Davis: 'no movement...to impeach'

Eubanks resigns as SGA vice president

by Ken Knapp

Jeff Eubanks resigned as vice president of the Student Government Association last Thursday (Jan. 14, 1982), and said "it is only a coincidence that Internal Affairs was (investigating) me at the time I decided to resign."

Eubanks, a junior, has been vice president of the SGA since the end of the spring quarter of 1981. Pam Ragan, a junior class secretary, and DeWayne Wilson, sophomore senator, also resigned Jan. 14.

Eubanks said that he resigned because he did not have enough time to devote to be the SGA's vice president.

Brian Davis, chairman of the Internal Affairs Committee, said that it was brought to the attention of Internal Affairs in early Dec. that Eubanks was not doing his job.

"We (Internal Affairs) had some serious questions to ask that had to be answered," Davis said. According to Davis, the Internal Affairs Committee is designed to keep a check on the members of the SGA.

"Our responsibility to the SGA is to make sure (its members) are fulfilling the responsibilities that they swore to do when (they) took office. We are also responsible to let (the SGA) know what is going on," Davis said.

Davis reported to the SGA on the Jan. 14 meeting that "despite rumors, there was no movement by the Internal Affairs Committee to impeach Jeff Eubanks."

A letter dated Dec. 12, 1981 was sent to Eubanks by Davis. The subject of the letter was acceptance of charges. "In the letter Davis stated 'at a meeting held on Dec. 10, 1981 the Internal Affairs Committee agreed to investigate the following charges against Jeff Eubanks:

1. Two (2) meetings of the SGA Senate were called off by V.P. Eubanks on his own initiative, and w/o authorization.
2. V.P. Eubanks has not completed provisions of the Senate Representation Act which he is responsible for.
3. Work from the High School Workshop this year has not been completed.
4. Office hours of any kind have not been kept.
5. Duty of assisting the President has not been completed.
6. There exists no Parliamentarian within the SGA.
7. Staff appointment has not been completed.
8. No supervision of present staff.
9. Purchase Order No. 67362 incorrectly handled.
10. Fulfillment of role of Leader of the Senate has been negligible.
11. Due to general negligence of responsibilities and duties in his office, grant money given to V.P. Eubanks has been misused and wasted to a large degree.
12. Weekly agenda has not been organized and prepared properly.

Eubanks was to meet with the Internal Affairs Committee at 4:00 p.m. Jan. 14, 1982. Eubanks said the meeting never took place.

"I talked to Brian (Davis) before the meeting and asked him what the meeting was for. I told him that if they were going to question me about my job there was no reason to because I was going to resign," Eubanks said.

Eubanks noted that he and Davis met with three other Internal Affairs members for about 15 minutes. "They just wanted to talk to me about my resignation," Eubanks said.

About two hours after Eubanks met with the Internal Affairs Committee the SGA meeting was held. Eubanks read his letter of resignation at the meeting, and then Davis said, "Jeff Eubanks did not resign because of any action that Internal Affairs took."

Responding to DeWayne Wilson's letter of resignation Davis also said "this (the SGA) is not a phony organization. We get a lot done here." Although Davis said that his comments were not directed toward Wilson, Wilson thought they were.

"One reason I resigned because there were personality conflicts between me and other members of the SGA. I think that there are members in the SGA who, in addition to the work they do, are in it for their

Mandatory food plan proposed

by Ken Knapp

A proposal has been made to the Student Government Association at Austin Peay that all students who live on campus be required to participate in the food service board plan. The proposal was made by Dr. Bob Nettles, dean of students, Dec. 10, 1981.

Nettles said that students who live in Ball Village and the new student apartments would be exempt from the mandatory food plan.

"Both of these two residences have kitchen facilities," Nettles said. "It would be more convenient and economical for these residents to take advantage of their own kitchens."

Nettles said that the students who live in dormitories without kitchens will benefit greatly by the mandatory food plan.

"I can't imagine a student eating for less than under the mandatory food plan. It would be more convenient for a student to have someone prepare their food and clean up for them," he said.

When asked if the food plan was devised to improve students' eating habits Nettles said, "I'm not concerned with what the students eat. I don't care if they eat junk food all day long. But this (the mandatory food plan) is an economic and social opportunity for the students. We can reduce the cost of school for a student by shaving about $100 from the present food plan."

