'Some Like It Hot'

Food Service Polled

By JAMES OSHALOVE

The result of a random opinion poll conducted in the cafeteria and the snack bar showed that student reaction ranged from strong disapproval to high regard.

Concerning the cafeteria, Richard Lewis, a senior psychology major, rated the quality of the food as good; however, he suggested the transferability of the meal ticket.

Another student who chose to remain anonymous said, "I don't like lunch. They only give you a hot dog and chips. I prefer breakfast and dinner. He praised the quality of the food and the financial advantages of purchasing a meal ticket.

Oscar Tyson, a business administration major said, "There's too much recycling of food and no seasoning." He also advocated a transferable meal ticket, and he rated the quality of the food as poor.

Junior Dave Mason said that there was too much macaroni and cheese in the lunches. He rated the lunches as poor.

On the other side of the pancake, John Hunt, sophomore had no complaints and cited the improvements in this year's overall service as compared to last year's problems.

Saga Food Service Director Paul Knight responded to these complaints and said that he needed the cooperation of the students.

He said that he has purchased three heating lamps because the temperature of the food had been a major complaint.

According to Knight, the purchasing of equipment (a new dish washer) and renovation of the cafeteria totaled approximately $16,000. He also said that an ice dispenser which has been ordered will cost $4,400.

Knight sent out a questionnaire this year and said that staff service was up 10.8 percent over fall quarter of 1977. Sanitation was up 9.5 percent, and food variety, 18.3 percent, but dining atmosphere was rated 1.8 percent lower.

Despite the use of the heating lamps, students are still complaining about the temperature of the food.

Mike Betta, who eats at the athletic training table in a partitioned section of the cafeteria, said, "They only rob Peter to pay Paul."

Betta criticized the variety of the food and said that the overall improvement in the cafeteria should reflect the price of the meal ticket. His cost approximately $4.00.

Waddell Whitehead, a senior health and physical education major, complained of recycled food and no seasoning.

Brett Williams described the food service as terrible, but he did say that the food quality was improving.

The separation of athletes and the other students is causing animosity between the two factions.

Several students on the public side of the cafeteria said that they thought they had been eating the athletes' recycled food.

However athletes said that they were not getting their money's worth relative to the higher cost of their meat tickets.

Next week the snack bar.

Placement Office Gets Microfiche

For college students, fishing for a job can be an awfully tedious, time-consuming chore without the aid of the placement office.

Fred Landis, director of the office of placement, stated that he just wanted to seek information on the "setup at the employment office." During his "scouting around" he found that he was not being used.

Combining the resources of the Tennessee Employment Security office and the Alumni Office, Landis set in motion the plans for this job-seeking tool to be used by APSU students. A contract has been signed and, the microfiche reader has been in use for approximately two weeks at no charge to Austin Peay students.

The contract states that the Tennessee State Employment Service agrees to provide the placement office with a copy of the job bank book daily of all available job openings in the middle Tennessee area. The job bank book, which is the microfiche, is always one day late with APSU receiving it on the next working day from the employment office.

Landis states that even though students can come to the placement office to use the reader, they must go to the employment office to apply for the job they select. The difficulty previously was in being able to use a microfiche reader at the downtown office due to heavy demand for the machines. "Some students said they've had to wait for hours," stated Landis as he explained why this new service would be of

Abzug To Speak Monday

Bella Abzug, former congresswoman and champion of human rights and causes, will speak in the Winfield Dunn Center Monday, April 17 at 8 p.m. to kick off the Austin Peay celebration of Women's Week activities.

Listed among the 25 most influential women in the United States and among the top 20 of the world's most influential women, according to Gallop polls, Abzug has been instrumental in bringing several key pieces of legislation into law. The Equal Credit Opportunity Act and "Government in Sunshine" law are two that she authored among others.

Abzug, registered as a democrat-liberal, remains an outspoken opponent of the SST, an advocate of Federal aid to urban, rural and suburban mass transit, job bills, along with her affiliation with several women's organizations.

Abzug's hate, have been auctioned at various prices going as high as $531.85 according to the Majority Report.

Abzug received her B.A. degree from Hunter College after attending Bronx public schools. She then earned her law degree from Columbia University and has been a practicing attorney for 25 years. In 1975, Hunter College awarded her an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Abzug gave up her House seat in 1976 to run in the Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate from New York where she was defeated by a margin of less than one percent of the vote. She had served six years in Congress.

The former congresswoman is a founder and former chairwoman of the National Women's Political Caucus. Abzug also served on the National Commission for the Observance of the International Women's Year which held its national conference in Houston, Texas during November.

Married to Martin Abzug since 1944, she has two daughters and resides in New York City.

There will be no admission charge to this event.

value to APSU students.

Listed on the microfiche are both professional and non-professional jobs within the middle Tennessee area. However, once a month, a listing is put out on many jobs nationwide which APSU will also receive.

In addition to this service, the APSU placement office has had 70 companies conduct interviews on campus with graduating seniors. Statistics indicate that approximately 70 percent of the seniors have registered with the office resulting in over 1,000 interviews conducted in this school year.

Landiss reports that he is pleased with this progress but adds he would like to see 100 percent of the seniors registered and using these services of the placement office.

replace the job book that is also maintained by the office of placement but is simply an additional service enabling students to be aware of many opportunities.

Landiss reports that this new microfiche reader service does not list summer job openings.

Dropped From Core?

Italic Handwriting

Dramatic irony appears in the strangest places. When an administrator and a faculty member have a dispute, the only point the two agree upon could make the student the loser.

