Cheney visits campus, fields questions from students

September 9, 1992

By JEFF WISDOM
news editor

Austin Peay State University hosted a rare appearance by United States Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney on Thursday, Sept. 3.

The visit was his first to the Clarksville/Fort Campbell area since becoming secretary of defense in March 1989. Cheney's entourage included Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams, famous for military briefings during Operation Desert Storm.

Cheney spent just over two hours on campus, meeting with media representatives and members of the Clarksville Rotary Club before addressing APSU students and faculty members in Clement Auditorium.

Cheney, one of the most popular speakers in the country, decided not to deliver a prepared speech to students. Instead, he chose to field questions directly from members of the audience.

A wide variety of questions were directed at Cheney during the open session.

When questioned about the Defense Department's practice of excluding homosexuals from military service, Cheney stated that he had no intentions of changing the policy.

"People's private lives...and sexual orientations are their business and no one else's," Cheney said. He commented, however, that, in the military environment, it is difficult to distinguish between a person's private life and military life.

'Fiesta '92' to bring about new Homecoming traditions

By DARCY HARTZ
assistant news editor

The Austin Peay Governor will be trading in his top hat for a sombrero in honor of this year's Homecoming celebration. "Fiesta '92" promises many new and exciting traditions all with a cultural flair.

Andy Kean, director of Student Activities, has high hopes for this year's festivities.

"I want this Homecoming to be one people talk about next year so they won't miss Homecoming '93," Kean said.

The organizing committee's goal is to make "Fiesta '92" the first step in building Homecoming back up to a major campus event.

Therefore, some changes in the week's format have been made in hopes of getting a higher student turn-out.

The week will begin Monday, Oct. 12, and conclude with the football game against Tennessee Tech on Saturday, Oct. 17.

In addition to traditional Homecoming activities, the week has also been designated International Week. Fashion shows and food fairs showcasing various foreign cultures will be incorporated into the "Fiesta '92" theme.

With the success of last year's Color Wars the event is back to boast our school colors on buildings, students, faculty and in the trees. However, those groups participating on the white team last year will now be on the red team and vice versa.

The culmination of the wars will take place at the Red and White Parade on Friday at 3 p.m. on Browning Drive. The Homecoming Court will ride in the parade along with other student groups displaying their team colors. Since there was low student participation in past parades, this is a way to concentrate on overall school spirit.

From 4-7 p.m., student organizations can set up information booths at the Peay Street Fair which will be held around the UC Bowl.

Beginning at 7 p.m., students and alumni will fire up their school spirit at the annual Homecoming bonfire. The 1992 Homecoming Court will be introduced at what Kean calls the "biggest bonfire seen in recent memory."

Immediately thereafter live bands will perform in the UC Bowl until 10:30 p.m. A variety of music will be played to meet all student tastes.

Saturday's festivities will get underway at 8 a.m. with a 5K run and a one-mile walk. Entries are $10 in advance and $12 on the day of the race.

At 10:30 a.m., the first ever waterless canoe race will begin. This event will allow organizations to build a water vehicle on wheels and win cash awards.

Three person co-ed teams will compete for prizes in categories including: Most Creative, Canoe Most Likely to Sink, Best Use of Theme and the race winner.

The week's activities will draw to a close with the crowning of the 1992 Homecoming Queen at halftime of the football game on Saturday.

AP ROTC cadets compete for nine challenge team positions

By JEFF GRIMES
staff writer

The selection process for the Governors' Battalion Ranger Challenge Team began last week as cadets went through the first night initiation.

Austin Peay cadets are gearing up for their brigade Army ROTC Ranger Challenge Competition in late October. On Friday afternoon they tackled the Air Assault School obstacle course and walked a few patrolling exercises at Fort Campbell.

The cadets returned to Austin Peay early Saturday and conducted rigorous training before being released.

After the first night, 16 or 22 cadets were still vying for the nine slots on the team which will compete against 22 other schools from Tennessee, Kentucky and

West Virginia.

The events for the competition include the Army physical fitness test, patrolling, one-rope bridge, assembly of the M-16 rifle and M-60 machine gun, hand grenade assault course, M-16 qualification range, 10K road march and orienteering.

"We have an excellent chance of winning at the brigade level and going on to compete against schools from the rest of the region," Capt. Greg Lane said.

