraternity Council was on hand at the beginning of the meeting to explain the rules governing organizational meetings and constitutions to the new fraternity brothers.

Later, the members received copies of the Zeta Phi Alpha Constitution, which the officers had drawn up over the weekend.

Hardwick stressed unity throughout the meeting and was enthusiastic over the signing of 56 charter members. "This is the most energetic fraternity on campus," he said, "and I believe we will be the No. 1 fraternity."

Wives arrange breakfast, entry

It won't be in bed, but it will be more social. What? The homecoming breakfast planned by APSU's Student Wives Club.

In addition the club hopes to have an entry in this year's homecoming parade.

Discussions of these events plus a wig demonstration by "Fashion" will be on the agenda at the club's meeting last Monday evening.

Also held was a raffle from which one lucky member went home to surprise her husband with her new head of hair, a free wig.

The Student Wives Club invites any wives of full-time APSU students to join their organization. Information concerning membership may be obtained by calling 648-7586 or 648-7280.

Chemist uses lab magic

Perfumed paper, "dry" martinis, flavored cigarettes and the world's smallest Bible are just a few of the miracles of today's industrial laboratories which will be displayed this afternoon at 3 in Claxton Auditorium.

Using slides, charts and these unusual props, Mrs. Marjorie Lyon Jones, senior research chemist with the Central Research Division of the National Cash Register Company, Dayton, will conduct a "magic showing" of wide range of activities underway at NCR.

The lecture, sponsored by Trane Co., will cover advancements in solid state, integrated circuits, thin-film technology and problems encountered in communication.

A major portion, however, will deal with NCR's work in chemical technology and the development of NCR paper and the microcapaculation technology now being licensed to various industries the world-over.

The entertaining and informative presentation will end with a discussion of PCMI-Photochromic Micro Imagery—a radically new document information and restoration technique, capable of reducing an acre of paper to one square foot of their unique media.

The complete King James version got the Bible on a piece of film less than two by two will be shown. Each page, though visible to the naked eye as only dots, is clearly readable when placed in a projection viewer.

In addition to research work, Mrs. Jones has made presentations before thousands of people in the United States and in over 17 foreign countries.

She received her B.S. in chemistry from Adelphi University, Long Island, N. Y.

All students, faculty members and the general public are invited to attend.

Draft laws, local boards aid dodgers

(CPS)—Figures released recently by Selective Service officials reveal that the rate of conviction for violations of the draft laws have fallen to about one-third of the total number of cases decided for the first nine months of fiscal year 1970.

During fiscal year 1968 (July '67 - June '68) the rate of convictions was 64.8 per cent. Fiscal year 1969 showed a drop in these figures to 47.2 per cent, and the figures for the first three years of fiscal 1970 work out to 33.6 per cent.

Due to the fact that the number of cases has been steadily increasing, from 1,153 decisions during fiscal 1968 to 2,969 during the first three quarters of fiscal 1970, the actual number of convictions is increasing.

In 1965 there were 256 convictions; in 1968, 747; in 1969, 884; and in the first nine months of 1970, 695.

The decline in the rate of convictions can be attributed to the growth of the number of skilled draft lawyers, the far greater frequency of errors at overworked local boards, recent liberalization of the laws through court decisions and the greater preparedness of present draft law violators for court fights.

Alpha Phi Omega also elected a fraternity sweetheart, Jackie Womack, a senior history major from Nashville, was honored with this title. Other nominees in the voting were Debbie Wisdom, Nina Ferguson, Rita Gildewell and Christie Atkins.

Fraternity picks theme for entry

A Merry-Go-Round Victory has been selected by Alpha Beta Alpha as the theme for their float in this year's homecoming parade.

Other activities planned by the undergraduate honorary library science fraternity include visiting the East Montgomery Elementary School in November and a Christmas dinner.

In addition, Alpha Beta Alpha elected officers at their last meeting. Selected to serve were Carla Doty, president; Willie Ann Edwards, vice-president; Kathleen Bradford, secretary; Angie Weeks, treasurer and Gail Shrun, parliamentarian.

TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION—Jackie Womack, newly elected Alpha Phi Omega sweetheart, marches modestly through a victory arch erected in her honor. Amid the cheering crowds, Jackie found temporary comfort clutching her genuine Linus blanket.

Alpha Phi Omega adds color to Senior Center

Alpha Phi Omega added a little color to the lives of the Clarksville Senior Citizens by painting the interior of their center last week.

The painting was part of pledge activities planned by the Upsilon Alpha Chapter of this national service fraternity. The fraternity is now engaged in pledge leadership training for its 15 prospective activists.

Alpha Phi Omega treated its pledges to a weekend of fun and games last Friday and Saturday in Dover. This was a part of the club's leadership training, and as such is an invaluable stage in the pledge's understanding of the concepts of brotherhood.

Also, the fraternity elected a new advisor to its advisory board. Mr. Bobby Wall, director of housing and security, received a unanimous vote of the membership and will join Earl Sexton, Henry Malone and Dr.

Graduate grants offered for overseas research

Information concerning grants for overseas study offered by the Institute of International Education may be obtained from Preston John Hubbard, campus Fulbright adviser.

The competition is open for grants for graduate study or research abroad, and for professional training in the creative and performing arts during the academic year 1971-72. The purpose of the grants is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the U. S. and other countries through the exchange of persons, knowledge and skills.

Candidates who wish to apply for an award must be U. S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant and, in most cases, be proficient in the language of the host country.

Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed overseas study plan, language preparation and personal qualifications.

Preference is given to applicants between the ages of 20 and 35 and to candidates who have not had prior opportunity for extended study or residence abroad, with the exception of those who have served in the armed forces.

Creative and performing artists will not be required to have a bachelor's degree, but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience.

Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the master of social work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. at the time of application.

A full award will provide a grantee with tuition, maintenance for one academic year in one country, round-trip transportation, health and accident insurance and an incidental allowance.

Any student who has a 3.5 average or above and interested in the possibility of foreign study should see Professor Hubbard in Room 109 of the Clement Building.

Of home economics

Qureshi wants image changed

by CECILIA HARDWICK

"I'd like to change the name and image of home economics. Everyone thinks it involves only food and sewing, but there's much more to it than that."

These are the opinions and ambitions of Dr. Sanobar Qureshi, who joined the APSU faculty this fall.

Dressed in an orange and white sari, Dr. Qureshi discussed the changes that she would like to see made in the home economics department.

"By changing the name to the department of human equality, as some universities have already done, interest in the field might increase."

"When they recognized that nutritional studies, child guidance, epidemiology and public health guidance are a part of home economics, men will become more interested in the department."

"Most students are more interested in these types of studies than in cooking and sewing," she continued.

According to the assistant professor, home economics is a field which can contribute socially. If offered nutritional biochemical studies, students would be able to solve such problems as the role of cholesterol in the body or the effects of cyclamates on man.

"Students need to do simple analyses in nutritional biochemical studies. I would like to do something dynamic like adding a nutritional laboratory to the department," said Dr. Qureshi.

A native of West Pakistan, Dr. Qureshi had thought that she would have problems teaching nutrition courses to Americans, but so far the only problem has been understanding the Southern dialect.

"They speak it very quickly, but I'm beginning to get it," she smiled and said.

Dr. Qureshi received her doctorate degree in nutrition and biochemistry from Texas Women's University in Denton, near Dallas. This is her first teaching experience.

Although she studied English in West Pakistan, Dr. Qureshi really learned to speak American English when she came to Columbia University in New York on a scholarship to work on her M.S.

After saying that she has also studied at the University of Sind in Jamshoro, India, Dr. Qureshi was reminded of an incident which happened in the faculty meeting here when new members were introduced.

"Everyone was so amazed that I graduated from the University of 'Sin,' until Dr. Joe Morgan explained that it was 'Sind.'"

In contrasting the system of education in West Pakistan to America, Dr. Qureshi pointed out that her country's system is similar to that of England.

FOOD PRINCIPLES DISCUSSION—Dr. Sanobar Qureshi, stylishly dressed in a maxi (sari), listens intently as a student draws the Southern dialect. Dr. Qureshi is, however, picking up the accent rapidly.

