'The Philadelphia Story'

Playhouse play opens tonight

by JOHN JIRAN

Even in the raw, skeleton form of rehearsal, "The Philadelphia Story" by Philip Barry, has grown into a production incomparable to anything the AP Playhouse has done to date.

Tonight the opening performance begins at 8 p.m., and the playhouse fans will be treated with a dose of humor, so different from the solemnity of "Death of a Salesman."

A script written so that the humor is to be brought out by careful interpretation of the characters, a cast of amateurs who perform like professionals, and patient directing makes this play a fitting crown to the playhouse season.

An audience can't help being drawn into the family problems of the Lord's of Philadelphia, particularly of Tracy, who is involved in many marital woes. Dinah, Tracy's sparkling little sister who just happens to know everything, draws everyone into the misgivings of the mismatches.

One of the innocents caught in the web of family entanglements is the reporter Mike Connor, who starts out just trying to cover a story. In the end he further complicates matters by professing his love for Tracy by taking her for an early morning swim in the lake.

The espoused and the former spouse confront each other under the roof of the Lord house where the wedding is to take place, Seth and Margaret Lord, parents of the bride, are united again after being separated and they help each other understand what is happening.

Dr. David Mayes, who doubled as the director and the knowledgeable Uncle Willie Tracy, has picked a cast of experts in characterizations for this play. Barbara Doogan is the slightly sophisticated, mostly confused Tracy. The playful, bubbling, bright little sister Dinah will be portrayed by Barbara Mayhew.

Parents to the confusion are Margaret, played by Diana Hansler, and Seth, played by Jim Rome. The husband-to-be and the divorced husband are played by Ellery Stone and Tom Turner, respectively.

The press crew from the magazine doing the story on the wedding is composed of David Wesner as Mike Connor and Renee Daniels as Liz Imbrie.

Completing the cast list is Sam Zimmerman, who plays the brother to Tracy. The servants are Thomas the butler, played by Hank McKinney; May the maid, played by Ramona Lumpkin, and Max the night watchman played by Rick Brown.

The play will have three showings, including tonight's opening performance. There will be two more 8 p.m. shows tomorrow night and Friday night.

Run-off No. 2 by precincts tomorrow

Three Associated Student Body officers for next year were filled following Friday's run-off election, but the top prize — that of ASB president — continued to elude the hopefuls.

But ASB officials hope that one of the two candidates will be voted into that office tomorrow following another run-off.

All students who vote in tomorrow's election have been requested to bring their ID cards to the precincts.

Larry Mellon, chairman of the ASB Election Commission, made the request.

"There have been complaints that some people voted twice during last week's election, so when they vote tomorrow we will check their names off our roster and indicate on their ID cards that they voted. That way, there will be no question."

Voting to decide between Ray Radford and Don Layton begins at 8 a.m. tomorrow. Polls close at 5 p.m.

Meanwhile, already assured of offices next year are: Troy Feltnr, vice-president; Martha Penick, secretary; and Joe Wallace, treasurer.

Tomorrow's run-off will see all nine precincts in operation, according to ASB President Jake Gambill.

Original plans called for voting machines — Gambill had already secured APSC President Joe Morgan's permission to temporarily waive that part of the ASB Constitution providing for precincts — but plans could not be worked out at such short notice.

The election tomorrow may climax the most exciting and surprising election in the history of this college's student government. The contest began tame enough but soon developed into a down-to-the-wire race.

Here's what happened. In the scheduled election Wednesday only one ticket survived intact. That was Layton's United Ticket which included Barry Robbins, Susan Sleigh and Leslie Allen. From Radford's Alpha Ticket, Martha Penick and Joe Wallace survived, while

'Cooperate,' P.O. asks

All AFSC departments, administrative, offices, the library, clubs and students have been asked to cooperate with the campus Post Office in the placing of notices in Post Office boxes.

In a notice this week, Mrs. Carolyn Biggers, superintendent of the AFSC Post Office, has asked persons responsible for distributing communications to check the name and box number against the name and number which appears over the box.

"In case the names and numbers do not correspond, Post Office employees will be glad to assist," she said. "Notices are of little value if they are not placed in the proper box."

Unfair actions

Should write-in ballots be allowed in elections held on the APSG campus? Before this spring's ASB and class elections there had been little controversy about this issue. There was no written rule and it seems that no one had ever expressed any verbal opposition. Of course, no one had ever won an election on campus by virtue of being a write-in candidate.