Dr. James Nixon, dean of the college of arts and sciences, told Dr. Charles Young, chairman of the art department, that only two sections of art 215: italic handwriting will be taught beginning in the fall of 1978 instead of the current four sections, which comprise Young's entire teaching load.

The arguments for and against this action are numerous and, as far as we are concerned, academic because although Young does not want to decrease the number of sections, he will do as his superior has directed.

The student comes into the picture because both men agree that when italic handwriting is reduced to two sections, the course should be deleted as an option for the art requirement in the core for a B.S. or a B.A.

No action relative to the core has been taken yet, so perhaps now is the most opportune time to bring this possible development to light.

Nixon's reason for dropping the course from the core is one of philosophy. Is italic handwriting a viable offering for the art requirement in a liberal arts university?

There are as many arguments on both sides of this question as there are students who want to take the course.

We feel that a student is learning an art form by taking the course as opposed to the possibility of forgetting cognitive knowledge obtained through art appreciation or art history. That is not to say that the latter two courses are not important, just that the student should have a choice.

Young offers an argument of practicality. He says that the course should be dropped from the core because art 215 is a requirement for art majors, and two sections of the course would have to be left open for the majors. Other students could take the course as an elective but not as a core requirement.

However, upon examination of the final class rolls for all four sections of the course, we have learned that only five of the 84 students currently taking the course are art majors.

This takes into account the fact that Young set the number of students eligible to preregister for the class at 20 and has eight course cards cut for students (art majors) who need the class but did not get it through preregistration. That piece of information comes from a credible source at the Computer Center.

We feel that art majors should be given priority in taking the course, and it seems that Young has found a way to do just that.

But student (non-art majors) enthusiasm for the course is obvious. According to Young, he turns away approximately 60 students each quarter because all four sections of art 215 are full.

Since only five art majors are currently enrolled in art 215, why should it be supposed that more art majors will take the class next fall? If the course will indeed be comprised of mostly non-art majors, it seems that it should continue to be an option in the core requirements.

If a substantial number of art majors wish to take the course, one section of art 215 could be designated for art majors only. This would eliminate problems with art majors having the course rejected during preregistration.

"I want to thank you for your confidence."

Chancellor Interviewed

The All State would like to correct an error printed in last week's editorial concerning the evaluation of departmental chairmen. We said that Dr. Roy Nicks, chancellor of the State Board of Regents, had spoken with Dr. Leon Bibb, chairman of the industrial arts department, concerning his reassignment to classroom duty.

The conversation actually took place between Nicks and Bibb's brother, Zollie Bibb of White Bluff, who is a member of Gov. Ray Blanton's Patronage Committee.

This meeting took place on March 21. We talked with both Zollie Bibb and Nicks on April 7 in an attempt to correct and verify the facts. Zollie Bibb told us that he had the personal conference with Nicks and had spoken with him twice since that time in telephone conversations concerning the same matter.

He had presented Nicks with the letters from Leon Bibb and Dr. J. P. Burney, dean of the college of business and professional services. Excerpts of these letters appeared in last week's editorial.

Nicks verified having the conversation with Zollie Bibb and stated that he felt Leon Bibb was entitled to personal copy of the composite faculty evaluation. He told The All State that he had written a letter On March 23 to APSU President Robert O. Riggs concerning the matter.

As of press time, Leon Bibb had not yet received a copy of the evaluation. Riggs was under the impression that Bibb had been allowed to see a copy of the evaluation, and when we informed him that he had not, he said, "I can see no reason why a copy should not be made available to him."

However, Riggs agrees with Burney that it is not necessary for Bibb to have a copy for his own personal use.

Riggs had told The All State on March 31 that he believed Sawrey had told him that the faculty and dean's recommendations were in accordance with the final decision in all cases, but we were later informed in an interview with Dr. Fred Bunker, chairman of the education department who was also reassigned to fulltime teaching duties, that he did not understand this to be the case. He told us what he had been told.

At the initial faculty meeting, Bunker was approved for reappointment as chairman, the vote being seven to four. However, he had not been evaluated on the specific criteria, so the vote was invalid. The faculty met again and went through the procedure according to evaluation criteria, and the vote remained seven to four in favor of Bunker.

Bunker said that he had heard through the grapevine that other faculty members had gone to Dr. Stephen Davis, dean of the college of education and human services, and changed their votes. Bunker asked Davis if this was true, and

Jones Meets Monkey

By ALLEN SHUBERT

Mark Murphy walked across campus with a monkey on his back. The monkey furiously chomped on bananas and granola bars.

Mark stopped when he came upon a tall thin man with short hair dressed in a one-piece professor suit. "You look familiar," said Mark.

"I should," said the tall thin man. "I'm Serenity Jones."

Mark's jaw dropped. The monkey dropped, too, on the ground and scampered to Mark's front to look in his open mouth.

"But you're supposed to be fat, not thin," said Mark.

"Well, Mark, it's like this, the tall thin man put a hand on Mark's shoulder. "I meditated during spring break and found myself. I am a professor of psychology and have occupied that position for eight years here. I was researching consciousness and got a little carried away, that's all."

Mark closed his mouth and shrugged. The monkey peeled a banana while eyeing the two humans.

"Who's your friend, Mark?" asked Jones.

"Hi! Uh, yeah... he's a monkey. Biology department used him for experiments, then auctioned him off in their spring auction. Name, uh, is The Whole Monkey Catalog."

"The monkey extended a hand to Jones. "Pleased to meet you, Dr. Jones. Feel free to call me The," said the monkey.

