

Gharavi's arrival involves red tape

By Joe Gillespie

Dr. Ebrahim Gharavi almost did not make it to Austin Peay this fall to begin his new position as assistant professor of sociology. In fact, Dr. Gharavi was denied entrance into the United States.

Gharavi's predicament was the sole result of his nationality. He is Iranian.

The following case is a case of bureaucratic red tape. Since Gharavi is married to an American citizen, has lived in this country for 11 years and plans to become a citizen, and has a green card showing he is a permanent resident of the United States, this case also raises questions about the hostilities and bigotry resulting from the hostage crisis.

Gharavi's problem started on April 23. On that date President Carter issued an order preventing Iranians from entering this country except for humanitarian reasons. Gharavi was visiting Iran at the time and was unaware of the order.

Gharavi, who had been instructing at North Texas State University, had accepted his position at APSU.

"I had this job, I thought it would be easy to get back. I left Iran Sept. 11, assuming I would be able to leave immediately. I had lived here for 11 years, and I am married to an American citizen. I also have a green card," Gharavi explains.

Gharavi flew to Zurich, Switzerland. He had forwarded money to London, assuming that he would be stopping over there.

"I found that I could not go to England or France. I had very little money in Zurich. I presented my documents to Roger Sawyers, American Consultant in charge of visas. I gave him my marriage certificate, tax returns, green card, and a paper showing my appointment to Austin Peay.

"After the process he (Sawyers) said that he would have to send a cable to the State Department, and they would contact me," Gharavi says.

Sawyers told Gharavi that his case would take 5 to 10 days. It took 20 days.

"I thought Sawyers wasn't too interested in helping me. After checking with him after six days, I became upset, fearing I would lose my job. I did not have enough money, and hotel rooms cost $50 in Zurich.

"I tried to go to France. He (Sawyers) said this would take two to three months. In order to receive a visa to France he said it would take two months to send a visa application to the French embassy in America and they would have to check with the State Department."

Gharavi contacted his wife in the United States. She asked Senator James Sasser to speed up things in the State Department. Sasser said that all documentation was ready but that a cable had not been received from Zurich.

"Mr. Sawyers told me that he could not help me or send a follow-up cable to the State Department. The State Department said it couldn't inform him (Sawyers) of my status because it had no cable. I was thinking of contacting newspapers in Zurich or the United States. Perhaps I should have been more active."

Gharavi went to the embassy in Bern, the capital of Switzerland. He found the staff to be much more cooperative than had been the case in Zurich.

"A woman, Mrs. Mitchell, vice consulate, was very helpful. She sent all my documents to the State Department, whereas I don't think Sawyers had only my cable. She said I would get an answer in five to six days. I had a positive feeling.

I started writing letters to Carter, Secretary of State Muskie, and Senator Kennedy, and also to the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"My wife contacted Senator Sasser and he told them there was nothing he could do."

On Sept. 28, Gharavi's wife contacted him and said that the response from the State Department would be in Zurich on Sept. 28.

"On Monday, Sept. 29, I contacted the consulate in Zurich and they said that I had received no answer. Just by chance I contacted Bern. They had received a cable from Muskie that I could return."

The next day Gharavi missed a cab and consequently missed his plane to the United States. Wednesday he made it to the airport and flew to Chicago. Thursday he started teaching at Austin Peay.

"I found people on campus very helpful and kind. Dr. James Nixon was very kind. Dr. Nixon, Dr. Sawyer, Dr. (cont. on page 7)

Robbery occurs at gunpoint

By Lisa Jackson

An Austin Peay student was robbed at gunpoint last week on campus.

On Tuesday, Nov. 11, a resident of Ellington Hall was approached in his third floor dorm room by two black males with a gun. Glenn Carter, head resident at Ellington Hall, said that reportedly the two men, who have not yet been arrested, were in their late teens. According to Carter, the burglars held the resident of the dormitory at gunpoint, wrapped his head in a towel, and told him to get into the closet.

A color television set and a stereo were stolen from the Austin Peay student. The burglarized student, who wishes to remain anonymous, would only comment that students should keep their doors locked.

Set Jack Prout, crime prevention officer at APSU, said that approximately 90 percent of the larcenies on campus are due to unsecured property. "This includes an unsecured purse, or an unlocked automobile or dormitory room," Prout said. Prout stressed the importance of students' locking and securing all property on campus.

Prout explained a program which will begin in the next two weeks which was devised to help students protect their property. "Operation I.D. is a program whereby students may use an engraver to mark personal items," Prout said. He explained that the student will check out an engraving pen from the head resident of his residence hall and mark his items. The student will also record a list of serial numbers of the items to be sent to the security department on campus.

"Operation ID increases the chances of recovery of stolen goods," explained Prout. Prout continued that this makes potential thieves think twice before stealing an item due to the fact that a marked item is more difficult to pawn or sell.

Another act that leads to easy access to room is the duplication of dormitory keys. Since this campus is state property, this act is against the law.

Prout admitted that as a crime prevention officer he would like to see the locks of each room changed each year, but explained that this would be financially impossible on this campus. "The approximate cost to rekey one building is $15,000," Prout said.

briefly

Applications due

The deadline for applications for the Miss APSU scholarship pageant is next Tuesday, Nov. 25.

All women interested in entering the competition, sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha professional music fraternity, may obtain an application by contacting the Music Department 646-7818.

This year's Miss APSU pageant is scheduled for Jan. 23 in the Clement Auditorium.

Officers meet

The freshman class officers and senators are sponsoring a meeting of the freshman class Nov. 19 according to Susan Taylor, freshman class secretary.

The meeting will be held in the Claxton Building, room 103 from 2 to 3 p.m. The class representatives urge all freshmen to come and air their complaints and suggestions.

Choir Sings

The Harambee II gospel choir will be sponsoring a Thanksgiving program Nov. 24 at 7 p.m. "Thanksgiving in Song" will be held in the University Center Ballroom.

The participants in the program will be made up of representatives of various religious and Greek organizations.

Books on sale

The SGA bookstore will temporarily move to the University Center main floor Wed., Nov. 19. According to Laura Risner of the SGA, the bookstore will be selling those books not presently in use.

She noted there would be SGA personnel at the table from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The books, which cover a wide variety of topics, were noted as useful auxiliary sources and for enjoyment by Risner.

Frat cleans

Members of the pledge class of Alpha Kappa Psi, a professional business fraternity at Austin Peay State University, recently performed a general cleanup of the Progressive Directions dormitory.

Progressive Directions is a mental retardation service center located on Franklin Street in Clarksville. The cleanup was performed as a civic project of the pledge class.

All books due

Since publication of the current Student Handbook, some bookstore policies have been changed.

It is necessary for all books to be returned to the bookstore at the end of fall quarter by 4 p.m. Dec. 12. Books may be returned at the finish of each exam. Remember that a late fee is charged for books returned after that date.

The bookstore will be closed from Dec. 13, until Jan. 5. Bookstore hours are 7:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Assembly meets tomorrow

The University Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p.m. in room 313 of the university center, according to Dr. David Till, assembly secretary.

The assembly, under the new chairmanship of Dr. Jim McMin, has two motions on the agenda, along with several reports and discussions.

At the last assembly meeting, McMin was elected chairman by acclamation, along with Dr. Ronald Gupton and Till as vice-chairman and secretary, respectively.

The first motion for the meeting tomorrow will be made by Dr. James Sawrey to amend the university assembly constitution to include the dean of the graduate school. This motion will also be acted upon, since it will be in its second reading.

