One-Act Plays

"A superb achievement . . . it represents Mr. Williams at the peak of his talent as poet . . . it is perfectly contrived; it is written in sensitive prose . . . his most devastating statement about corruption in the world, and his most decisive denial of the values by which most people live . . . A triumphant piece of dramatic literature."

This is how Brooks Atkinson, NEW YORK TIMES, describes Tennessee Williams' "Suddenly Last Summer" to be presented Thursday night, May 16, in the Clement Auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Along with this one-act play will be featured another of Mr. Williams' works, "This Property is Condemned."

Billy St. John, director of "Suddenly Last Summer," chose Sally Welch to play the female lead carried by Elizabeth Taylor in the movie version. Other supporting roles are held by Barbara Cullen who portrays Mrs. Venable; Dr. Cukrowski played by Barney Schelske; Mrs. Holly Margaret Alexander; George Warren Chaney; Sister Felicity, Carole Boone; and Mrs. Foxhill, Nancy Davis.

In "This Property is Condemned," under the direction of Martha Albright, two time Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, Tennessee Williams turns the blistering spotlight of his pen upon the pathetic dilemma brought upon two children by the disintegration of our southern culture.

Jan Nevils and Jimmy Baker play the roles of Willie and Tom in Miss Albright's production. Admission is free.

There will be an urgent meeting of the senior class this afternoon at 11 in the Audio-Visual Aids room. The meeting concerns the holding of Farewell and Hall. All seniors are urged to be present.

The Alumni Office wishes to make it known to all graduating seniors that you are attending seniors a member of the A. P. S. C. Alumni Association in good standing for one calendar year after graduation.

After you have accepted whatever field you plan to follow, it is your duty to write the Alumni Office informing them of your address change. Otherwise you will not receive "The All State" and etc. to which you are entitled.

When your address changes, contact Sherwin Clift, Director of Alumni Relations, APSC, Clarksville, Tenn., by mail.

The new constitution at Austin Peay State College will be put before the student body for a vote of ratification in assembly tomorrow.

Several changes have been made in the new constitution which are considered more beneficial for the new student government which is now being organized.

The new constitution shall change the name of the student government body from the Austin Peay State College Student Council to the Austin Peay State College Associated Student Body (ASB).

Under the ASB, three branches will be established: 1) Executive 2) Legislative and 3) Judicial.

The officers of the Executive Branch of the ASB will be the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer (who will be elected upon ratification of the new constitution.)

The Legislative Branch of the ASB will be known as the Senate.

The Senate members will be called Senators and will be composed of those students who now serve as student council representatives.

The third branch of the ASB, the Judicial Branch, shall be known as the Student Court.

The Judicial Branch will consist of 5 judges; two men and two women appointed by the president of the ASB. The fifth member will be the vice-president of the ASB and will serve in the capacity of Chief Justice.

The main functions of the Judicial Branch will be the handling of all class and campus elections and, organizing, directing and supervising Freshman Orientation in the Fall Quarter.

Another change made by the new constitution is the establishment of several standing committees.

These committees are: Finance, Special Events, Activities, Homecoming, Publication.

These committees will be set up for a better coordination and more efficient degree of work in each area covered by the committees.

Henry McCaslin, president elect for the 1963-64 academic year, stated that the new constitution is for the students all the way.

"If any student has any questions concerning the new constitution, I hope they will come to me or Larry Haley or Judy Davis or any of the present Student Council Officers. We will be glad to answer their questions and help them understand any point they may have some doubt about," McCaslin concluded.

Bowman said, "I am very delighted to be back and I wish to thank everyone for their many broken above and below a dislocated knee. At present, he is able to walk with the aid of crutches although he must remain under his doctor's care for the next six months."

Think, Then Vote

With the end of the Spring Quarter in sight, many students are beginning to think of their summer vacations and a long break from school.

However, there are those who will spend a great deal of their time during the summer making preparations for the next school year at Austin Peay State College, particularly the ones we have chosen as our next Student Council officers.

A tremendous amount of responsibility rests in the hands of these officers. We can best help them by giving our united support to them and thus, show them that we want to fulfill the promises they have made.

However, we do not have to wait until next fall to accomplish this.

Tomorrow in assembly, we, the student body at APSC, will be given a chance to vote on the ratification of the proposed new constitution.

