SNEA Members Attend Convention

Friday, March 28, 12 SNEA members and sponsors, Miss Willie Stevens and Dr. C. O. McKee attended the annual SNEA convention at David Lipscomb College, Nashville.

There were approximately 800 delegates from more than 100 high schools and colleges in Tennessee.

The morning program opened with welcoming address by A. C. Pullias, president of Lipscomb, and Commissioner Quill E. Cope, Dr. Andy Holt, vice-president of the University of Tennessee, gave the main address pertaining to the 1958 theme — "Educating Tomorrow's Spacemen." This was followed by a short panel discussion and the group adjourned to the gymnasium where a picnic luncheon was served.

The afternoon sessions began following announcements. Everyone was divided into 20 separate groups where two discussion groups were carried on. The topics of these discussions for college students were "Professional Problems of Tomorrow's Teachers" and "Working on Student NEA Committee."

Mr. Vernon Johnson, Austin Peay, served as a discussion leader for one of the high school groups.

Jan Haskins, president of Austin Peay's SNEA appeared on WSM-TV's "Noon" program in connection with the convention. She also extended to the entire group of delegates Austin Peay's invitation to attend the convention in 1959 on Austin Peay's campus.

Consequently, the next president of the A. P. NEA chapter will also automatically become the SNEA president.

Following the afternoon sessions, guided tours of the campus was arranged and the convention was climaxed by a banquet.

Dr. Karl Berns gave the address on "Toward New Horizons."

A. P. People In Career Day

A combined vocational guidance and career day was held at Montgomery Central High School, Tuesday, April 15, in which all students traded jobs through twelve participants.

Representatives of Austin Peay who provided consultative service in respective careers were: Mr. Frank Hinton and Mr. James Hamilton, Agriculture; Mr. Aaron Schmidt, Music; Mr. Jerry Rust, Business Administration; and Dr. Christine Stroup, Secretarial Science.

The council sessions were held from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m.

Mr. Vernon Johnson, State Supervisor of Instruction at Austin Peay, spoke to the high school assembly on the importance of the early choice of a career and the need of the individual student to plan education programs to that end.

At 1:00 p.m., representatives from several colleges of the state area talked to interested seniors about the advantages and offerings of respective institutions. Austin Peay was represented by Mr. Earl E. Sexton, director of Field Activities.

Annual Iris Ball Introduces Spring

On April 4 the annual Iris Ball was held in the Memorial Gymnasium. The distinctive band of Ralph Marterie furnished the melodies for the gala spring event.

Jo Anne Crockarell was crowned Iris Queen by President Harvill in a short ceremony. The Queen and her lovely court—Faye Wallace, Lynda Clement, Anne Allen and Glynda Clement—reigned amid a profusion of iris.

The Steamer Avalon was replaced this year by the famed orchestra of Ralph Marterie, one of the top bands in the nation.

Cancer Dance Held At Armory

A cancer benefit dance was held at the National Guard Armory on April 8 from 8:15 until 12 midnight.

The Austin Peay Collegians furnished the dance music, featuring Larry Womack and Helen Landrum on vocals. During the intermission entertainment was provided by two other campus groups, the Peay Pickers and the Governors.

All talent and time were donated by the students so the Cancer Fund could recognize a clear profit.

Cancer Drive

The All State thinks a big hand should be given to the faculty members, administration, and students who organized and participated in the recent cancer drive.

The kick-off was in the form of a dance held in the Armory. The Collegians, Austin Peay student dance band, donated their time and talent for the evening. Other Austin Peay students presented a floor show. Tuesday, April 15, students conducted a residential canvas of Clarksville giving out information on cancer and taking donations. This was a worthwhile campaign and a credit to both the school and the student body.

Student Election

Next week is election time on campus. So far we have only seen two names presented by means of posters, signs, etc., and we have heard rumors of no more names. Is this a sign of the interest in student government at Austin Peay? If so something is wrong. There should be four or five students running for each office and the campus should be well aware of the event taking place.

We certainly realize the responsibility of being a student council officer and we can see that it would not be a matter to jump into. But there are enough good leaders and capable people on campus to create more respect for the offices by showing interest in the election.

