APSC Coed Is Community Ambassador

Spring Play This Week

Do you like to laugh? Then don't miss seeing the AP Playhouse production of "Arms and the Man," which opens Thursday at 8 p.m. The show will run through Saturday in the Clement Auditorium.

The play, by George Bernard Shaw, was written early in Shaw's career. It is anti-romanticism, anti-militarism and ridicules aristocracy. It was written at the time when Shaw was forming his socialistic ideas, which can be seen in the play.

Jean Hudson will portray Raina Petkoff, a young romantic girl. Miss Hudson has been seen in other productions, including "A Far Country," Blumhertz, the middle-class "chocolate cream soldier," will be played by Douglas Tidwell.

Warren Chaney will be back on the stage in the character of Sergia Saranoff. Catherine Petkoff, Raina's fashionable mother, will be played by Jane Hunt. Major Paul Petkoff, who sees no need in bathing every day, will be characterized by Billy St. John.

Anita Tidwell will be seen in another maid role, that of Louka, the Petkoff's high minded servant girl. John Telford, a newcomer to APSC stage, will portray the man servant, Nicola. Leon Perry will be a Russian Officer.

The three sets, designed by John G. Griffin, will feature such things as a richly ornamented bed, an ottoman and a garden scene.

Dr. David Mays, who is directing the show said, "It has been fun to work with and fun to direct." "Arms and the Man" promises to be fun to watch.

Coed Of Week

COED OF WEEK - Miss Linda English, a freshman elementary education major from Clarksville, has been chosen as coed of the week for this issue. Linda, who stands 5-7 and measures 36-25-37, plans on teaching in elementary schools after graduation. She likes skiing, sewing and tennis as her hobbies. Linda is a member of the MSM, is vice-president of the Clarksville Girl's Cottillon Club and holds a work scholarship at APSC. (Staff Photo by Billy Hutton)

Frances Butler To Live With Greek Family For Month

The Clarksville Community Ambassador program has chosen Miss Frances Ann Butler, a junior English and French major at Austin Peay State College, as the 1964 Community Ambassador.

Daughter of Sgt. Maj. Ret. and Mrs. Robert T. Butler, Frances will live with a family near Athens, Greece, for a month this summer as the representative of the Clarksville Community Ambassador Association.

"I am looking forward to my trip very much," Frances said, continued.

"What will make it even more interesting for me is the fact that only one member of the family that I am going to stay with is able to speak English."

An outline of the trip which Frances will take includes the following steps. She will meet with several other ambassadors at Sandona, Conn., on July 6 for a six day orientation program.

Following the orientation period, the ambassadors will leave from Bradley Field, Conn., on July 12 by chartered jet for Athens.

During her stay in Greece, Frances said she is especially looking forward to the traveling throughout the country that will be afforded her.

"I am also looking forward to the association with the people of Greece and the other ambassadors with whom I will be traveling."

"I also want to learn about the customs of the Greek people."

Circle K Club

Retains

District Office

Kenneth Fussell, junior economics major at Austin Peay State College, has been elected lieutenant-governor of Division three of the Kentucky-Tennessee district of Circle K International.

Fussell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Fussell of Dickson, Tenn., was elected over a field of candidates at the district convention held in Kentucky.

A member of the Circle K Club this academic year, Fussell is also a member of the Student National Education Association and the Baptist Student Union.

Fussell has been one of the more active members of this year's club in promoting the various projects sponsored by the club. He was nominated for his position as lieutenant-governor by David Watson, a senior at APSC this year and the lieutenant-governor for district three this year.

A total of eight members of the APSC Circle K Club represented the college at the convention. These included, besides Fussell and Watson, Fay Ray Carland, John Foy, Bill Farrester, Price Hopson, Bill Norman and Joe Wood.

Frances did not hesitate to answer when asked if there were any one thing which she wanted to see. "Yes, I want to see the Acropolis (the mountain home of the Greek Gods). I also hope to see other historic landmarks that tie-in with my previous studies in World Literature."

Following her stay with her "adopted" family, Frances will join about nine other community ambassadors for a sight seeing tour throughout most of Greece. The trip will last about three weeks.

"We will return to Kennedy International Airport on September 5 and I'll return to Clarksville shortly thereafter," Frances concluded.

The Clarksville Community Ambassador program is a part of The Experiment in International Living.

The Experiment's programs are based on the conviction that one best learns to understand another people and their culture by living among them as a member of a family.

