Angry alumni attack The Tower

By Joe Gillespie

Disturbed by the content of the Winter edition of The Tower, a group of Austin Peay alumni met Thursday evening with the faculty advisor and a faculty contributor to the literary magazine.

Charges of obscenity and countercharges of intimidation were leveled during the hour-long exchange in the president's conference room.

More than 30 APSU alumni were present at the meeting along with 20 faculty members and observers. APSU President Robert O. Riggs presided. Riggs called the meeting after receiving complaints from some alumni who received The Tower through the mail.

"We are a public university, and as such we have no authority to censor the campus publications—The All State or The Tower. The only recourse against them is if they violate the state obscenity law. That is a fact," Riggs said at the outset of the meeting.

Dr. David Till, professor of English and faculty advisor to The Tower, proceeded to define the purpose of the magazine.

"The editorial staff defines its own policies. I see everything the editor sees. I do have perception of limits.

I do not want anything libelous or any slanderous information published. I also want to protect the author from publishing something that would cause him harm. I wouldn't want to see anything published that doesn't have literary merit," Till said.

Nancy Ussery, wife of state representative David Ussery and an alumnae of Austin Peay, asked Till if the publication conformed to his guidelines. Till said "yes."

Ussery asked Riggs if he believed the publication fell under guidelines.

"I have no prerogative in this. It is inappropriate for me to comment on the content of The Tower. I am not trained in literature. If I were, I still would not have the legal authority to prevent publication of something I do not like," Riggs said.

"We may have to give you some authority then," Ussery responded.

Dr. Richard Gildrie, professor of history and a contributor to The Tower, defended his use of obscenities in his writing.

"The language is authentic to make clear that there are dangers in taking a casual approach to sex. The way people talk is represented.

"Words I would never use in conversation appear in quotation marks. I wanted to describe reality. I wanted to make a moral point as authentically and realistically as possible.

"I do not want any harm, first and foremost, to come to any student as a result of this publication. Neither do I want any harm to come to this institution. If anything comes down from this, let it come down on David (Till) and me," Gildrie said.

Meredith Gildrie, wife of Dr. Richard Gildrie, delivered a defense of her husband's writing.

"What my husband was trying to do was show uncaring premarital sex in all of its ugliness. If your son or daughter is considering going along with the crowd, maybe Dick's writing will help dissuade him or her."

"The language was offensive because the activity was offensive, it was offensive in an attempt to reach the sons and daughters," Ms. Gildrie said.

Several alumni expressed concern that the content of The Tower might affect enrollment. Others expressed concern about possible violations of religious ethics.

"The Bible teaches us to flee evil. I cannot see Jesus Christ using this type of language," one alumnae stated.

Dr. Bert Randall, professor of philosophy and a Presbyterian minister, defended Gildrie's writing.

Festival underway

The Austin Peay music, art, drama and English departments are now sponsoring the Contemporary Arts Festival. Included in this festival is the edible art exhibition. The art exhibition will be held at noon today. The deadline for entries is 11 a.m. in the university center ballroom.

Judging will be done by Dr. Phyllis Hach at 11:15 p.m. A feast of the entries is to follow the judging. The Contemporary Arts Festival coordinating committee consists of Sharon Mabry, Larry Hortenbury, Malcolm Glass, Marilyn Zimmerman and Glen Bryant.

Student exhibit set

A student art exhibition and competition will be May 4 at 7 p.m. in the APSU Trahern Gallery. Winners will be announced and refreshments served.

Closing ceremonies for the APSU student photography exhibition at the Photography Gallery at Cheekwood's Botanic Hall will be held May 1 from 7-9 p.m.

Cheekwood is located in Nashville. An exhibition of approximately 50 photographs by 20 students is currently being displayed there.

The students are under the supervision of Assistant Professor Marilyn Zimmerman. Artists will be present for the closing ceremonies and refreshments will be served.

Artists show work

On May 9 and 10, the Southern Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen will hold their Festival 81 at the Greenwood Mall, Scottville Road, in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Festival 81 will feature over fifty area artisans exhibiting, demonstrating, and selling their recent works of traditional and contemporary paintings, needlework, wood crafts, glass etching, leather work, nature crafts, and wire sculpture.

The hours will be Saturday - 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday - 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Rape discussed

A rape avoidance program will be presented in the university center ballroom on Tuesday May 5.

The program, which will be presented by campus security, was organized by resident assistants on campus. The program will begin at 7 p.m. and last until approximately 9 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Talk, film planned

Chi Alpha, a campus ministry at APSU, has several upcoming events. Tonight, Dr. Virgil Mock of the education department will address the group at their regular meeting.

The meeting time is 7 p.m. in room 109 Claxton Building.

Tomorrow the group will sponsor a spaghetti supper and movie for the price of $2. The meal will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the movie, "God Help Ma," a film on drug rehabilitation, will be shown afterwards. This event will be held in the Baptist Student Center on Drane Street.

Budget cuts

More trimming to be done

President Robert O. Riggs revealed that the budget still needs about $60,000 in cuts to be balanced for the 1981-82 fiscal year.