"He... talks," said Jones, shaking The's hand.

"The graduates assistants used to call him Whole when he was uncooperative."

"I'm told I resemble a human when I walk into the wind," said The.

"Well, The, what kind of research were you involved in?" asked Jones.

"I prefer to call it 'Revolutionary Evolution,' the idea being to manipulate genes in an attempt to discover the missing link. However, Dr. Dunderhead missed a few links whilst manipulating my genes. I was meant to be rather subhuman, but I appear to have a chimp's body and a genius' brain. All this research was very hush-hush you know."

The bit the last of his banana and tossed the peel in a nearby trash can.

"Mark told me of your struggle with the telephone company last fall and of this place being a 'diversity,' not a 'university.' I feel there is a connection twist the two. The situation is quite intriguing, and I shall not rest until I have satisfied my curiosity."

"Right," said Mark. "Tonight we're going to the library to do some research, but first we're going to see the Singing Mountain."

Jones raised an eyebrow. "Singing Mountain?"

"Yeah. It's on tour from the Smokies. It sings at dawn, beautiful singing with no words. I've got the album..."

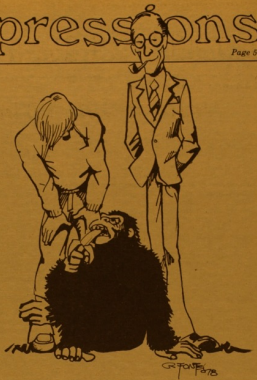

"But many cannot hear the song," said The. "Even on the recordings, most people hear only the wind whistling through the trees. Even on Memorex."

"We were going to look at the mountain and buy tickets for tomorrow's concert at 5:23 a.m. dawn."

"Can I go too?" asked Jones.

"Sure," said Mark. "I'll bet you can hear the singing, too."

Letters To The Editor

Women Claim Unfair Coverage

Dear Editor:

I have noticed that The All State has chosen to concentrate its sports coverage on the men's teams: football, golf, track, etc. While I do not condone this style of journalism, one-sided journalism, in the past I have reluctantly put up with it. No longer!

I am outraged that Sports Editor Billy Fields did not consider one single women's sports event important enough to be written about or to be placed in the April 5 issue of The All State!

For example, there was not a single word printed about Ms. Sue Fazio's fantastic hole-in-one shot during the Tennessee College Women's Sports Federation Golf Championship or the fact that Ms. Fazio went on to win the competition to become the state champion. Also, there were no scores, or stories written about the women's tennis or track teams.

There is no justification for these "oversights!" It is a slap in Ms. Fazio's face and to all other women athletes who compete for Austin Peay that such feats go unnoticed in the school "newspaper(?)" that is supposedly published for and about the students and faculty of this university.

If the sports editor wanted to become respectable or a responsible editor then he would have to print equal coverage on the women's and the men's teams.

Respectfully,
Lynn McMillan

Dear Editor:

As members of Austin Peay's Women's golf team we feel that we are financially discriminated against, but we can accept that because it is getting better; but for us to have a state championship here in Clarksville and not even get one word of recognition in The All State is more than we can handle.

You do feel that we don't practice as much as the guys, or that we are not devoted enough? If you do, then you are mistaken. Gigi aspires to be a pro one day and Sue a top amateur. We work hard, and we are definitely devoted.

Stephanie Steadman and Mary Lewing played on the team as a favor, so that we could have a team. That team won the state championship. Sue took first as an individual, and Gigi was runner-up and earned that title through a sudden death playoff.

Not only was women's golf overlooked, but so was women's sports in general. We really felt as if women athletes were getting a stin in the back. Mistakes are made, but we sincerely hope that there is some way for equality to prevail in the future.

Thank you,
The APSU Women's Golf Team

Dear Editor:

We were amazed and disappointed at The All State's neglect in not reporting the accomplishments of Sue Fazio in the Tennessee Collegiate Women's Sports Federation Invitational at Mason Rudolph golf course Tuesday, March 21.

As a result of your failure to report on the tournament's existence, the university community had no way of knowing that Sue Fazio became the Tennessee Collegiate State Champion and that she made her first hole-in-one during that tournament.

Even though the tournament took place on

Alumni Planning Phonothon

Graduates and former students in Clarksville and Montgomery County who have not contributed to the Austin Peay State University Alumni Association second annual giving program can expect a telephone call between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m. either April 17, 18 or 20.

Sponsored by the board of directors of the APSUAA, a phonothon will be held in an attempt to raise $10,000 within the county bringing the total closer to the 1977-78 Alumni Annual Giving Program goal of $50,000.

"It is critical that we raise at least $10,000 through our Montgomery County phonothon," Henry C. Malone, director of alumni affairs, said. "We have already committed the funds we hope to raise through the phonothon," Malone said, "and if we find this vehicle as successful for Austin Peay as it has been for other colleges and universities, then we will conduct a phonothon in every county of our service area."

The 1977-78 alumni funds are committed to student scholarships, faculty improvement programs and expanded and improved alumni services. "Primary emphasis for the current year is on student scholarships," Malone said.

Membership in the alumni association is available to graduates of Austin Peay, former students who did not graduate, members of the faculty and staff and friends of the university.

Alumni and students will be using telephones at five locations during the three evenings. Persons calling have been trained by Pam Harrison from Knoxville who represents Phone Power of South Central Bell.

Persons who join the Emerald Hill Society at $100 each receive a personalized marble and bronze paperweight signifying membership, a prestige Emerald Hill Society membership card and an invitation to attend the annual Emerald Hill Society dinner.

