Building Plans Approved

Final plans for two Austin Peay construction projects were approved early this month by the State Commissioner.

The plans approved were an 82-student women's dormitory and an 82-student men's dormitory; estimated costs are $415,000 for the women's dorm and $442,000 for the men's dorm.

Those two plans were part of a $3,329,000 approval of final plans for various Tennessee state colleges and special schools, in addition to preliminary plans for a $900,000 class building at another college.

Larkins Awarded V. U. Assistantship

Word has been received at Austin Peay that Thomas H. Larkins, Jr., has been awarded a teaching assistantship in chemistry at Vanderbilt University for the coming year.

The award consists of $1,800 for the school year, $450 for the summer semester, and a tuition scholarship. In return, Tommy will be required to give 12 hours per week service to the Chemistry Department. This service for the most part will consist in helping with the instruction of laboratory classes and quiz sessions.

Tommy will enter Vanderbilt in June to begin work on his Ph. D. in chemistry. He is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. T. H. Larkins, 1033 Edgewood Drive, Clarksville. Tommy is a chemistry and math major at Austin Peay.

In addition to working as laboratory assistant for the Chemistry Department here, Tommy is president of the Math Club and a member of the Student Council. Help Support Tower

The Tower, sponsored by the English Club, is an anthology of students' writing. It is one of three campus publications and is just as important and should have just as much impact on its readers.

If any of you have a yearning to see what you write in print remember that you may enter The Tower contest. You may write either a short story, a vignette, poetry or an essay, or all of them, and turn them in by March 4 at the English office in the Fine Arts Building.

A Reminder

Austin Peay's Playhouse is presenting a three night stand of Stages 17 in the new auditorium on the 25-26-27 of this month. Since it will be an all male cast it should be an interesting performance.

Austin Peay
Makes History

On February 11, Austin Peay's basketball team made Tennessee history. That night the rampaging Governors defeated David Lipscomb's Bisons to become the first team in the history of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference to finish a regular conference season undefeated. David Lipscomb was the last team on the Governors' schedule in the VSAC, and the Gavs wonned the Bisons 82-67.

The Big Red also cut another notch for themselves, too, in the record books. They've been the only group of players that has topped the VSAC title four straight years.

The ALL STATE wishes to convey to the basketball team and its coach, Dave Aaron, its heartiest congratulations. The team has been a fine public relations unit to our school.

Just One More Time

You readers will probably think after you read this that we have been vaccinated with a photograph needle, but here goes:

We would still like to receive letters-to-the-editor. We don't care if they're about Mammy Yokum, rockets, school policy, marriage and the family, etc. We will be glad to get them and print them. (If they get past our sponsor.)

Remember, the author of the best letter-to-the editor will receive a free carton of cigarettes. Or, if by chance the recipient doesn't smoke, we're sure a gift certificate could be arranged instead.

Go, Cat, Go

Even faculty members aren't too old to enjoy themselves at a student dance. Here, Mrs. Charles Boehm, William Ellis, Biology Department cut a rig at the Valentine Dance.

Browsing With Bob

By Bobby Morrison

With the Christmas and New Year's vacation over most students once again made the hurdle presented by registration and are settling down to work for the remainder of this quarter.

For a while the snow made it a little hard to settle down to books. Who wants to study when there are girls and teachers waiting to have snowballs thrown at them?

The snow was something of a novelty as it's not often that we have snow on the ground in this locality. One good snow a year is almost more than we can count on; and it usually lasts only a day or two.

Rusty Penn is just now getting ready to get back in school. Rusty carried one of his new friends home with him over the holidays and the friend just happened to be Four-Barrel Fulton, a drag racer among other things.

They brought an old Model-A Ford that the leading merchant of Poison Trot junked when he made a killing on the stock market two months ago and bought a '36 Ford sedan.

Rusty and Four-Barrel hopped up the Model-A, and on the way back to school Rusty pulled up beside a State Trooper and outran him.

Unfortunately the wire that was holding the radiator on broke and they had to stop for repairs. The Trooper caught them before they could get going again.

Here's a letter I received just yesterday from Rusty:

County Jail
Clarksville, Tenn.

Dear Bob,

I kinda reckon I'll be just a little bit late getting' back to school this here quarter.

You know that these feller Four-Barrel Fulton I carried home with me hopped up my new Model-A Ford. Boy am I proud of that there car. It's the rummiest thing on four wheels or two feet.

Well sir we started to school and everything was going real smooth until I started to pass this here car. Four-Barrel looked over and said, "Dad, that red you just sucked up the exhaust was a Yellow Jacket. You know, man, like a cop. Four on the coal we gotta shake him."

