She was elected First Lady in 1951 and appeared in "Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities." Before coming to U. T. she served one year as supervisor of Health and Physical Education of Montgomery County. She enrolled at U. T. in the fall of 1951.

Governor Gaieties To Be Presented

A sparkling musical revue, presenting the "undiscovered talent" on the Austin Peay campus, is scheduled to take place here the latter part of February.

Featured in the show will be songs and dance numbers, comedians, and music by both the Men's Glee Club and the Kampus Kids. The general theme is built around life on the Austin Peay campus, and original music is being composed by Dr. Charles Gary.

The program is sponsored by the Music Department, and is under the direction of Dr. Gary. Assisting with the dancing and scripts are Carol King, Mrs. Annette Gurneth, and Mrs. Charles Gary. William Hurt, Edwin Slover, and Lew Bodine, music instructors are assisting with the orchestra and vocal numbers.

Dr. Gary stated that anyone interested in any phase of the musical should see him as soon as possible. A stage crew is needed and also students to help with the lights.

Phys. Ed. Majors Form Club Here

A new club organized on the campus this year is the Physical Education Majors Club. The club is open to any girl who is majoring or minoring in Physical Education.

The purpose of the Majors Club is to develop skills among the majors, in addition to the ones they acquire in regular classes. These skills will not be confined to athletics, but will include all forms of recreation and social activities. This is the help prepare the girls to teach any phase in the Physical Education field. The club will also give the majors an opportunity to become better acquainted with one another.

In addition to the monthly business meeting, the Majors plan to meet once a month for their activities.

The charter members are Grace Chester, Jewel Sadler, Marie Outlaw, Martha Branton, Kathryn Gordon, Pat Webb, Wilmoth Corbin, Betty Rawls, Georgia Cook, Dorothy Ann Keel, Martha Hayes and Carrie Hadley. Miss Ruth Garrison is the club sponsor.

Coonskin Cap Fad Hits AP Campus

"Exotic or Western Kites is Bestest!" That is the opinion of several Austin Peay Students who met yesterday morning at ten o'clock for the purpose of organizing a "Kefauver for President" club on the campus.

In speaking to the new club Dr. Wentworth Morris and B. Joseph Browning both expressed the feeling of the club by saying, "Even though we as a club may not completely agree with all of the activities of Mr. Kefauver, we should show our support to a native son of Tennessee who has gained such national recognition."

Morris stated that a number of colleges in the state have organized such clubs. Among those with clubs are Vanderbilt, Cumberland University, Middle Tennessee State Teachers College, University of Tennessee, Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, and others.

According to Browning the club plans to operate under the regular state Kefauver for president organization as well as the national organization.

"You know," declared Morris, "I wouldn't be a bit surprised if this campaign didn't turn into a campaign comparable to the 'rog cabin' campaign of 1848." Morris also stated that there is not a coonskin cap available in Clarksville, all stores have sold out.

Besides the immediate political aspect of the club it is hoped that the presence of such a club on the campus will increase interest in politics among the students.

Trying hard to come up with a bit of poetry for use in the local chapter, the two scratched their coonskin caps and produced this:

Speech Tourney Set For Feb. 14, 15

The annual Tennessee Intercollegiate Tournament will be held Thursday and Friday, February 14 and 15 at Belmont College in Nashville.

All state colleges and universities have been invited to participate in the event, which will include debates, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking, original oratory, peace oratory, and after-dinner speaking.

Marine Captain To Speak Here On January 30

Captain David Mixer of the Marine Corps Procurement will be here next Wednesday, January 30, to address the men of this college.

He will discuss what the Marines have to offer college men in their various Officer Candidate program.

During the meeting, Captain Mixer will discuss the Officer Candidate course for seniors and the Platoon Leaders Class for juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, and will give the students an idea of what to expect in the Marine Corps.

Men in the senior class are eligible to apply for the Officer Candidate Course. They can be enlisted for this training immediately, but a member is not called to active duty until after graduation.

The course lasts for ten weeks, and upon successful completion of it the candidate is commissioned as second lieutenant. He then goes on active duty for the same two-year period required by Selective Service. Captain Mixer will give more details on this course during his visit to Austin Peay.

Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors are eligible for the Platoon Leaders Class. This is similar to an ROTC course except that there are no special courses for drills required during the year. Instead, a member attends two six weeks summer training periods and upon graduation is awarded a commission.

Are You Stingy?

Recently, a young lady and her ten year old nephew came into a department store downtown. They laughed and talked with the clerks while they went about selecting new clothes for the young lad. As they were about to leave, the lady jokingly made a remark about the amount of money she was having to spend on his new outfit, and then she looked at him and teasingly said, "It's all right as long as it's my money. But Bobby's stingy with his!"

Bobby looked up at his aunt and grinned. "No, I'm not stingy," he replied. "Come on and take me up the street and I'll show you!"

They went out the door and up the street, the lady having no idea where Bobby was going to lead her. Probably they'd go to the ten-cent store so he could buy a new toy.

When they'd gone about two blocks Bobby stopped her. "This is where I want to go," he said. They had stopped directly in front of a table where some men were collecting money for the March of Dimes.

Momentarily the crowd was hushed as they watched this little boy reach into his pocket and lay a dollar bill on his own precious money upon the table. And some of the eyes filled with tears as they saw the lady and the little boy in his wheel chair proceed slowly on up the street.

This is the true story of a little boy in this particular community, who was afflicted with polio.

He gave a dollar — can't you spare a dime?

Assignments?

The following poem appeared in the "English Journal." It was written by a student in a California high school, and is dedicated to all our English and Education professors.

Assignments?
The teacher spoke forth in the dead of November.

"Tomorrow's the day we write sonnets, remember?"

But Johnny was different: a problem child. So he raised his hand in rebellion wild.

"A sonnet be upon it, I'll write you a ballad instead!"

I can't write a sonnet, I can't write a sonnet,

My mind's made up on it!

But I'll write you a ballad instead, tra-la, I'll write you a ballad instead!"

"But ballads don't come till the spring semester."

Said the teacher, "Aha!" said the brat, "I'll test her!"

"You mean dear old Bill, that Shakespearean goon,

Could only write lyrics in the full of the moon?"

The teacher glared back at Johnny Adams And said in her coldest, "I make you this promise.

You'll learn to write well, if you do as I say, And you're sure to get 'A' if you do as I tell."

So Johnny, intent on going to Yale, Wrote a sonnet, a dreary and impotent tale,

With fourteen lines and ABBA rhyme — Burying his ballads for some other time.

But later he didn't quite feel like writing. Thoughts he'd had earlier were no longer biting.

Yet Johnny got "A's" . . . for conformity pays.

Little Man On Campus

"I wonder what will happen to your car tonight?"

You Asked For It

by Alley and Powell

From the Iowa State College Eye we lifted the following poem:

College man is funny guy
He likes to drink, he tells much lie;

From dawn to dusk he always smokes,
He laughs real loud at corky jokes.

His pants, them short; his hair too;
Hum bad at books; him good at woo;

He chase around in battered car,
He knows where all the dark spots are.

He never works, he always plays,
He flirts with pretty girl all day.

If these be all a student do,
I think me too to college too!!

Said the cannibal chief to the victim, "What did you do for a living?"

"I was an associate editor,
Quaked the victim.

"Cheer up," said the chief, "After tonight you'll be editor-in-chief."

Chivalry's what makes a man
At risk of life and limb

Defend a lady fair from
All other wolves but him.

He called his girl friend Liberty Belle because she was half-cracked.

Ralph Shelton looked long and thoughtfully at Mr. Law's examination question which read: "State the number of tons of coal shipped out of the United States in any given year."

Then his brow cleared and he wrote: "1429-None."

Overheard from exasperated freshman boy: "I have been 'Orientated' so much my eyes have gotten slanted."

Overheard on football broadcast: "Borsky has just made his fourth touchdown. His teammates are overjoyed. They are hugging and kissing him in the end zone!"

Lifted from "The Flo-A-Lo." I love to watch the rooster crow

He's like so many men I know
Who brag and bluster, rave and shout.

And beat their manly chests with-out
A single thing to crow about!

Are You A Leader Or A Follower?

By R. C.

