Election results in, runoffs necessary

Freshman Secretary position.

"A run off election will be held Wednesday, October 17th for the Freshman Class President and Senator-at-Large positions." Chief Justice of the Student Tribunal Nelson Boehma, said. According to Boehma, the election will be conducted in the Student Center from 8:30 am to 3:30 pm.

The candidates for Freshman Class President are Ron Leath and Randy Randolph. The candidates for the Senator-at-Large position are Richard Cochran and Mike Proctor.

All students are eligible to vote; but only freshmen may vote for their class president.

After taking their oath of office at the Oct. 11th SGA meeting and greeting each other for the first time, Harrison and Rose said, "If they (the freshmen) have any problems they should feel free to call on us."

"We're trying to plan some social activities that will enable the freshman to meet one another," added Harrison. "But that will not be possible until we have a president," concluded Rose.

The freshman senator positions were filled by Mike Castleberry, Lori Martin and Kim Tilghman. Six of the 7 Senators at Large positions were filled by Charles Banks.

Love takes first in poetry

APSU Forensics Team takes third

By REGINA HOOSIER

Austin Peay's Forensics Team brought home the third place sweepstakes trophy from the University of Alabama Birmingham's Speakeasy Forensics Tournament this weekend.

"What's so interesting about it is that we only took six people," Coach Mike Gotcher said, comparing the number of students that went from Austin Peay to some of the other 21 schools.

The six students competing were LuEllyn Boyer, Angela Love, Andy Gardner, Allan Daniels, Randy Warpool and Donald Holloway.

Love competing in two different individual events, advanced into the finals of the poetry and prose categories, taking first place in poetry and fifth place in prose.

"She was competing against the best people in the country," said Gotcher. "Most of the people in the tournament were in the national competitions last year. Angela took first in every round she competed in."

Love chose Nikki Giovanni's Harvest for the poetry competition and excerpts from Alice Walker's The Color

Purple for the prose category.

"In this tournament I can honestly say that I did the best I could do," Love said. "I was proud. Not one person could have gotten third place sweepstakes."

"It took a combination of all six sources. I think because of that group effort we ranked like we did."

According to Gotcher, this was the first time in two years that Austin Peay had brought home a sweepstakes trophy.

Debate partners Daniela and Gardner went into quarter finals during the competition. Gotcher stated that this is "the first time an Austin Peay debate team has placed in a tournament in three years."

"I feel pretty good about the outcome," said Gardner. "Maybe next time we'll go all the way and take the next tournament. We did better than we expected."

The topic of the debates was Resolved: That the Method of Conducting Presidential Elections in the U.S. is Detrimental to Democracy.

Gotcher said, "I'll have to say we weren't too bad for a debate performance."

According to Gotcher, this was the first tournament for Boyer, Warpool and Holloway, but he stated that each did well and will improve.

He added that the next tournament will be held at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville and that anyone interested in competing should contact him.

"There may be alot of talent on campus that I just don't know about."

This is Gotcher's first year as director of forensics at Austin Peay.

Problem being investigated

Sevier's TV's affected by WAPX

By PEGGY VINE

Students living in Sevier Hall have reported poor television reception since WAPX-FM began broadcasting Oct. 1.

The trouble is noticeable only to those students who are connected to the building's antenna.

David von Palcko, Scholarships recipients associate professor in the speech, theatre, and communications department and the general manager for WAPX, said, "It is not our equipment that is causing the problem, it is the outdated antenna."

Von Palcko explained that the transmitter emits a frequency (RF) that is very strong around the campus. The RF signal is disrupting the reception at Sevier Hall.

Von Palcko also said the interference would stop if the antenna had an RF filter, or if Sevier was to obtain a new antenna.

"We are not here with the purpose to interfere with anyone's entertainment from another broadcast source. Our system is operating in complete accordance with FCC regulations," von Palcko said.

He said he has been investigating the problem, and will do so until it is solved.

Walter Brooks, Housing Director, said that he was also going to investigate the problem. He was not aware that WAPX was the source of the disturbance.

Brooks said that he had first heard that there was some interference from a resident assistant in Sevier Hall.

