

Committee reverses commencement

Austin Peay's Commencement Committee has accepted a recommendation from President Robert O. Riggs to maintain the traditional graduation ceremony, at least for this year.

The announcement followed a Monday afternoon meeting between Riggs and the committee members.

"In view of unanticipated opposition to the new plan, it has been determined that we will go with our original plan until we have time to study the proposed plan," Riggs said.

The committee had adopted a plan designed to shorten the actual ceremony by having undergraduates stand and be recognized by colleagues.

The plan fell under fire from students and parents. When it was announced two weeks ago, a petition drive implemented by Charisse Lowe drew more than 400 signatures opposed to the change.

"It was not the intention of the committee to upset anyone," said Dr. Ron Groeschel, chairman of the Commencement Committee.

"I commend the Commencement Committee for the time spent in developing a graduation program that would honor our graduates in a dignified and appropriate fashion," Riggs said.

"I had no objections to the Commencement Committee and encourage them to reconsider this plan in the fall, at which time we will take necessary steps to gather adequate feedback to reach a decision."

Riggs would the committee and the office of admissions and records will advise students on the new graduation plans.

Ashe attacks Gore

by Mike Lynch
Editor-in-Chief

The calibre of students now entering the college of education at many of the state's universities could have a serious long-range impact on the quality of education in Tennessee's public schools, according to state Sen. Victor Ashe (R-Knox County).

Ashe told an audience at Austin Peay Friday recent statistics show "the brighter students" are going into other areas, leaving education open to "the less-bright students."

Ashe said this problem is occurring at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville and Austin Peay State University.

"Your brighter students aren't going into education, but are going into engineering, medicine, law and other graduate fields," Ashe said.

"I think some sort of fundamental change in terms of making education more attractive for the brightest, young college graduates has to be instituted," he added.

Ashe, 38, said he was disappointed when Gov. Lamar Alexander's Better Schools Program was deferred by the Senate Education Committee earlier this month until next January.

"Hopefully, this additional eight months will be a period in which some of the differences can be resolved."

"I'm not sure all the differences can be resolved. For those who are simply opposed to the concept of merit pay for teachers—and that is really the centerpiece of the program—I'm not sure that can be resolved."

Ashe said he intends to spend the next 11 or 12 months traveling around the state to explore the possibility of running for Howard Baker's U. S. Senate seat in 1984. He said a final decision should come next March or April, leaving seven months for the actual race.

Ashe has already started to lash out at U.S. Representative Albert Gore, Jr., a favorite for the Democratic nomination, for several of his votes in the House of Representatives.

Ashe has called on Gore to explain to Tennesseans why he voted for a $30 billion tax bill and an amendment designed to impose a nuclear freeze on the United States and the Soviet Union.

Ashe said Gore's stand on most issues is generally to liberal for most Tennesseans.

Shain appointed dean of students

Dr. Robert O. Riggs Monday announced the appointment of Dr. Roscoe Shain as permanent dean of students at Austin Peay State University. Shain is a former instructor in the college of business who assumed the dean's position on an interim basis last summer. Riggs selected Shain from a field of more than 100 applicants.

OUT OF LINE—State Sen. Victor Ashe attacked the quality of the state's prospective teachers when he visited Austin Peay April 22. Ashe said he plans to spend the next 11 months exploring the possibility of running for Baker's U.S. Senate seat. He said the policies on Democratic hopeful, Albert Gore, Jr., are out of line with Tennesseans' thinking.

Briefly

Women protected

A women's self-defense program is being offered at Austin Peay to help protect women against the threat of rape. The program is designed to inform women how to avoid such situations, and teach some basic self-defense techniques.

The program is led by Steve Liebach, an Austin Peay security officer. He is assisted by Kim Stevenson and Scott Hechlinger of the Tae Kwon Do Institute.

Sessions are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:30 in the back room of the Red Barn. There is no charge for the program.

Internship established

United States Representative Don Sundquist has established an internship in his Washington office during fall quarter (1983) for an Austin Peay student.

The intern would receive course credit through the political science department and a stipend of $600 per month.

The internship is open to students majoring in any field of study, however, applicants should have an overall GPA of at least 3.0.

For more information and application forms contact David Kanervo in the political science department as soon as possible.

Peay observes law

Criminal Court and Law and Equity Judge John H. Peay will be the guest of the John Jay Pre-Law Society for this year's observance of Law Day.

The society annually recognizes the May 1 observance by enhancing the student and public awareness of various aspects of the legal community.

Peay will speak from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in room 313 of the University Center on Wednesday, May 4. All students, faculty and the general public are invited to attend.

Week ends with symposium

From American literature to the culture of the Americas, Austin Peay State University's Literature of the Americas Symposium program will offer a variety of information on language, literature, history and cultures of our hemisphere.