After spending five quarters on a college campus, I have witnessed some very confused actions by a group of human beings who are supposed to represent the "above average" student.

Often I wonder why young people acquire a few of the habits and ideas which they seem to develop after leaving home and for the first time gaining a small amount of freedom and independence.

The next time you go into the student room look around and picture the sights. What are the students doing? What are they talking about? Most of the time they are discussing only those things which seem to greatly increase their warped minds and to swell their ego. Most of them will be smoking—this great phenomenon being acquired from under the influence of Mom and Dad. A few jokes will be in the atmosphere—jokes with little wit, humor, or actual thought behind them.

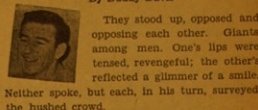

Of course, all of these things should be introduced to the college student, but they should not be stressed above the real and better ideals of life. One may say what he wishes, but both history and Christianity prove that true happiness and satisfaction is obtained only through the more richer virtues.

My college, What constitutes a sissy? Are you one? It seems to me that a sissy is not the one who refuses to take a beer with all of his buddies who are enjoying the delicacy of the delicacy of individual feels that it is wrong for him to do so, or if he really does he must be a sissy. No, it is the one who is more easily for him to become a follower instead of a leader. With this idea in mind, it is not the one who goes against his own beliefs who is a sissy.

Certainly this campus, community and world has a sufficient amount of followers. What it needs most is a few more leaders who will stand up for the more noble aspects of living.

Neither spoke, but each, in his turn, surveyed the hushed crowd.

Gathering this day in a makeshift room of equity were men: men of guile, clever men, cunning, shrewd, deceitful men. Simple men were here: men of honesty, folksy men, stupid, artless, ugly men. Merchants, farmers, railroaders, truck drivers were the average men here. These men had wives becoming their standing in life. Vain, honest, kind, vengeful, uncouth, lettered, intelligent, stupid, were these women. A spectacle unparalleled was this occasion.

An electric atmosphere pervaded the scene. Nerves would snap, surely, under these tensed conditions but the opposed giants merely stood, each as he occasioned — the one tensed, the other with a glimmer of mirth.

For many weeks the papers lines of communication and mouths chronicled this momentous meeting. "Right would out" was universally declared as the outcome and Right was right. The day was called "Decision Day," "Rude Awakening" and numerous other eye-catching, paper selling pseudonyms.

A giggling, jibbering noise issuing from beneath a table broke the spell that was cast over the crowd. Heads turned and there was talking and laughing. No one seemed to know what about, but they were thankful for the relieved tension.

Seated somewhat above the greater portion of the crowd were twelve men. For the most part they were men of simple talents. One was a shopkeeper, with a long curled mustache, yellow, stained brown with careless spitting, giving it a burnt straw effect. A simple man. Seated on either side of this simple man were two men, lean, and gaunt, the result of untold hardships, labors and conditions with which they could not cope. Three other men in line with the first three revealed no personal characteristics at all. They looked like three blobs of unmodeled clay. Behind this row of men were six other men seated in a straight line. They displayed little or no signs of life. Five of them were slouched in their seats, overalls on, rough, grimy hands, clay baked shoes with slits in the sides. They made no movements. They sat. The sixth man sat rigidly erect, not moving a muscle. His hair was plastered to "This" reared the giant, a red, irritated line circled his neck where the stiff collar rubbed it. These were the men upon whom rested the privilege and duty of administering justice.

A sharp rapping on a rusty oak table once more tensed the crowd. A hush once more prevailed. A man elevated above the whole crowd, sprawled in a chair. He was an old man, somewhat broken with the years, eyes bloodshot. Through cracked thin lips he rasped, "And you that who do you say?" The giant, humbly smiling, shook his head and said not a word. His eyes were moist and he rubbed them. Another rapping and the old man with bloodshot eyes questioned, "And you that, what do you say?" "This" reared the giant, a gleam in his eyes. "Or rather, Your distinguished Honor, I have this to show and then I shall say." He strode across the floor, eyeing the crowd. They were fidgeting, straining to follow the giant's footsteps across the floor. He stopped and stood erect again, striding back across the floor, a sheet draping a moving object in his hands. "Kind, honest, gentle people of this community, of this state, of this country," he addressed the crowd. "In my hands, under this shroud, I am holding a beast, mind you, a beast." He jerked off the cover and a tiny monkey blinked his eyes at the light and jibbered at the crowd. The crowd sprang to its feet as if an electric impulse had motivated them. "This beast," continued the smirking giant, "is your father, or so claims my opponent." Shrieks rent the air. The twelve men slapped one another on the back and chortled. Right would out and night came on.