To hear Four-Barrel talk you'd swear he didn't have no sense at all 'n' couldn't speak a word of English, but boy can he fix a car up so it'll run.

I stomped down on the gas and that there Model-A took off like Jake Miller's horse did the day me an' Tom Wallace shot him with our sling shot. He went skimming along over the ground like one of them there airplanes; drag Jake clean off when he run through the plum thicket. I a k e looked like a wildcat had a bolt of 'em.

Well that cop lit out after us but that little Model-A just flew. But just as we got to New Providence I hit a bump in the road and shook the whole front end off. Before we could get it wired back on our cops had us surrounded.

One cop came a-runnin' up an' called us names I ain't heered nothin' called since Pa stuck his hand in that steel-trap I set in the corn crib to catch a coon a couple a years ago.

That cop sat us where we thought we was a-going, to a fire or somethin'. Four-Barrel told him we are a-simin' to go to college, but he guessed we'd settle for jail now.

They let Four-Barrel out the next day cause I told them he weren't driving. They give me 15 days, so I'll be out in a few days now.

Say howdy to Four-Barrel for me. He ain't to bright at anything but cars but like him anyhow.

Yore friend,
Rusty Penn

Tips For Aspirants

Before you read any farther, I want to tell you that I'm going to push the English club's brain child, "The Tower". In order to make "The Tower" a successful endeavor, we need the products of a cross section of the student body. To make it better than ever before, we must have contributions from everybody who can write and will write. It gives us a varied anthology and enables us to pick the best. We want you to have something which you can read in the future and remember your college life and the ideas and opinions that you had then.

I think that every one of you, at one time of another, has seen or heard or felt something which you thought was worthy of telling others. At the time you were unable to tell any one. It is good to write it down in case like this. It not only provides for your own later enjoyment but for others too. Wordsworth held that things of beauty and impressions of singular importance can be recalled again after a long period of time and offer food for thought and pleasant memories to the individual. This can be applied to your writing. Memories of college life, ideas, opinions, and impressions, if written down, can provide an immense amount of enjoyment in later life. And the value of written material for learning purposes is inestimable. Maybe years from now when one of you has become famous, your biographer will want some of your personal comments to throw out to your clamoring public. We must take into consideration things like that too.

All of you have something to tell and we want it. We want the good and the mediocre. And from all of this we will pick the best and print it. You don't have to be a genius to write. All you have to have is an average command of the English language and a bit of self discipline. That discipline comes hard. Believe me I know about that. But you always feel so relieved and self-satisfied when you finish a piece of writing. Oh, yes, and it helps if you are aware and awake. Observation is the key to good writing. Observation takes in with it experience. But you don't have to have done and seen everything. Being aware that things do go on is a part of observation. So forget about your idea that one must be a genius to write. It isn't true and I hope to see a lot of evidence that it isn't true.

We want "The Tower" to be considered as an opportunity and a privilege to show off your talent. Where else can you do it? We also want every one to realize that the sale of this anthology will enable some prospective writer from high school to come to Austin Peay on a scholarship.

We do hope that every one with something to offer will think about it and also do something about it. It is a serious and an opportunity you don't want to miss. Besides, those brilliant prodigies who turn in the best piece of work in each of our four categories will receive monetary prizes. Money is a handy possession, you know.

I told you in the beginning I was going to push participation in "The Tower" and that is what I hope I've done. I want to be good and you do too. And it can be, if all of you workers, non-workers, athletes, geniuses, musicians, scientist, artist, etc. will make an effort to contribute, who knows? We may have some undiscovered talent in our midst that needs to be recognized. And we certainly want to recognize it. Sometimes the cloak of shyness hides the mantle of brilliance. We want to see that mantle.

This is just a suggestion. Why don't some of you comedians collect and revise—you'd have to revise some—all the jokes and puns you know and write it up into readable copy. Benet Cerf made a lot of money that way.

We'll be looking for all contributions in the English office between now and March 4.

Govs First Unbeaten In VSAC History

Dave Aaron, Governor Coach, is hoisted aloft by his players after they clipped David Lipscomb, Feb. 11, to finish a perfect regular VSAC season.

Van Tone To Head Grid Squad

Austin Peay State College has employed as Head Football Coach Art Van Tone, who prior to accepting this position was Head Football Coach and Athletic Director at Bay County High School, Panama City, Florida.

Van Tone received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Mississippi Southern College, Hattiesburg, Mississippi, where he was an outstanding halfback on the Mississippi Southern team.

Van Tone also played four years with the Detroit Lions and has had fourteen years of successful coaching experience with a standing record of 36 wins - 39 losses - 8 ties.

In 1942 he won the State Junior College Championship in Perkins-ton, Mississippi. In 1950 he won the Big "8" Championship at Laurel, Mississippi. Also in 1950 Van Tone was selected Outstanding Football Coach in Mississippi.

