Nuclear Lab Dedicated to Harvill

The recently-completed nuclear physics laboratory at Austin Peay State was dedicated to President Halbert Harvill in the March 29 college assembly.

Mayor W. W. Barkdale, of Clarksville, participating in the surprise program, proclaimed that as Nuclear Physics Day in Clarksville.

The scheduled assembly program featured Gordon Finlay, solo cornetist with the U. S. Navy Band and conductor of that group's Ceremonial Detachment; he appeared in concert with the APSC Symphonic Band.

Melburn R. Mayfield, associate professor of physics, dedicated the lab to President Harvill.

Mayfield presented President Harvill a wallet - size plaque and a large plaque. The large plaque will be placed in the nuclear laboratory. The plaques were provided by Del Square Psi, the college's chapter in the national honorary physics organization.

Ben S. Kimbrough, vice - president of First Trust and Savings Bank, presented the Halbert Harvill scholarship in nuclear physics to the college. The scholarship is to be awarded an advanced student who has shown proficiency in the field of nuclear physics.

The scholarship will be awarded to the first recipient in the fall quarter of 1961.

Mayfield presented the library a set of books on the "Review of Nuclear Science." There are 10 volumes in the set which was dedicated in the special ceremony to Mrs. Elizabeth Harvill. The collection will be known as the Elizabeth Harvill collection. It was made possible by friends of hers and Del Square Psi. Del Square Psi is to add a book to the collection each year until the set is complete.

Following the special program, the nuclear research team for environmental radiation monitoring in civil defense for the Clarksville area went to City Hall to begin taking air samples and various surveys. Water and milk are to be sampled for radiation content later. This is the first place off-campus the senior physics students have conducted the city - approved project. The team's work so far had been conducted on the college campus.

The nuclear physics laboratory was established at the college with that project in consideration.

Wrapper Contest Will End May 5

A cigarette wrapper contest was started April 3 and will end May 5 under the sponsorship of the Phillip Morris company.

The person who saves the most Phillip Morris Commander cigarette wrappers is to get an 8 mm. movie camera.

The club or person on campus which saves the most Marlboro, Alpine, Phillip Morris, and Parliament wrappers in combination will receive a Decca console stereo hi-fi.

Central location for collection of wrappers is the area near the pub-

April 13 (tomorrow) is the date set for student body election of Student Council officers and cheerleaders.

The present Student Council has urged students to cast their votes for the candidates of their choice.

The ballot box will be below the main lobby of the administration building. This space near where the bookstore was and where the publicity office is now has been used for balloting for several years.

Student Council officers to be elected are president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. Six cheerleaders will be elected; several alternates are ordinarily selected from the cheerleader candidates close to the top six in vote.

Thursday, April 6 was the deadline for candidate applications. Candidates at that time included:

Ray Stone for president.
Skip Gray for president.
Tony Brown for president.
Walt Davis for vice-president.
Leon Stirling for vice-president.
L. G. Caroland for vice-president.
Stanley Roland for vice-president.
Nancy English for secretary-treasurer.

Candidates for cheerleading positions included Barbara Longhurst, Betty Ratcliff, Nancy Ann Byard, Nancy Williams, Pat Weakley, Lee Stitt, Peggy Cobb, Linda Winders, Joyce Keatts.

The present Student Council officers are President Graham Sugg, Vice-President Ray Stone, and Secretary-Treasurer Beverly Nichols. This year's cheerleaders were Betty Ratcliff, Barbara Longhurst, Joyce Keatts, Nancy Ann Byard, Pat Weakley, and Nancy Williams.

Sadie Hawkins Day April 22

Sadie Hawkins Day is coming to Austin Peay State College.

The country - style affair patterned after Al Capp's "Li'l Abner" is slated for Saturday, April 22, from noon to midnight.

The event is being sponsored by the Student Council. All students have been invited to participate (Faculty members may participate, too, if they also dress "country-style.")

The event begins at noon with a race which will start in front of the cafeteria. This race is a child of the "Li'l Abner" race of women on to get men.

From 12:30 to 1 p.m., mock marriages are to be held in the bowl; this is to reflect the race results. A picnic on the college farm is scheduled from 1 to 6 p.m.

