New student organization

On Oct. 27, 1978, the Student Coalition for Gay Rights submitted the necessary documents to receive official recognition as a campus organization.

According to a news release from the organization, the primary goal of the coalition is to break down the myths and stereotypes that breed misunderstanding and unwarranted discrimination toward people of alternate lifestyles within our society.

Although the methods of reaching our objectives are innumerable, the coalition is using the time proven ideal of education, through but not limited to the following programs:

1. Already in action are six consciousness raising groups designed to provide an atmosphere conducive to logical, rational and intellectual discussion of the pleasures, problems, liabilities and advantages of various alternate lifestyles.

2. Dissemination of credible and authoritative literature from the fields of psychology, religion, philosophy and politics.

3. Provide information through a bi-weekly newsletter on current events as related to the status of Human Rights in America (The Briggs Initiative in California, ACLU Gay Rights Projects, The New Dade County referendum).

4. Request and lobby for nationally prominent visiting speakers such as David Kopay, Patricia Nell Warren, Dr. Howard Brown, etc.

5. To publicize the National Gay Hotline—a 24 hour, toll-free telephone service that provides counseling and academic materials.

6. Coordination with the Metropolitan Community Church, Baptist

Alumni banquet

Bart featured at dinner

By Kay Hinton
"We feel Teddy Bart will be the drawing card for the Alumni Homecoming Banquet. We are expecting a record crowd," Henry Malone, director of alumni affairs, recently remarked.

Bart, a radio and television personality, has been announced as the featured speaker and entertainer for the 1978 Alumni Homecoming Banquet. The banquet will be held at 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 3 in the University Center Ballroom. "This is a change from the annual Saturday evening banquet," Mr.

Malone pointed out.

Bart began his career with WSM in 1960, as a featured performer on various programs. In a very short time, Bart's talents were being used frequently by WSM as a performer and an emcee. For ten years, Bart was the featured vocalist on WSM-TV Noon Show. In May of 1970, Teddy was officially named as host of the Noon Show.

In addition to his television work, which also includes the weekly public affairs program Teddy Bart's Nashville, he hosts The Waking Crew weekdays from 7:45 a.m. - 9:00 a.m. and The Teddy Bart Show, a telephone program afternoons where he and his special guests answer calls from listeners, both on WSM-AM Radio.

Bart's writing skills are also considerable and his literary accomplishments include Inside Music City U.S.A. and a novel, The Menak. He also writes a weekly commentary for The Nashville Banner.

The banquet is open to everyone interested. The Student Government Association officers, class presidents and alumni association scholarship recipients will attend as honorary guests. Tickets cost $7.50 per person.

Malone commented that Bart was recently named the "Most Popular TV Entertainer" in our area, and said, "From all reports, Teddy does an excellent job. I'm not sure what he intends to talk about, but he might quite possibly sing also."

Anyone interested in attending should contact an alumni board member, or call 648-7979.

By Kay Hinton
A triple-crown court consisting of Karen Beakley, Kathy Hamilton and Benita Waller, will preside over the Austin Peay 1978 Homecoming.

Karen Priscilla Beakley was sponsored by Chi Omega sorority. Karen is a 21-year-old Secretarial Science major from Centerville, TN. In her spare time, Karen enjoys sports and needlepoint. She is a senior at APSU and hopes to find a secretarial job after graduation. When asked how she felt about being elected for Homecoming Court, Karen answered, "I'd like to thank everyone for all their hard work. I'm really excited!"

Also hailing from Centerville is Glenda Kathleen Hamilton (Kathy), Alpha Tau Omega's homecoming choice. Kathy is a sophomore and as of yet, she is undecided on a career major. Her hobbies are swimming and softball. "I'd like to thank everyone for their support. I feel very honored to be selected for Homecoming Court," Kathy said.

Representing the Sociology Club is Benita

Cordelia Waller. Benita is a junior and turned 21 last week. She is majoring in Social Welfare and plans to be a social worker upon graduation. Benita's hometown is Fayetteville, TN. Tennis, racquetball, and dancing top her list of favorite pastimes. Benita commented, "Being selected for Homecoming Court feels very good. I was rather shocked at first, but it's a nice place to be. I really enjoy it. I'd like to thank everybody who voted for me."

SGA passes provision

At its regular meeting Thursday night, the SGA senate passed into law a constitutional provision allowing for senate-at-large. The change came about as a result of the addition of more than 900 students at the Eagle University Center at Fort Campbell. "These students are a part of the regular head count for the university, but are not separated by classification. Therefore, it was necessary to provide for their representation by creating at-large senate seats," said David Mason, SGA president.

According to the wording of the amendment, any student is eligible to hold one of these seats, and all students are eligible to vote for them. Each of these senators must meet the same qualifications as class senators, except that they do not have to be in any particular class. Mason added that the creation of these positions will have the added benefit of enabling more people to become involved in student government.

The bill creating the new senate seats also provided for special elections to be held this quarter, to determine the new senators. After this quarter, the senators-at-large will be elected during regular spring elections.

In other action, the senate also passed a resolution calling for a change in the present administrative ultimatum requiring that dormitory residents move all of their belongings out of their room. "This bill comes as a result of a multitude of complaints made by dorm residents," said Mason. There have residents to store their belongings in their room closet, and that they provide the dormitory head resident with an itemized list of all valuables left in the room. There was some debate over the itemized list, but the bill eventually passed in its entirety. Junior Class Senator Cathy Allsup drafted and introduced the bill, which she hopes will be an acceptable compromise to both administrators and students.

been numerous petitions circulated across campus expressing student dissatisfaction towards the new rule," he added. Mason indicated that he will work with Residence Hall Council President Pat Phillips in working for the change. "Dr. Bob Nettles (Dean of Student Services) has indicated to me that he is willing to work on a compromise. What sort of compromise depends on the administration's willingness to see that this regulation will do nothing to inconvenience the dorm resident," said Mason.

