Pat Weakley and Jesse Lamberth have been elected First Lady and Governor respectively in the recent election by the student body. On the same ballot Vicki Thompson was elected Miss APCS, Doug Stamper was elected Bachelor of Ugliness and Margaret Maddox was chosen Iris Queen.

Miss Weakley, who will reign as First Lady, was recognized as the outstanding senior woman at the college. She is a biology major and chemistry minor. Miss Weakley, a cheerleader from Gallatin, Tenn., is also an active member of the Tribeta, Kappa Delta Pi and Newman Club.

Jesse Lamberth, economics major from Clarksville who is the vice-president of the APCS student body, was recognized as the outstanding senior man on campus. He was elected in the election sponsored by the "Fairwell and Hall" on the basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the college.

Vicki Thompson, an elementary education major from Clarksville, is a member of the junior class. In addition to being President of the Governesses, Miss Thompson is an active member of the Kappa Delta Pi.

Douglas Stamper, a health and physical education major from Hamilton, Ohio, is a member of the junior class. He is best known by the majority of the students as being an outstanding athlete. He is Co-Captain of the basketball team and a regular on the baseball team.

Mademoiselle Chooses Two For Their College Board

Miss Frances Ann Butler and Miss Betty Lu Strassheim, both sophomores, will represent Austin Peay State College on MADEMOISELLE's national College Board for 1963.

The annual College Board Competition is designed for women students with talent in art, writing, fashion, merchandising, promotion, or advertising. Board members were selected on the basis of entries that showed their interest and ability in one of these fields.

Frances Ann's entry in the competition was a five day travel feature on New Orleans which included sketches of the clothing to be taken and pictures of the places of interest in the Crescent City.

The editors of The All State would like to take this opportunity to express a formal apology to Mr. Shervin Clift for the incorrect spelling of his name in the last issue.

The article itself was written in the form of a letter to home by a college girl visiting the city.

Betty Lu planned a store promotion to sell a forty-pound wardrobe to college students for her entry in the College Board Competition. She included window displays, newspaper advertisements, and samples of other methods of promotion. Also she used color photographs of herself to help illustrate portions of the wardrobe.

Morgan Addresses Student Body

In the speech entitled "The Increasing Importance of Education," President Joe Morgan of Austin Peay State explained the speed-up in interest and concern about public education.

He said in an address to the student body on Wednesday that the explanation is threefold.

Bill Dupes Signed As Head Football Coach

Bill Dupes, head football coach at Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., has been named head football coach at Austin Peay State College replacing Art Van Tine, who resigned in mid-December. Dupes, former assistant at Tennessee Tech, will assume his duties Feb. 1 and will start spring practice the second or third week in February, weather permitting.

A native of Sweetwater, Tenn., Dupes announced that he will bring Jerry Flatt, his Millsaps' assistant, as an assistant to him on the APCS coaching staff.

In regard to Dupes' selection, David B. Axton, APCS director of athletics, said, "I feel that the athletic department and Austin Peay State College are most fortunate in securing a man like Bill Dupes, who had demonstrated in his past records an ability to produce."

Dupes, who guided Millsaps to their best record since 1957 and their second best since 1954, stated, "I feel that it is a real opportunity and certainly a challenge as Austin Peay State is getting ready to compete in the Ohio Valley Conference. I think they are getting into the OVC at the toughest time. For the first time last year an Eastern Tennessee and an East Tennessee team were capable of winning a share of the championship. However, Austin Peay State can take its place in the league like the others in four or five years. We cannot expect anything outstanding much earlier. It will take hard work on the part of the school administration, alumni, coaching staff and football players. I am looking forward to my association with the athletes, faculty and patrons of Clarksville."

The likeable Dupes went on to say, "With only seven seniors graduating from the 1962 squad, we have but 12 scholarships to fill. I am hoping that we can find 12 boys who want to play football. It is going to take a lot of hard work, sweat and desire, but I am sure the athletes at Austin Peay State will want to give that in order to have a football team of which the College and city of Clarksville will be proud."