If the team is successful at the brigade level, then they will compete with other schools from their 12-state region in November at Fort Knox, Ky.

Last year the cadets placed second in their brigade and placed third in their region in 1990 beating schools such as Notre Dame and the University of Kentucky.

Student Government Association reorganizes for the upcoming year

By VINCENT HARDIN
guest writer

The wind of change is truly in the air for the 1992-93 Student Government Association. Cabinets, districts and boards all have been established to provide students with an opportunity to play an active role in the betterment of Austin Peay State University.

For all APSU organization presidents, the Student Organization Board has been established by the executive power of SGA. Headed by the cabinet secretary of organizations, this board brings to light the right of each organization at APSU and an opportunity to voice grievances.

This Student Organization Board will meet on a monthly basis. Information concerning this board can be picked up today through Sept. 11 at the SGA office located on the main floor of the University Center. Students are encouraged to stop in anytime.

The SGA cabinet members were appointed under Article IV, Section I of the constitution as officials of the Executive Committee. This cabinet consists of Secretary of Legislative Affairs (David Bone); Executive Assistant to the President (Nicole Jackson); Student Relations Secretary (Sean Fowler); Secretary of Organizations (David Gram); and Public Relations Secretary (Vincent Harden).

APSU has five districts containing students of recognized student organizations. Each senator will have the responsibility of contacting organizations in the respective districts and maintaining a constant interaction with that organization.

Cheney pointed out that the military, out of necessity, places a number of restrictions on those who serve.

"There are a lot of requirements we impose on those that serve in the military," said Cheney.

"We don't accept everybody. We require them, if need be, to go into combat...and die for the nation.

"It has been my judgement, having reviewed the policy, that making a change and repealing the existing prohibition on homosexual service in the military, would not enhance the military in combat capabilities," Cheney said. "For that reason, I've decided not to change the policy."

The secretary of defense was also asked about recent defense cuts and how the money cut was being spent.

"Since the spring of 1989, when I took over, we've cut in excess of $300 billion out of the long-range defense program. That money has been reallocated... into programs such as social security and Medicare."

*"By 1995, we will have eliminated approximately 1 million positions from the Department of Defense."--
Cheney*

One student questioned Cheney about the reasoning behind the continuous American presence in the Persian Gulf.

"We have never come home completely," Cheney stated. "We brought most of the troops home, but we did maintain a presence in the region, primarily air and naval assets.

"Periodically we've deployed Army battalions... and had Marine amphibious exercises over there."

"Part of that was to enforce the (economic) sanctions against Iraq," Cheney added. "We also are maintaining a zone in the north for the Kurds to operate. We have just established in the South, below 32 degrees latitude, a no-fly zone down there.

"The no-fly zone allows us to monitor this portion of southern Iraq... and keep Iraqi aircraft out of the region," Cheney added.

Cheney pointed out that the Department of Defense plans significant cuts in terms of personnel in the next three years.

"By 1995, we will have eliminated approximately 1 million positions from the Department of Defense," Cheney said. He added that this would include 500,000 active duty persons, 250,000 reservists and 250,000 civilians.

In light of the Defense Department's decision to close numerous American military installations around the world, Cheney was asked how Fort Campbell would be affected by future defense cuts.

"I would expect that Fort Campbell will continue to be a vital part of the military establishment of the United States," said Cheney. He failed to rule out the possibility of slight changes at Fort Campbell.

Cheney, considered a potential presidential contender in 1996, was asked about a possible run for the White House. He responded by saying, "The thought never crossed my mind."

Following his visit to Austin Peay, Cheney traveled to Chicago for another appearance Thursday evening.

Campus Briefs

National business organization seeks new chapter membership

Phi Beta Lambda National Business Organization extends a special invitation to all business majors and minors to join its organization.

Austin Peay's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda makes every attempt to send members to PBL Southern Fall Leadership Conference and Spring States Competition. This year's fall conference will be held in New Orleans, La., from Friday, Nov. 20, to Sunday, Nov. 22. Any business student interested in joining Phi Beta Lambda and attending this conference must contact Ron Carryl at P.O. Box 6272 before Sept. 23.

Membership fee for Phi Beta Lambda is $20 per year. The local chapter of PBL sponsors many lectures that should be of interest to future business leaders. On Sept. 10 at 3:30 p.m. in Kimbrough, Room 119, Mr. Volker from the Tennessee Small Business Development Center will present a lecture on the opportunities available for individuals to establish their own business.

