Sinda Iberia, Spanish Dancing Troupe To Present Concert In Memorial Gym

SINDA IBERIA

Sinda Iberia, acclaimed the greatest Spanish dancer in many years, will appear with her company in the Memorial Building on the evening of March 11 under the sponsorship of the Clarksville College Association.

She brings four assisting artists, being two male Spanish dancers, a Spanish guitarist, and pianist.

Eligible Students Taking SS Test Apply At Once

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1954 should file applications at once for the April 22 administration. Selective Service National Headquarters advised today.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any Selective Service local board. Following instructions in the Bulletin, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided.

Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 8, 1954. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

Wright Named Head Of Veteran's Group

Members of the Austin Peay State College Jesse Harper Veterans Club elected George Wright, a freshman from Dickson, as the new president of the organization.

The new officers, elected during the meeting on February 23, will take office in March for the 1954-55 school year.

Coach Leon Sandifer, professor in health and physical education, was selected as faculty sponsor for the organization. Sandifer served in World War II and also was a tour of duty during the Korean conflict.

Other officers elected at the meeting were Billy Barnes, vice-president; Billy Byrd, secretary-treasurer; and Ray Vaughn, reporter.

After the election of officers the newly devised constitution and by-laws were revised and approved by the members.

Following the business meeting, banquets, coffee, and cakes were served. An informal group discussion was carried on concerning future club activities and future plans for the organization.

Sinda Iberia was born in Aragon, Spain, to a famous family of Spanish gypsy dancers, one generation after another. Her infancy and childhood were spent back-stage in the leading theatres of Europe, and her formal education was in a convent while her parents danced professionally.

Under her father's tutelage she made her debut at the age of six, and at an early age became the prima ballerina of the Theatre Real in Madrid. She is one of the few artists to cover the entire field of Spanish dancing, embracing the Classical School of Goya period, the earthy peasantry of Castile, and the fiery Flamenco of the Gypsies of Andalusia.

She has toured Europe and South America, and in July, 1952, at the famous Jacob's Pillow Festival, set new standards in the American field of dance. Her third major New York City appearance was in the musical "The Band Wagon."

The music of her program was planned by her husband, Maurice Nadeau, famous Polish pianist and soloist with Michel Flandery and the Longines Symphonette, of radio fame.

McDonald Receives His Doctor's Degree

Dr. W. H. McDonald

Dr. W. H. McDonald, assistant professor of geography at Austin Peay State College, has received his Ph.D.

Dr. McDonald was awarded his degree by the University of Illinois at its winter commencement.

Dr. McDonald received his degree in geography. His dissertation entitled, "The Role of Geography Planning in Reorganized School Districts" is the first thesis to be written on this subject.

A native of Richview, Illinois, Dr. McDonald attended public schools there and received his B.S. degree and M.Ed. degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

He has served as teacher of social sciences in the Vandall, Illinois Community High School and as assistant to professors in both the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University.

At Austin Peay State College, he teaches classes in geography, meteorology, and cartography. He joined the college faculty in September, 1952.

Dr. McDonald is a member of the National Council of Geography Teachers, The Association of American Geographers, The Illinois Geographical Council, Gamma Theta Upsilon, and Kappa Phi Kappa. He is a war veteran and is married and has two sons.

Counseling Center To Help Students In Solving Problems

The establishment of a testing and counseling center for Austin Peay State College students, was announced early this week by Dean F. O. Woodward.

The new service will provide professional psychological assistance to those students desiring help with academic, vocational, or personal problems. Dean Woodward emphasized that the program will be entirely voluntary and that the value of the service will be dependent upon student interest and need.

Joseph Sutton, assistant professor of education, will be available in the testing and counseling center office, Science 117, Monday and Friday at 10:00 a. m. and from 2:00 to 5:00 Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons.

Dean Woodward states that it has been recognized that many students are unable to profit from their college experiences because of general and social problems, poor study habits, and indecision regarding vocational choice.

The testing and counseling center will provide individual students with psychological tests and information that have been found to be useful in enabling students to understand themselves better and to meet many of the problems of college life in a more effective way.