A former grid performer for Tennessee Tech, Dupes will utilize the T-formation and has already made contacts with prospective football players in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

Dupes guided the Millsaps Majors to a 5-4-1 record on a non-subsidized program, bettering the 1961 mark of 1-5-2 in his very first season. The opposition afforded Dupes was that of schools which offered athletic scholarships.

His coaching experience includes one year as head coach at Fort Richardson, Alaska, where his service club rolled up

Get Behind And Push

You can start bringing out the blankets and the thermos bottles for the football games next fall because the AFSC eleven are going to hit the field with a new coach on the bench. This isn't the complete answer to the miracle that we have been praying for, but it is definitely a start in the right direction. The choice of Bill Dupes as head football coach has already begun to re-ignite the sparks of the almost dead enthusiasm of the students here. Some are even beginning to dare to hope that we might win a game next year.

Win or lose, one thing is certain, it is going to take time to build our team up to equal those in the OVC, and in the meantime, we must make an effort to re-vitalize that old school spirit that has become practically non-existent on campus. Without the support of the student body, we could have a talented coach and good players, but still have a losing team. Not even a new coach can inspire in our team the will to win when the boys have to play in front of stands that are crowded with empty seats and loud with silent voices.

Although sports play a secondary role to the academic standings of the college, they are still that vital element that unifies the students into a whole. They give the students a common cause that evokes a feeling of loyalty to AFSC. When we talk to students from other colleges, we want to be able to boast with confidence that we are superior to them both in the classroom and on the field.

Next month Coach Dupes will have the team out on the practice field getting ready for the coming season. Stop by and watch them. Next fall go to the games. Show our coach and our team that we are behind them.

Underwhelming Utterances

Attention all new students. Have you become familiar with the AFSC campus yet? Do you still find yourself in the middle of a class on drop-the-hankie in the gym, when you are supposed to be in the Fine Arts Building for a course in under-water basket weaving? If this happens to you, follow these simple rules. Stop where you are. Take out the red flare marked with the white stripes in your emergency kit. Fire it into the air. Keep calm and put your head between your knees until help comes. After a short time the paddy wagon with the yellow stripe, and named by the Kampus Kutties, will arrive. If you are able to produce the necessary green card with the purple stripe for identification, they will carry you to your correct location. That is all.

Candid comments—Ed Froedter recently gave "Bitty" Albright an engagement ring. She took one look at it and exclaimed "Is that thing real?"

The editors of "The All State" have just been cut down from the wall, where they were tied and given 40 lashes with a wet noodle for an outrageous crime. They misapprehended their adviser's name in last week's paper. That's Sherwin Cline. It was unforgivable.

Barbara Nelms, Janet Seay, Jerrie Hargis and Shirley Apple were also competing for Iris Queen. These girls will be the Queen's attendants at the Iris Ball.

Ann Camperry, Virginia Dunn, Marcia Albright, and Joyce Keats Picking were also competing for the title of First Lady.

Rodger Bowman, David Mason, Bobby Johnson and Lawrence Baggett were the other candidates for Governor.

Betty McCormick, Judy Dias, Judy Griffin and Becky McCarty were the other contestants seeking the title of Miss AFSC. Those nominated for Bachelor of Ugliness were Tommy Donnelly, Claude Clements, Fred Alsup and Jesse Lamberth.

Church of Christ Organizes Club

By FRANCES BUTLER

Twenty-four Austin Peay State College students, seven AFSC professors and three representatives from the Madison Street Church of Christ met recently at the College for the purpose of organizing a club for Church of Christ students at AFSC.

Developments taking place included the naming of the organization, election of officers and plans for further organization. The club was named Koionis, a Greek word meaning fellowship. Blakely Bradley was elected president; Kenneth Bryant, vice-president; Neesha Fulbright, secretary; and Penny Crockrell, treasurer.

Rev. Bob Brower, minister at the Madison Street Church of Christ, welcomed the group and told of the two-fold purpose of the group. He stated that the purpose of the group is to promote fellowship and good-will and to help build students spiritually while they are away from their homes. Brother Moody Barretts, an elder at the Madison Street Church, told the assembled students, "It is your club and not our club, but we will support you 100 per cent." He went on to say that the Koionis has been endorsed by the elders of the Madison Street Church of Christ.