Mason pointed out that the Residence Hall Council has already done extensive lobbying for the students, and that he feels the administration will go along with an acceptable compromise.

The bill specifically called for a change that would allow dormitory

Council proves worth

The Residence Hall Council has already proved its effectiveness. In its first meeting held Monday night, it was able to secure for resident students the opportunity to leave personal property in their rooms during Christmas break.

much discussion and the revelation of various problems that student residents have encountered, a compromise was reached.

In effect, students will be allowed to leave belongings in their rooms, with the understanding that there is no guarantee that what is left will be there when the student returns.

Now, that may sound like a real deal for the student, but consider this. An out-of-state student will not have to rent a U-Haul and load up everything that he or she has accumulated and drag it back home for the holidays. Nor will a student have to be concerned with sorting out all those papers and sentimental objects that have a tendency to pile up. Breakable objects can be carefully packed and stored in a closet or drawer. Clothes can stay, but it is very important that anything of value be removed from the room, so the possibility of loss can be avoided.

The All State commends the Residence Hall Council on its initiative and concern for its students. If more organizations were so effective, Austin Peay would rank among the highest quality schools in the nation.

Nettles deserves commendation because of his genuine willingness to listen to students and ACT when a situation warrants action. His efforts to improve residence hall life are energetic and in the student's best interest.

With the council and the student services office working together, it looks to be an innovative and progressive combination. It is refreshing to see students and administrators aiming at the same important goal: the improvement of student life at Austin Peay.

But you, the resident students, are an integral part in the success of this compromise. During the quarter, your council representatives will be calling on you for help and contributions to the programs that will be taking place. They cannot be expected to carry the burden of progress themselves.

Students who live in the dorms should be involved in order to build Austin Peay residents into a community, rather than individuals living in individual rooms in individual buildings.

Each resident has a responsibility to every other resident. By accepting that responsibility, any effort made to improve resident hall life will be a success. The compromise accepted by Nettles is critical in that its success or failure will determine future policies.

Dr. Bob Nettles, director of student services, explained the administration's policies concerning the necessity of having students move out. He said that Christmas break provided time for badly needed maintenance. The time belongs to the State of Tennessee.

Pat Phillips, president of the council, asked for suggestions from the members at the meeting. After

Dorm compromise reached

Resident hall students will not have to move out during Christmas break. A compromise between the Residence Hall Council and Dr. Bob Nettles, director of student services, was reached at the first meeting of the Residence Hall Council Monday, Oct. 30.

Students will be allowed to leave their belongings in their rooms, but the student must be aware that no guarantee can be made for security. The State of Tennessee will not take the responsibility, Nettles said. Students will be held responsible to move all valuables out at the end of the quarter. The items students wish to leave can be put away in drawers or into their closet. Under these conditions, scheduled maintenance can take place and the student is not inconvenienced. Pat Phillips, president of the RHC, explained that the council has the potential to help turn Austin Peay's residence halls into high quality living situations. He said that he is very positive because the administration is willing to work with the council to help improve living conditions in the halls.

Elected student officials make up the membership of the council. Phillips pointed out that their responsibility is "to make life in the residence halls better." He went on to say that most students feel that they cannot be proud of their buildings or of the conditions in which they live. Many students are abusing their right to live in the dorms through destruction of property. When one student abuses his or her right, every student suffers, said Phillips.

Basic organization among the hall representatives was a major point of discussion. Suggestions for activities and programs to help build hall residents into a community are going to be compiled and studied. The council is planning workshops which will include resident assistants and head residents so that many and varied programs can be offered.

Nettles explained that each student pays for residency for the period of enrollment. Christmas break is not considered a period of enrollment. The break time belongs to the state of Tennessee for maintenance and management. Another problem that he cited was the possibility of a student leaving belongings, then not returning to school. "If we have 100 percent occupancy in the winter and someone doesn't show up, how do I explain to a student who's driven all the way from Ohio that another student's stuff is in his room?" asked Nettles.

He emphasized the absolute necessity of cooperation from every resident hall resident to make this effort a success.

Prerequisite: Irresponsible Sex

Course 101: Premature Parenthood-Prerequisite: Irresponsible Sex. It's a snap course. Pass or fail. No exams, term papers, not even any classes. All that's required is complacency about your own sexuality and a basic naïveté that's sure to keep you from being in control of your sex life.

If your general attitude on the subject of sexual relations is not unlike Scarlet O'Hara's "I'll think about that tomorrow," and if birth control is something you choose to leave up to "him" or "her" or to "fate," this course is for you.

Women will learn to shorten their college years considerably and reduce lifetime earning power substantially through the birth of an unwanted child or deal with choices, such as abortion or early marriage.

Men will explore the joint decision-making process on issues such as abortion, marriage, paternity, etc., perhaps ultimately experiencing the opportunity of learning to deal effectively with irate parents, social pressure, fatherhood, divorce, child support and so forth.

The foregoing course description is fictitious. It is an attempt to raise the issue of premarital sex and to call attention to the fallacy that ostrich-like behavior will eliminate having to deal with the danger of unplanned or unwanted pregnancy. To bury one's head in the proverbial and most assuredly will not eliminate that possibility and, with the ostrich as a masochist, one day your luck is apt to fly right out the window.

Richard F. Hettinger, M.A., author of several books and articles on sex among young adults, particularly college students, writes: "I suspect that sexual behavior on campus is more often less free of convention than it appears. Rather than being based on independent values, it frequently seems to be motivated by a continuing need to reject traditional mores. It continues to be an extension of the necessary adolescent celebration of escape from the confines of establishment anti-sexualism, rather than a mature and considered pattern based on reflection and critical judgment."

