

Tuition and requirements raised

GPA, ACT scores raised, dorm rent higher

Effective fall quarter, 1966, there will be changes in room rent, out-of-state tuition and requirements for admission at Austin Peay State College. Other state universities under control of the Tennessee State Board of Education will be subject to similar changes, also.

According to President Joe Morgan, it should be understood by the APSC student body that these regulations passed by the board will affect not only Austin Peay State, but Tennessee Tech, Middle Tennessee, Memphis State, ETSU and Tennessee A&I.

All students will pay an increased $15 per quarter on room rent. Money was borrowed in the form of bonds to construct the dormitories. Consequently, the dorm fee must be raised in order to retire these bonds on schedule.

Due to the crowded conditions of these dormitories, out-of-state tuition will be increased in order to regulate the out-of-state students who apply for admission at APSC. This out-of-state tuition is increased to $75 per quarter, a $20 increase over present rates. This does not, however, apply to Tennessee residents or residents of Todd County, Christian County and other out-of-state students who live within 30 miles of Clarksville. These people are treated as in-state residents (under law) for purposes of tuition payment.

The purpose of raising the requirements for entrance to APSC is not to be selective as some of the larger universities, but merely to be distributive. By being distributive, the students with lower averages will not all enter in the fall quarter, but will also enter in the summer, winter and spring quarters.

The following changes in requirements have been made: The applicant for admission to the fall quarter must have a minimum scholastic standing of 2.25, based on a four-point system, on all courses taken during the ninth, 10th and 11th grades or a composite score of 17 on the American College Tests (ACT) or a comparable score on equivalent standardized tests.

Persons who have a scholastic standing of less than 2.25 at the end of the 12th grade, may submit their applications after high school graduation.

An applicant graduating from an approved Tennessee high school who does not meet the above provisions for admission may enter during the summer, spring or winter quarter.

Admission will be granted to an

Music majors to hold recital soon in auditorium

A student recital is scheduled for December 7 at 7 p.m. in the Clement Fine Arts auditorium. The program will consist of solos and small ensembles performed by Austin Peay State music majors and music minors.

Three student recitals are planned each quarter. These offer "laboratory work performance" to students studying music. All music majors are required to participate in a student recital at least once each year. Everyone is invited to attend. In addition to bearing a fine concert, those who attend can encourage and help the performers merely by being there.

begin at 7 p.m., will be composed of 50 units, 10 of which will be bands from various sections of the state.

Among the visiting bands are Tennessee A&I, Ft. Campbell High School and Stewart County High School. The Red River Raiders, a riding club, will conclude the parade, which promises to be the best yet simply for its new approach. The traditional floats will be outnumbered this year by the Macy's-Day-Parade-type balloon figures. Some 30 of these gigantic balloons characters are scheduled to appear.

Since APSC will lead the parade, they will have completed the route by approximately 8 p.m., at which time they will perform a special half-time performance in the Municipal Stadium. Admission is free; the public is encouraged to attend both the parade and the performance.

Nashville Symphony will perform here in December

Austin Peay State students have the opportunity to witness a fine musical performance Friday, December 3, when the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Willis Page, will appear in the Clement Fine Arts auditorium. This concert, the second of the 1965-1966 Community Concert season, is built around two classic numbers. These are Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto and the First Symphony of Shostakovich. End Kathen will be featured as piano soloist.

Due to the expected crowd, the number of students permitted to attend this event must be limited. Students wishing to hear the Nashville Symphony Orchestra may pick up a special ticket in the music department office.

Donations needed for 'Operation Bleed-In'

AW, IT DIDN'T HURT A BIT — Bill Allensworth, APSC sophomore feels as cheerful as ever after contributing a pint of blood and his conscience feels twice as cheerful. He has just donated part of himself to help someone unknown to him, who needs the blood perhaps to keep him alive. All students will have a chance to donate blood when the bloodmobile is on campus during "Operation Bleed-In." (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

The Red Cross bloodmobile unit will soon make its appearance on the APSC campus, December 1, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., students who wish may donate blood. This, as "Operation Support," holds the basic premise that we as students can do more to help the morale of our troops in Viet Nam than hold demonstrations.

