APSC Welcomes Ten New Faculty Members

Ten new faculty members have been appointed to the faculty at Austin Peay State College and began work at the beginning of the Fall Quarter, according to President Joe Morgan.

Additions to the faculty included:

Mrs. Lillian Hammett Bradley, instructor in home economics, replacing Mrs. Sara Fowler, resigned, she holds the B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Tennessee and has previously taught at both Clarksville High School and Austin Peay State College.

Dr. Ellis Burns, 53, assistant professor of education replacing Harold W. Nash, resigned. He holds the B.S. degree from St. Bernard College, the M.A. degree from George Peabody College for Teachers and the Ed. D. degree from Alabama Polytechnic Institute. His last teaching experience was at Seachrist High School, Delray Beach, Florida.

Martin And Arvin Head All State

MARTIN — The All State, beginning its 34th year of publication, will be headed by John Martin this year. Martin is a senior, majoring in English and minoring in math. He worked for the paper last year as a sports writer, and moved up to the position as editor this fall.

Martin is a member of the Newman Club, the English Club, the Circle K Club and works as a student assistant to Sherwin Cift in the Alumni and Public Information Office.

A graduate of Father Ryan High School, John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin of Clarksville.

Ronald Arvin, a junior English and history major, is serving as the assistant editor on The All State for this year.

Arvin is a member of the Interligus Club and is serving as president of the club.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vortis Arvin, Ron is a graduate of Hopkinsville High School.

SMITH — Barbara Smith, a sophomore English major and speech minor, is beginning her second year as business manager of The All State.

Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Smith, is a member of the Blazing Slatery, the Baptist Student Union, the APSC Playhouse and represented Austin Peay State College in the Miss Tennessee Contest this past summer as a result of winning the Miss Hat and Cane Contest last spring.

Barbara is a graduate of Clarksville High School.

Tony Boehms, a senior biology major, will head the sports staff for The All State this year. Boehms worked in the Alumni and Public Information Office last year and also wrote for the paper.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Boehms, of Goodlettsville, Tenn., Boehms is a member of the band and The Circle K Club.

A long-range program of expansion for Austin Peay State College was recently disclosed by President Joe Morgan.

The plans for the present biennium call for a student center, a library and a men's dorm. The library will be located at the present site of Calvin Hall, the student center will be located west of the new library and north of the present administration building, and the men's dorm will be located across Drane Street from McKeynolds Hall and adjacent to Ball Village.

Library Reveals New Regulations

The Austin Peay State College library has set forth a change in policy aimed at increasing the availability of its books to all students.

The new policy will require the presentation of ID photos when checking out books and will establish heavier fines and service costs for overdue books.

The presentation of ID photos at the check-out counter is a measure designed to prevent anyone from forging another student's name. This is a safety feature instituted for the benefit of the student.

The procedure for issuing fines and service charges is as follows:

1. An overdue notice will be sent if the book is not returned by the return date. There will be a five cent charge for each day it is overdue.
 2. If the notice goes unreturned for a week, a direct billing for the cost of the book and a service charge of fifty cents will be sent to the student.
 3. Should the student fail to respond to the second notice, his delinquent account will be sent to the Business Office for collection.
- At this stage the student is charged a) five cents a day for each day overdue, b) the cost of the book and fifty cents service charge for the library, and c) a two dollar service charge from the Business Office.

Lost books which have been billed to the Business Office must receive a clearance from the Circulation Librarian before the charge for the cost of the book can be removed. No other charges will be removed.

These new regulations are in the interest of the student who, it is hoped, will make an effort to comply with them.

President Morgan stated, "It appears that the growth of Austin Peay is going to be rather rapid in the next decade. At present, the college officials are working very hard to develop the physical facilities which will be needed to accommodate this growth."

In keeping with this spirit are the plans for ten to twelve years. On the program for this period, in addition to the above mentioned buildings, there are scheduled: the erection of four or five classroom buildings, the erection of dormitories to house approximately eight hundred students, the moving and relocation of two student apartments for married students, the relocation of the maintenance shop, the moving or razing of the present student center and other buildings and the possible development of housing for married students off the main campus.

