Peay loses money due to bad checks, deferred expenses

By DAVID MASON

Earlier this year the Tennessee Board of Regents began a new policy which prohibits the practice of charging or "deferring" fees. The policy was initiated because of the increase in the amount of money owed to state colleges and universities.

There has also been an increase in the amount of "state" accounts, or accounts that for one reason or another cannot be collected. At present Austin Peay is owed approximately $125,000 in collectable deferred fees, and about $50,000 in uncollectable funds.

THE UNIVERSITY used to defer fees for individuals if they signed a "promise to pay." The person would then pay the money within a certain amount of time. All too often, however, someone would continue to procrastinate until the end of the quarter, then leave the university owing it money.

The outcome is that no one can now have their fees deferred.

However, there are some exceptions to the rule. Anyone who can produce a statement from a financially responsible institution, stating that it will send payment directly to the university for the payment of the student's fees, can defer registration cost. This does not apply to veterans because the federal government sends their money directly to them.

ANOTHER WAY the university loses money is through bad checks. According to Dr. Erle Coppedge, vice president for business affairs, the university is presently owed about $1,000 in bad checks.

Bad checks are all handled in the conventional way. A notice is sent informing the student that the check has returned from the bank. If no reply is made a second notice is sent. If the checkwriter continues to ignore the notices, the check is turned over to the district attorney's office who in turn also writes a letter.

IF THE ACCUSED continues to ignore notification by mail a warrant is issued for his or her arrest. The accused, upon conviction, is also made to cover court costs which can be as high as $10.

Coppedge stated, "We don't want to be put into position to go to court. We have not done this since we started working with the district attorney." Coppedge advises all students to take care of all bad checks immediately, or at least see him and discuss the matter.

Faculty, students questioned

First impression of new president 'favorable'

By VALERIE WATERS

"Dynamic." "Energetic." "Ambitious." These are just a few of the words used by APSU students, faculty, and staff in describing their initial impression of Dr. Robert O. Riggs, new president of Austin Peay.

"I THINK they're going to be real neat people," said Reggie Tucker of Clarksville. He explained that at first it seemed to him President Riggs didn't think the university was a very good one—Riggs mentioned many changes he thought necessary—but after reading the column by Judy Riggs, the new president's wife, in last week's The All State Tucker said he had a "good feeling" toward the Riggs family.

Several students emphasized Riggs' age as an asset to his position. Larry Carroll of Clarksville stated that he thinks it is "good that they got someone of his age instead of an older person. Even though he is probably a little short of experience, he can do a lot for Austin Peay."

Martin Abraham, a freshman

SGA senator from Detroit, Mich., said his impression of Riggs is that "he came in and established his authority and seems to be determined. It appears he will be a lot more sensitive to the needs of students."

A similar impression was given by Patsy Simmons of Cornersville, Tenn. "He (Riggs) seems very cooperative and wants to do what students want him to," Simmons described Riggs as "the students' president."

Tracy Culp of Belts, Tenn.,

says she believes Riggs is going to "help the freshmen a lot."

CLARKSVILLE Lee Henderson stated that "from what I've heard and read he's a nice guy—young and energetic."

Karen Gardner of Madison, Tenn., believes Riggs "has good ideas if he'll follow through with them."

You see more of him than you did President Morgan," said Delaney Jenkins of Nashville.

A large number of students claimed they have no impression of Riggs. "He's just a ghost to me right now" was one comment. Another student stated that he had "no reason to be involved" with Riggs.

The initial impression Riggs conveyed to the APSU faculty and staff is a very favorable one.

David Watson, University Center director, said his impression of Riggs is that "he's very dynamic. I feel like the university will benefit greatly under his leadership."

THE "OBVIOUS ambition and sense of progress in his actions and talk" was cited by Dr. Charles Young, chairman of the art department, as his impression of Riggs. Various other faculty members included feelings of expected progress in their comments.

Leslie Ogilvie, assistant professor of physics, stated that Riggs "seems to be anxious to get the university on a good financial footing and see it move ahead." Riggs also impressed Dr.