Balloon test for sobriety helps in highway safety

The Tennessee Department of Safety has adopted a new technique in the enforcement of the implied consent law.

Effective Dec. 1, State Troopers will utilize the Sobor Meter Balloon Test to determine the amount of alcohol in a person's system.

State Safety Commissioner Greg O'Rear said the Troopers would ask the motorist to take the test if he had given the officer reason to believe he was under the influence of an intoxicant.

If the breath test revealed that the motorist's blood contained enough alcohol to measure 0.10, he is presumed under Tennessee law to be under the influence of an intoxicant. A specimen would also be sent to a state laboratory for verification.

A person's driver license could be suspended under state law if he or she refused to take the test.

The new method of testing alcohol content in a person has been accepted world-wide and will greatly assist State Troopers in their task of getting drinking drivers off the highways, according to Commissioner O'Rear.

Social frat picks name, begins plans

Phi Delta Kappa was chosen as the name for one of the new social fraternities on campus by an enthusiastic vote of its charter membership last Wednesday.

Climaxing a week of research and discussion, several Greek letter names were suggested and voted upon. Green and gold were selected as the fraternity colors.

The meeting began with an election of pro-temper officers by the members present. Acting as president will be Bill Gregorius with Frank Stratton, vice-president; Steve Frost, secretary and Jim Scott, treasurer.

Sergeants-at-arm are Mike Riddle and George Lowry. Dave Dent and Don Cook were elected to represent Phi Delta Kappa on the Inter-Fraternity Council.

"Things are progressing rapidly," said Gregorius. "We have a great deal of enthusiasm and momentum and to accomplish our goals, we must sustain these feelings."

"Phi Delta Kappa will be as great as we all want it to be, and I believe we will be No. 1."

With 72 members, the fraternity is the largest on campus. Phi Delta Kappa plans its meeting tonight at 6 in the Claxton Lecture Room.

Post office outlines policy

"All authorized postal holidays will be observed by the University Post Office," Mrs. Carolyn W. Biggers, superintendent, reminds students.

"This includes Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, and Washington's Birthday (Feb. 22) during the fall and winter quarters."

"However, on university holidays, mail will be received and distributed as authorized by R. C. Shasteen, business manager," stated Mrs. Biggers. On these days, mail will be distributed to the boxes in the University Post Office, but will not be delivered to the Browning Building.

Faculty who do not have a post office box in the University Center may pick up their mail on school holidays from 9 to 10:30 a.m. when the post office is open for window service.

On all other days, mail is distributed to student boxes from 8 to 10 each morning.

The window is open for the sale of stamps, mailing of packages and other postal services according to this schedule:

Monday-Friday 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Saturday 9-10:30 a.m.

Personal messages and notices to be distributed to post office boxes may be left in the basket marked "On Campus Communications."

These messages will be placed in boxes only between 12 noon and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

All notices must have the correct name and box number. Notices must also be arranged in numerical order.

Outgoing mail is picked up in the University Post Office at 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The mail is collected from the boxes on campus at 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

After 3:30 each afternoon and on Saturday after 10:30, mail should be placed in the postal boxes to insure prompt delivery.

Playhouse opens

as the Oxford-educated Mr. Asano.

The AP Playhouse presentation will present several new members as well as veterans. The beautiful Mrs. Jacoby will be portrayed by veteran Valerie Stroh who was last seen in Reynard the Fox, a children's theatre presentation last winter.

Valerie, whose talents lie in many areas, is a senior who last year received the Most Valuable Female Technician Award from the Playhouse.

Her comic prowess was evident in her antics in the Mis Hat and Cane Pagant last winter.

The role of Mrs. Jacoby is her first major assignment.

Also in his first major role will be Don Roby as Mr. Asano. Don was last seen as Captain Brackett in the Opera Workshop production of South Pacific. Don is a senior presently student-teaching at Greenwood Junior High School.

The parts of Mrs. Jacoby's daughter and son-in-law, Alice and Jerry Black, will be played by Cathy Simpson and Larry Wener respectively.

This will be Cathy's first role for the Playhouse. Larry's last major role was in The Miracle Worker two seasons ago.