Nettles first proposed the mandatory food plan Dec. 10, 1981 at the SGA's final meeting of the fall quarter. The SGA met again last week (Jan. 14) at the Harvill Cafeteria to discuss the proposal in more detail.

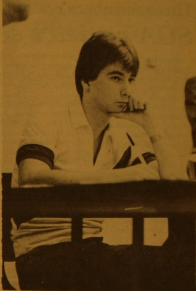

Nettles said at the meeting that "I don't think I'd be doing my job if I didn't present the proposal to you (the SGA)."

Nettles distributed an outline of the benefits of the food plan proposal to each member of the SGA. The outline, entitled "Rationale For Required Board Plan," states that "the university can reduce the present board plan by at least 25 percent. In addition to the benefits, the full costs (of the food plan) can be used in the financial aid eligibility budget."

In other words, the cost of the food service would be included in the cost of a student's housing.

"Students would be eligible to receive more money," Nettles said. "This puts Austin Peay on a more competitive level for federal dollars."

Before the meeting Nettles said that if something is not done soon to increase the number of customers for the Harvill Cafeteria it will have to be closed down.

"I don't know why people won't eat there. Maybe the word 'cafeteria' scares people away," he said.

Hundreds of students would be affected if the SGA passes the proposal. Students would eat at least 10 meals per week in the Harvill Cafeteria, which recently received a "B" rating for restaurant service.

Nettles explained that the "B" rating was due to mechanical and insect problems.

"We had some problems with a sink and there were insects coming in where sewage was leaking. All our problems have been corrected now and we are waiting for the inspector to come back," he said.

Nettles also said "I don't think there is a direct correlation between people not eating at the cafeteria and something being wrong with the place. I've tried every gimmick, but it appears that no matter what options or plans I come up with the reputation of the cafeteria keeps people away. I haven't been able to generate any interest in the place."

The decor of the Harvill Cafeteria has changed greatly over the past few years, and at least three different food services have been employed by Nettles. "I've been fooling around with this food service problem for years now," Nettles said, "and Dr. Boehms (vice president for student affairs) was fooling around with it three years before I got here. I don't know why people won't eat there. We are losing money every year and financially we are on the brink of disaster. We are getting close to the last straw from a financial standpoint." Nettles also said that the food service at Austin Peay has been his "biggest failure."

Nettles said that he did not believe that the proposal was "an infringement on the rights of the students," as one senator said before the Jan. 14 meeting.

"Being an adult doesn't mean that one is totally free to make decisions. The only right that we are taking away is students deciding when and where they want to eat," Nettles said.

One senator asked Nettles why a poll was taken to see if residents of Austin Peay would accept cable television for $3 a quarter (instead of $15 for installment plus $9 a month for service), and a poll was not taken to see if the same residents would accept the mandatory food plan.

"You know how students are. As soon as they see the word 'mandatory' or 'required' they get ready to jump up and rebel," Nettles said.

The SGA will meet again tomorrow at 7:00 p.m. to discuss the proposal further.

Three members resign SGA reviews several proposals

During last Thursday's Senate meeting, three resignations were formally handed in.

Resigning were SGA Vice President Jeff Eubanks, Pam Ragan, junior class secretary; and DeWayne Wilson, sophomore class vice president.

Eubanks contributed his resignation to a conflict of time, classes and work. "If I had ever known the meaning of having too many things to do and not enough time to do it, I know it now," he said.

Wilson said he resigned because "politics is not a game I'm suited for."

Ragan said "if I could not give my full time, then I am unable to do my best. I failed myself, the Senate, and Austin Peay."

The Internal Affairs committee, chaired by Brian Davis, gave a report stating that the purpose of the committee is to make sure the people involved in the SGA perform their job, and to let everyone know what is going on.

Davis said that Eubanks was asked to appear before the committee to clear up any uncertainties that had arisen. Eubanks informed them that he had resigned. Officially, no action was taken by the Internal Affairs committee.

The Finance Board reported on the televised basketball game prizes. Danny Armitage, the reporter for the committee, asked the SGA for $150 to promote the televised basketball game. He proposed that there be a banner contest awarding $75 for first place; $50 for second place; and $25 for third place. The proposition was passed.

The Senate meeting was held in the student Union cafeteria where the senators ate dinner and then discussed the Mandatory Food Plan. It was decided that Bob Nettles, dean of students and the Health and Food Services committee would go to Middle Tennessee State University to inquire about its food plan and the feasibility of Austin Peay implementing one, also.

