PRIVATE CONFERENCE
Rufus Albright, a senior business instructor, and Jerry Clark, a business instructor, discuss a private conversation on the campus of the student center.

Campus to receive three new buildings

By Mary Kay Hinton

Three new buildings are currently in various stages of construction at Austin Peay State University.

The new maintenance and security, business, and student apartment buildings are all approved and budgeted, according to Donn Brown, director of the physical plant.

The new maintenance building will be the first completed. The date of completion is scheduled for Dec. 8, with "90 days worth of moving," Brown said.

One wing of this building will be used for the new security offices. This area will have a private entrance from the maintenance section.

Located at the end of Sumner Street, behind Municipal Stadium, the building has not yet been named. The controversy that surrounded the closing of Sumner Street was settled by building the parking lot and storage area for large machinery around the street.

"The asphalt has not been lifted," Brown said. "There are water pipes underneath the street that we didn't want to disturb. If it became absolutely necessary, the street could be reopened."

J. Harold Shankle is the contractor for this building. Shankle is from Nashville. Rufus Johnson, a local architect, designed the building. The building contains 24,500 gross square feet, with 19,000 usable square feet. The estimated cost of the building is $1,170,000.

"The building is a definite management improvement," Brown explained. "Being so close to campus will cut down on response time. We spend too much time moving machinery to the spot it is needed."

Next fall the new student apartments will be open for tenants.

Each apartment contains two bedrooms, one bath, a kitchen and a general living room/dining room area. There are 54 units with housing space for 213. There are three apartments modified for handicapped persons. Each handicapped person has a private bedroom.

Jerry Clark designed these apartments and Harris Construction Company is building the new housing. The approximate cost will be $2,110,000.

Ground has not been broken for the new business building. Geologists have checked the plot designated for soundness, Brown said.

Brown referred to the schedule as a "gray zone" but said that an optimistic guess would be that the contract would be signed sometime early in January. "There are 450 planned construction days, so that set completion for mid-April 1982," he said.

The building contains 10 classrooms, several seminar rooms and office space for all deans, departmental chairman and instructors in the business department. At the present time some business instructors have offices in the McReynolds Building as well as the Claxton Building.

Rufus Johnson is also the architect for this building. Its estimated total cost, with 19,000 usable square feet, is $2,700,000.

Brown said that the recent budget cuts did not affect these buildings because they had been budgeted into the fiscal plan last year. He did add that "This is it for now. I don't foresee any major buildings in the new future."

Brinkley appointment debated

By Cathy Allsup

A controversial cabinet appointment resurrected old ghosts at last Thursday night's Senate meeting. The proposed appointment of Jill Brinkley, former SGA Vice-President, as executive assistant to SGA President Duane McDowell, passed only after three separate votes.

McDowell introduced his appointment nomination saying, "Myself and Ms. Brinkley have discussed matters at length. The working relationship is understood."

"Last year is over," he said in reference to Brinkley's resignation and conflict with last year's administration. "There is no need to beat a dead horse. We must have experience, we lack experience," continued the president.

He stressed the former Vice President would not be in a policy making role, after one voice vote, one role call vote, a recess and a call for reconsideration of the denial by Senator Mike Trent did the Senate approve the appointment 10-1.

In an interview after the meeting, Vice-President Tony Marable commented that the vote showed support for McDowell, rather than support for Brinkley.

"We have people who remember the events of last year on the senate and the Cabinet. It's up to her-if she stays in her job description, if the senate feels she has done a good job there will be no problems."

"Jill has the ball now. She is going to have to work the hardest to heal the SGA wound," Marable concluded.

McDowell had expressed disappointment during the debate of the negative vote, "I am deeply disappointed. I was hoping we could start anew and leave the past behind," he said. The eventual acceptance of his nominee brought words of praise and thanks for the senate from the president.

The appointment of Dan McFarland as student defender passed by voice vote.

SGA begins year

Student Fund monies totaling $360 were approved by the SGA Senate to send two campus representatives to the National Black Student Leadership Conference in Atlanta.

Duane McDowell, who presented the fund request at last week's meeting, stated the funds would be taken from a previous amount approved for another convention. The previous convention trip fell through, according to McDowell.

He stated in excess of $1000 was approved for the aborted trip last spring. The balance of the allotment will be returned to the student fund.

