Cabaret Night begins sixth year Thursday

By KAYE CROUCH

Austin Peay's music department will hold its sixth annual Cabaret Night Thursday through Saturday at 8 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom.

The cabaret is a 90-minute variety show performed by a student cast. Entitled "What Will Happen Next?" the show will also feature a nine-piece orchestra.

The types of music included in the production range from George Gershwin to the Pointer Sisters to a medley of country hits. In addition to these, an original piece called "What Will Happen Next?" has been written by the show's director, graduate student Craig Dillingham.

Dr. Sharon Mabry will also appear as a guest soloist.

The production will also include Dr. George Mabry's annual Cabaret Night spoof of campus happenings, called

"Peay for You."

George Mabry is also a faculty adviser for the production. He stated that he is very pleased with the way the production has turned out this year.

"The kids have done most of the work on their own and are a very talented group," Mabry said.

Undergraduate members of the cast include Tim Finch, Denise Johnson and Kay Baggett of Clarksville; Eric Morris of Springfield, and Kenneth Lee of Dyersburg.

Brian Owen of Dickson and Amanda Hudson and Joanna Bricketto of Knoxville are also undergraduate cast members.

Paul Binkley of Knoxville is serving as the production's orchestra leader and music arranger.

Tickets for Cabaret Night may be purchased in the music department at $3 for students and $4 for the general public.

Alumni phonathon is raising funds for scholarships

By PHIL SKINNER

Austin Peay officials hope to generate over $50,000 from this year's phone-a-thon.

The annual fund-raiser, which began Tuesday, is "designed to try to get people to join the alumni association through a contribution," said Doug Barber, director of alumni affairs at Austin Peay.

"The operation will be centered at Emerald Hills this year and students will be making the calls instead of alumni," Barber said.

Ten phones will be set up and on the specified dates for the phone-a-thon, students will make calls from 6 to 9 p.m.

trying to contact Austin Peay alumni and friends of the university in all areas of Middle Tennessee.

Barber said, "This year we're going to try to contact about 6,000 people, but realistically we'll probably only contact about 80 percent of that number, or about 4,800 people, because the people have moved or aren't home very much."

Of those contacted Barber said, "maybe 1,600 people will make a contribution."

The phone-a-thon will be held at least two days each month between October and April.

Barber added, "Most of the money raised from this project will go to fund the 15 to 20 $500 scholarships that the alumni association awards every year."

Legislative interships are open

Students may receive Psci hours

Applications for the Tennessee Legislative Internship Program are now available.

Interns will work with the state Legislature during winter and spring quarters and earn up to 12 hours of academic credit each quarter through the political science department.

To be given serious consideration, students should have at least a 3.0 GPA, according to Dr. David Kanervo, associate professor of political science.

The program, Kanervo said, is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students in any major.

For further information and application forms, students should contact Kanervo in the department of political science.

Regents agree to honor Kimbrough

By ROBERT O'BRIEN

The Tennessee State Board of Regents announced Sept. 20 its approval for the naming of the college of business building for Ben S. Kimbrough of Clarksville.

Kimbrough graduated from Austin Peay with a degree in business in 1951. He is currently influential in the Clarksville community, serving as a member of the boards of Commerce Union Bank and Guaranty Federal Savings and Loan Association. He also serves as chairman of the board of Memorial Hospital.

Kimbrough reacted to the announcement saying, "It was an unexpected surprise, but I am flattered and humbled."

"Austin Peay is very special to me and it is doing a good service for the Clarksville community and the surrounding area," he stated.

He went on to remark on how APSU has grown from the 1100 students attending when he was here, to the present enrollment of over 3000. Kimbrough said this is "something I am very proud of."

England speaks to SGA about renovation

By JOEL WILBORN

Last Thursday's SGA meeting involved discussion led by President David England on topics affecting the campus community.

England explained to the senators present that campus renovations and the relocation of services caused by the work were inevitable at this time. England stated that there was "no way around" the timing of the renovations, due to administrators in the state government "dragging their feet."