Those contributing to the Annual Giving Program, as well as those joining the Emerald Hill Society, will receive a subscription to the alumni magazine, the weekly student newspaper an APSU Membership-Library Card for library privileges, a monthly calendar of events, an APSU automobile decal, periodic correspondence of alumni insurance program, the athletic season ticket program and low cost tours.

"Contributions in any amount will be accepted," Malone said, "however a gift of $15 or more entitles one to a family membership in the alumni association and a gift of $100 or more entitles one to become a member of both the Austin Peay State University Alumni Association and the Emerald Hill Society.

"The alumni year coincides with the fiscal year of the university (July 1-June 30), and this is the culmination of the 1977-78 Alumni Annual Giving Program," Malone said.

Appropriate correspondence will follow the telephone call, and persons not receiving a call are urged to contact the Alumni Office (615) 645-7979.

Males Show In Test For Cervical Cancer

According to National On Campus Report despite the abundant flow of sex and birth control information on campus, many of today's students are apparently still in the dark on such matters. The University of South Carolina student health center reports it handles between three and five unwanted pregnancies a week.

When a free pap test to check for cervical cancer was made available for two days at the North Campus of Miami-Dade Junior College, many thought it was a VD or blood test.

Only 100 showed up for the exam including several males.

Among the unplanned pregnancies discovered through the 500 pregnancy tests done at the Stanford student health center last year, two thirds were in women who believed they were correctly using some form of birth control.

At the University of Southern California health service it is estimated that 92 percent of the unwanted pregnancies are aborted. At Stanford, of 62 expectant students who sought counseling for an unplanned pregnancy, all but three decided on abortion.

A USC gynecologist says the "it can't happen to me" syndrome is the biggest factor in the unplanned pregnancies. A Stanford counselor adds that the date of the pregnancies indicates that generally "students are getting pregnant when they're not here."

Dear Editor:

Now that spring has finally sprung and that much dreaded white-stuff is gone and forgotten, I feel it is an appropriate time for the students and faculty of Austin Peay to utter a round of heartfelt thanks to the maintenance staff of APSU.

During the wintry days of snowboundness the (unfortunately) inadequately equipped, overworked and underpaid workers performed in a manner "above and beyond the call of duty."

The dedication and effort put forth by the staff to keep our campus as safe as possible for everyone is to be commended. I, for one, am very appreciative of their effort.

Dear Editor:

This letter is meant to inform the administration of a badly-needed facility in the Trahern Building and possibly other buildings on campus.

I do not mean to sound crude, only matter of fact when I say, "Does the administration feel that we women on campus do not have the need of sanitary napkin machines in our bathrooms?"

The majority of us are not at the age of menopause yet and do require these certain additions. Again may I say that I do not mean to sound disrespectful, only that I feel President Riggs has neglected to see that all students are well taken care of.

His "clean up the campus" campaign has certainly left the women at APSU in a bind on those most uncomfortable days. I have taken it upon myself to write this letter as it can be most embarrassing, and I'm sure this is why you haven't been informed as of yet.

My name is withheld. I'm sure you understand why. Don't take this lightly President Riggs. You are so concerned with improving our school, now do something that we really need--sanitary napkin/tampoon machines in our bathrooms!!!

Respectfully Yours...

Professor Suggests 'E'

(CPS)—In the past, people have suggested thus: Te, ne, tey, s/he, ve, ons and thon. Now, an associate professor at UCLA would replace all these with a simple "E."

Professor Donald MacKay's "E" is one solution in a search for a non-sexist pronoun. The pronoun "he" has always been used when the writer meant to include both sexes.

This practice continued virtually undisturbed until recent years, when feminists challenged the inherent sexism of using

"he" to mean "they."

Feminists asserted that the constant usage of "he" subliminally and effectively suggests a male image, and not the intended non-sexual designation. Tests MacKay conducted in his classes bore out this conclusion.

Sixty-four percent of the students interpreted "he" as referring to a man when it was used to denote either sex.

MacKay feels that using "he" creates problems for males as well as females. "Young boys hear this all the time; doctor-he, lawyer-he, professor-he," referring to professions as male and making boys feel they have to achieve, he said.

"People trying to achieve in these areas and failing are hurting themselves psychologically," he said.

Davis said it was not. However, when we asked Riggs about the discrepancy between the faculty's and the dean's recommendation, he said that some faculty members had gone to Davis and reversed their votes.

An interview with Davis was necessary to clear the matter. Davis was surprised that aspect had come to light saying "There's hardly any truth in that at all." He said that he would rather not divulge into the matter because,

"it's a personal matter, and it's supposed to be kept totally confidential."

If what Riggs says is true, it seems that the faculty of the education department is placing the credit for Burger's reassignment on Davis' shoulders.

Does it seem right that in a process which according to James O. Sawrey, vice president for academic affairs, "makes no room for second guessing," that the faculty should be allowed to change their votes? "Et tu, Brute?"

Seniors To Graduate

Graduation has been set for 7 p.m. on June 2 in the Winfield Dunn Center, according to Lewis Burton, associate professor of art and chairman of the graduation committee.

Although the agenda for the ceremony has not been finalized, two areas of concern have been resolved according to Burton.

The committee circulated a questionnaire asking if graduating seniors would like to continue going through the line and receiving diplomas individually or if they would prefer to have President Robert O. Riggs to confer the degrees upon the class as a whole.

The later alternative would have allowed for a guest speaker, according to Riggs.

Based on the results of the questionnaire, graduating seniors will go through the line, and there will be no guest speaker.