Dr. Albert Randall will also present a motion that both faculty representatives to university budget committee be given three hours of released time from teaching during the spring quarter. These representatives are the chairman of the university assembly and one representative chosen from and by the faculty senate.

Nominations from the executive committee of the committee on committees will be submitted for approval. The nominations are Dr. Richard Yarbco (chair), Mr. Douglas Barber, Dr. Ellen Kanervo, Mr. Deane McDowell (student) and Dr. Carl Stedman.

Two committee reports will also be given. The University Retrenchment Committee will report on their Nov. 12 meeting. The Executive committee will respond to a request from the Office of the President that the committee review and comment upon a memorandum from Chancellor Nicka concerning contingency financial planning, and its response from President Riggs.

University Assembly meeting dates, if approved, for the rest of the school year are Jan. 29, Feb. 26, April 30 and May 21. All meetings are scheduled for 3 p.m. and all proposed meeting dates fall on a Thursday.

University Assembly meetings are open to all members of the university community.

Sigma Nu organizes at Peay

A new fraternity, Sigma Nu, is attempting to colonize a chapter here.

Two representatives from the national headquarters have been meeting with students and trying to find prospective members. The representatives are Tom Owens from Indiana and Scott MacLatchie from California.

"We are in the process of organizing a new chapter. What we would like to do is find a core group of select students that have been recommended to us," Owens said recently.

"We could go for numbers and fly banners but our approach is to get a select group of students. We want students who have placed emphasis on academics and demonstrated leadership," Owens said.

MacLatchie said that Sigma Nu places stress on honor.

"We emphasize the individual sense of honor. We are a social fraternity, but too many people have a negative view of fraternities today. We try to instill honor in our members," MacLatchie said.

Owens emphasized that if Sigma Nu offers something unique to the university it will develop a strong chapter at Austin Peay.

Owens and MacLatchie are working out of Student Life director Glenda Earwood's office.

"The administration has been very cooperative. The university asked Sigma Nu to come on campus. We hope to build a strong relationship with the university," Owens said.

Sigma Nu has 175 chapters nationwide. In Tennessee there are chapters at UT-Knoxville, Southwestern University, East Tennessee State University, Vanderbilt University, and a chapter at Tennessee Tech.

The fraternity was founded in 1879 in Lexington, Va. "We would like Sigma Nu to become the gentlemen's fraternity on campus," MacLatchie said.

Riggs chairs committee

Robert O. Riggs, president of Austin Peay State University, will serve as chairman of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities committee on national service.

The invitation came from Roland Dille, president of Moorhead State University in Minnesota and chairman-elect of AASCU.

The committee on national service defines AASCU's role concerning the establishment of ROTC programs on campus and serves as the AASCU channel for representation of advisory bodies of other organizations related to national services, such as the Veterans Administration.

Association members contribute their individual talents and experience for the benefit of the entire membership through a committee structure.

Committees generally meet once or twice a year in addition to the annual meeting; this year to be held Nov. 16-19 in Williamsburg, Va. Appointments are generally for three years to ensure constant renewal and to provide professional opportunities for new members.

Strength of the association is in the involvement of members in the development of policies and programs. Various committees within AASCU provide the vehicle through which policies and programs can be implemented.

Evaluation lacks personal expression

Earlier this week computerized cards and 8 1/2 x 11 sheets of green paper were passed out in selected classes across Austin Peay State University. These articles were part of the "teaching effectiveness rating scale."

This system is a means through which students rate their teacher and classes. Its value has been debated by various instructors and students. Its validity is in definite question.

The scale consists of 15 questions regarding classroom instruction and criteria. Each question may be answered "A," "B," "C," or "D." The rating scale states "A. Outstanding: Students can expect this attitude or behavior or outcome consistently."

"B. Very Good: The instructor shows this attitude or behavior fairly often."

"C. Good: The instructor only shows this attitude or behavior when particularly interested in some subject."

"D. Fair to Poor: The instructor almost never shows this attitude/behavior or the students can expect almost the opposite attitude or behavior."

The first inconsistency of the rating scale can already be observed. The one word definitions of the letter ratings do not correspond with the lengthy explanations. "Good" which is relatively positive word in our language, does not imply "good" when marked on the rating scale. For a teacher to only show positive behavior when particularly interested in a subject is not "good." Therefore, the student has to arbitrarily choose which definitions he will go by. Depending on how these definitions are judged, this may or may not be in the teacher's favor.

The importance of these evaluations is sometimes skimmed over by the teacher prior to the evaluation. Little comments such as, "Now I'm supposed to tell you this doesn't affect your grade, if you believe that you're crazy," are commonplace before he or she leaves the room.

Actually, the teachers do not see the individual ratings, and the evaluation do not have any effect on grades. However, they are a serious tool in judging the teaching effectiveness.

One instructor commented, "They are the principle thing looked at in the area of teaching effectiveness. Their main use seems to be to hurt. I've never seen a rating used to help an instructor."

Phrased in different words by a university employee and past student, "If they (the administration) are looking for some reason to get rid of you, and your evaluation is bad, that's a good place to start. However, if you're in the good grades of the hierarchy, it doesn't really matter how your evaluation turns out."

From the opposing viewpoint, these evaluations are an opportunity for the student to openly express his view. Since the student is the person either benefiting or hurting from a teacher's effectiveness, he should be allowed to rate the instructor.

This type evaluation is simple and short. It eliminates time and money that would be used on a more complex form of evaluation.

If this task is necessary and important, and if it truly does affect the future position of the university's instructors, time and money are not major factors.

A more valid and informative evaluation could be formed by using only the last statement: "Compared to other instruction in similar kinds of classes, the overall teaching in this class has been . . . and then allowing the students a limited amount of time to answer this question, in his own words."

A computer card with bubbles is not the most effective method possible to evaluate the faculty of this campus. If human performance is to be judged, it should be done in a humanistic manner.

Staffer responds to letter

By Edd Hurt

Last week Tim Miller, a student here, wrote a letter to the editor concerning an editorial The All State had published the week before. The editorial was headlined "Yearbook revival interesting." It examined the recent spate of activity by a group of intramural athletes called the Bricklayers, who are trying to revive the annual here at Austin Peay.

Miller called me about a month ago wanting sales figures for the 1979-80 Farwell and Hall, the Austin Peay yearbook which suspended publication last year.

He told me he was part of a group of students trying to publish a yearbook for the 1980-81 school year. He also told me Institutional Services, Inc., of Redwood City, Calif., would put together the yearbook if everything worked out.

So I called Institutional Services. I told them Miller had called me wanted figures and that I was trying to find out exactly what publishing a yearbook would entail. The woman I talked to told me the proposed date for sending photographers here would be the first week of February. Later Miller gave me the same date. Since Miller now says plans won't be final until January, February does seem like a reasonable date—especially when it is given by two sources.

Miller first told me he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega and that that organization would be the one sponsoring the yearbook. Later I learned not only was Alpha Phi Omega not to be the sponsoring organization, but that Miller was not an active member of APO. The second time I talked to Miller he told me the Bricklayers, a group of intramural athletes, would be the sponsoring organization.

I never told Miller anything was off the record. Miller, who says he is a former writer for The All State, apparently thought I was talking to him just to pass the time of day. Everything I did was in my capacity as a reporter.

letters to the editor Students want SGA action

Dear Editor:

For the last three weeks, a group of students have been trying to form a club on the APSU campus to promote interest and participation in the ancient Chinese discipline of Kung Fu. We have submitted a constitution to the SGA, and admittedly, there were some problems as it was initially presented. However, we did make changes which were suggested by the SGA executives and the senators, and a formal amendment, sponsored by Senator Wyatt, was accepted by vote on Thursday, Nov. 13.

