

Student Killed In Car Crash

Robert Maxey, APSU student, was fatally hurt and two others injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into the Knoxville bridge, Thursday night, December 15.

Dead, was Robert Maxey, 21-year-old sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Maxey, 22, of Nashville, Tenn.

David Yu, 21-year-old freshman, was killed when he was driver of the car, detained in serious condition at Clarksville Hospital until his release Monday. He was suffering from shock and severe cuts.

The third passenger in the car, Scotty Dulin, 20, of Collins, Tennessee, was dismissed after emergency treatment.

The crash occurred about six miles north of Clarksville, on Highway 41-A, when Yu's car ran into the right abutment of the bridge and skidded 45 yards.

The Maxey funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Russell Street Presbyterian Church in Nashville, Tenn. Rev. George T. Hubbard officiated. Burial took place in Spring Hill Cemetery at Madison, Phillips-Robinson funeral home took charge of arrangements.

Law Publishes Geography Text

Publication of "A Brief Geography of Tennessee," a book said to have future educational and literary possibilities, was announced recently by a local publisher.

Written by Harry R. Rogers, professor of Geography and Geology at Austin Peay State College, is a new book, the result of two years of research by Tennessee geographers.

It consists of a concise, compact, yet complete, and readable summary of Tennessee's geographical features, history, and present-day conditions. It is designed to be a textbook for use in high schools, colleges, and universities. A manual for teachers, containing suggestions for use in the classroom, is also included.

The book is being published by the University of Tennessee Press, Knoxville. It is being sold for $1.00 per copy.

College Choir Sings In Chapel Program

The 65 voice A Capella Choir under the direction of Guy Lynn Haggie, music department head, appeared in chapel December 7.

Wearing the new maroon vestments, the choir made its first public appearance in chapel two weeks ago. They took part in the "Campus on the Air" program Monday night.

Plans in the spring quarter include the annual tour of Middle Tennessee high schools.

P.S. Club Debates On Radio Program

The recently organized Political Science Club of A. P. S. C. sponsored the "Campus On the Air" program December 12, over station WZZM.

Following an interview of Mr. B. J. Browning, club faculty sponsor, the topic—"An Informal Discussion on the Issue of Possible Future Development of the Cumberland River Valley"—was discussed by Larry McMillan, Fitchall Smith and Dewey Morris. The subject of this program is at present a very controversial issue. By presenting the pros and cons of the problem the Club hoped to offer pertinent information to the general public.

Bob Jones took over the duties as announcer for the program.

Auditorium Repaired, Stacks To Be Built

Although not much can be seen by students, a great deal of the improvements and renovations to the Still under way here at A. P.

The auditorium in Stewart Hall has had a face-lifting and will be ready for occupancy around the first of January. Pres. Harry states that Speight and Hulse, Austin Peay architects, have indicated the auditorium safe for use. The ornamental structures which were a part of the old building are being replaced by a new set of stacks. The old set of stacks was a new set of stacks, and a new set of stacks.

Radio Prod. Offered For Speech Credit

Fundamentals of Radio Broadcasting is a new class offered by the APSU speech department this quarter.

New equipment is being installed in Stewart 4 and in two smaller rooms in the basement of the new building. A complete broadcasting room and control room are nearing completion with the newest and latest equipment being added.

Miss Ward, director of speech instruction, will conduct the course which meets one o'clock Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

The broadcasting side of radio production will be emphasized. Miss Ward pointed out. The type of work carried on in the class depends on the number of students interested, she added.

Students enrolled in this class will work as announcers and producers of the regular Monday night radio program, "Campus On the Air," which is sponsored by the Speech Department.

Juniors Sponsor Christmas Formal

On Tuesday night, December 20, the Junior Class sponsored a formal Christmas dance on eight till twelve.

The room was beautifully decorated to give a festive touch to the theme.

Large Christmas trees, decorated with greenery and other decorations.

The Kappa Kappa Omega furnished music for the dance. Punch and cookies were served during intermission.

A large number of students attended the dance, which proved to be a great success.

"Flattering Word" Is Speech Dept. Debut

A one act play, "The Flattering Word," was presented at chapel December 14, under the able direction of Miss Margaret Ward, speech professor.

This was the debut of the newly formed Speech Department in the eyes of many students it was greeted with great acclaim. The play was a satire written by George Kelly.

Robert Jones convincingly portrayed a devout minister, Bigley, that fought the ravages of a great evil, the flattery, which a first class play, "The Flattering Word," converted the flattery to the good qualities of the flatterer.

