

Local Alumni And Friends Are Asked To Contribute To College Student Fund

Plans for a drive for contributions to a student loan fund among Austin Peay College alumni were formed at a meeting with fourteen members of the city and county committees appointed to assist in the campaign. The drive will get under way at an early date.

Mike Northington, Jr., president of the newly-formed Montgomery County unit of the college alumni association, presided at the meeting. Dean Felix G. Woodward explained that the season was called to discuss methods for the drive. He read lists of names of former students who had been enrolled in the college. Each committee member will be given a list of names of people to contact for donations when the drive formally begins. Every person who has attended the college will be eligible to join.

A donation of $5 will make a contributor a member of the Montgomery unit. This amount is the minimum requested. The loan fund will keep separate from other college deposits. Mr. Woodward explained. The fund will be administered by trustees named in the charter which has been secured for the loan foundation.

Checks will be made to the A. P. S. C. loan fund and deposited with James P. Mann, treasurer of the Montgomery County organization, who is connected with the firm of F. P. Gracey and Company.

Dr. Lowe Presents New Book To Library

Dr. Marvin E. Lowe presented to the library the latest book of Louis Adamic, A Nation of Nations. This book is of wide interest and a vital contribution to the individual and collective recreation required of the American people by this changing world. It will be profitable reading for all.

Here at last is something in the doings of man that corresponds with the broadcast doings of day and night. Here is not merely a lation but a teeming nation of nations. . .

A.P.S.C. Girls' Choir Makes A Merry Tour Of Six Neighboring High Schools

Leaving Clarksville at seven o'clock on the morning of April 2, the invincible girls choir, under the brave leadership of Mr. Guy Lynn Hogue, made a two-day tour of six neighboring high schools. Their itinerary included Ashland City, Cedar Hill, Springfield, Portland, Cedar Plains, and Greenbrier.

Besides presenting to them a varied program of choral music, Mr. Hogue introduced at each place two members of the choir who talked on the academic work and social life at Austin Peay State College. Those who spoke were Everett Katherine Givens, Katherine Landis, and Betty Joy Morris, academic work; Mary Lowe Dickson, Sara Elizabeth Haynes, and Nancy Longmire spoke about the social life on the campus.

After singing for the students at Ashland City and Cedar Hill on the first morning, the choir, hot, tired, and starving by noon, ate lunch at the Corner Grill in Springfield. Then they sang their last program of the day at Springfield High School. Still in high spirits although heaven only knows where they found them, the girls climbed merrily on their chartered bus to make the trip

High School Teachers Of English Meet

The Regional Meeting of the High School Teachers of English was held at the College on April 12, 1:30 to 4:30 P. M. ASPC was host for the Department of English acting as special representative of the College. The meeting was sponsored by the State Department of Education under the leadership of Howard Kirksey, Associate High School Supervisor of Middle Tennessee.

High School teachers from the following counties were invited: Cheatham, Dickson, Houston, Humphreys, Montgomery, Robertson, Stewart, Sumner, and Hickman. The central topic was "Teaching Language and Composition in the High School." Miss Christine Vaughn, president of the English section, Middle Tennessee Association, presided and also spoke on the topic "An Adequate Program of Language and Composition in the High School." F. G. Woodward, Professor of English, made the welcoming address. Mrs. Susie B. Agee of Cedar Hill spoke on "The Evening" (Continued on Page 3)

Governor And First Lady Receive Traditional Gifts From Mrs. Austin Peay

Jack Nicholson, son of Mrs. Will Nicholson of Neptune, and Miss Jo Adams Cooper, daughter of Mrs. R. C. Cooper, of Clarksville, received the traditional gifts from Mrs. Austin Peay, widow of the late Gov. Austin Peay, for whom the college was named, in a ceremony at the donor's home. They are both seniors.

Annually Mrs. Peay presents a biography and works of the late Governor Peay to the two students, members of the senior class, who are chosen to be Governor and First Lady of the college.

The honor went to Miss Cooper and Mr. Nicholson for their outstanding work on the campus and their leadership among the students.