Although the blood is not in immediate need in Viet Nam, the blood given will go to military usage in the United States, and will be used in the event of a blood shortage in Viet Nam. Its immediate need is not the important factor, however. The gesture of giving blood has been taken up by numerous colleges throughout the nation to show the U.S. troops in Viet Nam that the majority of college students are in complete support of their efforts.

Anyone 18 years of age or above is eligible to give blood. Those under 21 must have a consent and release slip signed by their parents before they can give. These are available in the student center. Have them signed and bring them with you to the Red Cross bloodmobile.

A quota of 256 donations is anticipated, and 200 students have already pledged a pint of blood. Eighty girls have agreed to work in the Red Cross bloodmobile for one hour, typing, filing and serving refreshments to the donors.

Dance precedes cramming avalanche

Christmas festivities are going to come early this year for many APSC students. The Christmas dance will be held on Dec. 11 to avoid interference with final examinations. Bill Arrington, vice-president of the ASB, has secured the "Delas," a well-known combo from Gallatin, to provide the

Clubs, beware of new ASB policy

Every club, fraternity and organization on campus that is now a member of the ASB or that may be in doubt as to whether their membership is valid, should have two student senate representatives attend a meeting in the audio-visual room of the McCord building, Monday, December 6, 7 p.m. Any organizations unrepresented shall be dismissed from membership in the senate. Presidents of all clubs, classes and organizations concerned should be responsible for the attendance of their representatives.

"It is imperative that every representative attend this meeting," stated Larry Richardson, president of the ASB. "The senate's work has been hampered all year because of the poor attendance and 'dead clubs' on our roll."

All organizational presidents are urged to contact Larry Richardson or Bernie Aderhold before the December meeting.

music. Semi-formal attire should be worn to the dance, which will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium from 8 to 12 p.m. Flowers are optional.

Decorations for the occasion will be provided by Terry Chapell and his decorating committee. An old-fashioned Christmas theme is being considered. Admission will be $1.25 per couple.

Undergraduate classes will be dismissed tomorrow and Friday for Thanksgiving holidays, according to President Joe Morgan.

Graduate classes scheduled for Saturday will also observe the holiday weekend, according to Dean F. G. Woodward. THE ALL STATE, as a result of Thanksgiving holidays, will not be issued on December 1. The December 8 issue will be distributed as scheduled.

EDITORIAL

'Apathy'-it really isn't all bad

Every day we hear comments on the apathy of APSC students. While this problem definitely exists, it is unfair to group all apathy under the heading of "bad." There is a certain form of so-called "apathy" that, while not quite under the classification of "good," is nevertheless necessary in the educated, middle-class society that is the basis of the American system. It is the ability to accept and promote certain standards without great fanfare.

According to American tradition, colleges and universities exist primarily for the further education of American youth. This ought to be the function of our institutions of higher learning. However, at present there are campuses across the country that have seemingly forsaken this view, not because of a consensus of the student body, the administration, or even the faculty, but because of the discordant protestations of a minority who are, as a general rule, only tenuously connected with these universities.

There has been substituted instead an attitude similar to that of the South American universities. These campuses have become hotbeds of political fomentation.

Every citizen has the right to freedom of speech. College students especially, being at that idealistic age, should be able to take advantage of this right. But it should not be at the expense of the educational goals and image of a university.

It is at this point that the cry of apathy comes in. College students not involved in the incidents are accused of either (1) not caring enough to take part in these demonstrations, or (2) not caring enough to take part against these demonstrations. Although this image of complete unconcern is being discarded, there are still a few comments that should be made on it.

The majority of college students do have an interest in government policy, but they can have this interest without crying it aloud in the streets. The degree of noise does not mark the degree of agreement or disagreement.

This does not apply just to opinions on the Viet Nam war, although this is the most obvious case. It extends to other areas as well. The ability to accomplish what must be done without having extensive publicity is necessary. Being against something isn't so hard -- it brings a lot of notoriety and "fame." Doing something worthwhile is harder; it usually doesn't bring with it such public recognition. Rather it is done for its own sake.

Acceptance of certain necessary restrictions and standards is also like this. There are rarely demonstrations praising the administration for maintaining academic standards or for hiring good teachers. There are many soldiers now fighting in Viet Nam who quietly accepted their responsibility to fight for their country.