Controversy arose concerning the legality of write-in candidates approximately two weeks ago. Several persons had expressed their concern about the "lack of outstanding candidates" for class officers. Because of this they wondered about the possibility of writing in candidates for office. No official ruling was made until the Monday preceding the elections. On that day the ASB, in special session decided that there would be no write-in ballots. Decisions were also made concerning other areas of elections.

In discussing the relative merits and demerits of write-in ballots we must concern ourselves with two primary questions. Is the write-in ballot an integral part of our system? And secondly, even if write-in ballots are unfair, did the ASB actually reach the fairest decision for this particular year's elections?

In answering our first question we may look to the United States presidential elections. In those elections write-in ballots are allowed, even though a write-in candidate has never collected enough votes to win. Some complain that all students should have to have petitions to qualify as candidates and that those who do not should not be able to run. However, we must consider that any person who wins an election will have at least 50 votes, which is the equivalent of having a petition endorsed by the same number of persons.

Moving to our second consideration we find that no rules were published prior to the election forbidding write-in ballots. Perhaps no one anticipated this problem. However, the fact remains that the ASB was tardy in determining election rules. We have to agree that the action of the student senate was legal. The constitution grants this body the right to make all rules concerning elections. Nevertheless, we must contend that the senators' actions were quite unfair, for that they waited too long to deprive the students of the right to write-in ballots.

The college scene

by LINDA PICKERING

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY. The Vanderbilt hunter, Nashville, Tenn.—"Girls should be required to take at least three years of physical education," says the head of the girls' physical education department.

"One of the main purposes of the program is to provide each girl with outlets for recreation with her future husband, family and friends. Obviously, the more staid a girl knows, the better rounded she'll be."

Seventy per cent of the Vanderbilt coeds interviewed in 1965 agreed that they profited from their physical education. Due to the added interest, special courses like advanced riding have been added to the present curriculum. Fencing may soon become part of the girls' program.

EAST TENNESSEE STATE UNIVERSITY, ETSU Collegian, Johnson City, Tenn.—To raise donations for aid to Viet Nam, Jim Severs broke the national intercollegiate record of 117 hours of radio broadcasting for college radio stations by going 120 hours without sleep while broadcasting.

Coffee and cold water poured over his head helped to keep Jim awake. When he began to get too groggy some of the radio station staff members slapped his face to keep him awake. He did not take any pills.

The only time he left the Student Center was to get to the health clinic to get a required physical examination after his first hundred hours had elapsed. At this time the doctor told him that his voice would only last another two hours, but he went on for another sixteen hours.

DAVID LIPSCOMB COLLEGE, The Babbler, Nashville, Tenn.—Birthday greetings have taken an unusual form on this college campus, as students joined on masse to wish "happy birthday," to Robert Vest.

Bill hospitalized after injury in a freak accident in gymnastics practice in the fall quarter, Vest will celebrate his 10th birthday in a hospital bed, completely immobilized from the neck down.

Students recorded personal birthday messages on tape in the Audio-Visual Center. Each student was limited to 15 seconds. Recording of the entire chapel audiences singing "Happy Birthday" were also made.

Students have raised more than $6,000 for aid to the Vest family in the heavy expense involved in his long hospitalization, surgery and frequent blood transfusions.

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY, The Torch, Valparaiso, Ind.—Valparaiso students have joined a nation-wide student discount service with discounts ranging from 10-20 per cent in the participating stores until June 6.

Discount cards are presented to the students that can be used not only in Valparaiso, but in other college towns.

The National Student Association's Discount Service has been functioning for two years. About 30 campuses offer such a discount service.

Poor attendance

Earlier this month a special meeting of the Associated Student Body was called to iron out some problems centered around ASB election procedures. It was not a regularly scheduled meeting but ASB President Jake Gamble was justified in calling it -- it was vital that the problems be solved before the elections.

Members of the ASB were notified of the special session via their post office mail boxes. But when the roll was called only 24 members answered up. That was only three members over quorum count. And before the meeting had been in session long, several more members absented themselves, dragging the number present to below quorum count.

Consequently, the meeting was adjourned and another special session was called for the following Monday. It met with only a little more success and transacted business with a bare quorum. Members were notified of the second special session, however, in a manner that can only be described as haphazard.

Two questions now arise:

(1) Why, from a student government that numbers 40 members, should only 24 show up for a meeting?