Miss Cooper is editor of the college annual which will make its appearance this year for the first time in the history of the school. Mr. Nicholson recently received a citation in recognition of his work among the students.

to Portland. We might mention that by this time Mr. Hogue and the very nice band, led by Mr. Hogue, were at the point of a nervous breakdown due to the noisy and idiotic songs and chatter the little school towns indulged in all during the trip. Portland, that hospitable town, welcomed the troupe with open arms and led them all gently to the various homes in which the girls and the men were to spend the night. After refreshing herself, with a little water and make-up, everyone met at the Rose Bowl Cafe for supper. Here the girls and men took a little after that will not be explained, but it can be said that they all enjoyed their trip thoroughly.

After singing at the Portland High School the next morning, the choir traveled to Cross Plains and presented their program there. Again eating lunch in Springfield, the group gladly gave their last concert at Greenbrier and sped west to Clarksville. They would almost admit that they were tired.

It was a glorious trip for those who participated in it, which will possibly be beneficial in securing more students from that region next year.

H. J. MARSHALL BOB KENDRICK PEGGY FLEMING

Marshall, Kendrick, and Fleming Elected Student Council Officers By Students

In the Student Council elections, climaxing two weeks of feverish campaigning, the following officers were elected to serve on the Council for next year: W. J. Marshall, president; Bob Kendrick, vice-president; and Peggy Fleming, secretary-treasurer.

The election, conducted according to the election laws of the State of Tennessee, set a precedent for the College. A primary and general election were held and had all the features of a regular state election, including campaign speeches, posters, and campaign promises.

In the primary election held March 19, H. J. Marshall, freshman from Clarksville, and Walter Powers, freshman from Waverly, qualified for the general election by receiving the highest number of votes over Bill Hines, freshman from Pennsylvania, and James A. Woolcott, freshman from Clarksville. In the general election held March 26, Marshall polled 72 votes to Powers' 70 to win the election.

Kendrick and Fleming received majority votes in the primary. Kendrick, freshman from Clarksville, won over Corbett, freshman from Waverly. Miss Fleming, junior from Ringgold, defeated Margaret Wilson, freshman, and Jo Hunter, freshman, both from Clarksville.

All of the candidates for president and vice-president were ex-G. I.'s. Interest ran high during the campaigning. Each candidate, on announcing for office, presented a platform before the student body. With the exception of Miss Fleming, who managed her own campaign, each candidate had a campaign manager who introduced his candidate in the assembly and spoke on the merits of his candidate.

About 80 per cent of the students voted.

The following election officials served during both the primary and general elections: Election Commissioners: Edison Burke, Floyd Blankenship, John Givens; Judges: Mary Lowe Dickson, Jo Anne Cooper, Mary Wilson, John Outland, Jack Nicholson, Bob Sykes; Clerks: Margaret Kerr, Mary Ella Thomas, Marvis Reed, Criss Wyatt, Sergeant-at-Arms: J. B. Huley and Woodall Taylor.

Survey of Teachers In State Being Made

Questionnaires answered by approximately two thousand teachers from all over the state are being compiled to form statistics by the students at Austin Peay State College which will be sent to the State Department of Education for use there.

The surveys are graded according to the sex and color of the teacher, and the size of the school in which they teach. Information is given on the age of the teacher, the number of pupils taught daily, the professional and general education, the professional organizations of which the teacher is a member, the religious and community activities in which the teacher participates, the extra classroom responsibilities, the method by which the teacher was elected to his position, the factors which led to the entering of the teaching profession, the factors influencing the teacher to remain in his profession, and the factors which influence teachers to leave the profession.

Among the teachers in one-teacher schools, the trend of the age is between 26 and 45, with an average of 29 to 25 pupils taught daily; they give from 75 to 100 per cent of their time to teaching, were elected by the superintendent, are teaching because of their opportunity to

Chapel Entertained By Clarksville Band

On April 19, the Clarksville High School band presented an excellent program in chapel.

