Sugg, Stone, Nichols Elected To Student Council

Language Booths Installed At AP

Eight new language booths have been in operation for two weeks at Austin Peay after having been installed approximately three weeks ago.

The booths are located in room 304 of the Frank G. Clement Fine Arts Building and feature double magnetic recorders which aid language students in speaking.

Dr. Joseph Thomas, supervisor of the booths, reports that the booths have been a great aid to his language students.

"The booths and their recorders give students much more time than they would normally get for oral practice," said Dr. Thomas. "I'd say that they improve a student's speaking power about 50 per cent."

The booths which were bought for approximately $2300 were paid for by the State Bond Funds.

At the present time, only five booths are in use. The other three are being reserved for future expansion.

While the booths were meant to be used mainly by language students Dr. Thomas states that they are available at certain times to other students.

"So far," said Dr. Thomas, "Only language students have used the booths, but if any other students wish to use the booths they may secure permission from me."

APSC Hosts Future Librarians

About 300 high school student library assistants of the Middle Tennessee section held their annual conference at Austin Peay March 24.

The students discussed such topics as librarianship as a career, duties of a library assistant, rewards of being a library assistant, book reviewing, library club activities, and publicity and displays.

Rebecca Cauxill, an author of books for young people, addressed the group. Entertainment was provided by the Austin Peay music department.

Elections Feature Big Turnout

Graham Sugg, junior, has been elected President of the Student Council for next year.

Ray Stone will take office as Vice-President, and Beverly Nichols will handle the Council's financial and business affairs as Secretary-Treasurer.

One of the tightest Student Council election races in APSC's history was clinched Tuesday, April 12, as Sugg edged his opponent, Bobby Atkins, by one vote, 218-217, in a post-election runoff which saw the votes recounted by members of the Student Council.

Stone and Miss Nichols were elected in the first casting of votes, April 6.

Cheerleaders for 1960-61 were also elected, April 6. Cheerleaders for next year will be: Nancy Williams, Pat Weakley, Barbara Longhurst, Nancy Ann Byard, Rita Decker, and Betty Radcliff. Joyce Webb was chosen as an alternate.

Over 3000 votes were tabulated, counting the runoff, which marks one of the most successful elections the college has had.

Sugg, from McEwen, Tenn., is a junior accounting student, was a cheerleader this year, President of McLeysville Hall and a member of the Student Council.

Stone, Henderson, Ky., is majoring in English-Math.

Miss Nichols, a Clarksvillian, is a junior and is majoring in biology.

Essentially, the campaign was clean with a minimum amount of mud splattered around. The campaign managers and their candidates were: Sherwin Cliff-Beverly Nichols, Sec.-Treas.; Walt Davis - Tom Mapes, Vice-President; Laura Swift - Ray Stone, Vice-President; Jerry Poole-Bobby Atkins, President; Dick Scott-Lloyd Collier, President; Jim Foster, President; and Larry Womack-Graham Sugg, President.

The first election for President saw no candidate have a majority. Sugg led the other candidates with his 168 votes, 18 above Atkins' 150. Collier was only five behind Atkins, and running fourth was Foster with 121. Only 67 votes separated the leader from the trailer.

A runoff was then scheduled for the next Tuesday between Sugg and Atkins. Then followed the two recounts.

A.P.S.C. Gets Radio License

An amateur radio station license with the call WANGV was recently assigned to the Austin Peay State College Amateur Radio Club by the Federal Communications Commission.

The station is located in the electrical and electronics laboratory of the Industrial Arts Department.

Skinner, secretary - treasurer; Thurston L. Lee, Activities Manager and Station Trustee; and Mr. John T. Porter, Faculty Advisor.

Membership in the club is open to students, alumni, and faculty. The club meets at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month. Visitors and prospective members are always welcome.

At the present time two club members have individual amateur radio station licenses, Mr. John Porter with the call KN4TVU, and Thurston Lee with the call WANGK. John Skinner has previously held the call KN4VUE.

The main purpose of the club is to create interest in radio and electronics among the college students, many of whom are prospective industrial arts or science teachers, with the thought that this interest may lead to vocations in radio or electronics among the future students of these prospective teachers. Another purpose is to assist and encourage all members in obtaining their individual licenses.

