Our Temporal Bank Account

At midnight of December 31—or was it 12:01 of January 1?—a whole new year began. Father Time handed us our regular year's stipend of 365 golden days, each divided into 24 silver hours, all to be spent according to our own inclinations. There are no strings attached to this annual income—it is never increased or diminished, no matter how miserly or extravagant we may be with it. No one can take it from us except with our collusion. It is the one thing which is always waiting to be collected and spent every day.

And what are we to do with this hoard of wealth? That depends entirely upon ourselves. There are sure to be things for which it must be spent which we do not particularly enjoy.

For some of us this expenditure will certainly be wasted, but it is possible to gain from every experience. In other words, why not try to profit by everything in which we spend money, including the things we must not especially like? Time is too precious to be wasted simply because we refuse to take an interest in some things.

Then there is the time which must inevitably be lost when others are involved—such as when trains are late, when we have to wait in line for one thing or another, or when we have to depend on some one else for preparatory work. This time is usually hard to conserve. However, there are things, such as eating, going from class to class, dressing, and studying, which could be done much more efficiently than they are.

Time spent in school is a very important item in our budget. This and the time spent in recreation are undoubtedly the most essential to our welfare. Therefore we may spend lavishly on these two accounts. Only our own selves can say just how we should distribute the hours of schoolwork and leisure, and only experience can teach us what is the wisest plan for each one of us.

A simpler way of putting it would be to say that during the good year 1937 we owe it to ourselves to get the most out of every minute we spend of the 365 new coins paid to our account by Father Time.

Sportsmanship

As to my way of thinking, and I am sure many will agree with me, the most conspicuous quality that a person or a group of persons may possess is good sportsmanship.

The occasion that gave me the inspiration to write this article was a basketball game that Austin Peay played away from home. To avoid discussion, I will not name Austin Peay's opponent in that game. The game was one that was hard fought, and consequently fouls were many. When an opponent was attempting to shoot a foul shot, the audience, which consisted mostly of students of that certain college, was very quiet. What struck me as being very unimportant was the boo that the audience gave one of Austin Peay's players when he attempted to shoot a foul shot which may have won the game, had he not been retarded by the conduct of the audience.

My wish is to show that same team, when they play here, just what sportsmanship is.

It is not to be misled by this article and think that I am trying to alibi for the lost at Austin Peay suffered.

—Joe Spirkakis.

TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

Mary Katherine Sheppard must first learn to drive a car before she can get out to the demonstration school to learn to teach. Since the car has no brakes, she need not worry about learning to use them, but learn how to keep from having to use them. That's a lot of learning for anybody.

Mr. Fite left Clarksville January 6 for Nashville, where he attended several conferences and observed some schools. He spoke on The Classroom Teacher at Work at the Tennessee Public School Officers' Association, and just sat in on the conference of the representatives from several other colleges and the Representative Assembly of Tennessee Education Association.

FRESHMAN READING GUIDE PREPARED

English Dept. and Librarian Co-operate To Issue New Guide.

The English Department, with the assistance of the Librarian, has prepared a new Freshman Reading Guide, the second since 1929, which will be issued during the next few days to members of the freshman English classes. This Guide is offered with the understanding that it will prove helpful in guiding freshmen in their selection of books to satisfy the reading requirements in English 101, 102, 103.

While this booklet may not be necessary for those who are eager, and habitual readers, it is hoped that it will be serviceable in guiding others into more integrated channels of reading and to higher reading levels.

An examination of the organization of the booklet or Guide will reveal a list of books suggested as easy reading material and women, books for habitual readers, integrated reading—poetry, book specialties, books in training, and at the end, complete list of books of travel, fiction, essays, plays, poetry, and fiction available for freshman reading.

Those Precious Legacies

Gian Marocchi

A Tourist In Spite of Himself, is one of the most refreshing and entertainingly interesting travel books I have ever read. The author, a retired man in late middle age with plenty of money, and his wife travel at their own convenience, when they please (or when a retired man in late middle age with plenty of money, and his wife travel at their own convenience, when they please). He writes his opinion of the places he has visited, just as he sees them, without stint. A bit of advice for tourists contained in this book that especially impressed me with its wisdom was that a tourist should, he thinks, always travel armed with a good supply of skepticism. He applied this especially to the old world religions, relics, and more especially to those demonstrated him in Palestine. Full of interesting suggestions on a variety of subjects, from Parisian Restaurants to Roman churches, the whole book is written in so lucid a style that one can travel with the author, and it is filled from cover to cover with a delightfully spicy wit that makes it exhilarating reading.

Hoofbeats of Pegasus

AND AFTER?