If the problem is proven to be definitely linked to the antenna, then Brooks said that there is a possibility of obtaining a new one.

Brooks said that students living in Sevier and in all of the other dorms, should contact him or their hall resident if they are experiencing problems with their television reception.

Students surprised

BY MICHI MCKINNEY

University Service Scholarship recipients experienced confusion on registration day after they discovered their scholarships no longer covered the student debt service fee.

The scholarship is awarded to virtually all eligible applicants who are in the top 5% of their graduating high school class, have a recommendation from their guidance counselor, have applied to APSU, and have applied by April 1 for the scholarship before beginning their education at APSU.

The confusion arose for some students who were first awarded the scholarship last year as freshmen.

James Shafer, director of financial aid, said in the '83-'84 year, $240 students received $240 for registration and maintenance fees, $20 for the student debt service fee, and $100 for a bookstore allowance, for a total scholarship award of $360.

Shafer continued that this year registration and maintenance fees increased from $240 to $269 and the student debt service fee increased from $20 to $36. In addition, there was an increase in the number of eligible applicants for the scholarship this school year.

As a result, these students found that during registration for fall '84 that their scholarship would only cover their registration and maintenance fees and bookstore allowance.

Concerning the increase in eligible applicants, Shafer said the financial aid office decided to award all applicants a scholarship, even if the funds would not cover the student debt service fee.

Shafer added that the other option would have been to select applicants who would receive a scholarship, including the student debt service fee, and deny other applicants a scholarship of any kind.

Robert Bateman, an APSU sophomore, said, "I don't have any complaints, but in the future I'm worried if the registration fee went up that the award would stay the same."

Shafer reassured concerned scholarship students that the "award has steadily increased" over the years.

Shafer said the lack of student notification of the changes in the scholarship prior to fall registration was due to "a problem in communication that can happen anytime a surprise occurs."

Shafer emphasized that APSU financial aid "wants to help every student to the extent that our means permit."

Cochran ineligible, Metelko named treasurer

By ALLAN J. DANIELS

The two highlights of last Thursday's SGA meeting were the Student Tribunal's decision on Richard Cochran's eligibility for the SGA and the swearing in of the newly elected Freshman Class Officers and Senators-at-Large. (See story page one.)

Although David England, SGA vice president, said, "We need to put all that behind us. Scratch last week, let us start anew," when Nelson Boehms, chief justice of the Student Tribunal, announced his ruling the matter came up again.

Last week SGA president Keith Norris ruled Cochran ineligible, stating that Cochran's term as Senator-at-Large was over at the end of last spring quarter.

Cochran, who at first refused to leave his seat, eventually acquiesced but only after having his 'staunch protest' recorded in the minutes of the meeting.

The matter was sent to Boehms to rule on the constitutionality of Norris' decision. Boehms announced that "Mr. Cochran was not a senator at the time of the meeting last week."

Cochran tried to dispute this by asking which constitution Boehms based his decision on. "Is there a possibility that this distinguished chamber is operating under two constitutions?"

The following discussion disclosed the fact that the senators had been furnished with out of date copies of the SGA constitution, but Boehms' decision stood.

Cochran will be in a runoff election with Mike Proctor for the last senator-at-large seat today.

Other business of the SGA included the announcement of Sandra Manner's resignation as SGA Treasurer and the acceptance of Bruce Metelko as the new SGA Treasurer.

Metelko said that he was in the process of instituting a bookkeeping system that could withstand transfer of the treasurer's position and that he would have a set exact total of the SGA budget in two weeks.

"Right now I don't know where we are, Keith doesn't know, and I don't think the Dean knows."

In other SGA proceedings Keith Norris asked about the progress senators were making in contacting businesses about being listed on an APSU student discount card. He pointed out that Jennifer Head, senator, had already contacted Clarksville Auto Parts and they had agreed to be listed.

Head then pointed out that she had actually gotten her roommate to do it for her.

The discount cards are essentially a list of businesses who have agreed to give discounts to students with valid APSU IDs.

Wagoner calls AP campus 'quiet'

By JACKIE HERNANDEZ

With crime, violence and drugs encompassing us, Austin Peay proves to be a safe and "quiet" campus.