A study done by Green Linton Fox for the Merrill-Palmer Institute, published in 1977, reports that "patterns of contraceptive use among collegians, taking into account their increased maturity, education, independence and presumably greater access to contraception...do not seem to differ very much from teenage patterns."

Apparently confirming this lack of responsible sexual behavior at the college level, Richard Hettinger points out in his book, Sex Isn't That Simple, that "Men often assume quite wrongly that any girl who agrees to heavy petting or intercourse has automatically equipped herself for casual sexual activity. Many fail to check that their partner is protected, and some couldn't care less whether she is or not. Some men and women assume that because abortion is available as a last resort, there's no reason to worry about pregnancy, ignoring the fact that abortion is never just a matter of a simple visit to the doctor's office."

We propose that you be the judge. Ask yourself whether the statements that have been made about you are on target. Ask yourself whether you and your friends are adequately informed and behaving realistically and responsibly toward sex.

Perhaps you're right on top of the latest contraceptive developments. But, most likely you're not thoroughly informed about the various methods, how they work, how effective they are and how safe they are. Why not find out what you don't know. Seek information on campus, if available, or contact a branch of Planned Parenthood. Call or write: Family Planning Information Service, 300 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10010 (telephone: 212-677-3040).

The Population Institute in Washington, D.C. will assist any college student in organizing a project to develop or improve campus birth control services in conjunction with college health departments. Academic credit may be arranged.

Carelessness and indifference about contraception are never justified, and the problem will not go away by pretending it isn't there.

Letters to the editor are not to exceed 300 words. They must be signed with a phone number included for verification purposes. The All State cannot print unverified letters. Names will be withheld on request. The letters should be submitted by 4 p.m. Fridays to The All State office in Ellington Hall.

Metronomania hits Clement

By Dinah Englund

It is a disease that began in the dungeons of the Clement Building, and within the short span of two days it has grown to massive proportions, spreading even to the university center, much to the astonishment of students unfamiliar with the disease. What is it? Metronomania!

It first started as a small note on the music department bulletin board from Kenneth Kronholz, the trumpet instructor.

"Would the person who mistakenly picked up my metronome (a brown Taketel) kindly return it to the music office? I believe I left it in the band room. It has some sentimental value, and I would like it returned. Thank You, Kenneth Kronholz."

It is well known around the campus that we music majors have nothing better to do than swing from the exposed pipes and count the few workable lights in the halls, so presently another note appeared from Kronholz.

Now a person may walk down the hall and see a continuous line of notes taped on the walls stretching from one end of the long corridor to the other.

(By the way, a metronome is the little machine that ticks however many beats per minute so a musician can keep time.) When asked about the epidemic he unknowingly started, Kronholz replied, "My only comment is 'I need my metronome back or else my scales will deteriorate!'"

Perhaps some of you have noticed a campaign

Boys from Brazil explore cloning

A stunning revelation in "The Boys from Brazil" precedes one of the most shattering climaxes ever conceived. Cloning is at the heart of it, a subject which has caused a sensation as attention has been riveted around the world on that fascinating, awesome and fear-inducing field of biological endeavor. Can scientists at last duplicate existing life?

Speaking on these new biological micro-manipulators, Saturday Review states, "It now appears possible, in principle, to produce a dozen or a thousand identical twins of a prize athlete, a noted genius or a power-mad dictator."

No wonder then that interest and curiosity have run high about the film of Ira Levin's sensational best seller "The Boys from Brazil" ever since Sir Lew Grade first announced he would present the Producer Circle production. When it was further revealed that "The Boys from Brazil" was to be a Franklin J. Schaffner film, starring Gregory Peck, Laurence Olivier and James Mason and starring Lilli Palmer, expectation rose for a cinematic event of the first magnitude.

Let it be said at the outset that the film, like Levin's novel, centers on one of the most diabolic human beings ever to live and also be portrayed in a work of fiction—the man directly responsible for the murder of three hundred thousand Jews at Auschwitz, earning for him the grim appellation—“Angel of Death.” Novel and film unflinchingly use his real name—Josef Mengele.

Writing of Mengele, Paris Match stated, “Despite a university degree in philosophy, Mengele is the instigator of horror, tortures and genetic experiments in the name of racial purity. It was he who injected tint into children’s eyes to make them ‘fatherland blue’; it is he who injected tint into children’s eyes to make them ‘fatherland blue’; it is he who slaughtered twins and their mothers in experiments to discover the secret of this biological ‘accident.’ It is he, the Auschwitz sadist, who killed all concentration camp children too small for their age.”

Few films encompass so devastating a polarization of good and evil. Fewer still offer roles so fascinatingly complex. Almost none match the unorthodox brilliance of the casting. In a total departure from every starring vehicle of an impressive career, Gregory Peck undertakes the demanding and fascinating role of Josef Mengele, making vivid, and terrifyingly credible the man’s arch evil.

Next to Eichmann and Bormann, Mengele—having escaped trial and punishment at the end of the war—is considered the most vicious Nazi criminal still alive and the Number One target of famed Nazi hunter, Simon Wiesenthal.

In The Boys from Brazil, the role of the Nazi hunter bears the name Lieberman, but in his determination and dedication to the cause of justice and retribution, the fictional hero evokes thoughts of Wiesenthal and his passionate commitment to a difficult and bitter task.

The Lieberman character provides the opportunity for another towering performance

RA's Play An Important Role

An in-depth Resident Assistants (RA) training program was held at Austin Peay one week prior to the opening of school this fall.

The training, according to Student Services Director Bob Nettles, was designed for four main reasons: 1. To acquaint the Resident Assistants with the services of Austin Peay; 2. To help them develop a sense of pride in the job that they do; 3. To train them to be good listeners and to act as advisors for students who have problems; and 4. To help the Resident Assistants create a community within the residence halls. A manual outlining the procedure of achieving these goals was given to each Resident Assistant.