Attending the trip will be SGA Vice President Tony Marable and Attorney General Mike McDonald. McDonald stated a report concerning the delegates experience would be provided.

In additional business, Attorney General McDonald called for a committee to review certain areas of the SGA constitution. McDonald cited what he termed "homophobes" in some areas of the document. No formal action was taken upon the request.

While no legislation was presented at the first regular meeting of the quarter, Vice President Marable stressed his senate is working.

Marable cited the problem, while not of surface importance, is a very real problem for those students who do not have access to proper desks.

Drop-add ends

If you somehow found yourself in a 400 level accounting class when you meant to take 201, today is the last day to correct your mistake.

A fee of $5 entitles the student to add any open class, drop "undesirable" classes in which he is presently enrolled or correct any other scheduling error.

While drop-add ends today, this is not the last day the student may withdraw from a class. Students may continue in their present course of study until Friday, October 17, with the option of withdrawal open.

After October 17, withdrawal from a class with earn a grade of "F".

Diary of a dorm student

By Joe Gillespie

Meditations on moving in, September 13, 1980.

September is the cruelest month.....

1:46: The door will not open. The key fits the lock, but the door will not open. Period.

2:02: The door finally opens.

2:03: The room isn't that bad. The curtain looks like a sail from the Spanish Armada, but everything else is fine.

2:09: While drawing the curtain, a platoon of cockroaches explodes. One of the little buggers falls on my face.

2:15: The bathroom, the final frontier. These are the voyages of the spaceship Joe, whose four-year mission is to get away from all of this. The bath room is perfect except for the roach corpses floating in the toilet and shower.

2:20: Leave room for luggage. Absentmindedly I lock the door behind me.

2:30: Door opens.

2:37: List of things to do:
1. Buy D-Con. 2. Buy roach motel. 3. Meet roommate. 4. Entsuuper. 5. Cut wrists. 6. Die.

2:43: Change mind about items 5 and 6.

3:09: Squash one large roach with bare foot. And grave by grave we civilize the ground.

4:30: Unpacking and assorting is finished.

5:37: I am on my bed watching the CBS Evening News. John Anderson is on the tube, talking without moving his top lip. Reminds me of a seal act I once saw in Florida. The seal had a personality, however.

5:39: A thought crosses my mind as I doze off. I am now a bonafide resident of Clarksville, the cemetery with traffic lights. Incredible.

The SGA sponsored Ice Cream/Watermelon Picnic was termed "a great success in terms of student participation. There was a good turn out of new and returning students according to the president.

In addition, McDowell also noted the success of Tuesday's free coke give away. There, the officers of the SGA dispensed free drinks and information to questioning students.

The picnic/concert was presented in co-operation with the University Social Activities Board, Tony Thompson chairman.

USAB sponsors Hanneford Circus

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance of Hanneford Circus here on the APSU campus.

The circus will be held in the Dunn Center on Wednesday, Oct. 1, 1980 at 4:30 and 8 p.m.

The circus, a major three-ring production and one of the country's largest, has appeared at other colleges and universities, including the University of Virginia, Purdue University, University of Alabama, University of Ohio, Tennessee Tech, West Point Military Academy and others.

The University Social Activities Board will sponsor the circus at APSU.

Hanneford Circus presents a performance that includes all of the traditional circus features. The performance runs for two hours and includes 30 acts in 20 displays. The circus has various acts and exhibits with special emphasis on trained wild animals, including tigers and leopards.

Its performers include aerialists, acrobats, jugglers, riders and animal trainers.

One of the features of the show is the Hanneford Family bareback riding act, utilizing nine performers and six Percheron and Apalosa horses. Headed by Tommy Hanneford, the "Riding Fool," the act has been featured on several network television variety shows of recent years, in motion pictures, Madison Square Garden, the Palladium in London, the Calgary Stampede, and the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

The Hanneford Family traces a lineage of 300 years as equestrians. Appearing as a guest star with the act will be Peter Haubner a rider from the Hungarian State Circus in Budapest. Haubner tours through the cooperation of the United States State Department and the Hungarian Government.

Hanneford Circus has a company of over 60 persons and requires 25 vehicles for its transportation. It carries complete floorcovering to permit the transformation of a standard basketball floor into a circus arena without damage to the floor surface.

