Biology Bugs With Their Bugs

The solemn faces of four of the men above is typical of their feelings toward the small car situation in the biology department. On the one hand they are rather joyful as a result of the department's having gone small car one-hundred percent. A close look, however, will reveal the cause for the somewhat plain expressions present. Is the man on the left a trailer to the class? His vehicle is obviously different. "Es ist kein Volkswagen!!!" Jeez the four. "Non, c'est un Renault," beams Professor Floyd Ford. The Volkswagensists blame Ford's action as a product of eccentricity and trailerism. Ford says calmly, "It is a result of smart and intelligent thinking on my part." The big question is and remains: Will Ford be converted by his colleagues to Volkswagenism or will he stick by what he calls "my better judgment?"

A.P.S.C. Dorm Plans Approved

Plans for a $230,000 men's and a $250,000 women's dormitory at Austin Peay State College have been approved by the State Building Commission.

Sealed proposals for construction of the Austin Peay men's and women's dormitory will be received on December 17 this year at 2 p.m. CST by Franklin Pierce, State Purchasing Agent, Cordell Hall Building in Nashville.

The contract is to be awarded to the lowest and best bidder or bidders. Contracts may be awarded separately on the dorms. A combination proposal may be accepted and one contract awarded covering construction of both dorms.

All bidders must be licensed General Contractors as required by Chap. 135 of the Public Acts of 1945, General Assembly of Tennessee.

Edwin Stover Takes Part In Opera

Edwin L. Stover, assistant professor of music who is on leave attending the Florida State University, recently took part in a production of Verdi's opera "La Traviata" at Florida State.

The opera was presented in English by the Florida State University Opera Guild. Stover served as concert master for the orchestra which played for the opera.

Stover is serving as a graduate assistant in the School of Music while doing advanced work at the University.

Plummer Speaks To M.Y.F.

Nancy Plummer, Clarksville's Community Ambassador to Yugoslavia, was the guest speaker at the Clarksville Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship at Walton's Chapel Methodist Church.

Miss Plummer gave a talk about the country and showed slides which she made while visiting there. She also showed several pieces of handwork and native costumes that she brought back.

Before Miss Plummer's talk, Bobby Powers of Antioch Church, gave a short meditation and devotional.

The meeting was dismissed with the M. Y. F. Benediction and refreshments of hot chocolate and donuts were served to the members.

18 Apartments To Grace A.P. Campus

Eighteen new efficiency apartments will soon grace the campus of Austin Peay State College. The $160,000 project is expected to be completed by the latter part of March, 1960.

Because of lack of funds, seven of the apartments will not be completed until a later date. The one-and-two bedroom apartments are to be of concrete block construction. The over concrete floors will be heated by an electric heating system.

These student housing units will replace the Post World War II units that stood to the left of the Main Dormitory. Three of the units will remain until the new ones reach completion.

The area in front of the new apartments will provide a park and recreation area for the families there.

buildings may be obtained from architects Spotlight, Hibbs and Johnson, Clarksville, by prospective bidders upon a deposit of $150 per building. Deposits of unsuccessful bidders are to be returned in 10 days.

Not less than the minimum wages, as set forth in the specifications, must be paid on this project.

Hatcher Heads Folklore Society

The twenty-fifth Anniversary Convention of the Tennessee Folklore Society was held in the library auditorium of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, Tennessee, on Saturday, November 14.

Miss Mildred Hatcher, president, presided at this convention at which she was re-elected president for the coming year. The welcome address was given by Mrs. Maude Somerville Terry, the first treasurer, who is at present a faculty member of T. P. I.; and "The History of the Tennessee Folklore Society" was presented by Dr. T. J. Farr, one of the founders of the organization. Dr. Farr now heads the Tech School of Education. Paul G. Brewster, another Tech faculty member, discussed "The Unrecognized Influence of Folklore in Modern Living;" and the Tech Choir, directed by Dr. Walter Wade, sang folk songs arranged by the late Charles F. Bryan.

Other speakers included Mrs. Flora McDowell, "Verses and Variants of Barbara Allen;" and Miss Edna Martin, "Folklore: An Introduction to the American Character."

Also on the program were Mrs. Yvonne Gregory, with her delicious; the Sacred Harp Group, directed by L. P. Odom; the Tennessee Dancers, the Spencer Group, directed by Albert Jones, Jr.; and Mr. John C. McConnell, with his dulcimer. Miss Byrd, an exchange teacher from Yorkshire, England, sang English ballads. A large crowd was present. Some of those who had helped organize the society returned, and many from all parts of the state and others from Kentucky attended.

Two Members A.P. Faculty Tour Banks

A feature of a luncheon in the Tech Cafeteria was the cutting of a huge "birthday cake" commemorating the society's founding. Dr. George W. Boswell, professor of English, Austin Peay State College; and Mrs. Yvonne Gregory, director of the Christian County Homemakers' choir, assisted by singing with the Sacred Harp Group.