From 8 p.m. to midnight, a dance is to be held in the college gymnasium.

A list of rules and schedule of events is to be passed out in assembly on April 18.

Coming Events

- April 12, PEM Club dance.
- April 13, Student body elections.
- April 14, Science contest.
- April 15, Circle "K" banquet.
- April 17, 18, Governors Galettes.
- April 21, State high school speech and drama contest.
- April 22, Sadie Hawkins Day.

Cancer Talk To Be Made

Dr. Alfred Gellhorn, M.D., of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, will speak April 13 at Austin Peay State College.

Dr. Gellhorn, who has been invited to Clarksville by the Eta Pi chapter of Beta Beta Beta Biological Society and the Clarksville-Montgomery County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, will deliver a public lecture on "Recent Advances Made in Cancer Research" in Room 102 McCord Science Building at 7:30 p.m.

All students are invited to attend. Dr. Gellhorn, who is currently serving as professor of medicine and director of the Institute of Cancer Research at Columbia University, is a native of St. Louis, Mo., and received the Doctor of Medicine degree from

Nine Business Scholarships Available

APSC's Business Department will award nine scholarships this fall to students majoring in business that range from $100 to $250 in value.

The scholarships are open to all incoming freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors majoring in some phase of business. The scholarships are subject to renewal and will be awarded annually for an indefinite period. Applications are being accepted.

ed now by Jerry Rust and Peter Cordillies of the Business Department. Although no definite deadline has been set for applications, the department suggested that all interested students file their applications as soon as possible.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of financial need and scholastic ability.

Donors responsible for the scholarships are Wyatt Motor Co., Garvin Furniture Co., M. L. Cross

Co., Maddox Tire Co., First Trust and Savings Bank, First National Bank, Office Machines Equipment Co., Clarksville Lions Club, and Clarksville New Car Dealers Association.

With an increased growth in the Business Department, the businessmen of Clarksville have realized the need of assisting worthy students in an endeavor to properly train future business leaders.

The Real Thing!

This is not an April Fool issue. This is a regular issue containing current campus news.

The April Fool issue was, it seems, enjoyed by many students. As yet, we have not sufficiently perfected our protective armor enough to come out far enough to see what the faculty thought of the paper.

(However, one faculty member did say we were cold hearted.) Oh well, there will be another laugh issue next year. May it be even better.

Vote, Please Vote

Tomorrow, April 13, is election day at Austin Peay State College. We students have the privilege of casting our ballots for the selection of the president, vice-president, and secretary of the student body and Student Council. We shall also cast our votes for next year's cheerleaders.

This editor would like to urge all students to vote and to stress the importance of voting wisely. Let this not be merely a popularity contest. Popularity is needed, certainly, but a candidate with only popularity to offer has no real contribution to make. A person may be undependable, without initiative, lacking in persistence, uncooperative, perhaps even dishonest, and yet be "popular."

The officers of the Student Council should be leaders. They should be willing to carry out their great duties of representing the student body. They should be willing to get along with others, including the administration. Remember when you cast your vote, that promises are frequently not fulfilled. It is difficult to make a good decision on the basis of promises only. So consider the candidates' popularity and promises—but also consider their personal characteristics.

Don't Mar Public Property

Several times this year, this editor has noticed the name of a "club" for a student written with pen or pencil on the pieces of tape which were protecting the small blocks on the All State trophy within the entrance to the library.

This editor does not know who committed such action, nor do I wish to know. I am sure, however, that the person for whom the club was named did not do it, for I feel sure that he is a nicer person than such action would indicate.

It is regrettable to find that there is at least one person on campus who intentionally defaces property which was placed by a student organization in a public place for the benefit of the public and the honor of the outstanding club on campus.

The All State trophy will be awarded soon to the most outstanding club on campus. Clubs should now be getting their records in presentable form for the committee which will select the outstanding club on campus for 1960-1961.

Please, let's have more competition than from just the Circle "K" Club and the English Club.

Congrats to Harvills

The All State congratulates President and Mrs. Harvill for the honors recently bestowed on them in regard to the new nuclear physics laboratory. We know of no person more deserving to be remembered in the lab dedication than President Harvill, who has been responsible for tremendous growth of this college.

