

"Dracula" Appears Today In Auditorium

Austin Peay State College has been selected as a recipient of an Associates Finance Scholarship for the coming year.

The establishment of the Associates Finance Educational Fund was announced recently by D. W. Maddox, president of Associates Finance Corporation, Nashville. This fund will award annual scholarships and grants to various colleges and universities in Middle Tennessee, North Alabama and Southern Kentucky.

The scholarship for the 1962-63 year will amount to $100.00. The scholarship is to be awarded to a young man majoring in the field of business administration or intern arts. The recipient may be an in-state or out-of-state student. L. Escobedo II, APSC president, was presented the check by Paul Rogers of the Clarksville Associates Finance Corporation, 314 N. Second Street.

APSC Expresses Ladle Gratitude

The students and faculty of Austin Peay State College with publicity to thank Miss Marie Higgins for the silver ladle which she recently presented to the college.

The ladle, which Miss Higgins gave to the college through Miss Bertha Cayce, is to be used by the students at various social functions.

The gift will be inscribed. "Presented by Miss Marie Higgins to the faculty and students of Austin Peay State College, August, 1961."

Music Group Meets Here

Between 400 and 500 outstanding music educators from all over Tennessee were at Austin Peay State College March 13 for the state meeting of the Tennessee Music Educators Association.

Registration was held in the Clement Fine Arts Building March 13. A concert was held in the auditorium that night, beginning at 7:30. The Choir, Brass Choir, Clarinet Choir and Concert Band of the college took part in the concert.

Among the important music people present were Beth Crook, University of Delaware; Dan Jacory, guest soloist who has been at APSC before; Reginald Kelli, clarinetist; Dr. Charles L. Gary, former head of the APSC Music Department and present assistant executive secretary of the Music Educators National Conference; Dr. Cliff Barmeister, Northwestern University; Frank Pierrel, Iowa State University; and Dr. J. Clark Rhodes, University of Tennessee.

Gary delivered the address at the convention banquet in the Governors Room of Hotel Montgomery the night of March 2.

Dracula has been described by critics as a play for people who like their coffee strong, and 8 to 9 o'clock strong.

There is no mistake about this thriller being of the type that will shock the dampness of players who like thrilling plays. It deals with the supernatural and there is no awkward explanation at its conclusion.

Nor 'Without Discipline'

BY HERB NASH

A statement beginning "Just as the child is brought up on psychology only and without discipline..." was recently made on campus. This erroneous concept concerning discipline in the psychological development of children is not accepted by most modern psychologists and psychiatrists today.

There is some basis for this misconception, which is held by many parents and others, and this can be attributed to some extent to Sigmund Freud, one of the most controversial figures in the field of psychology and psychoanalytic theory. Suffice it to say that much of Freud's theory has not been adopted outright by modern psychology and psychiatry, and some of his theory has been superseded by new concepts, this being a process of evolution, prevalent in the advancement of all sciences.

Freud maintained that discipline exists then frustration to the child, and that extreme frustration is a precipitating factor in the incidence of maladjustment. He did not, however, offer a solution or substitute for discipline.

Most psychologists believe that

Players who visit the Austin Peay State College Playhouse March 7, 8 and 9 to witness the performance of the Dracula will go away with the satisfaction of having had more thrills than ever before in their lives inside of a theatre. The great vampire play, Dracula, is a real thriller that, speaking literally, has raised hair proper discipline has a definite place in guiding the child's growth. It is probably as fallacious to assume that a child can develop into a psychologically and socially normal adult without discipline as it is to assume that a society can exist without it.

The adults in our society must bring the upcoming generations into harmony with the established and accepted ways of the group. But psychologists do believe that there are proper and improper methods by which this preparation is to be accomplished.

Inconsistent discipline will make it difficult for the child to develop stable values for guiding his behavior. When severe discipline is applied it may have a variety of effects, among which are hatred and fear of the punishing person, and later fear of or hatred of oneself in authority. The home which has no discipline produces a spoiled, inconsistent child, an insecure child who cannot cope with society's demands.

When psychology is applied to the rearing of children discipline must be present. It must be firm and consistent but most important of all this discipline must be administered with a "heartful place" of love, understanding and acceptance.

on millions of scalps since the date of its original production in England several years ago. It has been playing ever since, to say nothing of the long run it has enjoyed in the United States.

These Austin Peay State students included in the cast are: Warren Chaney as Professor Van Helsing; Kay Clark as Lucy Seward; Billy St. John as Dr. Seward; Billy Vaughan as Renfield; Judy Diaz as Mina; Wayne Johnson as Johnathan Harker; Murray Hawkins as Butterworth.

Dracula, which is under the direction of John G. Griffin, will be presented in the Clement Fine Arts Auditorium with a curtain time of 8 p.m. on March 7, 8 and 9, and a matinee at 2 p.m. on March 7.

APSC Grads Get Awards

Two former APSC students received awards in February from the Joint Chamber of Commerce.

Robert D. Patton, who did his graduate work at APSC, was named the county's Outstanding Male Teacher. He was also named in the state competition. Patton is a biology instructor at Clarksville High School.

Ben Searley, who went to APSC several years, was named Outstanding Young Farmer of the county. He has managed a 520-acre family farm with his father from 1954 to 1958 and by 1959 was presented to him by Bill Pickering, a recent graduate of APSC.

Statistics Open For Students' Study

During the Winter Quarter, sample groups of students have been involved in the college self-study which is being conducted for the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

These groups have been asked to reply to questionnaires about almost every phase of college life in which the student is involved. The faculty committee engaged in the self-study of the Library believes that the entire student body may be interested in the results of the questionnaire about the Library. A copy of it is being published with the statistical analysis for each question.

The student body can make its own interpretation. The interpretation of the committee will be included in the published report of the self-study.

