

Peay Hosts Skynyrd

Lynyrd Skynyrd, the famed southern rock group, will be appearing at Austin Peay State University's Dunn Center Thursday, Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. in conjunction with APSU's homecoming festivities.

Skynyrd's roots are classic in that all the group's members grew up together. Ronnie Van Zant (vocals), Gary Rossington (guitar) and Skynyrd's original drummer, Bob Burns, who was replaced by Artimus Pyle, grew up together.

Neighboring Floridians Leon Wilkerson (bass) and Billy Powell (keyboards) form the nucleus of the group.

Through several name and a couple of personnel changes, the group that eventually became Lynyrd Skynyrd worked steadily around Florida, with occasional forays to Atlanta, Ga. for club gigs.

By 1972, the band's personnel had stabilized, and their sound had evolved into a distinctive style.

Through an Atlanta area talent search, Lynyrd Skynyrd was discovered and brought to MCA.

The band's first album, "Lynyrd Skynyrd" and "Second Helping" were certified platinum, and hit singles such as "Sweet Home Alabama," "Saturday Night Special" and "Free Bird" further established the Lynyrd Skynyrd sound on America's airwaves.

Skynyrd's legend stems from MCA's "Sounds of the South" party in Atlanta in 1973, where a crowd of reporters, disc jockeys and record fans were brought to their feet totally unexpectantly by a group they had never heard before.

The group toured the country following the release of their first MCA album, but its big break came with the opportunity to play before large audiences on The Who's "Quadrophonia" tour.

Skynyrd went on to a triumphant overseas tour following the release of the album, "Nuthin' Fancy."

That album and a fourth release, "Gimme Back My Bullets" turned into gold.

According to Dr. Charles Boehms, vice president for student affairs at APSU, Sound Seventy Productions is financing Skynyrd's appearance in October with the university netting 12 per cent of gross sales.

General admission tickets will be $6 in advance and $7 the day of the show with a $1 discount, limited to two tickets per person, being offered to APSU students.

Three thousand tickets are available with sales slated to begin Friday at the University Center at APSU. Tickets will also be on sale at Tapes and Threads in Clarksville and at all Sound Seventy ticket outlets.

Govs Pull OVC Upset Against Top-Ranked ECU

By BILLY FIELDS

The Governor side line was in frenzy as the jubilant Governors celebrated their first win over Eastern in more than a decade. The dejected Colonels left the field as the Austin Peay celebration spread to the handful of APSU fans who followed their team. Austin Peay had pulled the biggest upset of the year with a stunning 20-17 victory over the Colonels.

The win left the hierarchy of the conference in shambles as the powers of the past stepped down to a second seat for the high flying Govs, now 2-0 on the conference. Morehead, the Peay's next opponent, is tied for first with a 2-0 conference mark.

Eastern scored on their first possession following an 80-yard drive. The drive lasted 13 plays and ate up six minutes of the clock. Stan Mitchell pushed the ball across with 5:30 left in the first quarter.

The Colonels scored again early in the second period with Dave Flores booting a 31-yard field goal. Eastern came right back with a touchdown on their next attempt when Dale Patton went over the goal line from the three-yard line. This touchdown drive ended first half scoring with Eastern on top 17-0.

The first half statistics were heavily in favor of Eastern. The Colonels picked up 15 first downs to six for the Govs. Eastern had twice as much total offense as did the Peay.

As the third quarter began, Austin Peay hustled back to the field determined toward the victory.

Don Derrick, speedy defensive back for Austin Peay, dropped back to receive Eastern's second point of the day. Derrick took the ball, lowered his head and began running for daylight.

The blocking wall was in place to give last year's punt return leader in the OVC enough room to pick up his first touchdown return. The extra point attempt was blocked, but Austin Peay was on the board, 17-6.

With five minutes left in the third quarter, the Colonels began to drive. On second and goal to go from the eight-yard line, quarterback Ernie House put the ball into the air for Eastern, only to have it picked off by APSU's Joe Grimsley's interception in the endzone. This proved to be a turning point for the Govs.

The Peay took over at their own 20-yard line, for the start of the final period. Christopher began en-

What's Missing?

Answers Sought

What does Austin Peay State University mean to the students who attend it? Is this university merely a four or five year drudge to the people who pay to enroll in this institution of higher education? Do the students care about the things that make APSU tick?