Set for Friday, April 29 as part of Foreign Language Week at Austin Peay, the symposium will feature papers presented by Austin Peay and visiting professors and students. Special guest speaker for the day is Dr. Herley D. Oberhelman, professor of romance languages at Texas Tech University.

Oberhelman's talk on "William Faulkner and Gabriel Garcia Marquez: Two Nobel Laureates" is the focus of the day-long symposium which explores various literature and sociological perspectives of Garcia Marquez and the Americas. His lecture is sponsored by the Visiting Artists and Speakers Series committee.

Following a 9 a.m. introduction in the University Center, Dr. David K. Till, associate professor of English, and Dr. John Wilhite, professor of languages at the University of Cincinnati, will present their papers for the symposium. Wilhite is a well-known hispanic writer and expert in Colombian culture and literature.

Sharon Felton, an Austin Peay student, and Dr. Margaret McClellan, professor of Spanish at East Texas State University, will complete the morning program at the University Center. McClellan is a well-known writer in Latin American literature.

Oberhelman's lecture is scheduled for 11 a.m. to noon at Century Auditorium in the College of Business Building.

Following lunch, Dr. Steven T. Ryan, Austin Peay assistant professor of English, will open the afternoon paper presentations at the University Center. Also scheduled to make presentations are Dr. Clarence F. Ired, professor of English at Austin Peay, Dr. William J. Barnett, assistant professor of English, Dr. Arthur J. Eaves, APSU assistant professor of English, and Dr. Ellen W. Kanervo, assistant professor of English, who will focus on Garcia Marquez, the journalist.

Assistant professor of history Dr. Hugh Ackerman will discuss the historic implications of Garcia Marquez's novels, while Dr. Ruth E. Kornfield, assistant professor of sociology and social welfare will discuss the sociological perspectives of Garcia Marquez's book, "100 Years of Solitude."

Dr. Richard Gildrie, professor of history, will conclude the afternoon program by discussing possible common cultural inheritances in the Americas.

Plans for the symposium include a Latin American Fiesta April 29 from 6 to 9 p.m. in the University Center. Popular dances from Central and South America, Mexico and Puerto Rico will be performed, and two works of the 20th century Latin American Theater will be presented in Spanish.

Dr. Gloria Gharavi, assistant professor of music, will present a musical program, with students from music education classes at Austin Peay teaching the audience Spanish songs.

For more information about Foreign Language Week or the Literature of the Americas Symposium, contact Dr. Ramon Magrana, 648-7891.

Evans Woman of Year

Members of Austin Peay State University's national women's sororities chose a Nashville woman as Panhellenic Greek Woman of the Year.

Patricia Evans was chosen for the honor on the basis of her campus and community activities as being those traits Greek women should aspire to attain.

A member of Kappa Delta sorority, Evans is a senior at the university majoring in elementary education. She received a plaque for the honor at the annual Panhellenic Banquet April 17.

Greek scholarship was recognized at the same banquet, with the women of Chi Omega sorority claiming the Panhellenic Scholarship Award. The honor is presented annually to the sorority whose members attain the highest combined grade point average for three quarters.

In selecting Evans for the Greek Woman of the Year award, Panhellenic members noted her participation in volleyball, basketball and water basketball intramurals, Student National Education Association, Sigma Chi Little Sisters, Red Cross Blood Drive and Heart Fund Day.

A member of the 1961 football homecoming court at Austin Peay, Evans was chosen as Outstanding Young Woman of America this year and has been nominated for the National Dean's List.

She served on the University Student Activities Board for two years and has been on the APSU Dean's List for all quarters at the university since fall 1961.

Registration for Summer May 5-6

Six schedules of instruction will be offered to those attending classes at Austin Peay State University this summer.

Advanced registration for the summer term is May 5 and 6, according to Dr. James R. Schellhammer, dean of admissions and records. Final registration will be June 14 with classes to begin June 15 for three of the six schedules.

Eight-week, 10-week and the first session of triple-accelerated courses begin that day with the eight-week term to end August 5, the 10-week term ending August 25 and the triple-accelerated courses ending July 8.

Graduation may affect area economy

This is an open letter of protest against the arbitrary dismissal of the standing Austin Peay State University tradition of each graduate receiving his/her diploma as an individual. Eliminating this much-anticipated tradition affects not only the individual graduate but the overall atmosphere of the university and the economic welfare of our community.

For the past four years this student has been treated as an individual and not just a number at APSU. The APSU faculty, administrators, and administrative assistants have gone out of their way to assist me in obtaining my diploma.

These dedicated, underpaid, and overworked individuals do this for each and every student almost without exception. This attitude of individualism is an inherent quality of the APSU campus. This leaning toward the student as an individual is one of the major reasons for my choosing to attend APSU.

Larger and, yes, even some smaller universities, are lacking this quality. So, I, as an individual, protest having to be considered as part of a mass to rise and fall in unison for a mere moment in time and as a result go unrecognized for my individual efforts at the very moment of achieving my hard-won goal.