The humble giant, with moist eyes, hung his head as he shuffled from the reverberating room. Day had not yet dawned.

Only My Opinion

By LARRY GATES

A possible solution, in the form dumped in 22 points and led the one Mr. Freddie Harrison, really showed great promise for the rebounding problem last Saturday night against L. M. U. A star for Dover last year, he looks like a sure bet for a lot of ball here before he graduates—With a little more experience under his belt, by tournament time he should develop into a fine rebounder and point-maker. By next year, you can look for him at that starting center position. In the game with Lincoln, he scored 3 points and played fine defensive ball for the short time he was in the game.

In that same game, the Gavs led only ONE time, 25-37, in the middle of the third quarter. Once ahead, they went wild—couldn't seem to settle down, threw bad passes, missed 3 trips, hit only 2 of 7 free throws, and ended up by playing rough and committing 5 or 6 fouls. Finally, midway in the fourth period, Dave Johnson hit his only point for the night to make the score 51-39. The Rallapliers scored 14 points to AP's 1 in less than seven minutes. Finally brought by eleven points, the Gavs began to press but it was a little too late. The loss ended a four game win streak here at home and made the season's record stand at 5-0. On the road the Gavs just can't seem to get into rhythm in their ball games.

L. M. U.'s average for the first quarter, seemed phenomenal from the spectators' point of view. They hit 8 out of about 13 or 14 shots from the field to pile up a 20-11 lead. This seemed too much for the Gavs to overcome and they couldn't stop Gene Wright who

Austin Peay Trips Delta State 46-45

The ball bouncing action payed off again for the Governors when they beat the Delta State Teachers College. They went into the fourth quarter leading 44-40, and started stalling for time. Each team scored two points in the final period.

Dave Johnson and Jim Odum went triple-d happy as they controlled the ball most of the fourth quarter.

The Gavs were topped in the shooting department but superb ball handling was the key to the win. The first quarter ended with Delta out front 15-12, but after the initial period, A. P. went ahead several times with the ball shifting hands continuously.

The starting five played the entire game which proved to be a team victory with each man getting his share of glory.

Ballplayers offense.

Highlighting the Gavs play was that of Dick Hays and Snooky Covington. Dick continues to lead the scoring for the season with his 12 point average, while Snooky has come through with 34 points in his last two games. In the loss to Lipscomb, Snooky played one of the best games of his career. He rebounded well, stole the ball over the court, hit 7 of 8 free throws, 50 per cent of his field goal attempts, and ended up with a total of 21 points for the night. The lack of good rebounding really was evident as the Lipscomb game. The Bisons shooting average was lower but they got almost twice as many shots from the floor as did Austin Peay.

Injuries

It seems like football season all over again. Most serious on the all-star list is George Hoffman. He's on crutches which means a loss of 13 points per game—Hope it doesn't last too long. Billy Covington is also having leg trouble. It shouldn't slow him down much, however. Jim Odum is still being slowed down considerably, with his shin splints. Once he gets back to full speed, the opposition had better look out.

I end this article today with a definition I heard recently. A Man's sort of like a worm. He comes along, wriggles a bit, and then some chicken gets him.

Intramurals Get Underway At AP

This year's intramural sports at the college are under the direction of Coach Cooper and his class of intramural programs. The teams have been divided into two leagues, the Red and the White. Those teams listed in the Red league are: Robb Hall Rats, Town Pumpers, Moonshiners, Mama's Jeannies and the Pitthy Five. The Robb Hall Rats are champion of their league up to the time of publication.

The White league is composed of the Kentucky Blue Grass Boys, Killer's Cats, Gophers, Married Men, and the Draft Dodgers. The Kentucky boys are leaders of this league with an undefeated record.

