Enrollment gain forseen at APSU fall registration

A record enrollment is expected when Austin Peay State University opens for the fall quarter today.

University officials expect 4,900 students; this would easily surpass the 1970 record of 3,374

Newspaper earns mark of 'A' rating

THE ALL STATE has earned an A (excellent) rating from the National Newspaper Service for the second term of 1970-71.

E. P. Mills, chief judge of the NNS and an experienced newspaperman who has taught journalism at the University of Houston, said of the weekly, "THE ALL STATE" is an excellent university newspaper, virtually professional in several areas.

"It is attractive to look at, easy and pleasurable to read and complete in its coverage. Its technical production rivals that of daily tabloids."

Seniors and freshmen, in addition to graduate students, will begin registering at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 15, in the Memorial Health Building.

Sophomores and juniors will register Thursday beginning at 8 a.m. Evening and part-time students may register according to the alphabetical listing, or between 3:30-4:45 p.m. Graduate students will also register on Thursday. Saturday students will register on Saturday from 8:30-9 a.m.

All students will report for registration according to the Schedule of Classes Bulletin.

ROTC includes HCC students

An agreement has been reached which will enable students of Hopkinsville Community College to cross-enroll at Austin Peay State University for the purpose of participating in the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program.

Dr. Joe Morgan, president of APSU, and President Tom Riley of HCC completed the agreement recently.

Since ROTC is not offered at HCC, cross-enrollment at APSU will afford eligible male and female students the opportunity to pursue military science training.

Late applicants may pick up their computer course cards between 3:45-4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Regular day classes will begin on Friday, Sept. 17, with both the Monday-Wednesday-Friday and Tuesday-Thursday classes meeting on an abbreviated schedule. Evening classes will commence on Monday, Sept. 20. Saturday classes will begin at 10 a.m. on Sept. 18.

Freshmen and transfer students, who did not attend a summer orientation session, are required to meet in the auditorium of the Clement Building at 1 p.m. today.

Dr. Joe Morgan, university president, will welcome the new students, along with Lee Wallace, president of the Student Government Association.

Group counseling by majors will be held from 10 a.m. until noon for those students who have not had their trial schedules completed and signed by their major adviser during the summer orientation sessions.

From noon until 4:30 p.m. freshmen and transfer students will have identification cards made and receive computer packets.

ROTC advisement, aptitude testing and counseling for certain courses, meeting of new students living in residence halls and new commuting students, and a pre-registration meeting will conclude tomorrow's orientation activities.

ON THE MOVE - Getting moved back into the dorm is not all the drudgery that most people make it out to be, or so Jeanne Taylor (l) and Brenda Jenkins discovered their first day at Sevier Hall.

Faculty evaluations show high rankings

Last spring the talk of the university was centered on a student evaluation of the faculty. Two years in the planning, the evaluation questionnaire was administered in each class taught by each instructor. A general summary of the questionnaire analysis is now available.

The results of the evaluation are to be used to provide information for improving the quality of instruction at APSU and in making decisions regarding tenure and faculty promotion.

"I am not disappointed by the results," explained the evaluation coordinator Steve Castleberry, assistant to the vice-president for academic affairs. "But I suppose students have a different concept of teaching than I do."

On none of the 22 points of the questionnaire in the general summary was the faculty rated below average or even far below the above average mark. On 12 of the 22 points the faculty was rated outstanding.

"Individually," added Castleberry, "most teachers were ranked in the outstanding to above average range, and the rest were not below average."

Statements and questions on the survey were answered by students with the range of ratings: outstanding, above average, below average and poor.

Statements covered the relevance of the material the instructor stressed, the clarity of his explanations, fairness of his grading, his daily preparation and his receptiveness and courtesy to his students.

The question which got the highest per cent of outstanding and above average responses dealt with the instructor's demonstration of his knowledge of the subject he taught. The statement with the lowest per cent of outstanding and above average responses related to the text used in the course.

Registration procedures add change

A few changes from procedures used in past registrations have been announced this fall by Glenn S. Gentry, vice president for admissions and records.

Computer packets will be distributed through the mailboxes of former students. New students may get their computer packets at the Registrar's Office.

Before proceeding to the gymnasium, students must go to the hallways of the University Center. There all ID photos will be made and all students except dorm residents must obtain housing cards. (Housing cards will be given to dorm residents at their dorms.)

Also each student must have his blue-on-white APSU mastercard stamped with "ID" and "housing card." This will be required before the student can be admitted into the gymnasium. Students are also urged not to forget their checkbooks or scholarship validation forms.

PACKET RACKET - It's something like coming home at the end of a long, rough trip, but there is really nothing to compare with the ordeal of fall registration. By the end of the day very few can boast they still have the schedule they worked on so painstakingly in the same shape as it was when they took it in that morning.

APSU remembers Felix Woodward

On July 11 of this year, Felix G. Woodward, assistant to President Morgan, died.

Dean Woodward was a familiar face around the Austin Peay State University campus for 46 years, and had in his own manner achieved a sort of greatness. He was dedicated to the profession of teaching, though he preferred to call it a vocation.

He thought teaching to be the most rewarding way of making a living, not necessarily in term of money, but in ways which have no material value.

Woodward joined APSU when it opened as a state college in 1925 and was a professor of English until he was appointed Dean of Faculties in 1948. He still held that position, in semi-retirement, when he was named assistant to the university president in 1968. In that year, too, he returned to the English faculty as a part-time professor.

He was a scholar in the classical sense of the word, and in that context Mr. Woodward had more influence on APSU's curriculum and instructional program than anyone else. Individuals familiar with normal schools and teachers' colleges (as APSU was for many years) were surprised at the strong liberal arts program at Austin Peay.

He became an administrator because he felt a responsibility to the university, and learned to derive a great deal of enjoyment from administrative work. Though he was an effective administrator, teaching was foremost in his life.

The university library has been named after Dean Woodward, an honor he had declined while he was alive, saying that it was better not to name a building after an active member of the staff. It should come after retirement.

Felix G. Woodward-president's assistant, dean, advisor, author and above all teacher is gone now. However he'll not be forgotten, just missed.

Letter to editor

Tribunal gives greeting

Dear Editor:

I would like to welcome all students to Austin Peay State University on behalf of the judicial branch of the Student Government Association. The coming year will certainly be one of changes and I feel we are very capable of keeping up with them.

The Student Tribunal is now working under a new "Code and Guidelines" which will help us maintain a just and fair court system for all concerned.

This year some of the reforms students worked for last year will go into effect. There is also a new SGA Constitution.

It will be of great assistance to all students if they read the new SGA Constitution and the "Code and Guidelines" of the Student Tribunal. These will be available, along with information on the operating policies and procedures of the university, in the APSU Student Handbook, to be printed soon. Much luck,

Bill Sides
Chief Justice

Middle Tennessee State University, Sidelines - Mrs. Mattie Bell Bratten, who graduated from high school in 1921, is continuing her education after 50 years out of school.