The graduation committee will meet to finalize plans at 3:15 p.m. on April 25 in room 211 of the Truharn Building. Burton said that all interested persons are invited to the meeting.

Concerning graduation attire, caps and gowns are available for purchase in the University Store located in the University Center.

According to David Collier, manager of the store, the price for caps and gowns for those acquiring a B.S. is $8.50, and attire for graduate candidates will cost $16.50.

Five invitations are included in the price. The regalia may be purchased any time up until the ceremony, but Collier pointed out that those delaying the purchase may run the risk of not getting the right size.

The robes are sized as small, medium, long and extra-long.

Govs Split With Murray

WKU Next Foe

By KENNETH KLEIN

The Governor baseball team will meet Western Kentucky for the first time this season today at 1 p.m. in Governor Park.

Western holds the OVC western division lead with a 4-0 record, while Austin Peay ranks third with a 2-4 conference record behind second seated Murray State which holds a 3-3 record.

Saturday of last week, the Governors traveled to Murray State and split victories with the Racers by losing the first 7-1 and bouncing back in the second game of a doubleheader to win 8-6.

In the first game, the Governors were held to only three hits by opposing pitcher Andrew Rice. Two of the three hits were accounted for by shortstop Gary Baker, one of which was a double.

Murray's Tony Threatt hit a pair of homers off starting pitcher Rick Richardson.

The Governors played what coach Joe Ellensburg described as "one of the best wins since I've been at Austin Peay" in the second game of the doubleheader after going a total of three extra innings.

Austin Peay first scored in the second inning when Billy Merkel and Chris Vinyard came home on a first baseman's error which cut catcher Brian Cross on base. Ted Zikeli followed Cross with an RBI (run batted in) single bringing Tony Lamb in to score.

The Governors scored again in the third inning when Vinyard doubled Don Bradshaw home and Lamb singled Merkel in.

Merkel scored once again in the fifth inning when he was brought in on a single by Vinyard, lifting the score 6-3 in the Governors favor after five innings.

Murray tied the score 6-6 in the seventh. The rise to tie the score was strengthened by what would have been a double play for the Governors. Both runners were safe.

The Governors were not about to give up the ship to a single error on either the umpire's judgement or in fielding. The Govs held Murray long enough for Catcher Brian Cross to knock a two-run homer in the 10th inning.

"David Wright pitched a superb ball game, and Doug Downey was sensational in relief," commented Ellensburg. Wright struck out seven and walked four, while Downey struck out two and walked one in his 3 2/3 innings pitched. Downey was credited with the win.

The split now places Austin Peay 7-14 in the won-lost column with conference games against Western, Kentucky and Middle Tennessee on the agenda for this week.

OVC Position Open

The exit of East Tennessee from the ranks of the Ohio Valley Conference has left a void in the league which officials are now trying to fill; however, this task is expected to be an uphill fight which could take at least several months to complete.

The OVC Expansion Committee made up of presidents from Austin Peay, Tennessee Tech, Western Kentucky and Morehead announced the criteria last week after a lengthy meeting which will open the door to universities that wish to apply for admission to the conference. The committee made a list of several requirements which universities must fulfill before joining the OVC. These requirements will have to be approved by the other four conference schools not represented on the committee before the criteria can go into effect.

The committee handled the situation in the following manner. Any school(s) wishing to enter the OVC must maintain quality athletic facilities as well as offer adequate attendance capacity; attendance records must meet a standard; scheduling strengths and record of competitiveness must be on a proper level with current OVC members; the geographic proximity must be in perspective with the present members of the conference; and media coverage must be on an acceptable level.

In an interview with Bob Vanatta, OVC commissioner, he stated that he feels that no university should be added to the conference unless it will bolster the already excellent image of the OVC in general. The conference should not be needed by the university to help its athletic image according to Vanatta.

The athletic requirements that the conference has on the present schools for the most part will be extended to any new member. Any new member will have to be able to participate as soon as possible in football, basketball, baseball,

By BILLY FIELDS

Wayne Williams stated that the Govs performed as badly as he has ever seen last week when Austin Peay finished last among four Ohio Valley Conference foes in the OVC Quadrangular in Bowling Green, Ky.

"They were flat and not ready to compete. On top of that, they weren't aggressive," Williams said. "They did do better down at Alabama (Invitational)."

The poor performance that the Govs turned was good for only 29 points at the quadrangular meet. Western Kentucky took top honors in the meet with 71 points, while Middle Tennessee took second with 49 with Murray State next with 31.

Pat Fogarty was the only individual winner for the Govs as he ran a 14:13 to take the first place in the 110 meter hurdles. George Hall threw the shot 52-6 1/2 to grab second, while Coven Moody and Johnny Williams finished second and third in the 100-meter dash.

In the Alabama Invitational, the Governors took third place with 77 points. Alabama won the tourney with 224 followed distantly by Georgia Tech with 133.

Fogarty was again the only individual winner for the Peay as he took the 110 meter hurdles for the second straight day. Fogarty came back to grab second in the long jump with a leap of 24 1/2 feet. Keith Shank was second on the 1,500 meters, while Johnny Williams finished up at second in the 100 meters. Glen Colivas, the defending OVC champion, was second in the pole vault with a jump of 16 feet.

"We are going into meets looking for an excuse not to run well," Williams stated. "This will have to change."

Williams went on to say that the Dogwood Relays scheduled for Saturday in Knoxville will tell the tale for the Govs. He feels that if they don't get ready to run in this, one of the most prestigious meets in the country, then they will never be ready again.

