Paper gets top ratings

The Associated Collegiate Press recently awarded The All State a rating for All American in the National Critical Service of the ACP at the University of Minnesota, School of Journalism for fall semester 1980-81.

To receive an All American rating, a paper must first be judged First Class, which represents, according to the scorebook, "very good to excellent". The paper must also receive four out of five Marks of Distinction.

The scorebook states, "Marks of Distinction are tied to no particular score. It is true, however, that publications which receive a Mark of Distinction usually also have earned high numerical score in the section."

The five categories for which the newspaper is judged are coverage and content, writing and editing, opinion content, design and photography, art and graphics.

The All State received a Mark of Distinction in coverage and content. This mark was accompanied by the comment, "The All State does an excellent job. You cover diverse news areas—something for everyone."

Also receiving Marks of Distinction and comments were: the opinion content, "A professional department"; the design area, "A handsome and readable package"; and photography, art and graphics, "Pictures are used as a news tool."

The judges' summary statement of the publication included the following comments, "All State is bright and lively package. An excellent training ground for your journalists. Keep up the good work. Congrats, editors and staff."

When asked how she felt about their superior rating, Mary Kay Hinton, editor-in-chief, replied, "I was so excited my hand shook for an hour. I wasn't expecting the rating quite so soon, and I really wasn't expecting an All-American."

"We are an extremely critical staff. After spending hours putting a publication together, I guess you see every mistake as a glaring error. It has been a definite moral booster for the entire staff."

The All State has been rated All American for five "successive periods. Papers edited by Bobby Jones and Billy Fields each received All American rating for both grading semesters during their periods as editor.

Annual Sigma Chi Week underway

The Eta Xi chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity will begin its annual Derby Week today.

The event, a national activity which began in 1930 for Sigma Chi, is the eighth of its kind at Austin Peay. The events, which will occur during the next four days, are part of a drive to raise funds for Wallace Village, a home for children with minimal brain damage, located in Broomfield, Colorado.

Andy Cunningham, Derby Daddy for this year's activities, said that the program has undergone a few changes this year. "The main emphasis this year is making the week more fun and limiting the stress which has been associated with Derby in years past," Cunningham said.

Three teams will compete in the four days of events. Alpha Phi, Chi Omega and Kappa Delta will be the participants. Cunningham noted that the parties and dances of Derby Week will be open to the administration, faculty and all APSU students.

The events will begin with a kick-off party tonight in the Clarksville Jaycee Center. This party, which will start at 9 p.m., will be a disco dance. Admission will be $50¢ and beverages will be 25¢.

Tomorrow at 10 a.m. until noon, events will be held in the bowl in front of the University Center. The women of the three societies will participate in the following activities: Wrap-up Mummy is an activity in which two women from each team must wrap a Sigma Chi brother, team coach or sorority sister from head to toe in toilet paper. When she completes this task, she must run to the next team member and the action must be completed again.

The Balloon Bust is a game where two members from each team will be stuffed with balloons. The balloons must be broken without the use of hands or feet.

The Horse and Rider is an event in which two women must ride on the back of a coach or teammate and try to burst an egg which is tied to the tail of the "horse" with a rolled up newspaper.

At 2:30 p.m. the Derby Hunt will take place. "This race will be on campus and on foot this year," Cunningham said. He explained that six derbies would be hidden in various spots across campus, each assigned a certain point value. The object of this event is to get as many derbies with as high a point value as possible.

At 7 p.m., skits will be presented by each team. The skits will last approximately 40 minutes each and will be presented in the ballroom of the Joe Morgan University Center. "The girls will know a few days in advance, the theme of their skits, in order to prepare," Cunningham explained. He invited the public to come to this event.

At 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, a spirit party will be held at Showdowns Lounge in New Providence. "The party will be open only to Austin Peay students showing valid i.d. cards," Cunningham said. Admission to this party will be 50¢.

This dance will feature a live band, Frency.

On Friday at 10 a.m. until noon, a repeat of the Thursday events will take place. There will be the addition of one event, the Egg Toss to the schedule. This event will feature two teammates throwing an egg to each other while their hands are greased. The object will be not to break the egg.