(2) And why, with by now experienced officials in control, should the ASB not have a more effective method of communicating with its members?

The second question is easier to answer. When only one roster of members exists there is bound to be difficulty in keeping members cognizant of student government developments. But that problem can be solved with better planning and a little more effort on the part of ASB officials.

The first question, however, has broader implications. It is questionable that those delinquent ASB representatives are really aware of what the word "representative" connotes. If they are unaware of the word's meaning, then the ASB should inform them.

Then, having been informed, if those members continue to miss meetings, the ASB should take steps to strike them from its roster.

If the ASB is to continue in its role as Austin Peay State's student government the students should be represented ably and consistently.

Praiseworthy efforts

ASB officials, candidates, members of the election commission and student workers tramped wearily into the student center Saturday morning for coffee and to talk over the elections.

They had spent several days conducting the elections, and they were justifiably tired.

Conducting any election is no crisp task, and this contest was even more trying than usual. It undoubtedly was the most exciting and surprising election in Austin Peay State's history.

The conduct of all workers concerned with the election earned the commendation of ASB officials.

And we would like to add our own endorsement to that recommendation.

Once more, vote!

Although tomorrow's runoff is the second in a week and the third election in eight days it is certainly no less important than the first. We urge all students, especially those who did not vote in the first two elections, to cast their ballot tomorrow.

FINALLY. A few days ago, if the lead on your pencil broke in APSC's plush new library you were out of luck—there was no sharpener. Not so now, as student library worker Jeannie Evans demonstrates.

PRESIDENT KICKS IN—Austin Peay State President Joe Morgan helps the library in its quest for more books by donating these. Accepting them is Mrs. Janie S. Gentry, librarian.

ASB wrangles over procedure

by KENT YATES

After waiting 30 minutes for a quorum to arrive, the ASB launched a called session Monday, April 17 to consider voting procedures for last week's election.

Problems facing the student legislators were write-in ballots, voting by graduate students and absentee ballots. Three issues had been brought up at the regular meeting (April 10) but due to a small attendance the quorum was challenged and the meeting adjourned.

The ASB Constitution states that in order for the ASB to vote on legislation there must be a majority of the members in attendance. However, a quorum must be present only at the beginning of the meeting. After roll call members may leave and legislation be voted on until the quorum is challenged.

This is what happened April 17. Enough members were rounded together to have a majority present at roll call. However, immediately after the quorum was reached two senators and a mock quorum voted on two controversial measures dealing with elections.

The representatives present decided against write-in ballots.

Epsilon named

Theta Phi Epsilon has been initiated as the new name for the Epsilon sorority, announced Mary Cooper, president.

The present procedure for becoming eligible as a candidate for any office at APSC is to turn in by a preset deadline a petition containing at least 50 signatures.

The ASB Constitution, however, states that in order to be placed on the ballot for office a candidate must have an over-all average of 2.0 and must be enrolled in at least 12 quarter hours during the time of office, except summer quarter.

Except for freshman candidates, a person seeking office must be classified as a sophomore or junior when elected and must be enrolled at APSC for at least three quarters prior to his election.

Thus, according to the Constitution, a petition is not necessary to qualify for office. But the ASB in its special session voted against write-in, making them illegal on the basis that petitions must be turned in by prospective candidates.

Also on the April 17 agenda was the question of whether or not to permit graduate students a voice in student government. The called meeting voted in favor of allowing graduate students a vote in the up-coming election.

The question of absentee ballots was handled by postponing it until next year. Thus, it became a problem of the newly elected ASB officers and will probably not bother anyone again until next year's election.

THE FIRST VOTE LED TO RUN-OFF ASB candidates take

Wednesday's election set the stage for a run-off Friday. It pitted Radford against Layton for president, Feltner against Rollins for vice-president, Penick against Sleigh for secretary and Wallace against Allen for treasurer.

In Friday's run-off, Feltner disposed of Rollins, 442-339; Penick outdrew Sleigh, 430-346; and Wallace beat Allen 433-341.

The voting for president was another story, however. The first time the votes were tallied Friday Layton finished one vote ahead of Radford. Gamble then called both candidates into his office and explained that one of them had a one-vote majority -- 558-557. Without knowing which of them had the majority, both agreed to a recount.

The recount began at 9 p.m. Two votes were thrown out because the ballots were improperly marked, and counters came up with one vote less on the total count. So that threw the race into a 556-556 deadlock.