Also appearing on the program was Ronnie Oliphant, associate minister at the Madison Street Church, who will work closely with the newly organized club. Koionis will meet each Monday at 12:30 p.m. in the audiovisual room in the McCord Building at AFSC.

Contest For Best Dressed Underway

The 1963 Best Dressed College Girl from Austin Peay State College will be selected this year by a representative committee rather than by student body vote. Ten finalists will be selected and the judges will see them in a campus outfit, a daytime off-campus outfit and a party dress, the outfits in which the winner will be photographed for the national competition. The final judging will take place in the Fine Arts Auditorium in the Clements Building at a date set by the committee. It will be open to the public.

Photographs of our winners in the three outfits and the official entry form will be sent to GLAMOUR by March 4, 1963 for the national judging. The magazine will select a group of semi-finalists and from these the "Top Ten" will be chosen. The rest of the semi-finalists will be named honorable mention winners.

The young women who are named GLAMOUR's 1963 "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America" will be photographed in the spring for the annual August College Issue and will be flown to New York in June via American Airlines for a visit as the guests of the magazine. The honorable mention winners will be featured in a fall issue of GLAMOUR.

In a statement about the contest, Kathleen Aston Casey, Editor-in-Chief of GLAMOUR, said, "It is our hope to show that being well-dressed and well-groomed is one part of a young woman's education and one that she should learn early in life. These attributes are not a question of money or an extensive wardrobe but rather the development of good taste and an intelligent interest in one's appearance. Good looks, good grooming and a good mind are all goals for which any young woman can reach."

As College Board members, they will report news from APSC to MADemoiselle. They are eligible to compete for the twenty Guest Editorships that will be awarded by the magazine in May. To win one of the twenty prizes, they must submit a series of articles to show their specific aptitudes for magazine work.

The twenty College Board members who win Guest Editorships will be brought to New York City for the month of June to help edit, write, and illustrate MADemoiselle's 1963 August college issue. They will share offices with the magazine's editors, advise the staff on campus trends, interview well-known artists and writers, and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores, and advertising agencies.

"In the first place," Morgan stated, "the social and political concepts upon which our way of life is based mandate a literate and an educated citizenry. In this connection, we often recall the words of Jefferson: 'If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be.'"

"We cannot," he continued, "overlook the influence of our early Colonial leaders, and the emphasis which they placed upon the ability to read. Nor should we overlook the Humanist to whom the ability to read and write the languages of classical antiquity was the foundation of individual excellence and achievement. As our social and political concepts have continued to evolve with a maturing society, the place and function of education has been increasingly magnified."

According to Morgan, the second reason for the vital concern about education relates to the kind of world which we live; specifically, the kind of world which exists outside our native country and especially the kind of world which occupies that portion of it which is enveloped by the various types of curbs. "We are now in the second decade of a 'cold war' in which the primary weapon is our minds," he said.

"The third reason and perhaps the most telling reason for this Nation's increased concern and interest in education," he said, "has its roots in the economic and technological progress of this century and in the fact that education has come to be a capital investment. MARKS OF TOMORROW, put it this way: "In the educated society, education is capital investment, on it rest the effectiveness and productivity of most other capital investments."

President Morgan said in closing, "It shall always be my purpose and I hope it shall also be yours to strive to the end that these objectives may be achieved by every student of this institution."

(Author of "I Was a Teenage Doctor," "The Many Lives of Doc Gilla," etc.)

CALPURNIA, HERE I COME

Now, as the college year approaches its mid-point, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to take lecture notes.

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself. I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between poverty and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, smoked with great pleasure and enthusiasm in all fifty states of the Union. I bring up Marlboro Cigarettes because this column is sponsored by the makers of Marlboro, and they are inclined to brood if I omit to mention their product.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, 123.6% of American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this shocking statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

I. House of Plantagenet.
II. House of Lancaster.

III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

(It may, incidentally, be of some historical interest to point out that Americans are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The Romans didn't know them themselves. I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real cuties like LXI or MMC, they just flung away their styluses and went down-town to have a bath and take in a circus and maybe stab Caesar a few times.)