Some of the big names in track and field will be in Knoxville for the meet with the University of Tennessee leading the pack. Teams such as

Cox Signs Two Players

Janine Cox signed what she thinks are "two outstanding high school basketball players" to play for the Lady Gova next winter.

Jeanne Hinchee, a 5-4 guard from Marion, Ky., was signed along with Regina Reid, 5-7, from Fayetteville, N.C., who can play both guard and forward for APSU.

Hinchee was voted the third best player in the second region of Kentucky by the press for her play from the point guard position. Her average of 22.1 points per game coupled with her six assists and three steals per game will make her a possible starter for the defending state champs next basketball season.

Hinchee is known in her home state for her ability to drive to the basket while being able to spearhead an offensive attack. At the guard spot, Hinchee can apply pressure defensively and offensively which will give the Lady Gova more flexibility in the backcourt according to Cox.

Reid averaged 12.3 points per game in addition to pulling down 8.4 rebounds per contest. A good passer, Reid averaged five assists and three steals.

Considered one of the quickest players in the area, Reid maintains great body control both under the basket and outside. Reid is said to be able to go one-on-one with any player so the Lady Gova will be able to add more options to an already potent offense and defense.

"Both of them have played five person basketball in high school so they won't have to learn a whole system," Cox stated. "The skills are already there so we will only have to improve them."

Softball Rosters

Students wishing to form an intramural softball team should be getting their rosters ready to turn in to the intramural office. The normal forfeit fee of $10 is required along with the roster for the team to be a part of the softball league. Deadline for entries is April 20.

Women Win Two

Austin Peay's women's tennis team took a doubleheader match last Saturday with victories over Southeast Missouri 6-1 and St. Louis 6-3.

The Lady Gova dumped Southeast Missouri 6-1 with good matches from all the women. Dianna Scott took her opponent 6-0, 6-2; while Mary Covington won 6-4, 6-2. Marcia Woodward won 6-3, 6-1. Linda Koch swept her match with perfect performances 6-0, 6-0 as Treva Brown took her set 6-1 and 6-4. The Lady Gova also swept the doubles competition against the Lady Indiana.

Scott made it two on the day with another stunning win in St. Louis with a 6-0, 4-6, and 6-2 victory. Woodward pulled another win as did teammates Brown and Covington.

The Lady Gova will travel to Nashville this afternoon for a 1 p.m. match against David Lacombe College. The Lady Netters will go to Pisk Saturday and Vanderbilt on Sunday for matches at those universities.

Clift Coaches Cohorts

Press Team Previewed

By JAN AYLSWORTH

Those who want to be in a good mood for Saturday's matchup between the Dallas Hoopsters and former Austin Peay basketball greats may want to get to the Dunn Center a little earlier when representatives from the local press clash with the Channel 4 Holy Smokers (WSM-TV) from Nashville.

The press was previewed in a practice session last week at the intramural complex. Coach Sherwin (The Shift) Clift, director of public information at APSU, was absent from the session due to unexpected interference, but he did comment on the team via telephone interview.

"We hope to finish the game. That's our ultimate goal," he said. If the Holy Smokers bring some ex-Vanderbilt players as they have been known to do, Clift's strategy will be to let the air out of the ball.

As for the team, a description of the players

Joel (Nose) Fryer: 6-0, 180, age 21, Office of Public Information. Fryer is quick and commands the action on the floor. One of his many tricks is dribbling (the ball) between his legs. --

Kenneth (LZ) Klein: 6-3, 165, age 18, The All State. He's also quick and should get plenty of rebounds for the team.

Bob (Under The Basket) Boone: 6-0, 180, age "almost 32," Office of Public Information. Team members can count on Boone to be right under the basket when the ball comes through.

(Diamond) Doug Vance: 5-11, 192, age 27, Office of Sports Information. Vance has been writing about sports for years.

Jimmy (In The Morning) Baird: 6-10, 185, age 27, WJZM. He can be quick and shows coordination in running the length of the court.

(Downtown) Buddy Mathews: 5-7, 135, age 28, KQ-101. The smallest player on the team, Mathews tries hard but is susceptible to leg cramps. Larry (Tree Packer) Schmidt: 6-0, 193, age 23, The Clarksville Leaf Chronicle. He could prove valuable if fouled as he plays the long shots.

Jeff (Bad News) Bibb: 6-0, 193, age 23, Office of Public Information. Bibb sometimes resorts to football tactics as he is fond of holding the ball and running.

(Radiant) Richard Woods: 5-11, 157, age 22, WABD. Woods has a lot of natural ability, but he might have to worry about technical fouls if the referees don't like his sense of humor.

Other players not present for the practice session were Bill (The Thrill) Herndon: 6-4, 220, age 30, Public Address and Bob (Dudley Dought) Lowry: 6-2, 192, age 23, WDXN.

Dallas Cowboys Play Basketball During Off-Season Extravaganza

By KENNETH KLEIN

The Dallas Hoopsters make up a basketball team composed of Dallas Cowboys football players who play basketball off-season from their regular duties on the football squad.

The Hoopsters are known to add a certain razzle-dazzle touch to a basketball game that sometimes is lost in a purely competitive game. They try to provide an event that lets their fans see their favorite football stars from a different viewpoint.

Dallas doesn't play the same type of game on the basketball court as they do on the football field. They don't take their basketball playing seriously and are just there to put on a show for the fans and have fun in the process.

Percy Howard, former Austin Peay basketball standout, heads the list for the Hoopsters. Howard was an all-OVC selection his senior year at Austin Peay and compiled a 14.9 scoring average.