Upon her return to Clarksville, Frances will share her experiences in Greece by presenting lectures and showing slides of her stay to those groups and organizations which would like to hear of her trip.

Chosen as first alternate ambassador was Mack Williams. Mrs. Dot DeLoach was chosen as second alternate. Both are students at APSC.

Dean Bowman

At Meeting

M. P. Bowman, dean of admissions and registrar at Austin Peay State College, will attend the 50th Annual Meeting of the Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers in Omaha, Neb., today through Friday.

More than 700 representatives of 600 colleges and universities of the nation are expected to attend the meeting.

Guest speakers featured on the program are Dr. Peter P. Muirhead, assistant commissioner for Program and Legislative Planning, U. S. Office of Education; Dr. Fred M. Harrington, president University of Wisconsin; Dr. Blanche H. Dow, president, American Association of University Women; and Dr. E. G. Williamson, dean of students, University of Minnesota.

Every Student Has An Obligation

Tomorrow is election day at Austin Peay State College. We, the student body will go to the polls to vote for the candidates we feel best qualified to lead us next year.

The one question which each of us should ask ourselves is, "What is my obligation to vote?" Each of us is obliged to cast our vote for the candidates of our choice. Why? Because then and only then can we honestly say that we supported our candidate and our school's interest.

The 10 students who chose to enter this year's race saw fit to do so for reasons which they felt were strong enough to warrant their entering the race.

We can best show them that we approve of their decision to seek the various offices by taking a few minutes sometime tomorrow and voting. It actually takes about one and a half minutes to go through the process of voting. The use of voting machines makes it much easier to vote and to count the votes also.

Last year only 62.9 per cent of the students enrolled at APSC voted. The use of voting machines was inaugurated last year and the results of the election were made known approximately 20 minutes after the polls were closed. However, the idea of using voting machines did not bring out any more students than had voted the previous year.

There are a few students on the "inside" who have said that it would be an impossibility to get more than 60 per cent of the student body to vote this year. We wonder however, if it would be possible to make these students eat a little crow and prove that they are wrong in their prediction.

It is true that you will not receive a medal if you vote nor will you be given an award of some kind, but you can feel a certain degree of pride in knowing that you did your part in the election. The idea that "my vote won't make any difference in the outcome" has long since been disproven.

If you can find no other reason for voting than the idea of using a voting machine for the first time, then, go to the polls in the Student Center tomorrow and see what it is like to vote on a voting machine. However, it is hoped by all concerned that you will have considered each of the candidates carefully and will vote for the ones that you feel will do the best job possible in leading the Associated Student Body next year.

If you vote tomorrow then next year you will be able to honestly say, if things aren't going right "don't blame me, I didn't vote for him" instead of "don't blame me, I didn't vote."

J.R.M.

Ramblings Of A Fool

Promises!! What About The Facts?

By RONALD ARVIN

In assembly today we will hear the candidates take a stand on their newly constructed platforms. Some candidates may try to promise the pie-in-the-sky. Well, we don't need pie in the sky. We need more pie on our cafeteria trays.

Some unscrupulous politicians promise the voters things which are beyond their ability to produce. In other instances, they take a stand on measures which have already been passed and are in the planning stages. In the latter case, the candidate tries to take credit for the work of other people and to point out the early fulfillment of his promises.

Promises are cheap. We want ASB officers who are level-headed and responsible. Candidates who make false and unreasonable promises will not make reliable ASB officers. The demands of the office are exacting and cannot be handled by candidates who glory in making promises which are beyond his abilities or which he has no intention of fulfilling.

Outlandish promises are not new. We have a reality which is far more demanding in time, energy and importance. Before most any campaign promise can be fulfilled, it must pass the ASB Senate. Student government is now in the very midst of a changeover.

The candidate's approach to the transition will affect more than just his ability to make good his promises. His approach to the stabilization of student government will determine whether or not we have a good homecoming next fall, a successful Valentine dance and a memorable Iris Ball. Mishandling of the governmental changeover could very well mean that we will not be able to have any of these.

The problems facing the incoming officers are numerous. The ASB needs by-laws to expell senators who come to only one or two meetings per quarter. By-laws are needed to govern the different councils and to give them form and function. With these go myriads of minor but troublesome problems which hinder smooth running government.

Where does your candidate stand?
If he takes a realistic stand on the stabilization of student government, we the student body can look forward to a very productive 1964-65.

Cheerleaders

To Be Elected

Who will be the 1964-65 APSC cheerleaders?