Two other veterans appearing will be Suelia Dillard and Bill St. John, Suelia, who won the "Alphie" for Best Supporting Actress in last year's Turk 182, will play Mrs. Jacoby's neighbor and dear friend, Mrs. Rubin.

Bill St. John, playing the dubious Japanese houseboy Eddie, has been seen numerous times on the AP stage. He was last seen as Mitch in A Streetcar Named Desire.

Other members of the cast are Robert Horn, Clinton Inge, Lorraine Sholders, Cathy Graves, Cheri Chitwood, Cheryl Gibbs and Deborah Emmett.

John Griffin, in his fifteenth year at APSU, is directing this production which he says has "wide audience appeal."

Last season Griffin, assistant professor of speech, directed The Children's Hour, Reynard the Fox and Halfway Up the Tree. Perhaps one of his most popular productions was his The Miracle Worker of two years ago.

Assistant to the director is Babs Sears and stage manager is Frank Rogers.

The innovative set, which easily allows for many changes of locale with the theatre's limited facilities, was designed and executed jointly by Griffin and Tom Young.

Admission is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

APSU buys Armory site for building

The National Guard Armory, already being used by APSU, and the Motor Vehicle Building, located on the northern side of the APSU campus, will soon be officially owned by the university.

The state board of education, in its meeting last Thursday, approved a resolution allowing APSU to purchase the two buildings from the Tennessee National Guard for $123,600.

Since the deeds for the buildings are already held by the state of Tennessee, there will be no deed transfer. The National Guard will be credited for the amount and APSU will be debited.

This paper transaction should be completed within the next two or three weeks.

"For the present we will continue to use the (Armory) building as we have, although it has been allowed to deteriorate considerably," said President Joe Morgan. "It may be removed in two or three years."

The grounds of the Armory are now being used for parking and for tennis, courts having been built on a corner of the lot.

The building itself is being used for some physical education activities. The 17,000-square-foot structure is 34 years old.

The state National Guard will continue to use the Armory until a new facility has been constructed. They will also be allowed to continue using the Motor Vehicles Building for vehicle storage.

This building will be razed soon, however, to prepare the site upon which will be constructed the new Health and Physical Education Building.

Clock-watchers await midnight

When the clock strikes 12 this Saturday night, it won't be for a practice run of next week's bewitching Halloween hour.

Instead it will signal all local clock-keepers to set their timepieces back one hour when they go to bed.

All of this confusion results each year from the semi-annual ritual Americans observe because of the Federal Uniform Time Act—daylight saving time.

Regular standard time will be in effect until next April 24.

Winless Governors visit Middle Tennessee

—APSU faces arch-rival—

APSU Closeup

DAN CHANNELL

Gov outlook brighter

"We are a complete unknown at this point," was APSU basketball coach George Fisher's comment on the eve of the first day of practice for the 1970-71 season.

"We have some of the best size we have ever had and some outstanding individual performers," Fisher continued, "but just what kind of a team we will have remains to be seen."

Of the 20 players who have reported, the squad includes Tom Santel (5-11 guard), Larry Noble (6-4 forward), Mike Young (6-3 forward), Jim Dupont (6-1 guard) and Wayne Blackford (6-5 forward) as the returning lettermen.

Santel is the leading scorer returning from a year ago when he averaged 13.6 points per game, appearing in all 26 of APSU's games. In addition, he led the team in assists with 134, a school record.

Santel is definitely a bright spot on the APSU roundball team. In the two organized scrimmages last week he consistently connected on 30-footers and set up his teammates with countless assists. He seems to always know where the ball will be, moves very well without the ball and combined with his deadly shooting eye should give the Govs quite a backcourt threat.

Host of sophomores returning

Heading the list of freshmen who have advanced to the varsity ranks are Jack Pack (6-2 guard), John Bill Thomas (6-0 guard), Phillip Ward (6-6 forward), Jerry Wanstrath (6-7 center), Dennis Huntzinger (6-3 forward) and Jim Watts (6-4 forward).

Pack paced the frosh in scoring a year ago, tossing in 22.6 points per game. Wanstrath was the leading rebounder with a 14.4 per game average.

Perhaps the most surprising player so far this season has been John Thomas who seems to be over the famed freshmen hex. In the practices last Thursday and Friday he threw in 28 points in both of the game type scrimmages, and I can't remember him missing but one shot Thursday.