Unfortunately, President Harvill cannot remain with this institution forever. This college will lose a dear friend when he goes. It is quite fitting that we should have some permanent reminders of all he did for this institution.

Sadie Hawkins Day is coming! That's a warning to you men (I'm not worried myself). Student Councils have been planning this creation from LIT Ameer for years, and it is finally to be held. Participate if you are saved from a penny saved is a penny earned long before the sales tax!

Just heard a cute joke from Betty Greenhill while back. It is as follows if Clift doesn't censor this.

"This little girl wanted to know how she was born and asked her mother. 'The stork brought you,' her mother replied.

"How were you born?" she asked her mother.

"The stork brought me," her mother replied.

"And how about Grandmother?" the little girl asked.

"The stork brought her too," the mother replied.

"Well I will be!" the little girl declared. "Three generations and not a natural birth yet!"

That's right, "some people can tell them and some can't."

Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. —(Matt. 6:12).

The more we let God's love reign in us and forgive through us, the more we come to see that there is less and less to forgive. We come to see that the only need is to love.

Letter to the Editor

For the past several months, the All State has contained letters approving or disapproving, avowing or condemning the weekend social programs of our school.

Some have tried to lay blame, others to forward their own ideas. My object is not to further these arguments. I would like to appeal to those students who spend their weekends on campus and especially to those who would like to spend them here if an enjoyable recreation program was adopted.

On April 22nd the Student Council is going to sponsor a Sadie Hawkins Day, complete with race, picnic, and finishing up with a big dance. I am appealing to the student body to turn out and make this affair a success. The immediate future of a solid weekend social program may rest on it. The reason for this is plain. Your student leaders cannot continually work and plan social events only to have a few faithful souls always at them. So support Sadie Hawkins Day and help build a social and recreational plan deserving of an institution our size.

Read And Tell

By PATREVA CORNELL

Just how safe is the modern ocean liner?

In spite of all the modern mechanics and engineers, the Andrea Doria sank in the cool waters of the Atlantic Ocean. Even the miracle of radar did not keep the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm from crashing together and causing a great sea disaster of modern times.

But of course you will find that there are other circumstances involved when you read Collision Course by Alvin Moscow. Moscow gives an interesting analysis of the great disaster. The reader learns a great deal about the activities that went on before the crash on both the ships.

The reader will be introduced to many of the people who were on those ships. This book is filled with many exciting incidents which happened during the accident. For instance, how a little girl starts out on the Andrea Doria and ends up on the Stockholm is a miracle as well as a mystery. Then there was the lady who switched her cabin lights on at the exact moment of the collision and thought she must have been the ship's emergency brake.

Also, the author brings out some interesting reasons why the ships collided and why other ships were reluctant to come to the aid of the sinking ship.

Ready for spring and all its activities are Miss Becky McCarty and Eugene Shumate.

Becky is a freshman from Clarksville. She has blond hair, blue eyes, and is 5'7" tall. The freshman class chose Becky as its attendant to the Homecoming Queen this year. She is a member of the Governesses. Becky is majoring in business administration.

The sports outfit Becky is wearing can be found at Lee's Ladies Shop. Shown here is a pair of deep lavender bermuda shorts with a matching multicolor blouse.

Eugene, a junior from Elkton, Ky., is 21, has brown hair, green eyes and is 6' tall. His major is accounting and his minor is economics. He played freshman basketball at Austin Peay and is a member of the Business Club and the Economics Club. Among his hobbies are basketball and tennis.

Rankin's Men's Store on Franklin is the place to find this outfit. The shorts are a deep brown with a yellow shirt trimmed in brown to match the shorts.

Roy Rogers Price - - 'Man of Month'

By SUE BAGGETT

Roy Rogers Price is this month's "Man of the Month." Roy is a second quarter junior with an English major and a minor in business. As a member of the All State staff, Roy served as assistant editor last year and is this year's editor.

Roy is the vice-president of the English Club. He is one of three recipients of the club's Tower Scholarship now at the college. Last year he was the assistant editor in charge of short stories for the publication. During his freshman year, Roy was a member of the Business Club.