A probable player on the Hoopsters' squad is Cowboy running back Tony Dorsett. Dorsett is the 1977 Heisman trophy winner and was awarded the NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year title for his efforts on the Cowboy's football team.

Other Dallas stars that will play in the game include Drew Pearson, Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Billy Joe DuPree, Tom "Hollywood" Henderson, Efron Herrera, Mike Hegman, Jay Saldi and Robert Newhouse.

What about the Hoopsters' basketball ability? "Well, we can play," cited former APSU player Percy Howard, "but we're all football players. We just run up and down the floor and shoot." Howard said the Hoopsters don't play positions or run any kind of game plan.

"We aren't the Globe-trotters, but I think most people have fun when they watch us play," said Howard.

'Fly' Back At APSU

By KENNETH KLEIN

Three of the four top scorers in Austin Peay basketball history along with other Austin Peay greats will return to their alma mater to face the Dallas Hoopsters as a team dubbed the Clarksville All-Stars.

The All-Stars will be minus number one career scorer for Austin Peay Tom Morgan, but will have on hand number two scorer Otis Howard, number three Howard Wright and number four James "Fly" Williams.

Williams, one of the most talented and popular performers in Governor basketball history, will most likely be the center of attraction for the All-Stars. His career average of 28.5 points is a school and OVC record.

Williams spent one season in the American Basketball Association and is currently a member of the New Jersey Shore Bullets of the Eastern League and serves as a volunteer in various community youth programs.

Williams played a vital role in winning Austin Peay's first OVC basketball championship in 1972-73 when he averaged 28.5 points.

Otis Howard, two-time OVC Player of the Year, holds four Winfield Dunn Center records including most points, most field goals, most field goals attempted and most rebounds.

Other players named to the All-Stars roster include Norman Jackson, Phil Mayo, Eddie Childers, Mickey Fisher, Larry Noble, Charlie Moore, Jerry Wanstrath, Reed Epley, Ralph Garner and Tom Santel.

The All-Stars will be coached by former Austin Peay player and assistant coach Howard Jackson, now head coach at Volunteer State Community College.

Miss Tennessee Linda Moore will sing "The National Anthem" preceding the game with the Austin Peay Jazz Band providing the background music.

The game ball will be delivered at halftime by the Austin Peay ROTC rappelling team.

WSM Faces Press

By KENNETH KLEIN

The opponents to the Press in Saturday night's basketball extravaganza are the Holy Smokers, members of the staff at WSM-TV, channel 4.

The team was initiated four years ago when Rudy Kalis, sports anchorman, along with Paul Eels, for channel 4 news, came to WSM and decided he wanted to play some basketball. He organized the team from fellow workers at WSM to form a team which gets over 100 requests per year.

The Holy Smokers travel all around their television viewing area (middle Tennessee) performing in as many contests as they can fit in to their busy schedule.

"Unfortunately, we can't fill all requests for our appearances, due to time conflicts, but we do manage to play about 30-40 games a year," stated "Coach" Rudy Kalis.

The Holy Smokers play strictly for charity purposes and to have a little fun. They have played a total of 22 games this season, and their record now stands at 14-8.

Other players on the team besides Kalis include news anchorman Dan Miller, sports anchorman Paul Eels, George Goldtrap from the weather, weekend anchorman Virg Jaques, and various other members from the WSM staff, crew and cameramen.

Will the Holy Smokers try to win in some basketball games from the surrounding colleges? "Our team is composed strictly of members of our staff, and we're just out to have a good time whether we win or lose," cited Kalis.

Spring Football Not Bad

By BILLY FIELDS

"What happened last season is over," Hoota Donnelly stated. "So as far as the first week of practice there wasn't anything great, but it wasn't bad either."

Donnelly's comment comes after the defending Ohio Valley Conference football champions completed their first week of spring practice in a lack luster style. The Goves went through the motions but were not close to the polished squad that swept through the OVC schedule last fall like a whirlwind to capture the first championship in the history of Austin Peay.

"We are a lot farther along this spring than we were last," Donnelly said.

"Our people know what we are trying to do now despite the fact that we are not getting what we want."

Donnelly went on to say that what the Goves lack in accomplishments they make up in enthusiasm. The first week of practice was filled with spirited practices and hard hitting drills.

In the eyes of their coach, the Goves have offered no surprises thus far. Two walk-on running backs, Johnny Cunningham from Augusta, Ga. and Alex Hicks, Hartsville, Tenn., have looked impressive in the drills. Donnelly also stated that Barry Monda of Madison is looking exceptional on the field. Woodrow Smith, a wide receiver, is making a place for himself on the squad with heroics from his position.

Disappointment faces Donnelly at the running back position as he does not feel that his veterans are going all out. According to Donnelly they have not run well through the week.

A bright spot for the Goves may turn-out to Russell Brown known as "Toe" by his teammates. Brown, who was ineligible last season, will be a fine defensive tackle in the opinion of his coaches if he continues to improve the way that he has thus far.

"Teamwise we have to come off of our complacency," Donnelly added. "We need to have some team unity in order to do well."

The team is scrimmaging in game conditions among themselves each Friday afternoon and Tuesday nights. These scrimmages are open to the public at no charge.

Coach Hosts School

Applications are now available for both one-week sessions of the 1978 Ed Thompson Basketball School at Austin Peay State University.

Open to boys 11-years-old or over, the school will include a day session (June 26-30) or boarding session (July 9-14).