"The All State" does not know the answers, but we do have plenty of questions prompted by recurring inconsistencies.

The student who does not feel that he has been "shafted" at some time in his college career is rare indeed. But even rarer, is the student who takes his claim to a higher court in an effort to rectify the situation.

In fact, another interesting question rears its head. Do students know the options they have when they believe they have received an unfair grade?

Would they rather complain, or are some students bold enough that they would go to the chairman of the department or to the dean of their particular college?

Do any of Austin Peay's some 4,000 students manifest some inkling of pride in their school?

Do students care that the university received almost $3 million over the past summer? Do they care how this money will be used?

How do students feel about the food service on this campus? Do they grumble about soggy French fries, or do they take the French fries back to the counter and talk with Saga food service director Paul Knight?

Would a student complain that the Student Government Association does nothing? Would he scream that the homecoming election rules are unfair, or would he attend an SGA meeting, have a talk with SGA president Bill Boyd, run for an office or even bother to vote in an SGA election?

Do students complain that they never see anything in the student newspaper about their organization or topics of interest, or do they write a letter to the editor, offer to write an article or even inform the newspaper of coming events?

These questions came about last week when one staff member remarked, "You know, there's something missing at Austin Peay."

Although it was the general consensus of the staff that the statement was correct, it was rather difficult to pinpoint exactly what it was that was missing.

Could the missing ingredient be attributed to student apathy?

No, apathy wasn't at fault, because apathetic people wouldn't even bother to complain. Obviously, Austin Peay students do complain.

It was something that the fraternities and sororities have. The football and basketball teams and the marching band were abundant in it.

What was it?

Austin Peay State University lacked—a sense of unity.

If it is true that people come to Austin Peay because they could not go elsewhere, and if that is the reason they stay; if people go to college because they do not have anything better to do for four years.....

Perhaps we should forget about the subject and be thankful that we do not have the campus unrest so prevalent in the 1960's.

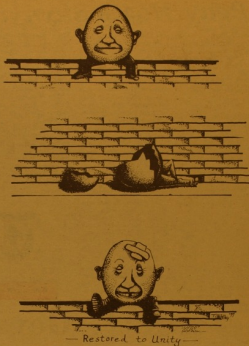

No solutions or inspiration ideas came forth from the discussion, but one truth was realized.

A sense of unity, if there is to be one, will have to come from the student body, and it will be so rapidly infectious that visiting high school seniors will not be immune from the contagion.

All in all, the whole situation is very ironic.

Were it not for the students, no university could exist. Only students can demand changes. In short, students ARE Austin Peay State University.

If they only realized....

Printing Of Letters Justified

Some clarification is necessary in regard to the letters to the editor appearing in the Sept. 28 issue of this newspaper. Individuals connected with Austin Peay State University have expressed attitudes of extreme distaste and disbelief that "The All State" would permit such letters to appear in print.

Three letters advocating homosexuality were received by the stated deadline. The first letter, subtly contained one line which could have been interpreted as advertising for a "gay" bar. It was the opinion of the editorial staff that particular letter did not meet the specifications for appearing in the letters to the editor feature, and that letter did not run.

However, two additional letters were received which "The all State" felt did meet the specifications. Both letters contained less than 300 words, were legibly written, did not contain scandalous or libelous material, and both letters were signed and verified by telephone.

Requests that the authorship of those letters be withheld were honored.

At this time, "The All State" will take no stand on the personal issue of homosexuality versus heterosexuality; however, we feel that persons of the university community should know why those letters were printed.

"The All State" is, in essence, the student newspaper of Austin Peay State University. It is a medium for expression of views held not only by students, but also faculty, staff, administrators, alumni and former students.

To decide that a letter meeting editorial specifications may not appear in print merely because individual members of the staff may not advocate the stand taken in the letter would constitute censorship in our opinion.

Morality is not the issue. Freedom of speech and the right of the individual are the issues. We do not make the news; we just report it.

How can an organization which stands for freedom of the press deny an individual the right to express his or her views?

The letters were also judged not to constitute obscenity.

Editorial comment that is the opinion of "The All State" staff appears only on this page. Views expressed on other pages of the newspaper are not necessarily the opinion of the editorial staff.