There is one RA assigned to approximately every floor and a half of each dormitory. The RA aids the Head Resident who is the top administrative force in the residence hall. The Head Resident undergoes a more intense training of administrative procedure, maintenance, academic and security problems.

"A Resident Assistant has a dual role to play," stated Nettles. "He is still a student, but he also represents the administration of the university. It is a very difficult role to play."

Nettles said that the RA program provided front-line contact to the services of the university. He also stated that he felt that the RA program was effective because in many cases students would rather talk to other students about their problems.

Nettles remarked, "We encourage students to go to their Resident Assistants with their problems. If they are not trained in a particular problem, they can make referrals to someone who is."

Mock Election scheduled today

A mock election, sponsored by the Political Studies Association, will be held today, Nov. 1, in the lobby of the Joe Morgan University Center. Students can vote for the candidates of their choice from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The ballots will contain the names of the candidates in local, regional, state, and national races. The results of the mock election will be turned over to the local media and to the party headquarters so they can see how well their candidates fared.

According to Dr. Rawlins, president of the Political Studies Association, the mock election "provides a non-scientific sampling of student opinion." It gives an indication of how students will vote in the Nov. 7 election.

Austin Peay to host Special Olympics

Next spring Austin Peay State University will host a Special Olympics program on campus.

Special Olympics is a program which was originated by Joseph Patrick Kennedy, father of President John F. Kennedy. The Special Olympics program was created for persons who are mentally retarded and is sponsored by the Coca-Cola bottlers across the nation.

Until last year, the Special Olympics events in the Middle Tennessee area were held in Nashville. Due to the overcrowded conditions last year, the area was divided into sections. Montgomery County was chosen as the center for events for Montgomery, Stewart, Houston, and Robertson Counties.

The first two events on the schedule will be the gymnastics competition and the track and field competition both to take place in April. Other events scheduled for the Special Olympics this year include basketball, bowling, swimming and soccer. Also, two contestants will be sent to Boone, N.C. to compete in a snow skiing event.

The winners of the Clarksville event will travel to Nashville to compete in district competition. The winners of the district contests will advance to regional then international events.

The program scheduled for the Clarksville area will be sponsored by the Sociology club of APSU in cooperation with William Kleeman, local Coca-Cola bottler. Assistant Professor of Sociology, Glenn C. Carter, who also serves as the faculty advisor of the Sociology Club was chosen as the area director of the Special Olympics program.

Any mentally retarded person over the age of eight is eligible to participate in Special Olympics. The Sociology Club is working through the school systems of this area to contact contestants. Volunteers will go to the school to work with the participants.

"The contestants will be categorized by age and ability. This way, each contestant will have a fair chance. There is also the possibility that we might have a wheelchair and walker competition," stated Carter.

Carter urged all students to take an active part in the Special Olympics. "I feel that it will be a wonderful experience for anyone involved to see the pleasure on the faces of the mentally retarded contestants' faces."

Carter requested that anyone interested in the program contact him in his office in the library basement.

Carter remarked, "I am tremendously excited about the Special Olympics. I am also very grateful to everyone who has been helpful in the preparation for the event. I feel that the Special Olympics will be an event that both the University and Clarksville can be proud of."

Clamato contest offered to students

Feel creative? Well, you can earn $1,000 for a good imaginative idea according to Raymond M. Anzig, President of the Duffy-Mott Company. Anzig will pay that much (plus second and third prize awards of $500 and $250) to the college student who comes up with the winning answer to . . . What is a Clamato?

Where is it found? Does it grow? Who invented it? Do you eat it, drink it, pickle it? Where do you buy it? In a hardware store, a supermarket, an apothecary shop? Is it sexy?

This unusual research challenge has been hurled at America's college population to find the most intriguing and humorous definition of a Clamato, whatever it is.

A panel of famous judges will select the winners, according to Anzig, who said the competition will be extended until December 15, 1978.

The contest is open to any current full-time college student in the United States.

The answer to "What is a Clamato?" can be submitted in the form of an article, short story, fable, a painting, cartoon, jingle, photography, sculpture, or any other means a student may employ. Contestants may enter as many times as they wish and no proof of purchase is necessary.

All entries should be sent to:

What is a Clamato Contest
17th Floor
1212 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036

Entries and ideas cannot be returned and will become property of the Duffy-Mott Company.

Decisions of the judges will be final. Be sure to provide your name and address as well as the name of your college or university with your entry.

ID dates changed

By Kay Hinton

Operation ID went into effect last Wednesday night with Ellington Hall as its first stop.

Sgt. Jack Prout, security officer, said that the operation at Ellington Hall went very well. Twenty-two students participated.

Some minor problems have been encountered. Thursday night found all Operation ID officers except Prout out on sick leave, so the Cross Hall operation had to be cancelled.

The South side of Killebrew Hall was scheduled for Nov. 2. This had to be rescheduled because of the "Player"/"Exile" concert to be held that night.

Prout assured, "We'll go back and pick these places up. That's why we called the schedule 'tentative.'"

Prout said that the response of the students was very good and that, so far, Operation ID was running smoothly.

Metronome

poster with the promise "A metronome in every pot" printed on it. This is only a sample of the many cute (and sometimes actually clever) notes added to the wall by contributing students and teachers. Some are left out because of their complex nature or other small details (downright indecenty). Don't be insulted if your clever addition wasn't printed in The All State.

Also, no names have been acknowledged. Most of the graffiti wasn't signed, and most of the writers didn't want their creations acknowledged. No wonder.

A person also borrowed a metronome of the same description from me. It has no sentimental value, but you have had it since last winter, so please put it in locker 15 from whence it came. Thank you.