While members of the election commission were counting the votes, many students were anxiously milling about outside the Browning Building. The counting was done in the conference room. It wasn't completed until after midnight.

Radford summed up his feelings about the week's race in four words: "I am very tired."

Layton also commented on the week's hectic pace. "It's been a tremendous experience for me, and I've enjoyed every bit of it," he said.

According to Gamble, a record 1,140 votes were cast in the run-off. Gamble attributes it to the precinct-type voting. He also praised the election commission.

"I think they (the commission) did a fine job, especially in view of the fact that this is the first time we've conducted elections by precincts."

Members of the commission are Larry Melton, Mary Jo Jones, Jack Roberts, Bill Bozell and Judy Trotter.

Texans in step

Coeds skirt the mini issue

(ACP) -- A small but increasing number of University of Texas coeds have decided to get in step with the "What's Happening" centers of the world and to leave men they pass twisted like pretzels, straining for a good, long, lasting look, Peter Heyne writes in the Daily Texan.

These are the coeds who have the courage -- but often not the proportions -- to wear mini skirts and dresses.

Essentially, a "mini" is a garment whose neckline ranges from three (mini-mini) to seven inches (maxi-mini) above the knee. It gained popularity two years ago on London's Carnaby Street where the Mod look still reigns.

In Eastern cities and in California, the mini look is not only in but is also fairly well established. However, in the South, including Texas, Austin, and consequently the university, women are suffering from a hemline gap that is being closed not much faster than grandma can thread rope through a needle's eye.

Mrs. Blaine Briggs, owner of Pizzazz Inc., which stocks lots of mini clothing, says, "Whenever anyone is leaving town they come in here to buy a short dress -- they say they have to have one for where they are going, which is usually out of state."

Why do coeds wear minis? Other than strictly for fashion -- "Simply to attract attention," says a former coed. "A lot of girls are husband-hunting and want to be noticed by the opposite sex," adds an assistant professor of home economics.

Most mini-wearers say they wear them primarily to parties, picnics, and "just generally messing around." Few wear them to class, since even dresses an inch above the knee can ride up embarrassingly. Teachers, at times, find short skirts in class a little rattling. "We may be teachers, but we are still men," a sociology teaching assistant says.

News roundup

Tower promised by end of month

The Tower, APSC's literary anthology, is not ready for sale yet, but it will be on sale no later than April 28, says its editor, Larry Martin.

"Problems have occurred which caused the late printing of the Tower, but it will still be on sale before the end of April," he said.

NEW CLUB FORMED

Austin Peay State's young Pre-Med Club sent 17 of its members to Vanderbilt University last week to tour that university's medical department.

The group was accompanied by John H. Bond, professor of chemistry and the club's sponsor. David H. Snyder, assistant professor of biology, is the other co-sponsor.

The Pre-Med Club was organized earlier this month. Officers are Wayne Luther, president; Walter Kikendall, vice-president; Owen Hull, secretary-treasurer; and Ewing Schmittou, program director.

ELECTED QUEEN

Miss Terry Schmidt, 18, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Aaron Schmidt of APSU, has been crowned Miss University of Nebraska.

She will represent the University of Nebraska in New York on June 14-17.

Terry, a former Miss Montgomery County Fairness of the Fair winner, is a graduate of Clarksville High School. As part of her prize winnings she will receive an oil painting of herself done by a Nebraska artist, a scholarship, and two complete wardrobes.

She will be a contestant in the Miss Nebraska Contest in York, Neb. on June 14. Her parents will attend the contest while Schmidt is acting as a guest orchestra director at the University of Nebraska for four weeks this summer.

Crippled Goyls take a rest

Nothing has gone right for the 1967 baseball edition. After taking an 8-6 decision from Bethel in the opening game of the season, the Governors have dropped nine out of 10.

Lack of a consistent attack, a disappointing pitching staff and shaky fielding have offset some fine individual performances by several Goyls.

A lot of APSC's troubles have stemmed from the inexperience of the starting lineup, which includes no less than five freshmen. Then, too, injuries have sidelined or slowed down four key members of the team.

Centerfielder Phillip Sleigh, the team's leading hitter at .341, is trying to overcome a pulled hamstring muscle, as is shortstop Chip Pearson, a .278 hitter. Catcher Dwight Smith is just now ready for action, after missing six games with a split finger.