I thought,
When I strode along at noon,
That I would be caught
In a flare of light at sunset,
If I walked to the west.
But here
The skies are only
Less gray than elsewhere
Now.

How lonely
It makes me feel
To hear no other shoes than mine
Scuffing the dead leaves in a rut
Under a wagon-wheel
Bunk, weighted with rocks
To dam a pasture gulch against winter rains.
—J. C. Hunt.

INTRODUCTION

Chester G. Price, Jr., comes to Austin Peay Normal from Cross Plains, Tenn., with high honors. Price is a 1936 graduate. Many honors were his during his high school career. He was Valedictorian of his class, receiving a gold medal. He also won the American Legion medal and certificates for the most outstanding student for four years.

Heater has one of the most pleasant faces seen on the campus of A. P. N. He was a little homesick at first, but is much better now.

We're proud to have you, Mr. Price, and wish you a most pleasant year, and years to come.

HARVILL HEADS LEGION COMMITTEE

TO GET STATE LEGION TO ENDORSE EIGHT-POINT SCHOOL PROGRAM.

Dean Harvill was appointed chairman of the Ex-Service Men's Committee of the Tennessee Education Association, December 1, by W. A. Bass, executive secretary of the Tennessee Education Association.

The purpose of this committee is to get the American Legion through the state to endorse the Eight-Point School Program.

The following committee a state-wide committee to get all sections of the state to begin to back the program:

East Tennessee—Charles Koffman, principal, Dobbs-Bennett High School, Kingsport, Tennessee.

Middle Tennessee—N. L. Carney, superintendent Montgomery County school; N. C. Besley, Dean, State Normal College, Murfreesboro, Tennessee; T. L. Passon, head of English Department, T. P. L. Cookeville College; C. E. Lanes, County Agent, Wayne County, and commander of Lawrenceburg Post.

West Tennessee—Richard Turner, head of Biology, U. T. J. R. College, Martin, Tenn. Mr. Turner is former State Commander of the Legion.

This educational committee, all of whom are members of the American Legion, reports that satisfactory progress is being made and that a large number of posts have already adopted this program. This committee is report as being favorable to it.

Resolutions Made At Vesper For The New Year

The following are some of the resolutions, desires, and purposes with which members of Vesper Exercises face the new year:

To make my own money and repay my parents for my college education.

To read at least one chapter in the Bible each day, and never to get angry with anyone.

To read more, and to a greater purpose.

To use better English.

To read deeply and to become a gentler person.

To be able to write better compositions in English.

To be more friendly, especially to lonely people.

To be more thoughtful of others.

To help my parents all I can.

To come in contact with some great people of the world.

To do one thing every day to make some one happy.

To improve my school knowledge by better grades and more scholarship.

To get a better style of writing.

To be more friendly with people.

To be able to see the good and not the bad in everybody.

To learn to sing well.

To be more understanding and understood by those with whom I come in contact daily.

To be a better citizen and break the habit I have of talking about others. To make better grades than I do.

To make a better school.

To make better grades in my classes.

To be more considerate of my friends.

To learn and observe better the rules of etiquette.

To pass all examinations at A. P. N.

To do my best in anything and everything I undertake.

To read the Bible every day.

Normal Boys Lose To Bulldogs; Play Tonight

CUMBERLAND WINS 40-38, IN TWO EXCITING EXTRA PERIODS

Normal Boys Rally Late In Game To Tie Score; Bulldog Substitute Wins Game With Foul Shots.

After overcoming a large lead in the last few minutes of play, the Normal boys' basketball team lost to Cumberland University at Lebanon, in the second extra period 40-38. When the final whistle blew the score stood at 32-31. At the end of the first extra period the score was again tied—30-30, due largely to two field goals made by "Buddy" Murdoch. After Doyle Brannon made a long field goal in the second extra period to tie the score, Haynes, a Cumberland substitute, playing his first game, made in one, two and three shots to win the game for the Bulldogs.

"Loro" Lorentzen and Murdoch were the outstanding players for the Red and White Normal team, scoring 14 and 13 points respectively. Cumberland was high point man for Jordan, making 11 points.

All the boys, dressed in their new red uniforms trimmed with white, made a creditable showing against the four-year college. Pos. Cumberland A. P. N. F.—Smith (14) Lorentzen (10) (13) Murdoch (3)—Barbour (7) (13) Nutt (6)—Vaughn (6) (2) C. Brannon (4) D. Brannon (4) Brannon (4) Suba, A. P. N.—Gallagher. Cumberland—Jordan (11), Foster (2), Robb (2), Hayes (2). Referee—Harry Green.