The community economic welfare will be affected because I, for one, will advise my family and friends to remain at home in lieu of traveling hundreds of miles just to try to catch a glimpse of me in a sea of faces. My family and friends will also be absenting themselves from our area's hotels, motels, restaurants, and various and sundry businesses.

A fellow graduate with whom I spoke will not ask his four friends and their families who live in the four corners of these United States to attend his graduation ceremony unless he receives his diploma as an individual. We are but two, but our lives touch many others whose monies would help bolster our community's economy.

As I have perceived it, the over-riding attitude of the remainder of our fellow graduates is similar to ours. The overall atmosphere of APSU has been one of welcoming debate on important issues. We, as graduates, were sent an inquiry as to whether we were going to attend the graduation ceremonies or not. We, as individuals, were free to choose whether to march down the aisle to receive our diplomas individually or to receive our diplomas through the United States Postal Service.

Those of us who chose to march looked forward to proudly receiving our diplomas in the presence of our families and friends who staunchly supported us, who deprived themselves of the material things of life to aid us financially, and who learned to fend for themselves so we could pursue our educational goals. Their individual efforts were to be recognized by that singular and individual march down the aisle, too.

But individual recognition for all concerned has been indiscriminately dismissed without debate. We are informed that to march down the aisle to receive our diplomas as individuals would be "small high school"ish, that to do so would be "typical," and to do so would give us and our families "more travel home time."

This student says that the individual march is a mark of distinction for our university. The march down the aisle for our diplomas from APSU connotes that our university stresses individualism to the pinnacle.

APSU welcomed us as individuals upon our entry, treated us as individuals during our stay, and should shake our individual hands as we depart.

Our families and friends will make up the base of the graduation audience; they have waited four years to see us march down the aisle to receive our diplomas, and they will patiently wait a couple of hours more to see us receive it.

Most of them plan to spend the weekend visiting us and our community because graduation day is on a Friday and therefore will need not rush back to their homes as they can attend work the next day.

For those families and friends with graduates returning home with them, the weekend will just have begun so the time element is not essential in this area either. All of this would have been said—but there was no debate.

We, as individuals, were informed that we had to undergo a COMP examination in order that we might graduate even though the exam would not affect our grade point averages.

We sat through that three-hour exam knowing that for each individual who participated in our university would be the richer for it, both literally and figuratively.

We, as individuals, invite our university to reciprocate by sitting through a traditional APSU graduation ceremony of approximately the same time duration. The graduates, APSU and our community will be the richer for it, both literally and figuratively.

Changes for your own good

Dear Editor:

As members of the Commencement Committee, we have appreciated receiving both pro and con responses to the 1983 Commencement Day schedule of activities.

We sincerely regret that we did not have confirmation on all of the plans until last week and therefore could not publicize the day's events earlier.

We also want all students to know that our recommendations are intended to make commencement day far more personal than under the earlier, more impersonal system when candidates seemed to be herded across the stage in successive numbers.

This is the reason for scheduling individual college plans during the morning when opportunities for personal contact can occur between candidates, their families, faculty and administrators.

The goal of the committee has been to do our best for the students on this very important day in their lives. We hope that all candidates and their families will objectively consider the merits of the changes and decide to participate in all of the planned activities, accepting the honors due them from the entire university.

New gift for Graduates: Old bridges

Just when we thought greed, capitalism, self-satisfaction and pure bureaucratic hogwash had taken over the world, the Tennessee Department of Transportation has come along to prove you can still get something for nothing.

The something in this case is bridges. It seems the state is strapped with a number of aged, hazardous bridges which they no longer have any use for.

Considering the state's multi-megabuck budget

I don't know what they would consider to be a good use for an aged, hazardous bridge, but it has got to be worth looking in to.

Personally, I think they would make wonderful gifts. Can you imagine the look on your Uncle Harold's face when he wakes up on Christmas morning to find a 12-ton structure which once spanned McAdoo Creek in his front yard?

If that doesn't get you in the old buzzard's will, I don't know what will. Of course Aunt Sarah will fuss about having to dust it, but that's to be expected.

My only objection to this bridge giveaway is the state seems to be forgetting a few old debts. Remember Governor Lamar's 5 percent budget impoundment? I think it's time to pay-up.

A new bridge (aged and hazardous though it may be) would make a wonderful addition to the campus, don't you think?

If we can't get a bridge, the state's also offering $2 million to the first county to establish a hazardous waste dump. I don't see why a college campus can't get in on that.

A hazardous waste dump would fit in beautifully with Clarksville's skyline and some of the used car dealerships on the boulevard.

All it would take would a couple of little leaks and Austin Peay could get back in the headlines, just like the days of Fly Williams and the NCAA tournament.

I wonder how much the Environmental Protection Agency would but Clarksville for?