The concert got under way with "Red Army March" followed by "When Day Is Done," featuring Jack Slaughter, cornet, and Martha Weakley, clarinet; "Put Your Arms Around Me," sung by the quartet, Nancy Harter, Beatrice Walton, Betty Durrett, and Linda Williamson; "Till the End of Time" vocalized by Jack Slaughter; "Dream," the quartet; "Onward Christian Soldiers," vocalized by the quartet and hummed by the band members; "Bells of St. Mary's" by Garnett Ladd; and "I Walked a Girl" by the quartet and Jack Slaughter.

The concert ended with "Footlight March" featuring the drum major, James Williams, Katherine Trice, Grace Chester, Nancy Phillips, and Barbara Foster.

Portland High School Wins Top Honors In Forensic Contests

Portland High School took top honors in three events and second and third places in two others to lead 17 schools in the annual contests of the Tennessee Inter-scholastic Literary League of the Third District held at Austin Peay State College. Honors were well distributed among other schools.

Clarksville won first place in original oratory for boys and girls in declamations. Garnett Ladd, senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ladd, took the cup for a speech on "Anesthesia."

Gallatin's play took second place and Dickson was third.

first place in the female roles of the several plays given.

Isaac Litton's negative team won over Central High School in the finals of the debating contest Saturday. The winning team received the cup. Both teams will represent the district at Knoxville in April.

The director of the forensics, Harry L. Law, professor of geography at Austin Peay, presented a cup to each of the winning schools. The cup, which is engraved with names of each school that has won it, will be returned next year, unless the school which received it Saturday has had it for three successive years, including this one. Prof. Law announced that the program will be held again next year.

Dr. P. P. Claxton, college president, complimented the winners and all that took part in the program and welcomed them to the college. He expressed his appreciation to Prof. Law for his interest and the time he has given in planning the program each year.

A total of 273 youths from schools in the third scholastic district took part in the two divisions of the program held March 23 and March 31.

ALL-STATE Salutes Miss Mary Jo Gootee

All State is proud to salute Miss Mary Jo Gootee, freshman. Mary Jo graduated from Clarksville High School last May and was salutatorian of her class. Her high school record is very brilliant. She was a member of the National Honor Society in her junior and senior years. Miss Gootee won first prize in an essay contest sponsored by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Nathan Bedford Forrest was the subject of the essay. She also won third prize in another contest sponsored by the Civitan Club. Last year Mary Jo was Senior Chairman of the Junior Red Cross Council of which she had been a member since her freshman year in high school. She was also editor of the high school paper Purple and Gold.

This splendid record has continued since Mary Jo entered Austin Peay State College last September. She is Assistant Junior College editor of the school annual and a member of the All State staff. At present she is doing survey work for the State Department of Education. This includes surveying teachers of Tennessee elementary schools, tabulating personal data, opinions, and experience.

Mary Jo is a brunette, age 18, from Clarksville, Route 3. Her telephone number is 1699W.

H. J.: "Gosh, Elva, since I met you, I can't eat, I can't sleep, I can't drink."

Elva: "Why not?"
H. J.: "I'm broke."

Mr. Hague: "Do you sing soprano?"

Draper: "Sure. How does the first verse go?"

Bill Hines: "May I hold your hand?"

Ann Roberts: "It isn't heavy; I think I can manage, thank you."

Too bad. He was a window washer and stepped back to admire his work.

In France men kiss men.

In America men kiss women.

God Bless America!

Dr. Claxton told this one in Chapel.

Old Lady to taxi driver: "Young man, you must drive more carefully. You see, I haven't been in one of these taxis before."

Taxi Driver: "Well lady, I know just how you feel; for this is the first time I ever drove one."

J. Powers: "I get a big kick every time I kiss her."

Pryor: "I didn't think she would object so strenuously."

Mildred Culwell: "Can you drive with one hand?"

Bob K. (passionately) — "Yes."

Mildred: "Well, then pick up my glove."

Prof. Woodward: "Nicholson, have you read 'Romeo and Juliet' for that report that is to be in the morning?"

Nicholson: "Not quite, Sir. I have read 'Romeo' but haven't quite finished 'Juliet' as yet."

The young bee flitted to a rose bush and smelled a beautiful red bud—then a second rose did he sniff—and a third. Staggering to a fourth, he inhaled the fragrant aroma. And thus does our saga end; for the bee by this time had a snoutful of Four Roses and didn't really care.