Johnson Attends National Congress

Bill Johnson has returned to the campus after a very exciting trip to New York City where he represented the state of Tennessee at the 54th annual National Association of Manufacturer's Congress.

The theme of the Congress was "New Strength for America." All 45 college students attending were privileged to question a panel of six industry spokesmen about the economic structure of the United States.

The principal speakers were: Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Carlos P. Romulo, President of the United Nations General Assembly.

Bill says, "I was very much impressed with the NAM and feel that I got a lot from the Congress. The theme of the Congress was 'New Strength for America.' THE FIRST CHRISTMAS

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

And this taxing was first made when Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph went up to Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and lineage of David.

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, to the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And the angel departed there with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Gloria to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to toward men.

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

Forty-one years ago a little girl named Virginia O'Hanlon was troubled. She had been told there was no Santa Claus.

Since her parents had told her that if she saw anything in the Sun it was true, she wrote a letter to the editor. It was the answer have become world famous.

Her letter follows:

Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Please tell me the truth.

—VIRGINIA O'HANLON

The editorial writer who was assigned to reply to Virginia at first disdained the task as trivial, then found himself warming up to real opportunity and finally wrote the words that millions since then have warmed to read:

Virginia, you little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little in this great universe of ours. Man is not a mere insect in intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and devotion exist, and you know that they exist; and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginia. There would be no child like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. They would have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The external light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not to believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men, nor the keenest eye, could ever tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view the internal beauty beyond. Is it real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else so real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives, and lives forever. A thousand years from now Virginia, may ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

From Where I Stand

By LARRY McMILLAN

"AMERICANS IN THE century just past have had the poorest of all governments to the progressive advantage of our people. Our fathers, as we all know, had a government suffering from injustice, and in all its forms so that all of us might have freedom including freedom from economic calamity with its consequences of widespread want and human misery. In doing all this we have used, whenever necessary, the government as our servant and laws as our instrument. But as far as possible, we have depended upon the force of public opinion, with out direct government intervention, to bring about reform and progress—responding to our instinct that "the best government is the least government."

Those are the words of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of Columbia University, when he spoke before the New York Herald Tribune Forum Oct. 25, 1949.

Those words can very aptly be applied to the situation of the Cumberland River Valley, today. For many years the people of this area have endured suffering, fought disease, and sought freedom from economic calamity.

It appears that a possible formula for the solution of the problem of the advancement of material, as well as cultural, status and possibly freedom from economic disaster, can be found in the T. V. A. development of the Cumberland River Valley.

Other solutions have already been tried, and so far we have failed in the effort toward achieving the utmost in improvement. Many people believe that we can still achieve more cultural and material advantages by other means.

But now I think it is about time that we resort to the use of government as our servant and laws as our instrument.

Right now we are depending on public opinion, without any undue influence of government, to bring about this reform and progress.

So far it seems that public opinion favors the development of the Cumberland River Valley under the authority of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Many efforts toward formulating that opinion have been made, and some of them have openly advocated this policy and have influenced many people. Various Civic organizations have bent their efforts toward this end.

And beyond any doubt, there is some governmental influence.

It is true that a program of this type would work a hardship on some few people. It would have some disadvantages, but by and large the tremendous benefits and security from economic disaster would outweigh them. That is the price that we have to pay for progress.

Govs Lose Cage Opener

Governors Bounce Milligan Five, 63-57

The A. P. S. C. Governors inaugurated their home basketball game Thursday night with a 63-57 win over the Milligan Buffaloes.

After a nip and tuck first half battle the Governors led the Buffaloes 35 to 31 as the whistle sounded ending the first stanza. The Govs, were never behind in the final period.

The Governor win was a team victory with two regulars, Mac Chandler and Dick Hayes and a reserve guard Billy Covington sharing in the scoring with 13 points each. Boxhead Stone, N. A. I. B. All-American was held to 12 markers.

Ed Hahaway and Kenny Hyder lead the invaders attack with 16 and 11 markers respectively.

Murray Waltzes To 87-46 Victory

Murray State's high flying thoroughbreds could do no wrong as they annihilated the visiting Govs, 87 to 46, in the season opener.

After a close first period, the Governors, never threatened the Murray quip as they went ahead to lead at halftime, 40 to 15.

Masso Cope, a freshman sub for Murray stole the spotlight with 17 markers. High scorers for AP were Mac Chandler and Boxhead Stone with 12 points each.