It also carries spotlights, overhead lights, sound equipment, aerial rigging and properties required for the presentation of a big-league production.

The cost of admission for the circus will be $3 for students, $5 for adults and children under 12 will be admitted free.

'Storm Windows' less refined

By Bobby Jones

Kris Kristofferson said that John Prine was like a new Bob Dylan back in 1971. Well, it's 1980 and John Prine refuses to "serve somebody."

"Storm Windows," Prine's latest effort on Asylum Records is a return to a less refined sound. In many aspects "Windows" has much of the "Memphis Sound" recorded on Prine's last LP "Pink Cadillac" without getting quite as gritty.

The cuts off "Windows" are reminiscent with his highly acclaimed LP "Bruised Orange" recorded in 1977. Recorded at Muscle Shoals Sound Studios in Sheffield, AL, Prine has captured the classic Muscle Shoals feeling to his latest work.

As in "Cadillac," Prine cuts loose on several rockers while keeping in a few ironic ballads on which his cult status arose.

Prine's melodies are amazingly simple. He once wrote about his tunes, "I just bang out 3 or 4 chords on the guitar mostly in 'G' with a capo and sing and holler all these words. Occasionally I put in a minor chord to let people know it's going to be a sad one."

The melodies aren't Prine's selling point, however.

His lyrics are what will stick in your head after hearing him sing. One cut from "Windows" entitled "Living in the Future" is a typical example.

We are living in the Future
I'll tell you how I know
I read it in the paper fifteen years ago
We're all driving rocket ships and talking with our minds
And wearing turquoise jewelry
And standing in soup lines.

Prine's voice is unique, not necessarily good, just unique. But somehow the songs wouldn't be the same if someone else sang them. Almost like hearing Kate Smith sing a Neil Young song.

Few artists outside of country music have much success with steel guitars, mandolins and fiddles. Prine happens to be one. The sound is crisp and refreshing, yet enough of a best to make it rock.

"Storm Windows" may very well be Prine's best effort since giving up the life of a mailman some ten years ago. It's a shame he's become a cult figure because his songs are about things with which everyone can identify.

Rush Record turnout

So far fall rush has been a "positive Greek experience," says Glenda Earwood, Director of Student Life.

Earwood's comment came upon the heels of the large turnout for fall rush. She noted 105 women participated in formal rush at one point. This compares to 60 participants last fall.

Male Greeks also expect record participation. Al Proctor, Pi Kappa Alpha president, says he expects a big rush period, with much participation in all the different fraternity activities.

Rush period for most campus Greeks will continue for the next two to three weeks.

Formal Panhellenic

rush ended last Saturday, allowing the member sororities to participate in open rush. Fraternities, who have no formal rush, will sponsor a combination of open and invitation only parties.

Earwood explained the different rush methods resulted from two different philosophies. "Panhellenic feels it's member sororities have the best chance for survival if given an equal chance to pledge members."

Fraternity standards call for "the survival of the fittest," she continued.

Information concerning rush may be obtained by contacting Earwood (7451) or any campus Greek.

RHC organizes and sets goals

The Residence Hall Council will have a new president and new goals this fall, according to Jim Greer, RHC executive assistant.

Phil Jones, who was elected president last spring by write-in vote, transferred to University of Mississippi. Thus the office of president was assumed by former Vice-President Jon Irwin.

The Vice President of the 1980-81 Council will be Dederick Yeargin. Greer retained his position as Executive Assistant, while Cindy Deloach takes over as Communications Co-ordinator.

Greer stated the emphasis of the Council will be on programming. "Funds for student programs are to be provided for the RHC. With this money we plan to have programs the residents want," he said.

"We hope to sponsor a block party with a live band-off possible on a weekend," the officer said.

In addition we would like to see an RHC sponsored tutoring program in operation by winter quarter at the latest, Greer stated.

A change this year will be the emphasis on informing dorm residents of available programming. The "highly successful" newsletter of last year will be continued under the direction of Cindy Deloach. Greer said that this year the Council will request Dorm Presidents to contribute information about the activities in their respective dorm.

"We hope the dorm presidents will be able to sit in on the meetings between the RA's and the Head Residents when they are planning programs. This way we can publicize the program or project," he continued. "We also will be happy to try and help RA's raise funds for dorm programs and activities," he concluded.