This week the Feeble Folly goes to that great entrepreneur of the outdoors, James Watt. I don't know Watt, and I hope I never will. Any egg who hopes to survive in Washington with his policies and statements has got to be scrambled.

deficit, we'd expect the state to put these spans-which are said to come in all shapes and sizes-on the auction block, but no!

Th DOT, out of the sheer goodness of its little ole heart, is actually offering to GIVE these bridges away with no strings attached. Can you believe it? I know I couldn't at first.

The DOT says it will give a bridge, or part of a bridge, to any person or organization who will put it to good use. It's kind of like those ads you see, "Free puppy to good home. Great with children."

Student's atmosphere Front-ed

The recent weather has been prompting a lot of questions. Some think that solar sunspots are the cause for the "unseasonable season." I, on the other hand, have discovered the real factor.

It may bewilder some people but here at Austin Peay State University there is a Director of Student Weather!

No Homework

By "Manhattan John"

That's right, there is an administrative post which controls the weather. Hard to believe? Just think about it. I recently was talking to the Director of Student Weather, Wendall C. Front. (I think the middle initial "C" stands for Cold!)

John: "What is actually the job of Director of Student Weather?"

Front: "Our job is to effectively control the atmosphere in which the student lives in."

John: "You mean the biosphere when you say atmosphere?"

Front: "That's right. The school needs someone to be in charge of the weather. It only seems right, since everything else is controlled somehow by the administration."

John: "Well, what is the weather going to be like tomorrow?"

Front: "Ha, ha, ha! You know we are not allowed to give out information like that."

John: "I just wanted to know why is the weather as bad as it is? In case you haven't noticed, the weather stinks!"

Front: "I realize that is hasn't been wonderful."

John: "Wonderful? It is the worst I've seen. Man, look at a calendar-it's April!"

Front: "I have been getting a lot of mandates from the 'big guys' down the hall. The construction of the new courtyard by the Memorial Health pool is not complete yet. If we let the weather be nice, then everyone would want to use the new site. Since it is not done, we have no choice but to keep the weather like it is."

John: "You have got to be kidding. This is crazy."

Front: "Not really. The administration has always worked like that."

John: "I guess you are right. Well, what about the poor baseball and golf team? What about the tennis team?"

Front: "Certain trade-offs have to be made. Besides, the school usually puts more emphasis on the football and basketball games. It is just the way it is."

John: "Well, I don't think it is fair. What other things do you worry about?"

Front: "We try to make the weather bad around exam times and weekends. This way students are forced to study, instead of basking in the sun for hours. Also, if a high-ranking administrator has a cook-out or something, then this becomes priority and we make the weather sunny and warm."

John: "That is amazing. Hey, what about the Special Olympics time trials. It rained!"

Front: "That was a mistake. I was on vacation in the Bahamas. I forgot to set the weather computer."

John: "A weather computer? That is wild. Where is it?"

Front: "Ha, ha. There you go again. You know that is a secret. If someone found out then someone could change the weather without our knowledge."

John: "One more question. What kind of weather are you going to have for graduation?"

Front: "That all depends on the commencement committee. If they order fair weather, then that is what they will get. Like I say, it's up to them."

John: "Wait a minute. They are not going to ask the students how they feel? They should let the graduating seniors decide."

Front: "Hmmm. That is not usually what we do. I guess we should. But, I thought the students were apathetic."

John: "You have a lot to learn about the students."

Alpha Tau Omega

Alpha Tau Omega will be having a cookout for the Tree House Day Care Center Wednesday the 27th at 11:30 a.m. We will also be having a car wash this Friday 12:00-5:00, if the weather is inclement it will be held Saturday at 12:00-5:00.

The Taus of the Eta Tau Chapter had an excellent time on the Sausage Trip. We invited ATOs from surrounding chapters and welcomed the Brothers and Pledges from Southern Illinois University, who came down during their walkout.

Gamma Sigma Sigma

Gamma Sigma Sigma National Service Sorority founded in October of 1963, has been chartered by the National Board of Directors, and named Zeta Epsilon chapter. This past weekend the members of GSS were formally inducted Zeta Epsilon at the Heritage Regionals in Bowling Green, Ky.

We the members of Gamma Sigma Sigma have fought a long hard battle to gain our chapter. And we will strive to do our best to maintain the motto "Service and Unity." We would also like to wish our six pledges Good Luck during their pledge period, being the first to pledge under our new chapter, Zeta Epsilon.

Pi Kappa Alpha

The brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha held their annual Annual Week Extravaganza raising over $500 for the Clarksville Humane Society. This event was a huge success with the people that participated having loads of fun. We would also like to thank all the sororities that helped in the needy animals of Clarksville!!

This weekend we had our ninth annual beer softball game with six other Pike chapters from other schools taking part. It was a huge success.

Three of our brothers, Harry Turpley, Brad Van Kirk, and Steve Harmon, who are on the golf team, made all-state, giving Austin Peay and the state of Tennessee another example why we are the best. We would also like to thank our National Consultant Guy Tinder for taking time out of his busy schedule to come and visit with us.