"Super-granny", as her classmates call her, began attending MTSU last fall and is majoring in art as she works for a R.F.A. degree.

"After my husband died and my children grew up, I found the time to finish my education," she said.

A friend suggested that she go to school and finance it with her husband's GI check.

So far she's had no problem getting along with the other, considerably younger students. "I've really had some wonderful experiences here," she told reporters.

University of Tennessee, UT Daily Beesee - A team of mechanical engineering students here is designing and building a nonpolluting automobile to enter in the 1973 Urban Vehicle Design Competition at the Urban Systems Laboratory of MIT. The project is sponsored by the UT College of Engineering.

Organized during the spring quarter, the team completed initial plans and purchased a 1967 MBW beat-up 300 for the project. The College of Engineering appropriated $2,500 to finance the team.

Middle Tennessee State University, Sidelines - A special meeting for complaints by university women was held here to discuss grievances concerning dorm hours, sign in/sign out procedures, freshman meal tickets and co-ed dorms. Due to the small turn-out, no definite solutions were given.

University of Tennessee, UT Daily Beesee - The Abortion Counseling and Referral Service of the Student Senate here had to increase its counselors in order to keep up with the upsurge of girls requesting aid in June.

Editor defines letter policies

THE ALL STATE welcomes comments from readers both on its editorial statements and on other topics.

Students wishing to write letters must submit them by 5 p.m. Friday for publication the following Wednesday. The letters must be restricted to one subject, typed on a 60 space line and signed.

The General Policies of the Board of Student Publications prohibit the printing of unsigned letters, however names may be withheld upon request and will be held in the strictest confidence.

We reserve the right to edit or not publish any letter for reasons of taste or space limitations.

Opinions reversed in faculty estimate

The results of the teacher evaluation conducted during the end of the spring quarter are startling. A thick stack of computer printouts monotonously repeats the same three ratings: "Outstanding," "above average," and "average."

These ratings seem to differ radically with the vocal opinions of students at APSU. Any typical day one can stroll through the University Center, unobtrusively eavesdropping, and hear how "Old Croffler in Intergradation 201" puts one to sleep, or "Glockenspiel's Renaissance Kazoos 345" is a waste of valuable time.

In sharp contrast to the woes and complaints of the student when conversing, the opinions of the same student seem to go through a "Mr. Hyde-to-Dr. Jekyll" metamorphosis when opinions must be marked on an evaluation sheet.

Perhaps the written language is less acid, perhaps the feel of a pencil makes one more benevolent, or perhaps one is doing one's good deed for the day. In any case the results are different.

It seems that a softening of hearts occurred when someone thought that a bad rating could cost a teacher his job, and the students decided that "Old Croffler" was a pretty nice guy after all.

The reason could be that many students didn't take the evaluation seriously, or maybe they were afraid to put down their real feelings. Perhaps the verbal complaints are just the expressing of the age-old student's right of griping for the sake of griping.

We don't really know, nor can we claim to even begin to understand why the results came out the way they really did.

Just taking the evaluations at face value, however, APSU's instructors seem to be the best. At worst, they are "average." If this poll represents the students' true attitudes, it looks as though someone, somewhere is doing something right.

Morgan welcomes all

I wish to extend to you a warm welcome to the campus at the beginning of a new academic year. I am especially happy to welcome new students, new faculty and new staff. I sincerely hope for all a rewarding year.

I request that you be as patient as possible with the inconvenience caused by the condition of the streets around the campus. The contractor is moving rapidly to overcome the delays caused by excessive rainfall in July and August.

Parking around the campus will be very difficult for several weeks.

Sincerely yours,
Joe Morgan

Glass named director of Ky. poetry program

Malcolm S. Glass, associate professor of English has been appointed as director of the Poets-in-the-Schools Program in Kentucky for the coming academic year.

Glass will take a leave of absence from the university, although he will continue to teach one class each quarter.

James Edgy, acting director for the Kentucky Arts Commission, Frankfort, announced that Glass will serve in the capacity under grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Kentucky Arts Commission.

"Purpose of the program," Edgy said, "is to have professional poets teach children to write poetry for a better understanding and enjoyment of poetry, language and composition."

Glass will teach for six-week periods in five different schools. Since the program is a pilot project, a schedule is being arranged for diversity and range, covering the state from western Kentucky to Appalachia, covering levels from primary grades through junior college and including a variety of schools from small rural locations to large inner-city schools.

He will work primarily with students in the classroom; but he will also be available as a consultant for teachers and school administrators.

In addition, Glass will be a poet-in-residence in the community where he is working, and he will be giving presentations of his poetry to schools, colleges, civic clubs and church groups.

The first assignment, beginning September 15, will be in Cloverport, in November he will begin working at Shawnee High School in Louisville.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS - A dean by any other name is a vice president, which seemed to be the case when the state board of education approved the title change of the five principal administrative officials at APSU. Discussing their new nomenclature are (l to r): Glenn S. Gentry, President Morgan, R. C. Shasteen, Earl E. Sexton, Dr. William H. Ellis and Dr. Charles N. Boehms.

Administrators change titles

The five principal administrative officials who report directly to the president at Austin Peay State University have been approved for title changes by the Tennessee State Board of Education.

The board, upon recommendation by Dr. Joe Morgan, APSU president, redesignated the administrative positions to carry the title of vice president, effective July 1, 1971.

"These changes are in line with present trends, and more accurately describe the individual responsibilities," Dr. Morgan said. The redesignation of the administrative positions is in accordance with the policy of the state board as adopted at its August 14, 1970 meeting; there is no promotion change.

The five individuals affected and their title changes include:

Dr. William H. Ellis from dean of faculties to vice president for academic affairs,

Dr. Charles N. Boehms from dean of students to vice president for student affairs.

Glenn S. Gentry from dean of admissions and registrar to vice president for admissions and records, Earl E. Sexton from director of development and field services to vice president for development and field services,

R. C. Shasteen from business manager to vice president for business affairs.

The changes will reserve the title of dean to heads of colleges and schools at the university.

Registration moves slowly

Upon admission to the gymnasium each student's card will be stamped with a design. No student will be allowed to re-enter the gym after his card has been stamped, so it is important that everyone completes the registration process before leaving. "If a student should leave without completing registration, getting back in will be time consuming," said Gentry.

For the first time this quarter all master cards will be printed with the student's time of admission into the gym. This is intended to speed up the process of entering.

Freshmen are reminded that they can avoid long lines on registration day by having their ID photos made in the ballroom tomorrow between noon and 4:30 p.m. Seniors can have their photos made between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Applicants now sought for justices

Applications for associate justices and bailiff of the Student Tribunal may be picked up in the SGA Office before September 23.

