Orientation Opens New Fall Quarter

For the past few years Austin Peay State College has offered a program of orientation. This year the program, the purpose of which is to acquaint incoming freshmen with college life, was continued.

Orientation for freshmen began on Monday, September 17, with an address of all freshmen in the auditorium. The devotional was given by Dr. George Boswell, Associate Professor of English. Following the welcome address by President Harvill and Donald Cunningham, President of the Student Body, Dean P. C. Woodward gave instruction as to the taking of tests.

Freshmen tests were held in the gym during the morning and afternoon.

The first day of orientation closed with a freshmen mixer. The direction of Miss Ruth Garris.

On Tuesday the freshmen again assembled in the auditorium. Mr. J. B. Bond, Professor Chemistry and Physics gave the devotional, "Choose a Vocation" and "Choosing a Curriculum" were given by Mr. J. B. Browning and Dean P. C. Woodward, respectively. Testing was continued and followed by Group conferences.

Immediately following lunch Dean M. P. Bowman explained the registration procedure which was followed by two periods of Group Counseling.

The freshmen were then guests of the APSC Chapter of the Future Teachers of America who sponsored a coke party in the student center. Entertainment Tuesday night was in the form of a movie with refreshments served afterwards in the student center.

Wednesday was registration day for all freshmen. Testing was completed on Thursday, thus ending the first program of orientation.

Throughout the week all freshmen will meet in small groups on Mondays at 10:00 A. M. to continue, under the guidance of faculty members.

Cast Rehearses "Arsenic and Old Lace"

Three Act Comedy Staging Nov. 15, 16

Rehearsals are now underway at Austin Peay State College for "Arsenic and Old Lace" which will be presented November 15 and 16. The celebrated comedy is all about murder, and the nice old Brewster sisters.

The paradoxical title refers to the satire and activities of the Brewster sisters, Abby and Martha, played by Barbara Darnell and Carole King respectively, two of the most charming and lovable old ladies who ever filled a cellar full of cadavers.

The role of Mortimer, the drama critic who discovers the sister's lethal hobby, will be played by Dick Batson, and the part of Elaine, Mortimer's fiancée will be played by Betty Rawls.

Hayden Jolly will portray the nephew, Jonathan, whose pride suffers a severe blow when he discovers that his record of twelve murders has been matched by his aunt. It is nephew Jonathan's disconcerting resemblance to a movie-villain that eventually causes him to give himself away.

The role of Doctor Einstein will be played by Charles Knight. Dr. Einstein is Jonathan's accomplice and plastic surgeon for the underworld. It is Dr. Einstein's weakness for motion pictures that results in Jonathan's unfortunate fate.

L. B. McCutcheon will play the part of Mortimer's brother, Teddy, whose belief that he is really Theodore Roosevelt has caused him to dig the "Panama Canal" in the cellar of his old house in Brooklyn. Others in the cast are Donald Cunningham, Herman Arnes, Lynn Canady, Hugh Davis, and Dick Covington.

Miss Margaret Ward, director of the production, also announced the production staff. Nancy Winters, a student director; William Buckner, stage manager; Ann Alley publicity; Carrie Hadley and Martha Bailey, business managers; Norma Bishop, properties; Beverly Stearns, make up; and Sue Berry, posters.

Seven New Faculty Members At APSC

In addition to receiving many new students this year, Austin Peay is also greeting seven new teachers.

The physical education department gained a new instructor, Mr. Kenneth Cooper. Mr. Cooper received his B. A. at Vanderbilt University and his M. A. at George Peabody College. He is married and has a ten month old son. This is Mr. Cooper's first year to teach, having played professional football with the Baltimore Colts during the '49-50 season.

Richard Ganaway is a new instructor in the industrial arts department. He received his B. S. at Austin Peay, and was an instructor in the automotive mechanics school last year.

From Newberry College at Newberry, South Carolina, comes Mr. William J. Hurt, instructor in piano and voice. Mr. Hurt obtained his B. A. and M. A. at Southern Methodist University. Mr. Hurt is a veteran, having served two years in the army.

Mrs. Frances H. Moore, a native of Clarksville was previously supervisor of city schools. Her new position is supervisor of in-service teacher training. Mrs. Moore is the wife of C. H. Moore, superintendent of Clarksville city schools.

In Memorium

With the death of Robert L. McReynolds last week, Austin Peay State lost one of its most loyal friends and supporters. Mr. McReynolds attended Southwestern when it was located on this campus; and although he could not count himself an alumnus of Austin Peay State, he always felt a deep devotion for the campus of his alma mater.