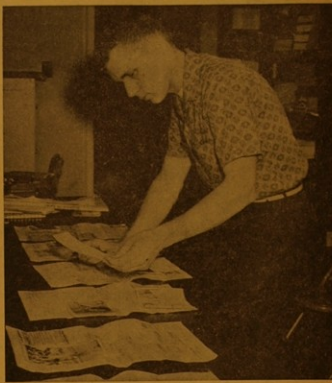

Roy is a member of the Circle "K" Club, in which he helped publicize the Christmas Tournament.

He is also active in the Methodist Student Movement. Last year he worked in the publicity office. This year he is the co-chairman of the Student Council Publicity Committee. He was also co-chairman for the Homecoming publicity committee.

For three years Roy has worked at the Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle. In those three years he has worked on just about every job that came up at the paper. He qualifies as reporter, building and farm page editor, photographer, and campus news reporter.

After graduation he plans to enter the journalism field on a full-time basis.

Upon graduation he received postgraduate clinical and research training at Washington University, Northwestern University and Johns Hopkins University. In 1942 he was assigned by the Office of Scientific Research and Development to work on bio-medical research on shock at Johns Hopkins and 1943 was transferred to Columbia University. During World War II he worked on the physiology and treatment of traumatic shock and later on the drug treatment of certain parasitic diseases.

After release from government research in 1946, Dr. Gellhorn taught physiology, then pharmacology at the College of Physicians and Surgeons before joining the Department of Medicine. Dr. Gellhorn's experience in war research with various chemical agents took him into the treatment of cancer with drugs and during the past 12 years he has devoted his research to various phases of cancer in man. He is the author of more than 120 scientific and medical articles on placental physiology, wound shock, chemotherapy of infectious diseases and cancer, and medical aspects of cancer.

In addition to his teaching and research responsibilities at Columbia University, Dr. Gellhorn is a consultant to the United States Public Health Service, a member of the Scientific Advisory Council of the American Cancer Society, and a director of the American

PARTING SHOTS

Even though the spring sports schedule is well under way at this time, we feel it appropriate to mention a group of lads who carried the Austin Peay colors farther into tourney play than has any other basketball team in the history of the school. These men caused national attention to be focused on Austin Peay State College by finishing at least among the top eight college teams in the country.

This was a club that seemed to specialize in a hot and cold brand of basketball as erratic as some of this weather we've been having lately. But when they were "on," no team could endure the pressure. Even mighty Belmont Abbey could not stand the torrid pace the Governors set in the championship game of the South-Central NCAA Regional Tournament.

But in the first game of the national finals our boys hit the other end of the thermometer. A cold and misce-prone Austin Peay team took the floor again a Mt. St. Mary's outfit that was later reported to have played one of their finest games all season in downing the Gons 96-73. The boys from AP never quit, though, and battled right down to the wire displaying a tenacity and fortitude that had carried them through many a tight spot all season long.

A large part of the acclaim for the basketball team's success must rest on the shoulders of seven seniors who have impressed upon the memories of Governor followers some spirited performances that won't be equalled for a long time.

Seven valuable men, seven very valuable men who gave Austin Peay State College basketball its best. Graduation will take its toll and a heavy toll it is. Look at 'em: Captain Jim Stewart, who laid his heart on the line every time the Gons did battle and was an All-American in anyone's book . . . Alternate Captain John Camp, with his ability to break any game wide open with those long-range jump shots he put to such effective use when the chips were down . . . Jim Henderson, the most underrated basketball player in the conference, with his clutch performances that pulled so many games out of the fire . . . Roger Davis, who possessed one of the delectable touches which basketball fans have seen or will ever see . . . Tom Phillips, whose uncanny accuracy with his fall-away jump shot that will be talked about for years . . . Fred Overton, with his dribbling and slight-of-hand that could put a game on ice indefinitely . . . and big Bob Bradley, who led a rebounding attack that was the scourge of every team in the conference.

Seven valuable men, seven very valuable men who gave Austin Peay State College basketball its best.

FOR THE FIRST TIME

Austin Peay sports history was made April 4 when all four spring athletic teams were in action. The baseball and tennis contingents traveled to Florence State where the Lions trimmed the tennis team 6-1 and edged the Gov hardballers 5-2 in a hard-fought 11 inning tussle.