A young woman's idea of an ideal man is one who is smart enough to make money and foolish enough to spend it.

Dope On The Dopes

Ho hum! Spring has sprung! The flowers are budding, the worms are working in dead earnest. Poor Ernest! O. K., so they do grow lots of corn where I come from. So what?

It has been said that now is the time when a young man's fancy lightly turns to what the girls have been thinking about all year.

Speaking of love (who didn't?) I've heard that it loses all track of time, but have you ever heard of it losing time itself? Ask Helen Hill and Jimmy Hopper for further information.

A growing friendship seems to be that of Dolores Hodel and Marvin Reed. They were seen having a grand time at the show last week with Sarah Gamble and Haynes Bumpus. Cheer up, Jo! Get rid of that long face! Smile! Chuckle! Be back from Chicago this week. What young lady wrote what young man two times during the choir's recent two day trip? Three guesses and the first two don't count.

Saw that regular twoosome, Wanda and Dean, Sunday night looking at each other that way? Heard that Dot Meiton, who one swell time at the Rufus Long Dance at the Armory Saturday night. She was squired by an ex-sailor, just two days in port.

Instead of eyes Anne Crane has been wearing neon lights since she got word that husband Don was arriving " pronto." Happy landings, Don and Ann.

Saw Sara Linsch and Harold Prior together last week. We heartily approved!

Does Art Brooks still make those weekend trips to Nashville? "Papa" Meiton, we love to have you come to the Girls' Dorm and tell us about the "little stranger." We mean that, seriously.

Wonder if any of you fellas have noticed Lorne Alsbrooks? Strictly all-right, we'd say.

Met a new couple on the campus, Sunday night, Louise Wall and Walt Powers. Not bad! On the recent choir trip everyone had an exciting time. Hilda and Nancy, everything happens to you!

Why doesn't Ford Hollingsworth wake up and watch the girls swoon when he comes around?

Ah yes, thoughts of love! What is this strange thing called love anyway? It does strange things to people. Look what it's done to Draper. Why she's even gotten herself engaged. And if you met him you know what a grand guy he is.

Have you seen what an amazing effect it's had on Bob and Mildred? They're absolutely radiant and bit moon-eyed at times. Our mutual friend, Mary Lowe, whom we know to be more sensible and down to earth than the average gal, has been seen strolling about our campus with her head in the stratosphere murmuring "Billy" to herself—quite a provoking sight.

The Cooper family doesn't seem to be doing so badly—Saw a corsage like the Rufus Long dance, closely followed by Jo Anne and with her was the same man we saw with her at Eddie's a week before. Her big brother also was at the dance, squiring our own campus brainchild Marshall. At the same shin-dig we spotted, Peggy Jo and Harold Page, Mary Wilson and Brad Martin (oh, that cute boy!) Clay Cleveland and Pradier Atkins. (I can't explain it, can you?)

You can't go anywhere these days without seeing Louise Halliburton and Wena's big brother Bill. They always seem to be having such a good time. Do you suppose they could know what this thing called "love" is. Anyway, if you haven't fallen yet, you will. So long, evabody, see ya' in history class.

A certain girl was overheard saying, "Cowboy Fisher is the cutest man."

Corbett seemed to be so lonely while the choir was away. Perhaps Aurelia should stay at home the next time.

Bob Kendrick visited Cheatham County recently. It was for other reasons than the singing or the big "dinner on the ground".

Prior visits the girls' dormitory a lot but he doesn't seem to be concentrating on any particular girl.

Spring hasn't turned Marshall's fancy. He still has Elva.

If anyone knows what was wrong with Walt Powers after the party, please give out with the secret.

Have you noticed that Jack Dower and Burke are giving Dorothy Moffitt quite a rush?

Clyde Stophel of the Stophel brothers says he's content to play the field until the right girl comes along.

Jimmy Powers says he likes a weiner roast as long as Helen can go along.

To the girls of Harned Hall: Since very few of us can litterbug, those foot tucks away and bring on more of the slow stuff.

Sam, is that a pet rat you have in your dresser drawer?

If you don't know why the maids did not clean Calvin Hall, ask Harold.