When Mr. McReynolds was serving as representative to the State Legislature in 1927-1929, his thoughts turned to the campus. He helped sponsor the legislation that created the college as it is today and gave unceasingly his efforts and talents to the promotion of our college. The new buildings here were a source of pride to him, and he was a frequent visitor on the campus where he would stop and admire the progress the school is making. When the Administration Building was completed, Mr. McReynolds was instrumental in getting for the school the clock and chimneys through the Montgomery County Foundation.

Austin Peay State College will miss Mr. McReynolds, a tireless worker for the cause of education. The students and faculty extend to his family their deepest sympathy.

Hands Across The Sea

The following letter was received from the Japan Correspondence Club in Osaka, Japan. They are asking students of our college to correspond with Japanese students, and tell them something of our way of life.

This may seem trivial to you, but it's importance cannot be overlooked. Friendship between nations can be strengthened by a better understanding between the individuals.

Won't you write a letter to our friends in Japan today?

Dear Sir:

I hope you will not be embarrassed to receive a letter from a stranger.

We young people of Japan are very representative of the causeless war and have borne suffering and exerted all efforts to rebuild Japan on the devastated land. We learn a great deal from democracy, the spirit of which we want to spread all over Japan to make her a peaceful and democratic country.

We boys and girls 14 age - 23 age numbering about 2,000, consider it the best and the shortest way for learning democracy that we correspond with college students, and have formed a group for the purpose. We do hope you will kindly forward our wishes to the students of your college, so that we can receive letter from boys and girls who are willing to correspond with Japanese students. (We shall be very much obliged if you could write something about us on your college paper, or send us letters, collected without a cover, of them who desire to correspond with Japanese. Please write about sex, age, hobbies, of an individual student, or send us the list of the students who want to correspond with us.) We shall never fail to answer.

Looking forward to your kind assistance.

Your very sincerely,
Group Leader

"Los Alumnos de Habla Espanolas" (The Spanish Speaking Students)

Back row: Luis Garcia and Armando Garcia.

Austin Peay extends a hearty welcome to these six new students who come to us from Guanajuato, Cuba, and Manila, the Philippine Islands.

By SUE BERRY

Even as Austin Peay strives to grow in intellectual and cultural aspects, we note an appreciable extension of the geographical area from which our student body is drawn.

As a matter of fact, one of our professors remarked recently, "We have almost reached the place where our teachers must be at least bilingual."

From Guanajuato, Cuba, we have gained four students, who hope to stay here for a nine month period. They are: Mercedes Celsa Arias, already familiarly known to her friends as Maria; her brother, Enrique Celsa; Armando Garcia; and his brother, Luis Garcia.

As one looks at the pretty face and sparkling, dark eyes of Maria, it is easy to call up a vision of gay, laughing gossamer dancing in the exotic atmosphere of romantic old Spain. There it was that her parents were born.

Maria, very popular in her home town, was crowned Queen of Sports in 1944. She loves to read and to grow flowers. Her eyes grow misty as she speaks of her little niece, whom she "loves very much." Then with an enthusiastic gesture she exclaimed, "Oh, I am crazy about the movies."

When Maria leaves Austin Peay, she plans to return to Guanajuato, where she will teach school.

Her brother, Enrique, the son of a jeep and construction supplies salesman, hopes to enter the field of business in Cuba, upon completion of his work here. Although he likes Tennessee, there was a touch of wishfulness in his voice as he told of the virtues of the tourist center which is his home.

Having attended another of Tennessee's colleges last year, Luis and Armando Garcia felt pretty much at home in the United States. Luis emphasized that, contrary to the conceptions of many of us, life in Cuba is different in very few aspects from our own way of life. The boys' mother teaches anatomy in a high school in Guanajuato. They are studying business subjects here and hope to be bookkeepers.

Both Luis and Armando collect stamps as a hobby. They enjoy all sports, although Luis prefers to participate as a spectator only. Armando was a track star when he attended high school.

From a still greater distance come Cora and Felicia Soriano. Now living at Port Campbell, they originally lived in Manila, Philippine Islands. The girls attend Clarksville High School. They like to collect newspaper clippings as a hobby. They, too, are fond of movies.

Maria was heartily seconded by the others when she declared: "Everybody is very good to use the students, the teachers, everybody. We like to go to school here."

It seems that our friends from other countries already are becoming impressed by the beauty of our country, and by the friendliness and hospitality which must ever be a part of genuine Southern tradition.