Kirk Shearon, freshman class president, was nominated for the position of chairman of the Health and Food Services committee.

USAB asks for student input

by Robert Boswell

Jim Townsend has been appointed chairman of the University Student Activities Board (USAB). The USAB is a student operated organization in charge of coordinating campus recreation and entertainment for university students.

The USAB is currently planning various student activities ranging from a spring concert in the Dunn Center to an "end-of-the-year" party. The USAB recently hosted the Harlem Globetrotters and hypnotist/comedian Tom DeLuca, and will host the Mickey Gilley/Johnny Lee concert Jan. 29 in the Dunn Center.

Townsend said he is looking forward to a great year for the USAB and "student involvement will be a large part of the success for us. Without students and their ideas you can't do much, and that is what the board is here for anyway—the students."

Townsend said he needs 65 to 70 active board members. "If each organization will send us two representatives we would have approximately 102 persons from which we could select our final board," he said. Townsend cautioned that interested students without much free time should talk to him first.

Townsend encouraged all students on campus to apply for the board. "You don't have to represent any specific organization—anybody can apply," he said. Townsend stated that the USAB needs to become organized and "get our feet on the ground this year."

After the board members are selected they will divide into eight different committees such as publicity, recreation and fine arts.

"Once established these separate groups will be working more or less on their own. Each committee will have its own job to do and its own people to do it," said Townsend. He stressed that board members could "work at their own pace just as long as the job is done."

Townsend hopes to increase the entertainment to compete with surrounding universities.

"We have to give MTSU, Murray, and other colleges a run for their money. We have to get our students to stay here and not go to Nashville and other places for a good time," he said.

Townsend explained that for bigger name concerts and other forms of entertainment "Austin Peay is going to have to get more of the student body to participate and contribute to what is being offered to them now."

Townsend said that he and Buddy Humberger, faculty advisor, hope to attend a USAB seminar in Chicago next month.

"Going to Chicago would really give us some insight into our possibilities here on campus," he said.

Townsend encouraged suggestions for activities and would like to hear from those interested in working on the board. Students wanting additional information should contact Jim Townsend at P.O. Box 0994.

own personal goals. This is proven by the low attendance at the meetings," Wilson said.

Eubanks said that although he resigned he is not totally through with the SGA. "I'm still involved with the SGA in many ways. I'm just not vice-president anymore. I'm just as involved as I was before my resignation, I just don't have my gavel in my hand," Eubanks said.

Mike McDaniel, president of the SGA, said "I regret that Jeff resigned. He has all the capabilities that anyone would need for the vice president's position. He came up through the ranks and knows the system well."

McDaniel also said that the SGA is not as strong as it used to be.

"This organization is not as strong as it has been in the past. It's partly my fault and it's partly Jeff's (Eubanks) fault. There was no coordination between the two offices," McDaniel said.

Co-ed dies in accident

Tracy Turner, 18, of 268 Sailboat Drive in Nashville, died last Thursday of injuries received in an automobile accident in Georgia. Turner an Austin Peay State University freshman, was traveling to Athens, Ga., for the Vanderbilt/University of Georgia basketball game. Turner was the fiancée of Vanderbilt sophomore forward Kevin Linder.

Also killed in the accident was Maureen Rafferty, 18, of Bethesda, Md., and Laura Belg, 20, of Brandon, Fla. Police said the accident occurred when a drunk driver, on the wrong side of the road, swerved his truck into their car.

briefly

College Bowl underway

Student organizations interested in participating in Austin Peay's College Bowl competition should contact Tim Cleveland by Jan. 27, 1982. Faculty members that wish to help conduct or compete in the College Bowl are also welcomed.

Tim Cleveland can be reached at 648-7708 or P.O. Box 5022.

Workshop offered

Dr. Ron Oakland, director of counseling, testing, will hold three "mini" workshops in February. "Life Planning" will be offered Feb. 1 and "Coping With Stress and Anxiety" will be offered Feb. 3. The date for "Surviving Studenthood" will be announced at a later time. Students must register for these workshops by coming by the Counseling Center in Ellington Hall. For further information call 648-6162.

Financial info given

In response to Gov. Lamar Alexander proclaiming Jan. 18-22 Tennessee Financial Aid Awareness Week, representatives from the APSU financial aid office will visit two local high schools to inform parents and students of financial aid programs.