APSC students, like the majority of college students, are willing to accept such standards. We do not have off-campus agitators, Communist cells, or violent demonstrations. If this can be called apathy, then this apathy is a blessing. To quote Thomas Huxley, "Perhaps the most valuable result of all education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do, when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not; it is the first lesson that ought to be learned; and however early a man's training begins, it is probably the last lesson that he learns thoroughly."

The difference between a river and a swamp is that a river is confined within banks, while a swamp is not. Because a river is confined, and channeled, it has life. It is mighty, moving, living thing. Because a swamp has no restrictions, it becomes thin and stagnant. . . . In our modern life we boast of freedom. We want life without restrictions and without confinement. Only we forget that such living becomes stagnant.

RADFORD COLLEGE, Grapuchat, Radford, Va.-- The famous "isms" of our world create another world in themselves. Many times, in trying to clear up meanings, the definitions themselves become cluttered.

SOCIALISM-- If you have two cows, you give one to your neighbor.

COMMUNISM-- If you have two cows, you give them to the government and then the government gives you some milk.

FASCISM-- If you have two cows, you keep the cows and give the milk to the government; then the government sells you some milk.

NAZISM-- If you have two cows, the government shoots you and keeps the cows.

NEW DEALISM-- If you have two cows, you shoot one and milk the other; then pour the milk down the drain.

CAPITALISM-- If you have two cows, you sell one and buy a bull.

It's amazing--sometimes an explanation of political theory in the above manner gets the point across better than textbook definitions of philosophies in abstract form.

Priced on a brilliantly red-lined stationery with a majestic, ivy-covered water closet impossibly engraved in the margin, the above statements initiate another of the protest societies that are reproducing by means of spontaneous generation. You are urged to join and lend your support to this organization by these rest room rebels.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY, Eagle, Washington, D. C.-- Every school is having its own parking problem and AU is no different. University officials feel the problem is so grave, in fact, that they have computerized it.

Officials say the new system will allow the business office to compare within 24 hours a list of parking offenders.

From the ASB president's desk:

"Hell" is the way General Sherman described the antagonistic state of war. Although war has not been openly declared in the politically-divided country of Viet Nam, many of our countrymen are certainly receiving their share of what Sherman termed war. Of course there has been much said about who has the right to share in the Vietnamese conflict. But who has more at stake concerning the preservation of democracy and destruction of communism than the United States of America? We can not afford to sit idly by and let undeveloped, relatively defenseless countries like Viet Nam be engulfed by the ruthless communistic machine.

The students of Austin Peay State College are to be complimented on the attitude that has been taken toward "Operation Support." Through their assistance they have openly shown a sincere desire to maintain the policy that our government has undertaken. Also, it is a humane desire to help their fellow man. We are striving now to send the gifts collected through "Project Support" to Viet Nam before Christmas. But what will happen to the movement after that? Should we "stamp the file closed," or should it be continued in some other form? This is a question that we will face. It will be your decision as well as the people leaders'.

L. along with many others, am saying thank you for helping to take some of the hell out of the war in Viet Nam. Your continued support for "Operation Support" is needed.

COMET blazes path in progress

Has triple purpose: to educate, train and place

by RAMONA LUMPKIN

Austin Peay State College has recently made a significant step forward in increasing its stature as an educational institution. The college and a number of its staff members are currently engaged in a massive research project in manpower training. This has been made possible by a grant from the Department of Labor of approximately $600,000.

The program, Citizens Organization Manpower Extension Training (COMET), got its original impetus from Dr. Harold Pryor, director of teacher education. Pryor began work on the project in October of 1964, and the full proposal was submitted in January, 1965. The basic purpose is to test new ways of retraining functional illiterates, and according to the Department of Labor it is one of the top experimental projects of this type in the country.

The college committee that assisted in the development of the project was headed by Pryor and included Dr. George E. Ackley Jr.; Dr. David E. Denton; Dr. William E. Stokes; Hayden Jolty; Dr. Robert S. Glover; Dr. L. Paul Hyatt; and President Joe Morgan. It is a cooperative undertaking of APSC and three watershed regions of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The project is under the supervision of the Office of Manpower, Automation and Training of the Department of Labor.

Cuyler A. Dunbar, former assistant principal at Clarksville High School, is the administrative project director. Dr. Pryor is college coordinator, and other APSC faculty members are consultants to the project. There is an assistant project director in each of the three watershed areas, which include parts of middle, east and west Tennessee. The central office of COMET is located in the industrial arts building at APSC.