Alpha Phi Alpha

The Brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha would appreciate your participation in our week. Alpha week is May 1-7, and our theme is "The Road to Better Things."

Some of the activities are: Stepshow and Dance, Wine & Cheese Affair, Awareness Day, 50s Night & Casino, Skating Party, Night at the Movies, Softball Tournament & Cookout.

We look forward to having you there.

Come and ride with us on the ALPHA train.

Kappa Delta

Congratulations to Patty Evans for getting Greek Woman of the Year. Also congratulations to Chi Omega for the scholarship award.

We are looking forward to Greek Follies and urge all Greeks to participate. Thanks to all those who supported us in Derby and in Pike Animal Week. Good Luck to the KD softball team. KD is number 1.

Chi Omega

During the past week we have had a lot of fun helping out with the Pi Kappa Alpha Animal week and we had a car wash to raise money to contribute to the Animal Shelter Fund.

Our congratulations to the Little Sigma Pledges that were pinned for pledgeship this past week, good luck, and get to know those brothers, they are a great bunch of guys! We would also like to wish the best of luck to the Chi Pledge class of Sigma Chi, good luck with everything you do, and initiation!

Sigma Chi will be celebrating its tenth anniversary here at the end of this month which also entails the White Rose Formal Ball weekend. Have a BLAST!

Sigma Chi

Congratulations, Chi pledge class on your initiation into Sigma Chi. Eta Xi has eight new brothers, bringing our total to 51 active. We also have 13 new little Sigma pledges this quarter.

This week is filled with events. Tomorrow is our chapter's tenth anniversary. Friday night kicks off our white rose weekend with a luncheon. Saturday morning is our annual golf tournament followed by our white rose spring formal that night. On Sunday, we have scheduled a picnic and softball game.

Coming up: Miller high life-Sigma Chi canoe regatta; Sunday May 15th, with proceeds going to the Rodney Long Scholarship Fund.

Alpha Delta Pi

The Alpha Delta Pi officers are as follows:

AP Playhouse to present J.B.

The Austin Peay Playhouse will present its season finale, Archibald MacLeish's J.B., May 18-21.

Dr. Tom Pallen is directing the Pulitzer Prize winning parody of the Book of Job and he makes it clear viewing J.B. will not be an ordinary evening at the theatre.

The basic plot of J.B. revolves around a traveling carnival, and two vendors who decide they can do a better version of the play.

"The play has a lot to do with the nature of theatre itself, and MacLeish is making several statements about that nature," Pallen said.

He said the God presented in J.B. is the Old Testament God, and is very similar to the Hebrew belief.

"The Old Testament God is closer to the Greek mythological concept than the popular concept of today's Christianity," Pallen said.

"MacLeish takes us beyond the God-to-man relationship expressed in Job," he added.

Mark Hannicut is cast as the title character. Rod Hagwood and Keith Wilson play the actors-turned-vendors, Zena and Nickles. Brenda McGee is cast as Sarah, J.B.'s wife.

Other cast members, who will play several roles each, include: Allan Daniels, Jeff Hall, Angela Love, LaEllyn Boyer and Lela Holt.

Lori Petty is assistant director for the production. Jane Carpenter will serve as stage manager while Tom Griffin is in charge of lighting.

Musicians present comedy

When the APSU Opera Theatre presents Gianni Schicchi (Johnny Shae-lee), a one-act comedy by Puccini on May 12, 13, and 14, the curtain will rise for three performances by many talented and experienced music students.

One such student is 28-year-old voice major Barney Crockarell who plays the title role. Crockarell will add Schicchi to an already impressive list of opera roles and musical performances.

Crockarell performed as soloist for a 1976 Presidential Dinner for International Correspondence during the Ford Administration. He has sung several times with the Nashville Symphony and the Philadelphia Opera Chorus. For 3 years he was a singer and dancer at Opryland U.S.A.

He will spend this summer singing with the Des Moines Metro Opera as one of the company's leading tenors. Currently, he studies under Dr. Sharon Mabry. Crockarell has also studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York, George Peabody College in Nashville, and Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro.

Other cast members include Craig Dillingham, junior voice major, who is presently working at Opryland; junior voice major, Hallie Coppedge, and sophomore voice major Kenneth Lee, both of whom will be performing this summer at Silver Dollar City, Missouri in a musical written by APSU music professor Dr. George Mabry; and April Thornal, senior voice major who has appeared in several APSU opera productions.

Graduate students Susan Plummer and Randy McGee are also members of the cast and veterans of the APSU Opera Theatre. Both teach voice lessons privately in the Clarksville area. McGee also teaches music at Burt School.

Additional cast members are voice majors Mary Wyatt, John Manire, Neil Brock, and Melody Mathis; trombone major Richard Daniel; guitar major Danny Chartrand; trumpet major Allen Miller; and Ellis Adames, who majors in speech, communication and theatre.

