Oklahoma Hits AP Stage Tonight Bringing Music, Dancing and Drama

The curtain goes up tomorrow night at 8:00 when the Waddell show is transferred to the wild and woolly west via OKLAHOMA.

Broadway has been moved to the Austin Peay campus for two days. The Austin Peay production will bring a complete Broadway production to the audience.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical has been one of the most popular musicals of all time. It ran on Broadway for over 3 years and has now been made into a Hollywood motion picture.

Rodgers and Hammerstein took the Lynn Riggs play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," Pulitzer Prize winner of the early thirties and transformed it into a musical, OKLAHOMA.

The Austin Peay Production is the biggest and most lavish play ever attempted at the college. OKLAHOMA has the largest cast ever assembled on Waddell stage.

The cast has put in about six weeks of hard and long rehearsal. The rooms of the Stewart Building after noon could be found full of people going over a section of their part.

Homes all over Middle Tennessee and southern Kentucky were searched from top to bottom for clothes which could be used for costumes. Many of the girls have been using their own hands and making their costumes.

The full cast is as follows: Marion James, John Spaulding, Nita Felner, Robert Hooks, Mary Sanford, Jesse Fowle, Barbara Darden, Robert Workman, Bill Byrd.

Rosilyn Rudolph, Bery Bratton, Mary D. McDowell, Vianne Nolan, Aline Elwood, Marjorie LaBe.

Nancy Adkins, Ruth Vaughn, Martha Gales, Sara Beth Tippett, Wanda Taylor, Mary Dinmore, Raoul Johnson, David Hall, Tommy Miller, Bill Harris, Bill Curry, James Irwin.

Drama is directed by W. F. Hunt music by Charles Gray and William J. Hunt. Dances are created and danced by Frank Treney, Martha Foster is pianist.

The makeup will be done by Mr. Hunt's drama class. Lighting is by Roger White, sets by Jim Irvin. Stage manager is Robert Bradley.

Growing Pains Help Oklahoma Production

Do you want to see a girl fall on her posterior? Do you want to see a bald head become curly? Do you know what a Persian goodbye is? All these things are being shown in Oklahoma, December 1 and 2 on Waddell stage.

Each year in play rehearsal, funny incidents pop up. OKLAHOMA is no exception.

One night in the ballet, Barbara Darden was not there. Who took her place? Frank Treney became Barbara; there must be a difference somewhere.

Martha Gales is getting a sore end of the dance. Every night during the dance sequence, it is necessary for her to jump into the air and come down on her padded place. May be a new way of reducing.

Bill Byrd is always wanting to practice a certain scene with Nita Felner. Ask Bill what a Persian goodbye is? Better not have him demonstrate, at least not in public.

Robert Hooks likes the same scene, but he has an Oklahoma Hello Nita, which do you like best, Persian goodbyes or Oklahoma hellos. There are a good many people who would love to practice with you, if you can't make a guy your mind.

Robert Workman will do well if he leaves the show with all his body still attached. He is supposed to die every night, and some cowboys carry him off. Only one catch, Robert weighs more than the cowboys can carry.

The standing joke at OKLAHOMA rehearsals is John Spaulding's head. He does have wonderful curly hair. No part could fit him better. (John, it was only a facetious remark.)

10 Chosen On Qualities Of Leadership And Patriotism

On the basis of outstanding leadership and scholastic excellence, ten APSC seniors have been selected by the faculty and administration to represent Austin Peay this year in Who's Who among students in American Universities and Colleges.

This is an annual publication which originated in 1934 with the purpose of providing one basis for recognition of outstanding college students. The students selected are Dorothy Cochran, Tom Duffy, Billy Heaton, Charles Leavell, Betty Rye Leach, Suzanne McWilliams, Joan Russell, Mary Sanford, Betty Jo Wallace, and Judy Young.

Dorothy Cochran is a distributive business major in secondary education from Hopkinsville. Her extra-curricular activities include the F. T. A., Kappa Delta Psi, and the Business Club.

Tom Duffy from Clarksville is an English major in secondary education. He is vice-president of the student body. Tom has served as vice president of his Freshman class, president of his sophomore class and Circle K president. He has served as student chairman of the Judges Committee for Homecoming and this year Tom did a fine job as chairman of the Homecoming Dance Committee. Tom is also a member of the Veterans Club.