These should be completed and returned no later than September 24 to enable the SGA to set up time for an interview, according to Bill Sites, chief justice.

Four associate justice vacancies exist on the Student Tribunal.

Of Center for Teachers

Czirr appointed director

Dr. John Czirr has been appointed associate director of the Center for Teachers at Austin Peay State University, President Joe Morgan announced recently.

Czirr, 36, a native of Oswego, N.Y., comes to APSU from Syracuse University where he was an assistant professor from 1968 until being named to his new position.

The Center for Teachers, the nation's first, is a five-year pilot project designed to provide unique pre-service preparation for future high school teachers of chemistry, earth science, environmental science, mathematics and physics.

In addition, the $2.1 million project provides in-service assistance to all high school science and mathematics teachers in 21 school systems in the vicinity of APSU, both in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Operating on a grant of $1.36 million from the National Science Foundation, the remainder of the total cost is being provided by APSU.

Malheur Mayfield, director of the Center for Teachers, said, "We are very pleased to attract a person who brings with him a broad experience from another part of the country — experience which we feel will blend with our own experience to produce a more effective program for meeting the needs of in-service and pre-service teachers of high school science and mathematics."

Czirr will have a number of responsibilities, including acting for the director in his absence.

Bringing an unusually broad experience in teaching and school administration, Czirr holds his

B.S. and M.S. degrees from State University of New York at Oswego. He holds the Ed.D. from the University of Buffalo.

His biography has appeared in Leaders in Education. Czirr, his wife, Jo Ann, and two children, Maria, 4, and Steven, four months, reside at 105 Observatory Drive in Clarksville.

DR. JOHN CZIRR

Advance credit given by ROTC

Students with prior military service who completed officers' training schools and who were commissioned as officers may be entitled to advanced military credit at APSU.

Credit will be given according to the provisions of the American Council on Education's publication entitled "A Guide to the Evaluation of Educational Experiences in the Armed Services," with the establishment of the Advanced ROTC program.

'Storybook Victory' theme chosen

"Storybook Victory" will hopefully open new pages of ideas as the theme for Austin Peay State University's 1971 homecoming floats and decorations.

This theme was chosen late last spring from a list of 14 possibilities by a group composed of the 1970 homecoming steering committee, student co-chairmen of all 1971 homecoming committees and newly elected class officers for 1971.

November 20 has been set aside as the date for the homecoming parade and football game, pitting APSU against East Tennessee State University.

One possible change from last year's observance, according to

Henry Malone, director of alumni affairs and homecoming steering committee chairman, will be the addition of an award category for decoration of the campus's three fraternity houses.

Names reflect history of state, university

by BARBARA WEST

Did you ever wonder where the Ziegler Building got its "Ziegler" or who in the world were Claxton, Browning and McCord?

Most students at APSU do not know that the names of many of the buildings they study in during the day or sleep in at night represent key figures in the history of Tennessee.

Many buildings were named for governors of Tennessee, some for presidents of the institution and others for friends of the school.

The School itself was named for Austin Peay, Clarksville citizen and governor of Tennessee who was serving his third term of office when the school was established.

He was first inaugurated January, 1923 and served until 1927, when his third administration was cut short by his death.

Sevier Hall, a women's dorm built in 1967, has two wings, one named for John Sevier and the other for Valentine Sevier.

John Sevier was the first governor of Tennessee and served six terms, from 1796-1801 and from 1803-1809. Valentine Sevier was one of the first settlers in the Clarksville area.

Bloant Hall, a women's dormitory built in 1962, was named for Willie Bloant. Bloant, fourth governor of Tennessee, was inaugurated in September, 1869 and served until 1875.

The Marks Industrial Arts Shop and Annex was built in 1942 and enlarged in 1948 and 1961. It was named for Albert S. Marks, an early governor of Tennessee who was inaugurated in February 1813.

The Browning Administration Building was named for Gordon Browning, governor of Tennessee 1937-1939 and 1945-1953. This building was completed in 1950 during Browning's second term.

The McCord Science Building, named in honor of Jim Nance McCord, was completed in 1949. McCord, an outstanding governor in education from 1945 to 1949, was governor when the two cents sales tax for education was levied.

The Clement Fine Arts Building was named for Frank G. Clement, governor from 1963-1969 and 1963-1967. He was governor when the building was erected in 1959.

Ellington Hall, the largest men's dorm, was built in 1961 and added to in 1963. This dorm was named for Buford Ellington, governor of Tennessee 1950-1963 and 1967-1971.

Another group of buildings on campus were named for presidents of the institution. The Ziegler Building, built in 1955, was named for John S. Ziegler, the first president of Austin Peay Normal School, as it was called then.

Ziegler began his administration in 1929, but it was cut short by his death in 1930. The Ziegler Building, formerly the maintenance shop and storage building, now houses the geology and geography departments.

The Claxton Building, which houses the departments of psychology, library science, agriculture, education and the school of business and economics, was completed in 1967.

This building was named for Dr. Philander Priestly Claxton, second president of Austin Peay, serving from 1930 to 1946. Claxton was a most influential individual in the field of education.

Before coming to Austin Peay

Normal School, he was a member of the faculty of the University of North Carolina and that of the University of Tennessee, where he initiated the first major program in the South to educate teachers for southern public schools.

Harvill Hall, the honor dorm for women, was built in 1960. This building was named for Halbert Harvill, third president of Austin Peay and a state senator who educated teachers for southern public schools.

Under Harvill's administration the college's motto of "Grow With Austin Peay" came alive with the building of the McCord, Browning, Clement and Memorial Health and Physical Education Buildings; Ellington, McReynolds, Harvill and Miller Halls; Catherine Harvill Cafeteria and Ball Village.

The Catherine Evans Harvill Cafeteria was dedicated to Harvill's wife who died in 1935. The cafeteria was completed in 1957.

The oldest of the current buildings on campus is Harned Hall, built in 1821. This women's dorm was named for Myra McKay Harned, wife of F.L. Harned, who was State Commissioner of Education during the twenties. He was also the Chairman of the Board of Education when Austin Peay Normal School was established in 1927.

McReynolds Hall, completed in 1957 as a men's dorm, was named for Robert McReynolds. McReynolds, a Clarksville lawyer and Tennessee legislator, was instrumental in securing the establishment of Austin Peay Normal School in Clarksville and remained a longtime friend of the institution until his death.

Miller Hall, sometimes a women's and sometimes a men's dorm, was built in 1960 as a men's dorm. This dorm was named in honor of Jack Miller, president of Perkins and Miller (a Clarksville farm implement company) and a longtime friend of the university. Ball Village, first built to house married students, was constructed in 1960. This apartment building was named for Ernest Ball, a former member of the Board of Education who also served as chairman of the Committee on Budgets and Finance.