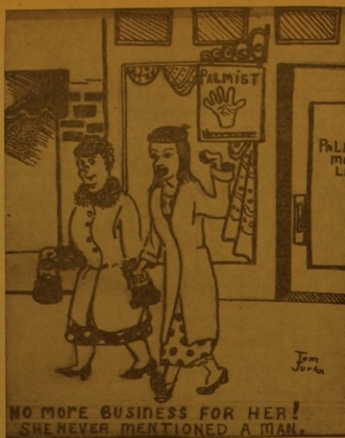

Let's take a shot of get-up-and-go and get some spirit and competition in some of the important parts of college.

Times Remembered

Memory is an excellent thing. It serves as a filing and reference service. It is also a background on which we draw to guide us in new situations. What a pity it is when we desire to look out our memories. Mistakes can never be covered up by good deeds; they can only be contrasted and compared. We win only if the good deeds over shadow our errors.

Too many people desire a "new and clean" slate too often. Experiences are not only in our memories; they are also a part of us. It would take a new person and not a new slate to change this matter. We can not shut off times remembered, we can only decide whether to capitalize or minimize them.

Just as we can't "pretend" in connection with memories, we can neither build a whole life on what we have done. Just as food is better if we chew and digest it ourselves, life is better if we eat and digest it day by day.

The Rolling Stone

Upon the recommendation of a talent scout (not Arthur Godfrey's), we have decided to organize a local unit of the Fair-Weather Fan Club at APSC. This seems appropriate since baseball and track are just beginning.

This unit is a national organization and has been in existence since the beginning of organized sports in America. Usually when starting a new unit we encounter trouble via the Pep Club. However, since we have no pep club it would be logical to assume... (need I go further?)

Quoting the scout on the eligibility of the local patrons of the sports activities for membership, we have this to go by: "Among the patrons of each game played in the said school this year, I've never encountered such unsportsmanlike manners outside our own chapters!"

It is only fair to you that we have complete understanding before you are accepted in our Unit. Members of this organization must comply wholeheartedly with our advocations. These advocations are:

1. We advocate the boosting of our team. (As long as they're winning.)
2. We advocate doing away with booing. (Unless there is a just cause for doing so. Example: The umpire makes a mistake.)
3. We advocate acceptance at all times of the umpire's decisions. (Unless they fail to meet our approval.)
4. We advocate complete attention of each member to the instructions of the cheerleaders. (However, anyone caught doing this will be kicked out of the club.)
5. We advocate good sportsmanship. (Cheer when a member of the opposition breaks a leg.)
6. We advocate complete cooperation of the cheering unit. (The club is traditionally famous —minus—for its tact in that each member cheers a different yell at the same time.

7. We advocate disposing of all gun, paper, orange peelings, MAD comic books, etc., in their proper places. (This is accomplished by throwing them at opposing players.)

8. We advocate attending each game. (Unless we can find some excuse no matter how weak.)

Anyone wishing to join this organization please consider yourself as the worst type of human being and not worth the powder it would take to blow your nose!

Lord Brougham said, "Education makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to enslave." I imagine that quite a few of us were rudely awakened by our exam scores, and since we are soon to become that "people" Lord Brougham spoke of let us accept our heritage with appreciation and do our part by giving our best so that we may continue to receive the best.

As the music students say when it's time to move along, "Let's modulate."

By BILL CONTE

Dark, moldy leaves sprinkled the sidewalk, still wet from the rain. The low cloud layer had lifted a little in the west to reveal a red angry sun. A chill breeze whistled around the corners of the buildings, bringing the threat of winter. The wet leaves clung to her high heels as if to hold her back. The wind tossed her dark hair, implacably unaware of her efforts to keep it in place, and made her wrap her duster tighter. Her high forehead was creased with lines of worry.

The doctor had been very kind with her. She couldn't reproach him for anything. She couldn't reproach anyone except herself for the trouble she was in now. Tears fought at her eyes. She didn't want to cry. She wanted someone who would comfort her and tell her not to worry that everything would be all right.

She knew she could not go home; she would be too ashamed to face her parents knowing what she knew now. She was pregnant. She would go to Johnny, because that was her only hope. And that was where she was going now.

The steps of the old apartment building were dirty with the grime and soot of the city, and dark, lit only by a small bulb which cast a pale yellow light. Johnny met her in his old trousers and undershirt. He looked as if he had been up for only a short time.

"Well, come in," he said yawning. "I didn't expect you."

"If I'm bothering you, I'll go," she said meekly.

"Good Lord no! Come on in darling."

She went in slowly, took off her duster and sat down in a large, dumpy easy-chair, crossed her legs and looking down at the cheap birthstone ring he had given her said, "Maybe I shouldn't have come here but it was the only place I could think of."