Chief of Campus Police, John Wagoner, said there has been no drug problem during the last three years "that we've been made aware of. Drug usage is on the way down, and alcohol is on the rise," he said.

Wagoner commented that 70% of campus crimes are unsecured larcenies and burglaries. He said that out of 117 larcenies, 25% were purses, and the majority was taken from the library during the day.

It appears that students leave their purses on the desks while they search for books, and they return to find them missing. Also, Wagoner said purses are stolen from offices when women leave for a moment.

Unlocked doors in dorms and unlocked cars provide easy targets. Wagoner said occasionally there are incidents of non-students committing larceny and burglary on campus.

All in all, "we are lucky that Austin Peay is a quiet campus," Wagoner said. He suggested that rape isn't a problem here because women are educated in preventive measures.

"There are tips that women should remember when walking at night—walk in groups or at least with one other person, walk in well-lit areas, let someone know where you are, be alert to your surroundings, and if anyone acts suspiciously, walk towards an occupied building and call us," Wagoner said.

He commented that there is no reason to be paranoid, but one should be careful and not take unnecessary chances. Campus police patrol 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Wagoner said that Cpl. Steven Smith will be depositing material containing crime preventive tips in the student's boxes, and he recommended that they be read.

Wagoner said that his department has full police jurisdiction. Each one is a commissioned deputy sheriff. Each officer is required to attend the Tennessee law enforcement training academy in Doneson for six weeks.

Also, each man must complete 40 hours of in-service training each year.

Letters Policy

Letters which are to be considered for publication must be submitted to The All State, Box 8334, APSU, Clarksville, Tenn., 37044, or brought to 300 Castle Heights, by the Friday before the Wednesday printing.

All letters should be less than 300 words, and have the full name, address, and phone number of the author. Names will be withheld upon request. The letters are subject to editing for brevity and clarity.

Letters which are considered to be offensive, abusive, or libelous will be subject to question, and the author will be consulted before printing.

The Nov. 6 referendum to abolish liquor sales within Clarksville's city limits is premature for several reasons.

In the first place, legislation based on emotional or moral issues should not be passed solely because of public opinion. Public opinion has always been, in the best of situations, a fickle thing. Facts that affect a large number of people should be determined cautiously, by an informed population.

This referendum is the most recent chapter in the continuing saga of Clarksville's alcohol issues. But to our knowledge, despite all the claims of detriment and merit attributed to alcohol, no one has bothered to try to document proof of their arguments in a manner concrete and intelligible enough for a voter to cast an informed vote.

No studies have been offered to the public to determine the real result of alcohol-related physical impairment, as in traffic deaths. Similarly, no one has verified the incidence of loss of industry to our area, based on inability to perform labor or high insurance risk.

In addition, no sound projections of Clarksville's future with or without liquor sales have been proposed. We need to know more than generalities about how such a measure is going to be enforced.

Will banning liquor really significantly improve our community, when beer sales won't be affected by the referendum? Will we even be able to tell the difference, since packaged sales will still continue in Oak Grove, just minutes away?

Although everyone has strong opinions on the many effects of alcohol abuse, it must be realized that alcohol is not the simple cause of public or domestic crime.

Crime will always be with us, whether alcohol is or not. Emotionalizing and politicizing alcohol-related tragedy is non-productive in the long run. You can abolish liquor sales, but you can't legislate personal morals, as the Prohibition Era proved.

There have been notably few attempts in the past between proponents and opponents to work out their differences in a manner consistent with the existing framework of the law.

The goals of concerned citizens might be better realized by an approach that would more thoroughly educate the community about chemical abuse, and some citizens are currently working towards their goal in this manner.

To oversimplify the issue of alcohol abuse is to make no headway in resolving it. This referendum should be voted down, until substantial evidence, pertinent to our area, is offered to show us clearly that it would be worth the time, money and effort it will cost to enforce.

Richard Goodman:

Administration praised Who could do better?

I'm absolutely sick of hearing President Reagan criticized for his policies. If we as a nation don't get behind our president and pull with the man we did duty elect, how is it going to look to more aggressive (oppressive) countries around the world?