The State Board Committee appointed by Chairman Warf visited Austin Peay State College on July 9. Chairman Warf and Mrs. Parrish, executive secretary to the Board, were also present.

Mr. Jefferson Hamilton, campus planning consultant for Austin Peay, State College, President Morgan and Mr. Earl Sexton, Chairman of the local advisory planning group, presented to the committee the plans for long-range development of the campus as suggested by the local advisory planning group.

The editor and staff of The All State strongly urge the student body to support and patronize those business establishments which have been fit to advertise in the paper.

Greek Clubs Hold Tea

A Panhellenic Tea was held yesterday afternoon from 4 to 5 in the lobby of Harned Hall. The purpose of the tea was to acquaint the freshman girls and women transfer students with the officers and members of the five Greek-letter clubs and the members of the Panhellenic Council.

As a point of explanation, the Panhellenic Council is the governing body of the five Greek-letter clubs. Dean Mike Meacham is the sponsor of the council, and the membership is the council, consists of Carolyn Reese, president; Charlotte Husky, vice-president; Sylvia Darin, secretary; Faye Sullivan, treasurer; Loreta Wheatly, parliamentarian; Jimmie Lee Bell, president; Epsilon Chi; Shirley Apple, president; Omega Club; Macy Ellis, president; Alpha Club;

Carolyn Wyatt, president, Delta Club; and Jackie Sabo, president, Delta Club.

The primary purposes of the Panhellenic Council and the Greek-letter clubs are (1) to promote unity and friendship between the girls, (2) to provide social direction, and (3) to further better living conditions on campus.

On Wednesday night the freshman girls and women transfer students will be given ballots on which they will designate their first, second, and third choice of the Greek-letter clubs. As nearly as possible the girls will be given membership in the club that they prefer. They will remain a member of that club while at Austin Peay State College. Each club will have its own installation ceremony for the new members.

It Happened In October

15 YEARS AGO

Dean M. P. Bowman announced an enrollment of 427 in the regular student body. The freshman class was largest with an enrollment of 164. The sophomores totaled 142, and the junior-senior division equalled 60 and 61 respectively. There were 91 unclassified students.

The All State subscribers paid a dollar per year.

Football displayed on bracelets, pendants and sweaters announced an exciting season for the Governors. The APSC football squad opened their home season by completely smashing Cumberland University 39-7. The winning technique was a newly acquired split-T formation. Mistakes caused trouble and loss of yards, but the split-T form was nicknamed the split-TNT.

The faculty were formal attire to the annual faculty-student reception.

Dr. W. W. Morris replaced Dr. Donald Mitchell as professor of history and head of social studies. Mrs. Joseph Trahern joined the faculty as an instructor in English.

10 YEARS AGO

In October, 1953, Tom Ken Savage became part of the education department at APSC. Savage's first year coincided with the twenty-fifth year celebration of APSC. The annual carried on the silver anniversary theme with the silver and red cover. Approximately 126 pages of school history and memories were on sale for $1.57.

A subscription to the All State cost $1.50.

Freshmen put on a talent show to entertain the upperclassmen and demonstrate the versatility of the freshmen class.

Dr. Christine Stroop, assistant professor of secretarial science in October of 1954, published two articles in business magazines.

Mrs. Austin Peay, Sr., died October 21st. The tradition of giving biographies of Governor Peay to the Governor and First Lady of the Student Body has been continued in her honor and through her foresight.

Victory ran with the Red and White in the season's first game. The governors scored three touchdowns to beat East Tennessee State College at Johnson City by a score of 21-13. The APSC Governors also stomped Henderson State College of Arkadelphia, Ark., 34-6.

Homecoming celebrations included a bonfire, pep rally and a snake dance through downtown Clarksville.

5 YEARS AGO

A student sighted a flying object described as being circular in structure and having an orange cloud hovering above it. After considering the phenomenon, she decided a flying saucer had landed. A report was made to the All State.

The freshmen out-cheered the rest of the student body at the Eastern Illinois football game. Disturbed upperclassmen, determined to strengthen their lungs and increased rivalry, promised good game attendance and team support for 1958.