According to England, the renovations should have occurred at the end of last spring quarter.

England also discussed plans for the SGA to rally for intramural basketball to be played in the Dunn Center during winter quarter.

Richard Cochran, a senator from the college of arts and sciences, asked England about the possibility of the SGA purchasing new typewriters for the student typing room in the library.

England stated that typewriters sold by the university during the past summer "were at the right price," but the repair costs were too high. He also stated that other possibilities for getting typewriters are being examined.

Donald Logan, also a senator from the college of arts and sciences, asked England about the status of student discount cards.

England replied that the cards are currently being distributed from the SGA office in the university center and that a means of distributing the cards to part-time students is being planned.

In other business, four students were recommended to join the SGA from the arts and sciences college. Roland Boyd, Rory Davis, Dorinda Haskins and Sami Naddy were accepted by vote of the senate. They will be inducted during this week's meeting.

Employee service award luncheon set

By MIKE WILBUR

The Annual Service Awards Luncheon, honoring administrative and staff personnel, will be held Oct. 15 at 11:30 a.m. in the University Center Ballroom.

The luncheon is held to honor those employees of the university who have served for five years or more, in five-year increments. President Robert Riggs will present the Outstanding Employee Award to two employees selected from five nomination fields.

Special recognition for service to the university will be given to Eugenia Morgan and Lucille Murray, who retired this year.

Invitational letters for the luncheon have been sent to all administrative and staff employees. Any employee who has not received a letter should contact their department administrative personnel, according to Nell Northington, a coordinator of the luncheon.

The cost of the luncheon is $5.11, and casual attire is appropriate. The event will be broiled cheer in Bordelaise sauce, according to Kathy Stamper, who is also coordinating the event.

Procedure for obtaining directory assistance changes in departments

A change in the way directory assistance is obtained by departments took effect last Wednesday. Any directory assistance call outside the 615 area code incurs a $5.50 charge.

The following methods should be used to obtain numbers from directory assistance: Clarksville information, dial 9-1-411; area code 615, dial 9-1-555-1212; and other area codes, dial 9-0-area code-555-1212.

Job placement reps are interviewing this month

Representatives from companies and organizations will be coming on campus to interview 1986 graduates for possible employment, beginning this month.

Organizations participating in the recruiting program in October include: the US Navy, Miller's Department Store, Roses' Department Store and K-Mart Apparel.

Computer Forms and Supplies, Tennessee Department of Audit and Service Merchandise (internship for junior accounting students) will also participate.

Seniors who want to participate in the interviews should enroll at the placement office in Emerald Hills Alumni Center on Second St. Sign-ups will be conducted on a "first-come, first-served" basis. Companies have requested specific majors. For more information, call 7896.

Special Olympics volunteers needed

Students interested in working in the Special Olympics bowling tournament on Oct. 30 should contact Denise Otfinger, associate dean of students at 7451 by Oct. 23. Institutional absences will be given to those students volunteering their time.

Club photos slated

Organizations and clubs will have pictures made Oct. 14-16 from 4 to 9 p.m. in the University Center. Students should contact club and organization officers for the specific time and date for group pictures.

Session is today

The third workshop in the Academic Success Series will be a session covering note taking and listening skills. The workshop is designed to teach students skills which can contribute to academic success.

The session will be held today from 3 to 4 p.m. in room 120, Ellington Hall. Advanced registration is encouraged; call 6162 for further information.

The operator will ask for a billing number for directory assistance outside the 615 area. The caller must give the operator a credit card number. Calls may not be billed to departmental extension numbers.

If any department does not have a credit card number to use, please notify the institutional research office and a card will be ordered.

The department secretary needs to have a credit card number to use for this purpose. All requests for directory assistance should be channeled through the secretary.

Senior pictures will be made Wednesday through Friday in gown. All other individual photographs will be made in casual attire.

Placement Office schedules seminar

Seniors are reminded to attend the Placement Registration Seminar being held in room 313 of the University Center Thursday at 1 p.m.