Previously, Miss Hatcher served the Society two years as president. She also contributed articles to the T. F. S. Bulletin. Other members of the Society are John C. McConnell, Cookeville, vice president; Dr. William J. Griffin, Peabody College, secretary and editor of the Tennessee Folklore Bulletin; and Dr. William Bas, Carson-Newman, Jefferson City, Tennessee.

Plans Made To Reconvert Center Building

Definite plans have been made to reconvert the Center Building, located at the side of the new Fine Arts building, into a Student Center.

The "new" Center will consist of a snack bar, student supply room, post office, and a place for textbook collections. In addition to the Center, which will be upstairs, there will be offices in the basement. These offices will be occupied by the Student Council, Public Relations personnel, and possibly the math department.

While the students are moving to the Center Building, a fruit-basket turnover will also be going on in the administrative offices. The Bursar's office and the Dean Reginald's office will be moved and the offices of the Dean of Women, Dean of Faculty, and Dean of Students, will be consolidated.

English Dept. Adopts Stamp

Ever hard in an English theme or composition and got this back on it?

In case an examination is necessary, here's why: A stamp has been devised by the English Department to help students improve their usage of the English language.

This is not a stamp of condemnation, but a reminder that a student's English is substandard.

If this stamp is applied to a student's paper, it will mean any of these things:

1. Writing of this quality will not pass the Junior English Examination.

2. This paper would embarrass you as a college graduate.

3. You can correct deficiencies and you should start to do so at once.

Mr. Young of the Art Department designed this stamp that will be used on all tests, themes or reports.

At both day and night classes, all English teachers will use this stamp. In addition to English teachers, the following faculty members will use it: Miss Clardy, Mrs. Milton, Dr. Stowe, Dr. Pryor, Mr. McClintock, Dr. Norris, Dr. Henry, Mr. Griffin, Mr. Ford, Mr. Ellis and Dr. Hubbard.

This stamp is available to other members of the faculty who want to use it.

Boswell New President of SFL

Dr. George W. Boswell, Professor of English, has been elected President of the South-eastern Folklore Society which meets with the South Atlantic Modern Language Association. The meeting was held in Atlanta, Georgia, this year, and next fall it will meet in Charleston, South Carolina.

FACULTY SPONSOR Charles Waters

To the Editor and the Student Body:

In reference to the Harvest Ball, the advance ticket sale was a failure due to the response of the Student Body. Since this was the only way possible to secure a Name Band it is NOW impossible to get one.

For the past few years the Student Council has been responsible in securing a Name Band, but due to the deficit that the Name Band made last year the money had to be collected in advance. The Harvest Ball is sponsored by the Freshman-Sophomore classes and will still be on December 9 and probably will be played by a small band which will not be admitted.

I would like to thank the Student Council in giving "meat" to this program and would especially like to thank Jerre Nichols who heads the Social Committee of the Student Council.

Respectfully,
Gordon Jackson
Pres. Student Council

Think Before Complaining--

Gordon Jackson, President of the Student Council, said in above announcement that the advance ticket sale for the Harvest Ball was a failure due to the response of the students.

To prevent any misunderstanding, the failure was due to the LACK of response. It seems a shame for people such as the Student Council members to work hard at getting a name band, thinking they were acting in the interest of the majority of the Student Body, only to have that support drain out from under them.

What happened to the wind in everyone's sails? When it came time to purchase a ticket in order to assure the Council of having a name band only 46 people bought tickets, and many of those were bought by Student Council members. The tickets cost only $3.00 per couple. Forty-six tickets would amount to $138.00. The Council is allowed only $150.00 for its recreation fund. Billy May's band, the band lined up for the Harvest Ball, cost $650.00. So you can see that $250.00 just isn't quite enough to get a name band.

The Student Council has done all it can by way of promoting this dance which usually has a name band. You've seen the facts and are aware of the non-support, so remember that before opening your mouth to complain.

Wot Oppened?

The last issue we had three letters-to-the-editor. This issue we have none. Gordon Bald and Sherwin Giff can testify that the carton of cigarettes they won was as easy as falling on a typewriter.

But perhaps the non-smokers feel that they are being left out. If that's the case, it can probably be arranged for you to receive a gift certificate in the event you win with your letter.

Remember: write a letter-to-the-editor about anything on campus and turn it in to the All State office. If it has merit it will be printed.

The Naked Truth

Hi once again fans - - Glad to hear that you enjoyed your cranberries. Hope that you liked them because Ma Cayce has changed all her stocks from stew to cranberries. From now on we'll be having cranberry soup, cranberryburgers, cranberry salad etc. - - fried, baked, broiled, stewed, mashed, creamed, whipped, beat, thrown and buried. - - Especially the latter. I wonder if that's why the cafeteria was for rent?