If America appears weak, we may soon have to learn to speak Russian or even Chinese. He's our president and he's gotten this country more patriotic-minded than it's been in years. Even if you disagree with him, at least he's given you someone to rally against.

Now, about the nukes. I don't like them any better than the rest of you. (If you've had a physics course, you know just how nasty a thermonuclear detonation is.) The fact is, we have them and so do quite a few other less benevolent countries. Like it or not, we're going to have to learn to live with them.

Think about this: if we and the rest of the world continue to boost our nuclear arsenals, eventually it will be planetary suicide for anyone to start an all out nuclear war. It will become even more obvious that no one could possibly win such a war. I'm sorry if I might miss right in the political structure of this planet, but I'm afraid it does.

Social Security. Doesn't anyone remember that when social security was first started most people helped their parents out when they had to stop working? They had grandmothers and grandmothers move in and help with babysitting while they went out and worked, as did their parents before them.

Social security was never supposed to support its recipients completely. It was meant only to help out. It's no wonder the social security system is in trouble, it was never meant to take the kind of stress this country seems to think it should. We have only ourselves to blame for that. It's a problem with our society, not with our president. He's simply doing what he can with what we've given him.

Unemployment. Do you have any idea just how many freeloaders our present system supports? I swear I believe some people would rather starve than do an honest day's work. They prefer to sit at home and make babies to up their monthly welfare checks. Personally, I think we should help only those who really need it and let the rest starve! That's part of what President Reagan is trying to do.

Right now more people are working than ever before, period. And the percentage of unemployed has been considerably worse in the past. As far as I'm concerned President Reagan has done a magnificent job with the mess Ford and Carter left him. Though it may be hard to accept, we can't save the whole world. Our last two presidents seemed to think that was our responsibility. President Reagan knows better.

The real world is not perfect, but it's all we've got and I believe President Reagan has the most realistic outlook of any president in 20 years. He understands the inherent cruelty in simple survival on this planet. Not everyone gets what he wants.

HARRY MOTTEN 10-17-84

Maybe someday we can learn to live out that dream, but I doubt if even my great grandchildren will live to see that. Meanwhile, I enjoy our way of life and want it preserved. We've been so spoiled for so long that we don't appreciate what we have left.

The standard of living in this country is finally coming down to a reasonable level and everyone blames the president. What would 'just plain Fritz' do to make it better?

Eventually we're going to have to relearn to work hard, sacrifice, and make our own way in this world. America owes us no more than a chance to do so. Come Nov. 6 I'm going to vote for Reagan, not because the man or his policies are perfect, but because I believe he has the most realistic attitude toward the problems in America today.

Richard Goodman, a senior, is a computer science major and philosophy minor at Austin Peay.

Letters

Mister Cochran is applauded

To the Editor:

This letter is in regards to the front page story in the Oct. 10 issue of The All State.

Richard Cochran was probably one of a very small handful of SGA members that actually did anything last year. Cochran, despite strong pressure from the SGA and The All State, did a very good job at being a Senator-at-Large.

The attack he suffered at the first SGA meeting this year is an indication of how much Keith Norris would like to get rid of Cochran. If any other Senator-at-Large had been at the meeting, would Cochran have been asked to leave?

On the subject of terms of office, it would stand to reason that a term of office would last until the newly elected could take office. If the SGA feels that this is wrong, then the United States government has been doing it wrong since the 'lame duck' act was passed around the turn of the century.

As a 'non-traditional' student I feel that I was very competently represented by Cochran last year. I voted for him Oct. 10, and plan to do so again during the runoff election Oct. 17.

Besides the fact that Cochran is a fellow non-traditional, he is also the only one who conducted himself like a member of the SGA should, with the feelings of those he represents at the forefront. So far, he is also the only member of the SGA who has shown any maturity and any sense of office during this term.

If the SGA loses Cochran, then it will be "Bedtime for Bonanza" in Clarksville, because the SGA will do what Cochran tried to keep it from doing last year.

And that would really be a travesty of student government.

Mascot choice fair or unfair?