As a hobby, amateur radio provides an opportunity for contact with other amateur radio operators throughout the world.

The club station at Austin Peay, in addition to providing training and operating enjoyment for its members, is available to Clarksville and community for Civil Defense or other emergency use.

Brown Awarded Assistantship

John D. Brown, accounting major at Austin Peay and a candidate for the Bachelor of Science Degree on June 3, has received an appointment as a graduate assistant in the Department of Accounting, University of Tennessee.

The assistantship, one of three awarded by the university, is for the period of one year beginning September 1, 1960 and ending August 31, 1961.

Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis M. Brown of the Ringgold Community, is a graduate of Woodlawn High School. He spent 19 years in the U. S. Air Force. He is married to the former Miss Opal Melder of Forest Hill, La., presently recognized in the Leaf-Chronicle. They have a five-year-old son, Steve.

Brown is a teacher in the Austin Peay Extension program at Fort Campbell. He is Sunday School Superintendent of the Cumberland Baptist Association.

Trying Out Booth

JOHN COLEMAN takes advantage of the new language booths recently installed in the Fine Arts Building. The booths are being used by language students for oral practice but are available to all students.

Same Old Hat

As expected, our April Fool edition of the ALL STATE, the TENN PEN, enjoyed greater success than all our other editions put together. The writers of that edition edition wish to extend hearty thanks to you readers for contributing to sloppy journalism.

Big Election Turnout

One of the most successful elections in Austin Peay's history was recorded this year, April 6. Approximately 1700 votes were cast for candidates for Student Council offices which ranks as one of the best voting turnouts the College has had.

The ALL STATE is proud of the large turnout and feels that thought and consideration was given to the qualifications of the candidates before votes were cast, particularly so with the presidential candidates judging from the small number of votes separating the hope fuls in the tight race.

There is perhaps one thing which would have made the elections more successful: Another candidates for Secretary-Treasurer. While the winner of that office is certainly capable and qualified to handle the position, there must surely be other persons who could do the job.

The ALL STATE knows that the candidates realize just how big the job they have taken on and pledges its support to any worthwhile project next year's Student Council undertake.

Let's Honor Our Honor Students

It is highly unusual when a group of people get together for no other reason than to discuss world events, past events, and intellectual problems. In fact, it is just short of a rarity. But there is a club in Clarksville, the Philomathic Club, which devotes its meetings to the sole purpose of pursuing theological and philosophical problems.

The ALL STATE would like to see the college sponsor a similar club with the honor students as its members, for unfortunately, our scholars are not given the honor due them for their achievements in the academic field, but this club would be an honor unto itself. Perhaps it could meet once a month, as the Philomathic Club does, and review contributions by members, say research papers on some theological or philosophical theme.

The ALL STATE would gladly lend its support for such an organization.

Browsing With Bob

By Bobby Morrison

"These are the times that try men's souls . . ." someone once said (a boy learning the multiplication tables or a musician on hearing the latest record by Elvis?).

The quarter is well under way, everyone is behind in their work and spring has sprung making everyone wish they had nothing better to do than run around outside and chase girls (What could be better?).

Another person said, "In the spring of the year a young man's fancy turns lightly to what the girls have been thinking about all year—love."

There seems to be more truth than fiction in this statement. The marriage and family relations class here under Miss Lake probably has more students enrolled in it than any other single class offered.

"All married couples have problems," says Miss Lake, "and those who are unmarried really have a problem."

I wonder if this problem could be that of staying single? I would not be surprised at all if there were several girls here at dear A. P. who are seeking to earn their Mrs. Degree.

I personally feel that all problems of marriage could be eliminated by each boy's own effort. All he has to do is to set up certain requirements as to what he expects in an ideal wife and career settle for anything less. That way he will never get married and therefore no marriage problems.

At the present Rusty Penn has a problem or two along this line. He seems to have the desire to go steady with two girls at the same time. For some strange reason the two girls in question do not seem to understand this noble ambition and as a result he is in trouble with both of them, which serves him right for being greedy when there are not enough to go around to begin with.

