

SGA offices move

By PAM DEASON

Students returning to Austin Peay will notice a location change of the Student Government Association (SGA) offices.

The SGA offices have been moved to the downstairs area of the University Center.

Hester Crews of the office of student affairs stated that the move occurred in August in hopes to omit any confusion of students entering the fall quarter.

SGA members decided on the move after discussion with Dean of Students, Phillip G. Weast, and Director of Student Affairs, Barbara Burke.

Center plans programs

Art, dance featured in October

By PATTI PRICHER

As the Fall quarter begins the Center for Creative Arts gears up for an exciting month of events for all to enjoy. The Center presents the Boston Flamenco Ballet, Inc., featuring two major cultural groups; the Teatro Flamenco de Madrid will offer two Spanish programs "La Tuna" and "Don Quijote" at 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and the Old French Variety Show performing "Vignettes de Paris" at 11 a.m., both groups performing on Oct. 15.

Other events scheduled for the month of October include a print show from Sept. 21-Oct. 9, an art workshop featuring the art of wood engraving from Oct. 14-17 in the Trahern building, Dimensions in New Music series, featuring twentieth century music for violin, oboe and piano on Oct. 20, and a faculty recital featuring Richard Steffen on the trumpet on Oct. 13. Also for children, the Center will present "Kinderkonzert," an APSU percussion ensemble on Oct. 18. Tickets will be $5.

The highlight of October will be the Chinese opera exhibit featuring ancient Chinese opera and cultural artifacts including theatrical costumes, musical instruments and props. This exhibit has never before been seen outside of China and will only be seen at APSU and Bridgewater College in Massachusetts. Admission will be free for the exhibit which opens at the Trahern Theatre on Oct. 19.

Symposium to honor native son

By BILL DAVIE

Robert Penn Warren will be the topic of discussion in October as Austin Peay hosts "Robert Penn Warren-A Hometown Symposium," October 15, 16 and 17. The symposium is sponsored by the department of languages and literature, the Center of Excellence for the Creative Arts, the Tower Fund and the Austin Peay Visiting Speaker and Artist Committee.

Warren is a three-time Pulitzer Prize winner for his work in poetry, short stories and novels. The focus of the symposium is to emphasize the influence this area had on Warren's work.

A Guthrie, Kentucky native, Warren attended Clarksville High School his senior year before going to Vanderbilt University. The experiences of his childhood and people of this area are reflected in his works.

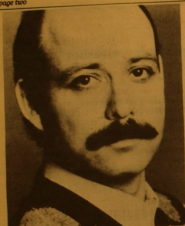

The symposium will feature literary critics from the east and midwest as well as personal friends of Warren. Speakers at the symposium include James H. Justus, the principal biographer for Warren from Indiana University. Justus will open the symposium Thursday morning at 9 a.m. October 15.

Also on Thursday, featured speaker Leslie Fiedler will speak at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Ramada Inn. Fiedler is a major critic of 20th century literature from the State University of New York at Buffalo.

On Friday, the day starts at 9 a.m. with a speech by Floyd C. Watkins from Emory University in Atlanta. Also on Friday, R.W.B. Lewis of Yale University will speak at 3 p.m.

The final day of the symposium will consist of two panel discussions. The first will deal with personal recollections and reminiscences and will feature local and longtime personal friends of Warren. Another will be a critics' panel of featured speakers and eminent Warren critics. All speeches and events will take place in the University Center unless otherwise specified.

In addition to the presentations and speeches there will be a tour of Warren's birthplace in Guthrie on Thursday at 4 p.m. and buffet luncheons will be served Thursday and Friday. Limited seating is available for the Thursday tour, but another tour is scheduled for 2-4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Bioengineering to be debated

The capability to create life, subject of ethical and moral questions will be the subject of a debate at 11 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 8 in the Clement Auditorium.