The date for the championship and consolation games between the two leagues is to be announced later. Two trophies are to be given, one to the champions and one to the runner-up.

Most of the games are played in the little gym beginning at 6:30. Two games are played each night and the program is to last until February.

ROBB RATS TRAIL KENTUCKY

The Robb Hall Rats were defeated for the second time by the Kentucky Blue Grass Boys in their first game this quarter. In their first tangle with the Kentucky boys, the Rats lost by only one point, but in the recent event the score was 43-36.

Johnny Turner was high scorer for the Rats with eleven points while James Higgins trailed him with nine points.

The Kentucky Blue Grass boys' scoring ace was "Gaby" Chestnut with 12 points.

Other scorers for the Rats were: DePriest 7, McMillan 4, Shelton 3, and Weatherston 2. Rats Trip Lovelville Independents. The Lovelville Independents received their first defeat of the season by the Rats in a recent thriller on the Independents home floor. The Lovelville men were led by Mack Chandler, a former graduate and star of Austin Peay. The Rats finished the debut with a score of 51-49.

"Since two of the Rats were Lovelville high school graduates and had played with Chandler, they exerted great effort to win," stated Coach Frank McMillan of the Rats.

A prospective member for the Rats team, Bailey Crocker, passed his test by becoming high scorer with 14 points while James Higgins and Ralph Shelton made 11 and 12 points respectively.

Whip Adams Independents by 17 Points

To the merry tune of 63-46, the Rats whipped the Adam Independents to chalk up their second win over the Adam's men.

L. J. Hatcher, a former McEwen High School Star, proved to be a capable player for the Rats in this game by "busting the bucket" for 14 points.

Carole DePriest became high scorer for the night with 8 baskets.

The A. P. cagers met Bethel last Tuesday night with a lineup made from the few forwards left active despite the injury streak.

Forwards used were Dick Hays, Snooky Covington and Dave Johnson, center John Ussell and Freddie Harrison. All first-string guards were out with injuries. Excessive fouling by key players hindered the chances of a last minute drive as Dick Hays, Dick Covington, and Dave Johnson left the game for fouling.

The "Wheel Chair" Quintet outscored Bethel 19-14 in the fourth quarter. Dick Hays led the "Red Cross Crew" with 16 points.

Lincoln Upsets Governors Twice

A slow first period was the prime factor in Austin Peay's loss to Lincoln Memorial University as they were outscored 20-11.

The Red and White boys from AP outscored LMU in all other quarters but failed to make up the nine point deficit they were left working with after the initial quarter.

The Governors failed to score before LMU had eight points in the launching moments of the onslaught.

The Gavs led once in the third quarter when Dick Hays sank a crisp shot to put A.P. ahead 38-37.

Just Plain Bull

Dear Mom,

Everything is fine here at Austin State. — there's no better place. Let me tell you about some of the things that are going on.

Carol King has wonderful powers to see into the future. She told Pat that he would be seeing Uncle Sam soon. So will a lot of other students, but there's a rumor that will join the Armed Services after next quarter.

"Zoot" Parker was told he would take a long successful trip within the next six months, so he's wondering whether he'll be with Phil Gordon Foster has already given his service to our Uncle. Everyone here wishes him the best.

George Hoffman is taking a lot of teasing about his injured leg. Some coeds think Sara Allen is some took care of it, but George merely smiles.

One thing Carol can safely predict is her forthcoming marriage to Bill Smith of Texas. At least her ring signifies their engagement.

In a recent assembly program, AFSC students were surprised to see the striking resemblance of actor Hallmark to Dean Woodward. In the second skit, they could have been taken for twins.

Dr. Spruce has a strange attraction for Murray Cole. If I can find out what it's about, I'll let you know.

Does anyone know who's causing stars to twinkle in Grace Chester's eyes?

We'll all go to pitch in and give Don Hinton some help so he can buy Katherine a ring. Looks like a late summer wedding in the making.

Jay Stone was seen recently with Don Cunningham, and Betty Ballhoun with Brown Warner. It seems that Charlyne Daveport is taking over a black buck belonging to Gary Latham.

Corn Soriano has returned to her home from Walter Reed Hospital. We're looking forward to having her back next quarter.

