Freshmen get acquainted in social activities week

It's "Get Down Time" tonight at 7:30 as freshmen, wearing their grubbiest, gather at the athletic practice field for some planned informal activities.

The mixer will kick off a week of social activities sponsored by the Student Government Association and the University Social Activities Board.

A picnic will be held tomorrow night at 6 at the athletic practice field across from Memorial Gymnasium. Freshmen will be admitted free with the name tags they received in the mail.

Following the picnic a folk music concert will be held in the University Center Bowl at 8 featuring entertainers from the APSU coffeehouse.

Publication finds funds for printing

The Farewell and Hall, Austin Peay State University's yearbook, may be published after all. Funds were gathered for its continuation.

As former students already know, the APSU yearbook was suspended at the end of spring quarter due to a lack of adequate funds.

Now, due to recovered money and the summer work of an SGA committee, the administration is allocating $15,000 (for publication of the yearbook. This sum is $5,000 less than last year. To supplement yearbook spending, a fee of $5 per school term might be charged students.

Gerald L. Tenney, director of photographic services is Farewell and Hall's new adviser replacing B. Sherwin Cliff, director of public information. The staff and editor have not yet been selected. Anyone interested in applying should contact Tenney

Accident claims APSU girl's life

Gayle Ann Cotter, a 22-year-old Austin Peay State University senior from Nashville, died on August 10 as a result of injuries incurred in an automobile accident August 3.

Gayle was scheduled to complete requirements for the bachelor of science degree Friday, August 17, with a major in business administration.

The degree was awarded posthumously to Gayle and her diploma was presented to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Cotter.

The accident occurred approximately six miles north of Ashland City on the Ashland City Highway, while Gayle was traveling to Nashville with relatives. At last reports, the accompanying relatives were recovering satisfactorily.

BLOOD, SWEAT & TEARS - Jazz-rock group, "Blood, Sweat & Tears," known for such sounds as "Spinning Wheels" and "You Made Me So Very Happy" will appear in Memorial Gymnasium Tuesday, Oct. 2.

Festival ban denies right to assemble

The upheaval generated by Polk County residents and state officials over the proposed Labor Day rock festival in Polk County has subsided with the aftermath being a destroyed barn and the right to assemble denied.

Polk County Judge Dennis White received massive protest from his fellow Polk Countians and state officials when he rented part of his farm to festival promoters Bob Alexander and C.C. Manifest for a Labor Day rock festival.

The dissenters' big protest was the use of drugs, nakedness and property damage that usually accompanies rock festivals. But this should not be the reason for banning the rock festival nor should it motivate the stopping of any in the future.

The use of illegal drugs should be a right of the people. This doesn't mean that the use of illegal drugs is good for the people. But who decides when it is right or good? The government? No, the individual should have the right to strengthen or destroy himself.

Nakedness and the so-called immoral passions of love making was another issue of protest from the rock festival dissenters. Again this should be left up to the individual to decide what is moral and what is immoral.

As for the property damage that would result from the rock festival could easily be taken care of by each property owner who has property damaged taking it to court and sue the individual he catches destroying his property.

Everyone should do as they please: it is in the course that if one's freedom hurts another that he be punished. Punishment should be after the crime not before.

Anyone who did not want to go to the rock festival could have stayed at home. But in this case, we see the disagreeing of some denying the freedom of some others.

Letters to editor

SGA greets students

Dear Students,

It is difficult to believe that summer is over and Fall Quarter 1973 is upon us. Soon students will once again be in the swing of campus activities, classes, studying and renewing old acquaintances while making new ones. For many APSU students this will be the last fall quarter in which they will participate as undergraduates. For many others, it will be just the first of many college experiences.

As usual, this fall quarter presents an exciting challenge to all students, both new and returning. College is indeed a unique experience—a time for living, laughing, and maturing.