Debating the issue will be Dr. Paul Segall, a physiologist at the University of California at Berkeley, who believes that new hope for humanity is to be found through cloning and cryonics and Jeremy Rifkin, outspoken bioengineering opponent.

Following the debate, media representatives are invited to attend a press conference with Rifkin and Segall, to be held at 12:15 p.m. in room 313 of the University Center.

At approximately 1:30 p.m. a one-hour question and answer session with the guests will be held in room 103 of the Claxton building. The public is invited to participate in this session.

According to Segall, when cloning and cryonics (suspended animation through "bloodless cold") are perfected, the results will be "exponential," leading to new surgical techniques and cancer cures, organ donor banks, life extension and unlimited youth.

Cloning is under attack from various organizations and individuals, such as Rifkin, who fear the spectra of overpopulation, the surgical alteration of human embryos grown in apes and the abolition of the life cycle.

According to Rifkin, what he terms as the Genetic Technology Revolution raises the most important social, environmental and economic questions ever faced by humanity. Rifkin asks, "Do we become the architects and designers of life itself in the twenty-first century?"

The debate is sponsored by APSU's Visiting Speakers and Artists Committee, chaired by Glenn Carter, chairman and associate professor of sociology and social work.

ROTC recognizes military leaders

BY LEE ELDER

The military science department announced its Distinguished Military Students List for the 1987-88 academic year, recognizing cadets for achieving "Leadership Excellence" at an awards ceremony Thursday, Sept. 25, at the Armory.

Each of the 11 fourth-year ROTC cadets are now eligible to receive the prestigious "Regular Army" designation following their commissioning in June.

Making up the list of Austin Peay DMS holders are Jack Bone, Greg Covert, Herbert Izumi, Eric Lawson, Curtis Looper, Don Lundy, Edenly Reed, Robert Reed, Gene Reedy, Jay Reedy and James Vogel.

Awards were also made to members of the Governor's Guard battalion who distinguished themselves at ROTC Advance Camp over the summer at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Thirteen Austin Peay cadets received the highly-coveted Recondo badge. The award is given for prowess in rifle marksmanship, land navigation, the Army Physical Training Readiness Test along with successful completion of the Recondo course, an event culminated when a cadet can successfully complete six chin-ups while hanging from a rope 35 feet above a lake.

Receiving the Recondo awards were Bone, Wayne Gamble, Bill Howerton, Izumi, Willie Lattimore, Thomas Lewis, Looper, Bill McDuffie, Reed, Jay Reedy, Gene Reedy, Brian Vaughn and Vogel.

Vogel also received a ribbon for his 299-score on the 300-point camp physical training test.

Alvin Clay and Jay Reedy were given certificates for being members of camp honor platoons during the fourth and third cycles respectively.

Damon Gooch, Howerton, Looper, Van Nguyen and Robert Reed were recognized for successfully completing the Army Airborne School in Fort Benning, Ga., while James Anderson, Lundy and Vogel received similar kudos for finishing air assault school at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Church student unions promote fellowship

While they may differ in doctrine, the religious organizations on campus are here for one purpose: to promote the student's social and spiritual well-being. They provide a vital network that's open for everyone, regardless of religious denomination.

Although each center gives students a place to get away and relax and also become involved in group activities, they're each unique in style.

THE BAPTIST STUDENT UNION—The Baptist Student Center offers many activities that appeal to a wide range of students. Their purpose is to provide a place for fellowship and fun away from the grind of academic pressures.

During the noon hour every Monday, the BSU serves a free light lunch along with a Bible study. Tuesday nights at 8:30 p.m., a special "Bible topics" discussion is held. Home-cooked meals, prepared by area churches, are served every Wednesday from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m. for the minimal price of $1.75. Vespers, a student led worship time, begins at 8 p.m. on Thursday nights.

Students are invited to come over and play ping-pong, watch television, talk, or use the kitchen facilities.

The center is open 7:30 a.m. till 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information about BSU, contact Jim Alexander at 647-6940.