Clayton Powers, associate professor of health and P.E., as "a man who is going to take care of all bad checks immediately, or at least see him and discuss the matter."

Dr. Duane Forderhase, chairman of the philosophy department, commented that Riggs "appears to be a man with a plan" to develop a community-wide university. Forderhase also said that Riggs is very easy to meet, very sociable and communicates his desires and attitudes easily. "He added that the new president is "quite open to different points of view."

RIGGS STRIKES William Barnett, instructor in English, as "highly energetic, exciting and 'super-charged'—a man who is 'going to get something done.' Barnett added that he thinks Riggs has not paid enough attention to the "academic role and scope of the university, particularly in relation to faculty concerns," and to "upgrading academic standards."

The impression of Riggs received by Dr. Floyd Ford, professor of biology, is that he is "very cordial and very businesslike."

A few faculty members indicated they had not at that time had enough contact with Riggs to form an impression of him. However, as indicated by the above comments, the general impression Riggs has conveyed in the short time he has been at APSU is one of expectancy of good things to come.

Hemphill explains

Tribunal process outlined by chief justice

By JOEL FRYER

Within the realm of the APSU judicial structure is found the heartbeat of campus law: the Student Tribunal.

The tribunal, composed of eight associate justices, a chief justice, a court clerk, and an advisor, "lets students institute peer judgment," according to Jim Hemphill, chief justice of the Student Tribunal.

HEMPHILL WENT on to explain what happens when a person is accused of committing a crime. He used the case of a marijuana offense as an example. When a student is accused of smoking marijuana, or having possession, he is first questioned by either APSU security or the dean of men.

The defendant is then given his rights statement and the opportunity to have a student defender. The chief justice sets a trial date and notifies the defendant. Hemphill emphasized that a student convicted of an offense always has the chance to choose a student defender.

The chief justice noted that the prosecution must show clear proof that the defendant is guilty. The results of the trial are considered and a punishment is issued to the guilty party. This punishment is recommended to the vice president for student affairs who confers with the president for a final decision.

THE TRIBUNAL has no official authority of power. This power is found only in the voice of the college president. When the president does not pass judgement on a case it is sent to the State Board of Regents for a final decision.

After both the prosecution and the defendant are given the Athletic solutions offered

Women's sports need change

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the second of a three part series of athletic committee members' efforts at APSU, suggestions are made for revisions of the present athletic program. The third and final editorial will be published next week.

There are a number of actions, short of "equal money" that can be taken to improve the quality of women's athletics program at Austin Peay. First and foremost, we endorse Dr. Lea Larson's proposal that the position of women's athletic director be created.

We believe it is vital that there should be an administrative person, familiar with and sympathetic to the needs of such a program, to coordinate women's sports and to serve as an advisor during the implementation of Title IX.

WE DO NOT believe that Dr. George Fisher, the present athletic director, can fulfill this role. He has been quoted as saying, "I'm not overjoyed about being women's athletic director." Further, his public comments lead us to believe he would favor a game of "follow the leader," that he would delay as long as possible and do the minimum which the law permits.

We believe that it is time for progressive, rather than retrogressive, leadership. We feel a separate, even if subordinate, women's athletic director is necessary.

Second, we believe that expenditures for women's athletics should be markedly increased.

Dr. Larson has recommended that the travel budget should be roughly tripled, from the present $4,000 to $14,000. This would still be less than the combined travel budgets of the men's baseball and track teams (a total of $14,500). We endorse this recommendation in principle, if not in terms of the actual figure.

DR. LARSON has also proposed an initial allocation of approximately $12,000 for uniforms, adequate practice and game equipment and so on. She points out that this amount would be less in future years, since the women could then follow the men's practice of "turnover" of equipment every few years.

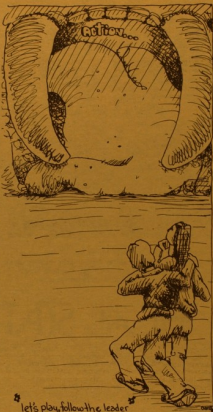

Even so, the proposal is modest, since the current budget provides $16,150 for "supplies and expenses," other than student financial aid, for the men's minor sports program (baseball, track, tennis and golf).