At 7 p.m. on Friday, more events are set for the intramural field. These events will be Tug-O-War, with 10 women teams; Around the World, where a team member must run 50 yards after spinning around ten times with her forehead on the end of a baseball bat; and Musical Ice Water, Musical Chairs with buckets of ice water for chairs.

An obstacle course, consisting of a six member relay is planned. Two women will run in a three-legged race for 20 yards, two members will run backwards 20 yards with eggs between their legs, and two contestants will run 20 yards in a wheelbarrow race.

More events are planned for 5:30 p.m. on Saturday in the intramural field. These events will be relay races similar to the ones done earlier in the field.

At 10 p.m. there will be a party at Sassy's discotheque, on Madison Street. The announcement of winners, who will be chosen on a point system, will be made at the party/dance. The overall winning team will have a member as Derby Daddy. Admission for the dance will be $1 per person with 25¢ beer.

Cunningham said that he and his assistant Derby Daddy, Keith Norris, hope that everyone will enjoy the events outlined for the week. "We thank the societies for their participation and hope for their continued support next year," Cunningham said.

Anyone wishing to make donations to Wallace Village may do so by contacting the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Schmidt will lead a group of local volunteers in a fund raising effort for MS, or Multiple Sclerosis, which is often called "the great cripple of young adults."

Conference set

Women in Higher Education in Tennessee (WHET) will hold their Spring Conference in Nashville at the Holiday Inn Vanderbilt April 24-25. Registration will begin at 3 p.m. on Friday and continue on Saturday morning at 8 a.m.

The purpose of the conference is to set priorities and goals for the organization in 1981-82. The registration fee is $15, which includes the Saturday luncheon. Membership in WHET is open to all faculty, staff and graduate students in Tennessee. Annual membership dues are $5.

Call Pat Pierce at (615) 322-4705 if additional information is needed.

Apartment nearly completed

The 54-unit apartment complex being built on West Avenue is currently in the near-final stage of construction and will be opened for student occupancy with the beginning of the 1981 fall quarter.

The complex being built by Clarksville's James Harris Construction Company and designed by the local architectural firm, Jerry Clark and Associates, will cost an approximate total of $2.1 million.

Rent for one of the apartments will be $35 more than the $285 which will be charged for dormitory space in Crook, Killebrew and Sevier Halls next year. This quarterly rent $330 will include payment of both electricity and telephone bills.

Each of the units consists of two bedrooms, a small kitchen, a combination living and dining area, and a bathroom. The apartments will also feature a balcony or terrace.

One of these two-bedroom apartments will be reserved subject to a much more lenient visitation program, and a minimal salary in payment for supervision of the complex.

Three more apartments have been designed and constructed to accommodate handicapped students. In these apartments, the kitchen and restroom are roughly twice the size of those in the other units.

All of the apartments will be provided with brand new furniture. Each unit will have a sofa, armchair, endtables and cooking facilities.

Each bedroom will have two beds, two wardrobes, two desks and a lavatory. There will be four tenants in each unit and each bedroom will be shared by two students.

While students residing in the new apartments will be subject to much more lenient visitation program, having overnight guest of the opposite sex will still be a violation of university visitation policy.

Students may entertain guests in their apartments from 8 a.m. to 2 a.m. Since the complex is considered an Austin Peay facility, there is to be no liquor in the units.

There has been a considerable response to these apartments. According to Dr. Bob Nettles, numerous inquiries have been made.

Students currently enrolled will be given first priority in the review of applications for housing in the complex. Their applications will be granted on basis of date of submission not class status.

New students will be given second consideration in the housing assignments.

Those students wishing to request an apartment will have the opportunity to do so at the end of the quarter. The housing renewal forms which are distributed at the end of each quarter will have a space for such request.

INTERESTED ONLOOKER—This young man eagerly absorbs the back stage flavor of the recent Old Time Fiddlers Contest held last weekend at APSU's Dunn Center. A crowd in excess of 3,000 attended the championship event.