But enough of my chatter, let Rusty tell you of this matter.

Box 1661 A. P. S. C.

Dear Ma,

I bin kiding a little trouble with that there gal friend o' mine. We bin keeping steady company o' late an' the other day she got it in her head she was gonna marry up with me. Well, it got where she was all ways bringin' this marryin' up every time I got close to her. But I tell you I'm a-scorred of this here gal. You know she's one of them there kind what don't know the value of money.

I think her pa was one o' them there hen-pecked husbands what gives in to anything her ma wants. Another thing is she's use to them there fancy electronic marvels.

She thinks she's got to have a radio, television, electric door bell, and that kinda stuff. Why she even thinks she's gotta have a washing machine just like a rubbin' board ain't good enough for her.

She shore is wasteful too. You would think anybody would know that flower socks are right handy for making new dresses for a woman and would save them. But not this girl. When she takes the flower socks she she throws them away.

Then there's this other girl. She means well, she's pretty, but she just ain't too smart. Do you know she ain't got the slightest idea of how to cook cold room and collards, or baked possum and sweet taters, or ground hog and pork greens!

I don't know what the ma's o' these gals now-a-days train up a girl to do but it shore ain't house work. An' hard to get along with, boy, are they a pain in the neck.

Why when this first gal seen me with the other one the other day she got all upset and said she didn't never want to see me again. I don't know what she done to make her so mad. I just had my arm around this other girl. She went an' told the one I had my arm around that me an' her was engaged to be married and she jumped up an' married me up side the head with a book an' they both left.

I just can't understand what's got in to these gals here lately. They ain't no account to work and they get mad over nothing.

I found another one the other day that is one of them there camera bugs. She goes around all the time taking pictures. She said she'd show me her darkroom sometime. So I'll send you a picture of myself right soon.

You know I kinda wish I'd had one of them there cameras a week or so ago. There was a whole passed of them real pretty gals here from the high schools. One day a bunch o' them was wearing some o' them real short dresses what ain't but about a foot long like them sinful women you tote me to stay away from when I got to the city. If I had of a picture of them I could of remembered what they looked like a whole lot better and wouldn't have let them turn my head like you said that there one in the saloon over at the county seat done pa.

Well I see that gal with the camera coming and we're gonna go take some pictures now so I'll write again soon.

Your Son,

The End of Our Pen

You as an individual are the backbone of our institution. All of you individuals constitute our student body. For this reason the thing that we call school spirit must begin with you as an individual and build up into the mass. It is the responsibility of you, you, and you to contribute your talent and time to all of our campus activities and organizations. I get so tired of people saying, "well, I don't have time to do everything." No, but you do have time to do something. Instead of going home every weekend, you might find it very refreshing and stimulating to go to a dance, write a letter to the editor of the All State, or attend a campus play. I am not criticizing those people who go home. But every weekend? If you were going to spend half your time at home you should have taken a correspondence course. Those people who do double up on jobs to get the Annual out or the Tower are those people who also find time to start a chess club, or be in a play, or participate in some sport. A small minority of people always find the time to take on another job that needs to be done.

We need new blood and talent in our organizations. Those people who have taken on the responsibility of running them year after year are tired and exhausted. Their ideas are beginning to be drained out. They need some help but they can't get it when every one says to himself, "I'll just let somebody that has more ability do it." We don't need just bosses, we need some workers, somebody behind the jets. Personal satisfaction can come from a job well done even if it isn't the one in the line light.

When a muscle isn't used or any other organ of the body isn't used it eventually becomes useless. It cannot function any more. That happens to student who never do anything constructive, who never use their talents and abilities. They become stagnant pools and eventually the worms crawl in and rot out the vestiges of interest and talent, leaving a dried up skeleton of a human being.

There are some people who never get enthusiastic, aroused, or animated about anything. They never take a stand on controversial issues, never voice an opinion, if they have any, never disagree. I cannot conceive of someone who chooses to be so useless. Fence-sitters are the most despicable type of being around. Maybe there are some who feel that their opinions aren't worth much, and other people may agree; but the fact that your little noggin' is working, even it be one the wrong gin' is working, even it be on the wrong than lifeless in that respect.