APSU students receive degrees from nuclear medicine program

Austin Peay State University had six out of seven graduates in this year's nuclear medicine technology class, a joint degree program between APSU and Vanderbilt University. Commencement ceremonies were Aug. 24 at Vanderbilt.

APSU students who received degrees are: Terri Ann Daniel, William David Gass, Christopher Thomas Hale, Cynthia Denise McCraw, Greta Leann Odom and William David Wheeler.

Students who successfully complete the program receive a certificate from Vanderbilt University's department of radiology as a nuclear medicine technologist, thereby qualifying them to take the national board examination for certification as a nuclear medicine technologist.

For more information on the cooperative nuclear medicine technology program telephone Dr. Ben Stone at 648-7781.

Laurel Wreath Honor Society elects new officers for '92-'93

On Friday, Aug. 21, the Laurel Wreath Honor Society held its first meeting of the new semester. Dr. John Butler addressed the group with a discussion on the importance of honor societies to the university community. New officers were also elected at this meeting. Lezlie Word was chosen as president, Linda Bone as vice president, Sue Daniel as secretary, Becky Alford as treasurer and Michele Craighead as historian. These officers will serve for the fall '92 and spring '93 semesters.

Students to voice concerns at open campus meeting

On Sept. 14 from 3-4:30 p.m. in the Kimbrough Auditorium, Dr. Oscar Page, president of Austin Peay State University, will be available for an open forum meeting with students.

Students will have an opportunity to voice concerns regarding the status of Austin Peay. For more information, call extension 7004.

APSU receives new grant for Upward Bound Program

The U.S. Department of Education has awarded Austin Peay State University a new grant to continue the Veterans Upward Bound Program for Northern Middle Tennessee and Southern Kentucky.

The initial grant in the amount of $223,855 will fund the first year of this three-year project. APSU's share of the cost is zero. During the first three years of its existence, Veterans Upward Bound received $528,955 in total grant money from the U.S. Department of Education with no additional funding from APSU.

Veterans Upward Bound is headquartered at APSU's Fort Campbell Center and is under the leadership of Dr. Arthur Neal, project director.

Veterans Upward Bound provides services, including remedial and refresher instruction, designed to encourage and enable disadvantaged veterans to pursue postsecondary education.

Homecoming '92 may create new tradition

Tradition, for all its sentimental value, started out as a bright idea. Too often, we cling to old and worn-out ideas, when what we need most is something new to recharge ourselves.

Homecoming 1992 is a chance for the APSU campus to discard dated traditions and create new ones for posterity. Some of the favorite events will remain, such as the Color Wars and bonfire, while new events and scheduling will provide variety.

Homecoming is one of the most psychologically important football games of the year, complete with students, alumni, parents, faculty and community in attendance, hoping for victory.

As Independence Day celebrates the birth of our nation and toasts its continued success, Homecoming should do the same for Austin Peay State University.

Not everyone likes athletics, but Homecoming is an opportunity for students, alumni and organizations to show school pride in their own particular fashion. Clubs can create floats for the now on-campus parade and participate in a waterless canoe race. Activities like the 5K run and one-mile walk are a good opportunity for new friendships.

Moving the parade to an on-campus event should create more awareness and participation. Since Homecoming is an Austin Peay event, it makes sense to keep it "all in the family."

Fun events like the waterless canoe race are a good idea to give a break from the pattern of classes and homework.

Homecoming 1992 will also be an opportunity to experience different cultures, as Oct. 12-17 is International Week, as well.

It has never been more important for Austin Peay to recognize the value of world culture within our own school, and what better way than through fashion shows or food fairs? While some APSU students are unaware of the many nationalities here on campus, these foreign students contribute a great deal to our community.

Each student should take the opportunity to have fun and support Austin Peay in their efforts to make Homecoming an event the we'll look forward to each fall.

Even if you don't have an interest in the game itself, surely between the Color Wars, a bonfire, races for both athletes and inventors, international fashion and food, live bands and the Homecoming Queen, every student can find something to be excited about.

Morality is becoming America's main 'food for thought'

Every morning with your Wheaties you can hear about how the country is going to hell in a handbasket because our morality as a nation is declining. Am I the only one choking on moral fiber?