The All State Award To Be Made

Clubs are reminded again of the competition for The All State Award, to be made later this academic year. The award goes each year to the most outstanding club on campus. In 1959 and 1960, it was received by the Circle K Club. Last year, the English Club tied for the award.

Presentation of the honor was started during the academic year 1958-59 by former editor Doug Stone. The purpose of the annual presentation was then and still is to encourage more active organizations at Austin Peay State College. The fact that the Circle K has been tops so far does not by any means indicate that no other club should feel it has no chance of winning. In fact, there are at least several clubs on campus which would have a good chance if they would improve their club pride and their accomplishments.

It may frequently be true that the most outstanding club is one of those which are seldom thought of being outstanding; this may be because the club accomplishes its purposes quietly, without a lot of show. It is commendable for a club's members to be so proud of it that they continually tell others about its existence and what it is doing. Any club member who is a member for the proper reason should be proud of his club.

There are, of course, some club members who join clubs for the obvious reason of being able to say they belong to those clubs. Americans are great joiners. But, just joining is fine—but if a person joins a club he should do something for the club instead of only trying to steal some honor from being a member. Students should join clubs for what they can do for the club and for what they can get out of the club by putting something into it. They should be willing to put something into the club; they should realize that the only true reward they can receive is the satisfaction of doing that which a worthy project succeeded because of their help.

Such is not so, however, of the club "joiner." He may join a club just to take it for all he can and give little or nothing in return. Every club has its inactive members and even our own Circle K is no exception, although it has fewer than most others. The Circle K has expelled one member for not even attending the meetings, much less taking part in any of the projects. If some clubs on campus were to establish a rule that for so many missed meetings, the tardy members would be cast out, they would have few left other than the president and officers—and some would have only the president remaining.

The "joiners" do not injustice to the club and to the active members. Every time a member misses a meeting or fails to take part in a project, he lowers the club's rating. When a "joiner" lowers a club's rating, he means no harm to the club. But, a "joiner" who joins a club that would have no without the hangers-on.

Yet if the hangers-on are cast off, the active members are criticized for being a "clique" that runs everything. It is grossly unfair of any "joiner" to call a really interested club member a "clique member" just because the active person is earning his club membership and the other only earns the epithet hurled by a former member of the cabinet of the United States President.

We do not urge any club to purify itself of these "joiners." Each club has the right to make or break its club. It is up to each club to establish its standards, and then they shall surely fall by the wayside. The point we wish to make is that all clubs have this "joiner" drawback, but the winner of The All State Award this year shall have done more to combat it than have other APSC clubs.

I wish to state that I stand on neutral ground in the contention between the columnists. I stand on neither ground. I'm a coward. I don't dislike anybody. (Do you hear that, J and D?) I don't care whether it's karate, judo, jujitsu or tumbling. It's immaterial to me whether I perish by the foot or by the hand. See Breakfast tonight. Unless, of course, you happened to make the scene a month ago tonight.

Speaking of Drugs, the Count in Drugs made a trip down to the blood bank recently. Declined to donate blood for a change, instead of donating it, as is his usual custom. Can't you just picture walking into the blood bank and saying, "I'm a coward. I don't care whether I perish by the foot or by the hand. See Breakfast tonight. Unless, of course, you happened to make the scene a month ago tonight."

We all enjoyed tremendously the Wunderbar performance in assembly. We had to wait three months for an encore to the little show that wasn't bad. It was worth it. Some provision should be made to have these felicitous publicize our school. They could produce.

Hawkins Gets Meaningful Title

We extend hearty congratulations to Murray Hawkins, who has been selected "Man of the Month" for March. Mr. Hawkins is a young man and he should go far in this world, as he has gone far in this college. This title is not a meaningless one since it can only be awarded to those who are outstanding persons at the college.

Deadline for April Fool Copy is March 8

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In today's issue of the paper you are publishing a statistical analysis of the questionnaire on the library administered to a sample group of students to determine the attitude of the respondents. I am a member of the library committee conducting the self-study of the library. As the person primarily charged with the responsibility to see that the program of the library advances instead of retards the education of the students, I am interested in whatever constructive criticism can be offered by the student body to improve the program. Therefore, I am directing this letter to the student body, via you.

Assuming that the sample taking the questionnaire offers a random selection, their answers should reflect the opinions of the entire student body. Consequently, I am especially interested in those areas which more than 10 per cent of the respondents have chosen to bring up. With any given number of respondents, the more the better. I want to think whether or not this response reflects your own opinion. If it does, then you have a responsibility to offer suggestions for the improvement of the library to serve your needs. I am interested in those suggestions.

Concerning the library collection, 25 per cent thought that the response of the library staff to the requests of the faculty and students in acquiring audio-visual materials is fair or poor. 22 per cent thought that the general collection failed to support the educational program of the college; and 27 per cent felt that in each student's major area the book collection is not adequate. Thirty-one per cent responded that the periodical collection in major subject areas failed to support the educational program of the college. This is a shame since much must be discussed with your faculty. The policy of the library in building audio-visual materials has been to rely completely on faculty requests. Books, films, recordings, periodicals are all purchased on the basis of requests from the faculty. If the items can be purchased. Whenever the budget has been increased in the past, the number of titles acquired has been increased. A larger budget means a faster growing collection. The responsibility of the materials is a primary responsibility of the faculty; the quality will improve also.

In response to inquiry about the services of the library, the range was from 15 per cent to 30 per cent in reporting services are less than adequate. The material and services of the library for class preparation were felt inadequate by 18 per cent; 20 per cent of the students felt they were not made available in the library. 25 per cent replied that the rules and regulations of the library were inadequate. 30 per cent reported good study habits; 25 per cent believe the hours the library is open are inadequate; and 16 per cent felt that the loan periods for books also were inadequate. 25 per cent felt that the library was not adequate by 12 per cent, and student use by 30 per cent. Both the staff and administration of the college realize that student and faculty use of the library is not adequate. The library is a service that the services meet the needs of the user. Neither policies nor practices can be adjusted to meet the requirements of a single individual, but specific suggestions for each individual can be made. A personal adjustment which will benefit the majority or may gain the individual an explanation why such a change cannot be.