Ten New Members Recently Elected To Kappa Delta Phi

Kappa Delta Phi, an honor society in education, voted in thirteen new members to its society at a banquet held recently in the college cafeteria.

The thirteen new persons initiated were: Dr. Byrns Darden, Dean Felix Woodward, honorary, Robert Kreeger, Mrs. Leona Lipscomb, Mrs. Melinda McIntosh, Tom Baynham, Bill Swift, Jim Johnson, Durward Harris, Lynn Canady, Miss Jessie Orain, Margaret Rich, and Betty Bailey.

Mrs. Marion T. Page, president of the society, directed the program for the evening and Dr. Harold Benjamin, professor of education at Peabody College, spoke to the group.

Dr. Darden is principal of the New Providence Demonstration School, and is associated with the education department of Austin Peay State. Felix G. Woodward, who is Dean of Instruction at Austin Peay State, was made an honorary member.

Tom Baynham, an English major, is a senior from Clarksville, Tennessee. Margaret Ann Harris, a Junior Business Major, is from Huntington, Tennessee, and is a member of the Business Club, Forewell and Hall, English Club and secretary of the Alpha Club. Bill Swift, a Science Club, English Club and P.T.A. member, is from Cumberland Furnace, Tennessee.

Tom Baynham, President of the P.T.A. and member of the Math Club, is a local student, and a senior; Lynn Canady, from Dickson, Tennessee is president of the English Club, past editor of the "All State," president of the senior class and Senior class editor of the Forewell and Hall.

Jim Johnson, a senior Biology and English major, is president of the student body, vice-president of Phi Alpha Nu and a member of B.S.U. Durward Harris, News Editor of the All State, and a Distributive Sciences major is from Dickson, Tennessee, and is a member of the Math Club.

This year's planning committee has scheduled 18 different vocational guidance clinics for the students' convenience. Representatives from the various professions will be on hand to talk with all students interested in each profession. Students may attend the sessions of several professions and learn the good and bad points about each vocation.

On hand to give the visitors an inspirational address before the counseling begins will be Dr. Scotty Young, coordinator of student affairs, at the University of Georgia, Dr. Young, a nationally known lecturer and career planning expert, is being brought here for Career Day through the auspices of the First National Bank of Clarksville.

Detailed plans for the day's activities will be announced later as will the counselors representing the various professions. The day's program will fall into the following outline:

Registration will be held from 9:00 to 9:45 in the Memorial Gymnasium. Following registration students will meet with the professional counselors for short periods from 11 until 12:35.

All the visitors and their school counselors have been invited to be the luncheon guests of the college from 12:35 until 1:00.

Following lunch, tours of the campus will be conducted by college students in an effort to acquaint the high school visitors with college activities.

Career Day is a public service feature of the college and the Rotary Club will aid high schools in giving professional guidance to their juniors and seniors.

Student Production "Outward Bound" To Star Five Newcomers To Stage

BILL BYRD CAROLYN SHASTEEN JACK SENSENEY ELIZABETH KEATING JESSE FOWLE

The cast of the winter quarter play, "Outward Bound", has five newcomers to Austin Peay stage. The dramatic fantasy will be presented in the Weddell Auditorium on March 3 and 4.

Bill Byrd, a freshman chemistry major from Indian Mound, Tennessee, will play the part of Mr. Lingley, a pompous, self-important business man. The character of Lingley shows a man who until the end believes that even death can be evaded by the power of money.

The part of Ann, the young suicide, will be portrayed by Carolyn Shasteen, a freshman English major from Clarksville. This is Carolyn's first large role here even though she did have a small part in the fall quarter production of "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

Portraying the part of Reverend Thomson is Jack Senseney, a freshman biology major from Fort Campbell, Kentucky. Reverend Thomson is the much-feared Examiner who comes on board to pass judgement after the passengers reach their dread destination.