A business administration major and an economics minor, Billy Heaton is from Clarksville. Billy's activities include Band, Business Club, Intramural basketball and the annual staff as co-sport editor. Billy was also a member of the Continuation Committee for Religious Emphasis Week.

Charles Leavell from Trenton, Kentucky, is in secondary education with a major in industrial arts and a minor in English. Charles has been a member of the Industrial Arts Club for three years. This year he has served as treasurer and was on the Homecoming Prayer Committee. He is also a member of Kappa Delta Psi.

Betty Rye Leach is a biology major and an English minor in secondary education from Dickson. Betty Rye's numerous activities include the Beta Club, choir, cheerleading and the Presidency of the Women's House Council. Last year she served as treasurer of the choir and vice president of the Governors. This year she resigned as Homecoming Queen and has the honor of being Miss APSC, Iris Queen, and Twenty-fifth Anniversary Queen.

From Waynesboro, Suzanne McWilliams is in secondary education with a double English and business major. Suzanne is also an active participant in extra-curricular activities. She is a member of the English Club, F. T. A., Beta Club, President's Club, and Kappa Delta Psi of which she is secretary. Last year Suzanne was English Club President, President of the Beta Club, and on the Board of Directors in the President's Club. Suzanne has been secretary of her class all four years. She served as Twenty-fifth Anniversary Queen last year and last year as Iris Queen Attendant.

Cass To Perform At Austin Peay In First Of Concerts

Richard Cass, rising young pianist, is to appear at Austin Peay Memorial Gymnasium, December 4 as the first program of the Clarksville Concert Community Series. All APSC students will be admitted free upon showing their activity card.

It was in New York's Town Hall on April 11, 1953, that Richard Cass, then only twenty-one, was selected from a large field of outstanding young artists from all over the United States for the winner of the Twentieth Biennial Young Artist Auditions of the National Federation of Music Clubs. On the same day he was offered a contract for concert representation by Columbia Artists Management, Inc.

Soon after this, Cass was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for study abroad. The Fulbright was renewed last year. Mr. Cass has spent his last two years studying at the Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris.

Richard Cass was born in Greenville, South Carolina, in 1931. He attended Furman University of Greenville and was graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts Degree. For three summers, Cass was a scholarship student at the Chautauqua School of Music and while there appeared as soloist with the Chautauqua Symphony and several times over national radio hook-ups.

Last summer when Cass returned to play with the Chautauqua Symphony, the Daily Chautauqua article said, "Richard Cass returned to Chautauqua in glory and added another credit to his musical reputation."

Homecoming Celebration Successful; IA Float Cops First Place In Parade

Another year, Another Homecoming. After a week of preparation work and fun, Austin Peay students can look back upon another successful Homecoming.

Friday night, the students left the floats long enough for a pep rally, bon fire and a snake dance through town and both dorms. The night was climaxed by a sock hop held in Memorial Gymnasium.

The highlight of Homecoming, the parade, got underway Saturday morning at 10:30.

The Austin Peay Arts Club float won first place in the club division and the grand prize. The Veterans float won second and the MSB float won third.

First place in the class division was won by Junior Class float. The Sophomore float won second and the Freshman float placed third.

The Alpha Chi Omega float was winning car. The Alpha Club won second and Omega Club third.

U. C. Mission Ends Termed Successful

The University Christian Mission Week, November 13-17, left a lasting spiritual impression on the Austin Peay State College campus.

The week got underway Sunday afternoon with an all-campus committee meeting followed by the President's reception.

Each day was started by an all-campus committee breakfast which provided food and spiritual fortification.

Special assemblies were held Monday and Wednesday in accordance with UCM. Two or more seminars were held daily and a group of personal conferences were offered to anyone interested in attending.

The day was closed by inspiring devotionals and services. The Beta High Choir, Catholic Choir and Austin Peay Choir participated in these programs.

Dorm discussions were held nightly in the lobby of both dormitories. These discussions served as stimuli for more and better discussions in the rooms.