(You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well sir, the fact is that the Emperor Vespasian took like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman the Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold pieces, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Charlton Heston.)

(So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CDL times MVX. Well sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and thum!—before you could say "Cicero," they had rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!)

Well sir, that's the way the empire crumbled, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Marlboro Cigarettes. The makers would be so pleased! And is it not fitting that we should please these honest tobaccoists—these fine men, fond of square dancing, water sports, protein, and these tireless perfectionists who spend all of their days trying to please us—searching everywhere for the best of all possible tobaccos, acting them with patience, blending them with tender, loving care? Marlboro are available in soft packs and flip top box. You will find XX cigarettes in each package.

Marlboro amos, Tom Marlboro amat, Dick Marlboro amat, Harry Marlboro amat, June Marlboro amat, Joan Marlboro amat, Jean Marlboro amat, Jane Marlboro amat, quique Marlboro amat—et Marlboro quoque amabit.

Bill Dupes has been named the new head football coach for Austin Peay State College. He will bring Jerry Platt as his assistant to him on the APSC coaching staff. I want to wish him all the success in the world, and as far as making any outlandish statements or quotes of any nature, I'll just want to see him in action then I'll remark. Coach Bill Dupes will definitely pick the team up in its lowest form. I can't myself go and say this much, I'll wager that being a young coach with a lot of foresight and determination, he will have a lot of sweat shedding during spring practice, even though it's held in Feb.

Austin Peay State College is really getting the new additions. Head basketball coach George Fisher has added L. M. Ellis to the squad. Ellis is a transfer from Drake University located at Des Moines, Iowa. He will not become eligible until Jan. 8, 1964. Ellis will be the first of his race to compete in a major varsity sport at a Tennessee state supported institution. Kenneth Hughes was the first Negro to participate in Intercollegiate Athletics at APSC, when he performed in track last spring.

I watched Ellis work out his first day and he has a very impressive jump shot. You certainly can tell he has been well coached, and has the true form of a well rounded athlete.

A most prominent figure at Coach George Fisher's practice sessions is the former APSC basketball coach Dave Aaron. It's really humorous to sit next to Mr. Aaron and listen to many of his experienced tales. I can't get over the fact that he still wears his hat at the games. If I were Coach Fisher, I wouldn't want Mr. Aaron ever to remove his hat, especially after that fine performance against Southern Illinois on January 7.

I personally think that Coach Fisher's "Splendid Splinters" were played at the top of their capability against Southern Illinois on Jan. 7. It surely was evident to the spectators that team play and that million dollar word "Dreary" was displayed. I can only feel sorry there weren't more people in the gym to witness this fine contest. The people who saw it were fortunate. The ones who preferred to see Andy and Kennedy on TV were less fortunate all the way around, weren't you?

Kenny Gerald, who everyone remembers for his line coaching job with the freshman team last year, underwent surgery at Henderson, Ky., a week ago. He had been named head basketball coach of the Henderson High School and had coached one game before this unexpected operation developed. We all hope Kenny is getting along fine, and we will be expecting to read big things about him and his teams in the future.

Wayne Brown, the Mr. "Guts" man on APSC football team, has just returned from the Baptist Hospital in Nashville. "Brownie" had his right shoulder operated on because it continuously jumped out of place while playing in a game. He will re-enter the hospital sometime in March to have the same operation performed on his left shoulder.

Bobby Gee, if you have noticed, in carrying his arm in a sling, Bobby can pass one word of advice on to future managers of football. It's not as easy as one would think. You see, he, too, had the same operation as Wayne Brown.

I have noticed Ken Connolly and Pete Schmittow aren't wasting any time getting ready for their well earned trip with the baseball team to Winter Haven, Fla., in March. Both boys are earnestly working out the stiffness in their arms from their long lay-off. You can bet your money, they will be prepared to enter the Kick-Off Tournament in top form.

Jim Stewart, all and everything as an athlete here at APSC, is really making a fine impression in his debut to make the big time in professional baseball. Last season Jim played in class "C" ball in the Northern League on the St. Cloud team in Minnesota. He batted over .300 and was chosen the most valuable player on his team. They have moved Jim to shortstop. As you probably remember, he was a third baseman for Coach Sandifer's team. Jim will travel to Arizona for winter ball. Here it will be determined if he has the potentiality for the big time. We can all be proud of Jim as he is representing not only himself, but Austin Peay State College as well.