Billy May, may or may not be here for the Harvest Ball. Maybe someone may know by May.

A few days before Thanksgiving, "Rabbit" was found with a cat in his room - - P. S. - - The happy day will be soon.

Congratulations to our recreation committee for all the numerous dances and parties that we've had on the campus lately.

Two skeletons were found on the roof of the girls dorm. Vultures in December??

We're happy to know that Mr. Ford has given a new digestive tract, replacing the one he lost in Florida hunting for an Amoeba. - - That must have been quite a trip, boat ride and all. We all envy you!

After our first snow - - we lost three students - - they claimed that it was time to migrate.

We're glad to inform you that Dean Savage is recovering rapidly after swallowing his pipe when the center snapped the ball too high in the last game. - - He would have recovered sooner but the pipe was lit.

The F. B. I. made a raid on the estate of Dr. George Grise, they investigated on a tip-off from L. Bond. Dr. Grise was taken to Washington to see Mr. Edgar on a counterfeiting charge during the Thanksgiving holidays. We figured it all along: "It was fixed".

President Harvill has given the dorm supervisors permission to place their orders with the Springfield Woolen Mills. This project will furnish us the much needed heat for our igloos. - - We expect to receive the blankets sometime in early July. One to a room.

President Harvill has also made plans to dig a tunnel underneath the large clay pile blocking our pathway to the gym. This project is expected to be completed some time soon within the next fourteen years. Students were bringing too much dirt into the new Clement Fine Arts building - - is what brought about this movement. - - Poor Dean Woodard and his ulcers.

An investigation was made concerning the blood that was extracted from the students during physical examinations, it was discovered that it is being used by Mr. Young and Mr. Victoria in their Art Classes - - (Paint inflation).

That's enough for one session: Latest Cruelty joke: Good Luck on the Finals -

I have a simple philosophy of nature. That is, it has a cleansing power as well as a stimulating power. Lots of people have developed theories based on nature as being part of the soul or spirit, and the like. Well, most of them are above me and probably you, too.

I don't know what the connection is between nature and the soul, or language, or any of the other things to which it is often connected. All I know is that the wind, and the changing of the seasons, and the flowers, and the water give me a sense of freedom. Freedom from the cares of each day's journey.

I can remember many times feeling depressed and discouraged, thinking that all was to no avail, and suddenly look out to see the sunshine break through a grey fog beckoning me to come out.

Seeing the sun shine after a dark, dreary day always gives me hope that our lives are sometimes just cloudy days and tomorrow there will be a sun to brighten them up.

Often I have dropped books, obligations, duties, and worries to take a walk in the wind. Water and soap may be good cleansing agents of the outside, but if you want to feel completely clean go, sauntering along a high hill when a stiff wind is blowing. Let it wash over you, and run through your hair, and get inside your clothing. Its incessant drift will make you forget everything except the here-and-now--the pleasantness of the present moment. The wind has always given me a feeling of excitement and wonder. It makes me feel like I can be carried like a leaf in the tide to unknown heights of pure enjoyment.

It doesn't take a sensitive soul or spirit to appreciate nature, but it does take a sensitive spirit to read in nature the laws and truths which it contains.

The State of Tennessee marks each traffic fatality by placing a cross where the accident occurred. By the time a curious motorist swivels his head around to see it, there's another cross added.

Some people need more than just buckles on their shoes to retain the spread. Now they wear door hinges.

Some people's minds don't run along the same trash.

The rivers that some people were baptized in must not have been running true to course.

One of the many services the Austin Peay Library has to offer is the use of current periodicals.

These newspapers and magazines are housed in the Periodical Room to the right of the entrance.

Students will find these periodicals useful in preparing reports and term papers as well as just for browsing.

This quarter the Library has subscribed to several new magazines. In addition to these there are about two hundred renewals of previous subscriptions.

The new ones are: Advertising Age, Astrophysical Journal, Camping Magazine, Improving College and University Teaching, Journal of Marketing, Musical Quarterly, Natural History (American Museum of Natural History Publications), Physics Today, Print, Reading Teacher, and Review of Modern Physics.

Back issues of periodicals are also available for student use. They are kept in the Storage Room on the Upper Tier and may be inquired for at the Reference Desk. Magazines for previous years are bound into volumes and are shelved alphabetically. These are kept on the Lower Tier.

The Periodical and Audio-Visual department of the Library is under the supervision of Mrs. Sara Morrow.

This Is The College; Here Are The Students

"I don't really know Ted Potter very well. All I know is what I've heard about him," said Doug Sisco. "But I'll say one thing for him, he has more guts and determination than anyone I know."

A lot of people who have seen him play football would be willing to agree with that.