Although the amount may have to be reduced in light of the university's current financial state, we endorse this proposal in principle.

Third, we feel there should be some type of compensation for those faculty members who also coach women's sports teams (other than graduate assistants). Dr. Larson has proposed pay supplements in the neighborhood of $500 per sport per year. We are inclined to favor a reduced teaching load for that quarter. However, either proposal is preferable to the present situation.

FINALLY, We come to the most controversial proposal, athletic grants-in-aid for women. We are by no means pleased with the present financial aid program for intercollegiate athletics, and we will have more to say on that subject in a future column.

Nevertheless, as long as the university offers financial aid to male athletes, it should offer some type of financial aid to female athletes.

Letters raise questions

Miss APSU contest denies many participation

Dear Editor,

I have a question about the upcoming Miss APSU contest to wit, is it not discriminatory? The contest excludes all males, all married people, people under 18 and over 38, and also disallows people who are on probation.

The exclusion of the males, marrieds and "old" folks doesn't really bother me. There is however a young lady who is on disciplinary probation who will not be able to enter the contest. This bothers me. The official university definition of probation is "This is an official 'warning' At the end of the probationary period the records of the offense may be destroyed if the offense is sufficiently minor..." In this young ladies offense was in my opinion sufficiently minor. I think she should be allowed to compete in the Miss APSU contest.

Jim Hemphill

Dear Editor:

Should the Miss APSU Pageant only be open to YUMS?

There seems to be growing discontent among factions of the student body as to whether our Miss APSU Pageant should be closed to women that are not "young unmarried students."

There is a resolution before the SGA Senate proposing we eliminate any restrictions based on age, nationality or marital status from the contest rules.

Mike Stevens, sponsor of this bill, is quoted as saying that the present rules, "tend to perpetuate an arbitrary, unrealistic stereotype of the ideal woman."

More plainly, Miss APSU should be the most qualified to represent the female student body and the most qualified of a select group.

When I questioned a few students (female), in the student center lobby, the general opinion I received was that all interested women should have an equal opportunity in becoming Miss APSU.

If the state and national pageants continue in their bias practices and if Miss APSU happens not to conform to their vision of "the girl next door," then we at Austin Peay should not be a part of their dream machine. On the other hand, if Miss APSU does fit into the mold they so carefully shaped for her, then according to the secretary of the USAB our "favorite daughter" may continue up the ladder even to the Miss America Pageant.

Being a male, unable to anticipate the feeling or women, who have the opinion to be considered here, I urge any comment on this matter, either in myself (box 724), the SGA "Bitch Box" or the editor of The All State.

Marion Abraham

Dear Editor,

I recently attended the Eastern Kentucky-Austin Peay basketball game. I was particularly upset by the fact that the cheerleaders for Austin Peay seemed to stay in one small area of the gym. They should be aware that there are fans all around the court. I would like to see them cheer more actively to all sections of the gym.

Good luck in the OVC race! Lets Go Peay!

Mike Evans
An Interested Alumni

Oh you poor turkeys.

This is supposed to be a university, a place where smart people go to become smarter. Sometimes you people are downright stupid. I'll explain.

The Student Tribunal hears cases. You have rights in a judicial hearing, one of them is the right to remain SILENT. Know what that means? You don't have to say one word to anyone if you're charged, arrested, or accused of committing a violation. And the university gives you the right to stop any time you want to.

Some of the people who are tried in front of the tribunal are convicted only on the basis of what they told their accuser. I know you're trying to be cooperative but it's your life.

There is a standard "Waiver of Rights" form which is used by Security and the deans. Before you sign it, read it. If you have any questions about it, ask.

If you are accused of something and can't handle it, you can always ask for a Student Defender. They are students who are familiar with procedures and can help you over the rough spots.

Everybody is trying to help you, but how about helping yourself?

Money is a problem?

Bratcher offers financial aid

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Bratcher, Director of Student Financial Aid, discussed money and other problems in this week's guest column.

One of the most perplexing problems facing a significant number of present and prospective college students in the United States is where to find money to complete their education.