There is really nothing I or any one else can do to quicken the interest and the desire to participate, it is something you alone must do. If you don't wish to we will have to continue depending on the few who do. We are interested in you and we do care about what you do, else we wouldn't be asking for your support and help in undertaking our student activities. And those of us who have worked hard and long with others on a project have experienced an affectionate bond of kinship to our fellow students. We have learned and earned respect of our fellow students. We can point with pride to our successes and can resolve to try harder in cases of failure.

This is something you surely won't regret and more often than not something you will find helpful in later life. Accumulation of experiences is usually conducive to learning that which is worth while and long lasting.

AP Playhouse Presents British 'Night Must Fall'

A bit of Britain stage struck the theater crowd on Austin Peay's campus.

The Austin Peay Playhouse, in conjunction with the Clarkville Civic Theater, presented Emily Williams' NIGHT MUST FALL, a very British mystery drama.

Members of the Austin Peay Playhouse who appeared in the play were Linda Powers, Mrs. Rita Robinson, Joyce Pardue, Skip Gray, and Walt Davis.

The Clarkville Civic Theater was represented by Mrs. Susie Crockard-Deweller, Gayle Lester, Jim Welker, and Carl Klugman.

NIGHT MUST FALL was directed by J. G. Griffin; Mrs. Lila

Potts was assistant director.

Gossip has it that the cast forsook its usual beverages for tea in hopes of saturating vocal cords with a genuine English accent.

But according to a very reliable source, they told fortunes with pine needles.

Spivakovky Duo Featured At AP In Com. Concert

The Spivakovky Duo presented the latest Community Concert, held in the Clement Auditorium, March 24.

The first appearances of the Spivakovky Duo marked one of the most unusual events of the season—the reunion of two far-flung members of a noted musical family for the first time in 25 years, during which span each has attained eminence in his own field and in different parts of the world.

Tosny Spivakovky, "in the forefront of violinists" now playing before the public, and his brother Jascha Spivakovsky, a leading pianist of Australia, combine again for a limited period to offer a joint program of violin and piano masterworks.

Jascha Spivakovsky, Russian-born and of Berlin-educated, has, during many successful tours of Europe, played under Richard Strauss, Nikisch, Furtwangler, Sir Malcolm Sargent, and other leading European conductors.

He made his New York debut 10 years ago, then returned in 1952 for performances as soloist with the San Francisco Symphony under Pierre Monteux. The pianist is now settled in Australia, where he gives frequent tours and has been associated with the Australian Broadcasting Commission.

Tosny Spivakovsky has been a leading figure on the concert stage since his sensational American debut in 1943 introducing the Bartok Concerto with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony. England was the scene of his latest overseas triumphs when he recently made his London appearance in recital and with the London Philharmonic.

The violinist created another sensation in New York last winter when he played the first New York performance of the Rogers Sessions Concerto with the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein.

Admission to Community Concerts is on membership basis only; regular students at Austin Peay are admitted on the student activity cards.

Bev Nichols MSM Beauty Contest Entrant

Beverly Nichols is the Methodist Student Movement's candidate for entry in the forthcoming beauty contest at Austin Peay.

She was selected to represent the religious group at a meeting this week.

MSM Business taken up at the meeting included the group's annual retreat for planning the next year's activities. Tentative dates for the lakeside retreat has been set for May 21 and 22. Committees have been appointed to plan the retreat and its activities.

Tom Cloyd, a missionary to the Belgian Congo from Clarkville, spoke to the group and showed them slides on missionary work in the Congo. His wife Betty and son Mark were also present.

Indecision, said Cloyd, is one of the things that can wreck a person's life. He pointed out that many people in the Congo don't have a chance to develop their talents. Slides depicted the undernourished, illiterate children of natives soon to be independent.

Basketball, said Cloyd, is a favorite sport of the Congo young people. Youth of different tribes played well together; parents of these same youths are now fighting each other, though, for dominance.

He told of some of the hardships and satisfactions of mission work.