Greg Kinman (6-9, 210), gives APSU one of its tallest players in its basketball history. He transferred here a year ago and will be eligible for the 1970-71 season.

Kinman does not have a starting job sewed up yet, but he seems to be moving in that direction. He has been battling it out with junior college transfers Larry Hill (6-8, 218), Dan Smith (6-7, 200), and Lovie Fry (6-6, 205). The presence of these four plus Wanstrath from the frosh gives APSU one of its tallest and heaviest teams in years.

The other two Junior college performers are Jerry Stephenson (6-2 guard) and passing whiz Reggie Thompson (6-1 guard). They both will be in the thick of the battle for the two starting guard slots.

Tennessee Martin rallies, upends Governors 22-21

Despite Harold (Red) Robert's record-breaking performance, the APSU football squad dropped its fifth straight contest of the season Saturday night, losing 22-21 to the University of Tennessee at Martin in Martin's College Stadium.

Roberts, a split end, continued his assault on the record books. He moved up the ladder to the third ranked pass receiver in collegiate football when he hauled in his 26th pass in the third quarter.

For the first time this season APSU managed to generate an offense, and the defense did its share in containing the Vol's offense in all respects except one.

Randy Barnes, the Orange and White's place kicker, booted three field goals one was good for 30 yards in the first quarter, a 36 yarder in the third quarter, and a 47 yard boot in the fourth quarter and an extra point.

UT Martin took an early lead on a touchdown run by Nate Holmes and then boosted it to 10-0 with Barnes' first field goal.

APSU came storming back after Terry Johnson recovered a UT fumble on the Martin one. Darryl Huxley then on the third play from scrimmage plunged over from the one. Steve Shia booted the extra point to bring the score to 10-7.

APSU's final score of the first half came on a 34 yard run by

The Austin Peay State University football team travels to Murfreesboro, Tenn. Saturday afternoon for the 234th renewal of its long rivalry with Middle Tennessee State University.

The Governors, 22-21 losers to UT Martin Saturday night, will be after their first win in six outings this season. APSU will also be out to end a nine-game loss skein that dates back into the 1969 season.

The Raiders are 3-2 on the year, having dropped their last two games to Ohio Valley Conference opponents—Eastern Kentucky (24-10) and Murray State (20-0).

However, the Midlanders had been impressive in their first three contests. Middle Tennessee opened with wins over UT Martin, Morehead and UT Chattanooga before clashing with the Eastern powerhouse.

It will be homecoming for the Raiders Saturday and Middle Tennessee will be out to even its Ohio Valley Conference mark at 2-2.

The Midlanders will also have extra incentive in that they have not beaten APSU in Murfreesboro since 1962. In their last three meetings on the Raiders' James Field, the Governors have captured wins of 9-7, 13-7, and in 1968—the Govs' last trip to Murfreesboro—APSU won handily, 46-13.

The Gov-Blue Raider series has been one of the most colorful and, yet, most frustrating in the APSU football history. The Governors battled their arch-rival from 1936 to 1963 without a triumph. In 1964, however, the Red and White edged Middle Tennessee 9-7, ending 18 years of winless football against MTSU.

Since 1964, APSU has won four of the six meetings between the two schools, bringing the series record to 18-4-2.

The "Mod Squad"

Middle Tennessee counts heavily on its pass defense, ranked No. 2 in the OVC. Leaders of the defense contingent, known as "the Mod squad", are cornerbacks Ray Bonner and Ed Miller and safeties Ray Oldham and Ken Coffee.

All-OVC linebacker David Duval, tackles Danny Buck and Greg Gregory and end John Harris provide much further forward in the Big Blue defensive unit.

Tailback Reuben Justice, who was leading OVC rushing two weeks ago, has the ability to take charge of a game and turn things around as he did with UT Chattanooga.

Fullback Gary Wright assists Justice with the running chores as well as providing the Blue Raiders with extra offensive punch.

Junior Bobby Gatlin is expected to get the call to the quarterback job Saturday night. Gatlin and Justice have been teaming up for most of the offensive action thus far this season.