To the Editor:

Last week while watching APSU's football team take on Youngstown State from Ohio, I noticed that Janie Simpson, AP cheerleader adviser, had announced the new Governor Peay mascot. Hurrah! Hurrah!

But did she advertise for the position? No. However, she did have tryouts.

I know a couple of people who were interested in succeeding last year's Governor Peay mascot, but knew nothing about the tryouts. It seems that as soon as she realized that last year's mascot wasn't returning she could have made sure that everyone was given a fair chance.

Taking time out during the third period of the Governors' comeback against the Penguins, I managed to talk to Ms. Simpson and was told that it wouldn't have made any difference if she had advertised the position. She also said that she tried to reach The All State, but was unsuccessful.

Now, we all know that a newspaper is not the only way one can advertise. How many times do students check their mailboxes and see all kinds of announcements? But there was no mascot tryout announcement.

How many bulletin boards are there in the University Center filled with announcements? Yet, no mascot tryout announcements were posted.

I know how hard that Ms. Simpson has worked in getting the cheerleaders and the mascot prepared. Yet, the way in which she went about selecting the 1984 Governor Peay was just off key.

In the future, I hope that this selection will be made fair for everyone.

Radio station is commended

To the Editor:

Bravo and congratulations to David von Palko and the staff at WAPX. Few thought they would get on the air on time. They did, and are doing a fine job.

The facility is well on its way to being first class and the programming, especially the jazz, already is.

All you jazz lovers out there let WAPX know you are listening and want more jazz programming.

Jazz is difficult to find in this area and if WAPX is truly going to offer an alternative then the emphasis should be on jazz.

David and the staff have worked very long hours to get the station on the air and deserve a lot of credit.

There have been a few problems, but I think there is a lot to be said for the national anthem being sung live and a cappella. I even recommend a guest vocalist each night.

Keep up the good work and more jazz. Glenn Carter

New minor offered at APSU

To help students for the fast-growing world of international business, travel, and telecommunications, Austin Peay State University is offering an international studies minor.

The program is designed to help promote the understanding of international cultures, economics, and religions by bringing international representatives to the campus and sending students abroad to study. The program also helps to prepare students for employment in the world market.

"The program is a composite of seven or eight different departments," said Dr. Ramon Magrane, assistant professor of languages and literature. "Dr. (Ken) Winking (chairman and professor of geography) had the idea of starting the program and interested professors got together realizing there is a void at the university in this area.

AP hosts state association meeting

By TONI DEW

Austin Peay State University will be hosting the annual convention of the Tennessee Association of College and University Housing Officers, for the first time, Oct. 18 and Oct. 19.

Martha Anne Henry, Director of Auxiliary Enterprises at APSU, said approximately 75 representatives from colleges and universities and political ideologies in order to give the student all the proper tools to adapt to any culture other than their own."

The minor requires a foreign language proficiency but "the student doesn't need to speak the language fluently. The language will just help the student understand the cultures better in those classes."

Foreign language students are ideal for this program as are business and political science majors.

"Many companies are sending people overseas," Magrane said. "We're providing an alternative for students because we can't force our culture and ideologies on different countries. If the adjustment isn't made, it can cause cultural depression."

from around the state will attend the meeting.

Henry said, "The convention will be divided into areas that are pertinent to housing in colleges and universities, today." Some areas of discussion will include: Alcohol Related Liability Issues for Tennessee Housing Officers, Residence Hall Security, Wellness Programming, and others.

VA announces changes in verification of attendance

The Veteran Administration announced today it has changed the way it verifies attendance of veterans and beneficiaries in GI Bill non-college degree programs.

Robert Bielak, director of the VA Regional Office in Nashville, Tennessee said that, effective September 1, the federal agency now verifies school attendance on a monthly basis instead of quarterly.

He said this change affects veterans and beneficiaries in farm cooperative management programs, vocational technical schools and other non-college degree certificate programs.

Payments for each month that the veteran or beneficiary is in school will be made only after verification of attendance has been received. Bielak said this procedure "will significantly reduce the overpayments that the Veterans Administration has experienced in the past."

The VA director said that advance payments will continue to be processed as in the past, when such payments are requested by the veteran and the school participates in the advance payment program.