It is your duty and obligation to vote yes or no for the constitution. This in itself sounds pretty simple. But, is it?

Before you decide how you, the individual will vote, you should read or at least discuss the constitution with someone who knows something about it. Then, vote as you feel you should.

The Student Council is the students only representation on the campus. The only way the Student Council can function properly is to know what the student body wants.

We have elected our officers for next year. Now, let's show them what we expect of them. If you are against the constitution, at least have a valid reason for voting against it. Don't vote no simply to be in opposition.

A lot of time and effort has gone into the new constitution. Give the ones who have worked on it a fair shake. Think before you vote and then vote the way you want to vote, not the way the person on your left or right votes.

As graduation draws near, the serious-minded ask themselves, "What single attitude has my college career developed and have I attained a worthwhile goal?" These are not questions for the seniors but rather questions we all need to answer. The true value of a college education is not in the amount of knowledge acquired for there is no great amount of knowledge learned, its value lies in the attitudes which the college engenders. More important than your attitude towards society and the world in general is your concept of self. Are you going to get by or who is content to be a social parasite? The college graduate must aim higher than that.

YOU are a college graduate, by now you should have realized that only by being an individual can you attain that inner peace and for which everyone is seeking. If you recognize your real goals and are not afraid to stand up for them despite public dissension, you have a good chance of being a success at living. However, many people give up their high ideals because the world won't go along with them. The only way to bring about any idealistic reform is for you to stick to your guns and refuse to be molded into the common mass. This requires self-confidence and self-determination. We need such persons in America today and tomorrow.

As a college student, you have had more opportunities than the average person, because you have received more, you are expected to contribute more to society. If college means more than just "studying for a profession," it can give you a positive outlook on life and a proper sense of civic duty. Contrary to the beliefs of the cynical, there is profit in being a sucker for civic duty. The dividends are paid in terms of inner satisfaction, self respect, and community pride.

Talk is cheap. Millions give lip-service to high principles but deny all they have said by their actions. Those who establish a pattern of talk followed by hard work in college usually carry it over into their professional lives. The question remains for each of us, "Am I going to be a porpoise which is intelligent and industrious by getting into the swim of things or am I going to be a catfish — all mouth and no brains?"

Letters To Editor

To the Editors and Staff of the Farewell and Hall:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly express my sincere congratulations to William Turner and Nancy Barney on our excellent yearbook. It speaks well that two seniors have compiled so excellent a volume.

These two fine people and their staff have worked diligently on this year's annual all year, yet there is no fanfare or applause for it. This is why I, along with the entire student body, salute you and the members of your staff.

Sincerely,
ROBERT S. JOHNSON

Rawls Elected To Regional Office

Sandy Rawls, junior biology and chemistry major at APSC, was recently elected vice president of the Western District of the Southeastern Region of the Tri Beta for 1963-64.

She was elected to the office at the regional meeting held at the University of Florida in Gainesville, April 18-21. The regional meeting was held in conjunction with the Association of Southeastern Biologists, a group of professional and research workers in the field of biology. The meeting is held annually with this group and consists of representatives from Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee.

Next year's meeting will be held at Emory University in Atlanta, and Sandy is responsible for helping to plan the meeting. Sandy, who plans to pursue a career in secondary education, said that her election to the office was more of a recognition for the Eta Pi Chapter of the Tri Beta and APSC than an honor for herself.

Sandy is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Rawls of Beaumont, Texas.

Tom Mapes—24 Hour Student

The All States, Tues., May 14, 1963 — Page 3

How would you like to be in the following position? Attend classes five days a week, work Monday through Friday from 3 to 11 and work from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. every other Sunday.

There is one such student attending Austin Peay State College. He will answer to almost any call but most often to the name Tom Mapes.

As if the above were not enough to keep him busy, Tom also is married to the former Fay Matlock and they have a nine month old daughter, Terri Michelle. However, Tom would be the last to complain about his position.

For the past three years Tom's familiar voice has been heard on such programs as "Traffic Jam," "Music Room" and "Ebony Express."

"I got most of my encouragement and push to go into radio from my high school speech teacher," Tom said "and I'll always be indebted to her for her encouragement."

When asked how he got his job at WYZM while still in school, Tom said, "The management at the station allowed me to train on my own time and Tom Dolan's time. He was the one who had the job before I got it."