Pitcher Bill Estep, who hasn't been able to get untracked this spring after a fine 5-3 campaign in 1966, will be out for the next week because of an irritated muscle insertion in his pitching arm. The right-hander has had a cortisone injection.

With no contests slated until next Tuesday, the Governors will get a chance to heal their wounds and work on the many weak spots they have shown this year. Coach Leon Sandifer hopes to concentrate on all phases of the game, while doing some recruiting in any other time he may have. He has been combing central Kentucky and the eastern half of Tennessee in search of talent.

Sleigh leads spotty attack

The Governors are hitting only .230 as a team. Sleigh is the only swatter above .300, but senior rightfielder Dave Small is close at .290. Frosh third baseman Vic Lombardo has a .286 mark, followed by Pearson, Mike Schroecker (.269), Eddie Harrison (.231), John Bratcher (.179), Bill Lemons (.161) and Terry Crow (.150). Sleigh has smashed three round trippers, to lead the team. His 10 runs batted in also represent the top figure. The Governors have scored 38 times, while the opposition has tallied 97 times, batting .296.

Fielding averages show that APSC has made a ridiculous 40 errors, fielding .889. By contrast, Gov foes have made only 15 miscues.

Bill Wilhoite's 4.34 earned run average is best on the pitching staff, and Joey Watts has the most strikeouts, 31 in 22 1/3 innings.

APSC students play golf

APSC students are taking advantage of the opening of the Clarksville Municipal Golf Course. The nine-hole lay-out, which plays to a par of 35 on the front side and 34 on the second round, is attracting experienced players as well as those who are just starting. Located on the site of the old Clarksville Country Club, the course charges only a dollar for nine holes, $1.50 on weekends.

THEY COULD HELP—in a tournament every point is important. Wins by APSC's No. 3 doubles team, Frank Norris (foreground) and Jon Kessell, could give the Goyls the spark they need to finish high in the Tennessee Intercollegiate tourney.

Goyls drop road tilts

With a week off to try to regroup after disastrous trips to Western Kentucky and Murray, APSC's baseballers hope to get back on the winning track Monday with a single game at the University of Tennessee-Martin Branch. The Vols already hold a 9-8 decision over the Goyls in an April 5 game at Clarksville.

APSC now has a 2-9 overall mark, 1-7 in the Ohio Valley Conference, after losing a pair at Western, April 17, and two more at Murray, April 20. Saturday's double-header, with David Lipscomb was rained out.

PHILLIP SLEIGH

The Governors jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the first game with the Hilltoppers, but fell to a 13-bit onslaught which produced 14 runs for the home team. APSC also hit safely 13 times, but could tally only six times. Six Gov errors helped lose the 14-6 slugfest.

Phillip Sleigh collected a homer, double and single in a losing cause. Bill Lemons, Dave Small and Eddie Harrison each got two base knocks.

Joey Watts was the starter and loser.

APSC made six more errors in dropping the second contest, 2-1 in eight innings. Both Western runs were unearned, as a fine pitching performance by starter Bill Wilhoite and his relief man and loser Bill Estep was wanted.

Chip Pearson accounted for the lone Governor tally, slamming a solo homer in the seventh.

At Murray, the Racers' Don Lee and David Gouzeaux limited the Goyls to a pair of hits in each contest while their teammates were pounding out six hits in the opener and 11-2 in the nightcap to gain 6-0 and 12-0 shutout wins.

Wilhoite pitched the first complete game of the season for coach Leon Sandifer's hurling corps in the opener, allowing only three runs, but getting no batting support.

Netters take 4-1 mark into tourney clash

by BILLY BIGGER

The Austin Peay State tennis team leaves today for Sewanee, Tenn., to compete in the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tourney tomorrow and Friday. The Governors are carrying a 4-1 record and a four-match winning streak into the tough tournament.

APSC picked up its fourth straight victory and third straight shutout last Monday, April 17, as the Goyls downed Kentucky Wesleyan 7-0.

Defending champion Middle Tennessee State is labeled as the pre-tourney favorite. However, it will be necessary for the champion to defeat nearly every college in the state to win the crown.

Austin Peay State's entire squad will make the trip to the Tennessee Intercollegiate. The team includes coach Fred Overton, Mike Marshall, Bill Lefko, Jim Lucas, Ed Maywald, Jon Kessell, Ronnie Rice and Ken Norris.

"I think we have a chance to finish in the top five," said Overton during last week's practice sessions.