Harold Hall girls discussed the controversial figures of Eddie Fisher, Debbie Reynolds and Elizabeth Taylor. The All State made a poll of opinions to determine the majority feelings of the girls. There was no majority.

Student Shocked By Stray Cattle In India

Miss Sandra Rawls, a junior, returned recently from India where she served as Clarksville's Community Ambassador this summer.

Miss Rawls is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Rawls of Beaumont, Texas. Dr. Rawls, a former associate professor of biology at APSC, left to accept a position at Lamar Tech in Beaumont.

The Community Ambassador program is a part of The Experiment in International Living, an organization whose goal is "to create mutual respect and understanding among the different peoples of the world."

Miss Rawls began her journey on July 5 when she went to Vermont for a five-day orientation session. At its conclusion, she and forty other young people boarded a jet plane which carried them to various countries in Europe and the Middle East.

Sandy and eleven other Experimenters, as they are called, arrived at New Delhi where they spent three days meeting government officials and touring the city. They then went to Agra to see the Taj Mahal and the palaces of the past maharajahs of the area.

Upon leaving Agra, the Experimenters disbanded as a group and went to separate cities to live with Indian families. Sandy went to Madras for an 18-day stay with Achin Prasad Dhandu, his wife Shettel and their two daughters in a two room flat.

Following the stay with her first family, Sandy made a three week tour with the other Experimenters. The first point of interest was a hill station (a mountain resort) on Kodakanal on the body with a cup. So, island, although the island is only white in India. Sandy did as the 10 degrees above the Equator, India.

Sandy said, "We had to wear slacks and to sleep under blankets." She also pointed out that this was the only place where the Experimenters had hot water. After four days of hiking, bike riding and mountain climbing, the group moved on to Madurai.

At Madurai Sandy visited the Meenakshi Temple, one of the few Hindu temples open to the tourist. Although there was a sign in five languages strictly forbidding the entrance of all non-eating depending on what part of the country you are from. The people of the North hold the rice in the tip of their fingers. Those from the South scoop it up in the palm and let it slide off the fingertips."

The next stop was the Lal Bagh Gardens in Bangalore. The Lal Bagh Gardens are famous throughout the world for their beautiful flowers.

Bombay was the scene of a three-day food and shopping spree. Afterwards, they went to Aurangabad to visit the Ellora and Ajanta Caves. These caves were carved out of the side of a mountain by religious monks of three major faiths — Jainism, Hinduism and Buddhism.

Having completed the tour at Aurangabad, the Experimenters again separated for their second home-stay. This time Sandy lived with Kundan Lal Kumar, his wife and their two daughters in a four room apartment overlooking one of the main markets of Lucknow. Kumar is a lawyer.

Because she was writing articles about her trip for the Leaf-Chronicle, the Kumaras were convinced that she was a journalist and decided to show her Lucknow's newspaper. While touring the plant, she was interviewed about her impressions of India. She remarked in the course of their conversation that she was surprised to see the mass migration of the water buffaloes going through the streets to the river. Sandy said, "You can imagine my surprise when the headline said, 'U.S. Student Shocked By Stray Cattle.'"

When asked about other experiences, Sandy replied that taking a bath was quite a different experience in India. The Indians bathe by taking a five gallon bucket of water and splashing the water (mountain resort) on the body with a cup. So, island, although the island is only white in India. Sandy did as the 10 degrees above the Equator, India.

"Everyone who is anyone has a hot cup of tea waiting for me," Sandy said. "I got up, there was a hot cup of tea waiting for me."

"Eating with your fingers makes the food taste more foody. The fork leaves a metal taste in your mouth."

There are different ways of eating depending on what part of the country you are from. The people of the North hold the rice in the tip of their fingers. Those from the South scoop it up in the palm and let it slide off the fingertips."

"Among my favorite foods were curry, a hot (spicy) stew over rice, and chapati, a round flat bread which is flexible enough to use as a spoon."

Sandy left New Delhi September 9 and is now back at the old grindstone of studying.