"When Mr. Dolan decided to give up his work at the station I just happened to be in the right place at the right time," Tom concluded.

Concerning the relationship between his job and his going to school, Tom stated that they are two entirely different things.

sion with his poem entitled "The Hunters."

"Built Me a Monument" by Owen Weston took second place honors in the poetry division and Sally Welch won the third place award with her poem "Tomorrow."

Robert Pitt was awarded the top prize for the best cover design for this year's "Tower."

"However, I do tie the two together in the field of public service," he said.

"I try to plug as many of the activities at APSC as I can, mainly because I would like to see the people of Clarksville and the surrounding areas really get behind the college and give it all the support it should have."

"I honestly feel that Austin Peay State is headed in a positive direction and I am only too happy to do anything I can in helping keep the people aware of the college and its progress," Tom added.

Tom's main interest lies in the broadcasting of any and all sports events. His biggest thrill, as far as sports casting is concerned, oddly enough, dealt with APSC. He got to broadcast the Governor's basketball game from Louisville, Ky., when they played in the NCAA Tournament last March.

Following graduation this month, Tom's plans call for continued work in radio.

"I plan on looking around for a job at a sports announcer after school," Tom said.

"Sports casting is in my blood. I guess, I get a big kick out of it and I won't be satisfied until

I get in it real deep."

True to his position, Tom excused himself and gave a couple of commercials and then prepared for his last three hours of work for the night on "Ebony Express."

Guess who offered me an executive position with a leading organization, where I'll get good pay, further my education, and enjoy world travel?

My uncle.

In this case, nepotism's a pretty good idea. But of course you've got to measure up to get it. To be admitted to Air Force Officer Training School, you've got to be a good student with skills or aptitudes we can use. Air Force OTS is an intensive three-month course leading to a commission as a second lieutenant. As an Air Force officer, you'll be a leader on the Aerospace Team—and be a part of a vital aspect of our defense effort. Here's a chance for ambitious college men and women to assume great responsibility. It's a fine opportunity to serve your country, while you get a flying head start on the technology of the future. We welcome your application for OTS now—but this program may not be open to you in a year or so. If you're within 210 days of graduation, get full information about Air Force OTS from your local Air Force recruiter.

The recent TIAC track meet which was held at Murfreesboro, proved to be a real thriller as in the past.

Tennessee Tech's Golden Eagles had to pull in the winning honors in the mile relay to ice the meet in their favor.

Team scores in the events were Tennessee Tech 44, Union 43, Sewanee 38, MTSC 37, Austin Peay 30, Multigan 17, Southwestern 10, David Lipscomb 9, Maryville 2 and Chattanooga 0.

Coach Gordon Schultz was a very happy man with his findings for the fine performances in the meet.

Tim Culicott turned in impressive times in the sprint department with a 10.05 in the century and posted a 22.6 in the 220 yard dash. Culicott has at one time in his career turned in a 9.9 in the century.

Tom Hinkle, the iron man on the squad, almost put an end to TPT's fine distance runner Robbie Norris in the mile run; however, Norris won the race with a time of 4:28.4.

Hinkle placed fourth in the two mile run to pick up some valuable points.

Riley "Doc" Holliday, who continues to throw better in each meet, came home with fourth place honors in the javelin.

Blakey Bradley finished behind his arch rival Jim Bryant of Union in the high hurdles.

I deliberately omitted the name of Tom Greene and Dean Cronce as I feel their performances need separate recognition. Tom threw the shot 47-1 to receive the second place medal in the shop. I don't go along with the present ruling that in order for a record to be set an individual must win his event. Greene's throw was some 11 inches farther than the present school record.

Dean Cronce, the boy who still jumps with a steel pole, represented himself and our school in first class fashion in the pole vault. Cronce, who has been waiting on the arrival of the new fiber glass pole since the beginning of the track season, showed his competitors it is not the pole that was the event but the athlete using it. Cronce missed the record in the pole vault by a shade on his way down. The present record stands at 12-9 set by John Flatt and Dean is just three inches away from the record with a vault of 12-6.

The other day, as this writer passed the trophy case located in the lobby of the Memorial Gymnasium, he stopped for a minute to look over some of the fine awards our athletes have brought home to be displayed to the public. Then, too, there are trophies in this case that have been permanently placed there for individual names to be inscribed for outstanding performances at Austin Peay. The latter isn't so, however. You see, somewhere along the line the trophies have been neglected, and the individual whose name was supposed to be engraved on it has lost it because, my good readers, these names are not up to date. I am sure the public is just as observant as I, and probably more so. This would surely be a fine project for some club.