Student use of the library may also reflect the degree to which the library is providing the services to the maximum use of library services. Thirty-nine per cent reported that the study facilities for students and the work space are inadequate. Just to be sure, the library is not making any plans for expanding the physical plant by an addition or new building. Specific study habits and preferences should be allowed to allow planning, whenever possible, to meet these.

Hence, this letter, I remind you that we are interested in the details supporting your answers and opinions. Please communicate them in person or in writing to me, any member of the library staff, or the committee members making the self-study of the library. You will gain our thanks.

It Happened In Read and Tell

MARCH

BY VALINDA HOOK

Occasionally students like to go back into literary history and pick up a volume that has intrigued them in the past.

Works of Plato is such a volume. That Plato's works have something to offer modern students should be recognized. Plato's writings are unique in literature as well as in philosophy. The use is made of the dialogue form of writing both in a literary and a philosophical sense. Dramatic thoughts are whispered to every reader.

Beauty, goodness, knowledge, truth — on these intangibles Plato hints at the beginning of understanding. The values and ideas are so symmetrical. Both knowledge and virtue are given broad meanings.

The Republic exemplifies most of the Platonic considerations. It is a story of the life which each individual and each society forms its appropriate function. The Republic is the first Utopia. The importance of the education of the rulers of the proposed Utopia are emphasized.

Not only are there literary classics but their entire extensive contributions. Such a one is A. E. Taylor's: Plato: The Man and His Work. This volume is a study of the life of Plato's philosophy and extends the interpretations of Plato's philosophy.

Knowledge of existing literary classics is an almost must for modern students. In many ways Plato deserves first choice.

College Doesn't Want Composition Courses

Ann Arbor, Mich. — I. P. — "The day is not far distant at The University of Michigan when we can cease to require freshman composition courses designed to bring the first-year student up to a 'reasonable level' in writing," says Prof. Warner G. Rice, chairman of the Department of English.

"As the quality and general preparation of students admitted to the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts improve . . . we may expect the competence in the skills of communication possessed by our freshmen to improve. We get an increasing number of honor students each year. We offer more special sections for the superior student each year. We exempt a larger percentage from the second semester course each year," Dr. Rice declared, pointing out that he was speaking for the Department of English only.

The English Department has found it unnecessary to offer remedial reading courses. Dr. Rice said because "there are no gross faults which need laborious correction in the writing of most freshmen, and we may expect their competence to be even higher as the years pass, as composition tests, as teaching improves and as teachers are given more time to do their work properly."

The Department expects to make increasing use of proficiency tests which help high school students and teachers establish definite standards of achievement.

Though elimination of required freshman English is not seen for next week, next month, or next year, Dr. Rice remarked, "the end of it as a requirement may help to focus attention on the real problem - the provision of constant discipline and practice in writing throughout the college career."

"A situation like that which prevails in some colleges and universities where students write perhaps 20,000 words in a freshman course and only about 4,000 to 5,000 in all the rest of their courses before graduation, does not produce good writers."

"And so we are proposing that the whole college (LSA) - perhaps in due time the whole University - will cooperate in the improvement of writing," Dr. Rice said. Writing skills is the expectation that such a committee will find ways of enlisting many teachers, in many departments, in this endeavor.

"Statistics can be used to support anything—including statisticians!"

Know the Word; Help Yourself

This week we continue a new game, vocabulary building.

Readers are asked to help with their own education and, at the same time, have a little fun. They are asked either to supply from present knowledge or to look up in a good dictionary each of the following words or terms, being sure that, whenever possible, they have both a common definition and a specialized one.

They are reminded that familiarity with such a word as biceps, for example, does not necessarily mean that they have a clear understanding of the several senses of the word. In short, our readers are urged to study the derivations of words as well as their definitions.

This list comes from the Biology Department. It contains expressions that any decently educated person should know.

A copy of the word lists used in each issue will be available at the reference desk in the library.

This list is as follows: Camulism, chlorophyll, metabolism, photophosphorylation, neuron, protoplasm, pollen, mitosis, chromosome, antibody, bryophyte, emesis, epithelium, esophagus, pulmonary, biceps, diastole, molar, primate, trachea.

Hawkins In Top Slot

Backstage in the Clement Fine Arts Auditorium, I recently had an interview with an English chap, Butterworth (better known around Austin Peay State College as Richard Murry Hawkins Jr., "Man of the Month" for March).

Murry has dignified himself as an Englishman for the sake of art. He has a role in Dracula, the Playhouse's new production. The play is scheduled to open tonight in the auditorium.

After attending Vanderbilt University his freshman year, Murry transferred to APSU. Now a junior enrolled in general studies, he plans to do graduate work in banking and eventually enter that profession.

Hep over music, Murry spends much of his time rehearsing with the Wanderers, a folk singing group. His group recently performed in the college assembly. Around campus he is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha, music fraternity; Baptist Student Union; Circle K Club and, of course, the Playhouse. Off campus he belongs to the Clarksville Civic Theatre and the Vanderbilt chapter of the social fraternity Phi Kappa Sigma. He can often be heard singing "Let's Have A Party."

In addition to being a full-time student, he has a part-time job at the Northern Bank in Clarksville. He is also a Boy Scout master.

When he has leisure time, he most likely goes duck hunting, fishing, water skiing or all three.

Attention, all girls who read this column (I wonder if any do), his colorful "pet poems" in girls who yawn on dates. Girls, don't you know that's a sign of boredom? The All State staff sincerely hopes that Murry's dates will heed this warning.