Representatives will visit Northeast High School Jan. 21 and Northwest High School Jan. 26 to provide first hand information about college financial aid programs and ways to apply for the various programs. Both meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Lee assumes band director position

by Robert Boswell

The Department of Music announced this week that Bob D. Lee has assumed the position of Director of Bands at Austin Peay. Lee has served as band director in the Tennessee public school system since the fall of 1960.

Most recently, Lee directed band at Riverdale High School in Murfreesboro. Riverdale's band program received national attention, under Lee, with performances at The Festival of the States in St. Petersburg, Fla. and at the convention of the National Band Association.

Lee's degrees include a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master of Education degree from Middle Tennessee State University. He is a member of the National Educators National Conference, National Band Association, and Phi Beta Mu Honorary Bandmasters Fraternity. Lee was also the past president of the Middle Tennessee Band and Orchestra Association.

"We have a very promising future here at Austin Peay. I hope to make this something that will be of benefit and pride to both the community and the University," said Lee. He hopes to add many more members to Austin Peay's band. Lee stated "a strong recruiting program this year will help to bring more good students to the campus to add to the excellent ones that we already have."

Due to a tight budget the recruiting program will not be as widespread as some people would like it to be. However, students throughout Tennessee and Southern Kentucky with a talent in band will be targeted by the Music Dept.

In a letter to band members, Lee said his goal "is to simply make it (the band) the most outstanding University band in this region."

Lee also informed band students that participation in either concert or marching band is awarded by an hour credit each quarter.

SO, THIS IS THE PEAY!!—Newly appointed Band Director Bob Lee situates himself in his new office in the Clement Building. Most recently, Lee has guided Murfreesboro Riverdale High's band to national prominence.

APSU administrators coordinate telecast

by Leslie Slack

Before the APSU/. Morehead basketball game could be televised last Sunday, many people had to organize and coordinate the event. Preparation for the telecast began as early as last fall quarter. At least seven different APSU personnel were involved to assure that the telecast proceeded smoothly.

People involved in the coordination of the telecast included Johnny Miller, athletic director; Sherwin Clift, director of public relations; Teresa Miller, director of public affairs; Wendell Gilbert, vice president of administration and development; Jan Pylant, athletic ticket manager; Joe Baxter, facilities coordinator; and Charles Wall, computer services director.

Teresa Miller said that "effective communication" between various departments was responsible for the success of the telecast.

One of the problems worked out before the game was the arrangements between the ## Food plan proposal, do students have a choice?

Dr. Bob Nettles, dean of students, has listed the basic benefits of the mandatory food plan as social, financial, and physical (health). Though the Student Government Association is currently studying whether or not the mandatory food plan should be accepted, The All State is concerned that the SGA's decision may not have a bearing on the final outcome anyway. We are certain that Nettles will continue to push his proposed plan even if the SGA votes "no". We are even more concerned that the SGA may decide to vote "yes."

Not many students are aware of the proposal that Nettles has made. Nettles, no doubt, is playing his cards right. For if the students on campus were aware of what is about to befall

Letters Policy

The All State staffs of the past have consistently provided their respective readerships with the opportunity to make public comments, suggestions, criticisms and even complaints by making use of the "Letters to the Editor" column and this year's staff intends to do the same.

All letters which are to be considered for publication must be in the The All State office by the Thursday before the Wednesday printing. Under no circumstances will an unsigned or unverified letter be considered.

Letters must be less than 300 words long. No letter will be published which even vaguely implies advertisement or campaign. Space to be used for such purposes in The All State must be purchased at campus advertisement rates.

Letters which the staff considers to be offensive, abusive or libelous will be subject to editing. The author will be consulted in cases where drastic editing of the submitted letter is considered necessary.

them, they would, as Nettles himself said, "be ready to jump up and rebel." Nettles argues that the students would act irrationally simply because his proposal contains the words "mandatory" or "required".

The All State would like to note that at the beginning of the quarter a poll was taken of APSU students to see how many of the students on campus would like cable television for $3 a quarter. Nettles was responsible for the poll.

Instead of students paying a $15 installment fee and $9 a month for cable television service, the poll promised that if every student paid about $3 a quarter then every student would have access to cable television. Over 360 students voted "yes" and less than 30 voted "no".

The All State wonders why a similar poll was it would cost students to participate in the mandatory food plan. But the students should be given the right to choose whether or not they want to support the fire engine," especially if the fire engine is expensive.