Johnny looked at her sharply. "Darling, what's the matter? You don't seem like yourself."

"Johnny," she said hesitantly, "Johnny, I went to the doctor this morning."

Alarmed, he said, "You're not sick? Tell me, there's nothing wrong with you, is there?"

"No, Johnny, I'm not sick, exactly..."

"Well, if you're not sick, then what's wrong?" He was worried. She had never acted like this before.

"Johnny, don't be mad at me?" She fought desperately to keep from crying.

"Darling, I couldn't ever be mad at you. What's wrong?" He was concerned now, and he could see that she was almost in tears.

"Johnny, the doctor said I'm pregnant," she said, and started to cry.

Johnny stood very still with almost no expression on his face for an instant. Inside he was in turmoil, finding it difficult to comprehend what she had said. Then he smiled a tender smile and went over to her, picked her up out of the chair and said, "You idiot, no I'm not angry at you. Darling, look at me."

She turned her tear stained face towards his and looked into his eyes.

"I love you," he said.

"Then you're really not angry at me?" she said and started crying all over again.

"Now what are you crying about?" I thought you'd be happy now," he said.

"I am, that's why I'm crying," she answered, and for the first time since she had come in, she smiled.

Queen Jo Anne and Her Court

QUEEN OF THE IRIS — It has become a tradition for students and faculty of Austin Peay State College to herald the coming of spring with the annual Iris Ball. This year's Iris Queen, seated above, is Miss Jo Anne Crockarell, a popular member of the sophomore class. She is a business major and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Crockarell of Dover, Tennessee. Her attendants are from left to right: Miss Fay Wallace, a freshman elementary education major, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Wallace of Henderson, Kentucky; Miss Anne Allen, a sophomore physical education and health major, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Allen of Chapmansboro, Tenn.; and Misses Glynda and Lynda Clement, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clement, Dickson, Tennessee. Glynda is a health and physical education major and Lynda an English major. Both are seniors. The dance will be held tonight in Memorial Gymnasium from 8 until 12 o'clock with music by Ralph Marterie and his orchestra. Each year the Iris Ball is sponsored by the student council. At intermission, the queen will be crowned by Halbert Harvill, president of the institution, in a brief, impressive ceremony. Miss Crockarell is pictured holding a lovely bouquet of iris, the state flower, compliments of Tarpley's florists. (Photo by F. Souza).

Iris Queen, Jo Anne Crockarell

By Sheila Bowman

One of the most active and popular students on the Austin Peay campus is Miss Jo Anne Crockarell, a sophomore business major from Dover, Tennessee.

Last Monday night Jo Anne was queen of the Iris Ball. She was chosen in the Fall for the honor. Her comments—"It seemed so good to be true. I just couldn't believe it."

This Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights Jo Anne will become a congresswoman of the fourteenth age in the production of "Goodbye, My Fancy," a three act comedy. Jo Anne plays the female lead as Agatha Reed, a sophisticated career woman on a visit to her alma mater to receive her honorary degree though she had been kicked out of the institution and never graduated.

Jo Anne has been in plays ever since grammar school. She has played various types of women, but the most interesting character she ever portrayed was "Bloody Mary" in South Pacific last year.

The sophomore class selected Jo Anne for its secretary-treasurer this year. She also holds this position in the MENC and is vice president of the Alpha Chi.

In between dances and plays Jo Anne participates in other extra-curricular activities such as swimming, softball, and hand majorette. Studying for Jo Anne is crammed into her busy weekend schedule and supplemented

President Harvill Addresses Students

"Opportunities are abundant if you are prepared for them," President Harvill stated in an assembly address at Austin Peay, Wednesday, April 16.

"While we encounter many opportunities each day, if we are not prepared for them they are to no avail," he continued.

"It is true that some people have more talents than others; there is room in everyone for improvement. No one, teacher, student, or otherwise, has ever utilized his mind to the fullest extent," he said.

He called on the students to keep striving to develop their talents by studying harder, using their time wisely, always doing their own work.

"You may be able to cheat in school and get by with it, but you are really just cheating yourself and your family of the future," Mr. Harvill stated.

"America differs from other countries in that more people have the opportunity to receive an education and those people who failed to make the best of this opportunity are letting down the principles America is founded on; equality of all," he said.

Mr. Harvill went on to say, "Let us build good habits of studying, the use of our time and talents now and the future will be much brighter."

with afternoon study sessions. "It's a busy life!" says Jo Anne.