The Governors are expected to counter with the same line-up as that which faced UT Martin Saturday.

At quarterback will probably be freshman signal-caller, David Walker. In his second varsity contest last week, Walker completed 9 of 21 pass attempts for 112 yards and rushed 15 times for a total of 78 yards.

Walker's favorite target, if last week's game is any indication,

A SNEAK ATTACK — UT Martin's Ron Schomaker (center) is tackled by an unidentified APSU defender, while coming up from the rear to give assist is the Gov's Bill Blair (60). Blair is on ten other assists.

Fisher submits resignation; effective at end of cage season

George Fisher, who is beginning his ninth year as head of the APSU basketball program, has announced his planned resignation from the active coaching ranks at the end of the 1970-71 cage season.

No successor has been named by the university's athletic committee.

Fisher, who was named the "Ohio Valley Conference Coach of the Year" at the conclusion of the 1966-67 season, submitted his resignation to Dr. Joe Morgan, APSU president, last week.

In his statement of resignation, Fisher pointed out that his tentative plans are "to return to graduate school next year and seek another degree after which I hope to return to Clarksville and APSU permanently."

During the past eight years, Fisher's teams posted an overall record of 80-111.

resign at the end of the upcoming campaign came just prior to the opening of practice for the 1970-71 season.

GEORGE FISHER

Several transfers, sophomores up from the 1969-70 frosh squad and varsity holdovers give Fisher the prospects to field one of the university's strongest teams in history.

In accepting Fisher's statement of resignation, Dr. Morgan said, "I have received Mr. George Fisher's resignation as head basketball coach of APSU effective at the end of the 1970-71 basketball season."

"Mr. Fisher has served this institution well and will continue to do so. He is a capable, dedicated teacher and coach. He is a gentleman of unquestionable character and integrity," Morgan stated.

"If he should request a leave of absence to complete an advanced academic degree, that request will be granted. He will make an outstanding contribution as a full-time member of the academic faculty," Morgan concluded.

Athletic Director Dave Aaron, Fisher's predecessor, said, "George has typified my ideal as an athletic coach in seeking to achieve for young men qualities

WARNER ON THE WAY - APSU's Calvin Warner (32) gets adequate blocking from his Governor teammates enroute to a 26-yard kickoff return against UT Martin Saturday night. Warner also ran Volunteer kickoffs back two other times, once for 15 yards and the other for a 24-yard gain.

Guidelines are prepared for university intramurals

Guidelines for the 1970-71 intramural programs have been set up with the formation of the two leagues for each category of students.

The Organizational League will consist of all dormitories, fraternities, clubs and unions on campus. All the players representing this league must be housed in a dormitory, or they will not be allowed to play in this league.

The Independent League will be comprised of commuters and those teams and individuals wishing to play in this league. Any individual living in a dormitory and simultaneously being a member of a fraternity, club or union can play for either one he chooses, but not both.

A person can play in only one league sport, and he can not change leagues or teams until the season is completed.

A point system will be established to determine an APSU Intramural Champion for the team sports. This trophy will be presented to the top team, and can be retired if won by this team for three consecutive years.

The APSU Intramural Athlete trophy will be presented to the most outstanding individual, and will be retained by him permanently.

Points toward this trophy may be gained through ethical participation in team sports. Unethical participation in team sports results in the loss of points toward this trophy.

All team sports will be represented by a permanent plaque on which the winner of a particular sport will be inscribed. Members of the winning team will receive six-inch trophies.

All the individual sports winners will also be given a six inch trophy.

Points for individual sports (1,2,3 places and participation) contribute toward the APSU Intramural Athlete trophy and none toward the APSU Intramural Champion.

The Govs' defense will again be without the services of tackle Bonnie Sloan, who is expected to be out for at least two more weeks.

The other two hopefuls for the upcoming season includes redshirt Charles Smith (6-0 guard) and Matt Tipton (6-5 forward) a recent member of the US Army who was discharged following 14 months of duty in Viet Nam. Tipton has hauled in numerous rebounds in the early part of the workouts, and he too could break into a front line berth.

APSU scribes fall in conference play

The APSU sports writers, a little weaker after last week's results, will try to read their crystal objects more closely in this week's predictions.