He urged students in the program who experience payment problems to call the Veterans Administration.

Austin Peay alumnus comes home

Professional actor comes to APSU

By S. ALICIA LOYD

The AP Playhouse is presenting their first show of the '84-85 academic year, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. It will feature as a guest artist Jerry Joe Winsett, an alumnus of Austin Peay, as the principle character.

Winsett went to New York about ten years ago seeking work as a professional actor. Dr. Joe Filippo, chairman of the department of speech, communication and theatre, worked with Winsett in his studies here at Austin Peay.

Filippo reflected on Winsett's days at APSU saying, "Jerry and I always had a good relationship. My memories of Jerry Joe at Austin Peay are very positive. While here, he was always ready to help a production in any way possible, whether in acting or the technical side of theatre."

Jerry Winsett is probably most remembered at Austin Peay for his performance as Ben Franklin in the play 1776, his portrayal of the title role in You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown, the character of Bottom in A Mid-Summer's Nights Dream, and his encore performance of the character Moonface in the play Anything Goes.

Filippo said, "Jerry's selfless approach to life and theatre won him many local admirers during his early training, and he sustained that philosophy when he went to New York."

Dr. George Mabry, Winsett's voice instructor while at Austin Peay, said, "I remember him more as an actor who sings, rather than a singer who acts. He was a very creative young man. He also had natural ability without alot of schooling in voice."

Jerry Winsett

Winsett's career has definitely been one of great accomplishments. He is a member of the Screen Actors Guild, which is the movie actors union; a member of the Actors Equity Association, which is the union for theatrical production actors; and a member of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

He has acted off-Broadway in New York and has also worked with touring companies, repertory companies and stock companies doing various plays such as Man of La Mancha, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and Damn Yankees. He has also acted in dinner theatre performances.

Winsett's most recent role will be in The Sicks O'Clock News, which will be released in the near future.

He has also appeared in numerous commercials, which include Federal Express, National Car Rental, Dunkin Donuts, Mrs. Paul's frozen foods and Glidden paints, to name a few.

Filippo issued this challenge: "Jerry has frequently been compared to Zero Mostel, the actor who created Pseudolus, the central character of A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, on Broadway. Now Jerry has an opportunity to see what he can do with the role that made Zero Mostel famous."

He also said, "The wedding of old Austin Peay talent through Jerry Joe with our own new wave of actors, should be a spectacle to behold!"

The play runs Nov. 7-10 at the Trabren Theatre; performances will begin at 8 p.m. For reservations and information, telephone 648-7379.

Cast gears up for Stephen Sondheim's Forum

By CELESTE SCAGGS

The Trabren Theatre will present the Stephen Sondheim musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Nov. 7-10 at 8 p.m.

Co-directed by Dr. Joe Filippo, chairman of the speech, communications and theatre department and John Ignacio, the play's plot revolves around a misguided love affair and its comic implications.

Chad Loveless portrays Hero, a young man who has fallen in love with beautiful young woman named Philia, who will be played by Jennifer Burch. The plot is complicated by the fact that Philia has been sold into prostitution.

Hero enlists the aid of his slave, Pseudolus, portrayed by visiting actor and APSU alumnus Jerry Winsett, in trying to trick Miles Glorious, played by Bruce Opie, into getting Philia back.

Other cast members include Mickey Fabrizio, Bernice Cook, Keith Wilson, Richard Daniel, Jimmy Leighty, Mark Honeycutt and Santos DeLaRosa.

Rounding out the cast are Jane Carpenter, Kim Renders, Anna Filippo, Tina Brown, Ledean Ladd, Stefanie Balcik, Barbara Winters, Mary Raffety and Scott Hutchinson.

"The play has a long way to go, and there is much potential in the cast if they develop as rapidly as I think they will, the production will be a success," Filippo explained.

The assistant director for this production is Cindy Draper; stage manager, Angela Love; costume designer, Susan Herrington; pianist, Debbie Gilchrist and choreographer, Keith Wilson.

Bernice Cook, who portrays the suspicious woman Domian, feels optimistic about Forum: "I believe that comedy is good to have at the beginning of the quarter. Casting was done very well; every character is unique in his own way, so the audience will not become confused.