To Be On Campus Naval Officer

Officers from the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit at Memphis, Tennessee, will visit the Austin Peay University campus on Thursday, May 1st, 1958. These representatives are now touring the Mid-South Colleges and Universities to disseminate information on the Navy's Flight Training Programs.

Two programs are now open for interested college men between the ages of 18-26. Students who have completed two years of college and are unmarried may apply for the Naval Aviation Cadet Program. Successful candidates are commissioned and designated Ensigns and Naval Aviators at the completion of 18 months flight training.

Male college graduates, married or single, between the ages of 18 and 35 may apply for pilot training under the Aviation Officer Candidate Program. Under this program candidates will receive a commission as Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve after only 16 weeks at the Naval School of Pre-Flight, Pensacola, Florida.

Male college students who are interested in either of the two programs are invited to contact Major E. Dreifus, USMC, or Lieutenant Commander H. M. Rowland, USN during their visit to the local campus.

Cancer Appeal In Assembly

The Cancer Association made an appeal to the Austin Peay student body in assembly Wednesday, April 2 for workers willing to canvass the city for donations April 15.

Mr. Floyd Ford, Mr. Joe Suttin, and Don Alsop, along with guest speaker Mr. Clarence Speight, of Speight and Hibbs, spoke briefly on the dangers of cancer, and the work that is being done to find a prevention and cure for it.

Mr. Speight stated that four out of every sixteen persons present would some day have cancer unless research finds a cure.

"One out of three will be saved. With proper research we may find a prevention or a cure that will enable three out of three persons to be saved," he continued.

He stated that the raising of money was not the only reason for the canvas. It will also serve to place in the hands of the public information about the danger, symptoms, and medical attention of cancer.

Mr. Speight pointed out, "The life you save may be your own!"

Science Club Has Speaker

The Science Club held its regular meeting, Monday, April 7, in the Science Building. The speaker for the evening was Walter Powers, Superintendent of Sanitation of Fort Campbell, Kentucky. His theme was "geology of this area and its relationship to pollution of water."

Also at this meeting a nomination committee was appointed to select candidates for the coming election of Science Club officers. The committee was as follows: Don England, Joe Smith, Joyce Parnes, and Marvin Jones.

Math Club Has Day

The Mathematics Club announces its regular annual Math contest to be held Friday, April 18th in the Science building.

Registration takes place from 8:30 to 9:30 and testing continued from 9:45 to 12:00.

Approximately two hundred contestants are expected from some twenty high schools. The tests are divided into four main divisions: first year algebra, plane geometry, and comprehensive mathematics.

The schools where the winner of each division attends will be awarded a trophy. The first, second, and third place winners of each division will receive medals and the top 5 per cent of the winners will be awarded a certificate of merit by the Tennessee Mathematics Teachers Association.

Science Contest April 18

The Science Club conducted the first annual science contest which was held in the Science building at Austin Peay State College, Friday, April 18, 1958.

All high school seniors who had completed, or are now enrolled in a science course were eligible to compete.

The contest was divided into four divisions: biology, chemistry, physics, and general science. The contestants were permitted to take the general science test and one other.

Trophies and prizes were awarded the winners and the test results will be used as one of the factors in selecting recipients of science scholarships and assistance from among the freshmen who enroll at Austin Peay State College.

No charge was required of the contestants and the science department reports a good turnout.

BSU Hears Mrs. Leavell

Smoke Salem... Smoke Refreshed

As I See It. by Bobby McCord

This may be a dull time for sports fans who like football and basketball, but it is not a dull time for the coaching staff at Austin Peay.

Dave Aaron, basketball coach and athletic director, is going to coach the golf team as well as travel once or twice a week to turn up new basketball players for the Govs. He'll cover many miles in Kentucky and Tennessee before the summer is gone.

Coach Gartman and Coach Foote have just closed spring football practice and are moving onto the cinders to get the track squad ready for their opening date.

Head baseball coach Leon Sandifer, who spent almost three nights a week in the gym during the winter quarter to conduct the intra mural program, is now outside, when the weather allows, conducting baseball practice.

Coach Kenneth Cooper, head football coach, is busy going over the results of spring practice and working on who will play where when he again meets the squad for practice in September. He is busy getting a line on new boys for Austin Peay to sign by next year.