It is vital that individuals have at their availability a medium for expression, not a newspaper that censors its own readers with unfounded justification.

Murphy To See Snack Bar

By Allen Schubert

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last week we saw Mark Murphy meet members of The Party and The Other Party on the campus of the Diversity of Apoplexy.

Mark Murphy entered the snack bar.

"Hey, Mark Murphy! Over here," hissed the little man eating a chili dog.

"Are you the one who sent me the note in my post office box?" asked Mark.

"Yes," said the little man. "And tilt your head a little more. I want to see your eyes, not your nostrils."

Mark tilted his head. "What's all this about 'investigating'?"

"I'm not smart enough to."

"I know," said the little man. "Some chili dripped onto the table. You're here on a Special Education Scholarship (SES) from the Telephone Company, and you have the lowest scores of anybody in this school on the admissions tests."

"I'm not as dumb as that."

"Maybe not, but no one will suspect you of being Secret Investigation Chief."

"But what am I supposed to investigate?"

"Several things. They're all tied together. Like why Greek organizations are dwindling in size. Is it because the Boy Scouts are drafting our students? Or why are former professors of physics teaching aerocy?"

Or why are there two of everything on campus. Two administrations, two of every department, two student government parties. You know, This Party and The Other Party."

"Yes," said Mark. "Sounds like more fun than studying."

"And most of all," continued the little man, "I want you to find out why I am vice president of the Student Government Association (SGA), since I do not belong to This Party, The Other Party or the Compromise Party. I didn't even run for vice president."

"Ah, so the soup thickens."

"Flat," you mean."

"No. I mean soup. Your chili is drying up."

"Huh? Oh! The little man finished his chili dog and licked his fingers."

"Anyway, our computers selected you for the job because no one would suspect a naive freshman, especially one so seemingly dumb as you."

"Sounds good," said Mark. "But what do I get out of it?"

"How about free meals at all campus restaurants?"

"Great. Sounds good to me."

"Hmm. The 'puters were right."

"Huh?"

"Nothing. I've got to go now. Look in your mailbox for further messages."

"Yeah, sure," said Mark. The little man left Mark and toddled to the counter to order another chili dog.

Panama Controversy Questioned

The Panama Canal issue is controversial both nationally and internationally. Where do members of the university community stand on this controversy?—senior.

To answer this question, one would have to conduct a comprehensive poll. There may be an easier solution. The Laurel Wreath Society, in conjunction with the Political Science Association, is considering sponsorship of a Panama Canal colloquium. The colloquium, if it becomes a reality, will probably be scheduled for Oct. 14 or 15.

The details are murky but should be clarified soon. Until then, all interested persons should contact the Laurel Wreath Society, P.O. Box 6131 in the University

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Friday, Oct. 7, the Red Cross and Alpha Phi Omega will sponsor the fall quarter blood drive.

Alpha Phi Omega will award its semi-annual plaque to the organization that donates the most blood.

The current holder of the award is Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. We want to encourage the Pikes to try for the plaque again and encourage other organizations to try to win the plaque away from the Pikes.

The goal for this quarter will be 150 pints, and with everyone's support, we will be able to reach it. Please give.

Dear Editor:

I am saddened by the Name Withheld's letter. I hope he is incorrect in stating that homosexuals are the majority on this campus.

Sodom, Gomorrah, ancient Greece and the Roman Empire had high density homosexual populations. Isn't it possible to learn from history?

If Name Withheld is correct, he is still wrong. There is a great difference between normal and average. We can make laws and break laws as men, but as created beings we are subject to the laws of our creator.

I challenge all APSU students, staff and faculty to study the first chapter of the books of Romans. Homosexuality is no longer considered deviant by many doctors, psychologists and legislators.

But our God says that it is sin. God has two cures for sin: death or life. "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Romans 6:23.

Please decide soon. I would be happy to discuss this matter with anyone.

Austin Peay Displays Fossils

Bones of ancient vertebrates that once lived in Tennessee and are now fossilized are on display in the Woodward Library at Austin Peay State University.

The exhibit will be on display until Oct. 20, according to Dr. James X. Corgan, chairman of the department of geology.

These fossils come from four sites and were collected by APSU geology students. Two of the sites are located in Maury County and the other two are in Decatur County.