Mrs. Elizabeth Weldon Keating, a part-time student here, will play the role of the English chaperone Mrs. Midget. Mrs. Keating is herself from London, England, and so has little trouble with the Cockney accents. Major from Clarksville, even though Jesse portrayed a small role in the Austin Peay production of "You Can't Take It With You," this is his first major dramatic role. Scrubby who is both captain and crew to the ship unobtrusively goes about waiting on his passengers and comforting their fears.

"Outward Bound" is an entertaining, attention-holding fantasy on the subject which, in one way or another, enters the thoughts and calculations of every person every day—the subject of death. But the play, despite this theme, is known to be an uplifting but gloomy or gruesome. The drama's two big successes on the Broadway stage, 15 years apart, and its innumerable presentations in stock companies throughout the years, are proof of its enduring popularity, traceable to the fact that it deals with the inevitable goal of all human beings with such good humor and kindness that it has the effect of being a wonderfully comforting message to its audiences.

That 'D' Letter

Mid-term exams have come and gone and by now the freshman students have become acquainted with that old college nemesis — the D letter. D stands for dumb in some cases. Or it may stand for daydreams, drowsiness, despondency, dejection, discouragement, or just plain dawdling away of time.

Whatever the D stands for, it is wise to take stock of what it does not mean.

It does not mean that the student is beyond all hope and should throw in the towel. It does not mean he should grow panicky and work himself into a lather. It does not mean that he should regard the letter so severely that he considers dropping out of school.

A D letter is actually a signal to the student to work harder, not to worry harder.

A student whose work is falling below the average of his class or the goal set by the instructor, is the one who receives the D letter. He who earns the D letter of course has the right to question the standard set by the instructor. Most instructors welcome the opportunity to explain why the letter was given.

Above all don't get the feeling that you're being persecuted. Don't take the attitude of "Oh, well what's the use? That prof's had it in for me from the beginning." Go to your professor and find out exactly what you're low on and meet the D challenge by giving a little extra grind to that subject. A little boning on one phase of the work may be all you need to bring up that grade. Remember: "nothing is impossible, only the lack of a will makes it seem so."

Understanding Is Our Need

The staff of the All State is terribly disappointed. We have failed!

For three years we have tried to put into words what we felt was the great need of Austin Peay State College — more understanding between faculty and students.

We have also campaigned for higher morale and more school spirit, but, our editorials have been in vain. Our efforts have been misunderstood.

If at any time we have said anything against the wonderful physical growth of Austin Peay we would like to apologize. But we would like to say in our defense that we cannot find any instances where this is true. It has always been our main argument that Austin Peay State is one of the most modern and best-equipped colleges in the country, and that we are proud of it.

In compiling this article we searched diligently through the editorials of all the past years since the fall of 1951, and we could find none that expressed a negative view of the growth of the A. P. S. C. campus. In fact, we discovered just the opposite.

We would like to reprint here a few quotes from past editorials which should substantiate our point.

June 4, 1952 — "As far as physical improvements are concerned, Austin Peay State is getting better all the time. A new wing has been added to the Boy's Dormitory, Robb and Calvin Hall have been remodeled, the field house has been added to the Boy's Dormitory, Robb and Calvin Hall have been remodeled, the field house has been converted into efficiency apartments and both the Stewart Building and the Cafeteria have undergone extensive repairs."

October 24, 1952 — "Since 1929 Austin Peay State College has come a long way. The Science, Administration, Men's Dormitory, and Memorial Health Buildings are evidences of our growth and advancement. Now the master's deed is being offered; the enrollment of the school has increased. Austin Peay has grown and is growing into a big school."

November 23, 1952 — "As has been discussed before, this particular college has been

Mirth and Madness

AP Professor: Will you men in the back of the room please stop exchanging notes?

Student: They aren't notes, sir. They're cards. We're playing bridge.

Professor: Oh, I beg your pardon.

She: I'm getting so this you can feel my ribs.

He: Guess, thanks.

Education—What a chorus girl gets by stages and a college girl gets by degrees.

Sweet young coed: "I like men with blue eyes and green backs."

Frosh: Hey, where are you going in such a hurry?

Soph: I just bought a new textbook and I want to get to class before the next edition comes out.

"All right back there?" called the conductor from the front of the car.