We think the coaching staff is to be congratulated for going ahead with the golf team. The more sports you have the more students you reach. I wish it were possible to have a tennis and swimming team. If there were enough skilled students in these two sports I feel sure the coaches would see that Austin Peay has a chance to compete against similar teams from other schools.

Don't Know Why

Austin Peay was again turned down for admittance into the Ohio Valley Conference. This makes the third time the Governors have been refused. It's getting to be a habit. I don't know why Austin Peay is refused unless the O.V.C. wants a drawing card such as Knoxville, Western, Middle Tennessee, and Tennessee Tech.

Our basketball and football clubs will at least compare with the most of the O.V.C. colleges. The basketball club beat two member schools, Middle Tennessee and East Tennessee, and could have probably taken Tennessee Tech if the game were played in Clarksville. Tech was conference champion.

The academic standards at A.P. are as high as the colleges of the O.V.C. so it couldn't have been scholastic deficiency.

Perhaps they figure we won't draw fans where we play away from home. I'd like to know if Middle Tennessee and East Tennessee pack the gym when they play at Murray and Western. You know the answer there.

We must have made somebody mad somewhere. Maybe the O.V.C. is tired of Tennessee institutions and doesn't want any more in the conference.

Personally, I feel that to make progress, Austin Peay should still try to join the conference. It's time we moved up from V.E.A.C. We will be playing better teams, having bigger crowds, much better publicity, getting better high school boys, by joining the Ohio Valley Conference.

Baseball Season Well In Swing

Head baseball coach Leon Sandifer announced that several new boys had signed as candidates for his 1958 Governor squad.

A brief run down on the boys and their possible positions read like this:

Ray Justice — Nineteen year old sophomore transfer from Dayton University. Ray is fairly fast and plays the outfield. Ray bats and throws right handed.

Lee Roy Overstreet — A freshman from Nashville. Lee Roy also boxes and plays football. He is nineteen and will work at short and second base. Overstreet must move last year's regulars, Corlew and Campbell, to crash the line up.

John Capps — John is a former service man and will work in the outfield. He is twenty four and a freshman.

Carlton Collier — A twenty year old junior. Carlton will work at first and third base. Coach Sandifer is looking for a third baseman to replace Don Orr.

Charles Cates — Cates is a football player and is a junior. Cates is twenty and will be given a chance to back up Morgan and Monnet on the mound.

Petty Ezzell — A nineteen year old freshman. Petty just finished spring football practice. He plays almost anywhere in the infield.

William Pickering — An outfielder and a sophomore, he will need to be good to push Crow, Colley, Monnet, and the other experienced outfielders out of a job. William is nineteen and bats and throws right handed.

Pat Webb — Another ex-service man, Pat is 25 and a freshman. Webb has some experience behind the bat and has pitched some. He is right handed all the way.

Bobby Baumgardner — Only eighteen years old and a freshman, Bobby plays football and is one of the new boys. Sandifer will take a look at on third base. He may need a better arm if used at third.

Ariel Atkins — A fine defensive infielder. Atkins plays short and second. He is a freshman and twenty years old.

Jim Stewart — Playing almost in right position Stewart has quick hands on an arm that is above average. He is only a freshman and eighteen.

Coach Sandifer has worked these first year men separate from his veterans so he can get a better look. The weather has hindered practice greatly.

Once outside the club stayed late each day taking batting practice. McKendree College, the Gov's first foe started working inside February 2. They have adequate space to work inside.

Track Line-up Announced

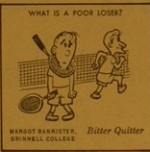

Track coaches Earl Gartman and Howard Foote have announced a tentative lineup for each of the fifteen track and field events. 100 yd. dash — Danny Burdin, George Griffin, Bobby Young; 440 yd. run — H. THE MENTAL MARVEL mentioned above is so studious he made Phi Beta in his junior year—of high school! When he walks into classrooms, professors stand. The last time he got less than 100%, the proctor was cheating. When it comes to smoking, he gets straight A's for taste. He smokes (All together, class!) Lucky Strike! Naturally, our student is fully versed on the subject of Lucky's fine, light, good-tasting tobacco. He's well aware that it's loasted to taste even better. So when someone asks him for a cigarette, he's happy to spread the good taste. And that makes him a Kind Grind! Assignment: try Luckies yourself!

Don't just stand there... STICKLE! MAKE $25

Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (No drawings, please!) We'll shell out $25 for all we use—and for hundreds that never see print. So send stacks of 'em with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mount Vernon, New York.