Rodney Rogers, APSC's fine shortstop, has finally hit his first home run of the season. Rodney put it high and long over the scoreboard in left field. His big blow came in the game against UTMB last Monday. I'll take some credit for that fine hit as it was obvious that Rogers was a little burned up reading bit as I made about him being in a slump. In fact, his wife commented to me, "You now can print something good about my husband." Well sir, I am proud to print good news both for Rodney and his wife and for APSC, as they brought home their seventh win of the season to give them an overall record of 7-5.

If ever there was a batter hot it is Jackie Winders, who is carrying a .366 average. Winders brought his batting average up 15 points in his last ball game, when he got 2-4 and hit a triple and his third home run of the season. It would be nice if Jackie could break the present record with the highest batting average for one season.

One of the surprising points that hasn't been mentioned yet is the growing speed John Briggeman must be accumulating. John, hampered by a leg injury last year, sat out most of the season but has come back in fine shape. In fact, he is leading the team in stolen bases with three. John does as fine a job as one could possibly find on first base. He is smooth and works around his sack like a true ballster dancer. I for one hope the scouts are looking at this lad as he has great possibilities as a future big leaguer.

Ten Seniors To Finish Athletic Careers

NICHOLS
Ten seniors will close out their varsity athletic careers for Austin Peay State College at the close of the spring sports calendar this year.

In baseball, Ken Connelly (pitcher), John Briggeman (first base), Rupert Baker (third base), Jackie Winders (center field) and David Mason (catcher) will wind up their baseball playing for APSC.

Connelly has been the mainstay of the pitching corps for the Governors all year. His record thus far this season shows four victories and three defeats. Two of Connelly's defeats were by the scores of 2-1 and 2-0. He leads the team in innings pitched (51), complete games (6), strike outs (42) and has the lowest earned run average (1.76).

Winders is the leading hitter for the Gobs with a .366 average. He also leads the team in home runs with three, is tied for the lead in doubles with two and is leading in total bases with 28. Briggeman is second in Winders is hitting with an average of .364. He leads the Governors in stolen bases with three and in put outs with 71.

Baker, captain of the baseball team for the second straight year, finally shook off a miserable slump at the plate and began hitting in the last half of the season. After going 0 for 15, Baker has gone 7 for 20 to raise his batting average to .259. Mason is the number three hitter for the Gobs with a .345 average. He is tied with two others for the number three spot in total bases with 13 and is second to Briggeman in put outs with 54.

The golf team has been led all season by senior Walton Smith. Smith, playing number one for APSC all season, was the number three finisher in the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Golf Tournament and missed the cut off in the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament by only two strokes.

WINDERS
Tom Lantz, the only senior on the tennis squad, came into his own toward the end of the season. Against Murray State Lantz scored the only point APSC won when he defeated his opponent 6-1, 6-2.

Three seniors on the track team, although not faring as well as their counterparts in the other spring sports, have served well in their specialties this year.

James Sugg, Cobb Parker and Nick Nichols will be missed by the track squad next year. All three men were hampered by injuries during the season and were not able to go at full speed yet they refused to quit.

On behalf of the student body, the sports staff wishes to congratulate these ten men, not only for their efforts in sports but also for their fine leadership on campus.

Small Is Large

"Big surprises come in small packages." You've heard that one all your life. If that is true, then Austin Peay State College's basketball team has a double winner.

Head basketball coach George Fisher signed Dave Small to a grant-in-aid yesterday. A native of Ireland, Ind., Small is about the same in stature as he stands only 5-10.

Small averaged 22.1 per game this past season at Ireland High School, scoring close to 500 points. During his high school career he swished the nets for 840 points.

His honors won while at Ireland High read like a Who's Who diary. He was named to the all-sectional team two years; won all regional and all-semi-state honors; and was named the most valuable player in the Potoka Valley Conference this year. He has been chosen all-conference twice; was the leading scorer in Dubois County this year; and was nominated for the all-star team in Indiana.

In Fisher's Plans

Fisher signed Small with the hope that he will develop into the same kind of floor general that APSC has been blessed with the past few years.