As the question of yes or no was put to the Senate, approve of this club or disapprove, the issue was sidestepped by the introduction of a motion to table the vote indefinitely. This is not good student government. For three weeks, this matter has been on the agenda, and each time the Kung-Fu matter has been on the agenda, and each time the Kung-Fu organization was actively represented.

We will ask for a suspension of the rules at the SGA meeting so that the indefinite tabling may be by-passed and a clear yes-or-no statement made by the SGA.

Everyone who would like to see an organization which is open to APSU students for the instruction of self-defense and self-discipline is urged to attend the SGA meeting on Dec. 4, 6:30 p.m. in room 313 of the Student Center.

Christopher R. McGary

McShane agrees

Dear Editor:

The letter last week by Miss Kim Pyles makes many excellent points. If one could get the administration to explain to the students, they would probably give us the typical narrow-minded budgetary and accounting jargon: "That money is budgeted for project green thing, to blow leaves around, to name the trees or plant white garbage cans." There is no flexibility!

It is too pragmatic to expect this administration to use

Candy cultists media-happy

Editor's Note: The following article is the third in a series dealing with the rising international cult that believes that Jordan Alameda holds the secret to life. The views expressed are those of the author and not necessarily those of The All State.

By Bobby Jones

The cult's latest acquisition involves not only massive numbers of food freaks but noted evangelists as well. At present John Jones, fourteenth cousin to the Late Rev. Jim Jones, a latent homosexual devout Greek Orthodox Southern Baptist, is planning to launch a nationwide campaign.

In a recent interview with Time magazine, Jones defended his change to candy worship by examining Bob Dylan: "Old Bob found out that old Judaism wasn't all it was cracked up to be. I remember him telling me back in '79 that he would rather be a redneck than a Polish waiter. Yep, old Bob never did make a damn bit of sense."

Jones went on to say he hoped Dylan would confess his newfound religion—candy—in his latest release, due out early in February. Dylan denies the rumors saying that his song "Mucoid Mammals," reported to appear on his new LP, has nothing to do with Hershey's Kisses.

Starting around Easter of next year, Jones plans a concert blitz stopping in fifty major cities and Peoria. "Riding into these stadiums in a Three Musketeers helium balloon, throwing out stale Halloween candy—it'll get the fans wild. Especially laced with PCP," he said. After singing the Candy Anthem, "I'm a Pepper," Jones plans to lead the crowd into frenzy with his message entitled "I'd Sell My Soul For A Zit!"

In connection with the national tour, Jones is also planning a media campaign. Presently projecting appearances on cable television networks in early Feb., Jones plans a 24-hour-a-day broadcast to originate from Ansonia, Conn. Call letters for the network were concocted by Jones after what he called "either a vision or a really bad trip."

One segment of the daily broadcast will be entitled "The 7-Up Club" and, as Jones describes it, will consist of one silly-looking white man and one silly black man carrying on silly crap for four hours.

There is resistance to the media blitz, however. Norman Lear, the noted sitcom king, was heard saying "Boy, will my dentist be pleased."

Gillespie reflects on debate

By Joe Gillespie

Reflections on a week in the life of the Republic, Oct. 28-Nov. 4, 1980.

Tuesday, Oct. 28.

I have trouble hearing for the hecklers.

About 50 of us—students, professors, and assorted guests—have gathered to watch the debate between President Carter and Gov. Reagan. I should say, try to watch.

Many in the audience are openly hostile to both candidates. Every time one of the candidates stumbles over a word, catcalls flood the room.

"This oughta put Anderson over the top!"

"Nukear? Carter said 'nukear'?"

I lean close to the T.V. set.

Applause explodes only once. Reagan, rebutting a response by the president, receives the accolades.

"You deserve one answer to your question," quips the governor.

The students/guests, generally hostile to Reagan throughout the debate, love the one-liner. The fact that he does not answer the question eludes them.

The snake charmer strikes again.

Wednesday, Oct. 29.

"Did you watch the debate last night?"

"Well, I'm voting for Anderson!"

I am shocked. He is normally a yellow dog Democrat.

Sunday, Nov. 2.

He looks worried.

The president talks for only a few moments about the crisis that assured his renomination and threatens his re-election. He terms the condition for the hostages release a "positive development."

He winces at the word positive.

Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The drive home is ominous.

Mousetrap madnessTheater story induces psychosis

By Joni Thomas

Lesson number one: a good reporter keeps her eyes opened, her ears perked and her nose to the grindstone—or is that a bombstone? Enter one glibbie newsbound-a-freshman, no less—determined to gather information on the upcoming student production of Mousetrap, to be performed December 3-6. (For reservations call 648-7378).

Logically, my first move was to call the Trahern Building's Department of Speech and Theater. Made sense to me. One ring—no answer, two rings—no answer, three rings—no answer... surely someone must be there! Twelve rings; the phone is picked up and into my ear blasts the most purely hysterical shriek of terror known to man. I hang up.

I gather my nerves and begin the walk across campus to the Trahern Building. I open the door and step into a world of fog and dreams. No one answers my cry—the smoke is rolling thickly and the sounds of my terror are drowned by the low moans of someone else's fear.

Grouping my way through the dense mist, I try in vain to discern from where the noises are originating. I falter, convince myself to conquer fear and then move onward. The noises get louder, the fog thicker.

I feel something at my foot; I look down to see a moss-covered stone. The inscription gives me a spine-chilling clue to the mysteries of the Trahern Building: "Here lies Darryl Osborn: director, Curtis Gray and Randy Sullivan: set designers, Roy Buchanan and Rex Harder; lighting and special effect designers. B-1967's-D-Mousetrap."

This nearly finishes me off but I follow the shrieks, growing closer and closer to the unknown. I head toward a set of double doors that loom in the distance, rising above the clouds of dusty fog filling the room. I fling open the door and am sent flying through the fogged air on the strength of an unknown force that I dare not question.

As I come to my senses, the building becomes filled with the thundering noise of a booming voice. Advising me not to visit the building again, the voice tells me to drop by the Student Center around noon on Dec. 2... perhaps the secrets of Mousetrap will be revealed then. Perhaps not.

Collegians will perform here

The Austin Peay State University department of music will present the Jazz Collegians in performance Sunday, Nov. 30 at 3 p.m. in the Clement Auditorium.

Proceeds from the concert will go to the APSU scholarship fund. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students and the military.

The Jazz Collegians were organized and conducted by Aaron

Schmidt, their present director, in 1967. The band is an academic class of the music department stressing the big band variety of jazz.

Most of the students participating plan to be high school band directors and music performers, according to Dr. Schmidt. The Jazz Collegians serves as a laboratory for the teaching of big band ensemble techniques.

Musicians plan Feaste

The sixth annual Christmas Madrigal Feaste will take place Dec. 4-6 at Austin Peay State University.

This three-night gala dinner and entertainment will begin at 6:30 p.m. each evening in the ballroom of the Joe Morgan University Center.

The event is sponsored by the APSU department of music and will feature the university Chamber Singers. In past years approximately 350 townspeople have attended each night and have experienced the seasonal program and holiday banquet.

This year's menu features standing rib roast, seafood casserole, choice of five vegetables and five salads and flaming plum pudding. In the true 16th century tradition, the evening begins with the heralding of the Wassail Bowle.