THE WESLEY FOUNDATION—This is a very active organization on campus sponsoring things from concerts and dances to pastoral counseling. Their program varies according to the needs and interests of the students. The Wesley Student Center has many things available for students to use such as pianos, a library, a kitchen, televisions, and other recreational outlets.

Something new this quarter is the Loaves and Fishes Soup Kitchen. It serves meals to the local needy as well as all APSU students and faculty who care to attend. Loaves and Fishes is open to everyone who loves to sing. No tryouts are necessary. They meet Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. For more information, contact Jim Duke at 647-6412.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST—The Church of Christ Student Center also provides a place for students to relax and enjoy themselves. They hold devotions every Thursday evening at 5:30 p.m. and dorm Bible studies every Monday night. Lunch is served on Thursdays from 11:30 a.m. till 1 p.m. with a cost of only $1.50 per meal.

Exciting retreats are scheduled every quarter. Bedford Forrest State Park is the destination for the upcoming trip Oct. 16-18. A Halloween party is also in the makings.

For more information, contact Craig Dilligam at 552-9130.

Fitness testing

The Student Health Service will offer fitness testing for any interested students, staff or faculty Wednesday, October 14. Appointments can be made by calling 648-7107.

Fitness testing will provide you with an assessment of your overall fitness. Your cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, muscle flexibility and body fat will be assessed.

Blood drive set

The APSU Student Nurse Association will sponsor a campus blood drive on Oct. 13 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The location of the bloodmobile will be at the Harvill Cafeteria. The bloodmobile is a service of the American Red Cross.

College adds new faculty

Rounding out the new faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences is the focus of this week's faculty update.

An associate professor of mathematics and computer science, David J. Cochener earned a bachelor's degree at Austin College. He also is recipient of master's and doctoral degrees from Texas Christian University.

Deborah J. Cochener has joined the staff as an instructor of math in the University's Developmental Studies Program. She earned both a bachelor's and master's degree from Angelo State University.

An assistant professor of biology, Mack Finley is a native of Robertson County. He earned his bachelor's degree at Austin Peay prior to receiving both a master's degree and a doctorate from Mississippi

Health hours

The Student Health services will be closed on Thursday, Oct. 15 at 12 noon for the Ellington Student Services Open House when they will be open to the public and university community for tours and therefore unable to see patients.

Directory requests

All persons who wish to have their names listed in the new student/faculty directory must come by the Student Activities office and fill out a request form by Oct. 13. If you do not fill out a request form, your name will appear in the new directory.

State University.

Steven W. Hamilton, who will serve as an assistant professor of biology, earned his bachelor's degree from State University College at Geneseo. He also earned a master's degree from the University of Kansas and a doctorate from Clemson University.

Rose Marie Lange, who received both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Austin Peay, has been appointed as an English and reading instructor in Developmental Studies. Formerly, she served as an adjunct faculty member at Austin Peay State University's Fort Campbell Center.

Finally, Erlene Wright McNeill, a graduate of East Carolina University with a master's degree, will teach basic skills in the Developmental Studies Program.

Student serves as media coordinator

An APSU student has been selected to serve as media coordinator for the City of Clarksville's first Veteran's Day parade.

Max Blumenfeld, a senior mass communication major, was chosen for the honors as he was the catalyst behind the implementation of the Veteran's Day celebration held for the past two years on the Austin Peay campus. That event has been sponsored by WAPX-FM, the APSU student-operated radio station for which Blumenfeld serves as information director.

Blumenfeld will be collecting applications for any campus or community organization desiring to participate in the parade. Applications must be submitted no later than Thursday, Oct. 8. For further information, contact Blumenfeld at WAPX-FM, 648-7200. The parade will be on Nov. 11 in Clarksville.