Saturday the Governors, under new head coach Bill Dupes, will make their first official home appearance. The Governors' opponent is Carson-Newman of Jefferson City, Tenn. The Eagles, better known for their stall tactics, will have to employ an entirely new brand of offensive and defensive patterns for the Governor gridgers. Eagle coach Roy Harmon cannot rely on his colleague, basketball coach Dick Campbell, who used the stall to whip APSC's basketball squad 48-39 in the final game of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference basketball tournament last February.

The Governors will counter with a backfield of inexperience composed of three sophomores and one freshman, Jim Derrick, the classy field general from Nashville. Ryan, heads the squad at the quarterback slot. The backfields will probably be two more Nashvillians in Tim Chilcutt of Dupont and Arnold Huskey of Bellevue. At the fullback position the likely starter will be Bobby Byrd, a freshman from Lebanon, Tenn.

The Govs will probably be without the services of their fine sophomore end Claude Clements. Clements was injured during an early practice session for the encounter with Murray State last Saturday. We hope to see him and the other gridgers on the injured list back in the line-up as soon as possible.

Dupes Meets Alumni

Beginning Monday night, Sept. 23, the Davidson County chapter of the Austin Peay State College Alumni Association set up weekly meetings to view films of the preceding Saturday set up and hear from the coaching staff of APSC. Dupes directed the first meeting and gave a preview of the prospects for the year, along with narration of the film of the Eastern-Austin Peay State football game. The other Governor coaches will be asked to carry the films to the meetings on various Monday nights in order that the Davidson County chapter can meet the entire staff. Another proposed redemption desired from these meetings is a better relationship between the APSC alumni scattered throughout the state and the college.

Football Dorm Rules

Have you noticed an unusual hush that has come over one of the men's dormitories this year? At eight o'clock sharp every night this sudden hush comes over Miller Hall and at ten o'clock the doors to the outside and to every room are locked. In addition to these quiet hours that are being observed, each room is to be swept out once a day by the occupants of that room. To insure this cleanliness, a periodical room check is made by the coaches at an undetermined time during the day.

First OVC Contest

The APSC opener at Richmond, Ky., was the first official contest against Ohio Valley Conference in football. The Govs showed outstanding determination against the Eastern Maroons and caused other conference opponents to sit up and take notice. The Governors will have their say about the outcome of these conference battles in the fight for the OVC crown.

Let's Back Bill

The football team needs your help. Come to the games and see the enthusiasm demonstrated by our boys. In fact, it could be catching. Enough school spirit absorbed into the stands could help our team on to victory.

The boys also will boast a new look in uniforms. The traditional red with white shoulder stripe and numerals will be worn by the Governor gridgers on the home field rather than the white jerseys with red numerals.

The Last Word

-----This year's football squad is composed of one senior, 13 sophomores and 16 freshmen.

-----There are 13 states represented by the 61 members of this year's squad. These states are Georgia, Florida, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Mississippi, New York, Illinois, Indiana, Alabama and Tennessee.

-----The APSC-Carson-Newman series record is one win for the Govs as compared to four wins for the Eagles. The lone Governor win came two years ago when the red and white turned the trick 10-7 last year. The Eagles won the Jefferson City bout by a 21-0 count.

Stops Govs

14 - 0

The Govs will make their home debut under new head coach Bill Dupes this Saturday when they play the Carson-Newman Eagles from Jefferson City, Tennessee.

After two consecutive road games, in which the Governors were defeated by identical 14-0 scores, APSC will beathome for four straight games.

The game against Carson-Newman will be the sixth meeting between the two schools with the Eagles holding a 4-1 edge in the victory column.

For the third straight week APSC will be facing a veteran club. Carson-Newman will start ten lettermen, led by all-Volunteer State Athletic Conference performer Bobby Black at center.

The Govs will counter with an inexperienced but determined eleven composed of eight sophomores and three juniors.

In the game against Carson-Newman APSC will be out to snap a 15 game losing streak dating back to the 1961 season.

In last weeks 14-0 loss to Murray State, the Gov's Sammy Platt tied a school record for most punts in a single game. He punted the ball 10 times for an average of 37.9 yards per kick.