You Asked For It

by Alley and Powell

Joan S: "How is it that you kiss so divinely?"

Gordon P: "Oh, I used to blow the bugle in the Boy Scouts."

Don G: "Just."

"What makes you think he's dumb?"

"Well, you know that poster down at the post office reading, 'Man Wanted for Robbery in Chicago'."

"Yeah."

"He went in and applied for the job."

Waldo: "And so I told her that I loved her and that she'd be married in the summer."

Don G: "Just."

Waldo: "No I meant it."

Two cowboys were about to leave for a trip to the Arizona desert. One of them was talking to a stranger who inquired about their equipment.

"My partner and me are travelin' light. He's takin' suitin' but whatev'er, he's takin' a bite."

"And what are you takin'?"

"Two rattlesnakes."

The prospective father-in-law was a businessman, as this story well illustrates.

The young man approached him one night saying, "I wish to marry your daughter sir."

"You can leave your name and address, and if nothing better turns up, we can notify you."

"How do you manage to keep so fit, old man?"

"I take a miniature bath every morning."

"A miniature bath?"

"Yes; a cold one. One minute you're in and the next minute you're out!"

Then there was the rich old gentleman sitting in his wheelchair beside an open window as a slick chie walked by, displaying a comely figure.

"Quick, Jenkins," called the old gentleman to his valet. "Bring me my teeth, I want to whistle."

A well-known professor in our school is also something of a violinist, and one night, as he was preparing to entertain a few intimate friends, his wife called the maid aside.

"The professor's putting on a little show tonight," she explained, "and I want you to go downtown and get him a Ostrich."

The maid's screams interrupted her before she could finish with the words "for his violin."

As he was about to leave a drugstore, a man was stopped by an excited guard.

"I believe," said the druggist, "that I just sold you strychnine instead of quinine for your wife's cold."

"Oh!" gasped the amazed customer. "Strychnine costs twenty cents more, doesn't it?"

Woe Could Be The World—

Down and a new day and for some of us it is the fourth act in the shadow-drama of college. For others, the first, third, or second act is unfolding.

The first actors, appearing newly costumed are the ones who need be most wary of the globe they wear. Some may come clothed as humble seekers of a vague and distant light. They are safe. Yet others will be attired and primed for a leading role, only to discover that modesty will covert the awards. These two types will ultimately witness the fall of the final curtain with the light or semblance thereof in hand. A play well played will be their award.

MR. B. and MISS S. E.

But it is not these two character actors that need be too cautious. It is a third group of actors who literally burst upon the stage costumed with bulging muscles and pretty faces. I'll call the former (bulging muscles) Mr. Bulge and the latter (pretty faces) Miss Soft Eyes.

Their drama is somewhat different from all others. They burst or sink (as becomes their respective offices) into the limelight flaunting and flexing their ephemeral attributes. As befalls their lot, someone has told them that muscles or beauty is just compensation for brains. So neither Mr. B. or Miss S. E. ever bothers to flex or flaunt the muscles or the beauty of the brain. Ah! Woe are they.

If only Mr. Bulge or Miss Soft Eyes knew that when some meek little man, out of necessity, invented gunpowder that forever Mr. Bulge are only other little men. And petite Miss Soft Eyes. Even with the present billion dollar make-up market, wrinkles are still wrinkles. She yet may flourish but not until a window-shade is pulled on the sun and Mr. Bulge exhausts all the supply of incandescent lights destroying all the gunpowder. Then perhaps both may flourish. Then, perhaps, truly Woe is the World.

A FAILING COMMON

For our character actors in point, it is a strange, dark world, full of light yet dark. All about them things happen. Progress—not by any means wholly material — goes on. It is light in a sense but utter darkness to all the Soft Eyes and Bulgies everywhere. They suffer a common failing of interpreting everything that has happened, does and will happen in terms of how it affects them personally.

The responsibility of this group is doubly charged over all others. For it is this group of Bulgies and Soft Eyes that are most naturally scrutinized. Naturally because they are louder, more robust, and as a rule gaudier.

As two great dams, charged with millions of tons of water, the opposed group of humans stand. The little people — little in that they are not loud — small in that they are not brazen — are one of the dams. The power potential within this dam is channeled, directed for an individual output; consequently, what light there is, is a result of this dam. The other dam, equally charged in power potential, is not channeled. All of the gates simultaneously open. An avalanche of noise, destructive beauty, fury engulfs all but the wary who have anticipated such a move. Such are the two dams. The one, quiet and useful, remains long fruitful years. The other, in a burst of splendor, as suddenly dies.