Membership of Tribunal full

The recent appointments of Associate Justices Jim Greer and Dederick Yeargin have brought the Student Tribunal membership to a full number. The appointments filled two open positions, one of which had been left vacant since the beginning of winter quarter. The other had never been filled.

When asked what he had to offer the Tribunal, Yeargin said, "An objective, impartial point of view because I'm not associated with any social or service fraternity on campus."

"Since I'm a social welfare major," Greer responded, "and my focus is corrections, due to my training I am capable of looking at the issues logically and systematically."

Each has some knowledge of the duties of their position. Both of the rookie justices said they had a clear understanding of their duties as set forth in the constitution.

In addition, Greer stated, "I am familiar with some cases that have been heard in the past, in so far as I was a witness at the proceedings."

Greer and Yeargin also expressed surprise with the ease they were accepted by the Student Government Association Senate. "I was very surprised that the senate didn't take the time to find out anything about us," Greer stated. "They didn't ask any questions," the senior added.

"They didn't ask us for any qualifications," Yeargin agreed, "not even why we wanted to be members of the Tribunal. Half of them didn't turn around and get a good look at us," he continued.

Both men bring a history of campus service background to their Tribunal offices. Yeargin is past vice-president of the Residence Hall Council and is vice-president of the biology Honorary Beta Beta Beta. The 20 year-old junior also was a Special Olympics volunteer and past student advisor.

Greer has served as the executive assistant to the president of the Residence Hall Council, as a Special Olympics volunteer, student advisor and Resident Assistant at Ellington Hall for three years.

Greer stated he felt his position as an R.A. may help the Tribunal in that he has daily contact with students' special problems and training in areas such as the restrictions of the housing contract.

Both men will serve the remainder of Spring quarter and next year.

Fire repairs stalled

Repair of fire-damaged Archwood is being stalled by a lack of funds, according to Dr. Bill Lewis.

The university has been attempting to dispose of 18 pieces of excess property to provide funds for the repair of the former president's residence. Not one piece has been sold since it was placed on the market in December.

"We haven't sold a single piece since December. It will take one piece of property just to pay for the advertising costs of selling the land," Lewis said.

Lewis stated that high interest rates have been preventing potential sales. The property consists of 13 houses on lots and five lots. Another piece of property located on College Street cannot be sold because of city regulations.

"We plan to really advertise the houses in the Fort Campbell area in May and June. The houses are in the price range of many of the people from the base and this is a prime time to be selling homes to them," Lewis said.

The fire in Archwood started in the top story level on Feb. 2, 1980 and caused extensive damage. Bids on the repairs have ranged from $106,276 to $172,628.

The insurance money from the fire was used to purchase the president's new home.

The future use of Archwood is undetermined. President Riggs recommended to the Board of Regents that the house be used as office space, and proposals have been made to use part of the building as a city museum.

Senate asks no questions

The Student Government Association Senate has been criticized in recent weeks for poor attendance, and in months prior to that for a lack of activity in the area of legislation.

The senate may begin to feel as if they are being persecuted, but we are now able to add another problem to the expanding list of inadequacies.

The first meeting of spring quarter for the senate saw two pieces of presidential action; one, a change in the election board chairman, the second, the nomination of two associate justices to the Student Tribunal. The dismissal of the former election board chairman Bobby Jones and his replacement with another student was almost unquestioned.

One senator did ask why Jones had been replaced, and was satisfied with the answer that he had been "inactive." The appointment of Stephanie McNichols as chairperson was never questioned.

This is not to say The All State condones the replacement of Jones, nor does it criticize the appointment of McNichols, but we do question the leadership qualities of a body that allows such a position to be changed without investigating the case fully.

And this is not an isolated occurrence. On the same evening, two students came before the Senate as presidential appointments to the Student Tribunal seeking approval as Associate Justices. Not one question was asked of either student.

For the record, not one senator has the personal knowledge that either candidate met the necessary qualifications for the Tribunal position—one that has in the past been charged with the responsibility to decide matters that could vitally effect the status of a student with the University.