Riggs said that the budget committee received about $400,000 worth of budget requests that could not be met. Various positions have been consolidated or phased out in order to meet these cuts.

Positions that are definitely not in the 1981-82 budget include those of the executive vice president, the president, sports information director, and media center director.

Several clerical positions will be done away with through attrition, Riggs explained.

The positions of executive assistance to the vice president will be consolidated with the vacant vice president of administration and finance. This position has been vacant since Dr. Fred Williams resigned last fall.

The nursing program is also being consolidated. Riggs explained that "several years ago, we decided to work toward having a baccalaureate program in nursing. We never discussed a definite timetable, though."

Riggs said that with Dr. Mary Windham, director of the associate nursing degree program, and two members of her staff leaving, the university thought this would be an opportune time to phase out the program.

However, when this idea was investigated, officials learned that approximately 75 percent would be adversely affected by this move.

There were students who had completed one year of the two year program. The administration had already planned to allow these students to finish the program with the two remaining staff members.

However, there were 75 students who had been working for approximately one year to meet the prerequisites needed for entrance into the associate degree program.

The university has now decided to admit "one final associate degree class this fall and finish the second year class," Riggs said.

This will mean hiring two or three extra faculty members. Riggs said that these instructors would either be hired on a temporary basis, or they would be qualified to transfer to the four-year program when the two-year program is done away with.

Riggs also said that Health Services was still under examination. He added that he was not yet sure what course of action would be taken, but that he did not see the health service being phased out.

"We've lived through the impoundment. The budget will be tight, but I foresee no major disruptions," Riggs concluded.

The budget should be finalized sometime during the next week. It must then be approved by the State Board of Regents.

Angry

"The purpose of education is to make a student think about others and himself. I'm in the judgement that today's education avoids that. I let my 13-year-old daughter read 'Charlie's Sex Calculus' (one of Gilder's short stories).

"Maybe Dick didn't say it in the gentlest of ways, but he made his point. The purpose was to make students think. As far as the Christian faith is concerned, I'm not sure this is offensive to Christians," Randall said.

One elderly alumna said that she was "shocked" by the literary decline of The Tower.

"The initial shock to me was the change in The Tower. The Tower was once the epitome of literary excellence. I was shocked by the literary decline of The Tower," she said.

Several alumni questioned what material was rejected for publication in the magazine. One alumna stated that she "did not see how it was possible for anything to have been rejected."

One alumna questioned the funding of the magazine.

"The publication was paid for with Tennessee tax dollars. A total of $2,000 was budgeted for The Tower, and this year the editorial staff used a tabloid form to save money," Riggs said.

Dr. Thomas Pinckney, professor of political science, stated that "intimidations are occurring here."

"The university should not diminish the values of the Clarksville community. There are very definite intimidations occurring here, intimidations of funding, intimidations by contributors to withhold contributions. We see that," Pinckney said.

Several legislators representing the Clarksville-Montgomery County area have announced that a bill will be introduced to the state legislature to prevent state funds from being used to finance future issues of The Tower.

Students elect top officers today

Today's SGA executive elections will see four candidates on a ballot to decide the highest Student Government offices on campus.

Running unopposed for President is Michael A. McDaniel and running for Vice-President unopposed is Jeff Eubanks. The only contested race is that of SGA Secretary, Donna Dinning and Amy Perry are competing for that position.

There is no candidate on the ballot for Chief Justice of the Student Tribunal, however May Kay Hinton has announced a write-in candidacy for the office.

Presidential candidate Michael A. McDaniel says he plans success by organization and productivity. He pledged himself to remove "deadweight in the organization" and "reorganize the executive branch to make it more efficient and productive."

McDaniel signaled out the cost of education as a major concern. He said that as students pay more of the direct cost for their education they should have greater voice in how that money is spent.

The problem is more than a local one, according to McDaniel and part of the solution is to "bring home to the government hierarchy they must carry their part also."

He suggested TISL legislation curbing expenditures such as luxury cars every two years for some government officials as an example of a working solution.

McDaniel's experience includes a wide range of activities. He has served at Austin Peay as Secretary of Student Relations, a TISL delegate, student member of the University Assembly and SGA Treasurer. He is also a member of the AP Playhouse and the Forensics team.

At Roane State, the senior was SGA president in 1978-79 and treasurer in 1979-80. He was also the editor of the campus newspaper, Circus, and was a member of the Chorus, Drama Club and BSU.

In addition, the 28-year-old McDaniel cited organization and administration experience gained as a Petty officer in the Navy.

When asked why he felt he should be elected McDaniel said, "My age—experience at Roane and working with the council of presidents in Nashville, I can communicate and deal with people . . . (and I am) used to verbal abuse."

He stressed because things hadn't been done doesn't mean they can't be done.

Jeff Eubanks, in explaining his goals as a candidate for Vice-President, said he hopes to "regain prestige and honor for the SGA, to be the best Vice-President I can be and to reunite the Senators in the purpose of SGA."