He went on to add, "I'm real proud of our boys' performance this year. They've worked real hard at being a success."

"I believe you can attribute our success this year to one of two things, either the level of competition hasn't been as tough, or we are a much improved team over last year."

"Our practice last week was geared to prepare our boys to meet the stiff competition they will encounter at the meet."

"The Sewanee courts are slower which should help players like Lefko and Lucas."

The Goyls will meet Middle Tennessee Tuesday.

Basketball slate set for next year

Fourteen conference games, nine non-league tilts, and the Ohio Valley Conference tournament are on tap for the 1967-68 Austin Peay State College cagers. Additions to the schedule, released by Dean J. H. H. director of athletics, include Trinity University, Lamar Tech and Pan American. George Fisher's Gov. errors will tackle the three Texas clubs in the Lone Star state during mid-December.

Other non-conference contests are against Bethel, UT Martin (twice), Bellarmine (twice) and Transylvania.

The 1967-68 schedule: Dec. 1-2—OVC Tournament at Nashville; 4—Bethel; 5—UT Martin; 5—Bellarmine; 16 — at Trinity; 18—at Lamar Tech; 20—at Pan American.

Jan. 6 — Eastern Kentucky; 6—Morehead State; 13—at East Tennessee; 15—at Tennessee Tech; 17—at UT Martin; 20—Murray State; 24—at Transylvania; 27—Middle Tennessee; 29—Western Kentucky.

Feb. 3 — at Murray State; 5 — at Bellarmine; 10 — at Morehead State; 12 — at Eastern Kentucky; 17 — Tennessee Tech; 19 — East Tennessee; 24 — at Middle Tennessee; 26—at Western.

TIE FOR 12TH—Danny Daniel, No. 3 Gov golfer, blazed a first-round 73 in the TIC, but sagged to an 81 the second day for a 154 total and a tie for 12th.

Tennessee Intercollegiate victory claimed by MTSU

"Middle Tennessee just played great. They could have stayed with any college team in the country," said APSC golf coach, Sherwin Clift, following the Blue Raiders' 30-stroke victory Saturday in the Tennessee Intercollegiate at Sewanee.

His Governors, defending in the champs, finished fourth, 32 shots back and only two strokes behind second-place Chattanooga, with East Tennessee third.

The Raiders' easily cracked APSC's record 607 total of last spring, as they shot 579, only three strokes over par as a team.

MTSU's Ernie Adcock took the medalist honors which APSC's Jimmy Smith earned last year, fashioning rounds of 66 and 74 on the par-72 course. Smith wound up fourth with scores of 71 and 76, seven strokes behind Adcock. APSC entered the second day's

DuPont, 6-0 guard, signs grant-in-aid

Jim DuPont, a 6-0, 180-pound guard at Perry Central High School in Tell City, Ind., has been signed to a basketball grant-in-aid at Austin Peay State College.

DuPont was signed by George Fisher, head basketball coach at APSC.

In leading his team to an 18-5 record this past season, DuPont averaged 23.0 points per contest and grabbed rebounds at the rate of 18.0 per game.

He was selected to the All-Southern Indiana basketball squad during his senior year, and was a member of the fifth team all-state twinkle team in Indiana.

DuPont was voted the most outstanding player in the Blue River Athletic Conference during both his junior and senior years, and was voted to the all-conference team for three consecutive seasons.

competition in the runner-up position. Their 293 total put them 11 behind MTSU and six ahead of East Tennessee.

"We have the idea that if you can't finish first, it really doesn't matter what place you finish in," said Clift. "So our boys went all out to get the win."

"We took chances that we hadn't been taking the first day. Instead of improving, however, the scores went up, as we got into tree trouble and charged puts that we should have lagged."

"Over-all it was a good tournament. Our 293 the first day was all I could possibly ask for. Any time that a four-man total at Sewanee is under 300, some good golf has been played."

Teams and their scores were MTSU (579), Chattanooga (609), East Tennessee (610), APSC (611), Sewanee (628), Southwestern (629), Tennessee Tech (633), David Lipscomb (636), Lambuth (681) and Fisk (752). Incidentally, APSC's 611 score would have won last year's tourney by eight strokes.

Other Govs besides Smith were Fred Pitts (154-74-80), Danny Daniel (154-73-81), Tim Tague (156-77-79), Randy Feather (156-75-81), and Alan Bannister (161-78-83).