Karate Chop Boys

In the last issue of The All State, the notorious badmen of the Austin Peay State College campus took a stab at the sports editor; they seemed to have been pierced in their own pride. In the last issue of The All State, it was written that our boys were fakes and that Henry Slomanski, the director of the local health club and one of the most prolific karate men in the world, had denounced the local "experts" to such a degree that their pride, as well as their ego, were damaged extensively.

They decided to put their heads together and come up with a bit of slander on the sports editor, and at this meeting of minds came the prose which appeared in the last issue of The All State. To this, I would like to let the students of Austin Peay State know that the local chapter of so-called karate or kudo experts, which ever they claim to be, is nothing more than a neophyte organization seeking publicity and recognition through The All State, and when the truth was printed about them it rubbed against their surfaces and the results were evident in the last issue of the campus bi-monthly.

I would like to say to our famous karate chop boys, who have recently shown their excellence not only in breaking soft pine boards but in writing as well, that the matter is considered as a small one to me and the sports staff and we consider the matter officially dropped as of now. One other item to the "experts": It has been said many times that "The pen is mightier than the sword," but we would like to add here (and quite appropriately, I think) that "The pen is mightier than the karate chop."

Governors End Campaign

The Austin Peay State College Governors ended their regular seasonal schedule on a sour note, losing their final two lifts, but as a whole the season was a highly successful one. The Governors managed to bring the annual campaign to a halt with a 12-11 overall mark and a Western Division championship for the fifth consecutive year. The Governors ended the conference play with the top mark in the division, finishing 8-2 and edging second place finisher Belmont of Nashville, who ended the campaign with a 6-4 overall mark in conference play.

The Governors were paced during the regular season title race by the leithander from Morton's Gap, Ky., "Gunner Jim" threw in 175 field goals and 105 free throws for a total of 541 points and an excellent average of 23.4 per contest.

During the course of the regular seasonal play the Governors were outscored by their opponents from the field by 1,663 to 1,652. This is one of the reasons why the Governors were forced to win many of their contests at the charity line, where they outshot their opponents 484-446. The "Big Red" ended the seasonal play with a 734 percentage of their shots from the charity line and a .406 shooting percentage from the floor. The Governors managed to grab more rebounds than their rivals, hauling down 1,157 to 1,053 for the year. Another category in which the Governors outdid their opponents was the personal foul department. The Governors were guilty of 471 personals while the opponents committed 459 violations.

The Governors were outscored in total point output for the season. The "Big Red" threw in 1,861 points while they allowed their opponents to pump 1,892 through the nets.

One point of interest in the seasonal statistics is the fact that the Governors averaged 81.3 points per ballgame while their opponents were out front with an 82.66 average per tilt.

The Governors managed to go over the century mark on two occasions this year. The first time the Goves managed to pour in more than 100 was in Jonesboro, Ark., against Intercollegiate for Arkansas State, when they poured in 101 points and still managed to lose the contest to the Arkansas boys who were able to get even higher into the hundreds, scoring 114. The second time the Governors were able to top more than a century was in conference battle with arch rival Belmont of the Western Division.

The Governor opponents were able to push their totals over the century mark on four different occasions. Kentucky Wesleyan humbled the Governors with a 106 performance in the Big Red barn before a home audience. Southern Illinois added insult to in-

APSC Third In VSAC Tourney

By DON SARGENT

The Austin Peay State College Governors finished their regular seasonal play last week in the 15th annual Volunteer State Athletic Conference Tournament which opened their journey bid for the championship with a record smashing 105-66 walkup of first round for Milligan.

The win moved Coach Aaron's boys into a semi-final engagement with the UTMB Volunteers of Martin. After moving into the game after showing early shooting skill and an absence of floor mistakes, the Governors showed out front 34-17 and seemed to have the ball game under control when the Vols hit a hot streak which cut the Governor margin down to 46-22 at intermission.

In the second stanza the Governors came out too cold and could not cope with the basket busting Volunteers who outscored the Governor forces 34-25 in the final 20 minutes. The game was a hard loss for the Governors and it forced them into the consolation game on Saturday night with Tennessee Wesleyan who was a semi-final loser to the eventual champions, the Carson-Newman

Eagles, who blasted the University of Tennessee Martin branch 53-22 in the championship game later that same night.

The Governors managed to polish off the Wesleyan crew with apparent ease, 89-68. The Governors finished off their bet basketball in bumping off the east Tennessee team and they looked as if they had regained their form which they displayed in the first round contest with Milligan.

The Governors placed two of their performers on the all-VSAC tournament team. The Governors receiving the honors were seniors Dave Hunter and "Gunner" Jim Debeaux who headed the 10-man twinkle squad chosen by the coaches in the tournament.

The play in the annual tournament, which is the conclusion of the basketball season in the VSAC, saw the Governors finish with a 14-12 overall record and a 10-3 mark in the rugged VSAC.

It was overheard in the coaches' room, after the Governors had all but annihilated their first round for Milligan foe, the Vols, that BANNER sportswriter asked Coach Aaron, "What was the turning point of the ball game coach?"

Coach Aaron turned calmly and replied, "When they finished the national anthem."

Beshears Makes Season VSAC Team

Jim: Jim Pritchett, UT Peay State; Chris Jones, Carson-Newman

are the only repeaters on the 1961-62 Volunteer State Athletic Conference's basketball honor team.

In all, eight of the 12 member schools had players on the 18-man All-Conference team, selected on regular season performance by a poll of the coaches.

Carson-Newman, winner of the Eastern Division for the second straight year, and Union University each placed two players on the select group while Austin Peay State, UT Martin, Belmont, Tennessee Wesleyan, and Milligan supplied one player each.

For the second straight year the team consists of five players from each of the VSAC's two divisions as the coaches in each division picked the top five performers in the group in order of importance. The five from each division receiving the most votes were named to the 19-player team.