The first Maury County site was discovered in 1974 when miners found ancient bones in a phosphate pit near Darks Mill. This site yielded remains of mastodon, ground sloth and turtle.

Bones were described by Corgan in a Tennessee Academy of Science report published in 1975. Remains from this site are the largest items on display.

The second Maury County site is in a cave located near McCains. Cave sediments have yielded the bones of mastodon, a large cat, bison and ground sloth, as well as teeth and bones not yet identified.

Both Decatur County sites are located along Interstate 40 near the eastern Decatur County line. At the first site, bones of a very large, ancient marine reptile have been found. Some pieces of the backbone of one of these giant reptiles, a mosasaur, are in the display. Sharkteeth and remains of bony fishes have also been found at the site.

The second Decatur County site has a rich organic content, mainly poorly fossilized plant material. This site yields some of the oldest Amber (fossilized plant resin) known from anywhere in the world, according to Corran.

The two Decatur County sites are older than the Maury County sites. The Decatur County sites are roughly 70-90 million years old, while the Maury County sites are between 10-50 thousand years old.

Many other vertebrate fossil sites are in Tennessee. Corgan's latest book, "Vertebrate Fossils of Tennessee," which is also part of the display, lists known sites and provides aid for those who are interested in studying the vertebrate past of Tenn.

Stricter Regulations

CWSP Changes Made

New proposals affecting both institutions of higher education and students participating in the College Work Study Program (CWSP) have been announced by the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Office of Education.

The CWSP, authorized by the amended Higher Education Act of 1965, awards grants to schools and colleges which, in turn, find jobs for needy students.

Employment may be on campus or in off-campus locations with a nonprofit organization such as a day care center or hospital.

Eighty per cent of the student's wages are paid with federal funds, and employers make up the rest.

The CWSP is one of the three campus-based student financial aid programs funded by the federal government.

The other two are the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) program which provides low-interest loans to needy students and the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) program which gives outright grants to students in extreme financial need.

The regulations for the CWSP propose several major changes in the operation of the program.

For one thing, they would simplify and shorten the application procedure for participating colleges and schools, with funding requests based on actual figures from the past year rather than on estimations.

Another change in the regulations would affect a student who works a second job along with the work-study assignment. If the income from the second job in combination with a student's other resources totals more than $200 over his needs for college, the institution may either reduce his assistance or count the extra earnings as part of next year's resources.

Once the $200 limit is reached, the institution may continue to employ the student in his work-study job, but the school must pay the total cost of his employment without the federal share.

The new regulations also state that a student studying abroad in a program connected with his "home" institution may not pay travel costs or higher tuition fees, for example, with funds received from any of the campus-based programs or from the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) program.

In addition to the CWSP the regulations deal with the new Job Location and Development program. This program, authorized by the Education Amendments of 1976, will help colleges establish or expand programs to locate or develop jobs for students.

Institutions will be able to use 10 per cent of their CWSP funds, up to a limit of $15,000, for this purpose.

SGA Report

Bunnell, Webster, Resign

By PAT PHILLIPS

This year's second meeting of the Student Government Association Senate, held Thursday evening was marked by the resignation of two long time members.

John Bunnell resigned his position as secretary of legislative affairs, and Patti Webster resigned her junior class senate seat.

Both had been active members of the SGA since 1975. The senate approved Pat Phillips as secretary of student relations by acclamation.

A bill creating the position of secretary of state was passed unanimously on its second reading.

SGA President Bill Boyd, who had traveled to Columbia to attend a State Board of Regents meeting with Dr. Charles Boehme, SGA adviser, said at a prior meeting that he planned to appoint Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature head delegate Alan Hall to fill the slot.

Van Higgins, sophomore class vice president, addressed the senate and stressed SGA unity. Higgins also urged that senators act professionally during their deliberations. Bunnell introduced a bill requesting approval of the Tae Kwon Do Club constitution. The martial arts organization is to be headed by Tony Pratt, a junior transfer student from Volunteer State Community College.

Questions were raised by sophomore senator Larry Guest, about a potential conflict with the martial arts club that was chartered by the SGA last year.

Pratt's club will be voted on tomorrow when the bill's second reading is slated.

Election rules for homecoming queen were read for the first time.