Well-known performers who have appeared with the group over the years are Dan Jacoby, Clark Terry, Richard Fote, Dominic Spera, Roger Pemberton, Rich Matteson, Jake Jerger and Louie Bellson.

For more information regarding the concert telephone the APSU Department of Music at (615) 648-7818.

Weed, and Glenn Carter had been helpful, teaching my classes. The students have been very kind and nice."

"We love Clarksville. It is a beautiful town with beautiful scenery. The people are nice. We plan to make this our home if we can."

Gharavi says that he looks forward to introducing a new course, "Social Problems of Asia and Africa" at Austin Peay.

The following documents led to the resolution of Dr. Gharavi's conflict.

The first document is a copy of a letter Gharavi mailed to Senator Edward Kennedy, Secretary of State Edmund Muskie, and President Jimmy Carter.

The second document is a memo from Secretary Muskie to the United States embassy in Bern, Switzerland approving Gharavi's request to return home.

The last memo is a copy of the transportation letter issued by Lewis Akert, American Consul in Bern, which allowed Gharavi to fly to the United States.

Gharavi

September 25

I would like to take this opportunity to write and make a special request of you.

After a short visit to Iran I am returning home and to my work at Austin Peay State University. I am a university professor having received most of my education in the States. My wife is American and a professor of music at Austin Peay State University, Clarksville, Tennessee. In 1969, I applied for an immigrant visa for the U.S. I have had a permanent residency card for over four years. I have lived and worked in the States for over seven years and applied for American citizenship, too.

Unfortunately, while I was out of the country an order was passed banning Iranian citizens from travel to the U.S., except for humanitarian reasons. I had to apply for a re-entry permit on humanitarian reasons here in Zurich. I have been waiting for an answer for over fourteen days. Each day I check with the Consulate but I am told there is no answer from the Visa Section of the State Department.

People leaving Iran are not allowed to take money from the country. I have sent some money to England but I can't get a visa to England. I can't go to France, Italy, or back to Iran. I have to stay here in Switzerland and wait for an answer hoping that it will arrive before my temporary visa expires. On the other hand, due to the high standard of living, and because I had not anticipated an extended stay in Switzerland, I am encountering financial troubles and I find that, because of my temporary visa status, I am unable to work here either. I am already late in reporting to my job which I am losing with everything else. It seems that I can not reach my voice anywhere.

Would you be kind enough and, for humanitarian reasons, to forward my request somewhere or to someone who might be able to do something about the matter. I just need an answer.

I have deep concern about the prolonged hostage situations. I hope and pray that the situation will change soon and that all the hostages will be freed.

Tuesday Nov. 4, 10:57 p.m.

The thing is as slick as a CBS variety show. A chorus sings pop songs. Hands play and a Don Pardo-type announces.

The old man, just assured that he will be the next president, approaches the microphone. The crowd chants hysterically: "Reagan, Reagan, Reagan. Reagan, Reagan, Reagan...."

The shadow which began receding on August 9, 1974 descends once again upon the Republic.

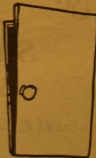

This time it smiles.

Delegates to leave today

A small delegation of Austin Peay students will leave this afternoon and tomorrow to attend the Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature held in Nashville. They will be funded by the Student Government Association and the Student Fund.

What is done at the 17th general assembly will affect the students of Austin Peay, the Student Government of Austin Peay and possibly the residents of the entire state. TISL, as the body is often referred to, represents a year-long effort by students from schools across Tennessee to become an active part of the law-making procedure of this state, according to a former TISL delegate from this school.

The purpose of the four-day event, as stated in the 1979 TISL Blue Book, is to provide a constructive experience in leadership and training in the function of state government. "Once each academic year, TISL meets in Nashville at the State Capitol as a Senate and House of Representatives in order to consider more than one hundred bills and resolutions reflecting areas of student concern on issues ranging from funding of highways to improvement of the quality of higher education to environmental matters," the Blue Book explained.

According to David C. Mason, former Governor of TISL, and a graduate of Austin Peay, of the one-hundred-plus bills which are introduced at TISL, 10 appear on a priority list which is sent to the state legislature. "Through our priority list, state government and educational officials also learn the opinions of Tennessee students on a broad range of state-wide topics," Mason wrote.

This year's delegation carries with it quality legislation according to Tony Marable, vice president of the SGA and TISL secretary of state. In his discussion of TISL, Marable noted the assembly's importance to the SGA and to the Student Government.

In the past, according to Marable, the image of the APSU delegation has proved quite positive. At last year's session, Austin Peay was extremely influential. The top executive position-TISL Governor-was held by David Mason. Other Austin Peay students took top awards and were elected to prestigious offices for the 1980 session.

Duane McDowell received the Governor's Award. It is given for the best piece of pre-filed legislation. Mason received the Herron-Dodd Award. The Herron-Dodd award is an annual award for outstanding work on behalf of the Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature.

Of the eight executive offices, four have been filled by students who attended the legislative sessions as members of the APSU delegation. Tony Marable was elected Secretary of State; Bill Warner, now a student at Middle Tennessee State University, is Attorney General; and Rob Mathews was elected Speaker Pro Tem of the House. Austin Peay student Pat Phillips was appointed by the executive council to serve as Lt. Governor.

Also, according to Marable, there are plans under way to run members of this year's delegation for offices for next year's assembly.

Chaffin to serve

Wayne Chaffin, assistant professor of health and physical education, has been named chairman of the Statewide Driver Education Task Force.

The SDET was conceived by Chaffin. "The need for the task force is evident by the fact that leadership in driver education at the state level is not sufficient to cause a continuation of the growth in driver education as was experienced a few years ago," Chaffin explained.

No profit means no more movies

Last week's movie Game of Death was the last Wednesday movie according to University Center director Buddy Bumgarner.

The USAB was $647 in debt as of last week, Bumgarner said. The movies have not been paying for themselves. For example, Bumgarner said, the Burt Reynolds film Gator was shown at a cost of $132. It grossed $8. The Ricky Horror Picture Show, the popular "cult" film, was shown at a cost of $482. It made only $327.

"It is safe to say we are busted," Bumgarner said. He explained that too much money had been lost from an already meager $12,900 budget, and that this loss affected his decision. This budget takes into account not only student entertainment but also phone and publicity costs.

Bumgarner added that even without budget difficulties it was poor business to continue to pay for films which were not breaking even.

USAB Chairman Tony Thompson commented on the situation saying the budget just couldn't continue to take the loss. "We've shown some good films this year, too—Up Town Saturday Night, Gator, Ricky Horror," added Thompson.

Both Bumgarner and Thompson see the fate of future entertainment at Austin Peay rooted in student involvement and in the possibility of getting a major concert which would generate some extra funds. Bumgarner made clear—that while Austin Peay doesn't have the money to finance a major concert and past attendance records haven't made a favorable impression, major names are interested in coming to Austin Peay.

"We had Ambrosia for homecoming and they cancelled out on us at the last moment," Bumgarner said. Also, the USAB had received a commitment from Willie Nelson, which was cancelled last week when Nelson cancelled his planned tour in favor of another engagement. "And," the University Center Director noted, "chances are still very good we will see Nelson at Austin Peay in the future."

He said the flexibility of the industry, an often frustrating situation, was the cause of the cancellations.