Named to the squad from the Western Division were: Jim Jones, Austin Peay State; Otis Griffin and Bob Pavlovich, Union University; Jim Pritchett, Belmont; and Ronnie Shearer, Belmont. Selected from the Eastern Division were: Chris Jones and 6-2 junior guard and the number two scorer on the team. An outstanding basketball prospect, he enters a 14-2 scoring average and is a very good defensive man.

PRITCHETT, UT Martin - 6-7 junior center, he is the first hometown boy to make the UT team and is the tallest player in the school's history. Averaging 14.4 rebounds per game, he is UT's number two scorer with a 15.2 average.

SHEARER, Belmont - A 6-3 workhorse, he is the Rebel rebounder. A fine rebounder and ballhandler, he scored 35 points against David Lipscomb in early January and posted 33 against Florence State in February.

JONES, Carson-Newman - A 6-3 senior guard, the blond from Newport is averaging 20 points a game and is the primary factor in Carson-Newman's second straight Eastern Division title. His top point production came against Union (Ky.) when he scored 38.

GRiffin, Union University - 6-4 senior center and the Bull-Belter leader, he rebounded with 20.1 and 12.5 averages respectively. The Bolton native set a school record against David Lipscomb when he pulled down 24 REBOUNDS.

Pavlovich, Union University - 6-4 senior center and the Bull-Belter leader, he rebounded with 20.1 and 12.5 averages respectively. The Bolton native set a school record against David Lipscomb when he pulled down 24 REBOUNDS.

ELLINGTON, Carson-Newman

A 6-3 sophomore forward, he is the Eagles' leading rebounder, and he is the leading rebounder in the entire VSAC. He led the Rebels in scoring last season, but is currently second to sensational freshman, Clarence Boedigheimer.

MILES, Tusculum - A 6-5 senior center, he is the leading rebounder in the entire VSAC. He led the Indians in scoring last season, but is currently second to sensational freshman, Clarence Boedigheimer.

HENRY, Tennessee Wesleyan - 6-3 junior forward who Coach Buddy Cole calls "the best player that I ever coached." Sporting a 20.1 average, the Hiwassee Junior College transfer is also Wesleyan's leading rebounder.

BLACK, Milligan - 6-2 senior forward sporting a 15.4 scoring average. The Indian native has been among the top 10 scorers in the VSAC all season and is one of the best all-around players in the league.

Thirteen Records Fall; Gobs Win 14 BOWLING

Thirteen records were broken by the Austin Peay State Governors during the 1961-62 season, and one other mark was tied as Coach Dave Aaron's boys finished with a 14-12 campaign.

Of the 14 records, 10 were of the individual nature and the remaining four were set by the team. Senior forward Jim Beshears commands nine of the individual records while sophomore guard Doug Stamper is the owner of the tenth.

Beshears' 511 scoring sensation Martin G. Goss, Sr., set individual single season records in (1) most points - 404; (2) best point average - 22.1; (3) most field goals - 205; and (4) most free throws - 176. Career-wise, Beshears cracked the best point average of 17.1 set by Tom Morgan by scoring 1184 in three years for a 19.7 average per shooting.

The Kentucky Woodmen also added an individual single game and Memorial Gymnasium record by its ever-growing list by attempting 32 field goals against Bethel. His other marks were the most consecutive free throws made in a single game (17 against Belmont) and a new Memorial Gymnasium mark of 41 points against Bethel.

Stamper's lone record was of the single season nature as he pegged free throws at an 84.7 clip to erase Howard Gorrell's mark.

Team-wise the Gobs scored 71 points in one half (against Arkansas State); averaged 81.4 per game; and hit free throws at a scintillating 74.4 rate, all new records. The Gobs tied the field goal percentage mark by hitting at a 41.3 clip for the year.

The 14-12 overall record compiled by the Gobs is the worst record that the Scarlet and White have posted since the 1948-49 season when the Gobs finished 7-17. Despite the fact that the Gobs finished with the 500th record in the 1961-62 season, it was their worst record in APSEC basketball history.

Champions of the Western Division of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference for the fourth straight year, the Gobs were upset by UT Martin in the first round of the VSAC Tournament but finished third by trouncing Tennessee Wesleyan 84-61. The defeat was demoralizing one as the Gobs had opened the tourney with a routing of 102-57 victory over Milligan and led UT Martin by 17 points at one time before blowing its lead by 74-57.

Final statistics on the Gobs reveal that behind Beshears' 404 points are junior Jackie Winters (279 - 18.7); Hunsinger (275 - 10.6); Stamper (218 - 10.3); and sophomore Murray Henry (210 - 8.1). Hunsinger led the squad in both the rebounding and field goal percentage departments with 10.5 and 48.0 marks respectively, as well as committing the most fouls (102). Besides Beshears' records, he also led the club in field goals attempted (506); free throws attempted (251); and shots missed (356).

With one game remaining the APSEC has been crowned as 1961-62 champion with a 19-5 record, losing to Murray State and Kentucky Wesleyan twice and to Southern Illinois once.

Gobs Drop Last Two

BY DON SARGENT

The Austin Peay State College Governors faltered late in the season and failed to cross the finish line first in either of their final two starts against strong opposition.

After knocking off powerful seventh-ranked nationally Southern Illinois University in the Big Red Barn on February 15 by a thrilling count of 63-62, the Governors were assured of finishing with a better than 500 season mark. They had to go to East Tennessee in Johnson City to play a return engagement with the Buccaneers who had dropped an earlier decision to the Governors on the Austin Peay State home floor.

The Governors grabbed the early lead in the game and led throughout most of the contest. The Buccaneers took over the lead with 3:02 minutes remaining in the game and were never to be headed again. The game ended 84-61 and finished the 1962 road campaign for the Governors.

On February 19 the Governors were home for their final engage-

The "Big Red" had built their lead to as high as 14 at one time and they seemed to be coasting to a virtually easy victory in their home finale. Then the Arkansas State Bulldogs broke back over the situation with eight minutes remaining and grabbed the lead on freshman Jim Rink's 12-foot jumper with but 11 seconds showing on the huge clock in the end of the Memorial Gymnasium.