Celebrity "bimbos" cripple female achievements

BY SIOBHAN KELLY

Their faces adorn the covers of magazines, newspapers and tabloids everywhere. They are frequently featured on national television, whether they appear on the news or a talk show. They are victims, so they claim, of this cruel society of ours. At this point in time, they've made more money in one year, than I'll make, upon graduation, in ten years. They are also, excuse the expression, nauseating the hell out of me.

As far as I'm concerned, Jessica Hahn, Donna Rice and Fawn Hall have succeeded in promoting the suppression of women in this country. The harder we strive for equality, respect, success and earned security, the higher the probability of some bimbo gaining recognition, fame and fortune arising from some scandalous romp in the sheets and ruining the credibility of the decent, hard-working women in this country.

How are women going to be taken seriously any more? How can we climb that executive ladder from secretary to company president if these damned secretaries and "aspiring actresses" can't use their brains instead of their bodies to climb to the top? Jessica Hahn pleads, "I'm not a bimbo" in this week's issue of People magazine. She retells her tear-jerking story of how PTL leader Jim Bakker and his buddy deflowered innocent Jessica in a Florida hotel room. So what does Innocent Jessica do? She takes a $265,000 hush money settlement from PTL, decides to tell anyway, appears on Donahue and with Barbara Walters, and then decides to do a 10-page Playboy name, is simple, white and very bland. But our buddy Gary Hart didn't think so, did he? That big dummy lost much of his career climbing adventures to his liaison with her. She gabbed about it, too. She told a bunch of the California crowd and wings plus a movie to follow, and her own line of designer jeans. Now tell me, what do you think it will say on the pocket? Oh, I don't know, let's see, maybe-BIMBO?

The only thing Fawn Hall has in common with the aforementioned guests is that she's with Ollie and t-dad! She's writing a book, selling movie rights and has an agent lining her up in the broadcasting field and perhaps she'll make a few commercials. Perhaps Fawn should run for president. Lord knows we need a candidate with integrity.

So now we know how to quickly succeed in life, don't we ladies? Just sleep with some one famous, tell everyone you know, write about it, sell it to the highest bidder, and shred it after you get the money. That leaves you open to write a second version or even a sequel.

I am thoroughly disgusted. These women are crippling the chances of women achieving equality for at least another decade. By glorifying such actions, as the media, producers and the public have done, women are never going to be appreciated for anything but their external qualities. attractive and raking in the bucks due to her new found fame.

Fawn was just in the right place at the right time and worked for the right guy.

She didn't even have to sleep with anyone or pose nude for her success. She just shredded a few documents spread. Why Playboy? Well Jessica says that posing topless was a sort of "exorcism, liberating her from a ministry that had used her so badly." Sure, honey. You've got "Bimbo" written all over your face.

Donna Rice, as the food that bears her last

Barbara Walters, who always seems to be around, that "a girl has to survive somehow" when Walters questioned her about her pursuit of Hart. In other words, Gary Hart was her ticket out of anonymity. You bet it was Ms. Rice now has a possible book in the

The All State is currently welcoming all letters to the editor.

We want to know how you feel about the paper, school issues or just anything that happens to be bothering you.

Tell us! We want to know. If you love us, great! If you don't, who cares! But tell us anyway, we all need input!

Anyone interested in doing a guest editorial is also very welcome. So all students, faculty and anyone else who reads us, voice your opinion! Take a stand on some controversial political issue! Or just ramble about something that interests you.

Thanks. We're waiting to hear from YOU!

Student praises editorial

Lee Elder, your article in the Sept. 30 edition of The All State favoring Judge Bork was EXCELLENT. The All State and the students at APSU will certainly benefit from your conservative articles.

Ex-Govs Shegog, Fox get a shot at the NFL

The NFL player's strike has placed hundreds of the world's greatest athletes on the picket lines, but it has also put two former Austin Peay footballers on the pro gridiron.