ON FEET IN PARTICULAR

With only the wips of applause stirring the still, the curtain rang down and impending silence — I say — take heart — A foot is in the door little people; a foot with a steel-toed shoe.

Govs Lose To A&M For Season's Fourth Defeat

ETSC Buccaneers Edge Govs 13-12

The Governors lost their second straight football game of the season to the Buccaneers of East Tennessee State by the score of 13-12.

According to the field statistics for the game, A. P. should have won — except for this fumble which were lost, (at) in all the score possibly would have been quite the opposite.

Taking the opening kickoff, the Bucs marched directly to pay dirt and led at the end of the first quarter 7-0. At the beginning of the second quarter, a recovered fumble on our 22 yard line led to their final score for the night. The try for the extra point was blocked.

Then the Govs went to work. After returning the kickoff to the 34 yard stripe, a tough passing and running attack brought the ball to the Bucs' 19 from where Charlie Quarles took over and bulled through the middle for the six pointer. A pass play for the PAT was no good.

Coming back strong in the third quarter, the Govs quickly scored following an exchange of fumbles and a line return of a pass interception by AP safety man, Jim Odum. The touchdown came when Dick Hays, quarterback, scooted off right tackle for the final six yards. Bobby Ladd's PAT try from placement was wide, thus ending all the scoring possibilities for the night.

Ground gaining star for the night was Gordon Porter, who picked up 169 yards on sixteen carries for a very respectable average of 6.8 yards a try.

Only My Opinion

By LARRY GATES

A Football? A Football game? Well, let's find out! Mr. Webster says here: "A field game played with a football (ellipsoidal in shape), in which each of two competing teams tries to kick or carry the ball to or through its opponent's goal or goal line." Thank you Mr. Webster — I believe, however, that it helps if the ball is carried over the chalked line.

Football has really been in the air on the practice field now for several weeks—the only bad part about it is the students haven't been able to see the Govs in action yet. Next year I hope that at least one of the first two games will be played in our stadium. That extra group of cheering students certainly makes the players feel they have someone behind them all the way. Four games away from home to open up a season is a little disappointing to say the least — both to players and students alike. That should be different next year—But this is "Only My Opinion."

CHEERLEADERS

When that first home ball game does roll around this week-end, let's EVERYBODY stay here and sit in one blocked section and really give out to help our new cheerleaders in the yells. Congratulations are definitely due those six that were elected. We are, of course, sorry all the rest weren't elected but six had to be the limit. Let's really give them our support.

TOUGH LUCK

We lost one of the finest football backs and linebackers this school has ever seen in our heartbreaker with Florence State when Charlie Quarles suffered a fractured leg. How bad it is we don't know, but hope it won't be long before he will have that cast off and be back out on the field.

In closing this column I would like to give a few "LET'S" to every student.

Let's try to come to all the games;

Let's try to learn the players' names;

Let's help the cheerleaders make some noise;

Let's give the band some help along;

Let's learn the Governors' fighting song;

Let folks around us know we're there;

Let's tell em we're crazy — we don't care.

Let your hair down; let's have fun;

Let's feel that we helped when we say, "We Won."

Thanks to Johnnie Fort for his very appropriate poem. Let's follow the ideas—How about it?

Eagles Upset AP 19-6

Austin Peay lost its first gridiron combat Sept. 15 as the men from Camp Breckridge threw Larry Coutre, a former Green Bay Packer, at them with all his ruggedness and ability. The flashy fellows scored twice and handled most of the rushing scores for the Army eleven.

The Gov's made a last quarter rally when they scored after an Eagle fumble. Coutre counted with another touchdown and AP fought back with a field length march after the kick-off, to end the scoring for the night.

Ronald Clary, Phil Krug, Bobby Ladd, Carlton Balthrop and Ed Kulakowski were standouts against the pros.

Boll Weevils Top Austin Peay 38-6

The Govs lost their fourth straight football game of the season last Saturday night to the Arkansas A&M Boll Weevils at College Heights, Arkansas.

Another loss that night of big tide Ed Kulakowski, who appears to be out for the rest of the season, will greatly handicap the Governors in their remaining games. He has been almost a sixty-minute man up to this time.

The Govs scored first in the game on an end run by Dick Hays from A&M's eight after Ron Clary had intercepted a pass and returned it from the forty five yard stripe. After that first quarter, it was all a beautiful passing show by the Arkansas quarterback David Anderson. He passed for three of the remaining touchdowns and ran for another one himself.