Perhaps the greatest asset that you will leave this university, community with its knowledge and kinship that you have gained from working and communicating with students, both young and old, of differing colors, nationalities and religions.

We, the SGA Executive Officers for the 1973-74 school year would like to welcome you to Austin Peay, whether you're a returning student, or here for the first time. The year before us holds much history in its making, and chapters of APSU's history will be written this year which will concern us all.

May we extend to you our best wishes for the coming year.

Society depends on youth

By MIKE FLETCHER

The eighteenth century philosopher Goethe once said that "the destiny of any nation, at any given time, depends upon the opinions of its young people under twenty-five." This statement is perhaps more significant at this time in our history than when it was first spoken 200 years ago.

Both this nation and this university are now traveling through troubled times. The problems that both face are not insurmountable. These problems are not so complex that they cannot be solved, for they are man-made problems, and they can and must be solved by men.

They cannot, however, be solved through the efforts of one certain group of people, but instead by everyone. They can not and will not be solved unless the young citizens, both of the nation and of Austin Peay, are given the full opportunities, rights and responsibilities that they will require in order to be full members of the decision-making processes.

Our young citizens have been given many legal rights on paper, but in some cases, not in reality. Many discrepancies exist regarding students' legal rights simply because they are students of a state supported institution. I believe that the administration of this university has recently made definite progress in expanding students' rights and privileges, but it is vital that the strive for progress be continued in the future. The students are Austin Peay, and their opinions and happiness are vital to the success of the university.

These responsibilities must be given to the student, but he or she must utilize them in order that they be effective. Through the current avenues open to the students, such as student positions on top-level university policy-making committees, student government offices, and student publications, the student, having an opportunity to act, but it is entirely up to you to do so.

Some say that the current trend for today's college student is to be apathetic and to "be cool." They say that many young citizens who were once active have seen only regression and no gains from their efforts in the struggle for their rights. But I see exactly the opposite. I see politicians listening to student opinions. I see laws being passed extending the rights of young citizens. You only need to look around you to see their influence but it cannot stop here. Too many have given too much.

It is your right as a citizen, both on and off this campus, to question what you do not understand, and not to accept it by shrugging your shoulders. You must at least become aware of the events around you, for the citizen that you prove yourself to be now will be the same one later.

By being interested and concerned in the people and events around you, you are also taking an interest and concern in yourself.

Reforms progress with students help

While some of us were vacationing or working this summer certain members of the SGA were busy trying to make some progressive changes here at Austin Peay.

Students may now take the mandatory six hours of P.E. on a Pass-Fail basis beginning this fall quarter. This should be of some service to student. The next step, though, should be the abolishment of the six mandatory hours of P.E.

Another long overdue reform has been the changing of women's hours. Now all upperclass women and freshmen women with parental consent can determine their own hours. It is hoped that the freshmen parental consent rule will be abolished soon.

Dorm visitation hours have been extended. The new hours are from 5 p.m. till 9 p.m. on Wednesday nights and six hours from 12 p.m. till 8 p.m. on Sundays. Each dorm will determine which six hours it will be open on Sunday. This, too, has been overdue. We need, however, more hours of dorm visitation and in the near future co-ed dorms.

To some these changes may not be enough. They are right it isn't enough, but with these changes Austin Peay is at least one more step towards being a more liberal and progressive institution.

The SGA is to be complimented for their work this summer, but the job is not finished. There are a lot of reforms still to be passed, and there is a lot of help needed from the students, faculty and administration. The SGA is always open to suggestion and opinions; feel free to give yours.

Veterans receive checks for fall quarter classes

Advance payment checks for eligible persons who requested them for fall quarter 1973 may be picked up in the Business Office Monday, Sept. 24.

Although checks will be at the University on registration day, they cannot be distributed until the Computer Center confirms the student registered and the number of hours for which the student is registered. This is due to the fact that each envelope will contain, along with the check, an enrollment card which the Admissions Office must check with the hours registered for by the student.