Jana Rollins, assistant director of counseling and career development, will explain the procedure necessary to start a credentials file.

Books are offered

There will be a last chance distribution of the 1985 Governors' Pride yearbook Oct. 15-16 in the lobby of the University Center from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. A 1985 student ID is required.

Kabuki dance is coming to APSU this month

The Japan Center of Tennessee, in conjunction with APSU, will present a dance performance by Ayako Uchiyama Oct. 24. Ayako will perform traditional Kabuki dances at 8 p.m. in Clement Auditorium.

The Japan Center of Tennessee represents a state-wide effort by the governor, the General Assembly, state agencies and educational boards to strengthen the developing relationship between Japan and Tennessee.

The performance is free and open to the public.

Dobbs adds new fare

By RANDY BUSH

Students who eat in campus dining facilities this year may notice a number of differences over last year's service, due mainly to the recent takeover of APSU food services by the Memphis-based Dobbs Food Service.

Established in 1934, Dobbs manages food services for industries, businesses, educational facilities and other such organizations.

Patrick Murphy, Dobbs' regional supervisor, oversees the program at APSU. According to Murphy, Dobbs seeks to offer an efficient and diverse program at Austin Peay.

Murphy cited the Lite Bite food bar and the DePizza pizza bar in the campus grill as strong new supplements to the Main Meal served at the Catherine Evans Harvill Cafeteria and the Governors' Grill.

"We have already done a better job of utilizing the facilities than the previous company," Murphy stated.

Murphy explained that Dobbs was awarded a one-year contract with options for renewal for an additional four years. The company has managed similar college programs in Tennessee, including those at East Tennessee State, Maryville and Tusculum College.

Dobbs offers a variety of meal plans to the students. There are contract options for 10, 15 and 19 meals per week. Students can also buy a Dobbs card which allows them to receive the equivalent of $100 of food for $90.

According to Murphy, "The meal plans provide a much better value for students who plan to eat most of their meals on campus. Each meal costs (the student) approximately $1.70."

Dobbs has an 'all you can eat' policy in the cafeteria that requires Dobbs employees to carefully monitor their patrons.

"In order to offer this service, we cannot allow students to violate their agreement. The student, by contract, cannot share food with others. This is our biggest problem at the moment," Murphy stated.

Dobbs also offers a Sunday buffet which is open to the public. The buffet this week will feature roast beef, fried chicken and malted waffles. Regular features on the Sunday buffet include four entrees, breakfast bar, fresh salads, vegetables and desserts.

The cost of the buffet is $4.64 for adults and $2.95 for children under 10.

JOHN MANIRE:

One should not be rude at public events

The conduct of some audience members at recent APSU recitals could have led one to think the recitals were membership meetings of the Roamers United to Distract Everyone club—RUDE, for short.

As it is early in the school year, I will attempt to save those who have been led astray, before they are inducted as active members of RUDE. We'll call this lesson "Miss Manire's List of Sporting Etiquette for Theatrical and Musical Events." Don't wait until the movie comes out—read it NOW!

"One should not play musical chairs, regardless of one's mental condition."

"While a member of the audience, one should not use one's program or class notes to explore the possibilities of the bestseller, 1001 Folded Paper Creations."

"One should not, in any shape, form or fashion allow one's hands to come in contact with each other after individual movements of a larger composition."

"One should not enter the auditorium or theatre in the midst of a composition, as if the event were a common Air Jam contest."

"One should not catcall the performers, even if one knows them intimately. 'Way to go, Bob!' 'Yo! Tyronel!' and 'Go get 'em, Brad!' are proper—yeah, even encouraged—if one is at a sporting event."

"One should not leave the auditorium while the performance is taking place unless there is an intermission, an actual act-of-God emergency (in which case the management will enter the auditorium with instructions stating which radio station to tune in for information), or the show has ended. In all these cases, the house lights will go up for their regular brightness. If one must exit for any other pressing matters, one should do so between scenes or numbers."