NORMAL LOSES TO THE Y. M. H. A. PEPS

PEPS RALLY TO OVERCOME NORMAL LEAD; MURDOCK IS HIGH SCORER.

The "Peps" of the Y. M. H. A. of Nashville took the boys of the Red and White into the "Thursday" night, December 17, by the score of 43-32. The "Peps" is considered one of the best teams in Nashville, but had considerable trouble in throwing the kids under the boys from A. P. N.

Normal's team seemed to have the game in hand at about the half. At the beginning of the second half, the "Peps" gradually worked into the lead and stayed in the lead for the rest of the game. The A. P. N. quintet became confident during the second half and seemed unable to get back on defense before the "Peps" would swing into action. Free shots were missed time and again by the Red Retros. Seven out of twenty-five were made.

Murdoch was high score man for the Normal with a total of fourteen points. Lorentzen came close with eleven points.

The starting lineup were: Pos. A. P. N. Peps F.—Lorentzen (c) —Grosman F.—Murdoch —Laportez C.—Nutt —Silverman G.—D. Brannon —Wolfe G.—C. Brannon —Gallagher Substitutes: A. P. N.—Schaller Northington, Sandifer, Gannaway, Spirakis.

Introducing

From Hohenwald hails William Grayford Nutt. Will is nineteen years old, six feet two inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has blonde hair, blue eyes, and a light complexion.

It has already been learned that Mr. Nutt is an athlete of great ability. Previous to his graduation from high school last year he played football two years and basketball four years. Out-

Spirakis, Sandifer Chosen On All Opponent Team of M. T. S. T. C.

Middle Tennessee Teachers College Football Team, champions of Southern Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association for 1935, has chosen Joe Spirakis and Henry Sandifer as members of the 1936 All Opponent squad. Spirakis was chosen as center and Sandifer as half.

This is a distinct honor to the two members of the A. P. N. squad, since Spirakis was chosen over Hinkle of Vanderbilt and Sandifer over good men on Vanderbilt and Western Kentucky teams.

side of athletics and class work he also took part in several other extra-curricular activities. Austin Peay Normal should be benefited by Nutt's presence.

Mr. Nutt has boasted that his interests outside of basketball, are pretty girls and doughnuts.

Introducing

Ernest Mills, the big brunette (now red head), hails from Columbus, Ga. He is 19 years old, six feet tall, and weighs 200 pounds. He attended Central high school, Phenix City, Ala., where he graduated in 1935. He is a football player of renown. He is the biggest man on the Red and White team. He did the chores of a guard for two years at Phenix City. He was selected as guard on the Alabama All-State football team in 1935. He plays end for the Normal. While in high school he was Jake Editor for The Keyhole, the school

The A. P. N. team showed plenty of fight in their game with Cumberland which they lost 28-46.

There is one of the largest squads out for practice in Normal history. Some 30 men are out.

Hubert Edwards, a Clarksville High product and formerly of U. T., has entered school and is showing up well as a forward.

Wilton Wade, a familiar face on the A. P. N. campus for the past two years, has returned to school.

Gallagher seems to be the most improved player on the squad. He is developing fast.

The Brannon boys are living up to their expected form. They are cool, good natured, likeable, good shots, and no matter what goes wrong they do not gripe. If two finer boys are found anywhere, invite them to A. P. N.

The girls suffered a jolt when they lost Leary Sparkman, star guard, when she did not return to school.

Nichols, former Coopertown player, has been out with an injured leg. She should be ready for the first game.

Nashville Business College, the girls' first opponent, has a crack team and they are well known all over the state.

Red Taylor is still tops in the girls' division.

The Hunt Ramblers, a team sponsored by Harvey W. Hunt, former funeral director, will be composed of Normal boys. They will play in the city league.

Lorentzen and Murdoch are still the outstanding stars on the boys' team. They have a habit of walking that they should overcome.

"Loro" was the outstanding floorman on the floor in the C. U. game.

out of his room the other nite. He had probably been callin on some Normal Miss (maybe abnormal, if he called on her). He came in after twelve an Mr. Bond raised the roof.

That Marocchi fellow decided all at once to join the Debate Club. It didn't take him that long to make up a speech, we know for a fact. We reckon Miss Matlock changed his mind.

They got a bunch of athletes up here called Termites. We've seen 'em and we would suggest leaving off the "T" from their nicknames. More appropriate, sec we.

Thet Taylor lass has changed the direction of her affections again. This time it 'pears to be Spirakis. An' we always thought she was such a nice girl. Maybe she's mislead.

The reel sheik of the campus is Barbarosa Jackson. He is strongly attracted by the opposite sex an' he glitters and sparkles for them. He is shure a hum-dinger.