In essence, APSC and the TVA Watershed Organizations are to be a laboratory to determine more effective ways of lifting the uneducated, rural poor into a higher economic standing in each community in these regions. In order to qualify for the program, a person must be unemployed or seasonally unemployed, male or female of at least 22 years of age but not over 60 years of age, head of a household and have an educational achievement level of fifth grade or less.

The program consists of three phases: the basic education phase, on-the-job training and job placement phase.

Basic education classes attempt to bring the education level of the trainees to sixth grade or above. After completing this phase each trainee is placed in a job according to his individual ability and need. The employer's cooperation is enlisted in an apprenticeship program which consists of on-the-job training. There are 260 trainees currently involved in the program.

The goal of COMET is to develop effective methods of recruiting, training and employing rural people in a way that will provide a reservoir of experience, and create a continuing interest in providing the necessary services to rural residents.

It is testing certain unique features in manpower training, such as keeping the trainees in their home counties and finding productive local jobs for them.

While no conclusions as to the outcome of the experiment have been made as of yet, it has already made significant changes in the lives of the people involved. According to Cuyler Dunbar, project director, pride in learning is evident at each of the training centers. Trainees come early to class and linger afterwards. They help each other with their homework, and many are able for the first time to help their children with their homework. People can read and sign their name who were previously unable to do so. Some trainees are already into the on-the-job training part of the program. People who were in the past faced with only hopelessness, despair and welfare checks now have a whole new future opened for them.

If the ideas of the project are found to be feasible they may be used for other proposals similar in design and may have implications for future legislation. The final report of the outcome of the project will be submitted in September, 1966.

APSC art work exhibited in Indiana

The works of three Austin Peay State artists are being exhibited in the Evansville Museum of Arts and Sciences, which runs from November 14 to December 12.

Two terra cotta sculptures were entered by assistant professor of art, Olen L. Bryant. One of these works received honorable mention in the exhibit. James Emswold, an art major from Clarksville, exhibited his intaglio print entitled "Leda's Scandal."

Another art major from Nurnburg, Germany, Jim Gross, entered an untitled oil painting.

Three entries were allowed to any artist within a 200-mile radius of Evansville, Ind. All entries were judged by William Cropper, a nationally-known painter and graphic artist from New York City.

Shrubbery which springs up overnight plants growing where yesterday the ground was bare. This is all part of a unified plan to make the Austin Peay State campus much more attractive and appealing to all observers.

Dr. Haskell G. Phillips, chairman of the Grounds Committee, and the other members, President Joe Morgan, John B. Bond, James D. Hamilton, James W. Hester and Gerald P. Ladd, are instrumental to this new look for the college. The actual planning and landscaping is being carried out by Charles Pinckley, an experienced landscape artist engaged for this task.

Pinckley, who obtained a B.S. degree in agriculture with a horticulture major from the University of Tennessee, brings a great amount of experience and knowledge to this job. For several years he worked with the federal government in the purchasing of lands for various parks, among them the Natchez Trace and the Shelby County Forest Park. His work can be seen in the landscaping of the park areas, the bridge paths, roads, cabin sites and lakes.

He later spent five years at the University of Arkansas, as a technical assistant, doing experimental work with fruit and ornamental shrubs. Pinckley, who spent four and a half years in World War II, has operated the Wandaland Nursery for the last 19 years, and during that time has made many trips to demonstrate and discuss landscaping techniques with various home and garden clubs. Even before his current assignment, he had a close link to the college, since his wife, Mrs. Wanda Pinckley, is placement director at APSC.

Under the direction of Charles Pinckley and his assistant, Noel Opaton, the whole campus will be affected by the planting and remodeling. The first landscaping plan was drawn up last year by Colman S. Hochman of Chattanooga, Tenn., but this has been extensively revised by Pinckley and only the original plan for the walks has been retained.

The present walk for the walks has been retained. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

'Operation Support' football game success

YEA, BIG BOYS — Cheerleaders for the "Operation Support" football game were resplendent in uniforms of jeans and football jerseys. A spectacular half-time show was provided by the band and cheerleaders and was undoubtedly one of the notable aspects of the game. (Photo by Gerald Tenney)

Vicki Keith, chairman of "Operation Support" at Austin Peay State College, reported that last week's intramural game between the freshmen and the upper classmen, was successful.