For other students, outside sources do not exist, or they may have to be supplemented (at Austin Peay during the 1974-75 year, more than half of the full-time student body found aid totaling almost $1.5 million.) This is why the university maintains a full-time student financial aid office. This office exists to assist those students who do not have the resources to pay for the increasing costs of education.

While there are almost 20 financial aid programs administered by the university and others administered outside the university, five programs, the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL), the College Work Study Program (CWSP), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG), the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) and the APSU Work-Scholarship Program, provide the largest percentage of assistance at APSU.

Except for the APSU Work-Scholarship, which is awarded based upon academic achievement, students qualify for most financial aid based on the amount of their need for the assistance. This need is established by determining what the student and/or his family can or should be able to contribute from income and assets toward the student's educational costs.

The American College Testing Program (ACT FFS) is the document used by APSU to determine the amount of the family's expected contribution. This "expected family contribution" is then subtracted from the cost of attending the university. If there is a difference between what the family should contribute and the cost, then the student is determined to have a "need" for financial aid.

The university then tries to fill this need by assisting the student with funds from one or more of financial reasons and do not contact this office before making their decision, and our not being able to provide adequate service to students.

Everyone will not qualify for assistance, but they owe it to themselves to find out before they decide to leave. There may be some source which they had not considered, and I would be happy to talk with them.

My other concern, that the Student Financial Aid Office is becoming less and less able to provide prompt and adequate service to our students, is more frustrating.

The number of students assisted (up last year over 30 percent) will match that increase this year. With this increase in the volume of student applications and new financial aid money processed through this office, it has become increasingly difficult to provide the prompt service needed by students applying for financial aid—that is, simply providing the student with timely information concerning the progress and approval or disapproval of his application.

We are unable to effectively counsel with students on a personal basis or even to properly answer written inquiries. I am concerned that we are turning some students off and perhaps causing some to leave the university or not to enroll in the first place.

I regret this, and I hope that the situation will improve in the future. Meanwhile, I ask students and the university community in general for as much understanding as possible if they encounter difficulties with this office.

the financial aid programs mentioned above. The amount of aid the student receives is based upon the amount of his need.

Students who do not qualify for assistance based on the federal criteria of need, can often find assistance by borrowing from their hometown bank through the Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP) or by contacting the chairman of the General Scholarship Committee, Dr. Floyd Ford.

Two things that are of concern to me, as Director of Student Financial Aid, are those students who drop out of college for Dope smokers getting burned?

(CPS)—Is the American dope smoker next in line to be blackmailed by a group of foreign exporters?

Yes, according to High Times magazine, which recently warned that Third World marijuana producing countries may band together and form "ODEC"—or the Organization of Dope Exporting Countries much like oil rich countries have formed OPEC.

"WE COULD FIND ourselves paying not only a dollar a gallon for gasoline, but a hundred dollars an ounce—for Mexican," says High Times.

High Times urged the federal government to act quickly by planning millions of acres of domestic weed so that another large group of American consumers is not cut off from its main source of energy.

Student sex sours Hoover

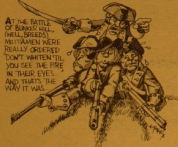

(CPS)—Sex is the latest addition to the list of student activities that former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover tried to stamp out.

Information uncovered by the Senate Intelligence Committee recently revealed that Hoover authorized FBI agents to force letters from parents to protest "free love" at the University of Texas.

HOOPER, ANGERED by a news report describing students' sex lives at the Texas school, approved letters forged on locally obtained stationery that would protest such goings-on at a state supported school. The letters were sent to regents as well as state senators, pretending to be from irate parents who were considering sending their children to the University of Texas.

Senate seat vacant

One vacancy exists in the Student Government Association (SGA) for a junior class senator. There are three qualifications that an applicant must have to fill this vacancy.

The applicant must be a junior, have at least a 2.1 grade point average and be available on Thursday nights to attend senate meetings.

To apply for the vacancy, interested students should meet in the University Center conference room, room 313, at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

NAEA needs prints

Art prints are needed to be used in the 1976-77 National Art Education Association (NAEA) calendar.