And above all, The All State believes that the students have the right to choose when they want to eat, what they want to eat, and who they want to eat with.

Center provides service, financial benefits

Dear Editor:

You may be interested to know that the Tree House Day Care Center, a Title XX agency with United Way funding, can provide day care services for preschool-age children of full-time APSU students who meet federal income and need guidelines. This program is designed to provide low-cost or free day care services to families who are attempting to become financially independent by means of work or preparation for work. The latter includes job-training programs and full-time student status. Divorced mothers or fathers who have custody of young children and who are seeking to prepare for or re-enter the job market are especially likely to qualify by income and need. Intact student families might also qualify, depending again on income and need.

Interested students may inquire by calling 562-9332 weekdays.

not taken to see if students would accept Nettles' mandatory food plan proposal. Nettles was possibly aware before he took the poll about cable television that he would get the response that he desired. Polling students on anything "mandatory" or "required" could, quite possibly, get an undesirable response.

Nettles insulted students by assuming that they could not read past the word mandatory and would react irrationally. If the food plan is so beneficial, then what are supporters of it afraid of? But, of course, that is not the point. The point is that college students have the right to decide what is and what is not beneficial for them. They have the right to learn from their mistakes, if, in fact, turning down the food plan is a mistake.

Nettles has compared his mandatory food plan to the "supporting the fire engine" theory (you may pay taxes for the fire engine but the fire engine may never come to your house). This means that the mandatory food plan will hurt those who cannot fully take advantage of it. Again we must bring up the poll on cable television. Many students who live on campus don't even have television sets. Paying $3 a quarter is closer to "supporting the fire engine" than paying what

Two jazz musicals come to TPAC

Coming soon to the Tennessee Performing Arts Center are two jazzy, heartwarming musicals One Mo' Time and The Most Happy Felia.

One Mo' Time is a recreation of a lively foot-stompin' 1920's vaudeville night at the legendary Lyric Theater in New Orleans. "Big" Bertha Williams and her touring group are booked into Lyric. Bertha is jealous of Thelma, who's making eyes at Papa Du, the "business-manager", while Ma Reed is swigging bootleg gin. Meanwhile, the theatre owner is trying to weasel out of the contract, one of the singers is in jail, and another has run off with the cash.

The New Orleans Blue Seranaders pick up on the downbeat and it's time to jump and shout for an evening of hot jazz, fancy dancing, and hilarity.

The musical features such jazz hits as "Darktown Strutters Ball," "A Hot Time in the Old Town," "Kitchen Man," "Shade that Thing," and "I've Got What It Takes," while the performers dance the Charleston, the Cakewalk, and the Black Bottom.

Time called One Mo' Time a wild, ribald and rousing delight and New York Magazine said, "I could easily see it two mo' times."

The showing for One Mo' Time will be on Jan. 22 and 23 at 8:00 p.m. and on Jan. 23 and 24 at 2:30 p.m.

The Most Happy Felia will be presented on Jan. 27 at 8:00 p.m. This show was written by Frank Loesser, composer and lyricist of "Where's Charley?" and "Guys and Dolls."

Featured in this production will be Metropolitan Opera Star Rob Mac Wherter. He portrays a lonesome aging Italian winegrower who woos a young San Francisco waitress by mail and tricks her into coming to his Napa Valley vineyard to become his bride. Gwynne Geyer is the hopeful girl, who so agast at the difference between her romantic dream and the true identity of her husband-to-be that she is thrown momentarily into the arms of a handsome young drifter, played by Matthew Las.

Tickets are on sale now and can be purchased at the Ticket Master box office in the Tennessee Performing Arts Center. A $2 discount is available for students.

Wall said this was very important as this was the video link between the Dunn Center and the broadcasting station.

Baxter said the television crew arrived at 6:30 a.m. Sunday to arrange hook-ups for the telecast. Every detail was planned and scheduled, even down to the playing of the National Anthem at 11:55 a.m. by Scott Thompson, a Clarksville High School senior.

by 9:30 (Sunday morning). Nothing went wrong," said Baxter.

Though attendance was low Johnny Miller said he was pleased with the turnout. "It's not too bad a crowd considering the weather and the time (of the game)," he said. Miller is expecting a much larger crowd for the Murray game which will be televised Feb. 7.

Mike McDaniel, SGA president, agreed that attendance was low, but that the crowd was "vocal enough" to make up for the people not there.