Dr. R. R. Oglesby, Dean of Students, Dr. Howard E. Short, Professor of Church History at the School of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., Dr. Clarence W. Sorenson, professor of geography at Illinois State Normal University and The Rev. Leon D. Sanborn, pastor of the Church of Christ Union in Berea, Ky., were the leaders in the first UCM to be on the APSC campus.

The students approved and supported UCM as was evident by the large attendance at the meetings and discussion groups.

Most of the reaction board was favorable and nearly everyone wanted to see a continuation of the type of work accomplished by this program and especially a continuation of dorm discussions.

This is "This Is Your College" was shown about 20 minutes here for the Homecoming weekend.

For the movie, the alumni had a business meeting and the officers for the new year were elected. The new officers are: President, Kenneth Tidwell; Vice-President, Johnnie Givens; Secretary, Mrs. Sam Winter.

The College Cafeteria was the scene of the alumni banquet Saturday evening at 6:00.

Yes, It's Here!

Down through the years we realize one way or another that there is one very important factor in making group undertakings successful. When this major factor is lacking, as it is on many projects, they turn out very unsatisfactory much to the disappointment of the people more or less sponsoring the project. This all important factor is of course cooperation. And non cooperative people put us in mind of a pair of mules. Now don't misunderstand, we really don't mean that they are unmentionable but that such a situation reminds us of an illustration we once saw on the farm bulletin board several years ago. The farm men had illustrated this way. These two mules were tied together by a rope and there were two shocks of hay placed a little farther apart than the rope was long. The first picture showed the two mules pulling against each other trying to get to a shock of their own. Naturally they could gain nothing by pulling against each other. In the second illustration the mules were using a little "horse sense" and both were pictured eating the last straws of one shock. Now we're not advocating that we eat from the same shock, in fact, we are not advocating anything just stating the fact that a little more of that factor for group success has been showing up around here during the past three weeks. This is wonderful but great portions of the same could be used to great advantage in other fields of endeavor around the campus.

During the past three weeks Austin Peay has been pretty busy cooperating. The group endeavor that was displayed for and during homecoming week produced one of the better homecomings that Austin Peay has ever known. The amazing part of the story is that even though great amounts of time and labor were expended every one involved enjoyed doing his part in producing things that the individual would receive no credit for. We know of course that without this factor that is too often found at a premium none of this would have been possible or at the best it would wind up sheer drudgery for a few diligent workers.

Following homecoming week came the University of Christian Mission. The average student does not know the huge amount of time that was expended on the very careful preparations that went on almost a year prior to last week. These people deserve credit for keeping this mammoth job. But again we find that the apparent success of the mission came only through the complete cooperation of faculty, administration, and student body.

Now we come to this week. On December 1 and 2 in the Waddell auditorium there will be performed on the stage the musical production Oklahoma. When it comes to cooperation a college production such as this is the epitome. A cast of forty or fifty students and four different directors and a few technicians could really wind up in chaos if it were not for cooperation. And when it comes to putting in time, a musical production really requires hours after hours of tedious rehearsal.

To make the people who are cooperation happy pleased more or less to keep the tradition of cooperation on which has seemed to become pretty well rooted in the past month, why don't you pick up a fifty cent piece out of your hoards of wealth and be present at one of the performances of Oklahoma. You really can't lose in the light of the fact you gain more by cooperating than by being a lone wolf.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

By Dick Bibler

"WELL, WHEN YOU SAID YOU'D TAKE CARE OF CLOSING HOURS I THOUGHT YOU MEANT YOU HAD A DOKIA KEY."

Just The Facts Ma'm,
Just The Facts

My name is Joe Thursday. I am a turkey. I work The Thanksgiving shift out of barnyard no. 22.

It was Thursday, November 34. Dawn was just breaking and the fog was thick enough for carving. Carving, what a revolting word for a turkey to say!

I had a curious feeling that morning that something was about to break. My neck began to hurt just at the mention of break.

6:00 a.m., everything was quiet, too quiet in fact. I didn't like the looks of the birds, so I started to investigate.

On the other side of the barnyard, I met a turkey friend. He was being chased by a man with an axe!

"How's it going, Frank?" I asked.

"Could be better", the friend replied, still running like crazy.

"I think you're being followed."