"Hold on," came a feminine voice. "Wait till I get my clothes on."

The entire crowd craned their necks expectantly as a girl got on with a basket of laundry.

Many girls are dying to find out if gentlemen really prefer blonds.

Joe Blow, while shopping in the student center the other day asked "Miss Chapman, is this ice cream pure?"

"As pure as the girl of your dreams," was Miss C's reply.

"Gimme a pack of cigarettes" was his reply.

The local politician was making a speech regarding the type of milk which should be supplied to the school children.

"What this town needs," he roared, "is a supply of clean, wholesome milk and it's up to you to take this bull by the horns and demand it."

Overhead in Child Psychology class: "It is permissible to spank a child if one has a definite end in view."

Sign in a shoe store: "These shoes are very comfortable—wonderful for streetwalking."

Brains Are Second; Personality First

Personality outweighs brains in Newcomb College's search for new coeds. Miss Dorothy Dale, whose job is to recruit students for the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College for Women, the women's undergraduate division at Tulane University, points out that "Newcomb is interested in enrolling girls with a lot of personality rather than Phi Beta Kappa material. Of course we stress scholarship," she reports, "but it's the overall appearance that counts most. And I'm not just talking about 'good looks'."

The Newcomb secretary of admissions travels all over the South telling high school students about advantages in attending Newcomb. She often makes as many as three speeches a day before high school groups.

"One of the most frequent questions the girls ask," Miss Dale said, "is how close Newcomb is to Tulane. Of course, I tell them 'right next door.'"

A woman worries about the future until she gets a husband, while a man never worries about the future until he gets a wife.

Help Wanted Column: Former first class private reorganizing former large construction company.

Opening for Colonel with snappy military bearing as elevator boy, doors open from sitting position; also opening for ex-major as office boy, must be able to dust.

Need a few second students as messenger boys, bicycles furnished. Can use a few privates in vital positions. — Doaks Construction Company.

Couffure—a french word meaning "You'll keep coming to us because you'll never be able to do it this way yourself."

Criticism is something that can be avoided by saying nothing, doing nothing, and being nothing.

A little boy had gone to church for the first time, and afterward the minister asked him how he had liked the service. "Well, he said, 'I thought the music was very nice, but your commercial was too long.'"

Question of the week: For women who wear slacks: "Does your eye justify your jeans?"

And remember — A bird in the hand is worth two thumbs — except on rare occasions.

By Durward Harris

I have been working under the illusion that children were immature adults not only in physical development but also mentality. Biology tells me that development is a cumulative process by which the individual reaches a stage known as being "grown", or mature. In other words, I thought that kids were pretty good things to have around the house, but that they should be more or less protected and watched. Well, sir, I have been awakened rudely by contact with the cold cruel facts; namely, kids themselves.

Sometime during the haze of the fall quarter, I was wrangled into taking a course called Education 471, better known as practice teaching. This course is designed, according to the catalog, to give students first-hand experience with the teaching profession. It does. It also gives the student teacher a couple of dozen things which he is not told about in teacher education as well as some things that he has never been told about at all even on his mamma's knee.

As an example of what I mean, take case number 86,954,390,876,587. A biology professor en trainee was discussing the tissues of the body. When asked to name some tissues of the body, a bright boy suggested Kleenex tissue. This same Joe when asked what the tongue is used for, replied, "French kissing", and "cleaning off the mouth." Quit? But the day has just started, and there are 24 (two-dozen, count 'em) eager faces before you just waiting to be motivated. "So now, students we shall write in our notebooks. Now just copy what I am writing!" When you find the chalk (it was presented to you in the back of the head by the Hero of the Back Row) you begin to pour forth the knowledge onto the board.

"Why this is just too easy", your conscience whispers into your ear as the first board is filled. A quick check out of the corner of your eye proves that you are right. In one corner an exciting game of tic-tac-toe is in progress. In the other Bobby and Jimmy are fighting over Susan's purse. Is Susan interfering? No, she is cheering for the winner who ever that may be. The most of the students, however, are watching the Joker who sign on your back.