We do not wish to applaud or criticize the decision of the Executive Branch in the appointments. However, the fact that other positions or appointments in the Student Government Association have had to be changed or filled due to resignation indicates that the Executive Branch does occasionally make an error in the choice of students to fill appointed positions.

The senate is supposed to question the prospective appointments of the Executive Branch—to be a check and balance. They should bring a diversified opinion and variety of insight that a smaller body may not possess. Obviously, the senate feels it either should not have this privilege or has no insight or opinion to offer.

Letters policy

As in years past, The All State staff encourages student opinion on major or not so major issues on campus.

We strongly urge any student or faculty member who wishes to express his opinions to write to the editor of The All State.

Letters to the editor should be no longer than 300 words. They MUST be signed and a phone number indicated for verification purposes. No letter will be published unless verified.

Letters may be mailed to The All State, Box 8334, Clarksville, TN 37040, or brought to room 104 Ellington Hall on campus. They must be received by 4 p.m. Thursday to appear in the following issue.

letters to the editor— Student defends housing

Dear Editor:

As one of the many students who was in on the decision making process dealing with mandatory housing, I felt it necessary to respond to a letter from Tim Miller, which was ran in The All State two weeks ago.

First of all, the cost for four students living in Killebrew Hall for one quarter is $1000. Assuming that Mr. Miller's figures were correct (what little he used), let's use those and the ones he didn't use to try to paint a more accurate picture of the initial costs of living in an apartment. The rent for a two-bedroom apartment at Riverside Apartments, according to Mr. Miller, would be $654.00 for a three-month period.

What Mr. Miller neglected to mention is that Riverside Apartments also require $150.00 in advance as a damage deposit (returnable if the apartment is as it was when you moved in).

The installation fee for the telephone could be as much as $25.00, depending on the equipment already in the apartment. There is also a deposit of $85.00. It is also important to note that the phone bill of $10.50 per month that Mr. Miller mentioned is the cost for one standard rotary-dial telephone and does not include any long distance calls.

Electricity costs are a little more complicated. If you have sufficient credit, your deposit will only be $70.00. If you don't have sufficient credit (which, I feel sure, is the case of most 18 and 19 year olds just out of high school), your deposit will be $120.00.

Having succeeded in having your electricity turned on, Mr. Miller suggests that your monthly bill will be approximately $65.00 (and I would be interested to know, first of all, where he got that figure, and secondly, which month he is referring to—January, May, August?). Anyway, all this adds up to a grand total of $1250.50! I would also like to point out that this doesn't include gasoline costs to and from school (if you're lucky enough, to have a car in the first place).

First of all, Mr. Miller's reference to the twenty-one year old freshman is totally irrelevant. The policy doesn't apply to him/her. Mandatory housing applies to those single students, who are not living with their parents or legal guardians, under 21 years of age, with less than 45 quarter hours credit.

Now, to Mr. Miller's main concern—the alleged financial security mandatory housing would bring. I was asked by Dr. Boehms to research the proposal as it pertains to the number of students that would be affected. What we found (using Fall Quarter, 1980, statistics) is that, if this policy had been put into effect this year, only 22 students would have been affected.

To put it more clearly, there were only 22 students who met the necessary requirements who were not already living in a residence hall. Now, anyone should be able to figure out that 22 student would not even come close to changing the financial status of the Housing Department.

Let me anticipate your next question—Why are they doing it, then? As far as I can see, Dr. Nettles has already answered that for you. The Student Affairs staff honestly believes (and this belief is supported by a great number of studies in this area) that residence hall living can greatly enhance college life for a vast majority of students. And having lived in a residence hall for all but one quarter of my college career, I agree with them 100 percent.

As you can probably imagine, a small book could be (cont. on page 6)

Felix reveals timely truth

By Ken Knapp

Felix The Cat was never more wise—never more right when he said to his English teacher after the teacher made a goof, "Time is of the essence, so let us worry not of correcting your mistake."

Oh, Felix!

All educators have to worry about is time. Term papers to correct in two weeks. A pop quiz tomorrow. Shampoo at nine. French salad dressing next Tuesday.

Time. Educators live their lives by the tick of a clock. Barbara Walter's Special tomorrow night. Dinner at six—but no mushrooms, the boss is coming.