The game was sponsored by the students as part of their drive to raise funds to be used in purchasing needed items to be sent to the servicemen in Viet Nam.

Miss Keith reported that a total of $400 was received at the game, $360 on ticket sales, and the remainder gained from concessions and donations.

This brings to a total of $700 collected by the students thus far; $300 was collected by students on Tuesday night.

The chairman said that students will again be going out in the city to collect funds to be added to that already collected. The money will be turned over to a Fort Campbell committee to be used to buy the items necessary. Donations are also being taken at the college business office and in the editorial department of the Leaf-Chronicle.

Miss Keith also reminded the public of the large wooden box on Franklin Street, where persons may leave any packages they wish sent to servicemen in Viet Nam.

Apply now for foreign studies

Four undergraduate academic programs to be offered in Europe next spring will remain open for applications until Friday, Dec. 10, according to their sponsor, the Institute of European Studies, in Chicago.

Located in Freiburg, West Germany, and in Madrid, Paris and Vienna, the programs emphasize liberal arts and social science studies at the sophomore and junior levels. The institute also conducts full academic-year programs in all four locations, as well as in Nantes, France.

In Freiburg, students take the regular courses of the University of Freiburg, a 400-year-old institution whose facilities have included such scholars as Erasmus and Martin Heidegger. Applicants must have junior standing, at least B averages and two years of college German or equivalent ability.

Students in the Madrid program select courses from curricula organized under the direction of the university's faculty of political and economic sciences. All instruction is in Spanish. Requirements include junior or sophomore standing, a C-plus average at least and two years of Spanish.

In Paris, the institute has (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

Staff participation has been the keynote behind the year's "Administration" section has already been completed, and the "Academics," "Advertising" and "Opening" divisions are due before Christmas.

APSC students can look forward to a new feature section in the '66 "Academics," Vicki Keith heads this new annual entry. The yearbook is expected to be distributed in plenty of time to give everyone an opportunity to talk over its "pros" and "cons" before school is completed in the spring.

OVC basketball outlook

Basketball season is here and it appears that Western Kentucky State College is the cream of the crop in the Ohio Valley Conference. Returning six lettermen, the Hill-toppers are led by Mr. Basketball, Clem Haskins, who was All-OVC and honorable mention All-America as a sophomore last year. He was also the loop's leading scorer with a 23.4 average. Head coach John Oldham says this year's squad will be improved in the areas of bench strength and rebounding ability.

Eastern Kentucky coach Jim Baechtold feels that he will have a solid club despite losing three of his top five players from last year's OVC champions. Centering his club around Eddie Bodkin, a 6-7 senior forward, Baechtold is hoping for a successful defense of the title.

Murray State, third in loop standings last winter, returns five lettermen. Co-captains Stewart Johnson and Herb McPherson, both of whom received All-OVC mention last year, will be the big guns for the Thoroughbreds this campaign.

Among the other schools, Tennessee Tech, Morehead State, Middle Tennessee State and East Tennessee State, it doesn't appear that a conference champion will be found. All of these squads are involved in rebuilding stages and probably will not be ready to make a run for the money this campaign.

The Austin Peay basketball squad will consist of a pre-season exhibition of their 1965-66 edition, Nov. 29, when they host Sewanee. The scrimmage tilt is scheduled to get underway at 4:30 p.m.

The probable starting lineup will consist of Hal Jackson, Melvin Van Hooser, Tommy Head and Dennis Syder. Bob Burnett or Joey Spalding will get the nomination to fill the other position.

Coch George Fisher praised

Spalding, a 6-5 sophomore, by stating, "Before practice the highest role we had in sight for Joey was that of an early substitute, but he has shown tremendous progress and determination. He is definitely in contention for a starting berth."

The Gavs, composed of two seniors, six juniors and seven sophomores, will be concerned mostly with their lack of size and lack of real speed at certain positions.

Fisher, beginning his fourth year as head mentor, reported that the team is behind on their physical condition, mostly due to several injuries confronting key players.

The experienced leader, commenting on his squad as a whole, stated, "The team has displayed a good attitude and a willingness to work. We feel the practice sessions have been grueling and the boys have responded real well."