Pat Robertson indicated what faith he has in the

This summer we were caught up in the morality of Murphy Brown after Dan Quayle decided to attack a fictional character's standards.

Am I the only one who's too busy to play "Let's Pretend" with the government? Maybe, just maybe, the reason we're having a recession is because of economic factors, not the fact that our moral structure is not fitting a rightist mode.

Every Sunday we can turn on the television to our choice of televangelists all blaring different messages with the same theme-- "Send Money!"

I don't hear people complaining that air-time should not be given to these shows-- and before you say the words, I'll tell you that some things they say really offend me.

I do understand that they deserve to have a voice though, which is a new concept to most of them who are censorship's biggest advocates. Everything on television but their show is contributing to the moral decline.

There are dozens of special-interest groups who all have names including words like decency, morality, ethics, etc. They're against pregnant Barbies, Mighty Mouse cartoons, and, of course, Ice-T. Why? Because they don't want their kids to have that, see that or listen to that.

If they're so talented and unoccupied that they can control everybody's children and everybody's mind- why don't they keep tabs on their kids and their television and leave the rest of us alone?

Most people will agree that they are pro-decency, but when that means not listening to their favorite music because the group uses expletives, it won't go over so well. It's O.K. to protect other people from themselves, but when someone tries it on us, it doesn't feel so righteous.

I'm not trying to promote any kind of lifestyle or activity. My job is not to tell everyone else what to do-- I am perfectly aware that no one died and made me queen. "Live and let live" is a good motto. Do your thing and mind your own business.

Maybe Robertson had the right symptoms but the wrong disease. What do you bet that all the witches, adulteresses and child killers he talked to were reacting to the repressions of America's finest? Of course, he didn't actually talk to them, because it would probably rub off...I'd hate for him to admit that he's human.

female race at the Republican Convention when he described a proposed equal-rights amendment as a "...socialist, anti-family political movement that encourages women to leave their husbands, kill their children, practice witchcraft, destroy capitalism and become lesbians."

Excuse me, but this equal rights amendment is designed to give women the same opportunities as men. Are men driven to homosexuality, murder, adultery and satanism because they have a job and get paid the same salary as their peers? I don't think so.

Campus Comments

Dick Cheney commented on his recent visit to campus that cutbacks in defense spending may eliminate as many as 1 million jobs by 1995. Do you agree with these cutbacks, or do you believe we should maintain our current military force and why?

"Personally, I feel that we don't have a need for defense anymore. I feel there is not a threat from the Soviets because they are more democratic. We should take the money from defense and put it in other things."--Milo Lumpkin, freshman

"No, I don't believe in the cutbacks of the military. If we take down a base, tens of thousands of people will lose their jobs, and we need them for hurricane relief and other natural disasters."--Natalie Baggett, junior

"I disagree with the cutbacks because we are suffering as it is in the economy now. The cutbacks would mean that the nation as a whole would fall into a recession."--Jonathan Johnson, senior

Letters to the Editor

Student wants APSU off the spirit soapbox

Dear Editor:

Enough is enough! Will everyone please step down from the "There is not enough school spirit" soapbox? Sure, there is a need for school spirit.

It achieves many things as has been so aptly stated in the past few weeks. However, I would like to show a different view point that has not been shown.

Every person comes to college for a different reason. For me it is computer science, for my roommates art and music. And each of us has different hobbies and interests.

Personally, I am not interested in sports. It is not that I don't want to support the school but that I am simply not interested.

I haven't asked anyone who wasn't interested to come to the Association for Computing Machinery (ACM) contest and see us perform the past two years and I won't in the future.

Did you know that we placed second and third in our region last year? Probably not. Do you really care? I doubt it.

The point I am trying to make is to let students pursue their own interests while attending APSU. Just as we are diverse, so is school spirit.

We should widen our horizons and recognize that school spirit has more forms than simply attending sports events.

School spirit will NOT increase if we attempt to force students into a narrow-minded view of it. It WILL increase if we encourage school spirit in its many and diverse forms.

Rawlins parking lot: violators go unpunished

Dear Editor:

I am a resident of Rawlins Hall and I paid $15 for a parking decal this semester.

I bought this decal with the understanding that Public Safety would do a better job of enforcing the new parking system. This has definitely not been the case.

The Rawlins parking lot is filled every weekday, but a good portion of the cars do not have the yellow decals required to park here.