The group as a whole picked 22 right and eight wrong, and all of the miscalculations coming on just two games. John Martin pulled the biggest surprise of the week in his prediction of Murray over MTSU catching everyone napping.

This coming week should prove to be the biggest test of the season with Western Ky. to Western Ky. for what could be the deciding game of the OVC conference race. All games are within the conference and should weed out most of this paper's guessers.

of morality, character and discipline so essential to daily living."

Fisher began his coaching duties at APSU in 1958 following several years of professional baseball, both as a player and as a manager.

He earned his master of arts in education degree and served stints as an assistant football coach, freshman basketball coach, head track coach and head golf coach.

Two of his track squads, the 1960 and 1961 contingents, captured Volunteer State Athletic Conference titles. His first APSU varsity cage team sported an 18-11 record and copped the VSAC Western Division championship. A year later, when APSU officially began playing in the major college OVC, Fisher's team finished with a 7-7 league mark and an over-all 14-9 record.

When he won OVC coaching laurels in 1966-67, his team posted identical marks to the 1963-64 contingent.

A native of Greenbrier, Tenn., Fisher was an All-VSAC performer in both basketball and football while pursuing his undergraduate degree at APSU. He held many of the school's pass receiving records until the appearance of current star Harold (Red) Roberts.

Fisher is married to the former Miss Myra Dixon of Waycross, Ga. They have two children, Stephanie and Mickey. Stephanie, a former cheerleader and APSU graduate, is teaching in Atlanta, Ga. Mickey is a junior at Clarksville High School.

UT Martin rallies

freshmen quarterback David Walker around the Vols right end. This touchdown gave the Goves a halftime lead of 16-10, and the first lead in a game this season.

When play resumed in the second half APSU ran up a 21-13 bulge. The Goves had marched 44 yards in seven plays. They were forced to punt from their own 27, but Roberts recovered a UTM fumble on the Vols 44.

In the following plays Walker hit Roberts for a 13 yard gain and then tossed to Randy Holt for the score.

HAROLD (RED) ROBERTS

The Goves had a touchdown nullified on a 15-yard holding penalty on the next series of plays. Roberts made a picture-book catch on the penalty play as he tried to control the ball as it bounced on his fingertips. He finally gained control of the ball, and fell into the end zone with a Vol defender on his back. This would have moved him into receiving three in collegiate pass numbers and given him his 30th career touchdown.

Barnes brought Martin within five points when he connected on his last field goal of 47 yards.

Holmes then outran the left side of APSU's line on an 18 yard sweep to give Martin the go ahead touchdown.

In the closing minutes, Mike Beeler intercepted a Walker toss to halt the Goves' final attempted rally on the Red and White's 34. The Goves were led on the ground by Walker who had 78 yards in 15 carries on the ground as well as completing 9 of 21 passes.

Bill Blair had an outstanding defensive night with 13 individual tackles and 10 assists to lead the Goves defensive unit.

Statistically it was the first time this year APSU has gained over 100 yards total offense. For the game, the Goves had a combined total offense of 260 yards to 328 yards for UTM.

Send a letter to North Vietnam.

Right now hundreds of Americans are being held captive in North Vietnam.

A few prisoners have made it back. They talk about bamboo cages. Vicious beatings. Malnutrition. Humiliation.

But the North Vietnamese will tell us nothing. And it's this silence that makes our appeal more urgent.

For the families at home, there is no word on who's alive. Who's dead. Or even who's being held. There is nothing. Except the anguish of not knowing.

Maybe you can change this. By writing to the one man who can change it: The President of North Vietnam.

Ask him to release the names of prisoners, allow them to write to their families, and let the Red Cross inspect the prisons to insure proper medical treatment and living conditions.

Remind him that he is bound by the 1949 Geneva Convention which his country signed. And by the Istanbul resolution.

North Vietnamese leaders do care about American public opinion. And if they think they can gain something by bowing to it, they will.

But one letter won't do it. Or a thousand. Maybe it will take millions. So we've got to write now. All of us. And often.

Write a letter tonight. And send it to: Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

It'll cost you a quarter. But it might save a life.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Maybe they'll open it.