To increase attendance, the Athletic Dept. awarded cash prizes to the 100th, 250th, and 500th students who entered the game. Donna Sue Anderson won $10 for being the 100th student and Cheryl Jones won $25 for being the 250th student. There was no winner for the $50 prize as there was no 500th student. Estimated attendance was 1,700 with only 350 of them being students.

In the banner contest, sponsored by the SGA,

Sevier Hall won $75 for first place. Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity won $50 for second place and the Mabel Meschum Apt. won $25 for third place.

Johnny Miller said preparation for the Feb. 7 telecast have already begun. Austin Peay is the only OVC school to have two televised games this season.

School trains ministers

by Steve Windham

The North Tennessee Bible Institute (NTBI) at 245 West Ave., is an interdenominational bible institution, according to Bill Corley, president of the institute.

Corley said the institution is a nonprofit organization and "is chartered by the state of Tennessee and given permission by the Department of Education to operate. We train ministers and missionaries, both lay and professional. We are approved by the American Orthodox Church for Holy Orders (the priesthood) to provide theological training in preparation for the priesthood."

Corley stated that the institution was "elected by the American Orthodox Church by the Arch Bishop of Lexington, Ky. to train men in Holy Orders because the Bishop felt we met the qualifications that he was looking for."

NTBI has no association with Austin Peay but does have "a good working relationship" with the university. Corley added that the university library is especially useful.

The institute has existed eleven years, six of those years at its present location. The house was given to NTBI by Mrs. Ursula Smith Beach, Montgomery county historian.

NTBI is not accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities. "Even though we are not accredited by any professional or area association, our courses are accepted by many schools throughout the country," Corley said.

The institute does not give degrees or issue licenses to ministers, but does award ministerial certificates to students who complete 128 semester hours, show proper credibility before an oral review committee, complete a thesis, and recite from memory the Biblical book of Hebrews.

Corley stated that the institute did not send out representatives of its own into ministerial or missionary work. "We just teach courses," he said. NTBI has 16 students at the present time. The institute averages from twelve to twenty students.

Corley said if certain students show capabilities of collegiate work they are encouraged to attend APSU or the American Bible College or other area schools of higher learning. Seventy-five percent of the students at the institute do collegiate work. Students that go to Austin Peay are encouraged to get a degree in sociology. Students are made aware of NTBI through ministers and others. Ten percent of the students have Orthodox backgrounds, while the rest are interdenominational.

Bricklayers rebound

Comeback team of the year honored

By Steve Harmon

Can there be more fitting time to honor fantastic comebacks than in the present week?

As the world of professional football braces itself for a clash between the San Francisco Forty Niners and the Cincinnati Bengals this Sunday in the Super Bowl Sixteen in the Pontiac (Mich.) Silverdome, the accomplishments of a group of Austin Peay students seem to overshadow all the thinly-clad cheerleaders and Natural Light beer commercials the National Football League (NFL) has to offer.

However, Dick Enberg and Merlin Olsen were merely wasting their time preparing to broadcast A football game during the second week of

They should have been in Clarksville to telecast the APSU water basketball championships.

Let me set the stage for you.

As one of the most active groups on campus and a truly fraternal organization in every sense of the word, the Bricklayers have represented themselves by competing in the APSU Water Basketball League (WBL) the past two seasons.

The key term here is "the past two seasons." Amidst a disappointing 2-6 season two years ago occurred one of the most crippling defeats I have ever heard of—one that would cause many squads to disband.

The Bricklayers were buried by the Track and Thangs, 104-6.

When I heard the score, the first thing I asked was, "did anybody drown?"

Now, one thing you've got to remember is the games are only 32 minutes long.

So how did the Track and Thangs score so many points in such a short time span?

"It was our first game of the season and Jeff (Williamson) was the only one who had ever played before," defended Tim "Clutch" Cleghern of the Layers.

The Bricklayers rebounded from their humiliating loss and Danny Murphy's intramural record 84 points in the rout to salvage a 2-6 season.

This past fall, the Layers returned to the water with a vengeance, as well as one key addition to their roster.

"Rodney Allison was the difference this year," assessed Williamson. "He didn't know when to quit."

Aided by an off-season training program that included drinking at the lake, the Bricklayers have built the foundation of an intramural dynasty as their squad rolled to an unblemished 8-0 record and the WBL championship.

"We were motivated by last year's embarrassment," said Williamson of his team's 180 degree turnaround.