Donna Alfthart is happy now that Don Pescher is home. But Donna seems rather lonely since Glen is on maneuvers in New York. Last Saturday night at the Cave, there was a Leap Year Dance. Dorothy Jo Coleman and Jim Odoms, "Zoot" and Wanda Smith, Jack Miles and Betty Self, Sally Bourne and Patrick Ramsey, Ron Clary and Betty Rayner, Dave Johnson and Adele Perry, Tommy Bayman and Amy Gray, Marc Mann and Sylvia Butler, were all dated up — the girls asking the boys, of course.

"Cherokee" Lewis Lee Lance, Pat Webb, Grace Chester, Doris Foster, and Eddie Cook, put in their appearances at the dance too.

There was a lot of affection for everybody on the dance floor, but they all seemed to be having a good time.

"Cherokee" Legett Loan needs a bicycle to keep up with all his girls; there's Doris Foster, Doris Clary, and Margaret Field.

So long for now. As ever, Gerlie

- CLUB NEWS -

The Little Gym was the scene of a gala band dance last Wednesday night.

Approximately 200 students danced to the music of Harvey Pace and his Hillbilly band between the hours of 7 and 10.

The party, sponsored by the FTA, was only one of the many social events which the organization is sponsoring this year.

At their regular meeting this morning, Dr. Pryor spoke on "Curriculum Building in The Schools." Bryan Crutcher, president, announced that the annual banquet will be held May 14. Tentative plans are to have Dr. Frank Bass, Tennessee Educational Director, as speaker.

The FTA is starting an "Exchange Program," whereby students from other college FTA's will visit our campus, and our students will visit theirs. This is for the purpose of exchanging ideas on how to improve the club, and suggestions for the teaching profession.

Business Club
The Business Club recently held a party at the Country Women's Club.

After supper, at 6:30, the group played cards and various other games. About thirty-five members and their guests attended.

Faculty sponsors attending were Mr. Gentry, Mr. and Mrs. Hyke, and Miss Pittman.

Industrial Education Club
The I. E. Club recently met for the purpose of amending the constitution and by laws. Plans were discussed for providing a library for the Industrial Department.

The club will present a radio show on "Campus of the Air" March 15.

Poor Students May Succeed In Future

AMHERST, MASS. — (AP) — College records reveal many instances in which students who received below-average or mediocre grades became outstanding leaders later on in business and the professions, according to Dr. Charles W. Cole, some persons reach their peak performance in secondary school, others in college and graduate school and still others after school, he said.

Dr. Cole noted that one Amherst student had a barely passing grade in his sophomore year, increased it to 79.5 in his junior year, and attained an 83.40 in his senior year. "But before he was 35," he said, "this person was head of a most important government agency and today, still under 40, he is executive Vice-president of a great corporation."

In addition to the "late-bloomer," there are other types that present more serious problems, Dr. Cole emphasized. "One is the 'under-achiever.' He is the able lad who drifts through college, passes his courses and enjoys life around him, but never acquires any of the training, skills, discipline, incoherent interest that education should give."

"Then there is the 'half-achiever.' He, with great gifts, makes off by a respectable record of development and is like a six-cylinder engine which is not firing on all cylinders. The ignition system is not functioning in two of the cylinders."

Among the other questions raised by this phenomenon, Dr. Cole said, were: Does the college admission system favor those who mature early? Does it put a premium on precocity? How can a college detect the candidate who has still within him the potentiality for further growth?

Perhaps by studying the backgrounds of applicants for admission to college and by testing their "motivation" it might be possible to help the "late-bloomers," the "under-achievers" and "half-achievers," Dr. Cole suggested.

Religious Groups

Have you heard about the nationwide program sponsored by the United Christian Youth Movement now being promoted all over the country?

Over a hundred college students and young people from Clarksville heard about it last night at a supper at the First Presbyterian Church. The Reverend Malcolm Murchison made a brief talk, and a skit was presented to explain the purpose of the United Christian Movement.

This inter-denominational program has as its goal to unite a million American youth for the purpose of carrying out worthwhile projects in their own community. A meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, February 3 at 2:00 p.m. at the First Christian Church in order that students may dedicate their time and money to the work of the Christian movement. The money collected will go to the National Headquarters, and a portion of it will be returned to the students to be used throughout the state.