Your first impulse is to line the whole gang up and have a general fanny-arming. In the deep recesses of the mind, however, you hear the still, small voice of an education professor telling you that interested students rarely give a teacher trouble. "Let the students help plan the program," you hear the voice say. What a heel I must be for letting all these students go with out being interested!

So, the students have planned a program. We're now playing tic-tac-toe — scientifically. And, do you know who's winning? That's right, the kids.

physically growing. In the past twelve years this campus has witnessed the progress of a gigantic construction program."

The list of quotes could go on but we felt that these three were representative of the group.

We later had the thought that a "Letter to the Editor" might have expressed a negative remark on this subject, so we decided to make clear the All State's position on this too. Letters to the editor express the ideas sent to us by our readers and do not necessarily reflect the policy of the newspaper.

In conclusion, the staff would like to express their congratulations to Dean Woodward whose talk in assembly a few weeks ago finally did what we have failed so miserably to do. To put across to the student body the one thing that Austin Peay State needs to make it a truly great college — the need of more communication between students and faculty.

JUST HINT!

Since spring is nearly here, or so it seems this particular minute, and we know that a young man's fancy often turns to thoughts of the girls he has had all year, we thought it would be wise to begin with this gem of wisdom:

Marriage is an institution. Marriage is love. Love is blind.

Therefore marriage is an institution for the blind.

Before we get around to the very latest of dirt, we have a bit of unfinished business to attend to. We know Dan Cupid's day is long since past and forgotten, but still we'd like to mention a few couples we saw at the Valentine Formal. Helen Culbertson and Chuck Underwood, Lorraine Olliam and Jack Uffman, Frances Miller and Bryan Sharpe, Ann Miller and Jim Johnson, David Fleming and Sara Averitt, Jean Chestnut and Steve Owen, Patty McReynolds and John Hancock (who abdicated their throne in favor of the new king and queen), Ann Gary and Tom Baynham, Mary Dudley McClelland and Jeff Honey, Bobby Givan and Margaret Ogden, Kate Ann Murphy and "Bubba" Leech, Sue Turner and H. B. Gunnison, Betty Rye Leech and Rory Shannon, Rebecca Morrison and Jim McCracken, Shirley Drinkard and John Rendell, Nina Marable and Wayne Snoddy, Peggy Mallory and Paul Gossett, Jessica Nolen and Mal Langston, Charlie and Babe Frith, Jo Hoffman and David Schuff, Newt Becker and Norma Simpson, Barbara Darnell and Duward Harris, Louise Glover and Bill Doty, and Jane Hinton and Karl Klugman.

The girls must invite the boys to the Blue Note Backwards Dance to be held tonight in Harned Hall at 7:30.

We saw too many slugs there. Among them were Roswell Hooks, Wayne Stephens, Pat Hunt, Bill Gossett Bill Craig, and Dickie Sullivan. What's wrong, boys, don't you like girls?

Congratulations to Dot Latham. Boyd was home recently and while he was here he slaked his claim and marked it with a diamond.

Kate Leatherman has been welcomed back in a big way. One person seems particularly interested—Ray Arnold. We've seen them together a lot lately.

Have noticed Betty Rye and Betsy floating around the campus lately. Also have noticed LeRoy and Marshall around. Could there be a connection?

We've been seeing the cutest couple around here recently—Peggy Martin and Eddie Evans. We hear Peggy really fell for him—right in front of the English office.

Another congratulations and this one is almost a scoop. Girls we've lost another. Just got word that Leroy Hooks has been engaged for some time and just hasn't told us. Oh, well, there's still that cute little brother of his. (Better watch it, Ros.)

This dance, sponsored by the Student Council and the girl's dormitory club, starts what may become one of the dance traditions on the Austin Peay State College campus—the Dogpatch idea of gals dragging the guys.

That accounts for the "Backwards" part of the name of the dance, now the "Blue Note" part comes from the name of a disc land dance hall in South Chicago. The clubs hope that the music for the dancing will come from a jamming session of anyone who owns an instrument and likes to play "pop" music. So, the music is up to you gals, and guys who can toot the horns. This is one dance where we can't complain about the music because it's ours, every bit of it.