Both men cited student involvement in the USAB was needed if the programs which were offered were to be successful. Bumgarner explained he felt the USAB is vital in good student programming. He said that the students have to participate to work at the shows, to put things together, to give valuable input and reach out to the student body to get their feelings on entertainment.

"I'm open to suggestions," Bumgarner stated, "I can't tolerate people who had-mouth and won't come to the USAB meetings. Everyone thinks they know it all." It seems to be Bumgarner's goal to let them learn it all—if they want to work for it.

KD holds dance

A barn dance to benefit the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond VA will be sponsored by the Epsilon Delta Chapter of Kappa Delta sorority.

The dance, scheduled from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 25 will feature bluegrass performer Hubert Davis and the Season Travelers. The event will take place in the Jaycee Center on the 41 A bypass.

"The band," explained Linda Holder chairperson of the event "frequently appears at the Wind and the Willows nightclub in Nashville."

Holder said that the Crippled Children's Hospital is Kappa Delta's national philanthropy. "KD sponsors a wing in the hospital and gives awards for orthopedic research," Holder said.

Campus Capers, a photography service will be at the dance to take pictures. Holder urged everyone to dress "country" for the dance and pictures.

Admission to the dance will be $2 for singles and $3 for couples. "The barn dance will give everyone an opportunity to have a good time as well as support a worthy cause," Holder said.

SGA Newsletter coming soon

Student Government Association Secretary Jeff Eubanks saw the first steps in the realization of his "brain child," a SGA newsletter, take shape at last Thursday's senate meeting. There, the approval of funds for the project gave the Executive officer the green light for production.

"This is not an effort to compete with The All State, The Tower, or any other campus publication," Eubanks stated. It is an informative publication that is needed, he stated.

The format of the newsletter, tentatively called "You and the Peay" is a one-page bi-monthly publication with news of interest to the campus. This includes organizational meeting dates, SGA news, upcoming events and literary and cartoon pieces.

"I want it to be something I can look back on and be proud of," Eubanks stated. Comments or contributions can be directed to Jeff Eubanks, Editor-in-chief, "You and the Peay," Box 5668.

Campus supports Big Brothers/Sisters

Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Clarksville started here in Clarksville several years ago through the Grace Lutheran Church social action committee.

The actual organization was founded in the early part of this century in Philadelphia and New York to help children who had no parents or came from a broken home.

For the past two years, the Austin Peay community has helped the local organization through monetary and voluntary means.

The athletic department backs the Big Brothers and Big Sisters organization through joint efforts between the two groups in sponsoring the Red and White football game, the women's basketball Red and White game, alumni games and other special events such as the upcoming Republic of China game.

Johnny Miller, athletic director, said "there couldn't be a better organization, if you have the time to donate, it's a tremendous experience."

Proceeds from the events that Big Brothers and Big Sisters work with go partly to the AFSU athletic scholarship fund and according to Dr. Cyril Sadowski, faculty member of Big Brothers, "for direct services and overhead" of Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters take tickets and sell and print programs with the help of sports information director, Martin Harmon for the events they sponsor.

For the Austin Peay vs. The Republic of China game tomorrow night, the organization is one of several that is selling tickets to the game. "They are doing a better job than anybody," Miller said.

Miller added that the athletic teams feel it is "better to play for benefit than just to play," so they enjoy helping Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Sadowski also recognized the Sigma Chi and Pi Kappa Alpha fraternities, along with the Psychology Club, as campus groups that contributed their time to Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

"It's quite an effective preventive program," Sadowski said. He explained that the children who have big brothers or big sisters do better in school and have less court referral problems than other children from broken, single parent, or physically impaired parent homes.

To become a member one should call Kay Puvendo, executive director for this area at 647-1418. The office is located in the Glenn Building on Third Street.

"Big Brothers/Big Sisters is basically a companionship service," Sadowski said. "We are always in desperate need of people to get involved."

Sasser to speak

Conference to be held at AP

"The Choice Is Yours" will be the theme of a conference for women sponsored by The Tennessee Commission on the Status of Women and Austin Peay State University to be held on campus Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21 and 22.

The conference will feature four addresses on the choices of women: Mary Sasser will address "The Choice to be a Wife and Mother;" Louise Miller, executive director of the Tennessee Commission on the Status of Women, "The Choice of Homemaking and Volunteerism;" Attorney Nancy Corley of Stephenson, Lackey, and Waite, "The Choice of Homemaking and a Career;" and Dr. Beverly Clickner, director of personnel, Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County, "The Choice to Emphasize a Career."

During the two-day conference, three workshops are scheduled each day that will offer a variety of informational programs in 24 areas of interest to women related to their role choices.

There is a preregistration fee of $10 for the two-day conference and $5 for students. The fee includes all speakers, workshops, and events with the exception of the luncheons (reservation only) at $3.00 per day. The Saturday luncheon will feature a style show provided by Parks Belk Company, Clarksville. For further information, contact: Austin Peay State University, Continuing Education Department, Box 4668, Clarksville, TN 37040, 615/648-7816.

There are numerous speakers scheduled for the conference including the following women: Dr. Agnes Thornton Bird, formerly chair of the Tennessee Commission on the Status of Women and a part of a United States delegation of women to tour China, will speak on "Women As Seen in China," and Jane Slate, representative to the World Conference for Women in Denmark, 1980, will speak on "What Happened in Denmark?"

Late registration opens at 8:30 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 21, and the first day closes with a social hour at 5 p.m. Saturday begins with late registration at 7:30 a.m. and closes with a final session at 3:30 p.m.

Tickets on sale

The student ticket pick-up for homecoming football game went quite well, according to athletic director Johnny Miller.

Miller then praised the Austin Peay students for their participation in homecoming activities. He said that about 50 percent of the full-time students at AP picked up a ticket to the homecoming game.

Because of the tremendous response, the Republic of China basketball game tomorrow night will be handled in the same fashion.

Students must present their ID cards and pay $1 to receive a ticket to this ball game. This is not a regularly schedule game, and even season ticket holders must pay to attend this event, Miller said.

Representatives from the ticket office will be in the university center from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. today and tomorrow to sell tickets. Student tickets are $1, adult tickets are $2 and a family ticket is $5. This ticket entitles the holder to attend the Varsity vs. the Republic of China game which begins at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow night in the Winfield Dunn Center. In addition, these tickets are good for the pre-game featuring AFSU alumni against Vanderbilt alumni at 7 p.m. any extra money from land sales to pay faculty (or even to give them a bonus). Instead, it has up to five people deliver cases of books to the Clement Building. One was the truck driver of course, and one of the others was probably the supervisor.

This administration is interested in living in one of the most expensive houses in Clarksville, spending money on trees and keeping the salaries of good faculty members half way down the scale for Tennessee colleges and universities.

I suppose though, the number of grants received annually, the number of "art works" purchased and the number of trees planted are more impressive on a resume than the pay scale of any faculty member.

Granted the state budget reduction hurts, but to see the outlandish spending on the above items, the faculty teaching extra courses and the students paying higher fees is too much. Speak up students, we want lower fees, not more trees!

Teaching jobs available

Dear Editor:

The Foreign & Domestic Teachers Organization needs teacher applicants in all fields from Kindergarten through College to fill over five hundred teaching vacancies both at home and abroad.

Since 1968, our organization has been finding vacancies and locating teachers both in foreign countries and in all fifty states. We possess hundreds of current openings and have all the information as to scholarships, grants, and fellowships.

The principle problem with first year teachers is where to find the jobs!

Since college newspapers are always anxious to find positions for their graduating teachers, your paper may be interested in your teachers finding employment for the following year, and print our request for teachers.