Due to the process that will be used, the prints can only be reproduced in one color. Size is not necessarily a limiting factor. However, the loss of sharpness and certain other effects involved in enlarging and reducing should be considered, according to NAEA spokesmen.

The finished calendar print will be approximately 9-11 inches in size.

Prints should be handed in to Hansi Russell in the art department office by the end of the winter quarter.

Govs win and tickets available

JUST LEAVE IT to a college newspaper sports editor to do something like this. Instead of taking the time to drive to Johnson City, to cover Monday's game with East Tennessee, he decided a story could be written easily enough from the radio broadcast.

Well, he was dead wrong. You see he didn't anticipate the broadcast being cut off the air and be without any account of the game to write much for the story. There's no telling what kind of story he will be able to turn out.

As you might be able to tell by now, I am the college newspaper sports editor, but maybe with a little luck, I'll be able to get just enough information to write something.

HERE GOES!

Austin Peay's Governors used a 19 point scoring extravaganza in second half action Monday night to drub East Tennessee 83-66. The surge ate up eight minutes on the clock and what was once a hard fought battle turned into a cakewalk.

With the game in from 43-41, with less than two minutes elapsed in second half play, APSU blundered the Bucs 19-0 to put the game out of reach at 18-16, with the score at 62-41.

"We're playing slot better," said APSU coach Lake Kelly. "One of the big factors was Sam (Drummer) coming out of his slump."

DRUMMER LED ALL scorers with 21 points of which 19 came in the second half. APSU's Otis Howard was next with 18 and the OVC's rebounding anchor also had his credit.

The Bucs were paced by Charlie Stuart with 16 and freshman Kendall "Tiny" Pinder had 15.

Austin Peay turned in one of their finest shooting nights of the season hitting 35-43 from the field 55.3 per cent. While on the other hand, the Govs in gaining their 13th win of the year against three losses, and 4-1 in OVC play, beat the Bucs to 24-69 from the field for 34.7 percent.

East Tennessee dropped its ninth decision in a row to bring their overall record to 2-13 and 0-5 in OVC play.

AND THAT'S THE 14 mark from here.

RESERVED SEAT and general admission tickets for all remaining APSU home basketball games are currently available in the APSU business office between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., Monday-Friday.

On the day of home games, tickets will go on sale at the Dunn Center from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and again from 3 p.m. until game time. There is no limit on the number of tickets that may be purchased.

Reserved seat tickets are $3 and general admission tickets are $2.

TICKETS FOR GAMES at Middle Tennessee Feb. 9 and Western Kentucky Feb. 28 went on sale Monday morning. According to Dr. George Fisher, athletic director, 300 tickets for the two road games were allocated for APSU. As of pre-timate, there were still tickets available.

Middle, Western

Critical home games for Govs

By LARRY SCHMIDT

Saturday and Monday will be a critical home stand for Austin Peay's Governors as they host Middle Tennessee and Western Kentucky in crucial OVC matchups.

Check the common denominator between the two opponents. Tennessee Tech. While APSU fell to the Golden Eagles 83-41 at Cookeville, both Middle and Western have won their games against Tech. The Blue Raiders beat TTU by a 79-74 count on their home court while the Toppers outscored them 48-79 at Bowling Green.

Saturday Middle Tennessee will bring a 31-5 overall record and 32 conference workout into APSU's Dunn Center. The defending OVC champions will return three starters from that conference championship team.

Tim Slanec, a 6-8, 230 pound center leads the offensive punch for MTSU. Currently he is the OVC's fourth leading scorer, averaging 20.9 points a game. The "Kokomo Cruncher" is also third in the rebounding department pulling down 13.2 a game. The senior captain is a 54.8 per cent shot from the field and is hitting at 88.4 per cent from the charity stripe.

Middle's outside attack is handled by guards Fred Allen and Lewis Mack.

Allen, a 6-6, 165 pound senior, is tossing in 14.6 points a game and from the line is second in the OVC connecting on 81.4 per cent.

Mack, the other guard, is a junior college transfer. In his first season for MTSU, the 6-2, 180 pounder is scoring 11.4 points a game while hitting on 32.9 per cent of his shots. He is currently seventh in the conference from the free throw line with an average of 78 per cent.