The Governors immediately called time out and tried to set "it" up for one good shot. The shot was taken at the head of the circle by guard Jackie Winters and shot curved off to the right and the ball was tied up by the Arkansas State team. The clock ran out as the scuffle for the coveted basketball was in progress.

The final two losses finished the Governors with an overall mark of 12 wins coupled with 11 setbacks. This ends the 1961-62 basketball slate for the campaigning Governors of Coach Dave Aaron and even though the final couple of light ones it was a very good year for the red and white.

They showed their tremendous basketball ability by bumping off some of the South's best in the South, and their late season victory over the nationally-ranked Saluki's of Southern Illinois proved even further that the Governors have a fine basketball team and a wonderful coach in the person of Coach Aaron.

We would like to give our congratulations to the entire squad for a fine effort and thanks for providing the school with its sixth consecutive divisional championship of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference.

Intramural Slate Ended

The 1962 edition of the annual intramural schedule has been seasonally completed.

The league was divided into two divisions for play in the first round of the tournament. There were two outstanding winners in each of the two divisions.

In the Red League the Pounders waded through a tough field of competitors with an unblemished 5-0 mark, while in the opposite Green League the basket leading Rabbit Hunters finished atop their division with an unbeaten 5-0 record.

In the soccer department there were many stars who continually threw the ball through the hole who administered a decisive, but when the final tabulations were completed in each league, the leaders were as follows: David Satterfield of the fabulous Rabbit Hunters led both leagues with 18 points in five starts for a 3.6 average.

In the opposite Red League "Casper" Denton held the top scoring average with a fine 20.7 per tilt as he finished with 41 points in one less game than did Satterfield.

After these two leaders in each league came the boys who finished close behind but were not quite as accurate as the above mentioned sharpshooters. In the Green league Jeff Graves scored 40 points in five games for an average of 36.0. His running mate Wally Cate fired in 70 points in five contests for a 15.6 seasonal average.

Over in the Red League the scorers finishing behind Satterfield were Larry Roder of the 16.2 average on 81 points, Gary Fambrough who scored 77 marks for 15.4 average and Ken Good with 76 and a 15.2 average.

Final statistics on the Gobs reveal that behind Beshears' 404 points are junior Jackie Winters (279 - 18.7); Hunsinger (275 - 10.6); Stamper (218 - 10.3); and sophomore Murray Henry (210 - 8.1).

German Club Sponsors Films

The German Club sponsored three movies the past month.

The film which received the most interest was The Invasion of Crete, a captured German film which only recently has been reclassified by the Department of the Army. The film related the heroic moments of this dramatic event, and also showed some of the details of parachuting.

The films were available through the Fort Campbell Film Exchange. In the near future the German Club will sponsor another film from the European theater of war, The Invasion of Holland, which opened the road to Hitler's further conquests.

The German Club wishes to make viewing of the films available to everyone.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas were hosts to the German Club at their home on February 22. Mrs. Thomas served "sauerkraut and knudel," a German dish which found the approval of all members of the club.

Later, Dr. Thomas showed slides of various countries in Europe which he visited during his tour.

Library Members At Meet

Recently attending the Nashville Library Club's second annual meeting were Mrs. Rachel Chambers, cataloger, Mrs. Mamie Jean Harper and two student members of the cataloging department, Jo Anne Dismore and Martha Varble.

In the Howard School Library in Nashville a panel consisting of librarians in national, regional and state positions delivered a professional program to the Nashville club of which Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Harper are members.

Prior to attending this meeting those members of the AFSC Library staff made an extensive search in the Library of Congress Union Catalog, housed in the Joint University Library, for help in cataloging old books. This cataloging service is not available at AFSC.

Harvill Attends Meet

Halbert Harvill, AFSC president, attended a meeting March 4-7 of the Higher Education Division of the National Education Association.

Meeting with the group at Chicago, he represented AFSC and the Tennessee Education Association. He was selected by Frank Bass, executive secretary of Tennessee Education Association.

Representatives of various colleges and universities in the nation attended the meeting. The meeting is the annual higher education meeting.

Mid Term Grades Set

Redlands, Calif. (I.P.—Mid-term grades will be issued this year at the University of Redlands in an experiment that replaces deficiency reports used in past years.

"For some time it has been the feeling here that perhaps we are trying to give too many deficiency reports," said Dean of the Faculty Marc Jack Smith.

Mid-term grades will not be recorded on official transcripts, but are reported as merely progress reports. As with deficiency reports, students who are in danger of failing will be requested to talk to their counselors.

Faculty members have given two deficiency reports a semester, in addition to the final grades, to students who are failing in danger of failing or not working up to expectations. This has led faculty members to believe that the reports are not as effective as they might be.

The subject discussed was "What Is Sin?"

During the weekend of February 23-25 several students attended a missions conference of Louisville

Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Several BSUers also went on to Thursday to hear Evangelist Billy Graham speak. The theme for the conference was "To whom Shall We Go?" Those attending were Fran Hancock, Paulie Scott, Jackie Lovelint, Billy Highsmith, Linda Terrell, Carol Ann Tate, Betty Strahm, Drew Matson, Mildred Martin, John Earl East, Betty Lu Strashenfeld and adviser Patsy Middleton.

Art Club Takes Trip

On February 15, members of the Austin Peay State College Art Club made a field trip to Chicago.

The following club members were included: Mrs. Carol Condes, Mrs. Kay Whitmore, Jim Harrier, Leslie Barnett, Ronald Sutton, Owen Weston and Fred Alsop. The club sponsor, Lewis Burton, also made the trip.