Veterans

Options outlined

Several questions have risen concerning the minimum hours required for full VA education assistance during the summer 1981.

According to Roy J. Haynes, director of veterans affairs, these are some suggested plans which will satisfy the VA requirements: Option #1 June 10 thru July 31 (7 quarter hours - full time), Option #2 June 10 thru Aug. 20 (12 quarter hours - full time), and Option #3 Aug. 3 thru Aug. 28 (4 quarter hours - full time).

Those students using option 1 and 3 will be full time for the entire summer. Students using option 2 alone will also be full time for the entire summer.

No other combinations will fulfill the complete summer maximum requirements. Haynes said that it is important to know that option 1 and 3 are divorced from each other and registration will be at separate times.

The 19-year-old sophomore has served as a freshman in the senate as class representative then vice president. He is presently SGA executive secretary.

Other student government experience includes Student Council Secretary at East Robertson High. Eubanks is also a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and an Alpha Phi little brother.

"When asked why he should be elected Eubanks stated, "Because I care enough to try to improve AFSU through my position."

He also stated, "One man or a group of people can't find and solve all the problems of this campus or reward its' successes. I hope that the student body will become interested in what happens on this campus and will work with us to improve upon student life at AFSU."

In the race for SGA secretary are Donna Dinning and Amy Perry.

Donna Dinning, a 20-year-old sophomore, said she hopes to be elected to "make the office work as efficiently as possible." "I will perform my job . . . do what is expected, asked or needed," she stated. "The most important thing is efficiency," Dinning said.

Dinning's experience includes a similar position with

Tower suspension mistake

page 4 • The All State • April 29, 1981

The Tower, the literary magazine for Austin Peay State University, has been published and distributed. It has been met with diverse comments and criticism, but one fact cannot be changed; it has already been published.

The actual uprising against the content of the Tower seems to stem from some influential alumni that received The Tower through the mail.

The Tower has been sold in past years; this year it was distributed free of charge to students, and mailed to Austin Peay graduates.

The content of The Tower was extremely liberal. The All State will not attempt to judge The Tower on its literary or moral views, because we do not feel that this is the most important aspect of the current issue.

The current issue is that the university has received notice from legislators representing this area that a bill is being introduced concerning The Tower.

The bill would no longer allow the university to allocate funds for the publishing of The Tower. This bill is useless and unfair. It is useless because it would not cease the publication of The Tower. This form of censorship has been tried by universities and colleges across the state with the same results; the publication becomes independent and continues to publish.

This bill is unfair to the students with literary skills and talents attending this university. The Tower is an open forum where their efforts can be displayed and compared to those of their peers. Any university with a liberal arts program deserves a literary magazine.

Whether or not the magazine has abused its privileges is questionable. If this point can be proven, The All State sees a much more efficient way to solve the problem.

If The Tower abused state monies, change the people in charge of making judgement decisions. Inform the legislature that these changes have been made and offer an apology for any embarrassment these people may feel they have suffered because of a student publication.

If it is not bad judgement, but a matter of personal tastes being offered, don't read The Tower.

Whatever the outcome, the absolute suspension of publication of Austin Peay's literary magazine would be a grave mistake.

Campus poet pleads for Tower

Dear Editor:

Re: Dean Stedman and interested persons.

Let me begin by saying that I understand and respect Dean Stedman's opinion of The Tower, as expressed in his letter to the editor. I am sorry that he was offended by the publication or by any of its particular sections. It is my opinion that some of the controversy generated by The Tower arises from the misinterpretation of its stories and poems. Perhaps if people were to read through more carefully they would better understand the author's intentions and therefore be more receptive.

I feel with some certainty that few persons, if any, question the integrity of the people involved in the latest publication of The Tower.

As a result of the controversy there are some people who would like to restrict seriously or even eliminate The Tower. This is the larger issue. I don't suggest that Dean Stedman is or is not one of those who would like The Tower restricted.

I do suggest that it would be shameful if the university were to allow negative reaction to any particular portion of the latest edition to effect The Tower's freedom or our freedom.

My first published poem appeared in the same publication which so offended Dean Stedman. The Magazine scam; views defended

Dear Editor:

It is indeed a tragedy that Dr. Stedman was tied down and forced to read ideas of students which conflicted with his own. Such a dialectic could even cause the dreaded "learning experience" or "change of ideas."

Yes, The Tower showed little discretion; but it also was a view of the minds of students, avant-garde, immature, or blasphemous as they might be. If you want to change things teach, don't preach or censor.

William H. Dannenmaier

poem was about my grandfather. My freedom and inclination to share would be limited if I had to worry about possible negative reactions to a poem I might submit for publication, I believe.

The Tower should remain free and unfettered. In this way Dean Stedman (he has a talent and flair that The Tower would welcome) and everyone would be free to share material of many forms and subject matter. This, the sharing of dissimilar ideas, is at the heart of my understanding of the process of education.

Further, I believe that freedom of expression is a vital element in the very idea of America.