By the way, when I was a freshman, someone also borrowed my metronome from my locker. It was tan in color, and has great sentimental value. Would that person kindly put it back in my locker when they finish with it. Thank you.

By the way, I never had a metronome, but I would like to have one very badly. So if you leave one laying around I will take it and it will have great sentimental value.

My son made a metronome for me out of a small radio case and parts that he bought at Radio Shack. Saved me a lot of money.

I have never lost a metronome nor do I intend to. Too bad for those that lost theirs.

Sneaky Fitch did it.

Attention: recently my mother bought me a metronome. While crossing the street she was killed and my metronome was smashed. Anyone having either a good metronome or a used mother please leave them in P.O. Box . . .

What's a metronome?

In answer to preceding question, a metronome is a mythical beast. In case anyone wants to see one, there is a yard sale at the corner of eighth and Franklin which three hundred of these mythical beings. They have been gathered for your convenience.

What do you need a metronome for anyway? The rhythm method doesn't work.

It does, too, work. My music has never been pregnant.

I haven't seen any pregnant music lately, but there were 300 pregnant brown (tan) Taktell metronomes heading toward 8th and Franklin just a few minutes ago.

Y'all are acting like a bunch of high school kids!

To whom it may concern: I have had a lost metronome in my office for almost as long as I've been here (1.9 years). It's broken, but someone may want to claim it!

For a $50 ransom fee I will return any of the metronomes that I have collected in the past five years. P.S. Pregnant metronomes and used mothers are extra.

I thought a metronome was where the New York Mets played.

My metronome was recently impregnated by a Pope. It gave birth to a Metropolis. My name is Betty Crocker, and if you're dead-set on getting a metronome I'll bake you one.

This wall looks a lot better when it has the unique wall paper on it.

Metronome for Homecoming Queen!

Sneaky Fitch is still a prime suspect.

I used to be a music major before somebody stole my sentimental Taktell.

"We come to bury metronome, not to praise him."

"Metronome, metronome, therefore art thou metronome!"

The All State has learned that some 47 metronomes have recently been discovered in the basement of Ellington Hall. Anyone interested in obtaining one of these metronomes may contact the authorities.

Frivolity, merriment at Madrigal Feast

By Kathi Bennett

The fourth annual Christmas Madrigal Feast at Austin Peay will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7-9. Tickets go on sale today.

The madrigal feast is an evening of dining put on by the Chamber Singers at Austin Peay and is highlighted by music of Renaissance England and contemporary carols of the Christmas season. The music will be performed by the 24 Chamber Singers.

The singers are regally costumed in sixteenth century garb—magnificent silks, brocades and furs. The university center ballroom, which is used for the feast, is transformed into a warm and rascous environment which resembles that of a wealthy nobleman in Elizabethan England. The sets are provided by Olen Bryant.

There is always a Lord of Mirth, who serves as a court jester and the master of ceremonies, and sees that the evening is full of merriment and frivolity.

Herald Trumpets announce each new course of the lavish six course meal which includes Wassail, soup, standing rib roast, feathered fowl, salads and flaming plum pudding.

Guests are encouraged to dine in the manner of English Lords and Ladies, with the absence of eating utensils, by digging in with their fingers. For those more timid and reluctant to gleam their pinkies, knives and forks are provided.

The event is open to any interested persons in the community, but tickets usually sell quite fast. The cost is $9.50 each and about 350 persons per night are expected to attend.

Dr. George L. Mabry of Austin Peay's music department directs the festivities. More information and tickets may be obtained by calling the music department at Austin Peay State University at 648-7815.

PERFECTLY CLEAR—Robin Beard, U.S. Congressman from the sixth district, clears up a question at an Austin Peay press conference.

Chances improve

Diploma still essential

New York, NY (CPS)—Herbert Binstock, who directs the U.S. Division of Labor Statistics' Middle Atlantic Region staff, told a City University of New York conference here that doom-sayers who swear college degrees don't improve a student's chances of getting a job are simply wrong.

Binstock released statistics that showed college graduates have an unemployment rate of 3.3 percent, compared with the 8.8 unemployment rate for all American workers in March, 1977.

Male college graduates had a jobless rate of 2.8 percent, or about a third of the rate of all males. Female graduates had a 4.2 percent rate, versus 9.2 percent for all females.

"The much-heralded cautions about college attendance," Binstock warned, "should themselves be viewed with considerable caution. It seems clear that, while the college graduate has in recent years experienced some difficulties in the labor market, we can expect to see the pressures ease as we move into the 1980's.

Across the state Enrollment up

There are more students enrolled in the State University and Community College System of Tennessee (SUCCST) this fall than ever before. The 88,815 students attending the six (6) state universities and ten (10) community colleges represent a 3.3 percent increase over last year's headcount enrollments.

The universities' combined enrollments of 59,237 this fall mark a 1.1 percent increase and the community colleges' enrollments of 29,578 represent a 7.9 percent increase over the previous year. These college and university enrollment figures were released today in Nashville by the System Chancellor Roy S. Nicks.

Commenting on the fall 1978 enrollments, Dr. Nicks stated: "We are pleased with the overall increase. The growth in enrollments signifies that statewide, the colleges and universities are continuing to provide programs which serve the needs and interests of students."

In speaking about the enrollment increases, Chancellor noted that student tuition and fees were not raised this fall at the state universities and colleges. "We think this had a positive impact on enrollments. Increased fees would have undoubtedly priced a number of students out of their higher education. The Board of Regents (the governing Board for the SUCCST) is committed to maintaining student costs at the lowest possible level and we appreciate the support in this effort from the Executive and Legislative branches of State Government."

Chancellor Nicks also cited the "relatively healthy" State economy as conducive to students pursuing college-level training. He stated that the growth of part-time students was an indication that members of the

Robin Beard Parakat condoned

By Kathi Bennett

Last Tuesday, Austin Peay State University was visited by Robin Beard, U.S. congressman from the Sixth District.