Society inducts 36

The Austin Peay State University chapter of the National Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi will hold its annual initiation ceremony and banquet May 2.

Professor Edward Irwin of the department of language and literature is president of the local chapter and will preside on the occasion. Professor Albert Bekus, who was instrumental in installing the chapter in 1976 and served as its first president, and Vice President Pamela Ragan, an Austin Peay senior, will assist in the induction ceremony.

Three Austin Peay graduates are among the 36 inductees. Attorney Phyllis Anne Dozier will be the featured speaker for the occasion. Judge Don Catalano and Fred Jenkins will also be inducted.

Dr. Malcolm Muir of the Austin Peay history department will be inducted along with graduate students Mary Kewley and Carol Muir.

Thirty undergraduates comprise the other inductees. The 11 juniors with composite grade point averages of 3.65 or better include: Marilyn Parley, Melissa Felts, Linda Cole Fox, Virginia Lee Gibbs, Jean L. Grimes, Peter Lupinek, Rebecca Dozier McCormick, Milbry Vaughn Rorie, Mary Stewart, Christopher Tate and Donna Woodall.

Nineteen seniors with GPAs of 3.65 or better are being inducted. They are: David Andrews, James H.

Brown III, Shirley Burgess, James Dunning, Teresa Ebling, Todd Fowler, Sheila Garrison, Roger Hagle, Sheila Long, Walter Marczak, Sara Larkins McHyde, Nancy McCoy, Sandra Lee Neal, Mark Rawls, Rhonda Scheringer, Nancy Small, Kimberly Baggett Taylor, Gretchen Vandervort and Lorraine Bartman Wolf.

For the first time, the local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi is awarding grants of $75.00 each to three junior inductees chosen by a vote of the members. The names of the recipients will be announced as part of the May 2 festivities.

FLAGS constitution accepted

The Student Government Association last Thursday accepted the constitution for a new campus organization. Dr. Ramon Magrana is the faculty sponsor for FLAGS, a group formed by students who are interested in languages and cultures.

The group's first activity was a slide presentation on China by Hugh Ackerman of the history department. They also took part in a discussion on Nicaragua led by Dr. Richard Gildrie, Dr. Vernon Warren and Magrana.

FLAGS' members are in the process of creating study groups to help students with problems in language classes. The group plans to show foreign movies, host guest speakers and conduct field trips as future activities.

Any student interested in joining FLAGS should contact Celine Zemets at 647-5275.

APSU hosts OVC tennis tourney

by Steve Harmon
Sports Editor

Title contender—Leading the Governors into this weekend's Ohio Valley Conference tennis tournament will be No. 1 singles player Carlos Claverie. The Caracas, Venezuela sophomore is regarded as the top contender to knock off top-seeded Mats Ljungman of Murray State for the league crown.

Murray State University is the favorite to capture a record-tying fourth consecutive Ohio Valley Conference tennis title this weekend as Austin Peay plays host to the 35th annual league championship.

Play begins Friday at 8:30 a.m. on the Dunn Center courts.

Coach Bennie Purchell's Racers upset APSU in each of the two previous campaigns after the Governors had breezed through the OVC seeding matches with an undefeated record.

However this year, the burden of favorite rests squarely on the Racers' shoulder. Murray sped through the league matches unscathed at 7-0, including a 7-2 drubbing handed the Gove Friday at Murray, Ky.

"Murray is definitely the class of the tournament," said Billy Henry, APSU head coach.

"They beat Kentucky 5-1 in singles after UK had beaten us 5-1. That shows how strong they are."

The Governors enter the tournament 4-2 in OVC matches and 6-9 overall.

Sluggin Swede Mats Ljungman heads a Murray State honor roll that grades out in a class by itself.

Ljungman owns an undefeated conference mark and boasts a 28-9 overall mark to earn the top seed at the O.V. 1 singles.

"He's the odds-on favorite to win the whole thing," predicted Henry.

Peay's Carlos Claverie is regarded as a top contender with a 13-7 record.

The Governors best chance for a conference title may be with Hartmut Junghahn.

Junghahn, who like Claverie is a native of Caracas, Venezuela, is undefeated in league play and 15-5 overall at No. 2 singles.

But the Governors must perform consistently this weekend if they are to offset Murray's team depth, according to Henry.

"We'll have to have some season-best performances from our players to have a shot at the title," Henry said.

"We'll need solid performances from everybody right down the line. Hopefully with the help of the student body, they'll be able to excite our guys."

Other singles players for APSU include: No. 3, Robert Boag; No. 4, Fred Hall; No. 5, Kurt Angeli; and No. 6, Myles Van Urk.

Austin Peay's only OVC tennis championship was in 1974.

However, five of the past 10 singles champions have worn the Governor Red and White.