Sincerely,
Tim Cleaveland

Cross resident states objections

Dear Editor:

It is now I am. I have just been awakened by a very loud horn just outside my door. Once again, it has been proven that the fire alarm in Cross Hall is efficient.

As many know, for the past two weeks the alarms in Cross Hall have been pulled late at night or early in the morning hours by pranksters. One or two of these acts may be considered "cute," even if by a small minority, but, as I descend the stairs amid shouts of "hangin's too good for the son of a b—," I am compelled to feel that the majority of residents fail to see the humor anymore.

These pranks cause a couple of problems for residents, the first being that it is very disturbing to be startled awake from a deep slumber (yes, some people are sleeping at 1 a.m.) by a horn that could well serve any freight train.

I also can't help wondering what's going to happen if a real fire breaks out in the dorm. Of course I have to feel that the situation will turn into a proverbial "Boy Who Cried Wolf" and nobody will respond to the alarm. This is not only dangerous but could prove disastrous.

Conversation reveals SGA inadequacies

Editor's Note: The views expressed here are those of Wilson, and not necessarily The All State's.

By DeWayne Wilson
Circa 2011, a tour.

"Step this way, folks, watch your step. We're approaching the old Student Government Museum in this tour of Austin Peay State University. These relics have been preserved for almost 30 years, as a memorial to a great mistake."

"A mistake?"

"Yes, it serves to remind us and our descendants of the grave effort of having that institution. Student Government was started to serve the students by giving them representation and the University by making them aware of the students' needs."

"That doesn't seem wrong to me; that appears to be a reason for having it."

"Oh, yes. It was at first. During the first years, Student Government was full of industrious motivated students. They saw a need to be filled and were willing to work to see that it was done."

"But, what happened?"

"One year, a deadweight, as they were called, got into the organization."

"One person broke up the whole organization?"

"No, but that one deadweight was enough. It was like this. After one deadweight got in, other bad apples saw their chance. There were the glory-seekers and the title-finders, as well as the lazy. Year by year, the Student Government deteriorated."

"Wan't there any way to prevent the destruction? Weren't there some good students getting in?"

"Yes, but not enough. Some very dedicated students were willing to work long, hard hours to improve their organization. But, alas, their task seemed futile and they finally fell to the inevitable."

"And that was the end of it?"

"Yes, I believe it was during the school year nineteen hundred and eighty-one-eighty-two that the University could no longer tolerate the inactivity of the group and did away with it."

"What ever happened to the good students?"

"They all went their separate ways. Some went on to other organizations, and the rest, well, they lost all enthusiasm. Okay, let's move on. The next attraction is the Seven Bowls Area . . ."

Library solution offered

Editor's Note: Philip Freneau is an alumnus for an Austin Peay graduate student. The views expressed here are his own and do not necessarily reflect those of The All State.

By Philip Freneau

I am offering a suggestion as to the means the university will take in their search for a replacement for a new head librarian. My suggestion is both consistent with the true principles of higher education and the current direction this university is taking towards fiscal frugality.

Additionally my suggestion, which will ultimately unite the existing library staff and the university's bureaucracy more closely with its faculty and students, is also consistent with both the republican ideology of our state and the national efforts to decentralize authority.

In essence, I propose, rather than seek another authoritarian figure that would only add to the ever growing number of placemen who only owe their allegiance to the administration, that we, through a confederation of all the departments, appoint two committees, drawn exclusively from the ranks of the faculty, to oversee both future purchases and possible cuts in their respective budgets.

Since, by design, the library exists for the benefit of the students then this confederation, through its student-faculty intercourse, will offer a direct means of participation for those people the institution is pledged to serve.

The need for a confederation, rather than a non-elected placeman, is apparent from the corruption inherent to positions of centralized authority. This

California Suite

Preparations underway

The AP Playhouse is busy working on Neil Simon's California Suite, which will be their final production for this season.

The comedy is being directed by speech, communication and theatre department chairman, Dr. I. J. Filippo.

When questioned about the show, Filippo said, "Rehearsals are progressing nicely. We're going to have a really good show."

He stressed that the comedy is recommended for mature audiences, due to its language and subject matter.

There is much more to putting on a successful college production than the acting, Filippo added, there are sets to be built, lights to be hung, and costumes to be made.

He said that the Playhouse is always eager to attract new members, and anyone who would like to become involved in putting the show together is invited to come by the theatre and lend a hand.

California Suite will be presented in the Truburn Theatre in four evening performances, May 13-16, with an 8 p.m. curtain.

Carter thanks APSU volunteers

Dear Editor:

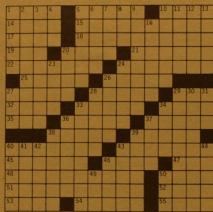

Last Thursday the Special Olympics Spring Games were held at Municipal Stadium. It was a day that started with rain and doubt but ended with sunshine and success.

Once again countless individuals, organizations and departments at APSU contributed time, money and themselves to ensure a fantastic event for the mentally retarded athletes of this area.