Beard spoke in Dr. Vernon Warren's American Government class at 8 a.m. and was available later in the day for a press conference.

Beard, an ultra right wing conservative who is running for re-election this year, said that he does not consider himself a "hard partisan-type candidate."

Much of Beard's time was spent answering questions concerning the state of the United States military, especially his views on the present all-volunteer army.

Beard stated that the army is presently not as strong as it should be, citing that the reserves, which are supposed to back the regular armed forces in case of disaster, are some 600,000 short in manpower now.

Also pointed out by Beard was the fact that the military has been forced to lower its standards on entrance tests from the eleventh grade level to the eighth grade level, which Beard attributes to the drop in the level of education of persons who are now joining the armed forces.

Beard suggested that the United States begin drafting persons into the reserves to make up for the drop in reserve forces, thereby making the entire defense system stronger.

When asked about the Equal Rights Amendment, Beard said, "I think this is the most overblown issue that's hit the face of the earth besides the Panama Canal."

Beard, who voted portrayal and Lieberman's sister.

Uta Hagen, Rosemary Harris, Denholm Elliott and Ann Mearns round out this remarkable assemblage.

Executive Producer Robert Fryer, whose eye for talent is second to none in the interlocking worlds of theatre and film, felt, even in the concept stage, that Academy Award winner Franklin Schaffner ("Patton") would be the perfect director for "The Boys from Brazil," and Schaffner's enthusiasm for the project was instantaneous.

The brilliant screenplay by journalist-turned-screenwriter Heywood Gould closely follows Levin's electric best-seller, and, to bring it to cinematic life, Schaffner has called on the genius of Henri Decae as his director of photography and two-time Academy Award winner Gil Parrondo as production designer, with Producers Martin Richards and Stanley O'Toole overseeing locations ranging from Portugal, England and Austria to the United States.

Community Colleges

Workshop termed success

The SGA held a Community College Workshop last Friday and Saturday.

The workshop was the first in the state directed primarily towards serving the needs of community college student governments. SGA Vice President Van Riggins coordinated and planned the two day long series of workshops, seminars and lectures.

The community colleges in this state have never had a workshop where they could go and learn the skills necessary for the management of student government," said Riggins. "Here, they were able to learn these skills without being overshadowed by the more experienced people from the four-year schools" he added.

The highlight of the workshop was an address by State Board of Regents Chancellor Dr. Roy Nicks who agreed to make this appearance at the request of Riggins, who is also the student member of the board. Mr. Otis Floyd, Deputy Director of the Tennessee Department of Education also addressed the workshop.

The major seminars were conducted by D. Michael Broome, director of the center for Motivational Studies in Boone, North Carolina. Broome was student body president of Appalachian State University in North Carolina two years.

While in office, Broome was credited with turning a do-nothing student government into a strong, effective organization. Broome implemented a major in leadership studies at ASU. Since his graduation he has opened the Center for Motivational Studies, and travels the nation conducting leadership seminars and workshops for student governments.

"Broome comes to us highly recommended," according to Dave Mason, SGA President. "Schools both in and out of our immediate area have been impressed with his presentations," Mason added.

Carl Kell, of Western Kentucky University conducted the seminar in parliamentary procedure. "Parliamentary procedure is the system of rules and regulations that govern the decision making process of all legislative bodies, including those of student government," said Riggins. "Mr. Kell has the ability to relate these often confusing rules in a manner that helps the listener understand how this process can improve the decision making ability of his group."

Students

work force are also going to college. This fall 33.6% of the universities' and 60.3% of the community colleges' students are part-time. The fall 1978

Chancellor Nicks speaks at workshop

By Tish Birkby

Chancellor Roy Nicks, State Board of Regents, addressed representatives from five community colleges last Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the community college workshop sponsored by the SGA.

Nicks explained that student governments should be concerned with three major areas of campus functioning. He stressed that student participation in campus and Board of Regents affairs is necessary so that administrators can take into consideration views that are different from the university's.

Student governments should turn their priorities to more academic concerns, Nicks said. In his three and a half years on the board, there has been a concentrated effort to increase faculty and student input in policy consideration. The efforts culminated in the appointment of student representatives to the Board of Regents. Nicks said that it has been a successful program due to the quality of students that have been chosen to serve.

One of the most important aspects of academics that students and student governments should be involved with is the improvement and maintenance of quality instruction. Student evaluation of faculty is a system that allows students to specify their opinion of a faculty member's effectiveness as a teacher. The primary purpose of the evaluation is to enable the faculty member to identify his or her strengths and weaknesses. Nicks stated, "They help build a better faculty member."

The quality of programs of service is another area which Nicks said the board is interested in. The board is pursuing ways in which to assess the quality of programs offered to students.

"What is quality in higher education?" Chancellor Nicks questioned. "I believe it is achieved when the student is receiving what he needs and deserves in time in the classrooms."

He went on to say that lack of student participation is very detrimental. It carries with it a "great deal of responsibility" because students are "helping shape the college for students who are now in high school," according to Nicks.

Nicks pointed out the reasons that community college leaders have a more difficult job than leaders at the four year schools. He said that at the community college the average age is 29, sixty percent of the students work, and all students are commuters.

"It's much more difficult to get the spirit built in. Most students are just there for two years, which gives the student leaders less time to get involved and learn to be effective," he explained, and added that the board recognizes these problems and offers help to make more effective leaders.

own poetry.

"I've worked with others' poems until now," Dunning explained, "now I am into a new life of poetry."

Some 50 persons turned out at the reading, which was held at the Wesley Foundation. The reading was followed by a get-together at Glass' home.