There is alot of action in this musical, there is alot of subdued humor, and obvious humor, very slapstick. A musical comedy is a great way for students to perform and sing," Cook said.

Tickets are priced at $2 and reservations are required. For more information and reservations, call 648-7379.

Teachers does it with class

By JEFF WELCH

Teachers is an enjoyable new movie starring Nick Nolte, Judd Hirsch, JoBeth Williams, Richard Mulligan, and Allen Garfield. The main focus of the story is on Nolte as a teacher, and his relationship to a "tough kid" in the school.

The story starts on a typical Monday morning in a stereotypical big city high school. The school psychologist goes crazy and attacks another teacher; a student is stabbed; over 10% of the faculty is absent; and one of the students tries to eat one of the teachers. To top it all off, a former student is suing the school because he graduated without being able to read or write. The lawyer for the student is another former student, a woman who had a crush on Nolte when she was a student there. Their relationship doesn't go too well, since she thinks he's part of the system that doesn't care about its students' education.

Another big conflict is between Nolte and a "tough kid" named Eddie Palickian. Nolte is assigned as a replacement to the deranged psychologist and is given Eddie's folder, which is as big as New York City's phone book.

The movie has several funny parts, especially the scenes with Richard Mulligan, an escaped mental patient who is masquerading as a history teacher. He impersonates various figures throughout history, and in one scene as Ben Lincoln, he plays wonderfully, silencing his class (and the movie audience) by simply staring as Lincoln would have.

All in all, the movie is very entertaining. The one weak point was the relationship between Hirsch and Nolte, who started out as great friends, and ended up on opposite sides of the desk. Nolte, it seems can play almost any type of character and make it believable. Ralph Macchio (of The Outsiders and The Karate Kid) is great in his role as Palickian.

The movie is rated "R", almost solely due to one brief nude scene in the first couple minutes of the movie. Overall I would rate Teachers an "8" out of "10", with an additional recommendation that all teaching majors go to see it.

There are some other good movies in town, such as The Evil That Men Do with Charles Bronson and All of Me starring Lily Tomlin and Steve Martin. Many people are looking forward to "Places In The Heart" with Sally Field, which was the second-most popular movie this past weekend (behind Teachers). Coming out this Friday should be The Little Drummer Girl with Diane Keaton and The Razor's Edge starring Bill Murray.

By SHARON WASHINGTON

FLAGS, a multi-cultural, multi-lingual organization, will travel to Nashville Oct. 29, to see a play by the National Theatre of Performing Arts, LTD.

Dr. Ramon Magrans said the play is entitled Los tirres de Cachiporra written by author-poet, and playwright Garcia Lorca. Magrans sponsors a trip every year and invites all students who would like to go along.

The play is about a young girl who falls in love but cannot marry because her father has arranged for her to marry a wealthy, older man.

According to Magrans, Lorca wanted to introduce students to thoughts, messages, expressions and art from different parts of the world. He hopes to increase cultural awareness, he explained.

The cost of the trip will be $1 for FLAGS members and $2 for non-members. Tickets for the play will be $5.

Magrans said that the people of Clarksville are not exposed to enough cultural activities, and he hopes to introduce students to thoughts, messages, expressions and art from different parts of the world. He hopes to increase cultural awareness, he explained.

The cost of the trip will be $1 for FLAGS members and $2 for non-members. Tickets for the play will be $5.

Magrans stated that if a non-member of FLAGS does not have the $2, he would gladly pay it, because it would be worth the sacrifice.

Anyone interested should contact Magrans at least a week before the 29th. They will leave at 9:00 a.m. and all students will receive excused absence. For further information, call Magrans at 645-7891.

France trip set for spring

By PEGGY VINE

The languages and literature department is planning a trip to France during spring break.

John W. Welker, associate professor of French, is organizing the trip. Students will leave March 14 and return March 23.

The price of the trip is $1200, which includes round trip air fare between Nashville and Paris. Room and board and travel expenses for touring in France, are also included.

Half of the trip will be spent in Paris. The students will spend the first part of the day in organized activities. They will have their afternoons free to see Paris on their own, with approval from Welker.