Early in the morning I was down because of the weather but without exception the volunteers from Austin Peay were cheerful, excited and smiling. Everyone marched joyously in the rain and, perhaps positive thinking really works, for as the athletes readied themselves for the first race, the skies cleared.

Money available for clubs in 'crunch'

By Cathy Alleesp

The crunch caused by inflation and other economic problems has not left college students untouched. More and more people are working while in school. It is becoming harder to pay for necessary services.

Campus organizations, like individuals, are also caught in the economic crunch. And, for the organization or individual who would like to put on a program for the benefit of the entire student body, but just can't come up with enough cash, there is a resource fund available—The Student Fund.

Every quarter each student pays the sum of one dollar at registration which goes into a fund that groups and individuals may go to for financing of social and educational projects. According to Jill Brinkley, chairperson of the Finance Board, "The fund is for any student group or organization, any faculty member of administrator who want to do a project for the benefit of all the student body."

The Finance Board is a group of student leaders appointed by the SGA President and approved by the Senate for the specific purpose of approving or denying requests made of the Student Fund.

There are many forms of loans and grants available to the qualified applicant who meets the criteria set up for the allotment of funds. First priority, according to the legislation that formed the guidelines for expenditure, is SGA programs designed to meet the needs of the entire student body. Examples of this are Austin Peay Week and last winter's Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week. Second priority are comprehensive programs or projects which provide both educational and academic experience and intend to be of service to the student body.

SGA projects designed to improve the administrative function of the SGA have third priority. Next comes programs available to the entire student body. Projects which will provide student members of departments or professional organizations the opportunity to attend recognized academic and/or educational conferences and symposiums rate sixth, while scholarships and profit making ventures complete the list.

In order to apply for funds, there is a simple set of procedures according to Brinkley. "Go to the SGA office and get an application, fill it out, and turn it in to any member of the Finance Board or back to the SGA office," she stated.

At a later date, the applicant will appear before the board to explain his/her project. The board members will then vote to grant or deny the request. If the request is granted, the applicant will then proceed to the Senate, where the request will again be reviewed. If passed by the Senate, the SGA president may approve to veto the measure. If he/she approves, the applicant goes to Dr. Boehms, for final approval, Brinkley explained.

According to the chairperson, there are steps beyond simply filling out a form that can help a group get money. "It helps if they can show us (the Board) that they are either putting up part of the money themselves or that they have at least tried to raise money for the project," she stated.

"In their descriptions (of the project) they need to be very specific. If it's for a conference, they need to put where it is and when. That's extremely important. It's important to put down the benefits derived from the project. We need as much of a break-down as possible showing exactly how the money is going to be spent," Brinkley concluded.

While the process may sound long and time consuming, Brinkley cited over a dozen projects which have received money since the first of the year.

As for projects most likely to be funded, Brinkley described the Fund as "flexible." The original philosophy behind the fund was entertainment according to the chairperson, but that has changed in recent years. "While the USAB does a fine job programming on their small budget, we were hoping with a sizable amount of money coming in we would be able to supplement the programming done by the USAB, she said.

"What happened, particularly when the Visiting Speakers and Artists budget was pulled completely, we found ourselves putting out more money for speakers than we had originally expected," Brinkley concluded. She added this was not a complaint, but an observation.

She added there is approximately $7,500 in the fund at the present time, and urged anyone interested in obtaining money from the fund to contact her or any member of the committee for assistance. The members of the finance board are Jill Brinkley, chairperson, Cathy Alleesp, residence hall representative, Mary Kay Hinton, commuter student representative, Garnett Ladd and Shearon Weems, senate members, and Jeff Eubanks, executive secretary.

Plan may lessen loan burden

(CH)—Early repayment of Guaranteed Student Loans could save both students and the government hundreds of dollars, under a plan suggested by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency.

"The less time a student/borrower takes to repay a loan, the less it costs the government for special allowances and interest benefits and the less it costs students for interest repayments," says the FHEAA study.

As an example, the agency explained the savings on a $4,000 GSL borrowed at seven percent interest. If a student took the full ten years to repay, the ultimate cost would be $5,573.

But under the proposed plan, if a student repaid it within 30 days after graduation, the agency could discount the loan to $3,300—actually less than the principal.

Similarly, at the end of one year repayment would be just $3,713.

The federal government would make up the difference to lenders, and would still save money in the long run.

And the plan would not affect access to new loans, as would changes in GSL policy proposed by the Reagan administration.

But the best news yet is that students seem to find the plan feasible. A preliminary FHEAA survey of Pennsylvania borrowers showed that more than half the students would be likely to opt for early repayment.

Hadden has served as Master of Rituals, and sweetheart of Alpha Kappa Psi and as treasurer of Little Sigma. She is active in intramurals and a member of Omicron Delta Epsilon.

Rounding out the field of Madame Governor candidates is Jill Brinkley. She held several SGA positions including sophomore class president, junior class senator, vice-president and executive assistant to the president and vice-president of the College Recabblers.