The student body will decide next Tuesday after the candidates for cheerleader perform before them in assembly.

This week the prospective candidates will try out before the cheerleader screening committee. The committee will judge the candidates on the basis of six criteria which were established by the ASB Senate.

Fifty per cent of the points given by the screening committee will be based on ability and appearance. The other 50 points will be given on the basis of personality, voice, poise, manners, leadership and school spirit.

In order to be eligible for election by the student body, the coeds will have to score 75 or better on their performance before the screening committee.

Darts Needed

For Writing Modern Poetry

If you want to write modern poetry, provide yourself with darts and a dictionary.

Melvin Clark, assistant professor of English, makes a point when he combines dart throwing with poetic composition. The results are on his office door in the Clement Building, Room 312. His method is simple. Open the dictionary. Borrow a dart from someone in the department. Take careful aim. Throw. There's your word. Repeat the process until the poem is finished.

"It's a sort of jest at the modern techniques of music and painting," Glass grins. "There is a serious idea behind it, though," he explains.

Jackson Pollack creates abstract paintings by throwing paint at his canvases. Karkheim Stockhausen, a German musician, is experimenting with a new school of music. He uses new forms of notation in atonal composition, without key and without phrase. "The basis for the whole idea is giving up the idea that notes are related to each other."

Glass applies this idea, based on the element of chance, to poetry. Each word is to be considered a separate entity, complete in itself, unrelated to the next word.

"The trouble," Glass admits, "is that I end up making relationships anyway—adding a preposition or conjunction, rearranging a couple of words—which is sort of cheating. But there is some difference in the extremes of abstraction in music and as translated into words."

An example of the modern abstract poem is this "Chance Haiku" by Glass:
Things dawdling some while,
Away iridescent pale...
Fleeting, cooling, soft.

Former Student Dr. Henry Joins Faculty Writing Article

Glenn Gentry, head of the business department at Austin Peay State College, announces the appointment of Christopher Nussbaumer as instructor in administration and management courses for the Spring Quarter, 1964.

Nussbaumer, 28 years old, was graduated from APSC in 1955 with a degree in business.

Upon graduation, he was engaged in banking here in Clarksville.

Nussbaumer received a graduate assistant fellowship to Indiana University where he received his Master of Business Administration in 1964.

While at Indiana University Nussbaumer was president of the Baptist Student Union.

His hobbies include music and hunting.

Dr. Milton Henry, professor of history at Austin Peay State College, has been invited to collaborate with other historians to write an article on Tennessee for Field Enterprise, publishers of "The World Book Encyclopedia."

Dr. Henry received his B.S. degree from Murray State College in 1939. The University of Chicago awarded him with an M.A. in 1947 and a Ph.D. in 1951.

Before coming to APSC, Milton taught in Kentucky and Tennessee high schools. He was superintendent of Phillipsburg, Mo. schools.

TONY'S TIDBITS

By TONY BOEHMS

Teacher

BRADLEY

Last Tuesday when APSC hosted David Lipcomb for a track meet, one of the Governor thin-clads could only hope for a second place in one of his events.

The trackster, in the person of Blakey Bradley, knew well before the meet began that he could not surpass David Lipcomb's Bailey Heflin in the high jump event.

The reason Bradley was so sure that Heflin would win the event dates back several years ago when the two boys competed in the Rotary Field Day on the same track.

Bradley was Clarksville High's star high jumper, while Heflin would acquire second place behind Blakey for his Dover team.

One day following the high jump competition Bradley mentioned to Heflin that if he would try using a roll over the bar rather than the scissors he was using that he might improve his effort.

After that day the Dover jumper worked with the roll and mastered the event to the point that since he has been at David Lipcomb he has beaten his teacher every time the two have competed in a track meet.

OVC Closeup

The hotly-contested races in the Ohio Valley Conference, at the halfway point, are rapidly becoming an endurance test for the schools in all the spring sports events.

The champion Murray State baseball team has already received two blemishes on this year's conference record as compared to last season's 11-0 perfect OVC slate.

The OVC standings this season are led by Middle Tennessee with a perfect mark thus far prior to last Saturday's double-header with the Gavs.

In golf the conference leaders are Middle Tennessee and Murray State with strong early season wins. Middle Tennessee holds a win string of over 50 matches in a row while Murray has shown impressive wins including last Thursday's 18-9 victory over APSC. Western Kentucky is also a dark horse for championship honors.