Ron Shegog, a 6-foot, 190-pounder from Mississippi, was a starter in the New England Patriots' defensive backfield while Scott Fox, a 6-foot-3, 232-pound linebacker was on the second-team for the Houston Oilers Sunday in the first of the league's much-publicized "scab" games as free agents replaced striking union members.

Shegog graduated from Austin Peay in 1985 and Fox finished one year later.

Govs' defensive coordinator John Bowers is excited at the prospects for two of his former pupils to play in the NFL despite threats of violence and future retaliation against the free agents. He believes neither player had any reluctance to cross the picket lines.

"They're football players," said Bowers. "They love the game and they've worked hard and this is their chance to play."

"I'm sure it will be difficult for them and I know they're in a tough situation, but this is the one shot for them to play in the NFL."

Both were standouts at Austin Peay. Shegog was an All Ohio Valley Conference choice at free safety for the Govs, and was an honorable mention All-American during his final season. Fox played four seasons for the Govs, was a three-year starter and gained All-OVC during his final season.

Ron Shegog
...starting for the Pats

Bowers believed that Shegog would probably be in the NFL once the labor dispute was settled.

"Ron's already been through two training camps and eight exhibition games with the Patriots and was just a hair away from making it both years," he said. "I believe he is one of those guys who is going to be kept when this is over because he works hard and has done very well when he's played."

Fox was slated to be a starter at outside linebacker for the Oilers, but the player he replaced was one of the growing NFL players who have abandoned the union's striking efforts. He was cut by the Oilers in pre-season and was playing semi-pro football in New Jersey before he got the call from the club.

...Oiler reserve

"His chances are probably not as good as Ron's," said Bowers. "But now at least he's got his foot in the door."

"The big thing in pro football is to put the pads on and show what you can do and he's got a good opportunity to do that."

But just how good are these former Governors compared to their high-salaried counterparts who were in the opposite, unfamiliar position to watch NFL football on Sunday?

"These guys are professionals, they're right there," said Bowers. "There's not going to be a lot of difference. Of the 43 guys out there, 41 have been in training camp for two or three seasons and 10 or 15 guys even played a season and then were cut in their second year."

"There's going to be some solid football players out there with the USFL (the now-defunct United States football league that operated for three years from 1982-85 and ceased operations in the summer of 1986) players and the guys who were just a hair away from making it. The Elways and the Paytons and the four or five superstars who always make the big plays will be missing, but you should still see a pretty good caliber of player. You just won't know their names."

"They were guys who worked hard while they were here," said Bowers. "Even if it's just once in your life, it's still the NFL and very few guys get to play there."

While some NFL fans may have decided that the replacement games were not worth watching, Bowers, along with other former coaches and players from Austin Peay will be glued to their sets hoping to get a glimpse of Ron Shegog and Scott Fox in their new-found positions. They will also be rooting for them to realize their lifetime dream of playing in the NFL.

Blue Raiders bounce Governors 38-16, now 1-4

By ERIK MYKLEBOST

Murphy's Law states "What can go wrong, will." The Governors proved the theory true, donating many of MTSU's 38 points in their OVC clash, Saturday, Oct. 3.

The Govs were victims of 14 yellow flags, for 11C yards in penalties, seven for illegal motion. They stumbled around Johnny "Red" Floyd Stadium, donating three turnovers, one leading to a Blue Raider touchdown.

Coach Emery Hale said, "This was the poorest performance in my seven years at APSU." In addition he noted, "Every mistake that you can make in football, we made today."

Although Jerome Morris started as the field general for the Govs, he was nailed behind the lines twice, as was Rico Ransom, his replacement. However, Ransom connected on 10 of 28, including a 25-yard TD strike at Todd Seiple, not a bad effort, seeing as he started the game as a receiver himself and had not played much quarterback since his days at Clarksville Northeast High School.

Reserve safety Marty Slaten surprised the MTSU punter late in the game by blocking an attempted punt, allowing Freeman Milton to gobble up the loose ball on the run and bolt for the goal line 16 yards away, scoring the final Gov points.