She is an active member of Alpha Phi Sorority and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Philosophy Club, Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature. Brinkley has been a resident assistant for three years.

Greek Follies held

Greek Follies, the spring ski/music competition between the Austin Peay societies and fraternities, will be held tomorrow night.

The Panhellenic Council sponsors these events annually. Events such as this are traditional at many campuses.

Glenda Earwood, director of student life, said, "I attended Western Kentucky's spring fling last week, and it was super!"

Library

degree of corruption, visible in its criticisms towards both favoritism and neglect as well as its allegiance to the bureaucracy rather than the classes it is pledged to serve, can be eliminated through this confederation process.

After first eliminating many non-virtuous committees, which are created in order to give the other placemen something to do, two new committees would be drawn from the confederation of departments. One committee, composed of equal representation from each Department of those faculty members approved to teach upper division or graduate courses, would direct purchases and cuts towards periodicals, newspapers, and other primary documents.

The second committee or the lower division committee, with representation based on student majors in the respective departments, would coordinate similar responsibilities for the General Holdings. The actual implementation and administration of each of the committee's decisions, after being approved by a 2/3 vote of the respected committee as a whole, would be carried out, as they are today, by the existing staff in the library.

To insure that the existing librarians remain virtuous in their industrious activity and to provide an aid to their professional development a system of rotation can be implemented to insure that both the committee's decisions and the day-to-day activities of the library are being carried out.

This should increase productivity on their part as well as to hold down the number of "workers" which receive financial aid to work in the library that, again, are merely placemen owing allegiance to the state rather than the institution.

From this brief sketch the virtues of such a system can be readily seen. Rather than having arbitrary and despotic power in the hands of one, the direction of the library has been transferred into the hands of its populace: the faculty-student coalition.

The evils of the corruption inherent in the placing of so much power in the hands of one can be seen today in a comparison between this library and the one at Middle Tennessee State. Five years ago, this university's library was far superior than its peer in Murfreesboro.

However, the situation is reversed today. Faced with similar budgetary problems, the library at Middle Tennessee has surpassed us in recent times. This is due to the fact that the central power owes its allegiance to another placeman rather than its populace.

Middle's drive to supremacy was co-ordinated through another placeman soliciting donations to their library. Through my suggested confederate's same action can be duplicated but free of corruption visible in Middle's case.

Specifically, as an inducement to their virtuous activity, the various departments can coordinate their own solicitation drives and spend the amount where they desire rather than turning it over to a position of centralized authority.

Furthermore, similar efforts can be designed to create a system of credits as well as checks to future cuts to reward those departments that, through their industrious activity, acquire both primary and secondary materials free of charge for the general benefit of the library as a whole.

Needless to say, it is impossible to outline all of the needed articles of such a confederation in such a short space; however, the ramifications of such a plan are staggering.

Through this challenge, embodied in common sense, the faculty-student coalition can establish a precedent in the future of this country's higher education.

By taking the necessary first step towards eliminating one placeman, who are more interested in preserving the status quo rather than administering progressive reforms, and I am confident we can, a precedent can be achieved that will lead ultimately to the removal of those corrupt status quo-oriented placemen in this university's bureaucracy ... Ahh! Deja Vu!

Student geologists examine area

By Carolyn Short

"And now let us begin to depart," boomed the voice over the megaphone as Dr. James Corgan began to assign groups to cars and cars to position in line.

The geology convoy of 15 cars, containing about 45 people, wound its way north out of Clarksville on April 3.

This trip lasted two days and stretched from Kentucky Lake down through West Tennessee to Mississippi and back to Clarksville.

The convoy visited nine locations, collected several bags of soils and fossils and viewed bedding planes of sediments along the highway and in quarries.

Picks, hammers, and shovels were put into frequent use and muddy shoes and jeans were the order of the day.

Among the interesting stops were places like Holly Springs, where fossil leaves were dug out of the clay, and the water was a beautiful turquoise blue.

At Selmer, Tenn., the group saw the Coons Creek formation and gathered fossilized crab legs and fish teeth. This area contains 585 different fossil specimens, but the group visited only one site.

Just inside the Tennessee line above Corinth, Miss., the geologists dug into Navarro Clay to find ancient oyster shells.

The Parsons quarry yielded trilobites and brachiopods which, due to deposition in a reducing environment, showed the formation of marcasite and pyrite on the shells.

Two very interesting asides, according to club members, were the trip across the Tennessee River on a ferry (six cars each load) and the stop at Shiloh to see Civil War relics and displays.

The convoy dispensed Saturday afternoon during torrential rains and tornado watches for most of western Tennessee.

SGA discusses resolution, infirmary

The passage of one bill and continued discussion of the campus infirmary situation occupied the agenda of last week's SGA senate meeting.

Senator Brad O'Shoney said he had encountered overwhelming response for the retention of the service. Senator Brian Davis confirmed those findings, adding any opposition that existed came from commuter students.

Dr. Bob Nettles, who was present at the meeting, stated his office has received petitions with over 1000 signatures in support of retaining the health facility. He stated, "What will be necessary is that solid voice from the students saying they want to keep it."