Gavs obliterate UTMB

Austin Peay State College recorded its most one-sided triumph of the season Saturday by walling out the University of Tennessee, Martin Branch by a score of 49-0.

The victory gave the Governors an 8-1 record, which is the greatest in school history. The 49 points also gave the scarlet and white 280 points for the year, which broke the school scoring records, both for total points and average points per game.

Jarrie' John (The Ogre) Ogles led the onslaught by totting the pigskin 28 times for 147 yards and three touchdowns.

Most of the action was highlighted by the play of 11 APSC seniors, who closed out their careers as Governors.

Tim Chilcutt was all over the field as he ran 7 times for 51 yards, caught one pass for 10 yards, threw a six-yard touchdown aerial to Mike Riddle and a two-point conversion to Pete Bush and returned seven punts for 54 yards.

Rodney Rogers also broke school records for total offense as he directed the Gavs for three quarters.

Harriers take 8th place

Eastern Kentucky captured the fourth annual Ohio Valley Conference cross-country meet Saturday by scoring a perfect 15 points.

In cross-country, low score wins.

APSC finished last in the eight-team league with a 163-point total.

The surprise of the meet was not only the Maroons' complete domination, but the disappointing seventh place finish by defending champion Western Kentucky, The Hilltoppers, totaled 156 points, only five better than APSC.

Other team scores included Murray State (77), Tennessee Tech (94), Middle Tennessee (123), Morehead State (128) and East Tennessee (133).

Freshman Terry Womack topped the Gobs with a 24:07 time over the rugged, hilly three-mile course. He finished in 25th place. Other APSC finishers were Ron Morton (29th, 24:18), Chuck Babcock (36th, 24:46), Robert Hillburton (47th, 26:36) and Bob Engler (49th, 26:01).

Engler suffered the misfortune of spraining an ankle during the first 100 yards of the run, or the Gobs might have finished higher.

Coach Max Mayes' harriers finished the regular season with a 0-4 record. Last year APSC finished sixth in the OVC meet, as compared to this year's last place finish.

Gobs obliterate

Ogles recorded the first big scores early in the second quarter as he scampered 23 yards to make the score 21-0 in favor of APSC.

APSC scored the first three times it had the ball as Rogers passed to Bush for 16 yards and later ran it over himself from the 50-yard line to give Dugan a 13-0 lead after one quarter.

The second half saw the staunch APSC defensive unit hold UTM to no yardage gained. Led by Tom Jones, Bobby Byrd and Philip

About 200 persons showed up in the sub-freezing temperatures to witness the Operation Support "Clinic Bowl" game between the freshmen and the upperclassmen, which ended in a scoreless tie.

Although neither team was able to muster a consistent offensive attack, the crowd was pleased with the defensive efforts on the part of each team.

Actually each team had one good scoring chance. The upperclassmen picked up a fumble and crossed the goal line to record a score for the veterans. However, the touchdown was nullified because of a ruling stating that fumbles could not be advanced.

The freshmen came closest to the goal on the last of the first half when speedster Richard Cochran ran a sweep around end. It appeared that he might go all the way if he could get by Larry Richardson, the only man separating him from the goal line. However, the versatile ASB president came up with a tremendous tackle to quell the froth attack.

Farnella, the defense threw Vol runners for a net total of 14 yards lost and allowed only 14 yards through the air.

Ogles scored his other two touchdowns in the third quarter on five and 11-yard runs.

Middle caught Chilcutt's aerial with only seven seconds gone in the fourth quarter and also caught a TD bomb from Aubrey Flagg that was ruled incomplete because it was received out of the end zone.

Arnold Huskey completed the scoring parade by galloping 14 yards through the right side of the line to mark the final tally for the Gobs.

1965 campaign best ever

Chapter three of "Success on the Installment Plan," authored by Bill Dupes, was completed Saturday when Austin Peay State College routed University of Tennessee, Martin Branch.

The tremendous victory marked the end of the most successful football season in history. However, looking back to 10 weeks ago the situation appeared to be reversed.

APSC had just suffered a 35-30 setback at the hands of Eastern Kentucky State College in the season opener. However, four days later it was discovered that Eastern had used an ineligible player and therefore, had to forfeit the victory. This seemed to pick the Governors up and send them on to an exciting season.