Tom McMillan added four more points to his team-leading total, now standing at 34. In the rushing department, Anthony Simmons went 6 for 60 yards, Joe Warren rambled six times for 38 yards, and Mike Lewis ran 11 times for 38 yards.

Pass receptions were more numerous. B.J. Robertson hauled in two for 34 yards, Chris Tucker grabbed two for 24 yards, while Mike Williams managed two for 24 yards as well.

The outstanding defensive player was Robert Joy with nine solo tackles to his credit.

The next OVC game pits APSU against Marchand State, Saturday, Oct. 10, with a 7:30 p.m. kick-off.

Govs outlast USI volleyballers 3-2

By ERIK MYKLEBOST

Coming off a disappointing loss to UT-Martin, 3-1, on Sept. 29th, the Austin Peay spikers faced the University of Southern Indiana's Eagles at the Dunn Center Wednesday, Sept. 30th.

Holt's Horde had to take on a team with a 3 record going into the night's action. APSU's record stood at 2-2.

The initial battle had the Govs down 6 before they curbed the Eagle onslaught. New faces in the Gov line from the last home game, April Mackie, Yolanda Westfield, and Beth Tidwell, smothered any attempt at an Eagle run-away as the lead switched hands until, with the game knotted at 15 apiece, the Govs smashed two quick points into the Eagle center court to take a 1 game lead, 17-15.

Round 2, a different chapter. Angie Handel and Michelle Weidner, two outstanding players on the visitors squad, poured relentless pressure on the Governors. Their merciless spiking had the Govs flopping around on the floor like fish out of water. Now the contest was even, a 15-6 finish made it 1-1.

Number 3 was a carbon copy of the second. Eagle discipline showed as they systematically dissected the Gov defense. Nothing seemed to stop the points from amassing on the visitor's side. This made it a 2-1 ball game, with the onus on the Govs.

Down to the nitty-gritty, and with their backs to the wall, the Peay offense finally ignited, even spotting the Eagles the first points, but superb blocking by Westfield and Bobbi Stief stifled the Eagle momentum. The swift turn of events caught the USI squad unawares, and Connie Caldwell stopped the final blocking attempt making it 15-10, Govs, and tying it up again.

The final round had the Govs and Eagles getting three points apiece before the tide of battle turned into a Governor tidal wave. Sharp, talented play by Melissa Harris, Caldwell, Tidwell, and the rest of the Gov squad allowed them to rack up points at will. An elated Gov team survived the attempted come-back by the Eagles and iced the victory, 15-10. This gives the Lady Govs wins at both home games, and a 3-2 won-lost record for the season so far.

Cross Country teams compete

By SHADONNA BROWN

Austin Peay's men's and women's cross country teams will compete in their third meet on Saturday, Oct. 10 at Murray State.

Both squads finished fourth in their last meet at Southeast Mis-

Coach Doc Podurgal is pleased with the progress shown by both squads. Both teams are young and he is very pleased to have senior Barry Phelps, who Podurgal says is a definite OVC contender, leading the men and senior Suzanne Perry pacing the women.

"Give us a couple of years," said Podurgal. Any runners interested in joining cross country team may contact Podurgal at Dunn 275 or call 648-6106.

The All State

Govs sign four more

APSU loading infield with new talent

Two pitchers, an outfielder, and a catcher are the latest Austin Peay State University baseball signings.

Junior college transfer Rick Rodriguez and freshman Kevin Maguire are the hurlers and Kip Ferguson the outfielder, inked by Govs' coach Billy Merkel.

Rodriguez owned a 7-4 record in two seasons at Hillsborough Community College in Tampa, Fla., with a 3.61 earned run average. The 6-0, 165-pound righthander was 9-0 with a 1.67 ERA in his senior season at Jefferson High School in Tampa, Fla.