Our information and brochure is free and comes at an opportune time when there are more teachers than teaching positions.

Should you wish additional information about our organization, you may write the Portland Oregon Better Business Bureau or the National Teacher's Placement Agency, UNIVERSAL TEACHERS, Box 5231, Portland, Oregon 97208.

We do not promise every graduate in the field of education a definite position, however, we do promise to provide them with a wide range of hundreds of current vacancy notices both at home and abroad.

Sincerely,

John P. McAndrew, President
Foreign & Domestic Teachers

OVC basketball preview

Graves picks best

Here is the 1980-81 All-State All-OVC basketball preseason team. The OVC has steady improvement in its balance and steady consistency in its players. The 1980-81 All-OVC team was carefully chosen from the players' past performances and what they're expected to do this season. Here they are!

Craig McCormick, Western Kentucky, Center, Junior, 6'10"

Jerry Beck, Middle Tennessee, Forward, Junior, 6'7"

Roosevelt Sanders, Austin Peay, Forward, Senior, 6'5" Lamont Sleta, Murray State, Guard, Sophomore, 5'10"

Bruce Jones, Eastern Kentucky, Guard, Senior, 6'0"

Conference outlook is good

By Ronnie Graves

Akron

1979-80 Record

Head Coach - Bob Rupert

The 1980-81 season will be the stiffest challenge for an Akron team ever. The Zips play top-notch teams such as Michigan, West Virginia and Southern Alabama. The Zips are also officially competing for their first OVC championship.

Head Coach Bob Rupert is in his first year at Akron. He steps in as the Zip mentor with 10 lettermen returning, including all five starters from a year ago. Leading the Zip returners are brothers Lance and Wendell Bates. Wendell, a 6'3" senior guard, led the Zips in scoring last year with a 15.7 points per game average. Brother Lance, a 6'6" senior forward, averaged 15.3 points per game and led Akron in rebounding by pulling 6.7 balls off of the boards per contest.

Other returning starters for the Zips include: 6'4" forward Dave Mason (14 points per game), 6'7" center Jim Ewing and 5'11" point guard Pete Carrillo. Top newcomers for the Zips include: 6'7" 220 pound: Top freshman, a center-forward who is a transfer from North Carolina A&T, Jim Barstow, a 6'8" junior college transfer from North Idaho who averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds per game and Jim Spikes, a 6'7" junior college transfer from West Arkansas Community College, who averaged 21 points and 15 rebounds per game.

The Zips recruited local freshman for this year's squad: they include 6'5" Ricky Brown, 6'5" Joe Jakubick and 5'8" Jimmy Gooden. Brown led all high schoolers in Akron in scoring while Jakubick and Gooden were first team All-State choices in 1979-80.

Austin Peay

1979-80 record 8-18

Head Coach Ron Bargatzke

The Austin Peay Governors are trying to rebound off consecutive 8-18 seasons. With second-year coach Ron Bargatzke having a great recruiting year, the Gova could turn the tide and challenge for the OVC crown.

Returning for the Red and White this season will be All-OVC forward Roosevelt Sanders, who averaged 16 points and seven rebounds per game. Andrew Burton, who started at guard and averaged 14 points per outing; Michael Shunick the 5'10" point guard from Chicago and dead-eye shooter Tim Thomas from Franklin, Indiana.

Combining with Sanders on the post positions will be 6'8" junior college transfer Michael Burnum, who transferred from Cooke County Junior College in Texas and who hails from Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Another transfer that should help the Gova is James Meriwether, a 6'4" junior from Baxley, Georgia, who transferred from the University of Tennessee.

Rookies who will be in Governor uniform this season include 6'3" Edger Johnson from Memphis. Johnson played on back-to-back State champion teams while in high school. Alvin Ingle, the Nashville intercollegiate League's Player-Of-The-Year, was nabbed by Bargatzke along with 6'6" Al Bellant, 6'8" Cecil Felts from Dickson County, Kevin James, a 5'10" guard from Smithville, Tennessee, 6'1" Johnny Miles from Nashville, 6'7" Dennis Palmer from Nashville and Mandel Stockton from Glasgow, Kentucky.

Two top players will have to sit out this season due to NCAA transfer guidelines, they are 6'6" sophomore Lenny Manning from Nashville, who is transferring from Miami of Ohio and Drake transfer Eugene Anderson who is 6'5".

Eastern Kentucky

1979-80 record 15-12

Head Coach Ed Byhre

Eastern Kentucky, who at the present time has signed only two freshmen for this years team, has only 12 players on their roster.

Starting guards Tommy Baker and Bruce Jones head the list of returning lettermen for coach Ed Byhre's 1980-81 Colonel squad.

Baker is the leading returning scorer for the Colonels with a 12.8 points per game average. The 6'2" Baker was second last year in assist and was chosen to the All-OVC tournament team.

Jones, a 6', All-OVC guard, averaged 12.7 points per game last year and dished out 15.7 assist for the Colonels last year. He now has 534 assist during his career, which is second on OVC history to Austin Peay's Norman Jackson, who collected 637 from 1974-78.

Other returners for Eastern include 6'8" forward Dale Jenkins, 6'9" Anthony Connor from Avon Park, Florida, 6'2" guard Donnie Moore from Lexington, Kentucky, 6'7" Terry Bradley from Chicago and 6'6" forward Steve Robinson.

Transfers for Eastern include: 6'4" guard-forward Jim Harkins who missed last season with a broken foot, 6'5" forward Dwayne Smith, a transfer from Jacksonville University and 6'6" forward Anthony Martin from Allegany Community College.

The two freshmen to play for Eastern are 5'11" guard Joe Lyhly from Manchester, Kentucky and 6'2" guard Ervin Stepp from Phelps, Kentucky.

Stepp who was the nation's leading high school as a junior (47.2) and second leading as a senior (53.7), was voted Kentucky's Mr. Basketball for 1980-81 while playing for Phelps High School.

Middle Tennessee

1979-80 record 13-13

Head Coach Stan Simpson

Middle Tennessee head coach Stan Simpson's Blue Raiders should be much improved this year over last year's record of 13-13. Simpson, who is in his second year as the Blue Raider mentor, had an excellent recruiting year.

Simpson has signed two outstanding junior college prospects with excellent credentials.

The two players are 6'5" Lucious "Buck" Hailey and 6'4" Rick Campbell. Both were junior college Players of the Year in their respective states. Hailey played in Georgia while Campbell played his junior college ball in Tennessee.

Other big transfer players include 6'9" Willis Johnson (University of Dayton) and 6'7" Danny Mayfield (Clemson University), who will be eligible for the 1980-81 season.

Simpson only signed three high school players for the upcoming season. The list of freshmen include: 6'2" guard Maury Means of Knoxville, Greg Nimmo, a 6'5" guard from Cincinnati, Ohio and 6'3" guard Greg Smith from Macon, Georgia.

Heading the list of returning players for MTSU is All-OVC performer Jerry Beck. Beck averaged 15.5 points and 9.0 rebounds per game last season. Also returning for the Blue Raiders is 6'6" forward Chris Harris and the very quick guard Edward "Pancakes" Perry who averaged 11 points per game.

The Blue Raiders play a tough non-conference schedule that includes games with Detroit and Oral Roberts.

Nastase-Tanner to meet in exhibition

The APSU Dunn Center will unite two of professional tennis' top players on Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. Veterans Mike Nastase and Roscoe Tanner will meet in an exhibition sponsored by Michelob Light and Ideal Distributing Company.