Noel Phillips (1973 and '74), Gary Boes (76 and '77) and Hal Jolley (81) are former Gove who have won OVC Player of the Year honors.

The 1983 race may be a four-team struggle for second place, Henry said.

"It's a toss up between two or three teams for second place," Henry said. Middle Tennessee, Eastern Kentucky and Morehead State will battle Austin Peay to stay close to Murray State, according to Henry.

Youngstown State, Akron and Tennessee Tech are longshots, Henry said.

"Of course, you can't ever tell in a tournament. That's why you have it."

Scruggs dashes for first

by Michael L. Tharpe
Staff Reporter

Sophomore Roland Scruggs placed first in the 400 meter dash and ran a leg on the winning 400 meter relay team to pace the Gove in the 10-team Murray Twilight meet held Saturday at Roy Stewart Stadium in Murray, Ky.

Men's Track

Scruggs and the 400 meter relay team was the only two first place finishes for the Gove in the meet. Scruggs clocked in a 46.63 second time in the 400 meter dash for a first place finish. According to track coach Mike Howard, Scruggs beat out some top-notch runners to win the quarter-mile run.

The 400 meter relay team consisting of Prentice McGlory, William McElroy, Mike Henderson and Scruggs finished first with a time of 40.56 seconds. The team has by far been Coach Howard's most consistent relay team this season.

Ron Springer, Mike Henderson, Randall

Fayne, and Scruggs combined together for a second place finish in the mile-relay. The team completed the run in 3 minutes 14.25 seconds.

Prentice McGlory finished third in the 100 meter dash, good enough for a fifth place finish to sum up the placing for the Gove in the meet.

Coach Howard continued to praise the Gov trackster after another improving performance. "Our guys are beginning to turn it on down the stretch. We seem to be improving with every meet," Howard stated. "If we continued to improve, I really feel we'll do well in the upcoming OVC meet," added Howard.

The Gove has one more meet this weekend before they travel to Middle Tennessee State for the OVC meet to be held on May 67. The Gove along with the Lady tracksters who had the weekend off after the MTSU Outdoor Classic because of the rain will travel to Vanderbilt Saturday for the TIAC Classic. The TIAC meet will consist of only Tennessee schools.

Lady Gov netters stun MTSU

by Steve Harmon
Sports Editor

Austin Peay's women's tennis team stunned Middle Tennessee with a 5-4 upset Thursday, April 21 on the Dunn Center courts.

MTSU had shut out the Lady Govs 9-0 March 8 at Murfreesboro in Peay's spring opener.

The victory improved the Lady Govs season record to 6-7 following a 5-1 win against Tennessee Tech last Wednesday in Clarksville.

With the match knotted at 4-4, the outcome rested on the lengthy battle at No. 3 doubles between Cynthia McGuffee and Miriam Brown of Austin Peay and Linda Long and Susan Smith of Middle Tennessee.

Long-Smith won the first set 6-4, but McGuffee-Brown sent the match into three sets with a 7-5 victory in the second set.

The APSU duo took a 4-

1 games lead before MTSU recovered to gain a 5-4 advantage.

The lead continued to sear as McGuffee-Brown surged ahead 6-5 only to have Long-Smith pull even at 6-6, forcing a tiebreaker.

APSU jumped out in front 4-1, only to have the MTSU team come back for a 7-6 advantage, before McGuffee-Brown finally won 9-7.

The victory capped a 4 hours and 15 minutes struggle against the Lady Raiders, who are regarded as a conference favorite in Friday's Ohio Valley tournament at Murfreesboro, along with Morehead State.

"It should boost our confidence," said APSU Coach Cheryl Holt of the MTSU win.

"We were trying to be practical about it. I didn't think any of us thought we could win.

"We just told them to go out and do the best they could," said Holt of her assistant coach Debbie Southern's pragmatic talk. "We thought maybe we could win three or four matches."

Besides the McGuffee-Brown victory at No. 3 doubles, APSU got wins from McGuffee, Sandy Cross and Brown in singles play and T.J. Kleynhans-Cross at No. 1 doubles.

"I'm very proud of them. And the girls should be proud of themselves," Holt praised. "There's been a vast amount of improvement on the team."

Pairings for the OVC tournament April 29-30 on the Lady Raider courts were undetermined at press time.

TAKE THAT—Austin Peay's Miriam Brown returns a MTSU shot. Brown teaming with Cynthia McGuffee in doubles play shut out MTSU with three sets of 7-6.

APSU golfers stumble prior to OVC tournament

After winning the state intercollegiate April 15-16 at Seawane, Tenn., the Austin Peay golf team has been marked by opposing schools recently.

In matches last week, the Govs lost to the University of Tennessee at Martin twice and Middle Tennessee. APSU had defeated both schools at Seawane.

UT-Martin won a three-team match April 19 at the Weakley County Country Club in Sharon, Tenn. The Pacers' 299 team score bested the 314 of APSU and Bethel's 325 score. Steve Harmon was low for the Govs with a 77.