Built in 1964, Rawlins Hall was named for the late Dr. George Rawlins. Rawlins was a longtime member of the faculty and chairman of the department of chemistry.

Cross Hall, the men's athletic dorm built in 1966, was named for Patrick Henry Cross. Cross willed his house and estate, Emerald Hills, to the school.

The newest men's dorm, Killebrew Hall, was named for Joseph Buckner Killebrew, a former citizen of Montgomery County. He was Commissioner of Agriculture and Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Tennessee during the Reconstruction Period in the 1870's.

The Memorial Health and Physical Education Building, constructed in 1961, was named in memory of APSU students who were killed in active duty during World War II.

Quarles named director of student services here

Arnold Quarles has been named director of student services at Austin Peay State University, announced Dr. Joe Morgan, president.

The former Bar High School guidance counselor was vice-president for student affairs at Alabama State University in Montgomery prior to his appointment at APSU.

From responsibilities of the office are the coordination of student services and organizations. In addition, the director will work with the vice-president for development and field services in the administration of the financial aid program of the university.

"In working with student services and financial aid," Dr. Charles N. Boehms, vice-president for student affairs, said, "Mr. Quarles will perform an important function in the coordination and administration of these programs."

"Additionally, he will work with student organizations in providing supervision and leadership in this long-neglected area of the university community."

Quarles, 36, is a native of Montgomery County. He was employed by the Clarksville-Montgomery County School System from 1939-69 before moving to the Alabama State University position.

He holds the B.S. and M.S. degrees from Tennessee State University, and has done additional study in the counseling field at Tennessee State University.

Cafeteria takes on new flair

"All you can eat for a fair price," a juke box and a huge flower basket are a few of the new features sported by the Catherine Evans Ravill Cafeteria.

Under the watchful eye of Bob Goldthwaite, director of dining services, the cafeteria has been thoroughly redecorated and reorganized. Flexibility and the pleasing of students are the new aims of Goldthwaite and his staff.

Students participating in the new Dining Club Plan have a variety of selections to choose from: two or three entrees, three to four vegetables, two to three desserts, five to seven salads and beverages. Participants may return for extra servings of any item on the menu except the premium entree.

Under the Dining Club Plan, each participant is given a coupon book with one coupon for each week of the quarter. The minimum cost of $10.50 plus tax per week entitles the member to any combination of meals.

For those students desiring to eat 21 meals per week a special board plan is available.

For commuters and faculty only, there is a lunch only plan available which can be used at the snack bar anytime from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday or at the Cafeteria. The cost is $40 for 35 meals per quarter.

Students may pick up their coupons at the beginning of each quarter at Goldthwaite's office in the cafeteria. As an added service, the APSU Dining Service will help students budget their coupons to guard against loss of their entire books. Coupons represent cash and therefore cannot be replaced.

There is a $10 charge for dropping a membership. There will be no refunds for partial weeks and any bonus coupons will be subtracted from the refund.

Monday thru Saturday breakfast is served in the cafeteria from 7:30 a.m. Lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; dinner from 4:30-6 p.m. On Sunday only, breakfast is served from 8-10 a.m.

The University Center Snack Bar is open from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Sundays the snack bar opens at 1 p.m. and closes at 9:30 p.m.

Goldthwaite plans to hold dances and other activities each quarter to help fulfill his aim of pleasing students.

ARNOLD QUARLES

Publication honors 3 officials

Three Austin Peay State University officials have been named to appear in the 1971 edition of Outstanding Educators of America.

The trio includes Dr. Charles N. Boehms, vice-president for student affairs; Steve Cantelberry, assistant to the vice-president for academic affairs; and Dr. Donald L. Lambert, associate professor of education.

Selected for the honor on the basis of their civic and professional achievements, the three were nominated earlier this year by APSU.

Outstanding Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional service, achievements and leadership in education.

Guidelines for the selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

First time in 20 years

Wilson grants withheld

For the first time in more than 20 years, there will be no Woodrow Wilson Fellowship competition this fall.

Among college professors, and those college seniors who are thinking of becoming professors, this annual competition has become as much a part of the fall term as football.

In announcing that the fellowship program would be temporarily suspended, H. Ronald Rouse, national director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, said: "Funds currently available to the Foundation for first year graduate fellowships are being used to support over 200 fellows during the 1971-72 academic year."

"Prospects for securing new funds are uncertain. During the coming year, trustees and officers of the Foundation in cooperation with representatives of the academic world, will design a new fellowship program taking into account recent developments in graduate education and in the teaching profession, and seek funds for this new program."

The Wilson Fellowships are only one of a number of programs throughout the country which have suffered from the recent decline in fellowship support, Rouse said.

The U.S. Government, which in 1967 supported nearly 11,000 fellowships for beginning graduate students, has reduced or eliminated several programs. It will provide only about 1,500 new fellowships for 1972-73.

At the same time many state governments have similarly reduced the amount of support they provide, and a number of programs financed by corporations and private foundations have been discontinued.

As a result of rapid growth of graduate schools, more Ph. D.'s have been produced this year than can be placed, Rouse added. The economic recession and the recent wave of anti-academic sentiment across the country have combined to reduce drastically the amount of money available for college faculty salaries. As a result of these two factors the demand for college teachers has dropped just at the time when the supply is increasing.

"The officers and trustees of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation are convinced that there is not, and never will be, an oversupply of truly outstanding teachers, combining dedication to scholarship

"They are determined to find some means of continuing to identify, encourage and assist young people with these qualities in preparing for careers appropriate to their talents and society's needs," Dr. Rouse concluded.

Tuition fees on increase this quarter

Despite President Nixon's current wage-price freeze, registration, tuition and room fees are being increased at APSU this quarter, in compliance with amounts fixed late last spring for all state universities.

Textbook rental, student union fees and most special fees will remain the same as last year.

Tuition for out-of-state students for 12 or more credits are up $21 from $75 last quarter. The same fees per credit hour for less than 12 credits were increased from $7 to $8.

Room rental formerly ranged from $90 - 105 per quarter and apartment rental from $225 - 235. The rent was raised for rooms to $95 - 110 a quarter and apartment rent increased to $250 - 300 per quarter.

Increases in special fees included a raise of $5 in the graduation fee, from $15 to $20. The price increase means that the out-of-state student who resides in a dormitory will be paying approximately $100 more this fall than he would last spring. Least affected by the increase is the in-state commuting student.

All charges and fees are subject to change with the approval of the State Board of Education.

COMING THROUGH THE RYE - Members of the Tennessee Carolina Transport are winding their way to APSU to present a concert of music as if "out" to sound. The free performance will be Wednesday night at 8 in the Clement Auditorium.