In the first match, Nastase and Tanner, who hails from Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, will team against two Austin Peay players in a one set match.

Concluding the match will be the best two out of three in a singles match between Nastase and Tanner. This contest will put the hardest power in professional tennis, Tanner, versus the hottest temper in professional tennis, Nastase.

Tickets are available in Clarksville at the Dunn Center, Page and Taylor's sporting Goods and Action Athletic Center; in Hopkinsville at the Planter's Bank; in Nashville at the Westside Racquet Club and the Vanderbilt Tennis Center and at Murfreesboro's Stones

River Country Club. Adult tickets are $5 in advance and $6 at the door, while students will be admitted for $3 in advance and $4 at the door. Reserved courtside seats will also be available for $15 each or $25 a pair. All proceeds will benefit the Austin-Peay tennis program.

AP TENNIS NOTES—Austin Peay freshman Hal Jolly has been invited to participate in the Southern Qualifier for the NCAA Indoor Tennis Championships.

The qualifying will be held at the University of Georgia in Athens, Georgia. Thirty-two players will be vying for only one spot in the championship.

Jolly was the first APSU player to receive an invitation, although junior Greg Carter was later extended an invitation. Carter will be unable to participate in the event due to a tendonitis problem.

Morehead State 1979-80 record 12-12 Head Coach Wayne Martin

The Morehead State Eagles have just about the most experience in the OVC as they return eight players this year's squad.

Coch Wayne Martin had one of the best recruiting years in Morehead history. Martin recruited for size this year as he nabbed two 6'10" players along with a 6'8" and 6'6" player. He also signed a couple of 6'3" guards.

At 6'10" are Jeff Tipton from Ashland, Kentucky and Durrell Lyons from Middlesboro, Indiana. From Danville, Kentucky is 6'8" forward Craig Smith, at 6'6" is Dickie Alexander from Hazard, Kentucky and at 6'3" are Jeff Peltz from Richmond, Kentucky and Henry Johnson from Anderson, Indiana. Peltz is expected to be challenging the letterman for a starting role.

Top returnees for the Eagles include double figure scorers Glenn Napier, a junior and sophomore forward Eddie Childress. Napier averaged 13 points per game while Childress averaged 12 points per contest during his freshman campaign.

Other top returnees include 6'2" guard Norris Beckley, 6'6" forward Greg Coldiron and 6'9" center Albert Spencer.

Murray State 1979-80 record 23-8 Head Coach Ron Greene

Again Murray State will be a power on the OVC basketball scene. Last year the Racers were co-champions with Western Kentucky for the crown. Last year's 23-8 slate was a big turnaround from the 1978-79 season record of 4-22.

Last year the Racers advanced to the quarterfinals of the National Invitational Tournament with road victories over Jacksonville and Alabama.

A big gap must be filled in order for Murray to repeat their accomplishments. The shoes of OVC Player of the Year Gary Hooker must be filled. Hooker averaged 18.6 points per game last season and finished fifth nationally in rebounding with a 12.3 per game mark.

Returning to aid the Racers this season will be All-OVC Rookie of the Year and All-OVC first team selection Mont Sleta. The quick 5'10" guard from Eminence, Kentucky averaged 17 points per contest last season.

Expected to replace Hooker is 6'5" Kenny Hammonds who was hurt last year, but was an All-OVC selection as a freshman. Other returning starters for Murray include 6'6" forward Glen Green and senior guard Jerry Smith.

The remaining returners include; 6'5" forward Walt Davis, 6'7" guard Tommy Adams and 6'10" center Michael Bates.

Transfers for the Racers will be 6'7" forwards Mike Brady, Mike McKinney and Reggie Montgomery, 6'3" guard Tony Slaughter and 6'8" center Terry Triplett.

The only freshman signee for Murray is 6'2" guard Brian Stewart from Terre Haute, Indiana.

Tennessee Tech 1979-80 record 5-21 Head Coach Tom Deaton

The Tennessee Tech basketball outlook is bright. The Golden Eagles will return eleven lettermen, including all five starters. The Golden Eagles will also be breaking in a new coach.

Tom Deaton, who was an assistant at the University of Tennessee for the past four years, begins his maiden year as head coach of the Golden Eagles with high hopes and great enthusiasm.

Pete Abus, a 6'5" junior from Cambridge, Ohio heads the list of returning players for Tech. Abus was the Golden Eagles leading scorer last season with 41.1 points average.

Also returning for Tech will be 6'9" center Pat Kannapel, 6'7" forward Mike Williams, 6'5" forward Carlton Hendrix, 6'3" guard Jeff Harris and 6'5" forward Tim Patterson.

Tech's only transfer is 6'9" Percy Plumlee, who transferred from Indiana Central and hails from West Lafayette, Indiana.

Four guards who started at various times will also return for Tech. They are 6'3" junior Marc Burnett, 6'2" junior Paul Chadwell, 6'10" junior Terrence Roberts and John Mathis a 5'10" senior.

Deaton landed two freshmen in his first recruiting season. They are Danny Shultz a 6'2" guard from Olive Springs, Tennessee and 6'8" center Jeff Smithson from Nashville's Antioch High.

Western Kentucky 1979-80 record 21-8 Head Coach Glenn Haskins

Western Kentucky along with Murray will battle for the OVC championship again. After winning their 17th OVC championship last year, the Hilltoppers must regroup after losing four starters.

Rookie coach Clem Haskins, who played at Western Kentucky in the mid-sixties, steps into a great deal talent.

Returning for Western will be ALL-OVC center Craig McCormick, who was the Hilltoppers leading scorer and rebounder a year ago. The 6'10" center was among the nation's top ten in field goal accuracy with a .825 mark.

Other top returners include; 6'3" guard Mike Reese 6'3" guard Kevin Dildy, 6'8" forward Ricky Wray and 6'7" forward Tony Wilson.

Top substitute returners include 6'7" Percy White 6'4" forward-guard Kenny Ellis and 6'10" center Alex Moaley.

Coch Haskins landed four top freshmen for the upcoming season, they are Gary Carver, a 6'6" forward from Clifty, Kentucky, Ken Hatcher, a 6'6" forward from Campbellsville, Kentucky, Bobby Jones, a 5'10" guard from Macon, Georgia and Bryan Teater a 6'4" guard from Harrodsburg, Kentucky.

Hot night slated

Tomorrow night hot basketball action is slated for the Dunn Center. Beginning at 7 p.m. the Vanderbilt-Austin Peay Alumni game will start, followed immediately by the Austin Peay-Republic of China game.

Many old talents will return to play for both alumni squads. Austin Peay's includes: Jerry Stephenson, Jerry Wanstath, Charlie Fishback, Arnold Lynch, Joe Johnson, Lovie Fry, Jack Pack, Greg Kinman, Percy Howard, Robert Turner and James "Fly" Williams. The Governor alumni will be coached by former mentor Lake Kelly.

Vanderbilt will bring in a team consisting of Tim Thompson, Mark Elliott, Terry Compton, Rod Freeman, Ray Maddux, Tommy Springer, Jerry Southwood, Tom Hagen, Bill Ligon, Butch Feher, Rudy Thacker, Dickie Ketter, Al Rochelle and Bob Warren. The Black and Gold will be coached by long-time Vandy coach Roy Skinner.

Tickets for the exhibition and the Austin Peay-Republic of China game are $1 for students, $2 for adults and $5 for a family.