"He's not an overpowering pitcher but he's got an excellent overhand curveball," APSU coach Billy Merkel said. "He's also a tough competitor. He should be able to step into our rotation and help us next year."

Maguire is a 6-1, 180-pound hard-throwing righthander from New Port Richey, Fla. He earned all-county and all-area honors as a senior and was a two-year all-conference selection at former APSU player Larry Beets at Ridgeview High School. As a senior, Maguire owned a 3.3 mark with a 3.63 ERA. He fanned 69 in 52 innings.

"I would say he throws in the 82-84 mile-per-hour range," Merkel said. "He's got great potential. He's a rawboned kid I see developing into a quality pitcher as he gets stronger and more mature. He's got the good fast-ball but he also has that good overhand curve you don't usually see from a kid coming out of high school."

Ferguson is a right-handed hitting outfielder from Columbia State Junior College. He hit .346 as a sophomore in a part-time role. He also stole 16 bases.

"He has a lot of potential," Merkel said. "He's a chance to help us. He's a good athlete."

The signings bring the total of 1986 recruits to nine. Earlier, the Govs inked outfielders Russ Strickland and Thomas Coates, shortstop Jimmy Waggoner, utility man Reggie Woods and pitcher first baseman Tim Fox.

Campus searches for homecoming queen

Homecoming is upon us once again. So the question now is who will be this year's homecoming queen? Regulations have been set up for the selection of this lucky lady and are as follows:

1. All organizations are eligible to sponsor a candidate (a maximum of one per organization).
2. No two (or more) organizations can nominate or support the same candidate. Candidates nominated and supported by more than one organization will be disqualified.
3. An organization can put up posters and other support material only in legal places as designated by the APSU "Student Handbook".
4. No organization may host a preliminary program where individuals are asked to participate in a screening process and pay an entry fee. Candidates selected to represent an organization in this manner will be disqualified.
5. The general election of all candidates to select the top five will be held the Wednesday of Homecoming week.
6. The top five candidates which receive the most votes will be notified at the Thursday "bonfire". They will be given instructions for meeting with the Selection Committee on Friday.

7. The Selection Committee will consist of six outstanding members of the campus community. This committee will be chaired by the Homecoming Committee Chairperson, who will vote only in the case of a tie.
8. The candidate chosen by the selection committee will be the new Homecoming Queen. The Queen will be crowned during homecoming half-time activities of the Saturday home football game.

This year's queen will be chosen along the following lines:

- 40% A. Interview
1. Poise & Confidence
 2. Personality
 3. Appearance
- 30% B. Involvement in community and campus activities
- 15% C. Knowledge of campus
- 15% D. Scholastic Achievement and Ambitions

All candidates can pick up their nomination forms in the SGA office beginning Monday, Oct. 12. They must be turned in by 4 p.m. Monday, Oct. 19. Election-October 21, 8 a.m.-2 p.m. in the UC.

Professors Pallen, Holder live, study in Italy

By CHRIS JACKSON

This summer two Austin Peay State University professors were Scholars in Residence in Italy.

Dr. Thomas Pallen and his wife, Dr. Philancy Holder, lived in Cortona, Italy, this summer as a part of the University of Georgia's Studies Abroad Program.

Holder, a professor of art, described Cortona as "a little medieval town in central Italy about two hours from Rome."

While in Cortona, the couple lived just as the townspeople did. Both were pleased by the friendliness of the local folk and by their relaxed lifestyle. Pallen stated, "There was less pressure in having to get everything done at one time. I was able to live at my own pace."

Holder remarked, "It certainly is a different lifestyle. Everything stops between one and four o'clock Once you slow down and accept it, you realize that it is the secret to the enviable pace of their lifestyle."

The couple attribute some of the trip's enjoyment to the fact that they used the Italian language.

"This is the first time I ever had to actually live on another language," said Pallen.

Holder said the language was the key to being in the game instead of just watching. She said, "The Italian language facility enabled us to become a participant in life in Cortona, instead of only a spectator."