Begin year Fraternities to save $5,000 for parkers week away

To live is to dance and to dance is to live, or least that's the philosophy of Charlie Brown's canine, Snoopy.

Tonight there will be a street dance outside the Catherine Evans Harvill Cafeteria with the group "Blackstone" playing.

A freshman mixer will be held tomorrow night at 9 on the practice field across from the Memorial Gymnasium.

Wednesday night there will be a free concert at 8 by "Tennessee Carolina Transport" in the auditorium off the Clement Fine Arts Building.

"Mouse and the Boys" will play for a dance Thursday night at 8 in the ballroom of the University Center. Admission is $1 per person.

The president's reception and dance will be held in the ballroom next Tuesday, Sept. 21. "Past-Present-Future" is the group playing. There is no charge for the reception and dance, which begins at 8.

It's often been said that the hardest part of a college education is finding a place to park. The problem should be lessened at APSU this year, if not solved, by the addition of 1,000 more spaces for general parking.

Also, for the first time, the Security Office will sell parking decals to freshmen resident students and will discriminate between male and female dormitory residents.

No extra spaces will be reserved, however, for resident students, faculty or administration. They must compete with commuters for general parking space when their assigned areas have been filled. Regulations concerning parking in color and area-coded facilities are enforced from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Citations issued for violations are to be paid within 72 hours, excluding Saturday and Sunday, at the Security Office, Browning (administration) Building.

The following penalties are assessed for violations of this code, and are subject to escalation in amount as shown: first citation, $2; second citation, $3; third citation, $4 (also a conference with the director of security); fourth and succeeding citations, $5.

The fifth citation means a disciplinary hearing, with the possible suspension of campus driving privileges.

In addition, a student who does not wish to register a vehicle to park on the APSU campus must sign a card in the registration line which states he is aware that if he parks on campus without a current decal, his car may be ticketed and he may be subjected to disciplinary action.

Campus social fraternities will unite to save students, faculty and administration a possible $5,000 in parking fines and citations.

Each of the four fraternities will take a week in each month in which its members will police the parking lots in two hour shifts. The purpose is to catch parking violations before the campus policemen.

This will give the fraternities an opportunity to work with the Security Office and build a better relationship with the campus police. Statistics will be kept to prove the savings.

'All State' offers ads to readers

As a service to readers of THE ALL STATE, a classified advertising section is run in each issue of the newspaper.

Use of the section is limited to APSU students, members of the faculty and administration and individuals of the Clarksville community.

Suggested classifications of advertisements include buying, selling, renting and rides or services wanted or offered. Others will also be considered.

Rates are five cents per word. Payment must be made in advance, at the time the wording is submitted. Forms are available at THE ALL STATE Office, Room 207 of the Browning Building.

Advertising must be turned in to the office by 4 p.m. Wednesday for inclusion in the next Wednesday's edition.

THE ALL STATE reserves the right to edit all advertisements submitted, should this be considered necessary.

MIKEY'S HERE! - Not quite Mickey Mouse and his Mouseketeers, but "Mouse and the Boys" will be playing and singing Thursday night at 8 in the Ballroom of the APSU University Center. Sponsored by the University Social Activities Board, the dance will be $1 per person.

GI Bill applicants reap benefits

Anyone who is eligible to receive G.I. Bill benefits and who wishes to receive these benefits for the fall, winter or spring quarters of the 1972-73 academic year must complete and turn in form VA-1 to the Office of Admissions and Records.

These forms, to be returned after completing registration, may be obtained from the wall rack just outside the door to the Admissions Office.

If a student has never attended the university under the bill, or has attended another university under the bill since last attending APSU, he must submit two copies of his Certificate of Eligibility from the VA naming APSU as his school of attendance.

These should be turned in along with the VA-1 form. The Admissions Office cannot certify a student's first enrollment without this Certificate of Eligibility.

Those wishing to receive benefits are urged to read the form carefully and give all the information applicable to them. If they have earned credit at other universities or colleges in addition to that earned at APSU, applicants are asked to give the names and number of credit hours earned.

Any further questions in regard to the G.I. Bill should be directed to Mrs. Adams in the Admissions Office.

Policy changes on file reviews

Beginning shortly after Oct. 1 a change will be made in the policy of permitting students to review their academic records in the Office of Admissions and Records.

After that date students may review an unofficial transcript of their records for 25 cents. Any other record in the student's academic file may be obtained for 15 cents per sheet.

In the past, students have been allowed to review their academic records in person. In the future, students will not be handed their records to sit in the office and study.

In some cases students have marked on records in the extent that new records have had to be made before they could be duplicated in an acceptable form. Records have also been removed from the files or lost.

Data on GRE testing now available

Undergraduates and others preparing to go to graduate school may take the next Graduate Record Exams on October 23. Scores from this test date will be reported to the graduate schools around December 1.

Students planning to take the exams at this time should have their applications in by October 3. After that date, applicants must pay a $3.50 late registration fee. Applications received after October 8 have no guarantee of being processed for the October 23 test date.

Five other test dates are Dec. 11, 1971 and Jan. 15, Feb. 20, April 22 and June 17, 1972. Equivalent late fees and registration deadlines apply to these dates. Choice of test dates should be determined by the requirements of graduate schools or fellowships to which one is applying. Scores are usually reported to graduate schools five weeks after a test date.

Record evaluations aid seniors

During the two weeks of September 20 to October 1 final checkouts are required of seniors completing degree requirements not later than Dec. 9, 1971.

Students must secure the signatures of both their major and minor advisers on the "Evaluation of Degree Requirements" form and present it with the "Credit Check Blank" in the Office of Admissions and Records during this period.

These required forms were sent along with instructions to students after their comprehensive checkout.

Failure to present these forms may jeopardize graduation. Next dates for final checkouts will be Jan. 4 to 15, 1972. Appointments are not necessary.

Comprehensive evaluations for those planning to graduate during the 1971-72 academic year will be given the two weeks of October 18 to 29, the only time during fall quarter.

The comprehensive evaluation is required before the last quarter of enrollment and failure to comply may result in graduation being delayed.

Tarr gives draft counseling

Students who were enrolled full-time in the 1970-71 academic year will be eligible for deferments in the 1971-72 school year if they continue to make satisfactory progress in their programs of study, announced the Selective Service System.

However, young men who entered school for the first time this summer and those who enroll as freshman this fall will not qualify for student deferments if the pending changes to the selective service act are passed by Congress.

The House has completed action on the bill and final Senate action is expected this month.

students are likely to be inducted in the near future because of the student deferment phaseout," stated Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, selective service director.

Tarr said that college students will not be drafted in the middle of a semester or quarter. "If called while enrolled, they will be allowed to postpone their induction until the end of the term. If in their last academic year, they will be able to postpone their induction until after graduation."