The group visited the Art Institute, where they saw the Sixty-fifth Annual American Exhibit. They also visited such galleries as Collector's, Feingarten and Obischlager, seeing the work of such artists as Palazzolo, Chaffin, Erin Libby and Davidson.

Members of the Art Club made a trip to the Museum of Natural History.

SHAKESPEARE DOESN'T LIVE HERE ANY MORE

A recent and most heartening development in American college life has been the emergence of the artist-in-residence. In fact, the artist-in-residence has become so familiar a sight on campus as Latin poems, leather elbow patches, horseshoe tights, hula hoops, and Marlboro cigarettes.

And we all know how familiar that is—I mean Marlboro cigarettes. And why should it not be familiar? Why, when learning is king, where taste is sovereign, where brain power rules supreme, should not Marlboro be everyone's favorite? The same good sense that gets you through an exam in Restoration Poetry or soliloquy physics certainly does not desert you when you come to pick a cigarette. You look for a flavor that is flavorful, a filter pure and white, a choice of pack or box, a lot to like. You look, in short, for Marlboro—and happily you don't have to look far. Marlboro is available at your friendly tobacconist or vending machine, wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states and Las Vegas.

But I digress. We were speaking of the new campus phenomenon—the artist-in-residence—a man or woman who writes, paints, or composes music on your very own campus and who is also available for occasional consultations with superior students. Take, for example, William Cluett Sigfoos, artist-in-residence at the Toledo College of Bell Letters and Fingerprint Identification.

As we all know, Mr. Sigfoos has been working for many years on an epic poem in rhymed couplets about the opening of the Youngstown-Akron highway. Until, however, he went into residence at the Toledo College of Bell Letters and Fingerprint Identification, his progress was not what you would call rapid. He started well enough with the immortal couplet we all know: They sped along on wheels of rubber, rushing home in time for supper.

Then Mr. Sigfoos got stuck. It is not that his muse deserted him; it is that he became involved in a series of time-consuming episodes—a protracted lobotomy for Irene, his faithful and dog; fourteen consecutive months of jury duty on a very complicated case of overtime parking; getting his coattail caught in the door of a jet bound for Brisbane, Australia, stuff like that.

He was engaged in a very arduous job in Sandusky—posing for a sculpture of brutality—when he came from the Toledo College of Bell Letters and Fingerprint Identification to take up residence there, finish his magnus opus, and from time to time, we were given to understand, write his epic.

Mr. Sigfoos accepted with pleasure and in three short years completed the second couplet of his Youngstown-Akron Turnpike epic: The highway is made of solid concrete and at the toll station you get a receipt.

"What is truth?" and one.

Then a few gifted students came to visit him. They were a prepossessing lot—the boys with coquettish, shaggy beards; the girls also with coquettish jackets but with beards neatly braided.

"What is truth?" said one. "What is beauty?" said another. "Should a writer live first and write later or should he write and do a little living in his spare time?" said another.

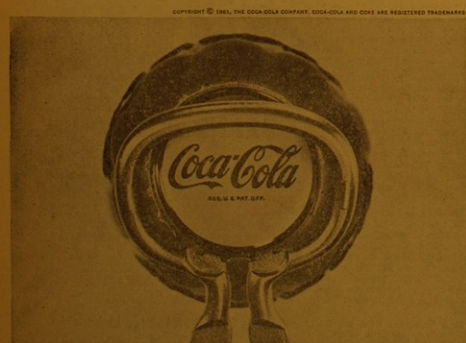

"How do you find happiness—and having found it, how do you get rid of it?" said another.

"Whether are we drifting?" said another.

"But as for me, I am drifting back to Sandusky to pose for the hybrid sculpture!" said Mr. Sigfoos.

And back he went, alas, having only a fragment of his Youngstown-Akron Turnpike epic to rank with other such uncompleted masterpieces as Schuler's Unfinished Symphony, the Tenets de Milo, and Singer's Midgits.

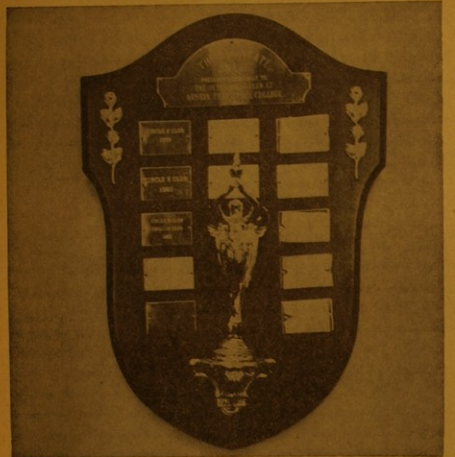

Take care, good friends, in your masterpieces that is complete. We, refer, of course, to Marlboro cigarettes. Filter end and tobacco end are both as good as tobacco artistry and science can make them.

Beauty Awaits

Her face is in the setting sun.
My life was gray this morning.
She's new as the green in spring.
She's the image of fall's beauteous end.
The frost of winters can't touch her.
As the heat of summer flows through her.
She's the light of my day.
The thrill of my nights.
Awaiting my end I'll see her.
As always the world is hers.

Fashion Show To Be Held

The Third Annual Benefit Fashion Show will be staged March 15 at 8 p.m. in the Clement Fine Arts Auditorium at Austin Peay State College.

Sponsored by the College Women's Club and the Clarksville Sub-Club Club, the show has been entitled "La Belle Dame."

Approximately 30 individuals will take part in the program featuring spring and summer fashions, according to Mrs. Peter Goodline, president of the College Women's Club, and Mrs. George Ackley, director of the event.

The proceeds of the annual event will go to a scholarship fund for some individual to enter or continue his studies at AFSC.

Ticket prices have been set at $1 for adults and $3.00 for students.

Student Program Is 'Wanderers'

The Student Council of Austin Peay State College presented its quarterly assembly program at the college February 21. Ray Stone, Student Council president, was in overall charge; Leon Striding, vice-president, presented the "Wanderers." Nancy English, Secretary-treasurer, presented the devotional.