If the student registers for more or less hours than is indicated he would, admission office workers must change the enrollment card, then return it to the Veterans' Administration (VA), which will make necessary adjustments in future checks. If there are no changes, the enrollment card will be returned to the VA.

Only the first check for the year for each eligible person will be sent to the University. This check will cover half of September and the entire month of October. Future checks will be mailed directly to the address indicated on the VA-1 form the eligible person completes and should be received about the first week in the month. Should any eligible person not register, whose check is received, the check will be returned to the VA.

August 31, 1973 was the cut-off date for requesting enrollment papers to be sent for advance payment.

Textbook rental, student union fees and refrigerator rental will remain the same as last year.

Tuition for out-of-state students in 12 or more credits is up from $240 last quarter to $270. The same fees per credit hour for less than 12 credits have increased to $23.

Room rental formerly ranged from $95-$115 a quarter and apartment rental from $250-$300. The rent was raised for rooms to $100-$120 a quarter and apartment rent increased to $285-$330 per quarter.

In addition phone service for dorm rooms increased from $10 to $15 per quarter and apartment phone increased from $5 to $7 per month.

Increases in special fees included a 50 cents raise in the post office box rental, from $1 to $1.50.

Any freshman interested in seeking a position as a freshman class officer or senator may pick up petition forms today in the SGA office, located on the top floor of the University Center.

These forms are to be turned back into the SGA office by Wednesday, Sept. 26. Each petition requires 50 signatures from members of the freshman class. Formal campaigning officially begins at this time.

will be contemplating this and other questions relating to death.

This upper division course, taught by Dr. Duane Forderhase, chairman of the department of philosophy, will be limited to twelve students this quarter.

Said Forderhase, "Death is the sort of subject to which we have no simple, unambiguous route of access. There is almost no limitation to the number of ways one can undertake an investigation of the nature and meaning of death."

"Death can be examined under sociological categories; it can be studied for its personal, political, actuarial and even commercial significance."

He added, "This is a course which begins, and might well end, with questions which are quite unanswerable."

Students interested in this course should contact the philosophy department for further details.

Two new philosophy courses have been added to the curriculum this quarter, one dealing with religion, the other with social and political philosophy.

An introduction to major themes of western religious thought and life will be studied in Religious Roots of Western Culture (Philosophy 275).

Instructed by Forderhase, the study will cover selected works from the Old and New Testaments, the Apocrypha, the Early Church creeds and original and secondary Greek sources.

The class which meets from 12-12:50 Monday, Wednesday, Friday will substitute for one of the sophomore English requirements.

Social and Political Philosophy (Philosophy 357) will concentrate on significant contributions of philosophers to social and political thought.

This course, taught by Dr. Albert Randall Jr., assistant professor of philosophy, will emphasize those philosophers whose thought has special current relevance.

This 1:40-2:55 Tuesday, Thursday class will be cross-listed with the department of political science.

Males visit more hours

Dorm visitation in women's dormitories has been extended with the approval of the State Board of Regents. Dorms will be open for visitation from 3 till 9 p.m. on Wednesday nights.

The dorms will also be open Sunday for six hours between noon and 6 p.m. Each dorm will decide which six hours it will be open on Sundays. Also, each dorm may vote to shorten the visitation hours according to the consensus of the residents.

Also this year, all upperclasswomen and freshmen women with parental consent will be allowed to determine their own hours. Each residence hall will work out its own policies and procedures.

APSU closeup

During the summer months, two Austin Peay State University athletes have been dominating the campus and community sports scene.

One of the athletes' stories is a story of profound joy.

The other's is a tale of sudden tragedy.

First, for the happy story.

It was one of those dreams-come-true situations. And it happened only last Tuesday.

Bonnie Sloan, who has never even heard the cadence of a quarterback or the roar of football fans, became the first deaf player in history to make a professional football team. Sloan survived the St. Louis Cardinals' final slice session Tuesday and earned a chance to prove what he is, a 6-4, 239 pound defensive lineman, has always felt he could do.