Cobb Elected 1963 Captain

Rocky Cobb, 180 pound junior guard from Birmingham, Ala. has been selected by his teammates as captain of the 1963 Austin Peay State College football edition.

The 60-man squad also selected junior tackle Ed Buntz from Carnegie, Pa., and sophomore end Claude Clements from Belvidere, Tenn., as alternate captains.

Cobb, a fine offensive blocker, was an All-Volunteer State Athletic Conference selection last year when the Gavs were a member of the Tennessee league. A consistent performer, he is tabbed as an All-Ohio Valley Conference candidate from his guard slot in the Gavs initial season in the OVC.

An outstanding athlete while attending Banks High School in Birmingham, Cobb does not limit his abilities to the gridiron as he is a tennis letterman at APSC.

Turning to the alternate captain selection, Buntz is a 228 pound giant that is also an All-OVC candidate from his left tackle position. The Pennsylvania native played freshman ball at the University of Arizona before transferring to APSC. He combines his massiveness with agility and could prove to be one of the best Gov tackles in history.

Clements is considered by the coaching staff as the best sophomore on the squad and is one of the very few freshmen ever to be named to the All-VSAC team. A bull-like flankman, he tilts the scales at 193 pounds and played at Franklin County High under Jim Lane, presently the Gov defensive backfield coach.

Back Of The Week

HUSKEY

Arnold Huskey and Wylie Vickery have been selected by the coaches as the outstanding back and lineman in the Gavs first game played against Eastern Kentucky. Huskey carried the ball 13 times and gained 60 yards. Vickery was a bull on defense, making 10 individual tackles and 10 assists. Huskey played the entire game and Vickery played better than 50 minutes. Both men are to be congratulated for their outstanding performances in the opening football game for APSC.

Back Of The Week

BYRD

The coaches selection for the lineman and back of the week in the game against Murray State are Bob Fletcher and Bobby Byrd. Fletcher, a 6-1, 180 pound freshman from McHenry, Ill., made six individual tackles and six assists against Murray.

Byrd, a little man as fullbacks go, has been a pleasant surprise for the Gavs in their first two games. Only 6-0, 175, Byrd makes up for his size by his determination. A tremendous blocker in the first two games, Byrd really came to the forefront on defense in the game against Murray when he accounted for 10 individual tackles and gave 9 assists.

COED OF THE WEEK — The All State's Coed of the Week is Barbara Smith, a lovely sophomore from Clarksville. Winner of APSC's "Miss Hat and Cane" beauty pageant last spring, Barbara was a contestant in this year's "Miss Tennessee" contest that was staged in Jackson. This 5-5 beauty measures 34-22-34½, has hazel eyes, ash blonde hair and weighs 115 pounds. Barbara's hobbies include reading, hiking, all outdoor sports and participating in the production of plays. Upon graduation from APSC, she plans to teach speech and dramatics.

Geography Dept. To Present Films

The Geography Department and Gamma Theta Epsilon, the national honorary fraternity in geography, will sponsor a series of talks and films this year on selected areas and countries of the world.

The purpose of the series is to provide the opportunity to see and hear people of foreign lands give authoritative information about their country. All films are in English. However, they are narrated by native people, which adds another dimension to the films. "Canton, Oriental City" will be the first film of the series.

The first meeting will be October 8th at 7, room 105, McCord Building. Everyone is invited to attend the talks and films and to inquire about membership in the organization. A business meeting of club members will take place after the program. Refreshments will be served.

Applications Being Taken For Danforth Fellowships

Inquiries about Danforth Graduate Fellowships for careers in geology teaching are invited. Joe Smith, Danforth Liaison Officer, has announced.

The fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., are open to male college seniors or recent graduates preparing for a career of teaching, counseling or administrative work at the college level. Applicants may be planning to major in any field of study common to the undergraduate liberal arts and sciences curriculum, at the American graduate school of their choice, but may not have already undertaken graduate work. Nominations close October 20, 1963.

Approximately 100 fellowships will be awarded to outstanding candidates nominated by Liaison officers of accredited colleges and universities in the United States this year. Nominees will be judged on intellectual promise and personality, integrity, genuine interest in religion and high potential for effective college teaching.