Proceeds from the game will go toward the APSU Athletic Scholarship Fund and Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Clarksville. The game will be co-sponsored by the Governors Club and Big Brothers.

Coach Bargatzke said he is hoping for a big turnout and that this evening of basketball should be a good kickoff to the 1980-81 season.

Tourney begins

The Natural Light Racquetball tournament begins play today with action in the 32-person format thought to be rugged and competitive.

All participants will receive T-shirts and trophies will be given to the top two spots.

Intramurals begin

Last week started the 1980 intramural intertube water basketball season. The intramural event is divided into three divisions. The divisions include Co-Rec, women's and men's divisions.

In the Co-Rec division on Nov. 10, Blount edged out Chi Omega 38-34 and in women's action Chi Omega beat Sevier 17-12. Men's action began Nov. 11 with ATO squeaking by the Doobie Brothers 19-15, the Pikes defeating the Projects by forfeit and the Water Rats drilled the Bricklayers 104-6.

Nov. 12 in the Co-Rec division, Chi Omega bombed ATO 45-16 and in the women's division Sevier forfeited to Kappa Delta.

Nov. 13 in the men's division, the Pikes edged the Bricklayers 13-12, the Water Rats defeated the Doobie Brothers 60-33 and ATO jumped all over the Projects 59-6.

Split openers

The Lady Gova split their first two games of the young season last week as they dumped Freed Hardeman 73-66 at home and lost to David Lipscomb 61-52 on the road.

In the opener against Freed Hardeman, Golena Rucker, Connie Sinks and Tina Cottle sparked a second half comeback that saw the Lady Gova overcome a 36-31 half-time deficit to pull out the 73-66 victory.

Rucker, who hit on nine of 17 field goals, tallied 19 points and nine rebounds for the game. Cottle, who was held to two first half points, totaled 13 points and 12 rebounds for the game. She was the dominate inside figure for the game. Sinks hit on seven of 15 field shots for her 14 points total. She also snagged five rebounds. Susan Dillehay also hit for double figures as she tallied 10 points on five field goals.

Jeanelle Chapman and Renee Hensley led Freed Hardeman in scoring with 21 and 16 points respectively. Chapman led her team with 13 rebounds.

The Lipscomb loss was a tough one, as the Lady Gova converted only 20 of 71 field goals for a dismal 28 percent. The Lady Gova were outplayed in every aspect of the game. They were out shot on the freethrow line 68 percent to 52 percent and they were out rebounded 32 to 29.

Couch Pam Davidson said that Tina Cottle was playing well at this time. "She has a lot of talent, but has rough spots that need working on," Cottle had a technical foul thrown on her at Lipscomb when the Lady Gova were on a come back.

Davidson said, "Normally a couple of players will have a bad game, but against Lipscomb seven or eight players had bad games."

Davidson noted that Joanne Arnold was one of the bright spots in the Lipscomb game. She hit 60 percent from the field (3 of 5) and tallied seven points and two rebounds.

Cottle led the Lady Gova against Lipscomb with 12 points and 10 rebounds. Arnold and Karen Viator followed with seven points a piece.

After two games Cottle leads the team with a 12.5 points per game average, Golena Rucker is next with a 10.5 average followed closely by Sinks (9.5) and Dillehay (8.0).

The Lady Gova next game is Friday against David Lipscomb in the Dunn Center followed on Nov. 25, with a game at home against Lambuth College.

WKU wins OVC

Western Kentucky has clinched the 1980 Ohio Valley Conference Championship for football. Austin Peay has clinched at least a tie for second with Saturday's win over Tennessee Tech. Eastern Kentucky and Murray State are just one-half of a game behind the Governors in third place.

Morehead is fifth, Akron sixth while Tennessee Tech and Middle Tennessee are tied for last place with 1-5 records.

Clinch second

Angry Red win sixth straight

By Steve Harmon

Tennessee Tech may hold a 16-7 series lead over Austin Peay, but the Governors have now won four of the last five gridiron clashes with the slumping Golden Eagles.

Only 2,000 wind-chilled fans saw Cookeville-native Watson Brown lead his troops to their sixth consecutive victory, this time a 13-10 win over OVC also-ran Tech in Municipal Stadium last Saturday.

It was the final home game of the season for APSU as the 17 governor seniors enjoyed the spotlight.

Compared to the merciless drubbings that APSU had handed to Akron and Murray, respectively, in the two previous weeks, the Tech victory was nothing spectacular on paper, that is.

Governor quarterback Sonny Defilippis, who leads the OVC in total offense, turned in a sub-par performance as he connected on 8 of 16 passes for 138 yards and three interceptions. Defilippis, the leading rusher for APSU this season with 591 yards, ran for two touchdowns, but had a minus three yards aggregate on the ground for the day.

After a 44-yard TD run by Eagle tailback Marvin McClennon and a 47-yard field goal by All-conference placekicker Wayne Anderson, the Peay defense came to life.

On a fourth down and goal situation at the APSU one yard line, Tech's Marvin McClennon was turned away from the goal line, capping four futile attempts from Eagle runners to score from inside the three yard line.

With only 2:32 remaining in the first half and APSU down by a 10-0 score, senior center Doug Holland fell on a misplayed punt, giving the Governors possession on the TTU 15 yard line.

Four plays later, Sonny Defilippis scored from one yard out. After Ray Hampton's PAT, the Governors had cut the margin to 10-7 at the half.

The second half was a defensive battle for both clubs as the APSU defensive front repeatedly thwarted Tech's James Aaron, the conference's leading passer.

At the 12:24 mark of the fourth period, Sonny Defilippis capped a 60-yard drive with a 1-yard TD run, giving Austin Peay the lead for the first time in the ballgame. The extra point attempt failed, however, as the Gavs precariously clung to their 13-10 advantage.

After each team traded punts, Governor defensive lineman Kenny Durden recovered a bad pitch from Tech signal caller James Aaron at the Eagle 27-yard line.

With only 3:11 remaining to be played, the APSU offense ran out the clock to claim their seventh victory this season against three early-Autumn losses.

Commenting on the APSU victory, Coach Brown lamented, "we had a big game the week before (Murray State) and I was concerned about a letdown. Today, Sonny (Defilippis) didn't have one of his better games but our defense held together like they've been doing all year long. That was the key to our win."

This week, the Governors will travel to Jonesboro, Arkansas to face Arkansas State University in a non-conference battle. ASU is a Division I-A school with a dismal 1-8 record. Their lone victory came against UT-Martin, who defeated the Governors in the first game of the season.

Those eight losses associated with Arkansas State can be misleading, however, as they've been against opponents such as Kansas State and Southern Mississippi.

"They (Arkansas State) won't expect us to beat them Saturday," predicted Watson Brown. "After six straight victories, I know that my players and staff are confident and that we'll be ready to play on Saturday."

Season ends

By Brian Bowen

The Lady Gavs volleyball team competed in the Tennessee State Volleyball Tournament this past Friday and came out on the short end, as UT Martin defeated the Lady Gavs three out of four games, 11-15, 5-15, 16-14, 7-15.

In the third game of the match the Lady Gavs made a good come back as they stopped three match points and went on to win the game 16-14.

Coach Arlene Ignizio said that the Lady Gavs worked all week on blocking and they had averaged 14 blocks per game but only had 14 blocks the whole tournament.

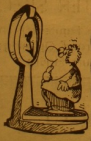

Although the State tournament ended the season on a sour note the Lady Gavs accomplished most of their goals this season as they finished with a 25-9 final record.