"Yes, that was my deduction, too."

Each time Frank made the turn around the turkey coop, he told me what the disturbance was. It seemed as if this was a day called Thanksgiving and turkey was the preferred meat. Frank also warned me that I was next on the list. Just as he finished, the man made a running dive and caught Frank. I turned my head; Frank was a good friend.

Well, if I had to be next I was going to get to the bottom of it before they got me.

I had some contacts in barnyard, so I looked up my friend the owl and asked her to explain the meaning of Thanksgiving.

"Well," she started. "It all began a long time ago. When the pilgrims landed on Plymouth in 1621, they were so glad to get there alive they decided to have a feast."

"Just the facts, ma'm," I interrupted.

"This was to be a feast of Thanksgiving to God. They invited the friendly Indians and gathered up plenty of corn and wild fruits and berries. The men went into the forest and shot enough of your Religious Emphasis Week is over, but we hope the inspiration and worth of it is lasting.

During the week the library had a display of books applicable to "better living." There were a few new books of interest in the group, and in case you did not see them there, they are worth your contemplation.

One, Norman Vincent Peale's

On, Norman Vincent Peale's collection of stories under the title "Champions By Setback", emphasizes the truth that obstacles or handicaps need not defeat. These people reached the top in spite of or because of these hardships. The lesson is there. Simno's "Biology of the Spirit" is a scholar's questing for a philosophy of the indivisibility of physical and spiritual truth.

We hope that all heard the talks of the four men who were on the campus during the week. There was so much to remember about them all, but there was one that holds its place in our memory, lending inspiration and grandeur to our own lives. Dr. Oglesby in his final talk chose to admonish us to follow in the steps of Paul when, in his last hours, he was given the privilege of having that of his own to solace him. His request to Timothy was, "And please bring with you the cloak I left with Carpus at Troas, and the scripta."

ancestors for the feast. Each year after that they came together and gave thanks.

In 1663, the last Thursday in November was officially set aside for Thanksgiving, and the turkey was officially set up for the Thanksgiving meal."

So that was the set up. I thanked my friend and walked back to headquarters. It was not 7:00 a.m. and I was getting worried.

Just then I noticed the man with the axe coming my way. If you think I'm going to run, you're mistaken. Because with a turkey, like a cop, duty comes first.

by Raoul Johnson

The preacher's voice droned on and on, and the sobs of the women pushed their way through the monotonous tone of his meaningless words. They thought that they understood but they didn't, they couldn't. They couldn't know how it is to lose part of your life, to lose every excuse for continuing this fight for survival. They couldn't know what it is to lose a person whom you loved more than life itself. No, they couldn't know, they couldn't have ever loved as deeply as I.

I slowly raised my head and eyed the open casket. The gauze-like cloth hid her meaningless words. They thought that they understood but they didn't, they couldn't. They couldn't know how it is to lose a person whom you loved more than life itself. No, they couldn't know, they couldn't have ever loved as deeply as I.

Then my eyes blurred. I could no longer see I again lowered my head and my mind went back to the first time that I had ever seen her. It was a bright and sunny morning and she was standing on the sand with the soft waves caressing her motionless feet. Her golden hair would blow in her face and she would carelessly brush it aside, seeming not to want to miss any of the feel of the salt spray in her face.

To the first time that I had ever seen her. It was a bright and sunny morning and she was standing on the sand with the soft waves

I hesitated to speak, fearing that I might frighten the pleasant vision away. I feasted upon her beauty until I could no longer contain myself and I spoke. I don't remember what was said for I'm sure it was something unimportant. All that remains in my mind of that moment is the way she quickly turned and just as quickly began to smile. It seemed to be a smile of heretofore forgotten status. Her standing. I don't know how long I stood and stared but she remained silent the whole time, silent, save the warm glow that seemed to manifest itself in a noise that rivaled the sound of laughing from her swelling face.

That day was perhaps the happiest that I have ever known. We talked and talked. She explained her being there as a vacation from her work as an assistant to a famous interior decorator, and I explained mine as a vacation from my job. I was a writer just waiting for the right inspiration. We had rented neighboring cabins. She was from Chicago and I from New York. We neither had any existing family. Her hair would have to express it, my new story would have had this golden-haired goddess as an inspiration.