Angeline Hagwood, who graduated in 1934, is teaching at Oak Plains this year.

DEBATE SCHEDULE
BEING ARRANGED

Colleges In Middle and West Tenn. To Be On Schedule.

The Debating Club is now arranging a large schedule of debates with various colleges in Tennessee and Kentucky to take place in February and March, and is working on the subject for debate—doing reading, preparing briefs, and getting ready to write speeches. Many colleges in Middle and Western Tennessee are to be included in the itinerary which has not yet been definitely arranged.

The club has two new members, Gian Marocchi and Freeman Wheatley, bringing the total for the year to nine, which is the largest membership the club has ever had.

JOKES

Artist Wade: That, Jim, is a cow grazing.

Harper (behind Wade's efforts): What is the grass?

Artist: The cow has eaten it. Harper: But where is the cow?

Artist: You don't suppose she's fed enough to stay after she's eaten all the grass, do you?

Dr. Gayden had another big fall. He fell asleep last night.

Saddler: Gee, but that date last night was fresh.

Nichols: Why didn't you slap his face?

Saddler: I did; and take my advice, never slap a guy when he's chewing tobacco.

Bobby: My cow died.

Lowe: What was the matter?

Bobby: Ground glass.

Lowe: How'd she get ground glass?

Bobby: I gave it to her.

Lowe: For what?

Bobby: I gave her ground glass so she would give milk in glass bottles.

Blondell: Did you know Price got married?

Frankie: Yes, I read about the thrilling wedding this morning.

Blondell: What silly thing some people will do to get their names in the papers.

Dean: Now, Lucile, can you give me Napoleon's subject?

Lucile: "Course, I can. Dean: That's right—Corsican.

Lore: Did I bring you a menu?

Norma: If you did, I ate it.

Barbara—Humph! I could give you as good as this, if I had a mind to.

Editor of Star—Sure, but that's exactly what you lack.

Haphazard Happenings

So Little is thinking about taking French again. It doesn't pay to let others translate those little extras added to your letters.

Did you see that Gup-ton boy talking to Mary Carroll? Made out it was about psychology.

So Shaw stayed out rather late the other night. Mr. Bond will have to leave a key in the door for him.

What will Norma do now? Her Thurmond is gone.

Peto, you seemed tickled to see Ploughboy Shop. Do Ned and Lowe know about that?

Who did I see in the Biology room and who is it that they don't want to know about at It? Watch out, Bagwell.

We expect to present at a near date the "Austin Peay Normal Fellows." Sexton sure knows how to swing those feet.

Phy! I heard someone else talking to Miss Greenwell. Can't have that!

Why is it that Brewer always eats at the same table as Hand? Or could it be Winters?

Red Taylor seems to be quite popular around the gym.

Sandifer must have that magnetic personality that draws all these girls to him.

Mike has regained his Susie. So Blondell has lost Browning.

Don't worry, Blondell, you will find the right one soon.

Agnes is in a jam. Will it be Gup-ton, her last year's swain, or her present beau? By the way, she was at the midnight show with—?

McCurdy must have met some one else during Christmas holidays. Spiceland doesn't rate now as he once did.

That Marocchi-Matlock case is a new one. Watch Gian blush when one Sunday night is mentioned.

Holiday Parties

The Yuletide season was well filled with parties given by several A. P. N. S. students. Among these were the tea given by Anna Katherine Wall and Anna Elizabeth Adkins at 412 Adams home on Marion Street Saturday, December 26, from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

Norma Meriwether and Dorothy Noland, a student of Tennessee College for Women, were joint hostesses to an intermission party on Tuesday, December 29, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ted Ross in Glenview. About 50 guests enjoyed the sandwiches and punch served during the intermission hour.

Miss Carrie Cooke entertained for her niece, Lulu Foust, at a formal dinner at the Woman's Club Tuesday, November 29, at 7 o'clock. Favors were presented to each of the guests, after which a delicious plate dinner was served. After the dinner, Miss Foust and her guests attended the Christmas Cotillion dance held at Cumberland Drive from 10 p. m. to 3 a. m.

INTRODUCING

Introducing Margaret Usery, one of those charming, soft-spoken brunettes from the Yellow Creek section of Houston County. She is 8 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 110 pounds.

Margaret is hoping to become a great basketball star and she is also interested in music, horse back riding and—think of it! boys—HOME ECONOMICS! Maybe she can cook and sew. Her hobby is reading and she is so quiet that we know she is storing up a great deal of knowledge for her "teacher" days to come.

Proving she is a very likeable person, Margaret has made many friends on the campus and is taking part in all the school activities.