Meanwhile, the track team played host to victorious Tennessee Tech, while the linksmen smashed David Lipscomb College 13-5 for the only AP win of the day. Tech won on the long end of a 7-40 count as the Gov cinder-powers led their second straight OVC foe.

This is the first time in the 34-year history of this institution that such a situation has occurred.

Govs Drop Baseball Opener

The Austin Peay Governor dropped their opening baseball game to Central Michigan by the score of 13-2.

Both teams received good pitching early in the game and for four innings the game was scoreless. But in the fifth inning a Governor error let in a run breaking the deadlock. Then good pitching by Ken Connelly pulled Austin Peay without further damage.

Central Michigan scored again in the sixth with three more tallies.

Austin Peay came back with two runs in the seventh on a home run by Pat Webb, with a man on base.

But Central pulled away the last

Govs Lose First Track Meet To EK

Scoring slams in three events and capturing the single relay race, Eastern Kentucky scored an 89-42 victory over Austin Peay here April 1 in the Governor's first track meet of the 1961 season.

The Maroons scored shutouts in the shot put, discus throw and the 100-yard dash and had the meet's individual high scorer in David White, who chalked up 11 1/2 points. Dennis Sprouss of EK was a 10-point man as was Austin Peay's Charles "Red" Reinhart. Reinhart garnered his points by running away with both hurdle events.

Ken Newman set a new Austin Peay school record with a javelin throw of 174 feet, 4 inches.

The results:

Shot Put - Maddox (EK), Davis (EK), Sampson (EK), 42 feet, 2 1/2 in.

High Jump - Bradley (AP), Phillips (AP), and Platt (AP), tie for second, 5 feet, 11 1/2 inches.

Leaping 'Red' Reinhart

(Staff Photo by Robert Evetta)

By HOWARD SUTER

This year's alternate captain for the Governor thincalads is Charles "Red" Reinhart.

"Red" graduated from Woodlawn High School in Birmingham, Ala. He came to Austin Peay State via Vanderbilt on a football scholarship and played end until a back injury caused him to discontinue football.

Since then Reinhart has devoted full time to track. "Red" runs both the high and low hurdles. In APSC's first track meet this season "Red" won first place in both his events.

Our hurdle-hopping speedster is a senior and a business major. This will be his last spring at APSC; he is expected to be the leading scorer on the track team this year.

look for this team to win its share of ball games.

Governor Golfers Capture Opener

Austin Peay's veteran golf team clobbered arch-rival David Lipscomb 13-5 in the season's opener at the Fort Campbell Golf Club.

Junior Phil Cleveland and Don Sargent won their matches, as did sophomore Fred Alexander. Freshman Griffin Pickard suffered the only defeat as he bowed to the Bisons' Lynn Wilson.

Sargent was low medalist for the day with a blazing 76 on the tough Fort Campbell links.

Phil Cleveland (AP) 81 beat Ron Ferguson 85, 30; Don Sargent (AP) 76 beat Jim Perry 85, 30; Austin Peay won the foursome, 3-0.

Lynn Wilson (DL) 88 beat Fred

Degree Fight Great Problem

Gainesville, Fla. (L.P.) — The fight for degrees rather than education is the greatest problem confronting the Honor System on the University of Florida campus, according to student leaders.

Former student body president Joe Ripley states that dishonesty is a problem which confronts most campuses due to increased enrollments, resulting from importance attached to attaining a degree. Many students, he feels, will go after a degree, with little regard as to how they get it. As standards for entrance are raised, only students who are capable of college work will be admitted and much of the problem will disappear, he believes.

"Moral integrity rather than whether a school is under a proctor or honor system is the essence of the problem," according to Bill Hollingsworth of Florida Blue Key. There is no system which would give the complete type of protection we desire, he stated. "If we are under an honor system, students must believe in it. If it is a proctor system and there is no honor, the system only is left. When there is an honor system and there is no honor, there is nothing left."

Bowman To Attend Meet

Medford P. Bowman, Registrar and Dean of Admissions at Austin Peay State, will attend the Forty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers at Miami Beach, April 17-21.

President of the Tennessee Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers, Dean Bowman will represent the Tennessee Association in the regional meeting.