"One should not communicate with one's neighbor during the performance. This directive includes whispering, laughing (unless the show is a comedy), talking and grunting. If one is struck by the need to communicate, one should write a note, or use sign language—or better yet, postpone the urge until after the composition ends."

"One should applaud after the performer completes his selection, even if one doesn't particularly care for the performance. In this case, one should always question one's own ability to perform the composition—this usually leads to a higher appreciation of the artist and will usually trigger some urge to applaud."

"One should arrive at the theater or auditorium at least 5-10 minutes prior to the beginning of the event."

"One should listen intently to the performance, as one is there to learn from it."

"One should wear whatever one wishes, as long as doesn't block someone else's view of the stage."

"One should read one's program and program notes to gain an understanding of what will take place."

"One should visit the restroom in advance of the performance as shifting painfully in one's seat does not make for an enjoyable evening."

Follow the above guidelines and you will experience an altogether different sensation from the performance than if you behaved RUDELY. I do hope I've shown some way, the truth and the light-saving them from the clutches of RUDEness.

Hopefully, RUDE will disband and join the newly colonized People Organized to Listen Intently to Thematic Events—call them POLITE.

Letters to the Editor

Reader describes a sorry business major frat-boy

To the editor:

(An open letter to the APSU student body:) Jimmy Money is a member of Zeta Rho Gamma social fraternity. His major is business, but right now he isn't doing very well in business math. In fact, if he doesn't make "A's" on all of the rest of his quizzes, he will fail the course.

Not to worry, though, because one of his fraternity brothers informed him today that he has obtained copies of all of the rest of the term's quizzes in business math, including the final exam.

Jimmy really isn't worried about the matter one way or the other. If he flunks out, his old man has plenty enough money to keep him going for a long time in style.

You might recognize Jimmy if you see him. He's the one who wears a suit and tie to the football games and won't get dirty at spring planting time. He even has his own personalized drinking mug down at the college-catered drinking hole.

When he gets drunk, he brags about his money and pets the young women from Gamma Rho Zeta, his sister fraternity. He would take you for a ride in his Trans Am, but right now it is in the shop for new tires on the rear wheels.

One last thing—Jimmy knows a hair stylist who cuts his hair just the way he likes it.

Loss puts Govs at 0-1 in conference

Govs drop OVC opener to Eastern, 20-10

By GEORGE HARRIS

The Austin Peay Governors dropped their first OVC conference game against a tough Eastern Kentucky team, losing 20-10 at Richmond Ky.

Eastern Ky. has now beaten Austin Peay eight straight times and it gives the Colonels a 24-3 series advantage. The loss puts the Govs at 2-2 overall and 0 in the conference. Eastern Ky. raises its record to 3-0 overall and 3-0 in the OVC.

The offense had several scoring opportunities but had trouble moving the ball. On their first possession, Austin Peay moved the ball nine yards, but on a fourth down play. Rob Senft dropped a pass from Reid Barr, a faked punt.

However, the Govs got a break when Mike Blair intercepted a EKV pass at the six yard line. The Govs then moved the ball to their 32 yard line. A Brian Yarbrough field goal attempt then failed, when the kick went too far to the right.

On the Govs' next possession, they were again moving the ball against a tough EK defence. Starting from AP's 40, the Govs got as far as EKV's 15 yard line before their drive stalled. Yarbrough attempted another field goal that failed from 25 yards out. However, a penalty against EKV returned the ball to the Govs at the Colonels' nine yard line. From there the Govs went backward, losing 12 yards on a reverse and 17 yards on an intentional grounding. At this time, AP decided to punt.

At the open of the second half, the Govs were down 10-0. They began their first major drive of the day, gaining 65 yards in 13 plays. Yarbrough connected on his third field goal attempt and the Govs got back the game, 10-3.

Eastern Ky. then mounted two scoring drives, gaining 56 yards in eight plays for a touch down and a field goal, giving them a 20-3 lead.