Dean F. G. Woodward will address the group at this meeting. All students will be "United! Committed! In Christ."

All college students are invited to attend. The First Christian Church is located at the corner of Madison and Academy Avenue, about four blocks from the campus.

Gracious Heavens! What's This? Print

Are you cold? The world is getting warmer or so Rachel Carson says in "The Sea Around Us." Miss Carson calls the ocean the "global thermostat" since day by day and season by season the ocean dominates the world's climate. It may be a few centuries in the future before ice disappears from the earth but it is something to look forward to. Don't be too hopeful though because this getting warmer may bring disaster with it. There is enough ice left that when it melts it will inundate the coast of North America up to the mountains.

Before that time man may be able to map the floor of the ocean, about which we know so little, by echo soundings. Little Sir Echo has become a scientist as well as a musician. At the present we know only that the sea is around us, the one everlasting, stable thing in our lives, from which life comes and to which life returns. When the undersea map emerges will we be able to find those lost continents of Atlantis? The sea is around us, we have been found in the sink at Dogger Bank. When we are wise enough, perhaps we can read all of past history in the floor of the ocean.

Students Prefer Present To Past

If you had your choice, what period of time of history do you feel that you had rather live in and why? Here are the opinions of a few campus students.

DORWOOD HARRIS — "I'm glad to be living today. Had I lived in the past, I would be dead. Should I live in the future, I wouldn't be here now and who would take up these six lines in this paper."

BRUCE MCILLIAN — "I feel that I had rather lived approximately 1800 years ago, the years of 1800-1860 in the late reconstruction period of the War, we were changing from an agrarian nation to an industrial nation. Westward expansion was of fering opportunities for development, and the peoples attitude was toward peace."

HARVEY PACE — "The roaring '20's" when everybody was celebrating the end of the war to end all wars."

ERMA DEAN BERRY — "I am satisfied with the present period with all its conveniences, entertainments, and high standards of living."

VIRGINIA REVEL — "I would have liked to live in the early Greek times so that I could have met Homer."

THELMA HARDISON — "I am glad I live now; otherwise I would have never known the joy of 'Sweet and Tender'."

BILL SWIFT — "I'd rather live in the early 1900's when one could make a million dollars and not have to pay it all out in income tax."

EDWARD GORDON — "Today because when else could one enjoy the fear of an atomic war."

AARON WHEELER — "Between 1829-32 because of the delicacy of rabbit meat."

AMY YATES — "I won't be choicy — I'm just glad I'm living."

BETTY JO CURTIS — "I would like to have lived during the reign of William and Mary, so I wouldn't have been thought foolish for being seven-foot tall."

PATTY McREYNOLDS — "I would have lived in the Middle Ages, so I could have helped to make history instead of studying it."

HAROLD KNIGHT — "I would prefer to live in the days of the Revolution. When George Washington threw a silver dollar across the Delaware River, in those days I would have been a hero."

SUE BERRY — "I would like to have lived during the period before the Civil War, when the South was a haven of romance, leisure, and polished culture."

H. R. GANNAN — "I had rather live in the present era, because I have the glorious (i) privilege of attending AFSC."

MARY ALICE SOUTHERLAND — "Today because of a cute little dog named Shep."

CAROLE DEPRIEST — "I believe that I had rather live today because I have such a great opportunity to serve my country."

Marine Captain

as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve.

The service requirement for graduates of this class is two years of active duty. While in college, candidates are deferred from the draft. Captain Mixter will be on the campus for two days, January 30 and 31st. After the assembly he will be in — to answer questions and take applications. Physical examinations will be given in the infirmary.

A certain number of men can be enlisted during Captain Mixter's initial visit. Other applications will be considered and the captain will make a return trip to complete the enrollment of men selected. Men who are interested should have on hand a certified copy of a birth certificate, passport size full face and profile, photographs, and three letters of recommendation from responsible citizens.

It is wretched business to be digging a well just as thirst is mastering you.

Coca-Cola is the answer to thirst. If you're digging a well or boning up for exams—keep fresh for the job. Have a Coke.