But all I could do was feel - - - feel that it was no coincidence, our meeting. Some mysterious, uncomprehensible force had placed us at the right place and at the right time, together.

We spent two wonderful weeks together and then we had to leave the soft sands of the now-revered beach. She went back to Chicago and I to New York. She had no job, and I had publisher trouble, but our minds seemed to have an unbreakable link that over shadowed everything but our own existences. Although we were apart, we wrote constantly. I can remember no greater anxiety than that of mine as I eagerly drank in the longed-for words of her letters.

She was mine and I was hers. Although we were only able to steal hours together between our engagements, we acted toward each other as two who have loved for an entire lifetime, selfish to part with even the smallest moment. We began to make plans for marriage. I bought an engagement ring and she was going to see her that night when I heard the blast over the airport public address system, "The plane from Chicago made a forced landing in a heavily wooded area just seventy-five miles from here. No news yet of injuries."

She and fourteen others died in that crash. . . Only close friends are attending the funeral. They think they understand but they don't. In a short while the preacher will be through and the casket will be closed. She will be driven to the graveyard and buried. Then her beauty will return from whence it came and I will go and kill myself.

THIS AND THAT

Hope none of us are forced to miss any class because of eating too much over Thanksgiving holidays. Of course, I'm not speaking for myself. One of the prime pleasures that I get out of life is eating and there's just nothing as good as food when you're hungry.

Now after a nice holiday all we have facing us are finals. In my opinion there is but one appropriate comment for this situation and that is, "GOOD LUCK!"

CYCLOPS SEZ.

Homecoming, Religious Emphasis Week and the Thanksgiving dance are just over and only yesterday I heard the comment "There's nothing to do around this school." You just can't win, can you?

If there had been ten more people at the Homecoming Dance there wouldn't have been room to move at all. There was very little room as it was. Some of the couples dancing to the music of the "Students" were: Betty Rye Leech and Freddy Hendricks, Emma Jean Carland and Roland Wilson, Glynnda Clement and Freddy Layton, Lynda Clement and Bill Alexander, Nancy Perry and Moore Moore, Jean Chestnut and Dan Higgins, Anita West and Allen Jordan, Edna Paye Lewis and Roger Estes, Delores Horton and Benny Parks, Kitty Dorick and Bobby Way, Fran Miller and James Carl, Nina Marable and Hodge Jordan, Laura Lee Barnes and Dennis Hershey, Eleanor Stevenson and Teddy Smith, Barbara Frank and Cunningham Crow, Wilma Smith and Bobby Lyons, Eleanor Spain and Al Caglinger, Kate Ann Murphy and Mac Sanders, Sandy Bunn and Sory Shannon, Suzanne McWilliams and Bill Gossett, Eddie Frances Nell and Joe Earl Crosslin, Sissy Stone and Tyle Rodgers, June McCarty and Al Corso, Sweeney McCarty and Jimmy Cutham, Noel Waller and Tommy Grizward.

Pat Trammel went back with Dr. Oglesby to F.S.U. last week-end. There is a certain Football player named Leo down there I here.

Someone told me that Mary Dinmore and Betsy Bailey are almost at each other throats over Jim Albertis, is that true girls?

Martha Gates is one girl who keeps Cyclops hooping, she's with a different boy every night. Can't you make up your mind Martha?

The Thanksgiving dance was really rocking and rolling but with a band like T. H. Williams even the squared of music would have to rock. Leon Vaughn stole the show from Kitten and Zoot; man that cat can go. A few eyebrows were raised slightly when Murrell Boyd got a little carried away. While the floor was going on going on a certain couple by the name of Grace Miller and Junnie Allen climbed in the window when they started to leave there sat Dean Bowman right under them. Some of the others who were there were Suzanne McWilliams and Don Woods, Noel Waller and Tommy Grizward, Betty Rye Leech and Bob Baxter, Dot Floyd and Bobby D. Bagby, Betty Rye Leech and Ray Hampton, Mary Dudley McClelland and Bill Mason, Beverly Stevenson and Eugene Key, Eleanor Stevenson and Teddy Smith, Betsy Bailey and Jim Albertis, Glynnda Clement and Freddy Layton, Eleanor Spain and Al Caglinger, Lynda Clement and Bill Alexander, Patty McRaynolds and John Hancock, Ann Jones and Dickie Sullivan, Claudette Sanders and Phil Brown, Jean Port and Steve Owens, Jean Radcliffe and Carl Taylor, Paye Vaughn and Bob Patton, Neida Thomas and Al Corso, Fran Miller and James Carl, Delores Horton and Bemie Parks, Nina Marable and Hodge Jordan, Martha Gates and Raul Johnson, Anita West and Dennis Hershey, Sory Bunn and Tyle Rodgers, Barbara Frank and Cunningham Crow, Jeanine West and Jimmy Maynard.