Ted began playing football with Hildale on the ground where the Memorial Hospital stands now. He played the game all through his stay at Clarksville High School, and the four years he has been at Austin Peay.

"He gets hurt every year he plays," said Mary Milam Smith. "He has played through this season with a cracked rib."

"Potter is co-captain of the team this year, he was leading scorer last year, he has a lot of records from track, and he is on the Student Council, because he is president of Drane Hall," said Bert Simpson. "You'd probably have to ask him about them, because he is so modest he won't mention them unless you do."

Ted got as much of a laugh out of that as anybody.

His dorm went to a lot of trouble to win the building decoration prize during Homecoming this year. "I held Ted's feet while he hung out the window to hang the signs up," said Larry Womack. "But he couldn't reach Womack. So we changed places and he held me out the window."

"We don't know what we've won yet either. They haven't given us a thing," Ted commented.

Ted's interest in sports includes boxing, basketball, and track. He got his start running track when a game he was supposed to be playing in got rained out. The coach took the team to the track meet. Ted asked if he could run the hurdles when he found out the coach had no one to do it. Although he had never tried it before, Ted not only ran, but he also won the race.

After that he won the district and regional meets in high and low hurdles during Homecoming every year he participated. His senior year in high school he placed in the State Decathlon.

Ted has set the record for the high and low hurdles at Austin Peay and in the VSAC. He has been the leading scorer on the Austin Peay track team since he came here.

Last year Ted ran while he was still recovering from a rib operation. The action of running caused the stitches to pull loose, so when the race was over he went to the side lines and pulled them out.

Ted has lettered in both football and track every year he has participated. But he also takes part in athletic activities outside of school. Water skiing and playing tennis are two more sports Ted has found attractive. And he is well known for being able to get in a fight anywhere he goes.

"One time he spent two days in Alabama," said Mary Milam, "and during that time he had three fights."

Though Ted was born in Clarksville, he lived in Florida for a few years. Somewhere he always manages to find a way back there in the summer. After he graduates he'll probably be heading that way again — or maybe to The Magic Valley.

Ted's father once bought a school bus for Ted to use. It was loaded with hay for hayrides, or set up as a place to sell firecrackers at a ball game, or any number of things.

Ted didn't double date; he took five or six couples along.

He has belonged to The A Club for three years. The first two he was elected sergeant-at-arms.

If anything calls for physical bravness or strength, it seems to attract Ted — whether it is fighting, or spelunking, being held out of a third story window by his feet or playing football.

"They called him the 'Gentleman Football Player' when he was in high school," said Nancy Plummer.

"Oh, I could tell you a lot about Ted Potter," Mary Milam said. "And there's a lot I won't tell you. You won't be able to print any of it anyhow. You could say he's friendly, jovial, and one of the nicest boys on campus."

Zoo Students Make Trip To Florida

Twenty-five zoology students and instructors went on their annual trip to Florida Thanksgiving week.

They left Monday morning and returned that weekend in time for classes the next Monday. The trip is usually taken at Christmas, but it was earlier this year because college gets out for Christmas a week later than usual.

Students with a year's background of general biology are eligible to make the trip. Students who went this year were Jerry Bagwell, Joe Baker, L. G. Carolan, Bill Corran, Joe Crunk, Polly Fussell, Helen Landrum, Tommy Little, Gerald Lyle.

Also, Charles Mayes, Morris Mullins, Beverly Nichols, Joyce Parham, Jerry Poole, Earl Schmitt, Mary Milam Smith, Joe Swift, Jerry Thompson, Norman Ussery, Jerry Quila, Al Roux, and Bobby Harris.

Faculty members attending were Floyd Ford, Charles Boehms, and William Ellis.

For most of the week, the group of students and their instructors studied animals of the marine world and collected specimens to be used in biology and zoology classes at Austin Peay.

They stayed at St. Andrews Park about eight miles from Panama City. There they lived in rented dormitories.

P.E. Club Gives Dance

"All join hands and circle left!" —Yep! It was a good old-fashioned square dance at the Austin Peay State Gymnasium Wednesday, November 18. The dancing commenced at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Physical Education Majors Club, live music was provided by Mr. Gardner's string band.

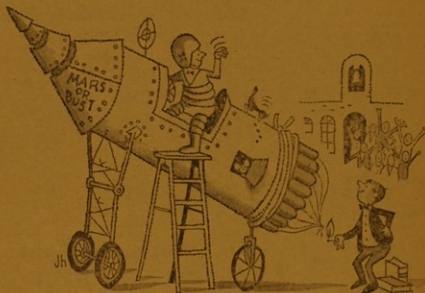

To add to the pre-holiday festivities, a prize was awarded the best dressed couple and a live turkey was given away to the lucky ticket holder, Mrs. R. M. Bowman.