Do I ever see any parking violations on these cars? No. Some are faculty and some have no decal at all.

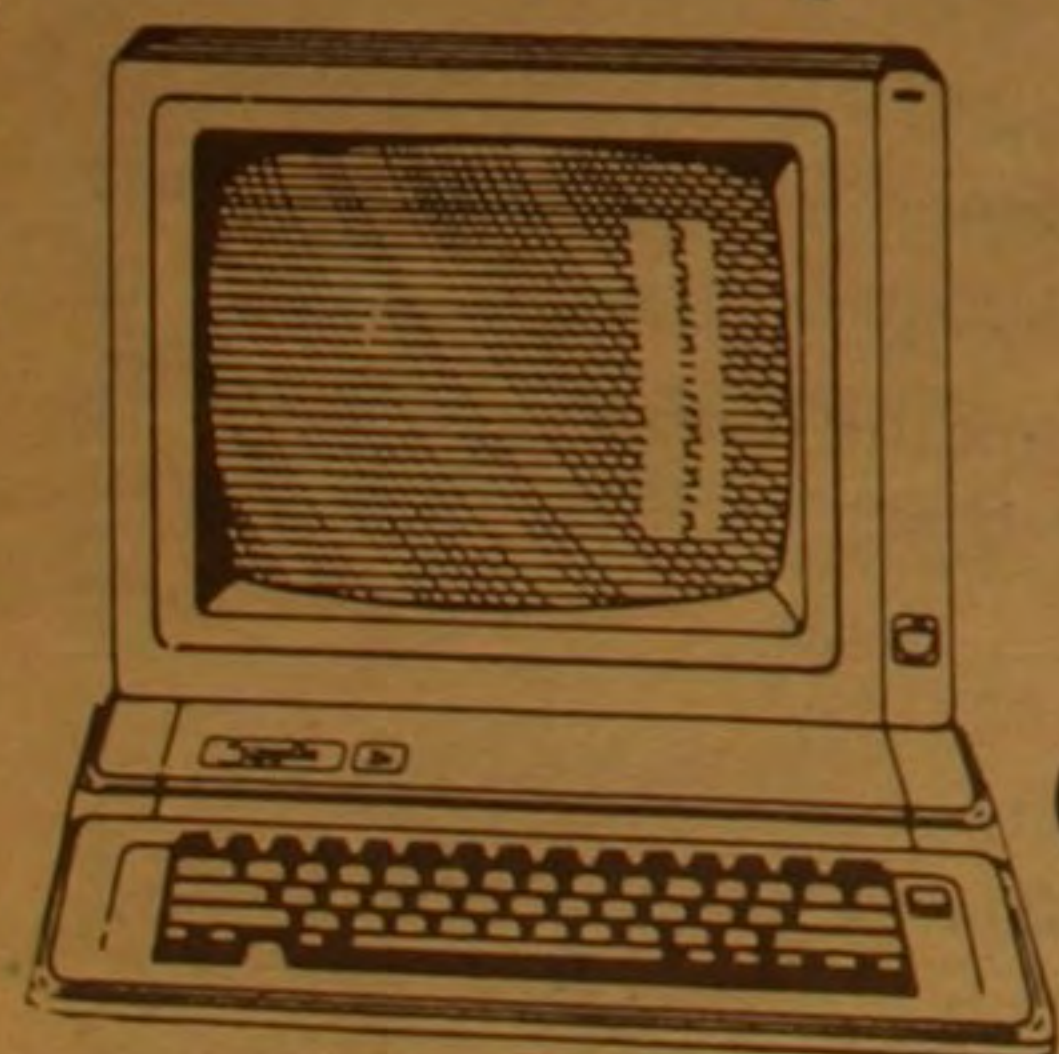

If I go to lunch during a weekday, there is a good chance I will not find a parking space when I get back.

What good is it to buy parking decals and have this new parking system if the rules aren't going to be followed?

If violators aren't ticketed, the whole system is a waste of time. I don't think one person should be given a ticket if everyone isn't.

The same system should apply to everyone or no one at all.

Govs lose heartbreaker

By LUCY ANN GOSSETT
sports editor

The Austin Peay football team experienced a heartbreaking loss at the hands of Eastern Illinois Saturday night.