That's all folks, I can smell that Thanksgiving turkey cooking.

Busy Bob

One member of the Austin Peay student body who we can never complain of lacking in school spirit is popular and hard-working, Bobby Gossett.

Bobby is a Nashvillean, the son of Mrs. Marvin H. Gossett. He is a graduate of Hillsboro High School and attended George Peabody College in Nashville for one quarter after getting out of high school. He then went into the United States Air Force for two years. A/C Gossett did one year of overseas duty in Japan before he received his discharge.

It was then that he got on the right track and came over to APSC, and none of us are sorry. Our subject is a senior this year, and during the time he has been here, he has been a leader in many school activities and functions.

This year, he leads the Kiwanis sponsored, Circle K Club, as its president. He has been a member of the organization for three years and last year served on the Board of Directors. His position as President of the Circle K, automatically gives him membership in the President's Club.

Being a business major, he is logically a member of the Business Club. Bobby's minor is English. Last spring he was campaign manager for Kay Thompson in the election preliminaries for Student Council officers.

He was a worker this fall in freshmen week activities, and was a member of the hospitality committee for University Christian Mission, and chairman of the judges committee for Homecoming this year.

Another activity that takes much of Bobby's time, is driving a school bus for the City School System. Although he has to get up very early in the morning and make his run, he is still ready to face a day of classes and work, and face it with a smile.

You can always count on this interested fellow to take part in all the social activities on the campus. He is at all the games, pulling for the Governors'; at the dances, taking part in any other activities, and ready to do such things as teaming with his brother, Bill, to take their car full of students to out-of-town games and such.

The $50,000 "Name The Viceroy Filter" Contest has been especially planned for busy college students. There are no letters to write, no jingles to complete, no 25-word statements to prepare. All you do is make up a name for the amazing Viceroy Filter and submit it on a special entry blank or a plain piece of paper. There is no limit to the number of times a student may enter... but send a picture of the Viceroy Filter Tip from the backs of two (2) Viceroy packs with each entry.

The rules of the contest are given in detail in large-space Viceroy advertisements which are running in this newspaper as well as on entry blanks which have been distributed around the campus. The business manager of this newspaper also has full particulars.

Early reports from campus organizations here indicate that many groups already are at work to promote the contest among their members in an effort to win one of the RCA Victor Big Color Television sets which Thunderbird winners will be able to award to organizations of their choice. Competition is expected to be keen, with 100 per cent of members entering the contest.

Viceroy Filter Tip Cigarettes, a product of the Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, is the world's largest-selling filter brand, and is known widely among smokers as the cigarette with 20,000 tiny filters in ever tip. It is this amazing filter, made exclusively from pure, white cellulose, which is the focal point of the contest, and Viceroy ads in this paper will carry hints on its purity and effectiveness as an aid to contest entrants.

Cost Of Education To Be Studied By Ford Foundation

Lafayette, Ind. (I.P.A.) Eleven colleges and universities have undertaken a study of the factors affecting the costs of higher education in America in the face of growing enrollments, inflation and demands for wider educational services. Headquarters for the study have been set up on the Purdue University campus.

President Robert G. Sproul of the University of California, whose institution will serve as the fiscal agent for the $150,000 Ford Foundation grant to cover the study that will include nine of the Big Ten universities, the University of California, and Wabash College, made the announcement.

Out of this study are expected to come data that will furnish for the first time, figures on which institutions of higher education, both privately and publicly supported, can base planning and programming for operating expenses and capital funds for the future. A committee to do general survey work will be made up of two persons from each of the institutions of higher learning.