Track-wise the conference strongmen are Murray State along with Western Kentucky, both with early season exhibitions of depth and speed. Also, another factor to be observed is that the Racers thinlins haven't lost an OVC meet since 1958.

On the tennis courts again the Murray Thoroughbreds appear to be the toughest, winning eight of nine early season matches and losing only to the powerhouse of the Southeastern Conference Louisiana State University.

Sewanee Meet Changed

The regularly scheduled track meet between APSC and Sewanee for Saturday afternoon has been rescheduled for this Friday night with field events beginning at 6:30 and running events at 7.

The Gavs will be trying for their third straight home victory and will need strong support from the student body—a factor which has been lacking in the first three meets.

Spring Sports Have 14 Events This Week

During the next seven days the spring sports calendar at Austin Peay State College will find a full slate of events in which Governor athletes will be participating.

The baseball team will play four games this week. They will travel to Nashville Thursday to play Belmont College in a single game.

The basketball team will play four games this week. They will travel to Nashville Thursday to play Belmont College in a single game.

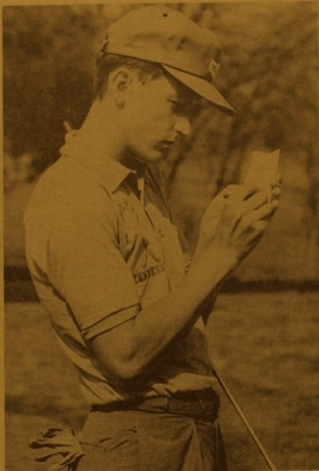

The golf team will play in a quadrangle match at Sewanee Thursday against Middle Tennessee, Sewanee and Southwestern. Friday and Saturday will find the Gov linksmen participating in the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Golf tournament also at Sewanee.

The track team will run in two meets, one a triangular affair at Jackson, Tenn., this afternoon against Union University and Florence State.

Friday night at 6:30, the thin-clads will host Sewanee in a dual meet at Municipal Stadium.

The tennis team will play three matches this week, two away from home and one at home. The netters will face Middle Tennessee at Murfreesboro this afternoon and Kentucky Wesleyan at Owensboro, Ky., Saturday.

They will return home to face U-T Martin next Monday on the local courts.

"26 . . . 29 . . . 33 . . . 39"—Gov golfer A. B. Slaco adds his front nine score against Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech's No. 1 men in the recent triangular match. Slaco fired a 38 on the back side to finish with a 77, low for the day for APSC. (Staff Photo by Billy Hutton)

Spring Sports Teams Win 3 And Lose 6

"You win some, you lose some and some get postponed," could easily be applied to the spring sports events which Austin Peay State College teams participated in last week.

Ten events were scheduled for the Governors last week. After the smoke cleared from the heat of battle, the Gavs could only show three victories as compared to six defeats and one postponement.

Turning to the sports individually, the baseball team suffered through a week of nightmares. The scheduled doubleheader with David Lipscomb was postponed for one day because of rain and reset for the following day as a single affair.

The Bisons of David Lipscomb profited from the delay greatly as they defeated the Governors 6-0, behind the stingy four-hit pitching of Terry Miller.

Following the white washing by David Lipscomb, the Governors tracked to Murfreesboro where they were shut out twice by Middle Tennessee State, 9-0 and 6-0.

The first game was a forfeit to the MTSC Raiders, in the fourth inning an argument started and the Gavs wound-up forfeiting the game to the Raiders.

The golf team saw its win string snapped at eight by the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers. The linksmen defeated Tennessee Tech 16-11 but were tripped-up by the Hilltoppers 10 1/2-16 1/2.

Following the loss to the Topper, the Governors went down to their second defeat of the season when they were beaten by the Murray State Racers 18-9. The APSC track team continues to show signs of improvement as records continue to fall by the wayside. In two meets last week which the tracksters split, three meet records were set.

sault on the two mile run as he toured the track in a record time of 9:52.9, which bettered the old mark by over 25 seconds.

Riley Holliday also continued to break a track record as he drew the javelin a distance of 202-1 3/4. This battered his own mark by almost two feet, which he had set less than a week earlier.

The track team defeated David Lipscomb 86 1/2-48 1/2 and lost to Tennessee Tech 99-46.

In tennis the Gavs managed to come away with one victory and one postponement. The netters defeated U-T Martin 6-3 and had to postpone the match with Kentucky Wesleyan because of that school playing in a tournament.