If it is true that all educators have to worry about is time, is it true that they do not worry about being correct? Ask Felix.

He will tell you that it would take too much time for an educator to be correct. Was it 1492 or 1493... who cares? Abraham Lincoln was our founding father.

Students learn by textbooks. It's all "yes, yes" to the teachers when they speak. Good students understand that what the teacher says is only a review—a review of some textbook, whether a textbook from today or a textbook from the past.

Good students write a summary of a teacher's review, and say "yes, yes" when the teacher speaks.

And, in the middle of a "yes, yes," they look at their watches because they know that all the teacher has to worry about is the time. See you Wednesday at ten. Class dismissed. Burger King at noon.

Some day, time may ruin us all. Like educators, our lives may one day be determined as "good" or "bad" by the time of day.

We may all be happy or sad one day just because of the time. Oh, it's deeper than Felix first thought. Well, it's that time. Gotta go.

This quarter begins on a sad note with the death of Dr. John Keating. Dr. Keating was a much older man than I, from a very different discipline, and with some very different views on a number of subjects. # Kappa Alpha Psi appeals decision

Editor's Note: Administration and Tribunal officials refused confirmation of this story, since the case is in appeal. Confirmation was therefore, confidential.

By Mary Kay Hinton

Kappa Alpha Psi Men's fraternity was found guilty of charges of hazing and placed on one year of suspension by the Inter-Fraternity Council on Tuesday, March 31.

The fraternity had five days in which to appeal this ruling. An appeal was submitted by the given time. Actions have not yet been decided for the appeal.

A fraternity on suspension is not allowed rush or pledge for an entire year, among other restrictions.

These charges stemmed from a case currently under appeal. Fed Reynolds, a pledge of the Kappa fraternity during the time that the incident occurred, had brought a case of hazing to the Student Tribunal.

Reynolds testified that he went to Roderick Thompson's room to collect money. Thompson is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi. While in Thompson's room, Reynolds was paddled. Reynolds returned to the fraternity house in pain, where the fraternity brother encouraged him to return to his room and keep quiet.

In his testimony, Reynolds said that his pain increased until two pledge brothers decided to take him to Memorial Hospital. While leaving the dormitory they were spotted by campus police, who asked if they could be of assistance. The police were informed that Reynolds had fallen down the stairs.

Static nerve damage was the diagnosis of the doctors at Memorial Hospital here in Clarksville.

Roderick Thompson was charged with Articles 1, 2, and 3 under Section B, page 18 of the 1980-81 Student Handbook. These charges are conduct dangerous to others, hazing and disorderly conduct.

The Student Tribunal heard the case on March 19. The final ruling, by a split decision, was not guilty. This ruling was handed down, according to the statements of the Tribunal because Thompson's actions were sanctioned by the fraternity, therefore he was acting as an agent for the fraternity and not personally responsible.

The Tribunal normally consists of six associate justices and a chief justice. The Chief Justice, James Dukes, and one of the Associate Justices, Kim Thompson disqualified themselves because they are affiliated with Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity. Two positions of the tribunal were already vacant.

Cathy Allsup acted as Chief Justice for the Tribunal.

during the hearing. Clatter Mottinger, Stephanie McNichols, and Annette Doris served as the three remaining associate justices.

Reynolds appealed the decision of the tribunal based on the technicality that the tribunal judged the fraternity's actions, and not Thompson's, while Thompson was the defendant.

The Student Tribunal did not address specifics of Roderick Thompson as related to the individual but as related to the fraternity, was the statement offered for the granting of an appeal.

As of publication, the faculty and student members of the committee to hear the appeal have not been chosen.

Cash returned

At a time when most private universities are soliciting major contributions, Georgetown University has returned one.

University President Timothy Healy announced recently that the school has returned a controversial $641,000 gift from the government of Libya, in protest of that country's "continued accent on violence as a normal method of international policy."

Saying that moral values are more important than money, Healy personally returned a check for $641,721 to Libya's embassy here. That amount represents principle and interest given Georgetown over the past four years to endow a chair at the Center for Contemporary Arab Studies.