The following day, UT-Martin fired a 306 to edge Union (308), Austin Peay (311) and Bethel (335) at Fort Campbell's Cole Park Golf Club.

Pat Nannay of UT-Martin won the medal with a two-under-par 70. Brad Van Kirk posted a 74 to lead the Govs.

Middle Tennessee won a four-team match April 22 at Naashboro Village Golf Club in Nashville with a 300 team score on the demanding 6,784-yard, par 72 layout.

Tennessee Tech finished second at 306. APSU shot 311 to place third and Aquinas Junior College placed fourth at 348.

Harry Turley shot 75 to lead the Govs.

Austin Peay was scheduled to compete in the Ohio Valley Conference tournament Monday and Tuesday at the London Country Club in London, Ky. Eastern Tennessee hosted the 30th annual event.

Defending champion Eastern Kentucky was the favorite for the team title while the Colonel's Pat Stephens returned to defend his individual medal.

Red-White game caps spring football

by Steve Harmon

Sports Editor
Spring football practice will culminate with the annual Red-White scrimmage Tuesday, May 3 at Municipal Stadium. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. A $1 admission fee will be charged to everyone, including APSU students, according to Jan Pylant, athletic department administrative assistant.

Proceeds from the game go to the Rodney Long Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Long was a member of the 1981 Governor football team slain in a bizarre kidnapping incident.
"It will go to a person who best exemplifies what Rodney Long was on and off the field," Pylant said.

"I don't think most students will mind paying $1 since it's going to a memorial fund," explained Johnny Miller, APSU athletic director.

The Rodney Long Memorial Fund is unique in that the fund itself will continue to grow, not deplete as is the problem with other memorial funds, according to Miller.

"The only money the recipient receives is the amount of interest accumulated from the fund, the principle won't be touched," Miller said.

"Hopefully, within a few years the fund will be about $10-15,000 and the scholarship will be a pretty good sum."

Baseball squad slumps

by Michael L. Therpe
Staff Reporter

The Austin Peay baseball squad continued its seasonal slump with losses to David Lipscomb and Murray State last week at the Governor Park.

The Goves opened up the week, Monday dropping a 11-2 battle to David Lipscomb. The Bisons of Lipscomb jumped on the Gove early scoring most of their runs in the first few innings. Freshman Larry Miller now 2-3 on the season was the losing pitcher, as the Gove record fell to a mere 5-22 on the season.

Thursday the Gove dropped a pair of games to the Murray State Racers by scores of 6-2 and 7-2.

In the first game Murray State scored three runs in the first inning and four in the sixth to assure the Racers to win. Freshman Chipper Reed went 3-3 in the game, scoring both of the Gove's runs. Centerfielder Robert McCutcheon also had a good game going 2-3 at the plate. Michael "Mr" Therpe was the Gove's losing pitcher, as his record fell to 4-5 on the season.

In the second game of the twin bill, Austin Peay went ning innings before falling to the Racers 7-2.

The Gove took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but the Racers tied the game and went ahead 2-1 in the top of the eighth inning. The Gove refused to bend as third baseman Jaye Parker led the inning off with a walk. After a strike-out, Darrell Crawford sacrifice bunted Parker to second setting the stage for Robert McCutcheon's run-scoring double to tie the game at 2 apiece. The Gove failed to score again in the inning sending the game into the ninth inning.

Things fell apart for the Gove in the top of the ninth as Murray rallied for five runs on three walks, a double by Gary Blaine and a homerun by Lee Hutton to regain the lead 7-2.

The Gove never threatened in the bottom half of the inning as their record fell to 9-24. Tommy Walsh now 2-3, suffered the loss on the mound.

Senior Captain Justice Higgins expressed his feeling on the season as just disappointing. "It's been a disappointing season but it's not over so we've got to keep our heads up and continue the season the best we can," Higgins stated.

The Gove only have 8 games remaining this season as they take on UT-Martin and Vanderbilt later this week.

Goves announce second signee

Austin Peay State University has announced the signing of Duane Johnson to an Ohio Valley Conference basketball grant-in-aid.

Johnson joins Jimmy McGill, a 6-foot-8½ frontliner from Knoxville Central High School, as the Governors second signee of the recruiting season.

Johnson is a 6-foot-4, 200-pound forward from Cannonsburg, Pa. As a senior at Canon-McMillan High School, he scored 22.1 points and grabbed 10 rebounds per game in being named Most Valuable Player of Washington County and a member of the West Pennsylvania All-Stars.

Originally recruited by the Governor football offices as an offensive end, Johnson picked APSU over Texas A&M. "Everybody thought he was going to play football," said Governor assistant coach Lee Hood. "He runs a 46.40 (yards) in peds. He's just a great athlete."

Johnson will be a small forward at APSU, according to Bargaritz.