Claude "Sleepy" Taylor will round out the scoring attack for the Blue Raiders. The 6-3, 190 pound sophomore is playing in only his sixth game of the season because of a knee injury that caused him to sit out the first part of the season. From the forward guard spot he is averaging 13.3 points a game while hitting on 63.9 per cent of his shots.

Middle is coached by Jimmy Earle, who last season won OVC's "Coach of the Year" honors.

This will be the 71st meeting between the Govs and Middle Tennessee with the Blue Raiders holding a 37-33 advantage.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in the Dunn Center.

Western Kentucky

Monday Western Kentucky will bring its league leading Hilltoppers into the Dunn Center. The Toppers have an overall record of 11-4 and 5-0 in the OVC.

The main reason for WKU's success this season has been the play of guards Johnny Rival and Chuck Rawlings and forward Wilson James.

The Topper trio is pouring in 34 points an outing for WKU.

Wilson, a 6-7, 190 lb. AD-OVC guard, is good for 18.1 a game while Rawlings, also a preseason AD-OVC guard, is pouring in 15.3. Forward James rounds out the punch with 17.4 points to his credit an outing.

The rebounding strength comes from James Johnson and Mike Warner who are ranked seventh and 11th in the OVC rebounding race.

Johnson, a 6-7½, 215 pounder, is pulling down 8.5 a game while averaging 8.8 points while forward-center Warner is using his 6-7 frame to net 7.2 a game. The Savannah, Ga. native is also averaging 5.8 points a game.

The Toppers are coached by Jim Richards.

This will be the 27th game between WKU and APSU with the Hilltoppers having the advantage in the win department 19-7.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in the Dunn Center.

3 trackmen qualify for NCAA

By JIM WRIGHT

"Extremely competitive" is the way Dr. Wayne Williams, APSU track coach, describes the upcoming Indiana relays which will be held Feb. 7 in Bloomington, Ind.

Big Ten Conference powers such as Indiana, and individuals running unattached to get into shape for the Olympics, will be competing in this meet, according to Williams. Because of the extremely tough competition in the Indiana Relays, Williams is not planning to take the entire Austin Peay track team.

The Govs' track team completed its at the Jackson STAFF meet in Jackson, Miss. Saturday. Austin Peay's team had to leave before the meet was officially completed, but the Govs had accumulated 27 points and held third place in a field of over 30 teams when they departed.

APSU had some strong finishers in the Jackson meet, and Williams said. "A lot of people were really impressed with our team."

"We were invited to several spring meets by coaches at the meet who felt that our team could make their meets more competitive," added Williams.

Johnny Williams, a freshman from Talladega, Ala. in only his second indoor track meet, has qualified to compete in the NCAA Championships which will be run in Detroit, Mich., March 12-13 by running the 60-yard dash in 6.1 seconds.

After he had qualified himself for the NCAA championships, the freshman speedster ran three more heats. Williams ran off three consecutive times of six seconds, that is to take second place in the 60.

Coveak Moody, a sophomore from Nashville, also qualified for the NCAA championships in the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.1 seconds. Moody was bothered by a muscle strain going into the finals and finished sixth with the time of 7.1 seconds.

Another Austin Peay track team member who is now qualified to compete in the national championship meet is Dan Tallion. Tallion ran the 60-yard high hurdles in a time of 7.2 seconds.

seconds in a preliminary heat making him one of three Gov performers to qualify at the Jackson meet for the NCAA championship meets.

Tallion finished fifth in the finals with a time of 7.3 seconds. According to the APSU coach, "Tallion had a good chance of winning the 60-yard high hurdle event until he got hit, causing him to strike a hurdle."

Football rosters due; play begins Tuesday

By HAROLD GRIMES

Tech's recipe includes Gavs

By LAURIE SCHMIDT

Recipe for Tennessee Tech victory.

Take one Ohio Valley conference game, add one ex-TTU tennis coach as an official, and cook at home gymnasium for 40 minutes of basketball play.

Final product will be Tech 83, Austin Peay 81.