"If the pending selective service legislation does not pass," Tarr said, "it would not be in a registrant's best interest to obtain a student deferment which would extend his liability until age 35."¹¹

"Should Congress change the legislation to provide for deferments for new incoming freshmen, which is most unlikely, applications for deferments will not be jeopardized by delaying their submission until after passage of the new law."

The President's authority for the induction of all men under 35, except for those who have or who have had deferments, expired on June 30, 1971.

If Congress does not reinstate the general induction authority, the President could authorize the induction of those registrants who hold or have held deferments.

In this unlikely event, the selective service officials believe that manpower requirements of the Department of Defense probably could be met by inducting those young men who have recently dropped deferments because of graduation or a change in occupations.

Recent college graduates or dropouts would make up the bulk of inductions, the officials said. The officials added that cancellations of deferments probably would not be necessary nor would it be necessary to call those who have passed into the second priority selection group.

Any APSU student who wishes his enrollment certified to his local draft board should fill in completely the top section of the printed orange IBM card in his computer registration packet and leave it in his packet.

The Office of Admissions and Records will check this against the records on file. The office will also await the receipt of transfer records before determining proper classification.

Veterans and persons who do not wish their enrollments certified to their boards need not complete these forms - only those who wish to be considered for student deferments by their local boards.

Students who have questions concerning their classification or certification of enrollment should see Mrs. Adams in the Office of Admissions and Records.

ROTC program starts operation

APSU's ROTC program goes into full operation this quarter for the first time.

June marked the ROTC's move from the first floor of the Browning Building to its newly created office space and classroom in the Armory.

Four sections of freshman military science, the basic fundamentals of leadership and management as applied to military service, are scheduled for this quarter.

Advanced techniques of leadership and management are offered in two sections of junior military science this quarter. Sophomore and senior classes will be held if students enroll in them.

The ROTC Office is open at all times during registration for those desiring assistance.

Gobs open season with favored Troy

by RICHARD GAIA

One of the top small college football teams in the nation comes to Clarksville Saturday night, to help "kick-off" the 1971 college football season against the Governors, of Austin Peay. The Gobs, hoping to rebound from a humiliating 28-0 1970 loss, will probably send sophomore Mike Johnson to quarterback the offensive corp against the Red Wave from Troy, Alabama.

Last year the Governors were badly beaten in Troy by the Alabama group. Troy State All-American quarterback Al Head "passed the Gobs crazy," and a staunch defense caused APSU punter Jim Hardie to set a new OVC record for punts in a game, with 13.

This year the Gobs go into the opener on better, and more even terms. Last year no less than seven APSU starters were injured for the season open, forcing Dupes to start a number of inexperienced freshmen.

This year, however, the Governors have been much more free from injuries. Crossing his fingers, Dupes hopes the luck will hold out.

The backfield of the Governors is much stronger and bigger than in the past. Running from a straight T backfield the "Dupemen" are slated to start fullback Paul Cooley, halfback Kenny Johnson, and flanker B. Art Hicks.

Cooley, a sophomore fullback, stands at 5-10, and weighs in at 209, giving the Gobs the possibility of one of the best fullbacks since John Ogles.

Kenny Johnson, (185) a senior halfback gives the Gobs both the inside running ability and the moves to go outside. Last year he was sixth in the OVC in rushing.

Art Hicks (195) is the fastest of the backs. He has the speed to break around end and find daylight. In last week's scrimmage against Tech Hicks was the leading rusher with 101 yards, 45 coming in a touchdown.

The Red Wave's head coach Billy Atkins hopes to put his team back at the nation's top. Troy State, until last season, had won three straight conference championships, and had won the NAIA national championship in 1968.

Troy will bring back 11 battle-tested regulars, six on defense and five on offense. The veteran defensive backfield leads the team. Atkins is hoping this year's defense is as good as the one two years ago - which ranked seventh in the nation.

The secondary will have veterans Ronnie Midland (180), and Johnny Cowart (185) at the corners, with returner Mike Puderbach (185) at one of the safeties.

Middle linebacker Greg Wright (195) and outside man Mike Clark (200) were around last year, while John Kammierczak (200), a redshirt, makes up the linebacking corp.

The defensive line averages over (230), but right end Dick Bensinger (210) is the only starter coming back. Transfers, freshmen, and redshirts are the hopes for the defensive line.

Troy State has, in the past, relied on the pass, but the decision by quarterback Al Head.

Cross-country run Racers

Having recently returned from a week of preparation for the 1971 Cross country season, Coach Jim Jordan feels his team should be much stronger than last year's.

The Gov's X-country team opens their season Saturday, when they will run against the Murray State Racers.

Twelve squadmen traveled to a boy's camp in Highland, North Carolina last week. Jordan explained he had initiated this program so the squad would be in better shape for the first match with Murray.

He also stressed that he wanted to give the team a better feeling of unity and togetherness. "We really didn't have any problems last year," Jordan said, "but the runners didn't really get a chance to know each other prior to our season opening."

He felt that taking the squad off for a while and letting them live together, eat together, and work together in a different set of surroundings, they could accomplish a lot of what they think is important, and do it in a lot less time.

Going on the North Carolina jaunt were Jordan, assistant coach Bob Nelson, a trainer, and the nine runners.

The runners who went on the training trip were: Steve Baird, Chuck Nelson, David Wells, Richard Harvey, David Rentes, Harry Reed, Mike Zachery, Ronald Bush, and Carl Tonitis.

During the 1971 season Jordan has scheduled seven dual meets, one quadrangular meet, two invitational meets, and two conference meets.

Jordan said, "We think this schedule is very competitive for our young men. We are gradually building up our track program and think we have improved greatly over our schedule last year."

Morehead to win it all: APSU will upset Troy

The winner of the 1971 OVC football championship, will be decided until November 20, after the Eastern Kentucky-Morehead gridiron clash.

An outlandish statement? No, not after looking over the two schools teams and the schedules they incur this season.

Many feel this OVC football season will be the best, and closest in the conference's 23 year history. Experts have pointed to Eastern, Morehead, Middle Tennessee, and Western as the league's top contenders. Just following the brigade come East Tennessee, Tennessee Tech, Austin Peay, and Murray State.

I pick Morehead to notch the championship on their belts, simply because they play Middle Tennessee and their season's final, against Eastern, on their home field.

This is the way I see the OVC seasonal outlook.

(1) Morehead - Coach Jake Hallum has 37 lettermen returning for the 71 season, including 15 seniors. The Eagles had the top offensive team in the league last year, and return a large number of the ball-moving stalwarts.

They have, perhaps the best quarterback in the league in sophomore Dave Schaeztle, who gained 144 total yards in 1970. He teams with running back Bill Grayson and ends Gary Shirk and Bill High.