Pallen and Holder toured many beautiful and historic sites in Italy.

Holder said, "My favorite natural site is the marble quarry in Carrara. The awesome scale is something you never forget."

"The place that impressed me most was Rome," said Pallen. "As you go around the city, there are so many levels of life. You're walking in the midst of thousands of years of human culture."

When asked how the people differed from Americans, Pallen said, "One of the main things is the presumption that you're a good honest person until proven otherwise. People trusted other people."

Holder said, "We made many friends. The more you mix with people, the more you get to know them and their way of life."

The couple enjoyed the trip so much, they are thinking of retiring there. Pallen said, "We are negotiating to buy an apartment there. I felt very at home there despite a different language and culture. I'd sure rather go there than Florida."

Miss APSU pageant seeks contestants

Every young girl dreams of becoming Miss America. The young woman who is crowned Miss Austin Peay State University could be the next Miss America.

Contestants who will vie for the crown of the 1988 Miss Austin Peay Scholarship Pageant queen are now being sought. Deadline for applications is Oct. 9.

Forms are available at APSU's University Center information desk and at Student Health Services in the Ellington Building.

Diane Berty, Austin Peay health services director and chair of the entrants committee for the pageant, said, "We are very excited about the pageant and are confident that Miss Austin Peay will again be chosen as Miss Tennessee 1988."

To qualify, a young woman must be between the ages of 17 and 26, must be an Austin Peay student and must never have married.

Talent will be considered in the judging and each contestant should possess some quality of talent, either trained or potential. In discussing the talent qualification, Ms. Berty stressed that the range is varied and that no young woman must necessarily be trained in any specific field.

Judging of the Miss Austin Peay candidates will be based on the same values as considered at the Miss Tennessee Pageant and at the national Miss America Pageant.

Personality, poise, beauty and talent are the major requirements. Each contestant will be judged in a private interview, in evening gown, in swimsuit and in the presentation of her talent.

The theme for this year's pageant slated for 7 p.m. Nov. 20 in Clement Auditorium, will be "An Enchanted Evening," and pageant organizers promise that both contestants and audience will find the night filled with magical moments.

RENOWNED VIOLINIST TO PLAY IN CLEMENT-Leland Chen, who won the Yehudi Menuhin violin competition, will play at APSU on Oct. 18.

Poetry contest returns by popular demand

By JACK STONE

The All State announces the start of its second annual poetry contest. The contest will be held throughout the year with winners chosen at the end of each quarter.

First place winners will receive $30, second place $20, and third place $10. The editorial staff will select poems each week to appear in the All State.

Only the poems selected will be eligible for judging. A committee made up of staff members from the English department will choose the winners, with the first ones being announced on November 18.

Contestants can submit their poems by sending them to the All State Poetry Contest, P.O. Box 8334. All entries must include your name, P.O. Box number, and address and be in by 5 p.m. every Wednesday. You may enter as often as you wish, but each entry

Ballet comes to AP

French and Spanish programs featuring the Boston Flamenco Ballet will be hosted by APSU on Oct. 15, sponsored by the Center for the Creative Arts and the department of languages and literature.

Area high school and University students and members of the community are invited to attend the programs which will be held in the Clement Auditorium. The Terro Flamenco de Madrid will present "La Tuna" and "Don Quijote" at 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The Old French Variety Show will present "Viguettes De Paris" at 11 a.m. For information regarding tickets, telephone TOLL FREE 1-800-435-8887.

Along with these activities, FLAGS, the cultural organization at Austin Peay, will show two movies and conduct a special French/Spanish luncheon. According to Dr. Ramon Magrans, associate professor of languages and literature at APSU and promoter of the event, the shows are nationally acclaimed and teachers are encouraged to bring their classes to the event.

For other additional information concerning the presentations, telephone Dr. Magrans at (615) 648-7891.

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money.

Think again. Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1 800 222-0300. And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.