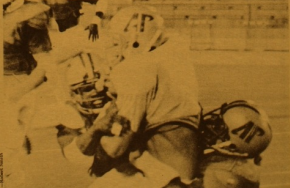

"We want to provide an opportunity for exposure to the basic fundamentals of the game with individual and team instruction," said Thompson who guided Austin Peay to the finals of the OVC Tournament in his first season as head coach.

Each participant will receive a school T-shirt and awards will be presented at the conclusion of the season.

The Winfield Dunn Center will be the site of both sessions with Thompson and Austin Peay assistant coaches Peter Dees and Ernest Neal serving on the school staff.

Applications are available at the Austin Peay basketball office in the Winfield Dunn Center. For further information contact the basketball office at 615-648-7904.

CLEARING THE BAR—Gov high jumper Jim Lester clears the bar in recent track action.

Ladies At Murray

While the Lady Gova didn't bring back any trophies for their competition in the Murray Invitational, the performances that were turned by the individuals were rather impressive.

"They sat in the sun for three or four hours before they were ready to compete," coach Betty Williams stated. "They will have to adjust to the sun factor in order to do well in the big meets."

Middle distance runner Cindy New didn't let the sun bother her any as she improved her times the previous week by several seconds. New pulled in a 6:15 finish in the 400 meters as well as a 2:24.9 in the 800 meters. New left the track long enough to hit the long jump pit for a 15-foot leap.

Nancy Pardue sprinted to a 13.0 in the 100 meters in addition to a 27.3 on the 200 meters. Joni Puffer ran the 800 meters in 2:41.5 and the 1500 meters in 5:36. Annette Hines raced in the 100 meters and the 200 meters with times of 14.0 and 29.0. Jeanette Muirhead threw the shot put 28-2.

The Lady Gova, according to Williams, will have to begin to forget the pain and finish the competition. In the words of the coach "they have to forget that they can get hurt."

They will next get an opportunity to test Williams' idea Saturday at the Western Kentucky Invitational in Bowling Green, Ky.

Golfers Finish Ninth

BILLY FIELDS

Richard Smith carded a 1 to pace the Governors a ninth place finish in the Wheat Shocker tournament this past weekend in Wichita, Kan. Smith fired rounds of 75-73 to lead the Gova in this highly regarded tourney. Bill Holzman wound up with three straight 78 rounds to finish up second on the squad for Austin Peay. As a team the Gova finished the tourney with 931 to be in ninth place among the 17 teams entered. Oklahoma State, the number one team in the nation, won the tourney by one stroke over Wichita State.

For the year, Smith leads the Gova in average strokes with 76 after nine rounds. Sy Mandie follows with a 77.8 average.

John Van Vleck is third on the squad with a 79.1, while Holzman is a close fourth with a 79.7 average. Jim Linklater posts an 81.8 average through nine rounds.

Austin Peay has won the TIC on two occasions, the last time being in 1970. APSU will be battling the state powers of East Tennessee, Middle Tennessee and Tennessee for the top honors.

Results from the Wheat Shocker Invitational are: Richard Smith: 73-75-73-221; Bill Holzman: 78-78-78-234; Sy Mandie: 75-81-81-237; John Van Vleck: 83-72-84-239; Jim Linklater: 82-81-88-251.

Team total: 308-306-316-931.

indoor track, outdoor track, cross-country, golf and tennis. These are the sports which the OVC presently awards championships.

The football question which is still up in the air throughout the country will be one of the hardest items for most schools who will have to the OVC to adhere to. Since the OVC has declared 1-AA football, any new school will have to play in that division of the NCAA.

Several universities have expressed interest in joining the OVC, but none have done so in writing as far as The All State can tell. Tennessee State University of Nashville is one of the early favorites to join the conference but does not meet the new requirement as stated by the committee. For TSU to join the OVC, the "Big Blue" will have to upgrade most of its athletic programs which according to TSU athletic director will be done if the Tigers are accepted in membership.

The question of who is "good enough" to join the conference will be the primary task of the OVC membership. Whether a team can measure up to the rigid format of the OVC will be the topic of most debate. The OVC at present maintains some of the highest levels of membership of any conference including the "monster" conferences such as the Southeastern, the Big Eight, and PAC Eight.

When a new member and possible members are added to the OVC, they will be ranked among the highest of any university in the mid-south. Their integrity must be unapproachable and their athletics must be superb.

Unless universities of the highest standards are added to the OVC, the conference will fall to the wayside like so many other conferences have done in the past.

Fazio Leads Lady Golfers

Sue Fazio and Gigi Armstrong turned in respectable rounds in last week's Lady Buckeye Invitational golf tourney on the Ohio State University golf course.

Armstrong paced the two-person team with an 87 and 86 for a two-day total of 173. Fazio, who is coming for a Tennessee College Women's Sports Federation championship, fired a 90 and 87 for a 177 total.

In the TCWSF the Lady Goves claimed their fourth straight state championship by downing Memphis State University. Fazio led the troops with a two-day 169. Armstrong carded rounds of 89 and 86 for a 175-team total, while teammates Mary Lowney and Stephanie Steadman at 241 and respectively.

Lowney and Steadman were added to the team in order for the Lady Goves to qualify for the tourney. Despite having not been regular members of the team, the two proved to be a strong reason for the win.

The Lady Goves will see action this Friday and Saturday at the University of Cincinnati Invitational.

Track

North Carolina, South Carolina, Penn State, Western Michigan, as well as the D.C. Striders and the Chicago Track Club, will be competing for the title.

The Goves have proven that they are capable of turning superlative performances in the big meets. According to Williams, the Goves are possibly a darkhorse to place in the meet; however, they will have to compete in order to bring home a trophy.