Assuming his duties until a replacement can be found, Bunnell, election board chairperson, said that the bill contains no major changes from last year's election rules.

Some of our classrooms aren't classrooms.

Military science courses are courses in leadership, management and military procedure. You'll learn how to manage people, to handle money and equipment. But you'll get more than just the classroom theory. You'll experience it.

So when you study map reading and land navigation, be ready to get your boots dirty in activities like rappelling, orienteering or river-rafting. When you study communications, plan on communicating. And when you study weapons, expect to qualify at the rifle range.

Then, when you decide to enter advanced ROTC courses as a junior, plan on applying everything you've learned at a six-week summer leadership camp.

Military science courses offer you challenges. Physical as well as mental. To prepare you for leadership responsibility as an Army officer when you graduate.

If that's the kind of challenge and experience you're looking for, you're the kind of student we're looking for.

ARMY ROTC. LEARN WHAT IT TAKES TO LEAD.

Trainer Returns Home

There are two things that a person wants to do after graduation, you either want to join the staff of your school or you want to go back as an opponent and beat 'em bad." Jeff Daniel explained when he received the game ball from team captain Bob Bible following the Austin Peay Governors come from behind upset over Eastern Kentucky. "We beat 'em bad."

Daniel, a 1975 graduate of the University, served as graduate assistant trainer for Eastern. His life lie deep in Eastern, but he was no beef of his favorite team. He was for Austin Peay all the way. Daniel professed. "This has rank as one of my biggest thrills in life."

Many of the players were at Eastern when Daniel left for the city. One player that Daniel knew quarterback Ernie House. In House and Daniel were best friends. The game was tough for them, but friendships are made to last. An interesting side of their friendship goes back to the night Daniel talked House into going out with his girlfriend's roommate. House went out with her, but Daniel was the most impressed. He asked her out. We aren't sure what happened to Daniel's girlfriend; however, we do know that happened to the girl who went out with House, and then went out with Daniel. The girl, now married Daniel and serves as the head of the APSU infirmary.

According to Daniel this win moves the Governors one step closer to something that no one thought they could do—win. Daniel said, "If we beat Morehead, we'll be in a strong position."

As the athletic trainer, Daniel deals with the injuries of the players on the football team. Thus far there have been no serious injuries. "I can't pinpoint the reason for the low number of injuries. It could be due to the good coaching as well as the excellent conditioning with the players giving 100 percent-100 percent of the time." Daniel concluded.

For his loyalty and enthusiasm, Daniel was presented the game ball by the team after the game. This is an honor usually reserved for the winning coach or an injured player. "As a trainer you are rewarded by doing your job right. When a trainer gets the game ball, it is a great feeling," Daniel commented. "We have the cake," Daniel stated. "Now I want the icing!"

Eleven thousand 500 persons witnessed the Austin Peay victory over Eastern Kentucky. Every time the Eastern squad made a good play, the entire stadium seemed to shake from the applause given by the fans. When the Peay went ahead for the first time until the time the final horn blew, Hanger Field was relatively silent. It was similar to the way a band director raises the band to perform. The Eastern Kentucky Colonels pulled their fans to their feet and the Austin Peay Governors sat them down.

Two Gobs Win Honor

The Beta, safety for the Governors, and Randy Tatepohl quarterback Austin Peay, passed different feelings during the Eastern Kentucky game from which two earned player of the week awards from "The All

I kept saying to myself, 'I can't write anywhere.' Eastern has to beat me," Daniel commented. "I had to do it to do our job and we could beat them. Going into any ball game, I never think we will lose," Christopher said. "If things go right we will win. If things go wrong we will lose."

Betta pulled down 14 tackles and two assists while Christopher passed the ball 25 times completing 10 for 132 yards. Betta's great number of tackles is rather unusual for a man in the position of free safety.

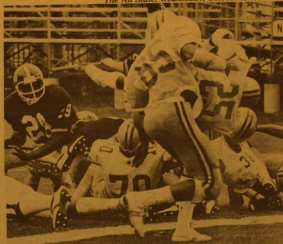

Christopher gave the credit for his good day to the offense. "Without Mike (Rose), Sid (Pritts), Russ (Aaron), Stan (Burns) and Kevin (Carter) I couldn't have completed a single pass," Christopher explained. "The offensive line is really the players of the week."