No particular Libyan activity led to the decision, say Georgetown officials. Libya's financial support of terrorist groups, its invasion of Chad and the imprisonment of government critics were all factors in the decision.

Playboy has discount cards

Playboy International is the latest entry in the field of student discount cards.

Through Playboy Enterprises, it is now marketing a $7 discount card that provides college students with a variety of entertainment and merchandise discounts and free introductory offers, according to Playboy spokesman Jim Sarles.

The card is currently available at Michigan State University and the University of Minnesota and will soon be offered at the University of Illinois Champaign-Urbana campus. "It's in its formative stages now," says Sarles. "Eventually it will be expanded to include other schools."

"We're aiming for a variety of things that fit the Playboy lifestyle," says Sarles. These can include karate or flying lessons, or a free one-hour session in a flotation tank, he adds.

Local merchants are willing to offer the discounts to gain student business, Sarles says. Playboy gains access to students through campus groups, such as fraternities, which help promote the card as a fund raising project.

Although other discount programs have hit snags, Sarles says the Playboy effort has been successful this far. "We wanted to see if this would be a viable concept using the Playboy image," he says. "So far it has been. The retailers are very happy."

Help availablePressure builds

By Ronald T. Oghurn

A female student depressed with her GPA takes a flight from her third story dormitory window; a young man futilely contemplates scholastic competition with his older siblings and slits his wrist; a young man allows his loneliness and rejection by his peers to overcome him and swallows an undetermined amount of prescribed medication to end it all.

Episodes of the same nature are becoming more and more recurring as students across the country succumb to the pressure of higher scholastic life. Even at Austin Peay suicide is not a stranger to the staff of the guidance center.

The guidance center is equipped and stands ready to counsel students who can not effectively, constructively deal with living away from home, or adjusting to college requirements, such as the standard GPA, studies and classes as such.

The guidance center cannot help those who do not ask for help. On the average only one to five students per quarter call the guidance counselor for counseling. Other students may suffer in silence or ignorance, not knowing that there is a place they can go.

The guidance center is open to all students and the Harriet Cohn Center is open for a nominal fee.

When the pressures of school life become great, the counselors of the APSU counseling center suggest students call them for help.

Student's death triggers vigil

Long Island, N.Y. (CH)—More than 1,000 Adelphi University students turned out for a 10-minute silent vigil for a classmate killed by a policeman following a campus altercation.

The death of Edward Fonseca, a Long Island junior, has upset many Adelphi students, who dispute a police account that Fonseca threatened an officer with a black jack prior to being shot. In a brief speech before the silent tribute, the president of Adelphi's student government described Fonseca's death as "senseless."

Fonseca was shot by Officer Joseph McNulty, who had accompanied an ambulance to the campus, as is standard procedure. The ambulance was called after another Adelphi student cut his hand during an argument with a female student in a campus bar.

Fonseca grabbed McNulty's blackjack and lunged at the officer, McNulty says. Students who witnessed the incident say, however, that Officer McNulty struck the injured student several times and that Fonseca only questioned his right to do so, and threatened to register a complaint against the officer.

Police deny that any students were beaten.

Peay downs Belmont in first night game

By Steve Harmon

Thanks to Ralph Harper and a vocal partisan crowd at Clarksville High School last Thursday night, Austin Peay pulled off a dramatic 12-10 come from behind victory over Belmont College in the first night baseball game in APSU history.

Belmont's Rebels brought a 13-2 record and a 6-5 lead into the home half of the fifth inning.

After Greg Tubbs ripped a bases-loaded single to right field, Matt Arminio and LeBon Joye drew bases on balls, giving Peay a 5-4 lead.

With Governors standing on all three bases, Clarksville High graduate Ralph Harper slammed a one-one pitch over the left field wall, capping a seven run fifth inning.

Belmont rallied in the late innings to close the count to 12-10, but Peay stopper Stacey Higgins came on to nail down his second save of the season, while preserving starter Alvin Ingle's third win of the year. In other action last week, Tennessee State knocked off APSU 10-6 in Nashville.