On top of the fact that Sloan made the Card roster is the even more dramatic point that he is slated for a starting tackle assignment versus the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the season premier for both clubs.

Bonnie is an APSU standout offensive tackle for four seasons beginning in 1968. He made the All-Ohio Valley Conference team his junior and senior seasons.

Sloan played his prep ball at Nashville's Isaac Litton High School.

Big Bonnie wore the number 75 on his jersey in college but will appear in number 79 for his new red and white team, the Cardinals.

St. Louis rookie head coach, Don Coryell conceded, "I naturally admire anyone who can overcome such a handicap, but we can't play him just because we like him. The key was devising a system to get him lined up and moving properly."

Bonnie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sloan were in St. Louis with their son when the announcement of the final cut was made.

BONNIE SLOAN - Now a Cardinal

Now, for the story of misfortune.

Howard Jackson, Austin Peay's outstanding 6'7 senior basketball forward, was working hard in preparation for his final season for the Governors.

The left-handed, two-time All-OVC performer and 1973 All-Midwest Regional selection was expecting big things especially since he had developed a superb 15-18-foot jump shot.

It was a normal day in August for Jackson at his job as an apprentice painter at the Cumberland City steam plant.

But for some unknown reason, a fiber glass skylight Howard stepped on broke and Jack felt 70-some-odd feet to a concrete floor. Miraculously, the Lexington, Ky., native was not killed. However, both legs were broken and thus eliminated Howard's chance to play his final year for the Goves.

But, there is a golden ray of sunshine in this story as in the first, despite the hip length casts Jackson fashions.

There is a possibility Howard will be able to play basketball again. If not on the collegiate court, then in the professional ranks. Jack has a heart as big as all out-does and you can bet effort will not be a problem.

Jackson still wants to play pro ball, and, if anyone could come back from a setback of this nature, you know it would be Jack.

Goves lose to Henderson

It didn't take new Austin Peay State University head football coach Jack Bushelsky long to figure out what his team's major stumbling block was in their 17-7 opening season loss to Henderson State Sept. 8.

In the Henderson State game Sept. 8, the Goves' only score came in the first quarter when freshman Mercury Man Jimmy Reynolds blocked a quick-kick attempt by Reddie halfback Bill Miller deep in Henderson territory. Defensive tackle Terry Stephens quickly pounced on the tumbling pigskin in the endzone for the TD. Hammond added the point after.

Reynolds ended with 10 individual tackles and one assist while linebacker Tony Wade registered 10 main stops and 10 assists to lead the Goves.

Offensively, Hammond was the APSU lone standout with 61 yards in 12 carries.

The following is a wrap-up of other Saturday night OVC games.

TSU BLANKS RAIDERS

Middle Tennessee State University could not mount a sustained offensive attack against tough Tennessee State and dropped a 23-0 decision to the Tigers before 22,000 fans at Vanderbilt's Dudley Stadium in Nashville.

It was a historic first meeting between the two State supported institutions that are located only 35 miles apart.

Harriers and golfers release autumn action

The Austin Peay State University golf and cross-country teams recently released demanding fall schedules.

The Gove harriers, under the leadership of second-year coach Ken Guinar, will run in three dual meets and five multiple meets. APSU had an even 23-2 record in duals a year ago and had their best multiple meet showing in the Tennessee Intercollegiate second place.

Walton Smith's linksmen will play a seven tournament slate in the coming months beginning next Friday and Saturday in the Eastern Kentucky University Invitational in Richmond, Ky.

The Goves will battle such opponents as national college division champ Wofford, Ohio University, Marshall, University of Tennessee and all of the Ohio Valley Conference schools.

Baseball recruits should add depth to Gov attack

No fewer than 12 new names will appear on the Austin Peay State University baseball roster when the Governors take to the field to initiate fall practice next week.