The Van Tones' have three boys, the eldest being in high school. Mr. Van Tone is a native of Indiana and his wife is a native of Ohio.

Austin Peay's mighty Governors have become the first team in the history of the Volunteer State athletic Conference to finish a regular conference season undefeated.

The Governors put the finishing touches on this feat by defeating David Lipscomb's Bisons in McQuiddy Gymnasium in Nashville 22-67. That gave APSC a 10-0 VSAC slate.

In coping its final road trip victory, Austin Peay also dispelled all doubts as to the Govs' ability when playing out of the Big Red Barn. Earlier in the season, a newspaper article said the Governors were experiencing a road jinx. That was after they had lost four out of six road games. But four was where the Governors stopped. Since then they have won five road trip games.

"When the season first started I would never have thought I would end like this. I knew we had a good team, but I didn't dream we'd finish the conference season undefeated," said Austin Peay Coach Dave Aaron shaking his head wonderingly. "The boys have done a good job and I'm proud of them," Aaron praised.

Austin Peay downed Lipscomb 15 points, five more than the amount in Memorial Gymnasium when Austin Peay played host to Lipscomb earlier this season.

In the first half of last night's game, it was nip and tuck even though the Governors were tied only once at 2-2 in the first minute of play.

Jim Stewart, high point man for the night with 22 markers, shot the Govs into the lead in the opening seconds with a field goal. Seconds later the Bisons evened the count at 2-2 but couldn't go ahead of the Governors. Austin Peay then widened the gap by as much as 12 points before the half ended at 35-30. Lipscomb had whittled down the lead to six points in the closing minutes.

The second half was all Austin Peay's and saw Aaron substituting for his starting unit. The second unit more than held its own and hiked the Govs' lead back up to 12 points, 50-35, with the second stage of the game only seven minutes old.

The closest the Bisons could get to Austin Peay after that was 10 points.

With 3:25 remaining to be played in the tilt Austin Peay went into its stall with the little men, Fred Overton, Howard Gorrell and Jim Stewart patting the ball. Jim Stewart, not usually recognized as a stall dribbler, turned in an outstanding performance for the night.

"It was a complete team effort," commented Aaron, "But I did get some fine performances from Walt Celusta and Jim Henderson. Celusta, a sophomore, showed a lot of poise on the court and has the potential to become one of the top big men in the area. Henderson is a junior and made some fine shots to collect his 11 points for the night."

In taking the game Austin Peay led in all departments. The Governors snatched 34 rebounds to the Bisons' 38 with Jim Henderson collaring 12 off the boards. Austin Peay made 30 out of 74 field goal attempts for 41 per cent and connected on 22 for 31 free throw attempts for 71 per cent. David Lipscomb made 24 out of 69 from the field for 35 per cent and 19 out of 26 from the charity line for 60 per cent.

Jim Stewart, 160 pounds of dynamite, poured in 21 points to pace the Governors' scoring attack. Stewart was aided by Bob Bradley's 16 points, Howard Gorrell's 12 and Jim Henderson's 11.

For the Bisons, Gary Walker, 6'1" guard, led his team with 15 markers.

This Is The College: Here Are The Students

George Sanford drink a cup of coffee he relaxed in the Student Center. He talked thoughtfully, yet easily, of his college work, profession, and family.

His voice was pleasantly resonant, his words exact and smooth. "I skipped twenty years before coming to college. That is - there was a twenty-year span between my elementary education and AP, SC," he said.

He commented on his school work: "I find that I have to do a lot of concentrating on lectures and note-taking, but its easier than I expected."

Sanford came to Austin Peay at the age of 36 to prepare for the Methodist ministry.

He is full - time pastor of three Methodist Churches on the Port Royal, Tenn., charge.

Art is his major. "I feel that I can preach and draw at the same time. Besides, the publishers of religious material need more serious art," he said.

He believes that the pen (Or any art medium) can say almost anything that a person's oral expression can say.

While discussing his art major, Sanford casually picked up a notebook and asked: "Want to see some samples of my work?" He showed some expressive profiles and commented, "I give the art department a lot of credit for the improvement in my work."

He is combining his art with an English minor.

As he puts it: "I've got to be able to do with words what I can do with pictures."

Sanford and his wife, Alice, have 16-year-old twin daughters, Sherry and Merry who are students at Clarksville High. They have a 14-year-old son, Steve.

"My twins will enter Austin Peay before I graduate," Sanford smiled and said.

He glanced at the clock and saw that it was time for him to leave. He rose from the Student center table, grinned broadly, and gave one final bit of information:

"You can also say that I am one of the few people who part their hair on the right."

Do You Think for Yourself?