"We practiced during our lake retreat this summer," Williamson continued, "and I think that helped."

Help it did as Williamson, Cleghern, Allison, Trent Knott, Phil Foster, Mike Parker, Steve Griffey, Scott Knight and company inflicted the punishment as opposed to receiving it en route to a 37-35 advantage in the championship game.

But, don't look for The Sporting News or the other major publications to award their comeback prizes to the APSU Bricklayers.

On this campus, though, their efforts stand alone.

But, when comeback award ballots are being cast, the events must be kept in perspective.

I, for one, cast my lot for comeback team of the year with Austin Peay's own Bricklayers.

Let the record show that as a native and lifelong resident of Cincinnati, my blood runs deep red for my hometown Reds in the summer and as the leaves begin to change, I bleed a solid orange with every Bengal defeat.

In no way am I degrading the exploits of the Forty Niners and Bengals, pro football's doormats only a year ago, in their climb to the top.

They exemplify the spirit and competitiveness of American sport in every imaginable way as they instilled a new life in their respective cities.

Budweiser. KING OF BEERS, ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

GENUINE

GENUINE

Austin Peay standout Lenny Manning poured in 44 points and grabbed 13 rebounds in two basketball games last week to edge Lady Gov Lillian Cain for his familiar seat in the Budweiser column.

The former Maplewood star currently sports a 17.4 scoring average and a 7.1 rebounding average, placing him third and fourth in the OVC, respectively.

Manning's 53.7 field goal and 72.6 free throw percentages also rank in the top 10 in the loop.

Govs clip Eastern, but bow to Morehead

By Steve Harmon

In pragmatic conversation concerning his team's upcoming encounter with Morehead State, Austin Peay head basketball coach Ron Bargatzke talked of an expected boost that Sunday's regional television exposure would give to his team in the AFSU Dunn Center.

That "boost" fell about seven minutes short as the Governors took an extended TV timeout to squander a 49-40 lead late in the second half as the visiting Eagles clawed their way to a 63-61 win in Ohio Valley Conference action.

Bargatzke's optimism centered around his team's spirited 66-60 victory over OVC foe Eastern Kentucky last Thursday night, snapping a six-game losing streak, as the Governors threatened to sweep their first weekend series of the season.

But, a controversial "no-call" in the Morehead State game resulted in a momentum shift to the Eagles which carried them to their fourth victory in seven OVC outings.

The play in question occurred with just over 3:00 remaining as Peay's Pat Day, who tallied 10 points on the evening, streaked down the left side of the floor for a breakaway layup. Morehead's Gay Minnifield contested Day on the shot and appeared to have hammered him.

Day's errant shot stood, however, as MSU converted the miscue into a three-point play by the Eagles' Harold Moore, knotting the score at 57-57 with 3:06 to play.

"That was the big play of the game," Bargatzke stated. "It was a five-point swing," he added.

Spurred by Moore's play, the Eagles reeled off nine unanswered points in building a 63-57 advantage with only 0:20 remaining to seal the victory.

Eagle head coach Wayne Martin pointed to Moore's three-pointer as critical, but was quick to praise the APSU effort, in particular, that of Ron Bargatzke.

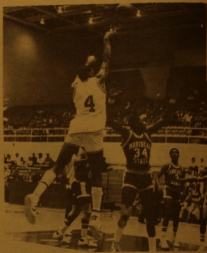

"Any coach in the league will tell you what a fantastic job Bargatzke has done here," Martin said. "He's only working with one full-time assistant and 18 scholarships as opposed to the two assistants and 15 scholarships the rest of the schools have," Martin elaborated.

Governor star Lenny Manning led the APSU charges in both games last week with 26 points against Eastern Kentucky and 18 versus Morehead. The 6-foot-6 forward also pulled down 13 rebounds and dished out five assists in the two games.

Peay visits Tennessee Tech tomorrow night in Cookeville before invading Murfreesboro on Saturday to contest OVC frontrunner MTSU. Both games tote it up at 7:30 p.m. CST.

"We're 2-4 now (in the OVC) and both games are must wins for us," previewed Bargatzke of this week's action.

Tech brings a 5-9 overall record, 2-4 in the OVC into Thursday's game, while MTSU boasts a 12-3, 5-1 slate as of this printing.