The RHC offices are located in the east wing of Ellington Hall.

Archwood money buys new home

The insurance money from fire-damaged Archwood was used to purchase the president a new residence and funds for repairing the historic home are not available at the present time, according to Dr. Fred Williams, Director of finance.

"The physical plant is repairing the roof so that additional damage does not occur. That is all we are able to do at the present time," Williams said.

Williams said that the university will retain the building. A persistent rumor has been that the city would use at least part of the building as a museum.

"Some of the building may be used as office space for the university. There was some talk about a joint city-county-university museum, but I haven't heard anything else about this," Williams said.

Donn Brown, director of the physical plant, said that Archwood's roof is being patched.

"Most of the damage was holes in the roof. We're patching the holes with tar and sheet metal. This is a preventative measure to keep further damage from occurring," Brown said.

The fire in Archwood started in the top story and damaged the roof extensively on February 2, 1980.

Stingy defense key to red victory

A stingy Angry Red defense guided Austin Peay to a 21-3 victory over James Madison Saturday night in the Municipal Stadium before 6,500 fans.

The Angry Red defense yielded a first quarter field goal by James Madison's Scott Norwood for the only score against them.

The Gov's winning score came with 11:51 remaining in the first half when Ondra Woods took an end around for 19 yards and a score. Rusty Dyer's PAT put the Govs ahead 7-3. The TD was set up by an interception by Michael Shelton. Shelton grabbed the pass and raced 40 yards from his own 41 to the Madison 19. Woods scored on the next play.

Scoring plays were idle until late in the fourth quarter when Cosmo Cochran dove over from the 1 yard line with 2:13 left in the game. The score was set up by one of the two James Madison fumbles. The other fumble also resulted in a Gov score. With 28 seconds remaining, freshman tailback Floyd Jones took an option pitch from sonny Defilippis and eased in from seven yards out to run the score to 20-7. Dyer's PAT made the final score 21-7.

The Angry Red offense had its troubles-getting only 217 yards of total offense. Defilippis hit on 4 of 16 passes for 35 yards. That total included a 43 yarder to Steve Pathoff on the first pass of the game. The Govs carried the ball 33 times for only 122 yards. The Govs could manage only 7 first downs in the entire game.

James Madison's quarterbacks completed 6 of 13 passes for 93 yards on the night with two interceptions. The Dukes gained only 177 yards rushing on 58 attempts.

The Gov punting game had trouble Saturday. Two Gov punters shared six punts for only a 32.9 yard average per boot.

so. You can see NCAA football and have a good time at the same time.

The Angry Red, who are coming off a 7-4 season from last year, tangle with last year's division I-AA champs Eastern Kentucky and last year's OVC champ Murray State right here in Clarksville in the Municipal Stadium.

The Angry Red NEED your support, not only as a whole, but also as a student body. I attended four games last season and was surprised at the low number of people at the game. With a population of over 50,000 people, the Clarksville area doesn't seem to care very much about their college. Municipal Stadium holds approximately 9,000 people and the most I saw at a game was 5,000. The only exception was the Western Kentucky game where the Municipal Stadium was packed, but the only problem was at least half of the spectators were Western Kentucky rooters.

support the Angry Red in their fight for an OVC championship.

The first conference home game will be October 4, against Eastern Kentucky at 7:30 p.m.

Let's see the Municipal Stadium pack to the limit for the next game. Make the Angry Red proud to play at home.

Support the Govs and don't forget to chant, "Let's GO PEAY!"

Rules explained

Students and general admission ticket holders can save themselves a long walk around Municipal Stadium on Saturday nights if they observe a few stadium policies.

Ticket manager Glinda Chaffin explained the proper procedures for student to follow when attending football games.

"The student sections are those labeled M, N, and NN," she stated. In addition, Chaffin said students must enter the stadium by the East Side, Burt School side, through Gate 3.

For those Gov's fans who buy general admission tickets, the East entrance is also advised. The west side of the stadium is reserved for season ticket holders.

The Austin Peay golf team finished a dismal 14 in the 16 team Murray State Intercollegiate on Sept. 19-20 at the Murray Country Club.

The Governors, who were defending champions in the event, shot 934 as a team for the two day, 54 hole event over the 6300 yard par 72 layout.