"It was just their day," termed Peay coach Joe Ellenburg. "We had played a lot of games up until then and we were a little worn out," Ellenburg revealed.

Jeff Hawn and Robert McCutcheon blasted round-tippers for the Gova, while pitcher Greg Richards suffered his third loss of the season.

Saturday's game with Western Kentucky at Governor Park was called because of rain. To date, the game has not been rescheduled.

APSU challenged Murray State on Sunday at the Racer's field and emerged with a split of the doubleheader after the Gova had dropped the opener, 4-3.

With David Brock "pitching well," according to Ellenburg, and the Gova holding a 3-1 advantage going into the fifth frame, the bottom suddenly dropped out.

Racer homers in the fifth and sixth innings knotted the score at 3-3, setting the stage for a disheartening seventh inning.

After the Governors were held scoreless in the visitor's half of the inning, All-OVC Gene Baker, playing left field, misplayed a fly ball into a Racer double. The next MSU batter singled in the winning run of the OVC Southern Divisional tilt.

"The first game was a case of missed opportunities," lamented Peay's Ellenburg. "We left a lot of men on base and had four others thrown out on the basepaths," he complained.

The second game was a different story.

Freshman Clayton Dahl, a veteran of the military leagues, scattered three hits in a shutout performance. The Trempealeau, Wisconsin native continues to anchor the Governor staff with a spotless 4-0 record.

Shortstop LeBon Joye was the star of the 7-2 victory as the All-OVC performer enjoyed a six for seven day at the plate, including the game winning homer in the second inning, along with three RBI's.

Tomorrow, Austin Peay will play host to the MTSU Blue Raiders in a 1 p.m. twinnish at Governor Park.

Keith Gilliam and Greg Richards are scheduled to pitch against the OVC Southern Division's pre-season favorites.

Tennessee Tech will challenge the arms of Clayton Dahl and David Brock in a 1 p.m. doubleheader, which is also at Governor Park.

Hale preps team for scrimmage

Rookie football coach Emory Hale is enjoying the season's warm weather from a different vantage point than the average Clarksvillian—the Drane Street practice football field.

With 12 days of full-speed workouts, as of Monday, under their belts, the injuries are piling up, but Coach Hale feels that his squad is making progress.

The cloudiness of the quarterback picture is one cog in the offensive machine.

"We've got seven or eight players who we're trying at quarterback right now," related Hale. The first year mentor also revealed the incoming recruits will be given a good shot at the position vacated by OVC Offensive Player of the Year Sonny Defilippis.

Hale is searching for a consistent punter, but at the same time, he is encouraged by the strides in the place-kicking game.

Of course, all of these evaluations will come to a head in the annual Red and White game on April 14 at 7:40 p.m. in the Municipal Stadium.

"The game will be controlled, somewhat, because of the team depth factor," said Hale. "But, the students should get a good idea of what type of team we'll have," he predicted.

Coach Hale and his new staff are encouraging a good turnout as the Gova strive to better last season's 7-4 record and second place tie in the OVC.

Basketball recruiting will shape up this week. The national letter of intent date is set for today at 8 a.m. No recruit can formally commit to a school before this date.

*****

A tip of the Governor cap to third baseman Matt Arminio. Matt celebrated his twenty-second birthday yesterday.

from tee to green

By Steve Harmon
Sports Editor

"Our defense is on schedule right now," assessed Hale. "As a matter of fact, they're way ahead of our offense."

Hale evaluated the slow progress made by the offense as being directly related to a major shuffling of the experienced players from the offensive side of the ball to the defensive side in an effort to replace the defensive front of Tim Hickey, Kenny Durden, Brett Williams, Richard Wozniak, and Mark Daniel, among others.

"Our defense is solid, but our offense is struggling," Hale viewed.

Golfers set for Martin tourney

Interim golf coach Johnny Miller will lead the Governor linksmen in an April 9 mini-tournament at Martin, Tennessee.

Austin Peay will join Christian Brothers College of Memphis, Bethel College, and host UT—Martin in the 18-hole quadrangular event.