Also a member of the National Committee on High School-College Relations with the purpose being to promote better understanding between these two levels of education, Bowman has been connected with APSC 15 years.

He has taken an active part in the Tennessee Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers and has served on programs and various committees from time to time.

The Methodist Student Movement spaghetti supper, held recently at the Madison Street Methodist Church, was a great success. Approximately 30 persons attended.

After the supper, a brief talk was given by Carol Brinkerhoff on the needs for Austin Peay to adopt a Wesleyan Foundation.

There was also a discussion of further plans for the annual M. S. M. retreat to Kentucky Lake. The retreat will be held on the weekend of April 28 and 29. All who are interested in going on the retreat are urged to attend the next meeting of the M.S.M. Announcements will be made and bulletins will be posted, giving the time and place of the next meeting. Later that evening, the group went to Skyline Lanes and finished an evening of fellowship in a few games of bowling.

Librarians Attend Meet

Mrs. Rachel Chambers and Mrs. Marnie Jean Harper from the cataloging department and Mrs. Sara Morrow of the circulation department attended the Biennial Convention of the Tennessee Library Association in Memphis on April 7 and 8.

Mrs. Chambers is a member of the legislative committee and Miss Givens served as chairman of the nominating committee during the 1960-61 year.

In addition to attending the college section meeting, they attended a discussion on "Catalog Code Division and its changes as they may affect the reference librarian." Another highlight of the convention will be "The Personality of the Civil War" by Dr. Robert Womack, assistant professor at Middle Tennessee State College.

The librarians at Austin Peay State were accompanied by Mrs. Lou Callett, librarian at Byrnes Darden Demonstration School.

Ag Boys Capture First In National NACTA Judging

First place in national swine judging was secured by the livestock judging team from Austin Peay State which attended the 1961 National Intercollegiate Judging Contest at Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas March 22-25.

The college's dairy team ranked fifth as a group in the judging. The livestock team competed in judging of sheep, hogs, and beef cattle, in connection with the seventh Annual Conference of the National Association of College Teachers of Agriculture.

Austin Peay State was one of two Tennessee colleges to send contestants to the judging and representatives to the teachers conference.

Non-land grant supported colleges and universities only are eligible for membership in NACTA. About 40 colleges from 15 states participated in the conference. Fifteen schools competed in the swine judging; 12 competed in dairy judging.

Austin Peay entered two of the three categories. The other category was land judging.

On the livestock judging team were Tom Cain, Lucian Wyatt, Paul Batson, and Paul Dickens. On the dairy judging team were Wayne Strohm, Robin Bowie, Howell Shaw, and Phillip McGhee. Carter (Buddy) Russell attended as a delegate to the recently created national honor fraternity in agriculture, Delta Tau Alpha.

James D. Hamilton and Frank D. Hinton of the Austin Peay State agriculture faculty accompanied the teams and the delegate. The trip was partly sponsored by three local firms — the First National Bank, First Trust and Savings Bank, and Hadley Brothers Implement Company. The APSC live stock judging team was overall first in the nation in last year's NACTA contests.

Hamilton participated on a panel for "Agriculture Curriculum."

Warrick Talks To Laurel Wreath

The Laurel Wreath Society's recent meeting featured a presentation by Melvina Warrick about "Negroes' Contribution to Our Culture."

The society is composed of students who continually make outstanding grades at Austin Peay State. They meet for discussion of various topics needing thought.

The group joined the Optimist Club of Clarksville following its own meeting. The two groups viewed a film on "Operation Abolition."

English Club Hears Jolly

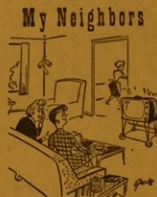

"Travel At Your Own Risk" was the subject chosen by Hayden B. Jolly when he spoke at a recent English Club meeting.

Mr. Jolly, instructor in language and literature at Austin Peay State, likened life to a road under construction. He said that human beings are travellers on this road. They can make it a smoother, better road or they can make it rough and rutty.

The most important elements for a smooth road of life are truth and effective methods of communication, he said.

The informal talk was amusing and filled with humorous anecdotes.

The English Club will again sponsor the yearly sale of paperback books.