Playing on a slick field definitely hurt Austin Peay's chances. A total of eleven fumbles, only five of them recovered, set up three scores in the third quarter and that meant the ball game.

This week the Govs will play host to Middle Tennessee State College from Murfreesboro, Tennessee, for their first home game of the season.

"O. K., men — watch out for a naked reverse. ! !"

Homemaking spirit has risen, not only for the parade and game, but also for the true homemaking-conscious back to AFSC. The dorms are bustling with new and old faces, and the poor freshmen are running around in their traditional, perpetually blue. JOAN BURK is creating a new student movement - freshmen boys to the lobby of the girl's dorm, while, ARIMINTA MINOR remains true to her Nashville home, Bill.

Bachelors (available ones) are a little hard to find this quarter; however, JAMES M. SMITH, DUDLEY OLDMAN, BRUCE B. BRYANT, LAM MASON, TOM BAYNAM, and JAMES WEST are around.

Of course, it isn't fair to drop a pile of bachelors to the girls without one to the boys. Here it is: ALEXANDER, CHARLIE DAVENPORT, BETTY PITTS, ANN WILLIAMS, RUTH PRYOR, ANN ROBERTSON, DONNA ALLEN, FAYETTE, and NANCY BECK. Any corrections to these lists after we go to press is purely fast fact. Overboard in the student center: KATHERINE LOCKERT is thinking about changing the spelling of her name to KATHERINE so it will rhyme with ELWYN. What's this about BETTY ETINSON and a JOE? WENZEL, let's speed! JAMES is in for more history for some of you who remember her, it is REBA ANDERSON will marry sailer HUGH JOHNSTON in the not too distant future.

We welcome a new sophomore from the University of Kentucky to the campus. JOHN HANCOCK. For those of you who have had troubles finding him, just look for the biggest gathering of girls; JOHN is the attraction. Next issue we'll tell you how he does it!

Seems the physical exams scared one (hubb) of our freshmen girls; he, just doesn't like doctors! Better get over that JO ANN HOFFMAN or a Univ. of Cincinnati Med student might get that!

FEDRO SARDENITO back this year, and with him are two friends from the Philippines, CORA and FENIA ROSARIO. AFSC has four new friends from Cuba, also: LUIS GRACIA, ARMANDO GARCIA, MARIA CELIA, and ENRIQUE CEA. Congratulations to LAFAYETTE BRIDGES who took pretty petite BARBARA SCHMITZ as his bride September 22. Other ceremonies have taken place since the last edition of "The All-State": ANN EVANS and BOB ALLEY exchanged vows May 31, while LORENE BENNETT and B.B. were wed in August. MR. and MRS. RAY BAKER joined the ranks of married people this summer, but wait! Here's some news just overheard on our Snoot recorder: BILLIE RUTY and CHARLES CHARLES have had a blessed event this past August. A boy, Theodore Runyon, arrived at Clarksville hospital. LARRY GATES and BEVERLY SUMMERS of Nashville will exchange their nuptial vows November 16, 1951. Congratulations also go to BILLIE TURNBOW and WALDO YOUNG who are engaged. Just get a card from CARLENE and BOB WOOLAM. Annual Reception Given By Faculty

The administration and faculty of Austin Peay State College recently held a reception in Myers Harned Hall for the entire student body. On entering the door, the students' names were pinned to their lapels; then they passed down the long receiving line, as each student was introduced in turn to the next faculty member. The parlors were beautifully decorated with bouquets of fall flowers, recorded chamber music was played in the background. Serving the refreshments of punch and cookies were students and wives of the faculty members.

After the students had been presented to the faculty, they were entertained by a dance held in the student center. Guests were greeted at the door by the officers of the Student Council, Donald Cunningham, President, Dick Hays, Vice-President, and Carrie Hadley, Secretary-Treasurer.

This occasion marked the first in an extended series of social events on the calendar for the year.

NEW TEACHERS

Mrs. Loretta H. Stowe, who makes her home at Bangor, is assistant professor of health and biology. She obtained her B. A., M. A., and Ph.D. at George Peabody College, where she taught before coming to Austin Peay. Mrs. Stowe's husband is a new teaching science at Clarksville High School.

A new instructor in Education and English is Mrs. Phyllis Walker. Her B. A. was received at Akron University and her M. A. at Western Reserve University. Before coming to Austin Peay High School, she has also taught at Tuxedo Junior High, and Akron University. Dr. Harold S. Pryor, associate professor of education, comes to us from East Tennessee State College. This is his second quarter at A. P. E. C. He received his B. S. at Austin Peay, M. A. at George Peabody and Ed.D. at the University of Tennessee. Dr. Pryor is a veteran of three years in the army.