The Govs then put together their longest drive, gaining 81 yards in 16 plays ending with a William Nathaniel four-yard TD run. However, the Govs didn't have time for a further comeback and the game ended 20-10.

Overall, the Govs outpassed the Colonels 190-87 yards, but EK outrushed the Govs' 195-38. Offensively, Ricky Rice completed 17 of 29 passes for 190 yards and William Nathaniel was the Govs' leading rusher with 26 yards on 6 carries.

Defensively, Eddie Walls had a good day racking up nine solo tackles and 10 assists.

The Govs' next game is an away game this Saturday against Morehead St.

Coach champions healthy athletics

By KERRY LANCASTER

Austin Peay's athletic department has added a full-time strength coach to its staff who is among the few individuals who can claim that they are number one in the world as what they do best.

Dan Austin is the reigning world champion of weightlifting in the 148-pound class.

Austin joined the APSU staff April 1, after working as a graduate assistant at the University of South Carolina. It was at USC that he made a name for himself as a powerlifter.

The strength coach won the national lifting competition in July 1984 at Dayton, Ohio. He went on to the world championship meet in Dallas last November and competed against representatives from 23 countries to take the top spot in his class.

Austin has also qualified to compete in the world championships this year and will do so in December or January.

Austin is a highly motivated person, a self-starter with a champion's attitude that is evident in, among other things, his opinion on drugs and athletics. At 5'4", he finds that it's hard for people to believe that for my height and for what I can do, that I don't do drugs.

"I've been tested twice and both times showed negative results. I'm definitely against drugs and I like to preach that to people," he added.

Head football coach Emory Hale is extremely pleased to have a strength coach who teaches by example the virtues of hard work. "I think his insistence on his own body is a great motivator," Hale said.

Austin began new programs in the weight room this summer that in his estimation take some time to show improvement. "We spend a month and a half on technique," he said, "but the foundation was already laid."

One player who has profited from Austin's summer weight training program is the Govs' outside linebacker, Scott Fox. Fox is a second year starter from Clinton, Tenn., and ranks among the team's leading tackles.

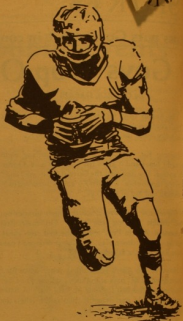

Remarkably on Fox's improvement over his last year's performance, Hale said, "It's like night and day."

Thus far in the season, Fox has recovered three fumbles in three games and has racked up one interception. He attributes the Govs' 2-1 record to its improved strength.

"We're finally matching up physically to other schools," said the 6'3", 222-pound Fox. He added that in his opinion the hiring of a full-time strength coach will enhance not only the football team's performance, but the performance of all other athletic teams as well.

Hale agrees. "Strength brings on more explosion, more stamina, more aggressive play; (it) makes a better player on the field," he said.

Hale added that in his opinion, "in the long run, it will make a better football team."

Creative arts center brings poets to AP

By CONNIE HAMBRICK

The Center of Excellence in the Creative Arts is sponsoring two poetry readings during the fall quarter.

Neil Bowers, a Clarksville native, will read selections from his original work Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gentry Auditorium of the Kimbrough Business Building.

Bowers received his BA and MA from Austin

Peay and his doctorate from the University of Florida. He is currently an associate professor in the creative writing program at Iowa State University.

Bowers has had one book of poems published, titled "Golf Ball Diver." He has also written critical books on the works of Theodore Toethke and James Dickey.

Ned O'Gorman will be on campus to present a paper on Caroline Gordon at APSU's Regional Writers' Conference in early November. O'Gorman will read selections from his original works Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gentry Auditorium of the Kimbrough Business Building.

A New York native, O'Gorman received his undergraduate degree from St. Michael College in Vermont. He attended Columbia University for his graduate studies.

O'Gorman taught at Brooklyn College and also at the New School for Social Research before taking his current position as headmaster at the Children's Storefront, an alternative school in Harlem.