Schmidt Speaks To Music Group

Aaron Schmidt took part in two clinics for the state meeting of the Alabama Music Educators' group in March.

The meeting was held at the University of Alabama. Austin Peay's music faculty member spoke on clarinet concepts at one of the sessions.

Schmidt is Director of the Austin Peay Marching Band and the membership chairman of the Southern Division of College Band Directors National Association.

This Is The College; Here Are The Students

"What is another word for calm?" Francisco Sareda asked the girl who was helping him correct his English theme.

"Serene." Then, to be clearer, she switched to French. "Serein!" she mislaid.

"No," he responded. "Serein is for later, for when it is more nearly night. We will have to use calm." he declared as he stopped analyzing the sentence in his attempt to get the exact word.

Then they continued down the paper, correcting the spelling and punctuation. The sentences were long, made with phrase after phrase piled on top of each other in a way they might even confuse Faulkner.

And Francisco added, "If I could spell, I bet I could write a novel."

But then, being acquainted with Spanish, French, German, English, and Latin should be enough to confuse anyone's spelling.

Francisco was born in Palma de Mallorca, Spain. That is one of the five Balearic Islands. But he has traveled through nearly every country in free Europe, and he has visited Jerusalem and Lebanon.

"Francisco really speaks good English," said Becky Garland. "He understands the figures of speech, and sometimes he makes little puns with them."

In 1957, he went to Berlin University to study German, German history, and political science. Francisco is majoring in History, and this gives the history professors an opportunity to tease him about Spain and Generalissimo Franco.

One day Dr. Morris asked, "The Spanish Army has so many generals that it that there are more generals than ordinary soldiers; isn't that so, Mr. Sareda?"

"Yes, sir," replied Francisco. "It is about equal to the number of Kentucky colonels!"

And despite his language troubles, he is minoring in English. "That is if they don't throw me out of the department," he added. At the present, he is considering translating a Spanish play into English, because it is a very funny story, and I don't think it has been translated yet."

Francisco came to this country in February, 1958. After his arrival, he attended the Boston Conservatory of Music for one semester.

Then, in the fall of that year, he came to Austin Peay. But he did not continue his study of music until last year. It was then that it was discovered that he had studied the piano at the Conservatory of Mallorca, a branch of the University of Madrid, and that he had played with the Barcelona Orchestra at the Monastery of Montserrat.

Francisco also plays the cello. He has played in the Orchestra Sinfonica de Mallorca, and he is now playing in the orchestra here.

Francisco enjoys watching people, and he can describe the idiosyncrasies of many people with hilarious accuracy. His pantomimed description of Fredrick Binnet's customary entrance into the library would make Larry Womack envious.

He is thinking of writing short vignettes on each of the instructors here. "But only when I am ready to leave," he adds.

"I don't think that I want a Doctor's degree," he said. "If I knew that much, I wouldn't have anything to do."

But he is planning to go on in school as far as he can. Then, he thinks he might go back to Spain to go to Diplomatic School.

Francisco doesn't belong to any club, though he is considering joining the Neuman Club. With his study of music, assisting Dr. Thomas teaching Spanish, and writing about his observations of people, he is busy enough.

APRIL 14, 1960

AP Downs Florence 3-2 For Win No. 2

Austin Peay's baseballing Governors are off and running again this year. The Big Red tipped Florence State's Lions 3-2 for the second win in as many starts, April 4.

Jim Beshears, sophomore shortstop, pitched to every man except one and allowed only five hits for the Gova.

"I was highly pleased with Beshears," said Coach Leon Sandier. "It was cold, and I think it took a lot of heart to throw the way he did."

In all, there were but 13 hits in the game, quite a different contrast from the Middle Tennessee tilt last Friday. Against the Blue Raiders, Austin Peay swatted 20 hits alone. Add to that 14 hits by MTSC for a total of 34 hits. Out of those 34 hits, 31 runs came across the plate.

After trailing 2-1 in the eighth inning, the Governors' Pat Webb tripled and then scored the tying run on an error. Joe Cinotta, freshman sensation, singled and then advanced to second on a costly error by Florence State. Arvel Atkins, veteran short stop, layed one on the ground for a single which moved Cinotta across the home plate with the winning run.