At the get-together, Dunning displayed another side of himself. After fifteen minutes, he excused himself, only to return a few seconds later with a banjo in one hand and a notebook of songs in the other.

He can sing, too! The first song was "Carolina in the Morning." Of course, everyone joined in and the party began.

Other tunes performed by Dunning and the well-qualified singers of the audience included "Bye Bye Blackbird," "Go Away From My Window", as well as more down-to-earth selections like "Country Roads."

All in all, the session turned into a great big story-telling, banjo-playing, singing-and-laughing jam.

Beard

against the extension of the ratification time necessary for the adoption of the ERA, suggested that rather than a constitutional amendment, individual pieces of legislation pertaining to women's rights should be passed through the U.S. House of Representatives.

Responding to a question on his views on the decriminalization of marijuana, Beard pointed out that he has recently proposed the "citation diversion bill" which would be less harsh than some existing laws on marijuana but somewhat harsher than decriminalization.

The "citation diversion bill" proposes that when a person is arrested with marijuana, a judge should issue a citation and send the person to a counselor. The counseling would consist of several seminars, not only on marijuana use but also "preventative" seminars on other drug abuses.

In the press conference, Beard stated that he is quite concerned with the level of marijuana use in the United States, and would support any measure to stiffen its use, including use of the dye paragon which has previously been sprayed on marijuana. Paragon is a poisonous chemical which, when smoked, can cause numerous effects from mild sickness to death, depending on the amount consumed.

In closing, Beard urged everyone to "get involved in your political system." He urged persons to get out and meet the candidates, ask them questions, and above all, vote.

If you've got the time,
we've got the beer.

Seven persons will be inducted to the Austin Peay Athletic Hall of Fame Saturday in a homecoming breakfast in the Joe Morgan University Center Ballroom.

They are former coach and President Emeritus Senator Halbert Harvill; former player, coach and athletic director George Fisher; long-time Governor broadcaster Earl Walton; women's basketball great Stella Schnupp; Gov basketball and track star Jimmy Stewart; and 12 letter winner Dick Hays.

Last year, long-time coach and athletic director David Aaron became the first inductee, and like Aaron, the seven new inductees will be enshrined by a plaque bearing their likeness in the Governors Club Room of the Windfield Dunn Center.

Only Austin Peay lettermen are eligible to attend the 8:30 breakfast and they can make reservations by calling Mary Jennings at 646-7616 or writing the Sports Information Office, Austin Peay State University, Clarksville, TN 37040.

The following is a quick glance at the individual inductees:

George Fisher—Has been involved with Austin Peay athletics most of his life. Captained the 1947 football team and was named All-Volunteer State Athletic Conference in 1947. Held most of the school pass receiving records until they were broken by his future son-in-law, Harold Roberts.

Also starred in basketball...captained team during the 1947-48 season and was named All-Volunteer that same year...Winner of the first Jov Award, as Austin Peay's Most Valuable Athlete in 1947...Served as an assistant football coach from 1958 through 1961, head golf coach in 1969 and 1977, head track coach from 1960 through 1962 and head basketball coach from 1962 through 1971. ### In Homecoming tilt

Gova face Murray State

By Bob Hanusek

The Governors, now 2-2 in conference action, take on Murray State University Racers in the 1:30 Homecoming game this Saturday. The Gova return from a three game road trip and have won the last two of the those ball games.

The Racers lost to Eastern Kentucky last weekend 24-21, dropping their conference mark to 1-3. With two of the final three football games on the road, including the defending conference champions and two nationally ranked teams as the opponents, Murray head coach Mike Gottfried is fully aware his squad has its work cut out for it for the remainder of the season.

"We've got the toughest part of our schedule in front of us," said Racers mentor Gottfried. "All we have asked from our football team all year long is that they improve each week because we are at the ground floor of a rebuilding program and we've got a long way to go."

The Racers are led by Danny Johnson, who has rushed for 1002 yards in just seven games boasting a 137.6 yard average, and has scored 9 touchdowns to date. Johnson is currently leading the OVC in rushing, is second in scoring, and is third in total offense. Against East Tennessee, Johnson scored his best career effort by rushing for 293 yards. Johnson has run for over 100 yards in each of his seven games.

Football is alive

The Governors have finally begun playing football up their potential these past few games. The changes made by Boots Donnelly must have done the job because the Gova went out last Saturday and at the AP Governors game against Murray State when Doug Vance, former APSU sports information director now holding that position for the Racers, and Kenny Klein, former sports editor for The All State, enter the box.

The "turncoats" will be back at the Peay for the first time since leaving this summer for Murray State. Vance seems to be adjusting well to the job and Klein, who is his student assistant, says that school is OK.

This will be a homecoming for them and for all of the Austin Peay alumni at the game.

Murray State will boast one of the biggest, if not the biggest, players in the country when "Mt. Vernon" takes the field.

His real name is Vernon Broadnax and he stands 6'6" and weighs in at 410. That not only makes him the biggest I have ever heard, but he will probably be the biggest human ever seen by most fans.

By Billy Fields

spoiled Middle Tennessee's Homecoming by scoring the most points in a single game since Donnelly has been at the Peay.

Regardless of the reasons for the sudden rise to the occasion, it is a great sight to see the Gova go full steam and play their best. That may be the best way to spend a lazy afternoon in the fall.

There will be mixed emotions in the Austin Peay press box Saturday

Keep Robin Beard voting for you!

Robin Beard votes for lower taxes.

Any discussion of tax cuts must take into account the social security tax increases passed by the 95th Congress. Robin Beard voted against the social security tax increases, and he subsequently supported tax cut proposals that would give taxpayers a net gain after the social security tax increases. Unfortunately, Congress settled for a tax cut of only $13 billion. The larger tax cuts were rejected by liberals who refused to support the needed corresponding cuts in federal spending to make them work. Tax cuts endorsed by Robin Beard include:

HR 13511 -- Kemp-Roth amendment calling for a 30% across-the-board tax cut over 3 years.