The body then considered, and passed, SB-80-009 An Act to Establish A Certificate Of Appreciation sponsored by Senator Brian Davis. The purpose of the legislation is so the SGA "can officially show appreciation to individuals or organizations for accomplishments at APSU."

Davis stated in the bill it will allow SGA to "act as a single body in showing appreciation or giving recognition."

A candidate for a certificate may be recommended by the SGA President or any voting member of SGA. Each candidate will have to receive 2/3 approval by the senate. The SGA Secretary will then distribute the certificates.

The next senate meeting will be Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. in room 313 of the university center.

Govs heading for OVC baseball playoffs

By Steve Harmon

It's official! Print those baseball playoff tickets!

By virtue of Austin Peay's doubleheader sweep of Murray State University last Friday afternoon at Governor Park, APSU will team with OVC Southern division champion Middle Tennessee in the conference playoffs next week. Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky will represent the Northern division.

A solid hitting attack and a stingy infield paved the road to victory for the Govs as Ralph Harper enjoyed a four for six day at the plate while third baseman Matt

Arminio anchored the hot corner with a flawless fielding day while handling 15 chances.

Faced with must-win situations in both games, Govs skipper Joe Ellenburg countered Murray's young, but talented, corps with his pitching ace, Clayton Dahl and Keith Gilliam.

Tony Lamb and Harper knocked in three runs each in the opener as Dahl coasted into the seventh and final inning with a comfortable 9-2 lead. Four Racer runs in the final frame closed the margin to 9-6 as Dahl upped his record to a club-leading 6-1 mark.

Gilliam, Peay's "money pitcher," according to Ellenburg, started the nightcap in the game which was to determine the Southern division's other playoff spot.

The Govs responded to Murray's first inning tally as Greg Tubbs lashed a triple before Arminio stroked a run-scoring single. Outfielder Eric Brewer added a two-out single to plate Arminio and give the partisan Peay crowd a 2-1 tie to cherish.

Murray State, whose playoff hopes also rested on the outcome, answered the challenge with a second inning tally to knot the score at 2-2.

In the fourth, Peay's leading hitter Ralph Harper slammed a double, one of three on the day, setting up a Jeff Hawn RBI ground out after Harper had advanced to third.

Once again Greg Tubbs provided the long ball as the freshman from Smithville, Tenn. pounded a solo homer to lead off the fifth inning, stretching Peay's lead to 4-2.

Murray answered with one run on three hits in the visitor's half of the sixth, setting the stage for a dramatic seventh inning climax.

The Racers' Jeff Oakley led off the last frame with a ground ball to sure-handed shortstop Lebon Joye. The horsehide found a flaw in the Governor Park turf as Joye was handcuffed by the bad-hop error.

Oakley was sacrificed to second before Gilliam set down the next Racer batter.

With two outs, Carroll Boyd, one of Murray's most productive hitters, stepped in to decide just how good the Racers year would be.

A passed ball by Governor receiver Hawn allowed Oakley to reach third, adding more suspense to the showdown.

Gilliam, who had allowed only five hits all afternoon, got Boyd to rap a country club bouncer to Arminio at third. Arminio's throw to Lamb at first base was perfect as the Governor bench emptied onto the field.

The doubleheader sweep ran Peay's record to 23-18 overall and 7-5 in OVC play. Murray dropped to 28-20 and 6-6, respectively.

The Govs will open their bid for the OVC crown tomorrow afternoon at Bowling Green, Kentucky. Peay will face the Northern division champion, Western Kentucky in opening round action of the double elimination tournament. APSU blasted Western 9-1 in the two teams' only encounter this spring.

"Western will be hungry for this one," said Ellenburg, referring to the earlier meeting.

In non-conference action last week the Govs added on to the lost column, losing to Belmont College 7-6.

The Monday, April 27 game was punctuated by sloppy play for the first five innings, according to head coach Joe Ellenburg.

Ellenburg said that a "somewhat controversial" call in the fifth inning snapped both teams to attention. From there on in, Ellenburg commented that both teams "settled down and played excellent ball."

The fifth inning play consisted of a series of errors. First a ball hit the Belmont batter, allowing him to walk to first base. The bases were then loaded.

A wild pitch to the catcher allowed the third base runner to slide into home. The catcher then threw the ball back to the pitcher.

The ill-guided ball flew over the pitcher's head, allowing another runner to slip home.

Bobby Smith was praised by Ellenburg as pitching "an excellent game, Smith allowed only one hit, which resulted in the winning homerun.

The Govs did not have enough hits to comeback, however and the game ended after the Govs chances at bat at the top of the ninth.

Peay faced the University of Alabama-Birmingham yesterday as they warmed up for the OVC tourney which starts tomorrow.

Jaycees boost Peay sports

Thanks to the efforts of the Clarksville Jaycees, the future of spring sports at Austin Peay is beginning to shine again.