The defense, which was second best in the OVC last year, returns nine starters which should give the Eagles the inside edge in winning the championship.

(2) Eastern Kentucky - May be able to overcome Morehead for the title, but having to play MTSU, at Murfreesboro, and Morehead at Morehead puts them second on the list.

The Colonels, under head coach Roy Kidd, return 27 upperclassmen, of which 21 started at one time or another.

The entire defense returns, which is led by All-OVC tackle Wally Chambers, and linebacker James Croupe. Last year the Colonels only allowed 10 points per game, and this year could be even worse for opponents.

Jim Brooks, all-OVC tailback, leads the Eastern offense. In his first three seasons Brooks has rushed for over 3000 yards.

The quarterback slot will be held down by Bob Fricker, who hit on 47 percent of his passes last season. He has a talented group of receivers to catch the pigskin also.

(3) Western Kentucky-WKU who won the OVC last year won't be able to repeat the job this year. Even though Coach Jimmy Felix returns 27 of 39 lettermen, last year's team wasn't really

APSU overcomes Tech

by RICHARD GAIA

Austin Peay, on a strong defensive showing, and a surprising offensive display, stomped the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles in a controlled scrimmage, on Municipal Stadium's astro turf.

The scrimmage, held last Tuesday, gave the coaches of both squads a chance to evaluate their teams, and decide on what to work for the upcoming season opener.

The Governors outscored the Tech team 43-23, on the running of Art Hicks, Paul Cooley and Chip McMinn, along with two scoring passes by sophomore quarterback Mike Johnson to Tom Dotter.

The scrimmage, which consisted of each team taking the ball on their own 35 yard line and carrying the ball until they lost possession, lasted over two hours.

Along with the regular scrimmage, the teams worked from their 30 yard line in, and from their 10 yard line in.

Austin Peay started the scoring when Art Hicks rambled 65 yards over left tackle for a score. Shia added the point after touchdown (PAT), and the Gavs led 7-0.

Hicks later scored his second TD, running around the right end for one yard. Shia's extra point attempt was off, and APSU ran out to a 13-0 lead.

Momentum gradually turned on the Gavs, as Tech scored two straight touchdowns. Wally Fox (210) fullback ran 30 yards over

The second, off the two touchdowns, came when quarterback Mike Ledford threw a 29 yard TD strike to freshman end Tommy Pemberton. Gentry missed the conversion, and the score stood tied.

A five yard run by Chip McMinn added to the APSU score, further along in the game. McMinn, sophomore fullback, (180) balled over right tackle for the tally.

New coach gets team off to 'swinging' start

by ANITA KYRIAKOS

The 1971-72 Austin Peay golf team is off to a "swinging" start under new head coach Walton Smith, Jr.

Smith, one of the top amateur golfers in the south, remarked that he was very excited over the possibilities of a good team this year.

One reason for Smith's excitement is the fact that all of the recruited freshmen are high school regional champs.

Austin Peay to beat Troy

The offense looks strong under quarterback Leo Pakenpaugh and a strong group of receivers, including Jay Davis, Darryl Smith, and Tom Turner. They also have two of the finest running backs in the league in sophomores Clarence Jackson and John Embree.

(4) Middle Tennessee, who has picked by some to win the OVC, will fall because of a number of young players.

Thirty-two lettermen are returning, but coach Bill Peck has a problem at quarterback. Dean Rodebaugh appears to have the job, however split end Melvin Daniels might move to the field general spot.

Two good running backs in Reuben Justice and Jesse Carter give the Raiders a good ground attack, especially with a fine offensive line in front of them.

(5) East Tennessee - The Bucs, coached by John R. Bell, might possibly be an OVC championship contender, but the lack of a good quarterback will put them in the number five slot.

The Bucs, who have always been defense-minded, will have All-American candidate Jerry Weston heading up the defensive secondary. A pair of tackles, who might be great, will also beef up the defense.

The quarterback position that was vacated by All-OVC Larry Graham will probably go to senior Richard McGlothlin. Catching passes will be John Rauch, son of Buffalo Bill's coach Johnny Rauch.

(6) Austin Peay - Austin Peay will probably have the most improved team in the OVC. Twenty-seven lettermen return to Coach Bill Dupe's team, which gives the Gavs the largest group in many years.

Mike Johnson has the inside edge for the quarterback slot, and with runningbacks Kenny Johnson, Art Hicks, and Paul Cooley the Gavs have a highly respectable team.

Defensively, the team is headed by tackle Bonnie Sloan, safety Ronnie Fuqua, and linebackers Bill Blair and David Phillips.

Another surprise the Governors have is linebacker Gerald Nobel, and perhaps their best all-round ballplayer Calvin Warner.

(7) Tennessee Tech - The Don Wade coached team supposedly had a pretty fair ball club, but after watching the Golden Eagles' scrimmage against the Austin Peay ball team it seems the Tech group might be a bit overrated.

David Fair quarterbacked the Eagles attack, and has a host of fine runningbacks. Tight end Jim Bishop leads the receiving corp.

Defensively the team is lacking. Jimmy Youngblood, end, and Ben McNabb, linebacker, are both All-OVC performers, but around the ends the team suffers.

(8) Murray-Murray is in the same boat Austin Peay has been in, in the past. The offense has a number of holes which might possibly be filled - but doubtfully.

Quarterback Garnett Scott, who spot-started last year, leads the Racers, and fullback Rick Fisher returns, but neither of the backs might have the opportunity to show their stuff because the front line is weak.

This week's picks

Troy State at Austin Peay: This should be the top game in the OVC this week. Troy has always been among the top in the small college championship polls.

Austin Peay is as high emotionally as a team could be, especially after the Tennessee Tech scrimmage the Gavs won 48-28. Quarterback Mike Johnson is ready for the game and the Governor runningbacks look like different personnel from last year.

The winner? Austin Peay 27 - Troy State 23

Appalachian at East Tennessee: Appalachian, an independent is sure to be trouble for the Bucs. The Mountaineers have installed the Y offense, and look like a new team.

The Bucs, however, should be able to handle the Jim Bakerfield coached team.

The game will go to East Tenn. 28-13.

Eastern Kentucky v.s. N. Iowa at Ashland: Eastern Kentucky should have no problems with the Panthers of N. Iowa. Eastern 31 - N. Iowa 17.

Middle Tennessee at U.T. at Martin: This game will be a real "doozy." Middle Tennessee has one of their finest teams in many years, but U.T. Martin has the "hosses" to beat the Raiders.

The game is a toss-up, but I'll go with the Raiders because they played their first game last Saturday, and have that little bit of extra experience.

Middle Tenn. 24 - U.T. Martin 21

Marshall at Morehead: Playing their first football game since the tragic plane crash last year, the Marshall team is no match for Morehead.