Much of the detailed work will be carried out by members of the staff at each institution in cooperation with a central study staff. The survey will cover three general areas: institution and research, general and administration, and physical plant. The areas of auxiliary enterprises and student aid will not be analytically studied.

"The big value of this project, which is an outgrowth of the cost studies started over four years ago by this University and Indiana University at the request of the Indiana General Assembly, will be to supply facts or provide a fiscal 'yard stick' by which to measure future operating costs of colleges and universities, both public and private," said President Frederick L. Hoyle of Purdue. "This is the first time such a comprehensive study has been made and is of great importance to the entire field of higher education in this country."

Girls December Intramural Event Features Swim Meet, In Memorial Pool

"A sport for every girl a girl for every sport" is the theme of the Annual Girls' Physical Education Department this year. The means to this end is a monthly intramural event with a swimming meet on the agenda for December. This will take place on Wednesday, December 7, in the Memorial Health Pool from 7:00 p.m. till 10:00 p.m. Anyone who can stay a float is eligible to enter.

There will be events for all winter sports. For swimmers there will be a back crawl and free style twenty-five yard speed race, and the following contests will be twenty-five yard swims judged on form only: American crawl, back crawl, side stroke, elementary backstroke, and breaststroke. For the divers events including the plain front dive, the jackknife, and an optional dive. There will be an opportunity for the water ballerinas to perform in the stunt event. This may be an individual or a couple stunt, a comedy or a ballet. Two teams relay scheduled are the inner tube relay and the paper bag relay. Non-swimmers will be able to participate in this event.

The values of the first three places will be as follows: First—three points; second—two points; third—one point. There are thirteen events, therefore, the total possible points will be seventy-eight points, six for each event. The team (odd-even) as in the track meet held in November scoring the greatest number of points shall win the meet. All results of the events shall be turned into the official scorers. Each contestant entering receives fifteen W. A. A. points, with fifteen additional points for winning an event. Each person can enter as many as three events excluding the

Only My Opinion

After the Murray defeat and the 2-0 victory of Arkansas State over Tennessee Tech, the prospects of a Governor win this season looked very dim.

The big red team from Arkansas was returning to Tennessee to repeat their previous Saturday effort, but there they found a new Governor team. On the first play of the game Arkansas lost their star quarterback for the night. From then on it was all Austin Peay. The Govs led at the half 13 to 6 on touchdowns by Virgil Hill and Howard Hawkins and Bill Alexander's extra point kick. During this period Austin Peay had moved the ball at will while Arkansas was completely stopped. Their touchdown came as a result of a fumble on AP's three-yard line. The second half was much more of the same. Bobby Way caught a pass to complete the scoring, but little of the Governor's spirit and efforts are reflected by the score.

Virgil Hill and Bill Alexander along with Cunningham Crowe and the entire field of backs moved the ball better and more consistently in this game than any so far this season. There is little doubt that the record would be different if this had been a typical game.

To complete the all round performance the line lead by Bobby Brown, Leon Vaughn and Bucky Brown held Arkansas to only two first downs rushing. End Joe Orsburn provided the defensive highlight by blocking a punt which was turned into six points by the Governors.

This Thanksgiving, Fort Campbell has selected an All Star team to oppose the Govs. Saturday's spirit was repeated; the Fort Campbell team went down in stunning defeat giving the Gov two wins for the season.

For the past month the Governor.

ners of the hardwood have been grinding into a smooth functioning unit. In the two pre-season games, which resulted in victories, the boys have showed great promise and a great deal of depth. Returning to the squad from last season are John Rendek, Doug Moore, Phil Brown, Carl Taylor, and Ray Hampton. The depth and potential of the team is carried by the transfers and Freshmen.

December the ninth will be the first chance to determine of the many who the few stars shall be. The basketball home schedule is as follows:

December 9 Florence State
December 16 Miss College
January 4 Tennessee Tech
January 4 Bethel
January 13 E. T. S. C.
January 14 Missouri
January 18 Belmont
January 20 L. M. U.
January 26 M. T. S. C.
February 6 Arkansas State
February 11 Union