Finishing second to MTSU's with 141, East Tennessee's Larry Hinson had 143 for third. APSC's next match is Friday at Bowling Green, Ky., where the Govs will meet Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech.

CROSSING THE BAR—Alvin Hicks, freshman from Ochlocknee, Ga., takes second place in the high jump during Saturday's meet with Middle Tennessee. He also placed first in the pole vault, third in the javelin and ran a leg for the victorious 440-yard relay team.

Red-White fight here Saturday

The second intrasquad spring football game will be held Friday night in Municipal Stadium, with the Reds (No. 1 defense and No. 2 offense) facing the Whites (No. 1 offense and No. 2 defense).

Starting at 7 p.m., the game will have an admission charge of $1.

The Reds won the first spring game, 7-2, in Gallatin April 14.

posted a 4-1 mark, the Austin Peay State College track team travels to Cookeville Saturday for the final dual meet of the year.

The thinclads own a 3-2 record, including an 89-54 defeat at the hands of Middle Tennessee Saturday at Ft. Campbell. Their victories have been against Union (83-62), Lambuth (85-59) and Sewanee (98-47). The other loss was at David Lipscomb (80 1/2 - 64 1/2).

The Governors were able to capture only five events in the Blue Raider loss, as the 440-yard relay team took the only APSC first place in the running events. The foursome of Dickie Sapp, Alvin Hicks, Bob Engler and Ronnie Bell turned the quarter mile in :45.3.

The other four victories came in the broad jump, where Sapp set a school record with a leap of 22-9, breaking his old standard of 22-5 1/2; the shot put; the discus; and the pole vault.

Jeff Fisher took a double in the shot and discus, putting the iron ball 46-1 3/4 and flinging the platter 134-1 1/2. He also finished second in the javelin.

Hicks won the vault, sailing 13-4.

Billy Wendell, sophomore from Clarksville, finished second in the triple jump, but established a new APSC mark with his 44-2 performance.

The Governors greatly missed versatile Terry Schultz.

11th annual math event held

PRESENTATION TIME—Dr. William G. Stokes (l), APSC professor of mathematics and head of the Tennessee Mathematics Teachers Association, and James T. Stack, associate professor of mathematics, hand out trophies following the 11th annual High School Mathematics Contest held here last week.

Over 180 contestants from 20 area high schools trooped to the APSC campus last week to participate in the 11th annual High School Mathematics Contest.

The statewide contest is sponsored each year by the Tennessee Mathematics Teachers Association headed by Dr. William G. Stokes, professor of mathematics and chairman of the math department here.

The state is divided into three regions in which various colleges and universities serve as testing centers. APSC was one of the testing centers for the Middle Tennessee region. James T. Stack, associate professor of mathematics and chairman of the local contest.

The contest contains four divisions: Algebra I, Algebra II, geometry and combinatorics. The school winners of each division were (first to third place): Algebra I: Gallatin Junior High, Waverly Central High and Christian County High; Algebra II: Clarksville High, Waverly Central High and Gallatin High; geometry: Waverly Central High, Clarksville High and Gallatin High; combinatorics: Clarksville High, Waverly Central High and Gallatin High.

Individual winners of the contest were (first to third place): Algebra I: Kenneth Ashby of Christian County High, Dorothy Ball of Gallatin Junior High and Clarinda Bishop of Waverly Central High; Algebra II: Ricky Schilling of Clarksville High, Barry Roberts of Waverly Central High and Lynn Stokes of Clarksville High; geometry: Carolyn Spann, Chip Conrad and Victor Asbury all of Waverly Central High; combinatorics: Ralph Hope of Clarksville High, Mike Konvalinka of Fort Campbell High and John Lander of Clarksville High.

professor of zoology, said he first proposed the system to his classes last quarter. "Partly in fun and partly because a number of students had complained they were too busy trying to make grades to learn anything."

The proposal met with mixed reactions from students in his limnology and freshwater invertebrates classes.

The arbitrary grade is based on Reed's impression, over the years, that a grade of C is about average for his classes.

"I don't plan the grade distribution this way," he said.

"That's just the way it happens."

He added, however, that C is not a popular grade.

Reed pointed out that his proposal would imply a kind of honor system on the part of students who chose to receive the C. They "would be expected to read the text," he said, "and they would definitely be expected to attend class."

He said he feels certain the system would work, at least in his upper series courses, because students in these courses see them as being "of definite value in their careers."