At Murray State the Governors showed a control-type offense and won easily, 29-6. It was in this contest that Rodney Rogers broke the single game total offense record by accumulating 229 yards through the ground and over the air.

The Scarlet and White came home the next week to begin a four-game home stand. South-east Missouri was their first opponent and the Indians suffered a humiliating 50-7 defeat at the hands of Dupes' dandies as his men pilfered five passes and scored at will.

Western Kentucky visited Clarksville next and went back to Bowling Green after being stung.

38-6. This contest saw John Ogles and Western's Dickie Moore engage in a personal dual for superiority as the Ohio Valley Conference's top fullback, Jarlin' John took top honors that night and went on to prove he's the best of the season.

Morehead threw a scare into APSC supporters as Mike Gottfried limbered his passing arm and almost upset the Gobs. However, APSC managed a 26-21 decision and might have scored more had time not run out with the ball on the one-foot line. After a one-week layoff, Austin Peay State battled Middle Tennessee State University in the NCAA game of the week. Playing before a homecoming crowd of more than 11,000 fans, Dupes' charges succumbed to Teddy Morris and the Blue Raiders in the waning moments of the fourth quarter, 24-20. The contest, which was everything it was built up to be, virtually gave MTSU the OVC championship.

Down, but not out from the homecoming loss, the Governors traveled to Johnson City for a tilt with East Tennessee State University. With Arnold Huskey and Jim Scroggins having the best nights of their careers, APSC won easily 21-7.

Dupes then took his players to his alma mater, Tennessee Tech. Although the Eagles got fired up towards the end of the contest, they could not find the winning combination and lost 23-12.

In the finale, the scarlet and white broke all sorts of records as they won easily 49-0. Leading the way were 11 seniors, who played tremendous ball and provided exceptional leadership all season.

A total of 39 school records were tied or broken this fall. The team itself accounted for eight while seven individuals accumulated the other 31. Tommy Dilated, Huskey and Scroggins each broke one record and Rogers cracked four. Ronnie Parson and Jarlin' John each smashed seven standards. Tim Chilcutt truly is an All-American, rewrote the record book by making 10 new entries. The little halfback now owns or shares 13 all-time APSC records.

Cowan to represent APSC

Chicago hosts 41st NASM

Dr. Thomas W. Cowan will represent Austin Peay State College at the 41st Annual Meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music. The general sessions will be held at the Palmer House in Chicago, Ill. Friday and Saturday. Austin Peay State has been a member of the NASM since 1964.

The NASM has been designated by the National Association on Accrediting as the responsible agency for the accreditation of all music degree curricula with specialization in the fields of applied music, music theory, composition, music therapy, musicology and music as a major in liberal arts programs. Its deliberations will play an important part in music education trends in this country during the coming years.

In addition to the business sessions, the delegates will attend a concert given by the Chicago

Symphony Orchestra with Jean Martinson, conductor, and William Kempf as soloist. On Saturday, Dr. Roger Stevens, special assistant to the President of the United States, will lecture on the newly-created National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities.

End Richardson also recovered a fumble and made several other key tackles. Outstanding for the freshmen in the defensive battle was Lynn Toombs, who played a tremendous game from his line-backer post.

Junior-sophomore coach Jake Gamble stated, "I think that the game was pretty even. Neither team could muster an offensive attack which probably could have given one of the squads a victory."

Aqua Belles may be re-formed by APSC swimmers

How many times have you looked through another college yearbook and thought, "What we need again at APSC is the Aqua Belles!"?

Here is your chance, men and women, to help in the reorganization of the Aqua Belles, a team of individuals who excel in aquatic and swimming skills.

Miss Mary Chamlee, instructor of physical education, is interested in reorganizing this activity which was dropped several years ago. Of the required qualifications, Miss Chamlee said, "One should have completed an advanced beginner or intermediate swimming course, but we will, of course, work on techniques and anyone who knows how to swim will surely be welcomed to join."

A meeting will be held December 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Health building, room 10. Please bring your bathing suit. A spring show will be planned.

and replaced by plants arranged to present a symmetrical effect. While the front of the campus is being altered, the dormitories and back campus will be receiving their share of the planning. The appearance of the entire APSC campus will benefit from the alterations which should be completed by next spring, but the landscaping itself will never be completed as long as buildings are added or altered on the campus.