Overheard that CYNTHIA ANDERSON was mighty happy to have JERRY BAKER of Florida back from overseas. BETTE ANN BEASLEY shares these sentiments when she sings to Nashville singer, "Anchors Aweigh." Her sailor gets home three out of four weeks ends a month; a lot of people envy you, BETTY!

Here's the question of the week what research has JACK MILES used in backing up his psychology question, "Why do some people say 'No' when they mean 'Yes'?" Have you been using field research, Jack? Have we thought anyone on the campus with a red face?

Strange Creatures Mystify Teachers

Considerable dispute has arisen among members of the faculty concerning the origin of the hideous, green creatures that have begun to inhabit the Austin Peay Campus. Rumor had it that they were natives of Mars. This was only a speculation, however, and could not be entirely proved.

The male members of the species are characterized by having little or no hair and a sloppy manner of dressing. In other respects, however, they are quite beautiful, having luscious ruby lips, shapely legs and ankles, and the odor of delicate perfume surrounding them.

Faculty members in the Science department had almost come to a conclusion when matters were suddenly complicated—the female of the species began to appear.

These unsightly animals are distinguished by pasty, wan complexions, shaggy unkempt hair and one characteristic that is almost unbelievable—they will have nothing what-so-ever to do with the opposite sex. They even refuse to speak to a male unless he is at least fifty years older than they.

After the faculty had worked unsuccessfully for several days on the matter, they decided to turn it over to the upperclassmen who were only too happy to solve the mystery. It was really quite simple.

Initiation for freshmen had begun.

Small Ohio College Helps Solve Draft

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A small Ohio college here has provided an answer for critics of college student draft deferment policies which have been called unfair to young men from families of limited means, because a qualified boy may be deferred only if he can "afford" the expense of a college education.

While the nation has been debating the issue, Wilmington College has been busy setting up a new kind of work-study program which will enable students to earn virtually all of their college expenses. The plan was inaugurated on an experimental basis last fall with approximately 100 students getting invaluable employment experience as well as income sufficient to cover their basic costs of tuition, room and board.

Now that the idea has proven itself to both the college and the cooperating industries and business firms, it will be expanded this fall with openings for 200 more young men and women, according to President Samuel D. Marble. He points out that students in the program can complete degree requirements in four calendar years and graduate with their classes holding not only a college degree, but in addition the equivalent of two full years of work experience.

In operation, the plan provides that two students hold down one full time job. One does the work on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and attends classes on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Religious Clubs

By James Nolan

It's "Collegiate" to attend and join the church at school. This seemed to be the theme of the religious organizations on the campus as the fall quarter opened.

Very successful enlistment campaigns were sponsored by each of the Christian groups. No time was lost in welcoming freshmen and upper-classmen on the very first day of college. Three religious groups are located on the campus. The B.S.U., M.S.M., and Westminster following. Each extends to every student a hearty invitation to meet with them in their devotional period.

B.S.U.—An "Ice-Breaker" opened the fall quarter for the B.S.U. The social, under the direction of Mary on Reed, was held in the little gym. Fun, food, and fellowship were enjoyed by the fifty people present. The Baptist Student Union holds devotionals at 12:30 every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in room 14 of the Stewart Building. A real welcome awaits you.

M.S.M.—The Methodist Student Movement got off to a fine start with a "get-together" October 2. In the little gym, forty-five students enjoyed the games, and refreshments. Miss Garrison led the recreation and the director in charge was Major R. H. Ross of Fort Campbell. Fred Reese, assistant pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Church and also a student of Vanderbilt University gave a short talk. Plans are made for the coming year and a hayride is slated for October 14.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP—This group is very interested in gaining new members and hopes that everyone interested in joining will meet at the First Presbyterian Church, each Sunday morning at 9:45 a. m. for Sunday school or at 6:00 p. m. for the evening meeting which is followed by a supper.

A plan for the future is to have a table reserved in the cafeteria, so that the Westminster Fellowship and everyone interested in joining them may have lunch together once each week.

FTA Holds Meetings

The Future Teachers Association held their first meeting of the year on October 2.

During the business session, it was decided that the club would have a float in the Homecoming Parade; sponsor the Halloween Party; hold a book sale during book week; and sponsor a decorative campus Christmas Tree. About 30 members were present.