THE STROH'S CASE STACKING CONTEST

REGISTRATION BLANK

*RULES AND REGULATIONS*

1. Each team consists of four persons (male or female). Two to lift by the handles, one to steady the stack, one to slide one case under.
2. The object is to stack the "Stroh" cases as high as possible without having them fall. (Must be in a single row, parallel with each case.)
3. While stacking, your feet are not allowed to leave the ground. (Lift the stack from the bottom and slide one under.)
4. Three minutes will be the maximum time limit per competition.
5. If during the three minute period the stacked cases fall, you may restack them, but once the whistle blows you must stop everything for the count of the cases.
6. At the end of the three minutes a ten second count will follow to check and see if the stack is stable. If the cases fall before the 10 second count, the team will be eliminated.
7. Cases to be stacked will be empty 12 oz. Stroh's returnable bottle cases.
8. Hard hats must be worn during competition.
9. Decisions of the judges will be final.

Lady Govs smack EKV, fall to Morehead

By Clint Ervin

Austin Peay's Lady Govs fell to a 7-11 overall and a 2-2 in the Ohio Valley Conference with a stunning 73-48 defeat at the hands of the Morehead State Lady Eagles last Saturday night in the Dunn Center.

The quicker Lady Eagles never trailed, jumping out to a 10-2 lead in the first four minutes and led by as much as 20 during the first half, which ended at 36-20. The poor-shooting Lady Govs shot only 26 percent from the floor during the half to 47 percent for the Lady Eagles. Lillian Cain led Austin Peay in scoring in the half with 8 of her 12 total points.

Morehead came out firing in the second half, and except for a brief comeback by Peay in which the hosts got as close as 14, the Lady Eagles managed to inch further and further ahead. MSU led by 29 on two separate occasions on their way to a 25-point spread at the game's end.

Gayle Kinzer, a recent transfer from Vanderbilt making her first start, tied with Cain for the Lady Gov scoring lead with 12 points. Morehead, now 8-3 overall and 3-1 in the OVC, was led by 5-foot-11 forward Priscilla Blackford with 22 points.

Last Thursday evening, the Lady Govs hosted Eastern Kentucky and pulled off a 77-72 win, second OVC victory. Senior Lillian Cain led Austin Peay into the win column with 22 points, her best effort of the season.

The game was close from the outset, being tied three times during the first three minutes of play before APSU gradually pulled ahead. The Lady Govs pushed their lead to eight points on a follow-up by Susan Wright with 13:05 to play, and never looked back.

Connie Sinks, who tallied 10 first half points, gave Peay their biggest lead, 32-23, with 7:36 to play in the half. Eastern managed to pull to within three at the half, 43-40.

Eastern's Sandra Mukes came back in the second half to tie the game at 43 on a three-point play, and Lisa Goodin hit a 10 foot jumper soon afterward to put the Lady Colonels up 45-43.

Lillian Cain then went to work. She hit three field goals in less than one minute to give the Lady Govs a four-point cushion, and from there they began to pull ahead again.

Peay stretched the margin to nine with 9:22 to play on a jump shot by Melony Waller, but the Lady Colonels

Baker named Scholar-Athlete

When the first Ohio Valley Conference Scholar-Athlete Awards are presented at the spring honors luncheon in Nashville on May 27, Austin Peay State University will be represented among the six honorees.

Jim Baker, a senior defensive end for the gridiron Govs, will be commended for his 3.6 GPA as an Agriculture major. Baker is a member of the Delta Tau Alpha honor fraternity and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, also.

Selection requirements include excellence in academic performance and evidence of leadership. A 3.2 grade point average must also be maintained by each nominee, as well as earning a varsity letter.

The 6-foot-1, 210-pounder from Portland (TN) High School was a three-year letterman for the Governors after making the squad as a freshman walk-on in 1978.

"The coaches gave me a good shot at playing," Baker said of his fight to gain recognition as a non-scholarship performer.

After earning an athletic grant for his sophomore year, Baker impressed the APSU coaches enough to be named a team captain for the 1981 season.

Baker, who has lived on a farm all of his life, is currently weighing the advantages of graduate school upon completing his degree requirements.

Other recipients of the award include Morehead's Ken Hopkins, a football player; two-time NCAA rifle All-American Dan Durben of Eastern Kentucky; Murray State Lady Racer track star Jennifer Oberhausen; Morehead basketball standout Donna Stephens; and Parade Magazine All-American Jerilyn Harper of Tennessee Tech's Lady Eagle basketball program.