The Governors by all rights should have beaten the 4-7 team from Charleston, but mental mistakes prevailed. Statistically the Govs were victorious, but not according to the scoreboard at the end of the evening.

The Govs lost 14-9 and are now 0-1 for the season. "We played hard but we just didn't win. I feel that we were the better team and our stats will back me up," Coach Roy Gregory said.

The Panthers scored first on a 53-yard run by Bill Korosec. The extra point by Steve Largent gave EIU a 7-0 lead. With four minutes left in the first quarter, APSU got on the board from a one-yard run by fullback Eric Dance. The extra point by veteran kicker Steve Munnell tied the score at seven.

"Our youngsters played hard and had a few mistakes that can be corrected. As a whole it was our mental mistakes that got the best of us. We will be looking to change that this week during practice," Gregory said.

The halftime score was even at 7, but in the first few minutes of the third quarter, EIU blocked a Rex Hogan punt and ran the ball back for a Panther touchdown. Largent added another extra point and the Panthers went ahead 14-7.

With time running out for the Govs, they were forced to accept a safety from the Panthers which resulted in the final score.

With their first loss behind them, the Governors must now face the Bulldogs from Knoxville College. "They are a group of talented guys. They are fast and strong. To beat them we will have to execute our plays better with the ball and our kicking game," Gregory said.

The Governors will host the Bulldogs on Saturday, Sept. 12. Kickoff will be at 6:30 p.m. It is also faculty appreciation night; all faculty and spouses will be admitted free to the game.

The Austin Peay Lady Govs volleyball team began their 1992 season on a positive note.

In their season opener against the Evansville Lady Aces, the Lady Govs won 14-16, 15-4, 15-7, 11-15 and 15-8.

Following their opening match, APSU hosted Middle Tennessee and the University of Southern Indiana in a Labor Day "mini-tournament."

APSU defeated their conference rival, MTSU, three games to one in the first match. After losing the first game 10-15, the Lady Govs rebounded and defeated the Lady Raiders 15-3, 15-7 and 15-10.

Starting for the Lady Govs were Mitzi West, Heather Eubanks, Isabel Canedo, Kayce Lampp, Stephanie Garrard and Melissa Gailey.

The Lady Govs defeated the Lady Eagles three games to two. Losing the first game 14-16, the Lady Govs rallied back and took the next two games 15-4 and 15-9. After swapping serves, the Lady Eagles took the fourth game 10-15. Proving to the crowd why they are the defending OVC champs, the Lady Govs won the fifth game 15-8.

Newcomers Dawn Grimes, Jennifer Allred and Jamie Green got their first taste of competition in the fourth game against USL.

The Lady Govs' next opponent will be against the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga. Following the UTC match APSU will participate in the Graphics Systems Classic in Memphis. The APSU opponents for the classic will be Arkansas-Little Rock, Ole Miss and Southern Mississippi. The next home match for the Lady Govs will be Friday, Sept. 25, against Morehead.

Cross country prepares for runaway season

By BYRON SHIVE
assistant sports editor

After long hours of preparation and early morning runs, the women's cross country team is prepared to test their skills against competition Saturday, when they journey to Atlanta for their opening meet.

"Everyone has been practicing really hard, so we're really excited about how we'll fare against other competitors," Misty Graves said.

Graves is one of three members of the "Gallatin Connection." Other harriers hailing from Gallatin are Michelle Bybee, sophomore, and freshman newcomer Sandy Bates.

Sophomore captain Jennifer Young and freshman Becky Kohlenbrander, both from Fort Campbell, and Keinet Woods from Queens, N.Y., comprise the remaining runners.

With only two sophomores and four newcomers the team is young but very talented. "The young runners from last year managed to turn a few heads. So those, along with the new runners, are going to really turn some heads this year," Bybee said.

Regardless of the outcome, the team will not be lacking in preparation. Coach Elvis Forde has put his runners through a daily regimen of conditioning

Intramural season underway

After one week of play, the men's intramural flag football season is in full swing.

With the jamboree and season openers out of the way for most teams, players have eliminated any nervous jitters and can settle down and concentrate on playing hard-nosed football.

Though only flag football, the competition level is extremely high as several teams have developed rivalries over the years. Those rivalries were evident last Wednesday as 12 teams took the field for the season opener.