Jim Beshears was given the victory, his second of the year, even though he did not pitch to the last man. Ronnie Bibb, freshman, filled in for Beshears.

Jerry Vaughn, right fielder for the Gova, went three for four at bat and drove in one run. The only other Gova player who could collect over one hit was Arvel Atkins, shortstop with two hits. Bobby Frost got three hits for Florence State.

"The thing that helps us the most," commented Sandier with a pleased look, "is our attitude. The men have shown a lot of spirit."

It on and off the field which goes a long way toward winning a ballgame."

Gova Bow To S.U.M.

Five first places were not enough to give Austin Peay's thinnies a victory over Southwestern University of Memphis, and the Gova went down 40-51, April 4.

The Governors copped firsts in both the low and high hurdles, both jumps and they swept the pole vault event.

Red Rheinhardt collected 13 points for the evening to pace the Governors. Rheinhardt placed first in both the low and high hurdles and placed second in the high jump. Following closely behind Rheinhardt was Tom Phillips with 10 points. Phillips picked up his points by winning both the high jump and broad jump events.

Austin Peay swept the pole vault event with a three way tie for first place. Dan Burden, Richard Green and Preston Russell tied at 1 feet.

For Southwestern, Mallory Chamberlain and Wes Buebee puled up the points with 15 each.

Yesterday's loss was Austin Peay's second in as many starts. The Gova dropped their first meet to Tennessee Tech.

Gova Nip MTSC 16-15 In Opener

It took ten innings to do it, but Austin Peay's Governors finally wound up with a 16-15 verdict over Middle Tennessee's Blue Raiders in a wild baseball slugfest, April 1.

For the Gova, it was the first baseball game and home game of the season. MTSC took Austin Peay's field sporting a 11 record, with a loss to Vandy and a 2-0 victory over David Lipscomb.

The diamond match went a record breaking four hours and three minutes. It started at 3:03 and lasted until 7:06.

The Governors clouted four home runs early in the game, two of them by a freshman. Jerry Vaughn, veteran outfielder, smacked one over the right field bank to set the state for Joe Cinotta's base for a homer to left field. Cinotta, a freshman catcher, later was accredited with a home run by ground rules. The other home run that was hit came with Walt Celusta, sophomore, at bat. Celusta tagged a pitch for the long ball in the fifth inning.

Austin Peay blasted into a 5-0 lead in the first two innings, but the Blue Raiders caught fire and began tagging the Gova's starting hurler, Ronnie Bibb, for hits and led the Gova 14-6 in the 6th inning.

Middle Tennessee could score only one more run in the remaining innings, but the Governors' A. P. drove in 11 runs in the remaining four innings of play.

Jim Stewart, third baseman for the Gova, led off in the bottom of the ninth with the score evened up at 15-15. Stewart singled and Pat Webb, another veteran, moved Stewart to second base with a one base hit of his own.

MTSC's pitcher John Stanford then walked powerhitter Joe Cinotta to fill the bases. Jim Beshears, Austin Peay's fourth pitcher, also drew a walk which broke the tie and the game.

Ronnie Bibb, freshman from Clarksville, started on the mound for the Governors but was replaced by Ken Connelly, another freshman, in the fourth inning. Connelly was then replaced by Herschel Smith, freshman in the sixth inning. Jim Beshears, sophomore, finished the game for the Gova after he relocated Smith on the mound in the seventh inning.

"The freshmen looked pretty good to me," said Coach Leon Sandier. "At least we know we have some hitters whether we have pitchers or not. But I think Beshears did a good relief job."

Sandier singles out Joe Cinotta, freshman, who went four-for-five with two homers and two singles, and Jim Stewart for his fine defensive play. Stewart went four-for-seven. Stewart and Cinotta drove in eight runs between them.

Track Team Tops Union University; Gov 9 Rips U.T.M.B. 12-9

April 14 was a very successful day for Austin Peay's Governors sports-twe. The Govs won their first track meet of the season, and the baseballers picked up their third straight win of the season.