The Jaycees are organizing a May 9-10 scramble tournament at Swan Lake Municipal Golf Course for the purpose of benefiting the APSU Athletic Fund.

A $35 entry fee will include two day's greens fees and a May 9 cocktail party and dinner for two. An estimated $15,000 in prizes will be awarded during the 36-hole event.

Jaycee Daryl Summers, who's affectionately known as "Spanky" around the APSU campus, previously, "this first year will be crucial. We want to get the scramble going as an annual Austin Peay fund raiser."

Ideal Distributing Company, Charles Hand distributor, and Michelob beer are sponsoring the tourney.

A partial list of prizes includes a $150 electronic calculator from Radford's Office Supply and a pair of Acme boots for closest-to-the-hole on the par three number 2 hole on successive days.

A hole-in-one on the tenth hole is worth a 1981 Cutlass from Brandon Groves, while closest-to-the-hole on number 13 merits a $50 savings bond on a dinner for two at the Briarpatch on successive days.

The longest drive on number 6 is worth a dinner for two at the Beef and Sea.

Michelob will be awarding Rolex gold watches to each flight winner, along with golf bags and other miscellaneous merchandise.

The sisters of the Alpha Phi Sorority will serve as ball spotters during the tournament.

Track team wins invitational

By Harry Tarpley

The Austin Peay men's track team won its own invitational last Thursday, April 23, with a combined score of 102 points.

The track men outdistanced their competition as Vanderbilt finished second with 37 points, Fisk University third with 32, David Lipscomb fourth with 32, and Southwestern University of Memphis finished last with 31 points.

Anselm Young led the way for Austin Peay sprinters as he won the 100 meter with a time of 10.2 seconds.

William McElroy finished second in the event. Young also won the long jump with a measurement of 23 feet-1 inch.

Pole vaulter Rodney Allison recorded a personal record of 15 feet while taking top honors in the event.

However, Allison injured his left knee on an attempt of 15 feet, six inches. Although surgery is not required, he will be sidelined for the remainder of the season.

The men's track team also competed in the Murray Invitational on April 25 and 26.

The Gova turned in an average performance because of the tired legs left over from Thursday night's meet. However, LeRon Springer ran an outstanding time in the open 440 meter with a time 47.6 seconds.

That pace is just one-tenth of a second shy of a school record. Other top performers were William McElroy, who finished second in the 100 meter with a time of 10.5 seconds, and a high-jumper Randy Singleton, who finished fourth with a mark of six feet, eight inches.

Looking ahead, both the men's and women's OVC meets will be held at Murray on May 1 and 2. MTSU highly favored in the men's division, and Eastern Kentucky is picked to win the women's slate.

Govs place second

Sherry Harrison led the women's tennis team to a second place finish in the Women's State Tennis Tournament, Division II, this past weekend at UTMartin.

Harrison won the singles title while coupling with Mary Squires to take the doubles championship.

A fine individual performance is credited to Mary Squires, who was defeated in the final round of the second seed singles.

Other top finishers for Austin Peay were fourth seed Cindy DeLoach, fifth seed Annette Doris, and sixth seed Linda Williams, all of whom notched second place in their seedings.

Austin Peay netters prepare for OVC tournament

By Steve Harmon

After two more victories in dual match play this past week, the APSU tennis team appears to have the momentum heading into this Friday's OVC tournament at Murray, Ky.

An 8-1 shelling of an outclassed David Lipscomb crew preceded a hard fought 6-3 decision over the University of Alabama at Birmingham on the Governor Courts.

Hal Jolley, Greg Carter, Hartman Jungman, Brad Properjohn, and Kurt Williamson were winners in singles play of Saturday's UAB match.

"This was one of our best wins of the season," praised coach Dennis Emery after the UAB victory. Emery was quick to note that Alabama-Birmingham, a team which started four freshmen, as fresh off a victory over SEC power Ole Miss.

"UAB has really improved," Emery noted of the Sun Belt Conference's pre-season favorites. "I think this win will be good for our guys heading into the conference tournament," he added.

Of the nine seeds in the OVC tourney (six singles, three doubles), Austin Peay lays claim to five of them, while Murray State boasts the other four.

Convinced that his rebuilding program has finally begun to take shape, Emery and his netters will try to snap a jinx that has crippled APSU with fifth place conference finishes in each of the past four seasons.

On paper, the tournament appears to be a two-team race between Peay and Murray.

"It should be a one-point victory one way or another," Emery predicted. "It will probably be decided on the last match of the tourney," he added.

Leading the Governor title quest will be seniors Paul Gaff and Don Carbone.

Gaff, from Melbourne, Australia, and Westboro, Massachusetts native Carbone own the best dual match records on the squad with 22-12 and 23-11 at the numbers five and three positions, respectively.

As a team, all of Austin Peay's singles players boast records over the .500 mark. This is cause for optimism with Emery.

"We feel like we deserve to win the conference," Emery reasoned. "We had a good year," he added.

Entering Friday's play, APSU sports a 20-13 dual match record, the first 20 win season in Emery's four-year reign.