In the Greek league, the Kappa Sigma Gators opened with a relatively easy win over ROTC. Pike Garnet settled down after a jittery first half and demonstrated impressive ball control and used a strong defensive effort to post a 20-0 shutout of Sigma Chi Blacker. In the nightcap, Sigma Chi Black used solid defense in a 38-0 win over Pike Gold after a scoreless first period.

In the open division, the Boneheads, looking to repeat their championship of a year ago, opened with a defeat of Millers Time. The Killebrew Falcons defeated the Cross X-Men 7-0 in the finale.

The season continues tonight with several key matchups. Pike Gold will play Sigma Chi Blacker in a game that could have playoff implications later on. Pike Shield, who was off last week, will open their season against the Kappa Sigma Gators.

Elsewhere, it will be the battle for the bragging rights of Killebrew Hall as the Falcons take on the Big Guns.

"Coach Forde is a really good coach and he works us really hard," Graves said. Graves also commented that the team has early morning and weekend practices.

"We have a lot of work to do, before we reach our peaks," Bybee said.

The team's schedule also includes a home meet on Sept. 25 at Fort Campbell.

Alcohol and drug program available to help students

By PRISCILLA DANOIS
features editor

Kathy sits alone each day wondering how she got to this state of depression, loneliness, and regret. How she wishes she had never taken that first drink.

The Alcohol and Drug Prevention Program located in Room 337 of the Clement Building could be the answer to Kathy's problems.

The goal of the alcohol and drug program is "to assist the university in providing a supportive campus environment which encourages emotional, physical, intellectual and spiritual development of its students."

Because alcohol and drugs may rob students of dignity, self-respect and even their dreams, the alcohol and drug program strives to provide students the opportunity to make responsible life decisions that could be critical to their futures.

The program assists students by: providing an opportunity to discuss their situation with a professional or student peer educator, offering information about campus resources and other community agencies, referring individuals to appropriate resources for various types of assistance and treatment, suggesting a local support group that may meet an individual's particular need and evaluating problems surrounding alcohol and drug abuse.

Also suggestions are available for positive, healthy, low-risk choices to deal with life stresses, and future decisions.

If a student decides that he or she needs to discuss a particular problem dealing with drugs and/or alcohol, the student will be treated with complete confidentiality. Also, academic or athletic status of a student will not be jeopardized by seeking assistance at the Alcohol and Drug Prevention Office, according to Diane Berty, director of the program.

Another advantage of the drug and alcohol program for students is that it maintains a library of books, pamphlets, videotapes, and other valuable resources that may be used by students at any time.

"The goal of the Alcohol and Drug Program is to assist the university in providing a supportive campus environment which encourages emotional, physical, intellectual and spiritual development of its students."

According to Berty, students are always welcome to come view the materials.

"We have an extensive library available here in the alcohol and drug program that students may use at anytime. Whether it is for a paper, research or interest, we are more than happy for students to come and take part in these materials," she said.

Lectures are offered once a month on alcohol awareness as well. The first one "Is Drinking the College Tradition?" was held last Thursday in the Clement Building and was given by Clintina Johnson, chairperson of the educational program.

She believes that education is very important regarding alcohol and drug usage since a lot of students will have their first experience with alcohol here at the university.

"The reason I'm in this program is because a lot of students are experiencing the misconceptions of alcohol and they do not see the consequences that alcohol produces in one's life," she said.

The next lecture titled "When Is It Time to Quit?" will be held in October.

If further support is needed, students can get information about Alcoholics Anonymous, Adult Children of Alcoholics, Narcotics Anonymous, AL-ANON and Addictions Anonymous, at the Alcohol and Drug Prevention Office.

If a student is not sure whether or not he or she has a problem, there can be a diagnostic evaluation given by the staff of the alcohol and drug program. All he or she has to do is make an appointment by calling 648-6162.

The services are free of charge to all APSU students. For help or information visit Room 337 in the Ellington Building or telephone 648-6242. The office hours are 8 a.m.-12 p.m. and 1-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sorority Fall Rush is another success story for Greeks

assistant features editor

Austin Peay offers many unique opportunities for undergraduate students. One of these is Fall Rush for sororities which was highlighted last week with lots of excitement and hard work.

Marianne Wall, a Chi Omega, said, Rush was "exciting, but too short. There is not enough time to meet everyone, and it is not fair to us or the women."

This was a busy time for the three Panhellenic sororities on campus to seek new members from the group of women interested in Greek life.