Winners will be eligible for up to four years of financial assistance, with an annual maximum of $1500 for single men and $2000 for married men plus dependency allowances for up to three children, and tuition and fees. Students without financial needs also are invited to apply.

Danforth Fellows and leading scholars are guests of the Foundation at an annual conference on teaching. Students may hold a Danforth Fellowship concurrently with other appointments, such as Ford, Fulbright, National Science, Rhodes and Woodrow Wilson. Winners will become Danforth Fellows without stipend until these other awards lapse.

The Danforth Foundation, one of the nation's 10 largest educational Foundations, was founded in 1927 by the late William H. Danforth, St. Louis businessman and philanthropist. The Foundation's primary aim is to strengthen higher education through programs of fellowships and workshops, and through grants to colleges, universities and other educational agencies.

WORDS: THEIR CAUSE AND CURE

Today let us take up the subject of etymology (or entomology, as it is sometimes called) which is the study of word origins (or insects, as they are sometimes called).

Where are word origins (insects) to be found? Well sir, sometimes words are proper names which have passed into the language. Take, for instance, the words used in electricity: amper was named after its discoverer, the Frenchman Andre Marie Ampere (1775-1836); similarly, ohm was named after the German G.S. Ohm (1781-1854), watt after the Scot James Watt (1736-1819), and bulb after the American Fred C. Bulb (1843-1912).

There is, incidentally, quite a poignant little story about Mr. Bulb. Until Bulb's invention, all illumination was provided by gas, which was named after its inventor Milton T. Gas.

who, strange to tell, had been Bulb's roommate at Cal Teeh! In fact, strange to tell, the third man sharing the room with Bulb and Gas was also one whose name burns bright in the annals of illumination — Walter Candle!

The three roommates were inseparable companions in college. After graduation all three did research in the problems of artificial light, which at this time did not exist. All America used to go to bed with the chickens, and many fine citizens were, also, severely injured falling off the roof.

Well sir, the three comrades — Bulb, Gas, and Candle — promised to be friends forever when they left school, but success, alas, spoiled all that. First Candle invented the candle, got rich, and forgot his old friends. Then Gas invented gas, got rich, bankrupted Candle, and forgot his old friends. Then Bulb invented the bulb, got rich, bankrupted Gas, and forgot his old friends.

Candle and Gas, bitter and impoverished at the ages respectively of 75 and 71, went to sea as respectively the world's oldest and second oldest cabin boy. Bulb, rich and grand, also went to sea, but he went in style — as a first-class passenger on luxury liners.

Well sir, strange to tell, all three were aboard the ill-fated Lusitania when she was sunk in the North Atlantic. And strange to tell, when they were swimming for their lives after the shipwreck, all three clambered aboard the same dinghy!

Well sir, chastened and made wiser by their brush with peril, they fell into each other's arms and wept and exchanged forgiveness and became fast friends all over again.

For three years they drifted in the dinghy, shaking hands and singing the Cal Teeh nasser all the while. Then, at long last, they spied a passing liner and were taken aboard.

They remained fast friends for the rest of their days, which, I regret to report, were not many, because the liner which picked them up was the Titanic.

What a pity that Marlboro's were not invented during the lifetimes of Bulb, Gas, and Candle. Had there been Marlboro's, these three friends never would have grown apart because they would have realized how much, despite their differences, they still had in common. I mean to say that Marlboro's can be lit by candle, by gas, and by electricity, and no matter how you light them, you always get a lot to like — a filter, a flavor, a pack or box that makes anyone — including Bulb, Gas, and Candle — settle back and forewear pettiness and smile the sweet smile of friendship on all who pass!

Fuzzy-Wuzzy Is A Prof?

You've heard of the absent-minded professor? Well, Dr. Irwin and Dr. Sims didn't forget their razors; they grew fine beards. "Just for the heck of it."

Both of the bearded ones insist that they didn't know the other was planning to grow a chin full of fuzz.