The students will also travel to the Loire Valley where they will explore renaissance castles of the late kings of France, according to Welker.

The trip can earn a student three quarter hours of French 305. In order to go, one must be enrolled here at the University. The trip is open to non-students, but they must register and pay all university fees, plus the price of the trip.

Once the students return from France, they will be no other course work required.

Welker said that at least 10 students are needed in order for the trip to come through. If you are interested, contact Welker for more information. His office is in the Clement building.

Magrans said that students will be experiencing Spanish life, not American, and that Spanish customs would be followed. This includes eating Spanish foods. All of this is part of the learning experience, Magrans said.

Students will be spending most of their time in Malaga, on the southern coast of Spain, stated Magrans. Students will also travel to Sevilla, Grenada and Madrid. There will be other excursions available, but they are optional.

Lady Gavs place second in tourney

By Romana Eaton

This past weekend our Lady Gavs went to the Mid-Season Battle of Richmond Invitational where they came in second in the Southern Division.

The Lady Gavs displayed some fine play which aided in their beating Youngstown and their very near defeat of Akron.

Youngstown and Akron were just two of the teams the Lady Gavs played. They also played Morehead and Eastern Kentucky which are two of "the strongest teams in the Division I", said coach Cheryl Holt.

The team which won the Division I was Tn. Tech, the only team to which the team has suffered a defeat.

"This gives us a good chance at being one of the four teams to go to the Ohio Valley Conference, because the only two other teams we would have to defeat would be Middle Tennessee and Murray State," said Coach Holt.

Neither MTSU nor MSU won any games this past weekend. Moreover they have been beaten by the Lady Gavs before.

During the games played this weekend Coach Holt said that there was "good team effort displayed," however, "the team is still getting better." The team has ample opportunity to improve because they are a "very young one."

The team plays two freshmen, two sophomores, one junior and one senior. Coach Holt said that the team as a whole played well and that she "was very excited about how well freshman Connie Caldwell performed."

Kleynhans defeats Barg in tournament finals

AP's TJ Kleynhans defeated teammate Paula Barg 6-1, 6-1 in the finals of the Sewanee Fall Classic at Monteagle over the weekend.

The tourney has no team title, only individual competition.

Kleynhans teamed with Sandy Cross in doubles competition to defeat Barg and Jackie Burks in the finals 6-1, 6-2.

The women tennis team plays today at Western Kentucky and returns home for Murray State on Thursday.

Austin Peay falls to YSU 16-13 in OT

Austin Peay fell to Youngstown State 16-13 Saturday night at Municipal Stadium in the first Ohio Valley Conference overtime contest ever.

Youngstown State kicker John Dowling booted a 33-yard field goal with just 46 seconds remaining in regulation to tie the game at 10-10 and force the overtime.

Each team was given the ball on the opponent's 15 yard line to score in the overtime period. Austin Peay was unsuccessful in its first three running attempts and settled for a Brian Yarbrough 33-yard field goal, putting the Gavs up 13-10. The Penguins, on their possession, were stopped for just one yard on their first two running plays. But on third and nine, John Murphy burst through the middle for a first down on the AP 2-yard line.

The AP defense held on two downs, but on third down, YSU quarterback Lykes swept left for a touchdown, to award the Penguins their hard-fought victory.

"Give our kids credit," said APSU coach Emory Hale. "They played hard and did the best they could do. It just came down to the overtime period."

"We had two chances to stop them on third down (in the OT) and make them kick, but we failed both times."

AP got on the board first with Yarbrough's first field goal, one of 37 yards in the first half. Youngstown finally got on the board in the third quarter when they went 80 yards on 14 plays for a TD. Roderick Love capped the drive with a 4-yard run.

Vince Allen went into the endzone with just 3:31 left to put the Gavs up 13-10. The scoring drive of 20 yards was set up by a fumble recovery by Scott Fox.

Youngstown State marched downfield on a 47-yard run by Love and settled the score on a 46 yard field.

The Austin Peay linemen held the Youngstown State Penguins defensivemen in check during this pass play. AP fell 16-13 in overtime.