O'Gorman has had six books of poetry published in addition to three books on early childhood education.

He is currently working on a biography of

Allen Tate, a poet from this area who was one of Vanderbilt's "Fugitives" and was the husband of Caroline Gordon.

Both readings are free and open to the public.

Library offers research services

By KAYE CROUCH

The Woodward Library offers many services that students may not be familiar with, according to Anne May, head of the information services at the library.

May said the most important of the special services offered is the information desk, where students can go for assistance regarding anything in the library.

A great many students are not aware that there is an online service to aid them in research, May said. She explained that the service works best with a specific subject, which is entered into a computer which lists articles and books containing information pertaining to many subjects. There is a $5 charge for this service.

Other important resources include the indexes and abstracts pertaining to magazine articles on specific subjects. The file is located at the end of each row of abstracts and lists periodicals shelved in the library, and sources held on microfilm and microfiche.

Readers for microfilm and microfiche are situated throughout the periodical area. Copies from these sources may be obtained at the front desk for ten cents.

APSU also participates in an interlibrary loan service. Librarians can order materials or books unavailable at the Woodward Library from other libraries.

Media services, temporarily located in Harned Hall due to the library renovation, offer limited rental of audiovisual equipment.

Beach's critique starts "Football Widow" series

By MERCI CHARTRAND

Dr. Thayer W. Beach, professor of languages and literature at Austin Peay, gave a short critique following the Roxy Dinner Theatre's production of Cagyon McCuller's "Member of the Wedding" last Monday night.

The play was guest-directed by Dr. Arthur Eaves, also a professor of languages and literature at APSU.

Beach offered her congratulations to the actors and then commented briefly on the play itself. "It's a play about love or the absence of love," she said.

"It's a more complicated play than it seems at first," she noted, adding that it combines comic and tragic aspects.

Beach was the first of many guest speakers scheduled to appear at the Roxy "Member of the Wedding" marked the beginning of a Monday night series titled "Football Widows," according to John McDonald, co-owner of the theater.

A total of five plays will be presented in the series, and after each play a guest speaker will talk about the performance and the play.

The Roxy's next scheduled play is the musical "Evita" by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber. The play is based on the life of Eva Peron, wife of Argentinian dictator Juan Peron.

"Evita" will be presented Oct. 21. Martha Williams, an Argentinian who lived under the Peron regime, will speak following the show. Williams is the wife of Dr. Allan Williams, a professor of education at Austin Peay.

Jack Gaughan, the Chicago Company and Broadway conductor of "Evita" will also offer comment on the musicality of the show.

Following "Evita," the Roxy will present "Mr. Dorian Gray, Sir!" The play is an adaptation of the Oscar Wilde book by John Sheehan and McDonald. Sheehan will comment on the show, following the Nov. 4 production.

"A Hatful of Rain," by Michael V. Gazzo will be presented Nov. 25. The play is about drug addiction and following the show, a representative from Harriet Cohn Mental Health Center will offer commentary about drug addiction.

J.M. Barrie's "Peter Pan" will be the final show of the five-play series. The show will be presented Dec. 16. No guest speaker is scheduled to follow this children's play.

Subscriptions are still available for the remainder of the Monday night series. The cost of the subscriptions is $13.50 for students and $17 for adults. The single play rate is $5.

Weekend productions of each show are also presented. Dinner is available for Friday and Saturday night performances at an additional cost.

For more information on play tryouts, reservations and ticket sales, contact the Roxy at 645-7699.

Lewis named district Special Olympics manager

An Austin Peay professor is the newly appointed coordinator of Area 12 Special Olympics.

Dr. Jean Lewis, assistant professor of psychology and director of special services, has assumed responsibilities for managing the district group which provides athletic training and events for retarded persons over 8 years of age. Lewis has been involved with the program since 1978.

According to Lewis, in past years Area 12 has sponsored participation of 300 to 400 special olympians from Montgomery, Houston, Stewart, Robertson, Humphreys, Cheatham and Dickson counties.