In Saturday's game with the Golden Eagles, the Governors ran into a bundle of obstacles that proved to be their downfall. One of the biggest disadvantages occurred with 44 seconds remaining in the first half when APSU forward Sam Drummer and Jerry Mathews of Tech were both ejected from the game.

While in the process of pulling down a rebound, Drummer threw an elbow which caught Mathews in the chest. At that time game official Dale Kelley whistled the infraction but did not immediately signify just what had occurred. Mathews then shoved Drummer and a few seconds later the Muncie, Ind. freshman forward began walking back towards Mathews, but a game official stood between the two players.

It was then Kelley went to both benches and informed Tech coach Connie Inman and APSU's Lake Kelly that both players were going to be ejected.

"I guarantee I'll protest it," said Kelly to the game official, but it was to no avail.

Austin Peay led at the intermission 43-41.

Tennessee Tech opened the second half by outscoring the Gavs 24-7 aided by a hot shooting spree by forward Larry Shade who scored 19 points in that 7-19 that put the Golden Eagles ahead 66-50 with 12:41 left.

But finally the Gavs began to chip away at the Tech lead, and with 10 seconds left in the game, APSU was down by two, 83-81, and had the ball.

Norman Jackson brought the ball down quickly for the Governors and passed it to Gary Green who shuffled the ball off to Calvin Garrett. The 6-7 freshman forward then drove the lane and put up a seven foot jump that refused to fall. Greene tipped the missed shot twice before time expired but both shots rolled harmlessly off of the rim.

Austin Peay lost the services of two players who were whittled with five personnel. Osa Howard and Charlie Fishback were disqualified for the Gavs while Shade was lost for Tech.

The loss dropped Austin Peay to 12-3 for the year and 3-1 in the OVC while Tech upped its overall record to 9-4 and 2-2 in conference play.

Tech was paced by Tom Schmidt, who had 21 points for the evening with Frank Jones 19 and Shade had 15. Willie Smith had 13 points and 16 rebounds.

Howard was the Gavs leading scorer with 18 while Garrett tossed in 17, all in the second half. Ralph Garner was APSU's leading rebounder with 10 and nine points to his credit.

Cases heard

Three cases were heard by the Student Tribunal last week. The tribunal is tentatively set to meet again next Wednesday, Feb. 4.

Jan. 27, 1976

A student was found in violation of having an unauthorized guest in the dorm room at an unauthorized time. Recommended penalty is probation from Jan. 27, June 7, 1976. Vote: 5-0.

A student was found in violation of writing a letter which: (1) threatened bodily harm; (2) threatened to defame; (3) constituted harassment by advancing another student's name to the letter. Recommended penalty is probation until June 5, 1976 and denial of dorm privileges. Letter of censure placed in personnel file. Vote: 4-1. One justice abstained because he felt he could not render a fair and just decision.

A student pleaded in violation to the charges of possession and consumption of an alcoholic beverage and having an unauthorized guest in the dorm room at an unauthorized time. Recommended penalty is probation from Jan. 27 to June 5, 1976. Vote: 3-0.

Tribunal outlined

results of the trial, they have five days to appeal the verdict.

In cases where the tribunal refuses to hear a case, a student and faculty board takes the responsibility. An auxiliary board of the Student Tribunal is the Traffic Appeals Board. This board hears cases involving traffic violations.

THE members of the tribunal are chosen by the SGA president, and serve on the judicial board their entire college career.

Hemphill noted that the judicial system at APSU is very self-reliant. He stated that it is a rare case when administrative decisions override sentences set by the tribunal.

In response to the APSU judicial system, Dr. Robert Riggs, president of APSU, commented, "I think it's a good system." He added that recommendations have been sent to the State Board of Regents for 'streamlining' the system.

"Concerning crimes committed on campus, Riggs stated that felonies should be handled by city authorities. However, in cases that are both felonies and campus violations, he stressed the need for the student to be tried by both city and college judicial systems.

RIGGS STATED that presently the systems needs no improvements. He also expressed his vote of confidence in the tribunal by saying, "The students working with the judicial system are very responsible."