Young Joins Library Staff

Mrs. James Young has joined the library staff as the assistant acquisition librarian.

Her responsibilities are to administer and supervise the acquisition of library materials. Up until the first of March, Miss Johnnie Givens was responsible for these services.

Mrs. Young graduated from Austin Peay in 1944 with a B. S. degree. While attending Austin Peay she served as a fulltime library assistant. She has worked in various phases of accounting for the civil service during the past 13 years. Prior to her position at Austin Peay, Mrs. Young worked at the Post Library as a library assistant in the circulation department.

Mrs. Young's appointment will enable Miss Givens to work more directly with the faculty and with problems concerning selection of materials and building of depth into the collection of those areas that need it the most.

University of Iowa Initiates Special Degree

Iowa City, Ia. (I.P.)—Twenty-two superior students who are in their junior year at The State University of Iowa have been named candidates in a special master's degree program being initiated at the University this semester.

Professor Richard Wilmet, director of the program, explained that the new program is designed to strengthen the preparation of students for college teaching careers in the face of a great increase in college enrollments anticipated during the next decade. Under the three-year master's plan, students are expected to complete work for the usual undergraduate major, two minors of approximately eighteen semester-hours each, and the equivalent of two college years in each of two foreign languages. Students are admitted to the program at the beginning of their junior year and continue in the special three-year program through their junior and senior years of college and the first year of graduate college, leading to a master's degree.

Superior students, with special consideration given to those in the Honors Program, are admitted on the basis of their performance during the first two years of college. An important part of work in the major field is the preparation of essays, papers, and a senior thesis resulting from independent investigation under the direction of an adviser.

The program embodies three basic ideas: First, early identification and the recruitment of outstanding students are made through the Liberal Arts Advisory Office and the SUI Honors Program. Second, the junior and senior years of pregraduate studies are equivalent to an honors program. Third, heavy emphasis is placed on independent study and research.

Professor Wilmet added that those who complete the program will find a strong demand for their services, but the program is not a terminal one. Students who wish to do so will be vigorously encouraged to continue immediately to the Ph.D.

Guys and Dolls Presented

On April 6 and 7, the Austin Peay Playhouse and the Austin Peay Music Department presented the musical comedy, Guys and Dolls.

A special matinee for students of surrounding high schools was shown on the afternoon of April 5.

Walter Gray played Nathan Detroit, arranger of a floating crap game, who needed $1,000 for a place to hold his game. In order to get the money, he bet Sky Masterson (Moe Burlington) $1,000 he could name a girl that Sky couldn't get a date with. He named Sarah Brown, sergeant of the Save-A-Soul Mission, who was enacted by Laura Swift. Sarah accepted the date in return for Sky's promise to fill the mission with one dozen genuine sinners on the night that General Matilda B. Cartwright (Linda Wuerch) was to preside for, unless the mission showed promise, it would be closed.

Nathan then was able to hold his crap game and drew such notorious figures as Big Eye (Don Pupo) and Harry the Horse played by Lee Roy Overstreet. In doing so, Nathan almost lost his finances of 14 years, Miss Adelaide (Marty Brown), who was the featured singer at the Hot Box night club. Unfortunately, Nathan had decided to hold the game in the empty Save-A-Soul Mission the night of Sarah's date with Sky. Upon their return from Havana, Cuba, the mission was raided by Lt. Brannigan (Jack Bushofsky) of the police force. Nathan and his boys Nicely-Nicely Johnson (Jack Green) and Benny Southstreet (Murray Hawkins) and the other gamblers managed to escape and resume their game in the sewer. Sarah, who had fallen in love with Sky, believed that he had lured her away so that the game could be held in the mission. She then broke off their relationship.

However, Sky joined the crap game and rolled the hoods for their souls. Lady Luck was with him and the losers attended the meeting at the mission on the night of General Cartwright's visit, thus saving the mission and convincing Sarah that Sky was really truthful. Miss Adelaide forgave Nathan and both couples got married.

Guys and Dolls boasted 18 songs including the crapsbookers' "Luck be a Lady" and "Sit Down You're Rocking the Boat," "Bushel and a Peck" and, of course, "Guys and Dolls."