The Gov tracksters topped Union University 72-50 on the strength of their field events. They picked up more than half their points in the field by sweeping the broad jump and winning six of the six events. Pratt Busby won first place in both the shot and the discus, and Tom Phillips placed first in both the high and broad jump. Preston Russell capped a first in the pole vault event.

Austin Peay missed two points in the low and high hurdles by about a half-foot. Red Rheinhart was ahead of his opponent in both events and was edged on the straightaway.

GOV NINE HAS EASY TIME WITH UTM

Meanwhile, on the baseball diamond, the Governors were bang slugging out a 12-9 victory over the University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

The win made the third in as many starts for the Govs.

Austin Peay banged out a 7-3 lead in the sixth inning and scored five more runs in the remaining three while the Vols drove in six more runs.

Roger Davis chalked up his first win of the season and earned the praise of Coach Leon Sanford.

"Davis pitched a fine game for us, considering the fact that it was his first game this year," said Sanford.

Davis was relieved by Ken Connolly in the sixth frame.

Jim Stewart and Pat Webb led the Governors' batting attack with hits between them.

"Of course, I was pleased with Stewart's and Webb's batting, but I think Ronnie Bibb did a fine defensive job, and when he stole home, it looked pretty good to me," commented Sanford.

Bibb replaced Jerry Vaughn in centerfield when Vaughn pulled a leg muscle. Bibb has started for Austin Peay as a pitcher.

A freshman who also got a pat on the back from Sanford was first baseman John Briggeman. Briggeman played in his first college baseball game yesterday and promptly blasted a home run.

Five Aces Champs Of AP Intramurals

On Thursday evening, March 10, the Gambler's clashed with the Five Aces in the Big Red barn to determine the champions of the men's basketball intramural league. The game lead seemed ed back and forth throughout its entirety with the Five Aces eventually coming out on top.

For five weeks prior to the championship contest, thirteen teams, playing in two leagues, vied for the right to play in the final tilt. Each team played every other team in its league once. After this round-robin affair, the top team from the division played the top team from the other to decide the champions for the whole intramural program.

Livestock Judging Team Ranks First At NACTA

An Austin Peay livestock judging team ranked first in the nation at the annual meeting of the National Association of College Teachers of Agriculture.

One member of the team, Bobby

Agres, secured first place in sheep and swine judging. He was top judge in the livestock judging, which included sheep, swine, and beef cattle. His beef cattle rating is not yet known.

A second member of the team, Norman Usery, ranked sixth in a combination of beef cattle, swine and sheep.

Johnny Wyatt was the other regular member of the judging team, and James A. Cooksey was an alternate.

The national livestock judging contest was one of three divisions, the others being in soils and dairy. Austin Peay didn't enter soils judging, and its dairy judging team arrived too late to get into the contest. Members of the dairy team were Wiley Horn, Earl Schmittou, and Martin Allison.

The contest was held this year at Southeast Missouri State College, Springfield, Missouri. It is slated for Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas, next year.

About 50 persons were in the livestock judging contest, representing 13 or 14 teams from as many colleges from various states throughout the nation.

Other school ratings, after first-place Austin Peay, in livestock included Abilene Christian College, second; Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, Missouri, third; Illinois State Normal, Normal, Illinois, fourth; and Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, fifth.

Central Missouri topped Austin Peay in swine by being first compared to Austin Peay's second. Austin Peay led second-place Abilene Christian in sheep.

Each type of livestock, beef cattle, sheep, and swine, was further divided into three classes for judging purposes.

The group was accompanied by James D. Hamilton, associate professor of agriculture at Austin Peay.

The bunny has long been a symbol of Easter to children across America. With the coming of the Easter season, he suddenly appears in all shapes and sizes—on candy store counters and department store windows.

For his own, handmade, floppy-eared Easter bunny... supply Junior with a paper bag, a box of CRAYOLA crayons, a sheet of white paper, ribbon, a stapler, pins or tape, paste and cotton.

First draw the face, in bright CRAYOLA colors, near the top of the bag. Fill the bottom with newspaper and tie a ribbon around the middle. Cut the ears out of paper—fashion a cotton tail—attach these and the bunny is complete.