Betta was a little more vocal than his offensive counterpart. "We are playing together as a team, and if we keep playing this way we'll win."

A win this Saturday will take some pressure off us since we will be out of the league for two weeks," Betta continued. "While we play Alabama State and Nicholls State, the rest of the league will be knocking each other off."

"We must take one week at a time," Betta concluded. "We must continue to play good ball in order to keep winning."

gingering his teammates toward the score. With a series of running plays and options, the Peay marched down the field for their second touchdown of the evening.

The conversion attempt was broken up, and Austin Peay trailed 17-12. The Colonels began to feel pressure as their mistakes became more frequent. With the flow of play going their way, the Colonels initiated a drive which moved the ball to the Austin Peay 16-yard line.

Quarterback House tried to carry the ball up the middle when APSU tackle Bryan Stagg latched on to force the fumble. Stagg recovered the ball, and the Peay took over.

Christopher stuck to his game plan as he started the series with a nine-yard pass to Steve Patoff. The next pass fell incomplete. Coveak Moody came in on third and one to carry the ball 31 yards down to the Colonels' 27-yard line.

Christopher went back to the air for another nine-yarder, this time to Steve Bullard. Patoff broke free of his defenders on the next play to pull out for a fifth pass reception of the day for the Gobs' touchdown which gave them the lead.

Coach Donnelly called for a two-point conversion which proved to be yet another pass from Christopher this time to Ellis Platt. The attempt was good enough to put the Peay ahead 20-17.

Eastern, obviously surprised, made a last attempt to score from Austin Peay's 41-yard line when their kicker, Dave Flores, attempted a 51-yard field goal. The ball fell short. The Governors took over and ran the clock to preserve one of their finest wins in the history of APSU football.

Peay Remains First

By BILLY FIELDS

"I really don't know why we've done so well," Donnelly continued. "We've got a bunch of football players giving their maximum effort and getting a minimum in penalty yardage; so, we are not beating ourselves. And in many respects, we are a very lucky football team."

"I guess it's a combination of many things," Donnelly continued. "We've got a bunch of football players giving their maximum effort and getting a minimum in penalty yardage; so, we are not beating ourselves. And in many respects, we are a very lucky football team."

Surprise is a word that Donnelly avoided, although it aptly described the Gobs' win. Picked to finish last in the OVC, the Peay is now tied in first place with Morehead in the conference with a 2-0 record ahead of Tennessee Tech by a game.

The Gobs will ride one of their longest winning streaks in years into the contest Saturday against Morehead State, while the Eagles will be looking for revenge from last season. Austin Peay defeated the Eagles last season 27-13. Coming off a rather dismal season, the Eagles look to be tough against the Peay.

Morehead is coached by former Eagle star Wayne Chapman, who graduated from Morehead in 1960 and was All-OVC his last two seasons. Chapman returned to the helm of the Eagles last season after two years at the University of Tampa in Florida.

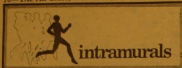

Phil Simms is the top returnee for Chapman's Eagles. Simms led the league in passing last season and is off to an excellent start this year. He could be on his way to his second 1400-yard passing season in a row.

Simms will be throwing to his favorite receiver, Eddie Bishop from the Peay offensive formation.

Bishop is making a transition from defense but has shown talent at his new found position. Dion Jenkins, a freshman, is a bright spot—a splintered from several impressive catches this fall. Last week Jenkins pulled down two Simms passes for touchdowns to beat Murray.

On defense, the Eagles depend heavily on Greg Bright, a pre-season All-OVC pick of the coaches who uses his speed to intimidate receivers. Tom Day anchors the defensive line for the Eagles at tackle. Day served as a captain last season using his 6'4" frame to stop the holes made by the opposition's offensive line. Linebacker Tom Warren returns as one of the OVC best. Overall, Morehead may be one of the strongest defensive teams around.

Morehead and the Peay are tied up for the lead of the OVC, with identical marks. Saturday will yield a leader for the league. The game begins at 1 p.m. (EST) at Morehead.

Thompson Promises Effort

Ed Thompson, newly hired Governor basketball coach, has declared that he will make every effort to continue the winning efforts begun by his predecessor Lake Kelly and improve the program where possible.