The tournament was a late addition to the team's financially plagued schedule, as budget cuts had crippled the APSU spring golf season.

Senior Glen Sze, Juniors Mark Patrick and Steve Harmon, sophomores Brian Bowen and Brad Germany, and freshmen Paul Ifig, Harry Turpley, and Brad Van Kirk will vie for the six spots on the Austin Peay team.

At present, the Governor schedule includes an April 16-18 tourney at Swanee, Tenn before the OVC championship at the end of April. Other dates are tentative to official confirmation.

Red/White game slated

The Red and White Football Game, the annual culmination of spring football practice, will be held next Tuesday, April 14.

The inter-squad scrimmage begins at 7:30 p.m. in Clarksville-Municipal Stadium.

Admission will only be granted with a ticket. Student ID's are not accepted. The cost of each ticket is $1. All proceeds go to the APSU Athletic Scholarship Fund.

Area high school cheerleaders will assist the APSU cheerleaders during the games. Clarksville High School cheerleaders will perform at halftime.

Glinda Chaffin, ticket manager, encouraged everyone to "come out and see Coach Hale and his staff in their debut."

Netters suffer setback

By Brian Bowen

Weather plagued the APSU men's tennis team this past week as their first OVC match of the season was rained out with Murray State last Saturday.

However, their slate for next week is full as they will be taking on Freed-Hardeman, one of the top two NAIA teams in the state, Thursday at 9 a.m. on the Governor courts.

OVC matches will be on the agenda this weekend as Morehead State will be here Friday at 2 p.m. and Eastern Kentucky at 9 a.m. on Saturday. Following the Eastern Kentucky match, the Goves will revive themselves to battle UT-Chattanooga at 2 p.m.

The Goves will start next week off by making up the rainout with Murray on Monday here at 2 p.m.

The results of the OVC matches with Morehead, Eastern Kentucky, and Murray State will help determine the division each player will be in the OVC Championship May 1-2.

In women's action last week, the Lady Goves lost to MTSU 9-0, and to UT-Martin by a 7-2 score.

The women will be taking on Western Kentucky today, and will try to avenge last week's loss to MTSU on Thursday.

Rain dampens runners

By Harry Tarpley

Both the APSU men and women's track teams were in full stride at the University of Louisville Invitations Track meet this past Saturday.

However, it was the women who shined the brightest on this cold, windy, and rainy day.

Coach Joey Haines, who is at the helm of both squads, coined the girl's performance as the "best ever" at Austin Peay. The 400 meter relay team of Kim Duncan, Zeita Motley, Joanne Arnold, and Kristina Barr finished first with a time of 48.5 seconds.

That time, although not spectacular due to the cold and rainy weather, was good enough for qualification to the AIAW National at the University of Pennsylvania at Indiana.

Individually, Barr won the 100 meter with a time of 12.0 and Arnold won the long jump with a measure of 17 feet and 11 1/2 inches.

Also Cheryl Harvey finished fourth in the high jump at the mark of 5 feet 2 inches, which also tied her personal high and school record at Peay.

Coach Haines points out, "This was the first time in a while the women have been competitive at the OVC level, and I believe they have a good chance at the conference meet."

Haines attributes this statement to the fact that every OVC women's track team was at the meet, with the exception of Eastern Kentucky, and the Lady Gavs outpaced the conference competition. The track mentor also believes the addition of Lisa Schooley will better the team's chances this spring.

The men's team received the worst end of the weather, as most of their events were called off due to rain. However, there were some bright spots on the bleak Saturday, as Barry Crawford finished second in the high jump with a measurement of 6 feet 8 inches.

The Gavs were winning the 400 meter relay, but anchor man Billy Gunn strained a hamstring and slipped into a third place finish.

The men's team continued their streak of bad luck as Steve Brown reached the finals of the 110 meter high hurdles, and William McElroy, Prentice McGlory, and Analeim Young, reached the final seven of the 100 meter dash. However, both of these events were cancelled because of the weather.

Next week, both squads will travel to Knoxville for the Dogwood Invitations. This meet will be highlighted by some tough competition from East coast schools.