Morehead 35-Marshall 14.

W. Carolina at Tenn. Tech: Even though the Eagles were very unimpressive they should win their opener. Tenn. Tech 21 - W. Carolina 7.

Wittenberg at Western Kentucky: Last year Wittenberg went (9-9), but only because they played an ineligible player. They really had a (9-0) record before the NCAA ruling made them forfeit all of their games.

Western 28 - Wittenberg 34.

WALTON SMITH, JR.

Dennis Rice, a Kentucky Junior, will be battling it out for the number one position with sophomore Mike Carr.

Carr, last year, was presented the APSU Alumni Association Award, as the golf team's most valuable member.

Carr, who is 6-3 won, lost record, in 1970, while Rice went 7-3. In the battle for the number one position Carr led last year's golfers with a 70.0 strokes per round average.

Dix Schmidt, a senior returning from California, is coming back for his last season and will be placed in order along with freshmen John Ignacio, Ft. Campbell; Jack Roadcap, Douglas, Ga.; Doug Logan, Shelbyville, Ky.; and Randy Deuger, Lebanon, Ind.

Practice will officially start September 13, Smith reported. He also said the playing course had not been selected as of yet. Smith's fall schedule is currently incomplete, but his October matches include: Oct. 1-2, Sewanee Invitational; at Sewanee; Oct. 8-9, Murray State Invitational; Oct. 15, WSM Invitational; at Henry Horton State Park; and Oct. 21-22, Fall Tennessee Tourney, site unknown.

Govs open season

last year's NAIA passing leader—to pass up his senior year of eligibility and the loss of All-American flanker Vince Green might make the Red Wave go more to the ground attack.

With the absence of Head, an interesting battle has built up between Junior Harold Logan and redshirt freshman Ken McClain for the field general job.

Jim Perkins, Lewis Harden, and Chris Tyra will be on the receiving end of the passes.

Fullback Bill Ragel will lead the ground game. Ragel (206) was Troy's rushing leader last season. Cliff Durham (200), Johnny Grimes (175) and Sidney Cooper (210) will also see action in the first seasonal game.

Three of the six interior linemen return from last year's team, so the line should be improved. Gene Haskins (5-4) (270) will probably be assigned to take care of APSU defensive tackle Bennie Sloan.

Austin Peay who has his spirits higher than in past years are hoping to get back at Troy. Last year, at Troy, APSU had 64 yards total offense to 402 by the Red Wave.

Troy had 20 more first downs, 23 - 3.

Coach Bill Dupes, who was smiling from ear-to-ear following the 43 - 23 rout of Tennessee Tech in a controlled scrimmage, seems to feel his Govs are better off than in the past.

Peay overcomes Tech

The score was set up by runs from McClain, halfback David Almand, and freshman runningback Glen Harkader. Shea missed his second conversion.

Tech had little trouble rebounding from the Gov's score. Jeff Axl (215) junior fullback carried the ball five times, picking up 19 yards and scoring on a one yard TD run.

Gentry converted on the extra point, and Tech took the lead 20-19.

Mike Johnson, determined to settle the score, threw a nine yard pass to junior end Tom Douser. Shea hit the conversion and the "Peay" took the lead to stay.

Another pass to Douser set up a score near the games conclusion, and a one yard quarterback sneak by David Walker, and a 30 yard field goal by Shea gave the Governors breathing room.

Tech's kicking specialist Butch Gentry kicked a 22 yard field to goal to cap the afternoon of activity for the Eagles.

APSU outdid the Eagles in the statistic department also scoring 14 first downs to 10 for Tech. The Govs also picked up 253 total offense to 138 for the Cockeville school.

Tennis

Coach, team ready for season

Jack Justice was the Austin Peay tennis coach for only one year, the 1971 season. But his contribution to the Governor tennis program will be remembered for many years to come.

Justice has brought what was a very mediocre tennis squad when he began with his coaching duties at APSU up to what many predict will be an Ohio Valley Conference contender next spring.

New tennis coach Bob Willett of Danville, Ill., will take the talent Justice has brought to the Austin Peay campus and try to convert it into the first first OVC tennis championship. And what talent has the young newby had to deal with.

Leading the list for the 1972 squad is Noel Phillips and Erasmo Sanhueza, both sophomores. Australian-born Phillips reached the semi-final round of the number one player division in the OVC spring sports tournament last spring. Sanhueza from Chile finished runner-up in the number two player division.

The play of Phillips and Sanhueza on the team led to the signing of two more top-flight noters. Manuel Losada, a tennis ace and good friend of Sanhueza arrived in Clarksville last week in time to compete in the Clarksville City championships. Sanhueza defeated his Chilean comrad in the finals of the Labor Day week-end tourney in three sets.

Phillips is responsible for the signing of Jim Barrowman. Barrowman will arrive the winter quarter. Phillips and Barrowman were former teammates and doubles partners on their high school team in the Sydney area.

The only other recent signee is Lawrence Weiss of Macon, Ga. Weiss was the number four ranked junior player in Georgia last year.

The only other two returnees coach Willett will have next spring is David Scanlon and Don Cooper. Both are juniors.

"Our 13-13 record may" had for last year considering we played teams such as Mississippi State, Alabama, Vandy, Memphis State plus the tough OVC and many other large schools," pointed out Justice. "We should have a 100 per cent improved program and I can safely say we will definitely be a threat to anybody. We could win the OVC and have a shot at getting some of our people in the NCAA tournament."

"Coach Willett has quite a record," says Justice optimistically. "He played number one position for Murray for two years in a row. He has also won numerous titles across the U.S. in United States Lawn Tennis Association competition."

Together with his tennis ability and things he's learned, he should make an outstanding coach."

WKU dealt rough blow

Jim Richards may well begin his first season as Western Kentucky University's head basketball coach with two of his expected starters on the sidelines with injuries.

Senior guard Rex Bailey, a starter for the Hilltoppers' national third-place team last year, was lost indefinitely last week when he injured a hand in an accident at the industrial plant where he held a summer job.

This week it was learned that two-year regular Jerome Perry, a senior who sat out last season with a knee injury, will have to undergo another operation on the same knee. The surgery will be performed at Doctors Memorial Hospital, Atlanta, Ga.

"Losing two boys like Jerome and Rex would be a blow to anybody's basketball program," Richards said. "It especially hurts when the losses come back-to-back."

"But we have to be optimistic and look at the bright side of things. Doctors tell us that there is every possibility that Jerome may be ready to play again by December. We just hope it works out that way. With both him and Rex, we'll just have to adopt a wait-and-see attitude."

Perry re-injured his knee slightly about four weeks ago and felt that it was not making proper progress after that time. Diagnoses by several physicians confirmed that further corrective surgery was necessary.