Thompson, who coached Franklin College, Ind. to seven consecutive winning campaigns, compiled a 116-96 record for the Grizzlies, and in the process, turned a team which had previously suffered five straight losing seasons into a program of championship caliber in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

The 41-year old coach graduated from Transylvania in 1958. He received the outstanding athlete award his senior year after lettering two years in basketball and baseball. After acquiring his M.Ed. degree from Georgia Southern in 1964, he became an assistant coach at the same university. He has coached basketball and tennis as well as basketball during his career.

Thompson made it clear that he intends to "maintain and further improve the program," but that he was not planning to run a "basketball factory." Coaches get satisfaction from seeing their players graduate," he said. "I'd like to see our players graduate on time."

Coach Thompson is optimistic about the fighting Governors' upcoming season despite the losses of five veteran players and three recruits. "We're going to adjust the offense and defense to the personnel we have and hope that the team will give themselves and the staff a maximum chance to employ our philosophy as then again whether it's good or bad."

The Gove's begin practice on Oct. 15 with the regular season starting Nov. when the Governors face the Rebels of Belmont at Dann Center.

The Lady Governors facing the tennis team from Sewanee last Wednesday, posted four out of six wins in singles and one out of three in doubles. APSU President Dr. Robert O. Riggs was among the spectators out to see the team as they opened their fall tennis schedule.

The APSU team consists of Diana Scott, Linda Koch, Marcia Woodward, Mary Covington, Pam Rose, Tina Brown and Mary Gossett.

Larry Denyes, women's tennis coach, stated that the teammates were "pretty evenly matched." He has been working with them only one week and has observed "good attitudes and a willingness to work."

Denyes expressed his aim to work with APSU netters (netterettes?) in strategy and tactics. He added that he will continue experimenting with doubles combos to determine the most advantageous duo.

Sewanee coach Pam Lampley ranked Lynn Jones and Amy St. John as their one and two netters. Both easily won their matches against Scott (6-0, 6-2) and Koch (6-2, 6-2) respectively.

APSU netterettes face Tennessee Tech at APSU at 2 p.m. today.

Despite the score, the Austin Peay women's volleyball team played well in losing to Murray State University 15-0 and 15-2, while the Lady Gobs were dropped by Southeastern Missouri 15-3 and 15-7 at Murray, Ky.

The loss came after the squad practiced a full week without their coach Betty Williams who was hospitalized with a minor illness. Women's athletic director Lea Larson filled in for Williams until her discharge from the hospital Monday afternoon.

The APSU volleyball team travels to the UT Invitational Tournament at Martin, Oct. 7 and 8 returning to face Fisk and Lambuth on Wednesday, Oct. 10 at 6 p.m. in the Dunn Center.

Coach Lea Larson reports the linkswomen teed off against Purdue Friday and Saturday while suffering four inches of rain. She stated the hitting was better than the scores reflected.

Gigi Armstrong shot a 96 and a 97, while Sue Fazio shot a 90 and a 101.

Orienteering... It's an old sport recently added to the Olympics. It's like running cross-country with compass and map as your guide. Contestants race against the clock, navigating through unfamiliar terrain. At each hidden control point, they punch a special mark on their score cards to prove they've been there.

Orienteering is rapidly expanding in the United States. Because Army ROTC is introducing it on many college campuses. It's one way our students practice the "land navigation" theory they learn in class.

Many Army ROTC courses and extracurricular activities offer you the same kind of challenge as orienteering. To prepare you, mentally and physically, for your leadership position as an Army officer when you graduate.

If you're looking for a challenge, in college and afterwards, you'll find some of it out running in the woods.

The university infirmary has the capability to test for syphilis but not for gonorrhea. Therefore, venereal disease tests, in order to be more thorough are conducted at the health department, which has more comprehensive testing facilities.

Also, family planning services, which are not provided at APSU infirmary, are available at the health department. The department is situated at Haynes Street beside the Memorial Hospital and is open from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Presently, the university infirmary averages 20 to 30 cases per day. About 10 of these occur during clinic. Although infrequently utilized, clinic offer medical doctor supervision of allergy injections if the students bring their vaccines to the morning session.

Beginning this week throat cultures can be taken at the infirmary. This makes the prescribing of antibiotics possible.