The dance committee is composed of Kate Ann Murphy, chairman, and Ann Miller and Jo Coleman. These girls tell me that anything might happen and probably will.

So come on out Friday night and see why this dance may become a tradition.

Austin Peay Governors Complete Season Of Hardwood Pounding

The doors are closed on another basketball season at Austin Peay with the Governor, ending the season with a 14-12 record and an 8-6 Volunteer State Athletic Conference Mark.

The Governors wound up the season by defeating their last three opponents, Union, Lipscomb and Belmont. The local boys averaged 73 points to their opponents 68 in the last three contests. Austin Peay's quint set a new record for themselves for this year in the last game played as they tossed in 91 points in the final period which was a new quarter high for the season.

The Aaron men turned in a good record in the last three games. They hit 38 percent of their 212 field goals attempted and 73 percent of the even 100 charity tosses attempted.

In fact the last game with Belmont saw the Governors turn in one of their best performances of the year. The Governors hit 40 percent of their field goals and 80 percent of their free throws attempted.

Sparkling the Governors in individual scoring this season was Earl Chance and Dickie Elliott. Earl participated in 26 games and tallied a total of 316 points for a 12.15 average while Dickie also hit 316 in 22 games for a 14.36 average.

Five other Governors also scored in the three digits this season. John Rendek connected with 313 points for an average of 12.04 with Freddie Harrison getting 285 for a 10.96 average; Jim Cummings, 285 for a 22.08 average; and Don Holmes, 136 for a 4.84 average per game.

And speaking of the cafeteria. Orchids to the student council for the new containers there. They were really needed.

We have great news. The annual 'Just about ready to go to prison, so it won't be long now. It's going to be bigger and better than ever, so if you haven't paid for yours, you'd better get on the ball.

Mr. Hunt has requested that we announce that if anyone has any need for an old wheel, please see him. He has one that was used in a play last year. He has thrown it away three times and each time it has worked it's way back to the prop room.

We'll leave you with this bit of conversation that might have been overheard on the front porch of almost any AP coed.

Mother: "I'll teach you to kiss my daughter!"
Young man: "Too late, I've learned already."

Only My Opinion

BY RAY BAKER

The basketball season has ended, so let's close that chapter of Austin Peay athletics. Comes springtime, the sports fans direct their interest toward baseball, spring football, tennis, etc. Let us take a glimpse at the spring sports calendar at AP.

Spring football practice started several weeks ago with the men working out in sweat-soaked, but March 1st the knocking started in earnest. Coach Dave Aaron has about twenty candidates at present and is expecting new arrivals all through the spring. About fifteen men have returned from the Gov organization of last Autumn. These men will form the nucleus of the Red and White when the 54 season gets underway.

Turning to the other spring sports, baseball will again be on the Gov's program for intercollegiate competition. At present, plans call for a track team, probably the first in the history of AP, to be formed during the Spring quarter. The VAC track meet will be held at Austin Peay this year. Austin

Peay should be able to field a pretty fair track outfit, if the speed shown by some students in racing to the chow-hall, is anything to judge by.

The complete sports program for the Volunteer State Athletic Conference call for golf, tennis, and swimming in addition to the sports already mentioned. Looks like AP could field a team in each of them and give practically everybody an opportunity to take part in some intercollegiate sport. Let's hope so!

COLUMN APPLAUSE LINE: This one goes to Freddie Harrison for being named to the All-conference team at Johnson City.

LIMBURGER AWARD: To the people that picked the above team for net selecting Johnny Rendek. FINAL SHOT OF DRIVE: I envy all of you lucky people, who get enjoy the delicacies served at the cafeteria. You are extremely fortunate - - -

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

No guessing games with cigarettes
When Luckies are your brand—
A cleaner, fresher, smoother smoke,
A taste that's really grand!

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S.M.F.T.—Luckies Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

I've often been class president—
I'm called a real go-getter!

I've always heard that taste will tell,
And now I know it's true—
The better taste of Lucky Strikes
Will sure convince you, too!