The University of Kentucky used a 13 shot cushion to outlast the field as they captured the title with a five over par 869 total. (Scheduled for 36 holes on Friday, the Wildcats jumped into the lead and coasted to victory on the strength of Jim Volpenheim's two under par 70 on Saturday.

Volpenheim was the tournament medalist as he fired opening rounds of 70-71 to compliment his closing 70 on Saturday, giving him a 211 total. Ken Perry of Western Kentucky was the runner-up with a 213 total.

Trailing Kentucky were Indiana State 882;

Murray Blue, 883; and Memphis State, 883. The rest of the field finished as follows: Western Kentucky, 888; Eastern Kentucky, 889; Middle Tennessee, 890; Murray Gold, 901; Louisville, 902; Illinois State, 905; Southern Illinois, 911; UT Chattanooga, 917; Vanderbilt, 938; APSU, 934; Tennessee Tech, 942; and Evansville, 954.

Pacing the Governors were freshman standout Charles "Poodle" Bradshaw and junior Steve Harmon with identical 229 totals. Other players representing Austin Peay were Brian Brown, Brad Van Kirk, and Harry Tarpley. Coach Steve Hyllon had only one remark about the tournament-

"Chalk this one up to inexperience."

The next tournament for the Governors will be in October when they travel to Durham, N.C. to play in the prestigious Iron Duke Fall Classic.

COMING DOWN—Steve Puthoff catches a pass from Sonny DeFilippis in last Saturday's action in Municipal Stadium.

Brown expects good year

"To win games we must be aggressive," said Austin Peay head football coach Watson Brown. "We have a good chance to win many games. We must get ready for one game at a time and not look ahead. The OVC races are going to be a dog fight."

Coach Brown's Angry Red Men are looking for a good year with many exciting moments. The Angry Red will be led this season on offense by quarterback Sonny DeFilippis, tight end Andy McCullum, wide receiver Steve Puthoff and running back Como Cochran. Top defensive returners include All-American defensive tackle Richard Wozniak, defensive end Brett Williams, defensive back Ernest Dunsen, nose guard Kenneth Darden and defensive back Dexter Freeman.

Brown said that the defensive secondary suffered the biggest losses last season and had to replace three starters.

Brown said his top freshmen this season are running backs Floyd Jones and Lamar Owens, wide receiver Ondra Woods, defensive back William McElroy, Michael Shelton and James Church, line backer Royce Frenness and offensive guard Greg Baugh.

Brown noted that one of the weaker spots on the team would be the secondary. He said, "Our secondary would be weak, but not talent wise just inexperienced. Our defensive line will be a strong area this year along with the combination of DeFilippis and Puthoff."

The Angry Red have already had their share of injuries this season. Offensive tackle David Evans had a dislocated ankle, wide receiver Nat Reeves has a broken arm, tailback Pat Clements had a knee injury, Ernest Dunsen has an ankle injury and Richard Teague suffered a hyperextended elbow against UT-Martin.

Coach Brown picks Western Kentucky to win the OVC championship this season. Western defeated Akron 8-2 Saturday night to stay atop the conference. Two weeks ago Akron beat Eastern Kentucky. Eastern was last year's NCAA I-AA champion. Brown feels that Murray State along with Akron and Eastern will give Western the most trouble.

Volleyball off to bad start

by Ronnie Graves

Second year volleyball coach Ariene Ignico is having a hard time getting her troops together for the upcoming season.

The Lady Gova, who have eight freshmen and two returnees on this year's squad, dropped four straight matches in last week's OVC Tournament in Cookeville.

The two returnees are Pat Eldridge and Ariene Gleichman. The Lady Gova are starting five freshmen at this point.

After the loss in the OVC tournament Coach Ignico said, "We are one-hundred percent better than last year's team in attitude and talent. Overall we're just inexperienced."

"Before the OVC tournament we only had one week of practice. I believe we'll be ready to play in two weeks," Ignico said.

The Lady Gova next tournament is the Lambuth Invitational in Jackson. Ignico said that Lambuth and Christian Brothers College would be the two teams to beat.

Other upcoming tournaments for the Lady Gova include the UT-Martin tourney, the State Tournament and the Lady Gova Invitational which is scheduled for Oct. 24-25.

In last year's Lady Gova placed second and Ignico says that she wants to win this year's tournament badly.