The "Wanderers" featured students Murry Hawkins, Skip Gray, Skip Howell, George Foworth and Jim McKenzie. They sang a number of folk songs, mostly humorous ones.

Science Day Held Here

Regional Science Day was held at Austin Peay State College on February 24. Junior and senior high school students with projects in astronomy-physics, botany, chemistry, mathematics, earth sciences and biology competed.

This regional meeting is an annual event at the college. It is conducted by the Tennessee Junior Academy of Science and is sponsored by the Tennessee Academy of Science. It is supported by the National Science Foundation, Washington, D. C. Students from Clarksville, Dickson, Dover, Erin and Fort Campbell entered the regional meeting. The winners here are eligible to compete in the statewide meeting at the University of Tennessee Martin Branch on March 24.

George M. Rawlins of AFSC is regional adviser and James L. Major is co-adviser.

Location of a new library for Austin Peay State College should be either at the site of the present Student Center or the natural bowl behind McReynolds Hall. This was revealed in the results of an opinion poll of 24 students and faculty members on the campus.

"The most important factors to consider in locating a library are its proximity to living and classroom facilities," answered all who were polled. "It must be convenient," said Miss Johnnie Givens, head AFSC librarian.

Girls, Wake Up To Make-Up

"Wake up to make-up!" said one of our observant English teachers.

Wholeheartedly the class of men in the interpretative writing section agreed that girls were overemphasizing their make-up.

Eyes that run when wet, faces that are in constant need of washing, and goo-goo eyes of the twenties are goofy. Make-up applied with care is no crime, but is, in fact, essential to most dapper beauties.

Some helpful hints along these lines are:

1. Take time in application. It is an art and we don't make masterpieces in a few minutes.
2. Use proper lighting. If you can't see, chances are you will over-apply.
3. Choose make-up that is of the same color tone as your skin, hair and eyes. A shade lighter is better than a shade darker.
4. Take counsel with the experts, don't depend on your own judgment. Department stores have consultants, or you may check the library and periodicals for tips and advice.
5. Don't ever "Look as if you need a good face washing."

MENC Gets Preview

The biennial meeting of the MENC will be held March 16-20 in Chicago.

Allen P. Britton, president of the MENC for 1960-62, gave a preview of the coming meeting of the MENC in the March issue of the Music Educators Journal.

Professors, no less than nations and individuals, have been forced by scientific and political events of the past 15 years to re-evaluate their basic worth, their purposes and principles. This profession of music education has not been exempted.

Indeed, music educators have been among the more vocal segments of the education community, prompted no doubt by alarmists who have called for music science, less art in the schools.

One of the large questions to be studied during the MENC biennial convention in Chicago is how music can be taught in the schools in order to ensure its right as an academic subject without being regarded as "theoretical," "impractical," "abstract," and at the same time without minimizing theoretical implications.

Distinguished speakers and discussion leaders will illuminate principles of how the living sound of music and its theoretical and historical aspects can be brought into proper relationship.

It was within this context that the plan of the convention was determined. The four major subjects for the general sessions are:

Music and academic discipline; the study of contemporary music; the values of music; the study of music through performance.

Those attending the eighteenth Biennial Music Educators National Conference from the Austin

Be strong and of good courage, be not afraid nor dismayed... with us is Jehovah our God to help us. (II Chron. 32:7-8)

It is good to remind ourselves of the strength that is ours, by affirming our own strength with the strength of God. As we hold to this we find that we feel stronger and healthier all the time.

Poll Says Move Library

By JIMMY CHARLET

Location of a new library for Austin Peay State College should be either at the site of the present Student Center or the natural bowl behind McReynolds Hall. This was revealed in the results of an opinion poll of 24 students and faculty members on the campus.

"The most important factors to consider in locating a library are its proximity to living and classroom facilities," answered all who were polled. "It must be convenient," said Miss Johnnie Givens, head AFSC librarian.

Six students felt that a razing of the "temporary" apartments for married students and the Student Center would be necessary for the library to be located at the center of the campus. One faculty member, Sara Wood of the Physics Department, agreed that this would be the most convenient location. "This, of course, means that we could then build a real Student Center which would function as the main meeting place of all campus clubs. This we need," she said.

The natural bowl behind McReynolds Hall was favored by the location spot by five students. This spot was picked because it is one of the few remaining vacant spaces on the campus. Dean Felix Woodward mentioned that this would follow a trend to locate libraries on sloping terrain.

Two students wanted to extend President Harvill from his home and demolish that building, along with Hobb Hall. These two would suit construction of an L-shaped building. Judy Graves said that she favored this location because of the parking lots nearby. "The parking lots would be used for future expansion," she said.

Senior Martha Younger and Don Sargent, a physical education major, felt that the present baseball field would provide the site for the new library. "There is more room for parking space and future expansion there," said Sargent.

"If the college plans to expand in the direction of College Street," said freshman Jan Mills, "then I would locate the library at Sixth and College." Marty Powell agreed, saying that this site would offer the most room for tentative expansion.

Of those interviewed, Hayden Jolly of the English Department and Dean Mabel Meacham offered the most original ideas. Dean Meacham would like to have the new library facing Drake Street to expand the library in its present location. This could be done, he said, by moving out the Education building and its administrative offices. "You could put the administration and the Education Department anywhere," he said.

Mr. Jolly contended that the most practical solution would be to expand the library in its present location. This could be done, he said, by moving out the Education building and its administrative offices. "You could put the administration and the Education Department anywhere," he said.

Felix Woodward, dean of the Faculty, expressed his feelings like this: "There has been a proposal to build the library parallel to the Brewing Building to create a quadrangle effect. I haven't become too excited about this because it would give us an alleyway for a front yard, in the final analysis, we'll spend about $2500 and have an engineering firm recommend a site for us," he said.