Ex-Burt Cager To Be 'First'

L. M. Ellis, 6-5, 210 pound Negro cage star from Drake University transferred to Austin Peay State College yesterday in a "first" among Tennessee state-supported colleges.

Ellis, a graduate of Clarksville Burt, will become eligible Jan. 8, 1964, for varsity basketball competition and will become the first of his race to participate in a major varsity sport at a Tennessee state-supported institution. Kenneth Hughes, a sophomore at APSC and also a graduate of Burt, became the first Negro to participate in intercollegiate athletics at APSC when he performed in track last spring.

Since the Governors will begin official basketball competition in the Ohio Valley Conference next fall, Ellis could become either the first or second Negro to play in the OVC. To date, none have played in the OVC although Murray State has 6-8 Stewart Johnson on its freshman roster.

Ellis averaged 14 points per contest for Drake's frosh last year and played in four varsity games this season. He gave as his reason for leaving the Des Moines, Iowa, university that he wanted to be closer to home. He was graduated from Burt in 1961 ranking 13th scholastically.

out of a class of 101. He transferred to APSC with a C plus average.

Ellis played for the 1960-61 Burt team that posted a 32-4 record and captured the national championship. He averaged 18.0 per game, grabbed rebounds at a 14.0 pace and shot 48 per cent from the field. He won all-regional, all-state and all-national honors under Whitney, a veteran of eight seasons at Burt.

Austin Peay State head mentor George Fisher said that Ellis will start working out with the team immediately, although he will not be eligible for one calendar year.

Govs Defend VSAC Crown

By TONY BOEHMS

The VSAC Western Division champion Governors begin their defense of the conference championship when they host the David Lipscomb bison Thursday night in Memorial Gymnasium and in Jackson, Tenn., against Union University on Saturday night.

The Bisons, who shocked Western Ky. in an early season encounter, bring eight returning lettermen from last year's team which scored a 8-13 record in a rebuilding year. The Governors hope to maintain a convincing seasonal record over the Bisons who haven't been able to beat the Govs in regular season but once since 1955.

The Union Bulldogs were hurt by graduation but should show the Govs a good contest with nine returnees which include the senior guard Bob Pavelonis — the fine Bulldog floor general.

Following the conference encounters, the team will travel to Owensboro, Ky. to meet the perennial strongmen of Kentucky Wesleyan College who are in the midst of a rebuilding year. The Panthers lost their string trio of Benson, Carlyle, and Auten who together averaged almost 54 points per game.

Govs Win Three Straight

By JOHN MARTIN

The Governor's basketball team completed their most successful week of competition this season by winning three games last week.

Monday, Jan. 7, APSC played host to Southern Illinois University. When the final horn sounded the Govs were in front 85-71. Doug Stamps (21), Steve Miller (18) and Jackie Winders (15) were the leaders in the victory over Southern Illinois.

Thursday, Jan. 10, the Govs were again at home, this time against National Tennessee State. APSC defeated MTSC for the second time this year. The final score was 83-60. Stamps again led the Govs, this time with 17.

Saturday, Jan. 12, APSC traveled to Jonesboro, Ark., to play the Arkansas State Indians. The Govs won their third straight game, this one by the score of 85-71 in an overtime. Stamps again led APSC with 19. DeForest (15), Miller (12), Winders (12), and Henry Murray (10) also hit double figures for the Governors.

an 8-1 record. He served seven years as line coach at Tennessee Tech before moving to Millsaps last year. He holds the Master of Arts degree from George Peabody College.

Flatt served as frosh football coach at Tennessee Tech and as head football coach at Hillwood High (Nashville) before going to Millsaps in an assistant's capacity. In addition to his football duties, Flatt will be an assistant in some spring sport which will be determined upon his arrival.

Sportlight

Jim DeForest, sophomore transfer, has been selected as the outstanding player for this issue of "The All State." Big Jim became eligible at the start of the Winter Quarter and wasted no time in breaking into the starting lineup.