Second year head coach Joe Ellensburg will have a squad more of his own making this year with the addition of eight freshmen and four junior college transfers. However, returning letterman will be "the nucleus of the team," points out Ellensburg. "We have some fine players back. I look for Dallas Cheestman (senior pitcher) and juniors Gary Anders (pitcher) and Bob Rickett (centerfielder) to be all-star quality performers.

"Also, some of our other returnees may come around with productive years," adds Ellensburg.

Other key returnees for the Governors include seniors Charlie Sorey and Ranley Hunter; juniors Dave Simonson, Cliff Underreiner, Mike Snapp, Jeff Apantovich, and Doug Savage; and sophomores Mike Whaley, Karl Wirtz and Pat West.

The Goves, who finished 3-3 last fall and 23-24 over-all for the 1972 victory over Appalachian State in Boone, N.C.

The Toppers had only a 26-7 advantage going into the final quarter but broke loose for 22 points in the final stanza.

Clarence Jackson scored three times on runs of two and seven yards and an 86 yard punt return.

CENTRAL STATE ZAPS BUCS
East Tennessee State's Buccaneers dropped their first decision of the season to Central State by a 31-24 count.

Youthful coaches may decide Governor success or failure

Much of the success or failure of Austin Peay State University's 1973-74 athletic teams depends on an incoming crop of youthful coaches.

Jack Bushofsky, a one-time APSU Little All-American gridder hopes to guide his Governor's footballers from the cellar of the Ohio Valley Conference.

Bushofsky was named to the head coaching post last spring. And immediately after settling into the situation the Pennsylvania native nabbed three able assistants in Bill Baker, Ed Bunio and Tom Jones.

Baker, the defensive secondary coach, played defensive back, wingback, tailback and returned punts for the University of Tennessee in the mid-40s.

After coaching assignments with Atlanta's Sandy Springs High School and middle Tennessee's Tullahoma High School, the Marion County, Tenn., native touted a highly successful defensive secondary at Sanford University in Birmingham, Ala. His secondaries broke six school records and intercepted an amazing 40 passes in 20 games.

Bunio transferred to Austin Peay after a one year stay at the University of Arizona as a tackle in 1961. The Carnegie, Pa., product starred for the scarlet and white for three years and made the All-OVC squad his senior year.

Bunio served as the line coordinator at Clarksville High School from 1963-72. He served as a graduate assistant at APSU during the 1971-72 school year.

Bunio is currently instructing the APSU linebackers.

Jones, an APSU tackle from 1962-66 is the chief man with the Gov offensive line.

Jones who hails from Pittsburgh, Pa., coached at Ft.

Campbell High School and Pennsylvania's Mon Valley and North Catholic High School before coming to APSU.

One of the conferences premier tackles during his career, Jones was signed to a professional football contract as a free agent by the Houston Oilers of the old American Football League after graduation.

Graduate assistants for Bushofsky and the Gobs this year are Bubba Hooker, Jim Barnhart, Richard Brown, George Smith and Rick Reigsh.

Norman Kalkoff, a 1972 graduate of Belmont College, is the new APSU tennis coach.

Kalkoff attended Martin College before finishing his collegiate career at Belmont.

Kalkoff is replacing Bernie Marrero, the OVC Coach of the Year last spring who guided the Gobs to a 12-4 record and second-place OVC finish. As Marrero, Kalkoff is serving as head coach on a graduate assistantship.

Jim Davis, one of the leading power hitters in the OVC Western Division baseball circuit last spring, will be Joe Ellenberg's baseball assistant.

A 1968 graduate of Knoxville Central High School, Davis had the highest fielding percentage of any player for the Governors, who finished the spring with a 22-24 mark.

Davis is also a graduate assistant.

"I'm real satisfied with the recruiting year," explains Ellenberg. "I believe all our recruits are quality prospects. Of course, they've got to prove themselves."