HR 13511 -- Amendment authorizing a $18.3 billion cut in individual, corporate and capital gains taxes.

HR 13511 -- Amendment to index capital gains taxes for inflation.

HR 1477 -- Amendment increasing standard deduction for single persons from $2200 to $2400.

HR 1477 -- Tax credits for businesses hiring the unemployed and handicapped.

Robin Beard votes for education.

Robin Beard has taken a lead in the fight against busing and has continued to work for local control of our school systems while at the same time seeking quality education for all. He has voted for and/or sponsored:

HR 1437 -- Increases flexibility of states in using federal funds for vocational education.

HR 7 -- Authorizes $275 million through 1985 for career education programs for elementary and secondary schools.

HR 6692 -- Authorizes $1.1 billion through 1982 to extend education programs for handicapped children.

H. Con. Res. 559 -- Lukens Amendment -- tuition tax credit for college, elementary and secondary school costs.

HR 12050 -- Income tax credit for a three-year period equal to 25% of tuition for private elementary and secondary schools and public and private colleges and universities.

Robin Beard votes for national defense.

Robin Beard is a member of the Armed Services Committee and has had a major priority working to assure a strong national defense.

HR 12602 -- $4.2 billion for military construction projects.

HR 10929 -- Authorizes $38 billion for weapons procurement and research.

HR 7933 -- Voted against amendment to delete B-1 bomber funds.

HR 8175 -- Incentive pay to military physicians and dentists.

HR 8638 -- Strengthens controls on the export of nuclear fuels and technology.

Robin Beard votes for older Americans.

Congressman Beard believes our nation's older citizens have a vital role to play in our country and feels more attention must be focused on their problems, particularly in times of inflation. In support of these beliefs, he has voted for and/or sponsored the following legislation:

HR 5183 -- Raises mandatory retirement age from 65 to 70.

HR 559 -- Fraser amendment -- increase targets by $439 million for jobs training programs for youths and older Americans.

HR 27 -- Authorizes reduced air fares for elderly and handicapped persons.

HR 9346 -- Amendment raising limit on outside earnings for social security recipients over 65.

HR 13907 -- Liberalizes home health benefits and provides other benefits under Medicare, including community mental health, dentists, optometrists, chiropractors, clinical psychologists, ambulance transportation, and reimbursements of an individual paying the bills of a deceased beneficiary.

HR 13817 -- Reimbursement for long-term nursing care.

HR 6668 -- Extends nutrition programs for the elderly.

HR 12235 -- Extends Older Americans Act for 3 years.

Robin Beard votes for energy.

He recognizes that energy is one of the most critical problems facing this nation today and believes strongly that the problem must be dealt with realistically, providing a balance of proper incentive with a maximum of protection for the consumer.

S. 474 -- Grants President temporary emergency powers to allocate and allow unregulated sales of natural gas.

HR 139 -- Protects franchised marketers of motor fuel from arbitrary cancellation of their franchises and requires public display of certified octane ratings at retail outlets.

HR 5840 -- Prohibits exports of Alaskan oil overseas for two years.

HR 6804 -- Creates a cabinet level Department of Energy.

HR 6796 -- $4.6 billion for federal civilian energy research and development programs.

S. 1811 -- $6.1 billion for federal civilian nuclear energy research and development programs.

HR 11713 -- Created $75 million solar, renewable energy sources and energy conservation loan program within SBA.

HR 12163 -- Authorizes $5.5 billion for research and development activities of the Energy Department.

Robin Beard votes to hold down spending.

Robin Beard has consistently voted against wasteful spending as a means of fighting inflation and building a sounder economy. He has received the "Watchdog of the Treasury Award" and the "Guardian of Small Business Award" for fiscal performance in Congress, and he has worked for the following budget legislation:

HR 7554 -- Beard amendment to withhold veterans' benefits from Vietnam-era servicemen who received automatic upgraded discharges under President Carter's discharge review program.

HR 7555 -- Moti amendment to prohibit the use of federal funds for busing students beyond the schools nearest their homes.

H. Con. Res. 683 -- Amendment to reduce spending by $5 billion.

H. Con. Res. 683 -- Amendment to balance the budget.

H. Con. Res. 559 -- Conable Amendment to reduce target for revenues by $3.2 billion to allow for larger tax cuts.

H. Con. Res. 555 -- Mattox Amendment to reduce federal pay raise from 6 to 5.5 percent.

Robin Beard votes for government controls.

He believes that the growing bureaucracy of government is one of the greatest dangers we face today. He has consistently worked to limit the endless federal agencies, to demand dollars and cents accountability, and to provide better service for less cost.

H. Con. Res. 277 -- Orders U.S. Postal Service not to cut out Saturday mail delivery.

HR 687 -- Voted against resolution to increase the rental allowance for district office space.

HR 858 -- Establish offices of inspector general to conduct audits and investigations of the programs in Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Administration, OSA, NASA, SBA and VA.

Robin Beard votes for health care.

Robin Beard believes every citizen should have access to quality health care and that such care can best be delivered through reform of our present private medical system, rather than unaffordable national insurance plans.

HR 4976 -- Extends Health Services Programs.

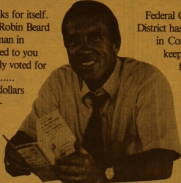

HR 3 -- Tighter controls for fraud and abuse in Medicare and Medicaid.

H. Res. 784 -- Establishes Commission on Hunger and Malnutrition.

HR 10569 -- Authorizes $67.6 million through 1983 for grants to state and local education agencies to establish training programs for local educators to prevent drug and alcohol abuse by youths.

HR 12460 -- Authorizes $1.98 billion for community mental health centers.