Each of the "Smith Brothers" has experienced odd comments and reactions regarding their whiskers. A little boy in Dayton, Ohio, tried to pull Dr. Sims' off thinking it was false. Then there was the delightful reaction of Dr. Irwin's mother, who shocked herself by exclaiming, "Jesus Christ!" Dr. Irwin answered, "No, mother, it's just your loving son." Another incident concerned a lady who looked straight at Dr. Sims and said, "Well, I like Dr. Irwin's beard."

In talking with the hairy ones, it was learned that neither thought it at all odd to wear a beard. Dr. Sims said, "A hundred years ago a clean shaven man would have aroused as much interest and curiosity." He added, "I don't think it's too odd for an English teacher to wear a beard, unless she's a woman."

Dr. Irwin's beard is quite unpopular with his wife, in fact, she doesn't think it does a thing for him. However, his 18-month-old daughter just loves it. Dr. Irwin thinks that he might just shave his beard as a Christmas gift to his wife.

Majority Of One

Richard Perkins has a rare distinction to his credit which could be envied by many men.

Perkins was the first male graduate from Austin Peay Normal (the name of the college before it was changed to Austin Peay State College) and a member of the first graduating class from APSN.

This in itself might not seem like much to get excited about, but when one considers that he was the ONLY male graduate in the class, then one has reason to be envious.

It is true that there were only five women in the class but it is not too hard to visualize that five to one odds are pretty nice. Perkins was interviewed while attending a meeting of the Davidson County chapter of the APSN Alumni Association.

When asked to compare the present campus with the one that existed when he attended school, Perkins said there was really no comparison between the two. The facilities now available to the students are far better than the ones which were available in 1930.

In 1930 there were only four buildings on the campus. Two of these, the present student center and Bobb Hall, are still standing. The student center was the cafeteria when Perkins attended school.

The other two buildings were the Stuart Waddell Building and the Castle Building. The Stuart Waddell Building was razed in 1967 and the old Castle Building collapsed in 1946.

While attending APSN, Perkins majored in science and math. He was also a member of the first basketball team to play at the college.

The basketball games were played in a gym in the Stuart Waddell Building and the opponents consisted of any team that would play APSN. "We didn't have a definite schedule and played merely any team we could. We also played just for the fun of it," Perkins said.

A good laugh followed the question of what he did after graduation in 1930.

"I spent three years looking for a job. It was right in the middle of the depression and it was mighty hard to find a job."

In 1934 Perkins went to work for the National Life and Accident Insurance Company as an insurance agent.

Perkins is married to the former Mary Dunlap, and they now live at 2321 Revere Place in Donelson, Tenn. They have one daughter, Mrs. Rachel Slaughter, and three grandchildren.

A glow of pride and satisfaction shined on Perkins face when he talked about the school colors at Austin Peay State College.

"I was instrumental in choosing scarlet and white as the school colors," Perkins said, "but I don't remember if we had any definite reason for choosing these particular colors."

When asked to compare the overall picture of APSN today with Austin Peay Normal in 1930, Perkins said, "The progress of the school in the past 33 years has been nothing short of phenomenal in my estimation." "Many of these original instructors at the beginning of the institution have guided it to a high position in education not dreamed of by those of us in the first class."

Freshmen Undergo Orientation Week

Approximately 600 freshmen began their collegiate careers Sept. 17 at Austin Peay State College by undergoing a testing program to determine their strengths and weaknesses in certain academic areas.

The week-long orientation period included testing, counseling, social affairs and registration for the Fall Quarter.

The 600 anxious young ladies and gentlemen were welcomed by President Joe Morgan; F. G. Woodward, dean of the faculty; and Henry McCaslin, associated student body president.

Under the direction of Dr. Tom K. Savage, dean of students, the testing program began at 9:30 a.m., Sept. 17 with Dr. George Ackley, professor of psychology, in charge. The testing concluded Thursday night, Sept. 18 with all freshmen registering for their fall term classes the following day. Social events for the freshmen included a picnic and dance Tuesday night at Pettus Park. A pep rally was held Wednesday night in the auditorium of the testing program began at 9:30 a.m., Sept. 17 with Dr. George Ackley, professor of psychology, Thursday evening and a registration dance Friday night, Sept. 18 with all freshmen re-