The Area 12 program consists of yearly events such as track and field, gymnastics, snow skiing, bowling, basketball and swimming.

Currently, the Area 12 advisory committee is planning an Oct. 30 Special Olympics Bowling Tournament at East Gate Lanes, Madison St., in Clarksville.

Volunteers interested in working at the bowling tournament or with Area 12 Special Olympics should telephone Denise Ottinger, associate dean of students, at 7451.

Wordbits

By JOEL WILBORN

Wordbits are two-part puzzles with only the first letter of key words given. The first part is a title and the second part is initials of a person or group best associated with it; author, actor, etc.

To solve a wordbit, all one has to do is figure out which words are abbreviated within the wordbit.

Example: Wordbit: S. in T. N. of L.—T. S.

Solution: Stop! In the Name of Love — The Supremes.

This week's theme is "Comedians in Film."

1. T. R. E. — B. M.

2. B. H. C. — E. M.

3. T. W. in R. — G. W.

4. Oh, G. Y. D. — G. B.

5. Z. — W. A.

6. T. M. W. T. B. — S. M.

7. P. — G. H.

8. G. — D. A.

9. T. T. — R. P.

10. T. of T. P. P. — P. S.

Last week's answers

are as follows:

1. President of the United States — Ronald Reagan;

2. Vice President of the United States — George Bush;

3. Secretary of State — George Shultz;

4. Secretary of Defense — Caspar Weinberger;

5. Director of Central Intelligence — William Casey;

6. Secretary of Agriculture — John Block;

7. Secretary of the Treasury — Donald

Regan; 8. Counselor to McFarlane; and 10. the President — Edwin Attorney General of the Meese; 9. Assistant to United States — William the President — Robert Smith.

WHATZIT?

An AP Trivia game

By ALLAN DANIELS

Below is a series of clues that will help you identify a person, place or thing related to APSU. If you can identify the subject of this trivia game, print your answer on a 3x5 piece of paper, along with your name, P.O. box number and a phone number where you can be reached. Deliver your response to The All Star at 300 Castle Heights, or post it through campus mail to P.O. box 8334. Deadline for entries is 6 p.m. Friday.

A winner will be selected randomly from the pool of correct answers. Prize awards are limited to APSU students. The winner will be announced in the following week's paper.

The winner of last week's WHATZIT is Margaret Sumner. Stan Burgett and Carolyn Heaton also gave correct answers.

The winner of this week's WHATZIT will receive a large one item pizza, courtesy of Pappy's Pizza.

Before we continue with this weeks cranial exercise let us shed some light on last week's WHATZIT--for the benefit of any readers who are still in the dark.

Once again, the animal meant human. The Dunn Center is on the north side of campus, and is the building that our Whatzit could be said to be responsible for. Fly Williams was the unusual insect; Fly was an instrumental player who was in the success of the APSU basketball program in the early 70s.

James Naismith invented the game of basketball. If you deduced that clues four and five were "Lake" and "Kelly" then you did not need the rest. (Victoria, Ness and Shasta are all lakes even though the Scottish insist on being difficult and spell it Loch, and Grace, Gene and our own Vianne all share the last name Kelly.)

Of course, Kelly returned to Austin Peay from stint as an assistant coach at the University of Kentucky under the head coach, Joe B. Hall.

This week's WHATZIT is a little different from those previous. The series of quotes and the people in the clues held a common position.

- 1) "There's a lot more going for Austin Peay than people on the outside recognize." -H
- 2) "Whatever we do with it, let's face it, it's a controversial." -1985
- 3) "It's time America pulled its money out of its shelters and started investing in the future." -1989
- 4) In order: Robert, Keith and Ronald.
- 5) If these are not enough, an additional clue is that all of these quotes appeared in The All Star.

Area concerts and films

LEON PATILLO, formerly of the pop group Santana and currently a contemporary Christian artist, will appear at TPAC's Andrew Jackson Theatre Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. Special guest will be Terri DeSario.