"We are thrilled that the response to Fall Rush has increased greatly this year. Rush is an excellent time for all sororities to show their sisterhood," commented Mary Calhoun of Alpha Delta Pi, said.

This year's Fall Rush stands as a great success for each sorority. Michele Cobb, a

Kappa Delta, said, "The increased number of women going through rush is great and shows that the Greek system is stretching to new limits."

The results from the rush are as follows:

Alpha Delta Pi welcomes Brenda Cochran, Jennifer Marshall, Keri McInnis, Andrea Moore, Shannon Seay and Keri Turner.

The new Chi Omega members are:

Betsy Clater, Aimee Jo Hand, Angela Kemp, Jackie Litchfield and Heather Payne and Susan Martin.

Kappa Delta's new pledges are: Jennifer Cole, Kelly Fickes, Jennifer Fish, Michelle Fleming, Stephanie Key, Julie LaFever, Kristin Paul, Kristi Lynn Reynolds, Vickie Sullivan, Sonja Wells and Tammy Whitworth.

Congratulations to all Greek organizations and their new members.

Greek Week begins next Monday starting with a charity mixer at the Pi Kappa Alpha house. Other activities will continue through the following Friday. The objective of the Greek Week activities are open to all Austin Peay students. The objective of the activities is to promote the APSU Greek community and Greek awareness.

Tuesday's activities will begin at 4 p.m. and continue until 6 p.m. with games at the Intramural Field.

The games will continue Wednesday with a volleyball tournament at the Sigma Chi house. The Kappa Sigmas will host a Toga Party that night at their house.

Greek Follies and the closing ceremony will be Thursday night, and the individual fraternities will have parties at their houses Friday night, Sept. 18.

The Greek Affairs Council will also host a midnight movie at the Carmike theater on Madison Street on Friday. The movie will be "Single White Female". Tickets will be $3 and will be sold in advance or at the door. Sonny Goodowens, president of the GAC, encourages all students to attend the activities.

Austin Peay State University's Concert Artist Series will feature three outstanding and highly acclaimed ensembles during the 1992-93 season, presenting yet another exciting season of the best in live musical entertainment.

Scheduled to perform for this year's series are the Saturday Brass Quintet, Nov. 10; the Falla Guitar Trio, Mar. 1; and the Ensemble Courant, the Society for Performance on Original Instruments, Apr. 7. Presented by the APSU department of music and the Center for the Creative Arts, all performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the concert theater of the Music/Mass Communication Building.

Austin Peay faculty, staff and students are admitted free to these performances but must be in possession of a reserved seat ticket. The allocation is one ticket per person for each event.

Individual concert tickets will be available at the music ticket office in the Music/Mass Communication Building three working days prior to each event at $7 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. All seats are reserved.

Additionally, series subscriptions are available through Oct. 16 at a cost of $18 per adult or $12 per student/senior citizen. Anyone interested in purchasing a series subscription should contact the APSU Center for the Creative Arts at 648-7876 to obtain an application form. Subscription requests will be handled by mail only.

For more information about the Center for Creative Arts programs or the Concert Artist Series, contact the Center for Creative Arts at 648-7876.

The Creative Writing Series at Austin Peay State University will feature native American Indian Joy Harjo in a reading of her works at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10, in Gentry Auditorium of the Kimbrough Building.

Sponsored by the Center for the Creative Arts and department of languages and literature, the reading is free and open to the public.

Harjo also is a dramatic screenwriter and has produced many works, including "Apache Mountain Spirits" for Silvercloud Video Productions.

For more information, telephone the Creative Writing Office at 648-7031.

ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE—Through Sept. 25, Trahern 212A—Swiss artist Heinrich Lueber will conduct an open workshop as a participant in the International Artists Exchange Program.

City may issue new ordinances

Students who like to crank their car stereos may soon find themselves paying fines up to $50.

Thursday, the Clarksville City Council passed on first reading an ordinance making it illegal to play music that can be heard 50 feet away. Proposed by Police Chief Johnny Rosson, "the noise ordinance" will require a second reading; but, if passed, those cited could face fines up to $50 per offense at the discretion of judges.

In other action, the council delayed action on an ordinance, also proposed by Rosson, which would make it illegal for people to possess an open container of alcohol in a vehicle or public place. Action was delayed until the ordinance could be thoroughly reviewed.
